

City and county will meet on 'law,' airport matters

The Post City Council voted Monday night to hold a joint meeting with the Garza County Commissioners Court in the near future to discuss law enforcement matters.

Sheriff Jim Pippin and Chief Deputy Donnie Walker appeared before the council at the March meeting to request approval (1) for the employment of a sixth deputy, (2) the purchase of a new law enforcement car by the city with a "police power package", and (3) an annual clothing allowance for members of the sheriff's department.

Pippin told council members that the sheriff's department now is operating three cars, but only his own has the heavy duty "police equipment" and that the other two purchased from vehicles available at the time are having mechanical problems.

The city and county have been alternating in the purchase of the vehicles with two of the county's now in use and one of the city's thus making it the city turn to buy.

Pippin told the council that another deputy is needed to provide the community and county with adequate protection. While two deputies are now on duty at nights on the weekend such assignments cannot be maintained throughout the week due to lack of manpower.

As for the uniform allowance, a $150 annual allowance is being proposed.

There was no real discussion of the requests by the council which decided to take them up at a joint meeting with the commissioners court.

Another subject sure to be taken up at the joint session is the city's refusal up to the present to pay a half share of improvements made by the county to the county jail and law enforcement building to meet state jail standards and prevent the jail from being closed by the state jail standards commission.

County Commissioners Ted Aten and Herbert Walls appeared before the council Monday night to discuss the matter. The city held up payments totaling $4,187.24 in December and January to the county on items the city figured to be jail improvements.

The city's position is that it is illegal under state law for the city to pay for capital improvements on property owned by the county and have been so advised by Harvey Morton, its attorney.

Aten pointed out the city had agreed to share law enforcement expenditures on a 50-50 basis with the county and the improvements were required to keep the jail open for benefit of the city.

After the county commissioners left, Mayor Pro-tem Bill Pool, who presided over the session in the absence of Mayor Giles McCrary who is in Africa, instructed City Manager Pete Maddox to check the invoices the city held up on and see if any of them did not involve capital jail improvements so that the city could pay these.

The city earlier had requested a copy of the invoices on which payment was held up but had never received them from the county.

There were indications that council members were willing to work out a solution but only if the city could do so legally.

Another item ticketed for the joint meeting agenda was airport improvements to runways which the city wants to let on bids in the next few weeks.

City delays rate boost

The city council Monday night at its March meeting voted to suspend institution of the Southwestern Public Service Company's proposed 14.78 percent rate boosts for 120 days from April 4, Chamber president Danny Shaw has given Coach Bum Phillips' autographed book, "He Aint No Bum" to the Post Public Library, so all you who want to read it better get on Pee Wee's waiting list. The librarian told us Tuesday that she had received several calls for it last week before Shaw brought it in.

Then the sand blowing as it usually does around here in March, we have come to the conclusion that the best named track meet on the Antelope schedule is that one coming up at Lamesa — the Tornado Relays. (It's name is taken from the school's nickname not from West Texas breezes though).

We're happy to report that x-rays taken here at Garza Memorial Hospital show that County Clerk Carl Cedarholm suffered no broken bones when he fell down the stairs at the courthouse Monday, Feb. 25. Carl was just "all shook up" and quite badly bruised. He was still resting in the hospital Tuesday and was missed at the Rotary's weekly luncheon.

Henry Wheatley is reported doing fine in St. Mary's Hospital (room 315) after undergoing an operation. Rotarians were told Tuesday he was already up and walking around — some.

Death takes Mr. Williams

Funeral services for Claud Williams, 85, of Post are pending at Hudman Funeral Home today. He died at his home early Wednesday morning. He was a retired farmer.

Born May 17, 1894 in Rockwall, Tx. he married Sara Burcham in Greenville, Tx., Dec. 13, 1916, and moved to Garza County in 1923.

Survivors include his wife, three sons, Curtis and Clifford of Post, Melvin of Center, Tx.; one daughter, Onieta of Post; three brothers, Bill and Charlie of Post and Earl of Lubbock; two sisters, Ollie Cooper of Post and Ruth Meirs of Lubbock; three grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Another $100 to Bum's fund

The Caprock CB Club has donated $100 to the new Bum Phillips Scholarship Fund.

"We hope that all of the local civic clubs will follow suit and make a contribution to the new scholarship fund so that some of those who are unable to help themselves to receive a higher education, club officials told The Dispatch.

The fund now stands at $2,850.

the effective date for the increases.

The suspension is to provide time to what action the Texas Public Utilities Commission takes on the proposed increases.

SPS manager Glen Barley appeared before the council to discuss his firm's first rate increase request in two years and to answer any council questions concerning it.

Barley said the increase is requested for three reasons: the high cost of money, inflation, and the fact the utility firm will have to almost complete its conversion to coal-fired plants by 1990 with only 20 percent of gas now being used permitted at the turn of the next decade.

He said Southwestern already has put two new coal-fired plants into service.

The council got into a discussion on transferring the cable TV franchise to High Plains Cablevision with Attorney Harvey Morton saying he has written seeking more information on the Omni Corporation, holding company of High Plains.

Morton told the council that the cable TV contract with the city calls for the payment of two percent of all service charge receipts to the city, and this would legally include proceeds from Home Box Office (See City Council, Page 14)

Morrel rites held Friday

Funeral services for Clyde Douglas Morrel, pioneer Post resident, were conducted at 2 p.m. Friday in the First Presbyterian Church here with its pastor, Rev. Tom Pass, officiating. Burial was in Terrace Cemetery under the direction of the Hudman Funeral Home.

Morrel died about 5 p.m. Tuesday in University Hospital in Lubbock.

A native of Milford and a graduate of Austin College in Sherman, Tex., Morrel moved to Post in 1909 and was for many years a prominent business man and civic leader.

He was an original staff member of the First National Bank and served as director and vice president of that institution for about 25 years.

He helped organize the Graham Coop Gin and also helped organize and was a long time director of the Coop Oil Mill in Lubbock.

After his years of service with the bank here, he became business manager of the Slaughter Ranch. Morrel was a member of the Masonic Lodge and had received his 50-year membership pin a number of years ago.

He married Johnnie Mae Shepard of Snyder Dec. 21, 1910. She preceded him in (See Morrel rites, Page 14)

SADDLE BRONC CHAMP — Jess Knight, shown above in the only picture The Dispatch has of him, won the saddle bronc championship of the big Houston stock show rodeo Sunday.

