Premiums set new stock show record

By ORABETH WHITE
The 15th Annual Garza County Junior Livestock Show Sale broke all previous records with a total of $33,450.00 being paid to the top 64 exhibitors at the big auction sale on Saturday.

This topped the 1977 records of $32,125, 1978's $30,400 and last year's $28,804.99. It also broke a record as one of the worst continuous sandstorms throughout all of the activities until the big sale day on Saturday, when it was pretty and warm.

Although the sand blew and Garza County had to compete with several other area shows all on the same weekend, it was well attended. It was the second show in the new facilities on the Lubbock highway.

The grand champion steer was exhibited by Jana Middleton. She received $1100 premium money for her heavyweight Angus steer which weighed 1245 pounds. Showing the reserve champion steer was Mike Johnson. He received $425 for his medium weight animal.

Pat Mitchell had the grand champion in the swine division, a heavy-weight Duroc, with Derick Dunn showing the reserve champion hog, a Hampshire heavyweight.

The grand champion lamb was shown by Tanya Bland, a fine wool cross, and the reserve champion lamb was exhibited by Craig Peel. The horse show was held Friday afternoon with Jana Middleton's gelding being named grand champion gelding and Jana Terry's mare awarded the grand champion mare trophy. Reserve champion gelding was shown by Toby Craft and the reserve champion mare by Cindy Rieter. Ten horses were entered in the show.

Weigh in of all of the animals began Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 p.m. with 129 hogs, 19 steers and 89 lambs being weighed in before six p.m. in spite of the terrible sandstorm.

The 237 animals were exhibited by approximately 125 Garza County 4-H's and FFA members from Post and Southland.

Preceding the auction sale, several trophies and awards were presented for outstanding showmanship by the Post FFA Sweetheart Melissa Tatum, and FFA Greenhand Sweetheart, Jana Terry, who also presented all of the ribbons and trophies throughout the show.

The showmanship trophy winners were selected during the different divisions of the stock show. Winner of the swine showmanship award went to David Shults, the lamb showmanship to Jana Terry, the horse showmanship to John Bill Hedrick and the steer showmanship to Ken Young.

The overall sportsmanship trophy was presented to Larry Rodriguez, a Post High School senior and FFA member. This award is based on sportsmanship demonstrated, attitude and help given to others throughout the stock show.

Special sportsmanship recognition was given to Jana Middleton for giving up her chance to show for reserve (See Stock Show, Page 8)

Coach Bum Phillips generous $2,500 gift presents this community with the "once in a lifetime" opportunity to establish a perpetuating scholarship fund to help local youth having financial difficulties in completing their college educations.

Of course $2,500 can be quickly spent and the new Bum Phillips Scholarship Fund will be empty.

Why not those of us who can add to Bum's $2,500 and build it into a much larger fund which now can draw high interest with only the interest being used from year to year and thus making use of Bum's gift for years and years into the future.

With that in mind, The Dispatch is adding a $250 contribution to Bum's for his scholarship fund in the hope that many others will follow.

We can only hope this idea is "catching" and that the new Bum Phillips Scholarship Fund can be built to $10,000 or more in short order.

The handling of such a perpetual scholarship fund will be an excellent project for our Chamber. Post for many years had a student loan fund to aid college students with the students repaying the loans after graduation. But with the cost of college so much these days, the amount the fund has been able to loan in recent years hasn't had the effectiveness it formerly had.

In fact, it might be a good idea with the establishment of the Bum Phillips Scholarship fund for directors of this Post Student Loan Fund to cash it in and give their (See Postings, Page 12)

Fifty-Second Year Post, Garza County, Texas Thursday, February 28, 1980 Number 39