Wins $6,000 plus prizes —

Jess Knight is Houston champ

Jess Knight, the Justiceburg cowboy who is back to riding saddle broncs on the pro rodeo circuit after recovering from a leg broken two years ago, scored his biggest win ever Sunday night when he became champion saddle bronc rider of the Houston Livestock Show rodeo in the Astrodome.

He not only won slightly more than $6,000 in prize money for his victory but these other prizes as well:

A saddle, buckle, six shirts, down coat, Stetson hat, a portrait to be painted of him aboard a saddle bronc, and jewelry.

Knight has been riding on the PCA circuit for about six years and the Sunday triumph was his biggest yet.

Both Garza, nationally —

Beef referendum is defeated

The "Beef referendum" proposal has gone down to defeat both in Garza County and across the nation.

Ranchers and stockmen decisively turned down the plan to collect $40 million annually to promote beef via a checkoff of 20 cents per $100 worth of beef sold. The money would have been used for beef research, promotion and foreign market development.

Fifty-nine Garza producers registered for the referendum vote, but only 45 voted.

The ballots counted here last Wednesday at the ASC office showed 17 voted in favor and 28 against.

Chamber breakfast set for March 14

A quarterly Post Chamber of Commerce membership breakfast will be held in the community center at 7 a.m. Friday, March 14 with the meal catered by Jackson's.

The First National Bank will sponsor the breakfast. Tickets are $1. A drawing will be held for $25 cash to be awarded if the member whose name is drawn is present. Door prizes also will be awarded.

In Scurry County to the south the vote was 85 to 41 against the program.

According to the U.S. Agriculture Department, 231,032 cattlemen voted on the proposal with 65.4 percent, or 151,119, against the program and 79,913 or 34.6 percent in favor.

The plan was approved in 18 states and rejected in 32 states including Texas where cattlemen voted 23,902 to 7,888 against the plan.

HBO is coming to Post via cable TV

Home Box Office (HBO), the nation's largest cable TV network, will be offered to viewers in Post beginning with a free trial from March 15 to 31, it was announced today by Jimmy Evans, manager of High Plains Cablevision.

According to Evans, HBO will be offered to all cable subscribers without cost or obligation for the 17-day trial period so they can decide if they want to keep it as a regular part of their cable service. The price for HBO is $9.95 per month, which is added to the regular monthly cable rate.

"We've had a very good reaction to HBO in Spur and Abernathy," explains Evans. "But that does not necessarily mean it's for everyone. We want folks to watch it for a while, then

School board, city contests develop

Late filings have developed contests for both school board and city council seats this week.

Four have filed for the two school board positions.

Neither A.C. Cash nor K.W. Kirkpatrick has filed for reelection to positions 4 and 5 but there are now two candidates there for each position.

Edwin Lewis and Jim Prather have filed for position 4, and Prudencio Basquez and Dr. William Wilson for position 5.

Dr. Wilson told The Dispatch Monday he had filed that day for the school trustees and did not plan to seek reelection to the city council of which he is now a member.

Basquez ran unsuccessfully for the school trustees several years ago.

Dr. Wilson led the parents fight against drug use by young people two years ago and led a parent group to a confrontation with school trustees on school discipline that same year.

Neither Lewis or Prather have sought elective office before.

Max Chaffin in sheriff race

The Garza County Republicans will hold a primary to.

The party has one party candidate, Max Chaffin has filed for the Republican nomination for sheriff.

The filing was with Republican chairman Giles McCrary. It was in advance of the filing deadline, Mrs. Mary Prather told The Dispatch Wednesday.

It just wasn't announced when it happened.

McCrary is on a trip to Africa. The Republicans plan a Texas presidential primary for their candidates. Whether the two will be held at the same time, The Dispatch didn't learn.

Hedrick due operation

Bil Hedrick, injured in an unusual automobile accident Feb. 19, is scheduled to undergo surgery Friday in Methodist Hospital in Lubbock.

Chief Deputy Donnie Walker told The Dispatch yesterday that the local woman told him in an (See Hedrick due, Page 14)

In the city council election, Jerry Riedel and Jack Ault entered the race this week to bring to five the number of candidates seeking the three council positions. The other three are

Benefit flea market and farm sale March 14-15

The Garza County Junior Livestock Association will hold a Flea Market and Farm Sale at the new show barn on the Lubbock Highway, Friday and Saturday, March 14 and 15. All proceeds of the sale will go toward paying for the new show barn.

The flea market is open to anyone who would like to have a garage sale, a bake sale, to sell arts and crafts or anything you can put in a 10 by 10 rented space. The rent on the space will be donated to the showbarn fund, but each individual may keep all proceeds of their individual sale. Clubs and organizations are also invited to rent a booth.

The farm sale auction will be held on a commission basis, which means the individual may book anything in the sale and will only be charged a commission on the sold item. The commission will be divided between the Livestock Association and the auctioneers, Herb Henderson and Associates of Wolforth.

The concession stand will be open both days and manned by the Garza County Extension Clubs, and Garza County 4-H families with all the proceeds going to the association. On Saturday, a noon meal will be served, consisting of ham and all the trimmings.

Anyone wishing to book sale items is asked to call Noel White, at 327-5344 or Jerry Bush at 495-3363 or any member of the Livestock Association Directors. Everyone is invited to attend the flea market and auction sale.

City to fight phone boost

The Post City Council voted to pay up to $600 and join with the Texas Municipal League and other cities served by General Telephone of the Southwest in fighting its proposed $58 million rate increase before the Public Utilities Commission.

In its motion to participate in the rate hearings, the council included in its motion its desire to present testimony from residents of this city on the quality of General Telephone's service here.

Kiker died at his home Wednesday, Feb. 27.

He married June Payne, Sept. 28, 1928 in Johnson County, Texas and moved with his family to Garza County in 1939 to farm. He later worked for the county until his retirement in 1966.

SPS files for rate increase

Southwestern Public Service Company last Thursday filed a request with the 66 cities it serves in Texas for an increase in its retail rates. The request, if approved, would increase Southwestern's revenues by 14.78 percent.

Information outlining SPS's needs was presented to city officials here Jan. 28.