Death takes Doug Morrel

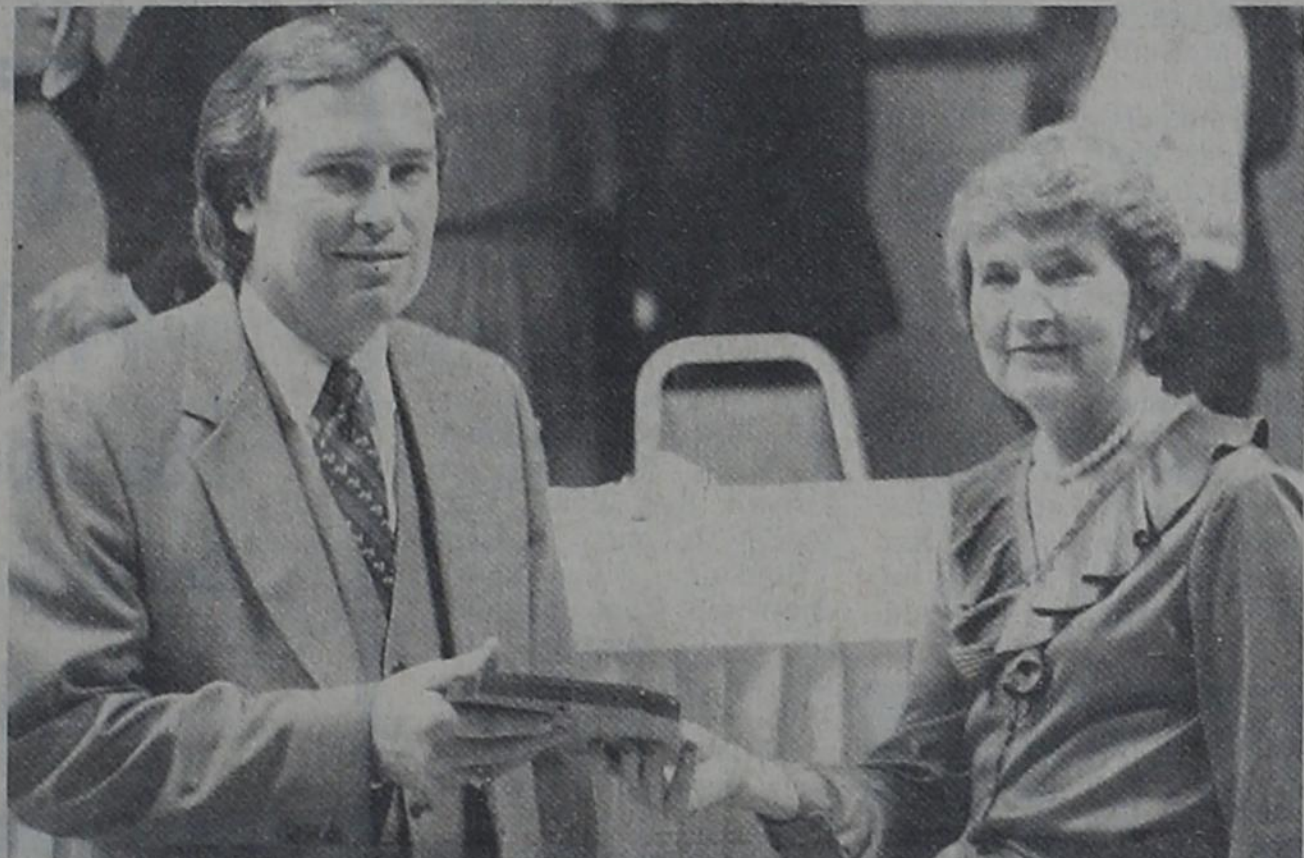

C. D. (Doug) Morrel, 91, pioneer Post banker, died at 5 p.m. Tuesday in the University Hospital in Lubbock.

Morrel, who was born June 23, 1888, was one of the original staff members of the First National Bank here when it was organized in 1909 by C. W. Post.

He is survived by his wife, who is a patient in University Hospital.

Morrel retired many years ago from the local bank.

Funeral services are pending at Hudman Funeral Home.

Crash victim badly hurt

Bill Hedrick remains in serious condition in the intensive care ward of Methodist Hospital in Lubbock as the result of head and back injuries suffered in an automobile accident the evening of Feb. 19 near Graham.

Chief Deputy Donnie Walker told The Dispatch this week officers have been unable to question her. He said the accident occurred at a T crossing on FM1313 two miles east of Graham with Mrs. Hedrick's vehicle driving straight through the T into an open field.

She told her son she was forced off the road by two Mexican youths in a large car. She drove home from the scene of the accident and apparently was unconscious for several hours outside her home before being found.

"A lot of things just don't fit," Deputy Walker told The Dispatch.

Howard Teaff rites held

Howard "Tuffy" Teaff, 63, of Post died Monday afternoon after a lengthy illness. Justice of the Peace Pat Kitchens ruled he died of natural causes.

Funeral services were held Wednesday at 2:30 p.m. in the First Baptist Church, with the pastor, Glenn Reece officiating.

Burial followed in Terrace Cemetery under the direction of Justice-Mason Funeral Home.

Chamber is considering—

Scholarship fund in Bum's honor

Houston Oiler football coach Bum Phillips climaxed the Chamber of Commerce banquet Saturday night by giving his $2,500 speaking fee back to "the poor youth of Post".

A record crowd of 540 persons in the Post Community Center gave him a standing ovation for his generous gift.

Mattie Hays' rites Friday

Funeral services for Mattie Hays, 81, of Post were held at 4 p.m. Friday, in the Calvary Baptist Church with the Rev. Morgan Ashworth, pastor, and the Rev. Dale Dozier of Andrews officiating.

Burial was in the Terrace Cemetery under the direction of Justice-Mason Funeral Home.

Mrs. Hays died Wednesday, Feb. 20, in Garza Memorial Hospital following a long illness.

She came to Garza County with her family in 1915 to run a freight business. She married James Hays in Post on July 2, 1917. She was an active member of the Calvary (See Mrs. Hays, Page 12)

After the banquet, Chamber president Danny Shaw said the Chamber expects to establish the "Bum Phillips Scholarship Fund" with the money.

He said Chamber directors must approve the plan officially but that a committee headed by outgoing president Larry Willard would set up terms for use of the money expected to go to help local youth in college having financial difficulties completing their educations.

Phillips, who signed several hundred program autographs before and after the banquet program, wrote out the $2,500 personal check at the banquet table while waiting his turn to speak.

Boosters to meet Monday night

There will be a Booster Club meeting Monday, March 3 at 7 p.m. in the community room of the First National Bank.

Plans for the upcoming All Sports Banquet will be made at this time and also election of officers will be held.

Each and every member is urged to attend along with the public.

He gave local Chamber officials no advance notice of his plan to give back the $2,500 which had been mailed to his Houston office in advance of his appearance here.

In his talk the tieless Phillips kept the crowd laughing with dozens of jokes, mostly about football.

He told the crowd that he was "country", born in a town smaller than this, and that climbing from a Texas high school football coach to head coach of a professional football team kept him moving through many places.

Coach Phillips remarked that he had had "little time to smell the roses and that he has missed the opportunity to get to know people well."

Coach Phillips closed his talk by expressing his appreciation for the opportunity to come to Post "and visit with you good people."

He didn't leave empty handed however, Shaw presented him with a bolo tie with a Post gold coin. (See Bum Phillips, Page 12)

Mattie Dunlap rites Tuesday

Funeral services for Mattie L. Dunlap, 91, of Post were held at 11 a.m. Tuesday in the First Baptist Church with the Rev. Glenn Reece, pastor, officiating.

Burial was in Terrace Cemetery under the direction of Hudman Funeral Home.

Mrs. Dunlap died about 9:45 p.m. Saturday in University Hospital in Lubbock following a short illness.