Bert Ballengee, executive vice president for SPS, said the increase is needed for three primary reasons: inflation, the high cost of money and the cost of switching from gas to coal-fired power plants.

SPS also filed a similar request with the Texas Public Utility Commission for an increase in rates for the company's rural customers in Texas.

1980 politics too expensive

The most amazing thing about the 1980 presidential campaign is the "horrible" amount of money the candidates have already spent for voter exposure.

The week of the New Hampshire primary, the very first one in a long, long trail until convention time, a survey of the candidates shows that virtually all of them, except President Carter, are broke.

For about 50 convention votes they have squandered something like $30 million dollars (John Connally spent $10 million and won one convention vote).

According to current campaign laws, by which taxpayers funds in sort of "matching quantities" are provided for this political extravaganza, the end is now in sight.

Each candidate now is looking at his limit on further campaign expenditures.

Carter has the advantage here. He has most of the national treasury at his disposal to win reelection. Thanks to the "hostage situation" which has degenerated into a mumbo jumbo as far as the United States efforts are concerned, Carter remains in the White House which cuts his campaign expenses considerably.

His strategists can find federal projects to aid states with upcoming primaries and Carter has no trouble making "news" to keep his name at the head of the list.

He even embraced the U.S. Winter Olympics team in their triumph although he refuses to allow to the U.S. Summer Olympic team to compete in Moscow.

The way it looks from here, few Republican candidates can afford to stay in the race Senator Ted Kennedy is all but already "gone" just because of finances if nothing else.

When the campaign is over, we can only hope that sensible lawmakers will take another look at our new campaign financing law now that experience has shown it doesn't work.

In the last five weeks, the politicians have blown a whole lot of money which we doubt has done anything beneficial. It probably even fueled our runaway inflation a notch or two higher — at least in Iowa, Maine and New Hampshire.

Today's TV 'horror shows'

Cable television here in Post is about to offer local residents a program of late movies without commercials. What's more a 17-day free viewing period is offered.

This is the "pay television" we heard so much about only a few years ago and it comes to our West Texas town via satellite high in the sky. It certainly could be a change for the better from today's commercial television.

American television today has what you might call too strikes against it. One is too many commercials to distract the viewer. And the other is the aiming of most of the programming at the 10-year-olds' level.

The present night after night of slapstick comedy is quite distressing. Especially when all the stations and the three major networks all carry the same fare.

That's why the winter Olympics were so refreshing.

What television needs — and to where we hope it soon comes — is the recognition of diverse audiences and the effect to please each segment of that audience with various program choices.

One interesting development just over the horizon is the construction of an all-sports TV network. It may not be too long until one can follow a baseball team through its summer schedule just like we do the professional football teams.

Educational TV is so important because it dares to break the networks' monotony.

What amazes us the most about TV is that while virtually all intelligent people recognize the pathetic efforts of today's TV programming no network has the inclination to do anything about it.

Surely intelligent people offer as worthwhile a products market as do all those who might be better called "10 year old kids."

Speed solution nearing

The head of the state highway patrol announced Sunday that his officers will try new means and undertake new tactics to slow Texas traffic to a legal 55 miles per hour.

He indicated the troopers may use unmarked cars and even employ "slapped on red lights" like the New York television cops employed by which to give chase.

Texas must slow 30 percent of its drivers to the national speed limit or stand to lose some $300 million in federal highway funds each year.

Detroit can be handed much of the blame for making powerful cars. But that is changing. Small, fuel saving imports are virtually taking control of the new car market in this country now while the sale of larger American cars has continued to fall rapidly from month to month.

One thing about four cylinder engines. Most of them aren't so quick, or so speedy.

In becoming fuel efficient the new small car doesn't burn up the highway either. Slowly, but surely, as the price of gasoline continues to rise, the final solution appears in sight. But it may take a few more years.

Letter to Editor

Dear Editor:

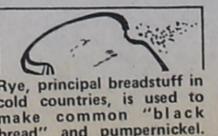

The PTA members wanted to do something nice for our teachers and a luncheon was suggested. When we started to get it together, it turned out to be quite a job. We were worried not enough food would be donated, but the response surprised us all and enough food to feed 81 teachers, officials, staff and board members, plus the people who helped were fed. We thought we'd have enough left to feed 30 teachers who weren't there Wednesday, but there was nothing left. Could be because it was delicious, ladies! So we had to get back on the phone and more parents volunteered and we did it again Thursday.

A letter from PTA headquarters was sent to all teachers and one paragraph sums up what the Post PTA stands for. PTA works with schools to provide quality education for children and youth, recognizing that the legal responsibility to make decisions has been delegated by the people to the board of education. We in no way infringe upon teachers duties and fully leave all the educational teaching to the personnel of the school, but are available to help when called upon by them. With communication comes understanding and cooperation.

This is Public School Week, visit your child's school.

The word here is Post Appreciates its School System, and Thank You Teachers for the lovely card thanking all people who helped with the luncheon.

COTTON TALKS
 FROM PLAINS COTTON GROWERS, INC.

LUBBOCK — The trigger is about to be pulled on raw cotton imports under the "import trigger mechanism" written into 1977 farm law. Thus the sometimes heated controversy over possible effects on U.S. cotton prices should soon be settled.

The law provides for a U.S. raw cotton import quota of about 500,000 bales beginning whenever the average of U.S. spot prices for any month exceeds 130 percent of the previous 36-month average.

USDA has reported that the special import quota will be opened up if spot prices for grade 41 staple 34 cotton in February average 78.45 cents per pound or higher. Officially USDA is expected to announce the February average on March 3. But since the average for the first three weeks of February was 81.02 and daily quotes since that time have been above 80 cents, there's little room for doubt that the 78.45 cent level will be exceeded.

So beginning some time in March, U.S. textile mills in the aggregate will have 90 days in which to import up to a 21-day supply of cotton, calculated to be around a half million bales.

Those who have urged against this provision of the law since 1977, primarily producers, have based their objectives on the belief that, when triggered, the import provision would put a ceiling on prices for U.S. cotton.

Other producers and producer groups, including Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock, have maintained that U.S. prices would never reach 130 percent of the previous three-year average until there was a tight supply of cotton worldwide. Therefore, they contend, U.S. interests will be unable to find any substantial volume of foreign cotton for sale at a price which, plus freight, is below the U.S. price.

Despite the possibility that a small volume of cotton in qualities unavailable from U.S. suppliers may be imported, the consensus in the trade and among other observers at this point seems to side with the latter argument.

For example the respected Cotton Outlook magazine, published in Liverpool England, said in early February, "There is of course little likelihood that cotton will be imported into the U.S. in large volume since offers from elsewhere are by no means plentiful."

However, as PCG Executive Vice President Donald Johnson observes, "all we can do at this point is speculate. The market, as always, will make the final decision."

"You should come around more often, Dibble. You look like you could use the sleep!"

Approximately 80 guests from the schools attended the luncheon.

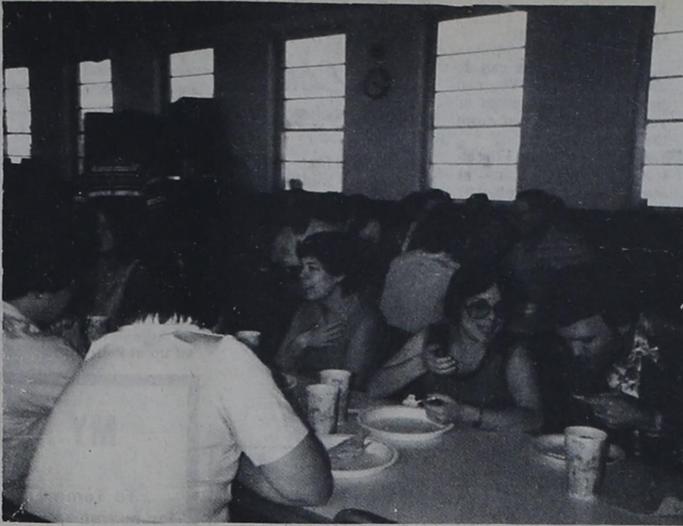

PTA members and other volunteers supplied the food.

Approximately 30 teachers who were absent Wednesday from the work day because they had gone to an instruction session on teaching reading were served Thursday in the primary building.

PTA special guests attending were Mrs. Elsie Smith, president of PTA district 14; Mrs. Alice Temple, vice president of the Lubbock County PTA and aide to Mrs. Smith; and Mrs. Marilyn Brown, vice president elect of the Lubbock County PTA.

APPRECIATION LUNCHEON — Shown above are some of the teachers, staff and School Trustee Mike Flanigan at the appreciation salad luncheon given by the PTA in the school cafeteria.

Mrs. Marks to state meetings

The Garza County Historical Commission met Tuesday in the Bank Community Room. Mrs. Maxine Marks was selected to represent the GCHC at the annual meeting of the Texas Historical Commission and Texas Historical Preservation Conference to be held in Corpus Christi in April. Mrs. Marks will also attend the Moody Texas Heritage

Project Conference while there.

In a report from the Museum Association, it was learned that guidelines for the sales shop in the Museum have been established and operations begun. The shop is now open 9-12 and 1-3 daily Monday through Friday, and features hand crafted items, historical objects, books and other items of interest to the collector. Funds generated from the shop will be used toward museum operating expenses.

The Garza County Historical Commission voted to purchase books to be donated to the Museum Shop for sale.

A descriptive list of Historic Sites and Markers in Garza County will be updated, and made available to tourists through the Chamber of Commerce Office and the local museum.

Attending the meeting were Mrs. Marks, Ruby Kirkpatrick, Frank Runkles, Lottie Shelton and Vada McCampbell.

Those present were Mmes. Buena Bouchier, Lillian Potts, Linda Malouf, Estelle Davis, Ruby Kirkpatrick, Ruth Duckworth, Peggy Ellis, Pearl Storie, Maxine Marks, Ruth Young, Beulah Pickett and guest, Mrs. Consie Thuett.

At a short business meeting presided over by Mary Ann Gordon, club president, the club voted to assist Rhonda Rodgers with the summer European tour by providing her with pocket calendars authorized by the National Federation of Music Clubs which the public can purchase during the month of April.

The club collect was read and minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

Needlecraft club served luncheon

A delightful Geroge Washington Celebration luncheon was served by Minnie Graeber to the Needlecraft Club members and guests on Feb. 22 at the Graeber home. The buffet table, laden with food, was centered by a pink carnation flower arrangement. Cherry pie dessert climaxed the bountiful feast.

The Rev. Don Travis captivated his audience with his songs of olden days and gospel hymns, accompanying himself on guitar.

A silent prayer time was observed by the group for Mrs. Sadie Storie, long time member of the club.

Mrs. Graeber led the guests in playing the game, "Who Am I" which proved to be hilarious, as each one tried to guess the identity of the others.

The program concluded with Mrs. W. B. Little relating her experiences in Sydney, Australia, where she attended a convention for china painters, and also her teaching painting in Perth for two weeks. Many interesting sidelights on her trip into Israel provided the audience with thought provoking ideas.

How to take a soil sample in yard or garden, step by step.

Taking a soil sample is not a difficult or complicated job if a few basic "do's and don'ts" are followed. Soil tests can be only as accurate as the samples on which they are made. Proper collection of soil samples is extremely important. Chemical tests of poorly taken samples may be actually misleading.

Here are three basic steps in the selection of site and actually taking the sample:

1. Take one soil sample from the lawn and one from the garden.

2. The sample should be taken from over all the area. This can be done by taking a small amount of soil from 5 to 10 different places. Place these in a clean container (plastic bucket, paper sack, etc.) Mix thoroughly and take approximately one pint for the composite sample.

3. When taking the small samples, use a spade, soil auger or soil sampling tube. Scrape the litter from the surface. To use an auger or tube, make the boring six inches deep in the soil. To use a spade, dig a V-shaped hole and take a one-half inch slice of soil from the smooth side of the hole. Repeat in 5 to 10 different places.

When the sample has been placed in the sample box, the box should be numbered to correspond with the number on the soil sampling sheet. Be sure to keep a record of sample numbers and where they were taken. These sample boxes and information sheets are available in your Post Extension office.

The Sample, along with the information sheet should be mailed to the Soil Testing Lab, Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Presbyterian ski team has 'fun'

Skiing is fun. You can do almost everything. You can jump over small humps or you can be going fast down the mountain.