She was a Mena, Ark., native and came to Post from Rochester in 1916. She (See Pioneer dies, Page 12)

Phone rate hike is asked

General Telephone Co. of the Southwest Monday filed for substantial telephone rate increases with the Texas Public Utilities Commission.

The proposed hikes include every Texas exchange in the General Telephone system, including Post.

The utility firm is asking for an increase of about $8 million in revenue from local phone rates in Texas. This is a 37 percent increase in annual local revenues, but General Telephone Co. said this will not mean a 37 percent increase in individual customer bills.

Post city manager Pete Maddox Tuesday received a large book of the proposed new rates.

The utility firm has divided its various exchanges into 10 groups, according to size, and Post is in the first and largest group.

It shows General Telephone for this group requests to increase the business telephone 68.9 percent from $12 monthly to $21.37 and the one party residential line 37.5 percent from $5.90 to $9.21 monthly.

No increases in long distance rates are being sought.

This is General Telephone's first request for a local rate increase since 1976.

The 15th annual Garza County Junior Livestock show broke all the records for dollar premiums awarded at its Saturday afternoon sale.

This emphasizes the solid growth of this outstanding annual youth event here.

Already in new quarters, the show proved it could successfully compete with other such shows in nearby counties on the same weekend.

The men and women who have worked so hard to build the junior livestock show and sale into what it is today deserve this community's heartfelt thanks.

The youngsters who enjoy the fruits of its success all appreciate the work of so many parents in this rewarding project.

Leap year day

Friday is "leap year day". At least we guess that is what the extra Feb. 29 on the calendar is called.

Like presidential elections and the Olympic games, it comes once every four years.

Leap year is necessary because each solar year exceeds the 365-day calendar by five hours, 48 minutes and 46 seconds.

Julius Caesar tried to set the problem right in 45 B.C. by fixing the mean length of the year at 365 1/4 days and decreeing that every fourth year should have 366 days, with the other years each having 365.

This, however, made the year too long by 11 minutes and 14 seconds, amounting to an error of one full day every 128 years. In 1582, Pope Gregory XIII corrected the resulting 10-day error caused by the Julian calendar by simply directing that the day following October 5 that year would be Oct.

15. The Gregorian calendar or new style calendar further provided that the extra day would be omitted on all centenary years not divisible by four. Therefore, 1900 would not be a Leap Year but both 1980 and the year 2000 will be Leap Years because they are divisible by four.

In Europe and in the United States, it has become somewhat of a tradition for the female to reverse traditional roles and propose to her sweetheart sometime during the Leap Year.

But now with a woman's lib, that custom probably has been scrapped with women figuring to do the asking whatever it strikes their fancy.

As for tomorrow's Leap Year Day itself, the only real problem it causes is for folks born on that day. They get a birthday only once every four years, and at least until they are "39" that is considered somewhat a handicap.

It's not for Congress

Loen Jaworski, the former Watergate prosecutor, is convinced Congress should not meddle with investigations involving criminal wrongdoing by its members.

Referring to the current Abscam scandal, Jaworski said there has been a rash of official misconduct the past four years but Congress offered nothing in the nature of sentences even though there was justification in some instances for expulsion of guilty members.

all look forward to thorough investigations and the application of due process of law."