The Presbyterian Church took ten people skiing at Sierra Blanca Feb. 27 through March 2. They skied for about seven hours on both Thursday and Friday. Shannon Adkins bumped his chin against his knee.

They also saw the movie "Going in Style" and looked around the ski shops.

"I had a good time, but it sure hurts when you fall down," said Giles Dalby.

Floydada has rabies cases

The Floydada-Dougherty area has been hit by a real rabies scare with the state laboratory in Austin confirming a second case of rabies in a "two striped skunk."

No humans or pets apparently have been infected as yet in the area. Trappers have been advised to take precautions when skinning coyotes. Cat and dog owners have been encouraged to have their pets vaccinated.

Post Veterinarian Larry Mills told The Dispatch Tuesday that the state law requires owners of dogs and cats to have their pets vaccinated by the time they are four months old and that thereafter the pets should receive annual booster shots.

Dr. Mills said local folks need to become aware of the danger and secure necessary vaccinations before the threat moves into this area and a sudden emergency is created.

Every Wednesday, Patsy Craig conducts a Bible study at our home. Her lessons provide us thoughts for the week. Our thanks to her for the time she spends with us.

Exercise to music is fun and we do this three times a week. Besides being fun, it is very beneficial. Not many people get the exercise they need with the busy schedules we follow.

We enjoyed the movie "Skating Rink" Feb. 22, and the movie, "The Popcorn Lady" Feb. 29. Popcorn plus a movie means a good time for all.

Congressional Comment

WASHINGTON, D.C. — In today's world, it often seems that everything influences everything else. The current state of the U.S. economy and our lagging defense capability indicates the need for significant changes if we are to meet the challenges which lie ahead. There is no question that a healthy economy and a strong defense are inter-related, and are of vital concern to our national security.

Following the end of World War II, the U.S. emerged as the undisputed leader and spokesman for the "Free West." At that time, the U.S. had unequalled productive capacity, economic strength, and a seemingly endless supply of resources within our own borders. Through short-sighted policies, however, we have failed to maintain this position of prominence. As a result, we are experiencing high inflation, a dependence on unstable foreign energy sources, and an inability to deal with the global and political events which are threatening our national security.

Energy is, perhaps, the most serious issue facing the American people today. Current policies have tended to prolong our dependence on foreign energy sources, and have discouraged incentives for more domestic production. Short-sighted policies have prevented the U.S. from developing alternate energy sources, have failed to stockpile energy reserves, and have done nothing to reduce consumption of precious energy supplies. No one will dispute the importance of maintaining and guaranteeing our oil supplies, and this can best be accomplished through the use of a strong defense, which can only be provided through a strong economy.

President Carter has proposed increasing defense expenditures by 4 1/2 percent a year in real terms (or beyond the rising costs which have occurred because of inflation) for the next five years. I think it is noteworthy that defense expenditures in the U.S., in real terms, have been lower in recent years than at any time since before the Korean War. Some will ask how our economy can possibly afford more government spending on defense, but not on social programs. The answer is simple: the survival of the country is not threatened by the scope or effectiveness of our social programs — it is threatened by our inability to provide for an adequate defense.

The United States can use its economic and military power to strongly influence the behavior of those who control foreign energy sources. In years past, great powers have guaranteed themselves their supply of essential materials by using their economy to support a strong military force which was willing to assure access to foreign resources. Our own economic strength can provide us with the capacity to do the same thing. Considering the present state of world affairs, the only option available is to provide for an increase in defense expenditures; this, in turn, will help to guarantee our national security.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — Gov. Bill Clements promised voters he would improve relations with Mexico, and he apparently is working to comply on that issue.

Last week the Governor escorted visiting Mexican Gov. Manuel Bernardo Aguirre of Chihuahua around the Capitol and Austin. The two officials reportedly discussed a variety of issues, including illicit drug flow, energy, tourism, agricultural and beef imports and other economic developments.

Both Clements and Aguirre are cattlemen and Chihuahua is a major cattle producer and beef exporter to the U.S.

Aguirre is the second Mexican border governor to visit Clements this year.

Touring around Austin is not the only traveling Clements is planning for his near future.

The Republican governor, who has said he will do anything to defeat President Jimmy Carter, said last week he will spend about $50,000 traveling extensively throughout the state and nation with an anti-Carter message.

That news prompted Texas Democrats to speculate Clements is really going off on a campaign to win the vice presidential nomination for his party. Should his fellow Texans John Connally and George Bush deadlock in their efforts to get the top spot on the ballot, Clements would be a likely compromise choice for a winner — Reagan for example, seeking Texas and regional votes.

A spokesman for Clements said that wasn't the case, and two days later announced the plan had run into snags.

Clements' top political fund raiser Jim Francis said a provision in federal election laws might force Clements to give up the trip idea.

Since the Governor plans to spend more than $1,000, he would have to file with the Federal Election Commission, as he had intended all long. However, the commission interprets federal law to mean that Clements would have to stop spending independently once he has consultation with any presidential candidate.

The legal problems are being examined, apparently with an eye on continuing as planned.

New Hampshire Fallout

What will happen to two Texas Republicans following former California Gov. Ronald Reagan's primary victory last week in New Hampshire?

George Bush, despite earlier caucus wins, is not going to pull a sweep to the national Republican convention — he placed second behind Reagan.

And former Texas Gov. John Connally, who gained only two percent of the New Hampshire vote, is suddenly fighting a "loser" image, a new twist in his political career.

Connally reportedly is banking on a comeback in the March 8 primary in South Carolina.

General Telephone Files for First Statewide Rate Changes Since 1976;

New Rates Should Be More Equitable

For the first time since the Public Utility Commission of Texas began regulation of Texas telephone companies, General Telephone Company of the Southwest is asking for rate changes designed to produce about $58 million in additional annual local revenues. Because this case is being filed on a statewide basis, adhering to statewide rate making principles, there is no "average" increase we can quote for an "average" customer. Increases will vary from community to community. Rates for all General Telephone customers in Texas will be affected, but there will be no changes in long distance rates. Here is our case:

Phone service is a good buy You don't need us to tell you prices have gone up. But the price for phone service hasn't gone up as much as you may think. In fact, you may easily spend more on coffee for coffee breaks than you do for a month of basic local service. Contrast that with the prices you pay for shoes and sugar or gasoline and hamburger. Or contrast it with what we pay for poles, wires, cables, etc. We can't sell 1980 service at 1976 prices...and stay in business.

We're facing facts America's investor-owned utilities are fighting to stay financially sound and we're in the middle of that fight. As part of on-going good management, we constantly work to improve the efficiency of our operations. We've even gone to the length of redesigning truck bodies ourselves because we needed a less expensive, lighter weight, more fuel efficient model and automotive engineers weren't interested in the small (to them) number we'd purchase. We've managed to avoid the rate increase arena for nearly four years through efforts like these but they aren't enough any more. We don't intend to become a financial burden to anyone...and we can face facts. So, let's face this one: it's either a rate increase or some other alternative.

What alternatives? 1. Downgrade customer service. 2. Defer plant and equipment additions. 3. Let our shareowners' investment deteriorate. 4. Ask our employees to give up justified wage increases.

Alternative 1: Downgrade customer service You expect phones to work as close to 100 percent of the time as is possible and when phone service is out, you want it fixed. Fast. We agree. And you don't want to wait to get service to begin with, no matter how fast Texas grows. We also agree. Therefore, we can't let service deteriorate simply because costs of providing it increase. In fact, from our point of view, service in some spots could stand improving...and we ought to know: we've been in this business a long time. But improvements cost money.

Alternative 2: Defer plant and equipment additions

We've already done that...or as much as we possibly could. Texas has been experiencing unprecedented growth and that's nice, because growth is healthy. The trouble is we have had to spend (and borrow) unprecedented amounts of money (at unprecedented interest rates) to provide the facilities to meet that growth. And the dollars we spent in 1979 and will spend in 1980 don't buy as much as they used to. They don't even buy as much as they did the last time we had increases in rates - 1976. We've had customers tell us, "Look, my service is fine. Let it stay the same until 1999, just leave the rates alone." Sounds great, but it's not that simple. Even if it were possible, we'd still be spending millions each year just to maintain what's out there now. Practically speaking, however, we can't stand still. The rules under which we operate say we must meet all reasonable service requests in a timely manner. Telephone equipment is complex and it can't be put in overnight. With the way Texas has been growing and the way inflation is rampaging, some days it seems as though it will take all the running we can do and all the dollars we have just to stay in the same place. The engineering and construction work we do (and pay for) today determines the quality and quantity of service tomorrow.

Alternative 3: Let our shareowners' investment deteriorate

Everyone loves this answer...except the shareowners...and they may be you directly, or indirectly, if you have a pension plan, life insurance or own mutual fund shares. Realistically, however, shareowners have to earn a reasonable return on their investment. Otherwise, they don't invest. Would you? It was yesterday's investment money which bought the equipment serving you today and today's investment money is needed to buy the equipment to serve you tomorrow.

Alternative 4: Ask our employees to give up justified wage increases

Our employees are skilled and dedicated and we need them. To cut costs by denying them justified increases would be counterproductive. We must pay competitive wages and benefits to attract and hold employees with the skills and productivity we need. As Texas grows, we'll need even more. If we lose or can't find quality employees, your service could suffer.

So what's left?

That's pretty obvious: a rate increase. But it won't happen right away. It's not that simple and it isn't automatic. Most businesses, if their costs go up, simply raise their prices or drop the service. We are a regulated utility and even when we aren't receiving enough money for service, we must continue providing it and keep on doing so until we can prove to the Public Utility Commission of Texas (PUC) that we're in financial need. Only then can we plead our case for a rate increase. What's more, it takes time before we receive authority to increase rates. By then, inflation may have lowered the buying power of the dollar enough so we're right back where we started or worse.

The tax collector wins

We're asking for about $58 million in additional annual local revenues, half of which will go to increased taxes. Just about half of any increase we ever get goes to increased taxes.

About those varied increases

We can't give you an "average" increase for an "average" customer. Increases are going to vary, literally, all over the map of Texas. The chief reason is a shift from city-by-city rate-making to statewide rate-making. When this shift is completed, you will be paying rates based on the number of telephone numbers you can call without a long distance charge. We think you'll find this system fairer to all.

No increase is popular

We know you aren't going to like an increase in phone rates. In today's economic climate, we don't blame you. We don't like it, either. We also didn't like the astounding increases in electricity, gasoline, telephone equipment, taxes, interest rates, etc., we've faced over the last few years...but we've had to pay them.

We're consumers ourselves

We're trying to be as open and aboveboard as we can. There's nothing hidden about our operations and we aren't some giant out to gouge the consumer. We're consumers ourselves and we're doing our best to protect you and your phone service...and to keep the rates for it within everyone's reach.

We'll talk and listen

So, there it is. We've got to earn more money and raising rates is our only choice. If you have questions about your individual service rate, call your local business office or your division manager. Division managers are listed in the front of your phone book. They'll even help arrange speakers for your club or organization. We're all people you can talk to...and we want to keep you talking.

Cotton price moves higher

LUBBOCK — Cotton prices moved higher during the week ended Feb. 28 after fluctuating widely, according to Paul R. Dickson, area director for the Texas High Plains Cotton Division Offices. Trading was slow to moderate while demand was light to moderate most of the week. High Plains growers sold mixed lots of mikes 30 - 32 around 1575 points over 1979 loan rates, up 50 points from a week earlier. Mixed lots of mostly mikes 27 - 29 brought around 1350 over 1979 loan, up about 225 points, Dickson said. Lubbock's Marketing Services Office graded about 19,500 samples in the week ended February 28. This brought the season's total to 2,448,000, according to USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service. About 1,894,000 had been classed by the same date last year.

NEW BOOKS FOR SPRING
When colorful packages of flower and vegetable seeds start appearing in the stores, one knows that spring is not long from bursting into bloom. These really serve to get a person into a mood to get close to nature by nurturing green growing things, and when the sort of pleasant weather such as we recently had pops up, that really enhances that mood. But Mother Nature (the old gal) says "sorry, not yet" to spring home-steading for a while, and like an unyielding mother giving us an unwanted dose of medicine, blasts us with more winter chill. Although the great outdoors are still off limits for vegetation, we still have the great indoors, and this is a sufficient environment for gardening a jungle of foliage.