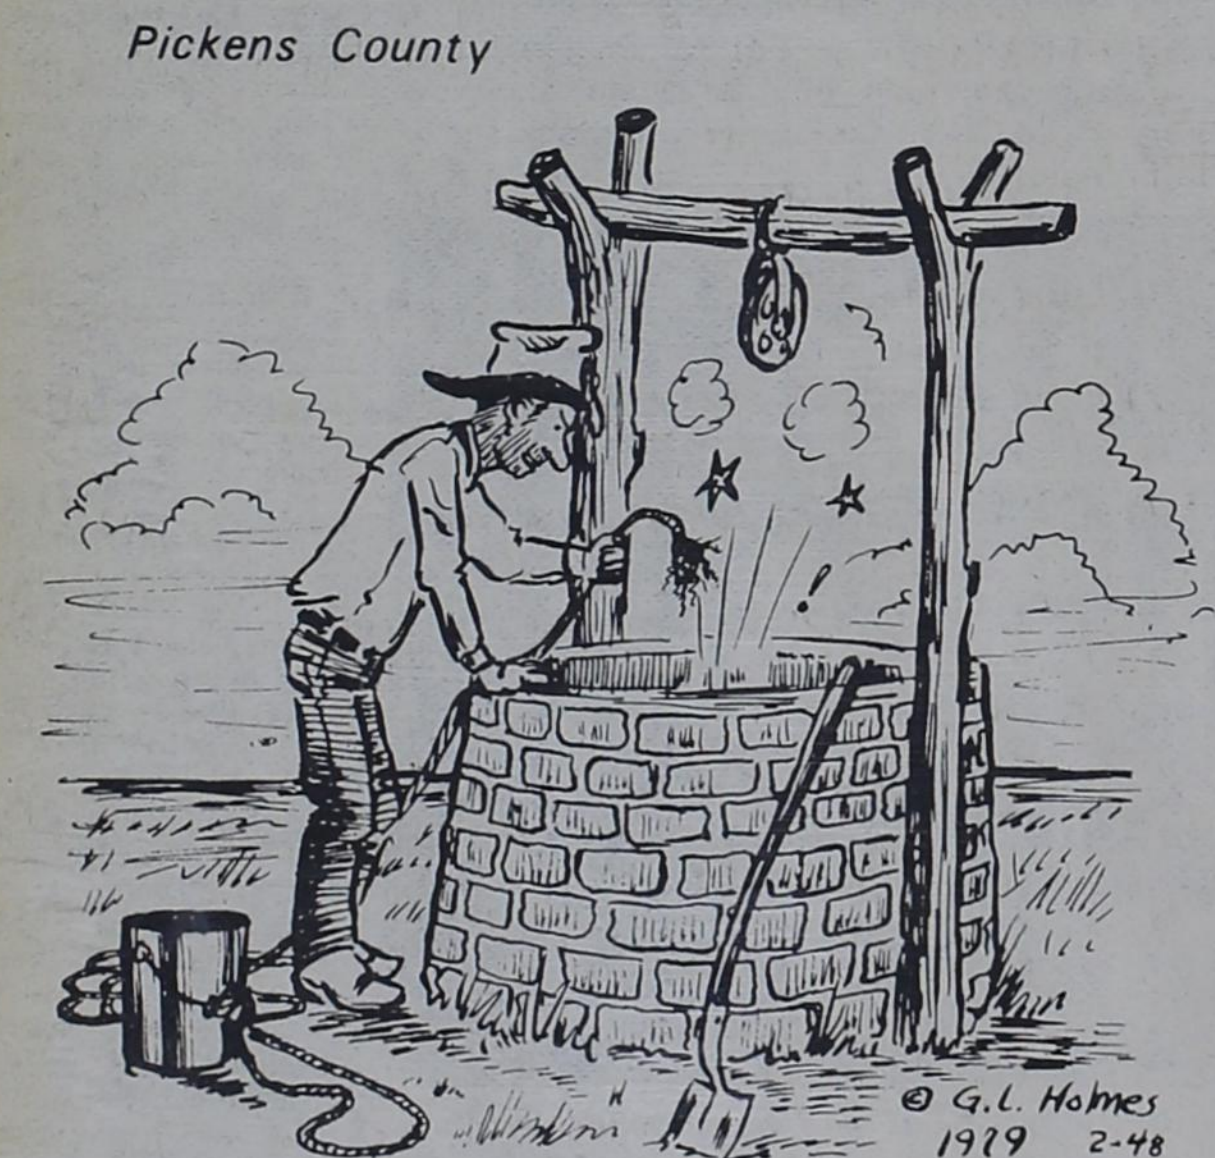

Jaworski said that the laxity of Congress in instituting and conducting prompt, thorough and impressive investigations of misconduct of its members, and the lackadaisical and detached attitude in inflicting appropriate punishment on guilty members, have contributed to increased misconduct of its members in recent years.

Instead, there were only slaps on the wrist.

In a speech at Trinity University, Jaworski said he was purposely omitting reference to the Brilab scandal in Texas because there is no "in house" investigation to interfere with the work of law enforcement officials.

The Watergate investigator added that in the current scandals he found it "ironic that instead of saluting the FBI for effective undercover work a backlash of criticism is ensuing from some quarters which is difficult for me to rationalize."

Jaworski puts the thought into words much better than The Dispatch can. But what he says is exactly what this newspaper believes.

"I don't know what you're yelling about. I'm the one who will have to tell the boss that we broke his rope."

Which end of the rope you're on usually determines your interpretation of a problem. To provide the best possible service to you, we always look at the problem from your point of view first.

Far East is Target

A U. S. cotton trade team will depart April 14 for a schedule of activities to build export markets in The Philippines, Indonesia, and Thailand. U.S. cotton sales to these three countries already total some 600,000 bales. The group will be composed of representatives of the American Cotton Shippers Association, AMCOT, Producer Steering Committee of the National Cotton Council, Foreign Agricultural Service, and Cotton Council International.

Maid to Visit Canada

Maid of Cotton Melissa Mock of Altus, Okla., will travel to Canada February 29, to begin a busy two weeks of promotions and merchandising activities on behalf of U.S. cotton. The Canadian Cotton Council, market development cooperator of Cotton Council International (CCI), is arranging the schedule. Activities in Toronto and Montreal will include fashion show promotions with leading department stores, contacts with garment manufacturers and government officials, and media interviews. CCI is the overseas arm of the National Cotton Council.

Exports Reported

New sales of upland cotton were reported at 66,700 running bales for the week ended February 10, bringing the season's total to 8,544,900. The major buyers were Korea, 29,300 bales, and Japan, 19,400. The record week's exports hit 313,300 running bales (135,700 to China) compared with 201,300 a week ago, to bring the total to 3,981,100 for the year. The week's sales for 1980-81 delivery reached 30,700.

Conferees Agree on Target Price Bill

House-Senate conferees have reached an agreement on a bill raising 1980 target prices for wheat and feed grains. Under the agreement, target prices for wheat will be raised to $3.63; corn, $2.35; grain sorghum $2.50; and barley, $2.55. The conferees also agreed to Senate language extending the disaster program for cotton, wheat, grains, and rice through 1980.

And Cotton Yesterday

Cotton was planted in Florida in 1556.

Amoco tests big producer

Amoco Production Co.'s No. 1 Elmo Bush in the new Post West field, eight miles west of Post, is another important producer.

It has produced 322 barrels of oil daily on test from an interval between 8,472 to 8,482 feet. The well was drilled to a total depth of 9,628 feet.

Amoco Producing now is preparing to drill another test in this new deep field. It's the No. 1 W.W. Terry and will be drilled to 9,400 feet.

The Post West field was opened in 1979 with a deep wildcat strike producing several hundred barrels of oil daily and is being watched with great interest by oil men.

We want to share A PRAYER FOR LEAP YEAR

Lord,
It only comes once every four years,
This surprise of a day —
Twenty-four hours,
One thousand, four hundred and forty minutes.

Shall I think of this
As an unexpected bonus
An unexpected holiday
An unexpected invitation to indolence?

Or Shall I think of it as a rare gift that requires special handling?
Yes, That's it.

I'll give these hours,
these minutes, to You
With an unexpected visit,
An unexpected donation,
An unexpected prayer of gratitude
For all the days
You lavish upon me.

Cotton price takes drop

LUBBOCK — Cotton prices declined during the week ended Feb. 21, after advancing for 12 consecutive weeks, according to Paul R. Dickson, Area Director for the Texas High Plains Cotton Division Offices. High Plains growers sold mixed lots of mikes 30 - 32 around 1500 points over 1979

loan rates, down 175 points compared to a week earlier. Mixed lots of mostly mikes 27 - 29 brought around 1200 points over 1979 loan, down 150 points, Dickson said. Trading was slow most of the week as demand slackened. Growers had sold an estimated 75 to 80 percent of 1979's crop by the end of the week.

What's the most important thing to do when you buy or use an over-the-counter (OTC) medicine? Read the label, says the Proprietary Association. This is especially true now that a government review plus voluntary industry action is causing many important changes in OTC medicine formulas, or in the way they're used. Basically today's OTC label will include the following information:

1. Name of medicine.
2. Type of medicine, such as antacid, laxative, analgesic, or other.
3. Complete directions for use, including the purposes for which the medicine is intended, how much to use, how often to use it and, in some instances, when not to use it.
4. Statements against misuse, such as maximum daily dosage, and limit on length of treatment; possible side effects such as drowsiness; potential interaction with other drugs; instructions for proper storage and other advice.
5. Names and amounts of active ingredients.
6. Amount of medicine in the package.
7. Name and address of manufacturer or distributor.
8. Any changes due to new scientific findings.

For a free booklet about looking at medicine labels, write for "Read the Label on Nonprescription Medicines," The Proprietary Association, 1700 Pennsylvania Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

Thank You

Words fail to express the gratitude of thanks that our family feels toward friends who were such a comfort to us during our sorrow. These words express some of the things we'd like to say:

Perhaps you sent a lovely card, or sat quietly in a chair; Perhaps you sent a floral piece, if so, we saw it there. Perhaps you spoke the kindest words. As my friend could say. Perhaps you were not there at all, just thought of us that day. Whatever you did to console our hearts, we thank you so much, whatever the part.

NEEDLEWORK NEWS & NOTES

Something for Southpaws There's no point feeling left out of doing needlepoint just because you're left-handed. According to the experts who created the Reader's Digest Complete Guide to Needlework, a profusely illustrated manual that makes a great gift, available at bookstores, for the dexterous and not so dexterous (with either hand), right-handed illustrations, explanations and instructions can be adopted for the use of a left-handed person.

To do needlepoint with your left hand, turn everything upside-down.

To begin with, read and familiarize yourself with the way a stitch is done by a right-handed person. Then, when you are ready to work, turn the book and your canvas upside-down. Begin working your stitches in the same corner that now appears in the upside-down illustration and work the row in the direction it shows.

Read the upside-down number in numerical order and follow that sequence for forming the stitch. If the instructions say to turn the canvas or reverse the working direction with each row of stitches, do so. If they indicate all rows are to be worked in one direction, work all the rows in the one direction that now appears on the upside-down illustration.

It's drug abuse prevention week in Post and Texas

AUSTIN — Gov. Bill Clements and the Drug Abuse Prevention Division of the Texas Department of Community Affairs has launched a new campaign against the state's drug problems that aims to involve people at all levels of society in Post and all across Texas.

Drug Abuse Prevention Division Director Richard T. Spence says, "we want to avoid scapegoating... Drug abuse is not just the problem of the user or the fault of his family. It is a problem to employers who may be losing valuable work hours and personnel, to friends who see valued relationships suffer, to children who see other family members abusing drugs or alcohol, to parents who see children suffering the effects of drug usage, and to society as a whole in the cost of lost productivity of its member. If each individual will ask himself or herself what he or she can do, then real progress will begin."

Drug abuse figures show that the pattern of drug abuse in Texas is changing in some areas. Heroin has increased in price, become less readily available and the quality is very poor. As this has happened, narcotic addicts have turned to legally or illegally obtained synthetic narcotics, such as dilaudid. In connection with the shift in abuse patterns, law enforcement agencies have noted a sharp increase in the theft of synthetic narcotics during the past two years. As price and popularity of these drugs increases, so does theft and burglary.

At the same time there has been an increase in poly-drug abuse; that is, the use of a combination or variety of drugs. Polydrug users rely heavily on legally or illegally obtained prescription drugs such as sedatives, tranquilizers, barbiturates, synthetic narcotics, analgesics and amphetamines. Although the patterns are changing, Spence believes that it is probable that there are not fewer drug abusers in Texas. "These shifts from one drug to another may be the result of pricing changes in the street, safety and even what is in vogue in the drug community."

While heroin use has declined, the abuse of amphetamines has risen slightly. Metaphetamines, or speed, can be illegally manufactured and presents serious health and physical hazards to those who use them. Indicator data suggest that there is an upswing in deaths and emergency room treatment of individuals combining different drugs or drugs and alcohol. According to Spence, "we are seeing people who have not traditionally been associated in the public mind with drug abuse. That is, businessmen and women who abuse prescription drugs like tranquilizers, anti-depressants, and sedatives. These drugs, when combined with alcohol, can result in death."

Elderly people who frequently take a variety of medicines may become dependent on them. They may inadvertently or intentionally abuse their medications. While they may not be seen in drug treatment facilities, their diminished capacity will certainly result in a loss or impairment of social, professional and family relationships. "They are likely to be helped more by prevention than by treatment," says Spence.

The problem of the youthful abusers continues to be a major concern to Spence and the Drug Abuse Prevention Division. Young people are the most susceptible to the introduction of drugs through their peer group networks. They spend many hours a day outside their homes in the company of their peers. Parents are not always quickly aware that their children may be using drugs, and, all too often, the problem becomes serious before it is recognized.