The library has a wealth of books on plants, flowers, shrubs, vegetables, (whatever you prefer to grow) but I have chosen three of the newer books for review this week. First let's look at "No Time For Houseplants" by Jerry Minnich. If you are busy working, going to school or college, travel frequently, or just plain lazy, and love to be surrounded by bright, green and flowering plants but have precious little time to devote to attending to plants, this book will interest you.

On the cover of the book is a houseplant, wrapped in cobwebs, with a disgusted look on its "face," pouring water on itself, dousing itself with fertilizer, and pulling the window shade up to give itself more light.

The book gives simple advice for growing plants successfully, even if you don't have a "green thumb." The main secret of success is to choose the right plants for your home conditions along with giving your plants the best conditions your home can offer. The right plants given the right conditions will thrive with little attention. Light, water, temperature and humidity, all play a part in the life of a plant, and the book gives you an understanding of how all these factors work together.

The book lists thirty-six plants that are tolerant and the easiest to maintain such as cactus, English Ivy, spider plant, "mother-in-law tongue", rubber plant, and Wandering Jew.

Also included are important considerations such as the proper type of soil for each plant, containers with proper drainage and repotting every several months. There is a chapter on caring for flowering houseplants, with a subtitle on how to force spring-flowering bulbs indoors, which is a very interesting thing to try. Included is a listing of the bulbs that are best suited for indoor forcing, and the best times to do it.

Another chapter tells how to grow vegetables indoors, plant terrariums, and grow plants from kitchen scraps such as carrot tops, avocado pits, and tropical fruit seed.

Dealing with indoor pests is discussed and also how to overcome plant diseases.

An easy guide to growing over 200 "no-work" plants, "No Time for Houseplants" really helps you achieve success with houseplants without really working at it.

Our second selection we'll look at is "Herb Gardening at It's Best", by Sal Gilbertie with Larry Sheehan. Herbs are another group of easy plants to grow, if you do it right, and the uses for these plants are numerous. The most familiar use for them is in cooking and cooking foods, but did you know that they can also be used as insect repellants, to make fragrant sachets, medicines, for flavoring drinks like wine and tea, and even love potions? The book covers these plus many more uses, how to build an herb garden, harvest and storage of herbs, and also an herb culture guide. The book really impresses on one the usefulness of this interesting group of plants.

Our last selection on Plants is "Green Immigrants" by Claire Shaver Haughton. This is not a "how to" book on plants but tells of the history, romance, legend and folklore of almost a hundred plants from far away places, telling how they came to America, and how they changed the nation.

An example is the apple Julius Caesar had a beautiful apple orchard in Rome which was plundered by Britons. Romans did not believe this, and called the apple theirs alone, the "stamp of Rome." Christianity came to Roman occupied Britain, having its roots in an older religion whose history began with a man and a woman in a garden - and an apple. Apples became symbols of Christianity. Most monasteries had apple orchards. Roman occupation of Britain ceased with invasion by Germanic tribes, but Christianity and apples survived. The Spanish Catholics in colonizing the new world, brought their Christian faith, and many of their plants, including the apple into the New World, America. From then on apples were an important part of every self-sustaining farm. This was the result of the fasionable subjects of botany and agronomy at Oxford and Cambridge Universities.

Coffee was said to have been brought to America by Captain John Smith. It was originally considered a food, for centuries Africans ate the ripe berries, which soothed their hunger and helped them in battle. The use of coffee spread to Persia, Egypt, and the Holy Land, and magical properties were attributed to it because of its stimulating effect. Medicine men, priests, and magicians prized it highly.

Brewing coffee as a drink was discovered by accident. It was peddled in the Near East on the streets soon thereafter. Coffeehouses sprang up everywhere men gathered to discuss politics and tell bad jokes, and soon the Catholic Church branded coffee as the drink of infidels, but a legend says that Pope Clement VII gave coffee his blessing when he tasted his first delicious aromatic cup, and made it a Christian drink. Coffeehouses opened throughout the world, including the American colonies, and coffee became an important drink in America as a result.

"Green Immigrants" really impresses on one the importance of plants on our planet, no form of life could exist without plants.

Special Note - For you fans of Houston Oiler Coach Bum Phillips, his new Book "He Ain't No Bum", is now available at our local library. If you're looking to check it out, you may have to wait a bit. First come, first serve.

Special Request - Please return all overdue books. Everyone is entitled to check out library books whenever they wish, but often cannot because someone checked out the book they wanted to read and either forgot to return it or decided to add it to their own personal library. The library has some 60 books either lost or overdue for quite sometime. This is a loss for everyone who depends on the library for resource materials and entertainment not to mention a monetary loss. So everyone out there (you know who you are) please make a special effort to get all your overdue books back to the library. If you're too embarrassed to return that book you checked out five years ago and are afraid of the steep overdue fine, don't worry about that. Just creep up to the library when the streets are deserted and slip your books in the depository slot. It's that simple. And what a favor you'll be doing for everyone who uses the library? OK? Ok.

Next week, is mystery week. Three new mysteries in review, plus an examination of the mystery. Bye-Bye till then.

SOUTHWESTERN PUBLIC SERVICE

Teams will chase spring tornadoes

LUBBOCK — Spring storms that bring anxious moments to West Texans create close teamwork for Texas Tech University researchers who chase the storms to gather new information. And they invite the public to participate in their studies.

The researchers are looking for cloud, tornado and hail storm data. They seek first to understand the formation of storms better. Then they hope to formulate better safety instructions and design safer buildings for people. They are working through the Texas Tech Institute for Disaster Research (IDR).

IDR Director Joseph E. Minor said the institute seeks any tornado pictures taken by the public, wants to know about any storm damages glass, and wants collected any large and unusual hailstones. Pictures and hailstones should be labeled with the time, date and location of the storm. Hail that is golf ball size or larger or that has spikes or some other unusual formation is of value. The hailstones should be packed separately in plastic bags and labeled and kept in a freezer until IDR members can pick them up from the collector.

Photographers and hail collectors can write or call the Institute for Disaster Research, Department of Civil Engineering, Texas Tech University, Lubbock, Texas 79409 (806) 742-3476 for more information.

Dr. Richard E. Peterson of the atmospheric science faculty and his graduate students are documenting the growth and maintenance of thunderstorms to learn why some become dangerous while others drop only beneficial rain.

Dr. Minor and his colleagues in civil engineering specialize in wind engineering. Their primary interest is in taking pictures of ground level wind fields as tornadoes move across the land. Working with Minor are Drs. James R. McDonald and Kishor C. Mehta.