The abuse of inhalants has become a real concern here in Texas. Spence feels "young people are probably sniffing because it is not difficult to obtain inhalants; they are inexpensive and they are accessible." Most inhalant abusers are young males. Inhalant abuse can produce permanent physical damage.

The use of marijuana has become increasingly common among Texas youth. It is also important to note that marijuana use can interfere with normal growth and adolescent experiences in the person who uses this drug. "Young people who stay high on marijuana cannot fully develop socially, academically or psychologically during these crucial teenage years," says Spence. "Again, this is a drug which is easily available and peer group pressure is a major factor in its use. This is an area where parents, police, and school administrators must band together in a team effort to have any meaningful impact."

A major thrust of this year's drug abuse prevention program is aimed at family members. Families are encouraged to talk with one another, to bring real or potential problems out into the open where they can be dealt with, and to assist one another in obtaining help when necessary. Posters will reflect the alternatives to getting high on drugs which families and groups can develop to help promote active and rewarding living patterns among young people.

The Drug Abuse Prevention Division has provided funds for the treatment of drug abusers and addicts. The division also funds prevention programs throughout the state of Texas. These programs are designed to educate, intervene and offer alternatives to drugs. Additionally, programs designed for women, the elderly and other groups are either being piloted or developed as the DAPD attempts to ensure that the needs of all the citizens of Texas are being met.

"Obviously, the key is cooperation," says Spence. "If law enforcement, prevention and treatment can all work together, and the community at large recognizes that 'you don't have to use drugs to have a drug abuse problem,' then drug abuse can be better understood and prevented."

Anyone interested in obtaining further information on drug abuse in Texas and in the Post area, or direction to programs that can provide help may contact the Lubbock MHMR at (806) 763-4213.

Congressional Comment

WASHINGTON, D.C. — "Burn down your cities and leave our farms and your cities will spring up again as if by magic; but destroy our farms and grass will grow in the streets of every city in this country."

That quote by William Jennings Bryan has been something of a motto for the American Agriculture Movement (AAM) and certainly it contains a great deal of wisdom.

It also reflects the sense of desperation that a large number of farmers, primarily from Texas and other grain-producing states, have felt during the past few years. That sense of desperation, frustration and alienation held the beginnings of the Movement during late summer of 1977. During the most recent visit of AAM farmers to Washington this month, many of the feelings are unchanged, even though there have been some price improvements since they began.

There is no question that our farm economy, particularly the grain industry, has been a topsy-turvy roller coaster that has taken it to the heights of prosperity during the early 70's, only to drop to the bottom by 1977. Net farm income in 1979 was up $5 billion above the previous year's level, but that $33 billion-plus figure doesn't tell the full story. In terms of "real dollars," or income after inflation, the increase was only $1 billion or about 7 percent and USDA estimates for 1980 net farm income are even gloomier. USDA is predicting a U.S. total in the mid $20 billion range, a drop of some $13 billion.

At this point, many might question the effectiveness of AAM during their brief history and wonder if the continuing trips to Washington have been worth the time, expense and effort.

There is no way that anyone can say AAM has failed in their objectives. Members of AAM have made great strides since their beginnings in 1977 and have learned, the hard way, how to become politically effective. They have learned a lot about how to "sell" agriculture, not just as a commodity, but as a political viewpoint and vital concern not only for rural areas, but for the nation as a whole.

The problems faced by our farmers are ones that should be shared with the rest of the population, for as a "food problem" it effects all of us. There is no doubt that these problems are real, especially when one compares returns on equity in agriculture and other industries in this country. In 1977, that return was 3.5 percent; 1978 it rose to 4.6 percent and stayed at that figure during 1979. Compare those figures with the 17 percent return to manufacturing corporations, 13 to 23 percent to oil companies and some 11.7 percent to textile manufacturers.

Even with improved prices, there are still long-range problems to be faced. In particular, the problem of ever increasing costs for fuel and other production inputs is squeezing the American farmer hard. Last year diesel fuel prices increased 99 percent and gasoline prices increased 60 percent. And increases in 1980 are expected to be even larger. Fertilizer prices, after a few years of relative stability, are climbing steadily upward.

That is the story farmers have been telling their congressmen and the public in Washington this week. That is the story that they must continue to tell. It is well past the time that Washington and every consumer in this country realized one fact: There is no such thing as a free lunch. And it's time the American farmer stopped picking up the ticket.

The annual rate of gain trophy which is presented by the GCJLA to the steer exhibitor whose steer has gained the most weight since the weigh-in day on Nov. 3, 1979, was won by Ron Graves. This also includes $100 cash award. Ron received an added $100 prize money from Arnold Sanderson, who also requested permission to pay for the rate of gain trophy this year.

Judges for each of the events were swine, Dr. Jerry Stockton from Texas Tech University; lambs, John Kearney, FFA instructor at Sterling City; horses, Ed Crawford, county extension agent from Crosby County; and steers, Spencer Tankersley, extension agent from Muleshoe.

Show superintendents at each event were swine, Jerry Bush; lambs, Bobby Terry; horse, Noel White serving for Bill Hedrick; and steers, Neal Clary.

The floor price on the swine was set prior to the hog show on Thursday night with TAMDA of Farm Bureau of Lubbock receiving the bid with $.37 per pound for a total of $7396.76 being paid.

The lamb floor price bid went to Montford of Colorado from San Angelo at $.6750 per pound for a total of $5676.75. The Floydada

Livestock Auction was high bidder on the steer floor price with $.70 per pound and paid $13,056.40 for 18 head.

This made a total of $59,579.82 being paid to the exhibitors in premiums and floor price plus the $150 paid in prize money to the horse show.

The grand and reserve champion animals of each division and the top four of each class with a total of 18 steers, 32 lambs, and 32 hogs were eligible for the auction sale.

Danny Burns and Kevin Hutson from Herb Henderson and Associates Auctioneers of Wolfthorh conducted the sale. Jerry Thuet, a director of the GCJLA, kept the action rolling during each of the shows.

Also, preceding the Saturday auction, several donations to the building fund were made to the president of the association, Noel

White. These donations included $500 by Bryan J. Williams Insurance Agency; $100 by the Post FFA which was presented by the Post FFA President, Lynn Simpson; $500 by the OS Ranch Roping and Art Show by Mike Mitchell; $450 by several area beer distributors; $160 for 2 cakes which were auctioned; $262 from three photographs by Lil Conner and Arnold Sanderson and $50 from a ring donated by Mrs. Johnny Palmer. $228 was collected from the Chinese auction which was begun with $100 contribution by Herb Henderson & Associates Auctioneers. Winner of the Chinese auction was D. I. Dunn and he donated his winnings back to the building fund.

Animals sold at the sale are listed by owner's name, placing of animal, its weight, winning bidder and amount of premium bid. They are as follows:

Compare size for size, pound for pound and dollar for dollar. In many cases you will find that our Summit R1 actually weighs more than a comparable original equipment tire and yet sells for less. Make a comparison. We think you'll agree our Summit R1 is a real heavyweight champion.

Bum Phillips scholarship

"Just the thing for your western shirts," Shaw told him.

Boo Olson was announced as the recipient of the Chamber's annual "outstanding citizen" award and was presented a plaque for her many years of contributions to community affairs and especially the gift of her musical talents.

Following the buffet serving of an excellent roast beef dinner catered by Jackson's Catering Service, outgoing president Willard opened the program with a welcome and introduction of over 40 out-of-town guests drawn from all over West Texas to hear Phillips.

The Rev. Morgan Ashworth, pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church, delivered the invocation.

Geraldine Butler, outgoing president of the women's division, introduced 1979 officers of the division: Joy Greer, first vice president; Weaver McKamie, second vice president; Vicki Long, treasurer; Voda Beth Gradine, secretary; Faye Maddox, reporter; and Evelyn Neff, historian.

She then installed Mrs. Gradine as president of the women's division for 1980.

Mrs. Gradine introduced other 1980 officers, including Helen Richards, first vice president; Ruby Kirkpatrick, second vice president; Vicki Long, treasurer; Geraldine Butler, secretary; Joy Greer, reporter; and Evelyn Neff, historian.

The successful welcome wagon project welcoming new families to Post, launched by the women's division in 1979, will be continued in 1980. Mrs. Gradine declared and invited all interested local women to join the division to help promote Post.

Willard presented plaques to retiring Chamber directors Iva Hudman and Jim Cornish.

He introduced Charles Adams, Colley Gatlin, Rick Loving, Jim Pollard, Danny Shaw, and Linda Waldrip, as holdover directors; and Charles Hardin, Curtis Hudman, and Everette Windham as incoming directors. He said Mrs. Hudman and Adams had served as vice presidents through 1979.

Gatlin is the president elect for 1980.

Willard also listed new 1979 members of the Chamber, firms who had improved their businesses or store fronts during the year, and the winners of the Chamber's 1979 yard of the week contests.

Willard then turned the gavel over to incoming president Shaw.

Shaw introduced Coach Phillips after presenting Willard with a plaque for his outstanding contributions to the Chamber as its president for the past two years.

NEW DIRECTOR — Shareholders of Plains National Bank of Lubbock have elected Garza County Judge Giles W. Dalby of Post a new director of the bank.

Postings —

With today's high interest rates, some generous contributions to the scholarship fund in the weeks ahead could quickly bring enough return for considerable use of the fund's proceeds by the end of 1980.

If you like the idea of using Bum's $2,500 gift as a "starter" for a much bigger scholarship fund, why not mail your check to the Post Chamber of Commerce office as a way of saying "thank you" to Coach Phillips.

The last three weeks have really been something around The Dispatch. We stupidly fell flat on our back and badly sprained our left ankle back on Saturday, Feb. 9, at the Kandy Kane ribbon cutting and were confined to home for two weeks, the second of which was complicated by the flu.

But we maintained "a news and ad headquarters" there via telephone while Norma Baumann and Beth Short by what we guessed would be called a "super human effort" got The Dispatch to press on time with some expert help from Printer Don (Corky) Ammons.

This past week we've been back at the office but it's been hectic with the coverage of the junior livestock show and sale. You'll note in this edition the excellent story by Orabeth White on the stock show and the page of stock show pictures by Norma Baumann.

Norm got her own camera into action on this one and despite all the sand and dirt got roll after roll of excellent pictures. Those appearing in The Dispatch are just a few of all those she took. With Ed Neff stepping in to develop them, we can now offer young exhibitors and parents 5 by 7 inch glossy pictures of your choice at $2.50 each. Come in and look them over and see what you want.

Survivors include a son, Leland, of Midland; three daughters: Margie Harper, Mozelle Rogers and Carol Peppers, all of Post; three brothers, Cleo of Pampa, Hubert of Dimmitt and Joe of Clovis, N.M.; three sisters, Nola Turner of Lubbock, Lillian Lambright and Estelle Cook, both of Tahoka; nine grandchildren; and five great-grandchildren.

Pallbearers were Leon Clary, Gerald Norman, Wayland Craig, D. J. Atkinson, Glen Mathis and Gene Moore.

History of census is interesting one

The 1980 census, which begins April 1, will mark the 20th time in the Nation's history that Americans have counted themselves.

The number of questions and the uses of census data have both grown considerably since the first count, and quill pens have yielded to computers, but the census has never lost its roots in the Constitution.

When the delegates to the Constitutional Convention met in 1787, they decided that population distribution should be the basis for direct taxation and for apportionment in the House of Representatives, so they approved a Constitutional requirement that every person in the Nation be counted at least once every ten years, beginning in 1790.

For nearly two centuries since then, the decennial census has monitored the growth and development of the Nation, yielding invaluable information about ourselves as a people: who we are, what we do, how we live. Taken together, these ten-year assessments of the developing republic form the backbone of our history.

Congress appointed Secretary of State Thomas Jefferson to direct the first census in 1790. Jefferson delegated the responsibility to the 17 United States marshals, who in turn hired as many assistants as they needed. These census takers or enumerators, were paid between one-third cent and two cents for every inhabitant they counted in the 16 existing States and the Southwestern Territory.

They traveled by foot, boat, or horseback through areas with few roads and bridges. Maps were scarce, town and country boundaries were vague or unknown, and numbers of superstitions or untrusting citizens were uncooperative.

Despite arguments from some Members of Congress, led by James Madison, that the census ought to collect facts of use to "agricultural, commercial, and manufacturing" interests, the first census asked only five questions: number of free white males 16 years of age and older; number of free white males under 16 years; number of free white females; number of other free persons; and number of slaves.

Census takers recorded answers on any kind of paper they happened to have and posted the lists in each town or city in a public place. Anyone missed was expected to add his or her own name to the list. Apparently Thomas Jefferson was one of those missed the first time around, for he had to add his own name to the list posted in Philadelphia.

The county took 18 months, and showed a population of just under four million.

For the next 50 years, the census questions remained largely unchanged. There was an attempt in 1810 to obtain information about domestic industrial capacity, but that effort failed because manufacturers feared the information might leak to their competitors. There was no guarantee, such as that in force today, that census answers would be held in confidence. A major improvement in the census during this period was the introduction in 1830 of a printed census form.

By 1880, with 50 million people living in 38 States and nine territories, the U.S. marshals could no longer handle the census.

Congress created a temporary civilian census office headed by a presidentially appointed Superintendent of the Census. This new office was soon swamped by the record number of census questions in 1880, and after publishing 21,203 pages of reports through 1888, the work stopped even though there was more data to be tabulated and published.

About that time, a former census office employee, Dr. Herman Hollerith, patented a punch card system of electrical-mechanical tabulation that was destined to revolutionize information processing.

Hollerith's system consisted of two steps. First, an operator using one machine punched tiny holes in cards representing answers on individual census forms. Then another machine "read" the cards with a set of needlelike small wires. Wherever there was a hole in the card, the corresponding wire was able to pass through to make electrical contact with a metal post below, thus closing a circuit and signaling a set of dials which recorded totals. Hollerith's method was immensely faster than the primarily manual methods of tabulation that preceded it, and by one estimate his machines saved some $5 million and two years' time in processing the 1890 census data.

As early as 1840, U.S. marshals were instructed to treat census information entrusted to them as "confidentially imparted," and citizens were assured that "individual facts" they provided would be indistinguishable in the mass of information collected in the census.

Nevertheless, it was not until 1929 that Congress set up the modern-day standards of strict confidentiality which still govern the Census Bureau.

Current law requires that any information collected from an individual be used only for compiling statistical totals, and that the data be published only when an individual is unidentifiable.

In fact, no information concerning a particular individual may be released to anyone other than that individual - not even at the request of the President of the United States or another government agency. In the history of the Census Bureau, no census employee has ever been charged with a breach of this confidentiality.

In 1902, Congress established the Bureau of the Census as a permanent organization, with responsibility not only for the decennial census, but for interim censuses and surveys to maintain current statistical information to meet a variety of needs.

The Census Bureau in the 1930s developed another innovation, called sampling - the technique of choosing a small number of individuals in such a way that their responses provide an accurate indication of the whole population. Sampling enabled the Census Bureau to provide a wide range of useful, reliable information on a regular and continuing basis.

The volume of information collected, however, continued to exceed the Bureau's mechanical capacity to process it, making necessary in the 1940s another technological breakthrough.

While electronic computers were being developed for scientific use during the years of World War II, the idea of adapting a computer for mass data processing was a radically new one.

TEEN SCENE By Norm

The dust has settled, the last chore has been done and the STOCK SHOW is over. Some were happy, some were disappointed. But all who participated did a great job and are to be congratulated. Everybody seems to chip in and help the next person and wishes them the best of luck and that's what makes it one of the best shows around.

To Larry Rodriguez for winning the Sportsmanship, CONGRATS. You really deserved it.

SCHOOL IS OUT at least for the next three days and EVERYBODY is leaving town, or so it seems. The Methodist Youth and friends are going skiing at Sacramento, the Presbyterian Youth are leaving for Ruidoso to ski, several Post kids and parents are traveling to other parts for skiing and Coach Curry with a group of seven are leaving for Austin today to attend the state basketball meet. I hope you all have a great time wherever you are.

Since I didn't have a column last week I owe a belated CONGRATS to the Sweetheart Contest winners, Laura Mason, Holly Giddens and Patricia Craig, and to all the participants. I'm glad I didn't have to be a judge cause everyone of them looked gorgeous.

Susan Sawyers is driving a new car. I think she said a SKYHAWK. A blue one. Jimmy Ticer is also sporting around a little Gremlin.

Welcome to two new teens to the scene this week. Channa Williams and Rhonda Williams will turn 13 this month. Charlie Dalby has her birthday the 28th and Mike Sullivan celebrates his FOURTH birthday Feb. 29. That's right he's a Leap Year Baby. HB to all of you.

The track teams are RUNNING hard every afternoon and there will be a track meet held here next Saturday, March 8 for girls and boys with several schools participating. More details in next week's paper.

Have fun these next three days and let me know how your fun turned out.