Dr. Milton L. Smith of the industrial engineering faculty counts on chase teams as well as the public to retrieve hailstones. He studies the properties of different kinds of hailstones and their possible effects, particularly on solar collector covers. His work is supported by the Energy Foundation of Texas.

The Institute for Disaster Research has been gathering data on severe storms since its organization shortly after the 1970 Lubbock tornado, and the results of its research effort have contributed to building and safety standards nationwide.

The 1980 IDR Storm Chase organization will operate in April. Chase teams will rotate duty. Each team has a director, recorder and cameraman and is supported by a radar observer stationed at the National Weather Service office in Lubbock.

Gear for the teams includes maps and compass, CB radio and antenna, binoculars, motion picture and still cameras, stakes and ribbon for marking camera locations for future reference, tape recorders, an ice chest with numbered plastic bags in which hailstones will be stored, and hard hats and other rain and hail protective clothing.

The nationally televised Skywarn program will be monitored by team members. If threatening weather is predicted, Peterson's group will make a late morning forecast for research teams. If conditions indicate a severe enough storm, a radar observer will be dispatched to the Lubbock weather station, and a chase team will be sent to get long distance pictures of cloud formations and then move in as close as possible to areas having a potential for hail, wind or tornado damage to gather more pictures and other data.

The teams will be chasing storms from March 24 through April 30.

TEEN SCENE By Norm

The three day holiday from school is over and from what I hear most had a great time. Some are suffering from aches and bruises and some suffer from colds but most all have something to remember from their skiing experience.

And then there was Marinette who had a first flying experience and decided she didn't like it. She visited in College Station with her sister during the break and flew home. But she came to the conclusion she had rather drive.

I think most of Post gathered in Ruidoso for that last bit of skiing. Those I know of there were Rance Adkins, Charlie Dalby, Jennifer Ellis, Mike Tatum, Charla Williams, William Morrow, Channa Williams, Kim Carlisle, Gregory Adams, Bruce Waldrip, Kay Carter, Dee Ann Ammons, Eric Allison, Gary and Jeff Lamb, Rhonda Storie, Cindee Jackson, Casey Zachary, Mike Babb, Amy Babb, Jana Middleton, Barry Morris, Chuck Black, David Poole, Barry Wyatt, Holly Giddens, Rynn Norman and I know there were other Methodist Youth attending.

COTTON TODAY

NCC Comments on Air Proposal

The National Cotton Council has filed a statement opposing the Environmental Protection Agency's proposed policy for identifying, assessing, and regulating airborne substances posing risk of cancer. NCC maintains that the proposed rules: (1) are not needed since all hazardous air pollutants are already adequately regulated under the Clean Air Act, and (2) do not conform to the President's regulatory reform policy. Under the proposal, EPA would make and enforce rules. Any challenge of the rules would have to be made in the specific court where history has shown a preponderance of decisions favoring positions taken by EPA or environmental groups.

Reclamation Bill Introduced

Rep. Patterson (D-Calif.) has introduced a reclamation reform bill that would establish a subsidy scale based on the amount of water used rather than limiting the amount of land a farmer can own or lease. Farming operations purchasing 2200-acre-feet of water or less per year would pay a base cost for water on a per-acre-foot basis. Those purchasing more than 3600-acre-feet of water per year would pay the full cost of water. The bill also would encourage better waste management and conservation. Patterson said economics and not the federal government should dictate farm size.

Exports Reported

New Sales of upland cotton were reported at 21,600 running bales for the week ended February 17, bringing the season's total to 8,566,500. The major buyers were Canada, 11,300 bales, Korea, 6,000. The week's exports were reported at 262,700 running bales (114,400 to China), compared with 313,300 a week ago. This brought the total to 4,243,800 for the year.

And Cotton Yesterday

The first cotton yarn to be spun by machinery was in England in 1730.

Post man held in Lynn thefts

Floyd B. Whitehead of Post was arrested here Monday on three Lynn county felony theft warrants to climax a long investigation involving the sheriff departments of Garza and Lynn counties and the Texas Rangers.

Justice of the Peace Pat Kitchens set bond at $5,000 on each charge and Lynn officers took Whitehead to Tahoka and jailed him. They said other charges may be filed later.

Sheriff Jim Pippin said aluminum pipe, cutting torches, tractor weights, and scrap iron, most of it taken from Lynn County, has been recovered in a Lubbock salvage yard.

If we put all the people on earth together and weighed them and did the same with all the insects, the insects would weigh 12 times more than the humans, reports the National Wildlife Federation.

Program launched on tax awareness

AUSTIN — Kenneth E. Graeber, executive director of the State Property Tax Board (SPTB), today announced a statewide program to make citizens more aware of their rights, remedies and responsibilities as taxpayers.

"This public education program is the most comprehensive effort of its kind in the state's history. It will involve the State Property Tax Board, local tax assessors throughout Texas, and the newspaper and broadcast industries," Graeber noted.

The state property tax official said the program consists of two elements. The first involves distribution of a comprehensive 12-page pamphlet titled "Taxpayers' Rights, Remedies and Responsibilities."

"The pamphlet discusses a broad range of tax-related matters, and will help Texans become much more knowledgeable on how the property tax system operates," the SPTB executive director said.

Taxpayers may obtain a free copy by contacting county, city or school tax offices in their area.

"The second element of the program consists of efforts by the news media to inform all Texans of tax rendition deadlines, and the procedures and requirements to apply for homestead exemptions and productivity values.

"Local tax assessors will also be cooperating in this part of the taxpayer education program," Graeber noted.

According to Graeber, the program is being conducted in March to enable Texans to apply for all tax relief to which they may be entitled before local tax rendition deadlines.

"To qualify for most homestead exemptions and productivity valuation for agricultural land, applications must be made to each jurisdiction before the rendition period ends. Most of the state's local taxing units have rendition deadlines of April 1 or April 30, and failure to make timely application causes loss of the tax relief until the next tax year," Graeber added.

He noted that when the new State Property Tax Code is fully implemented in 1982, all jurisdictions will have a rendition deadline of April 1.

SPTB officials said these categories of homestead exemptions are available:

General Homestead. Those persons qualifying for a residence homestead are entitled to a $5,000 exemption off the market value of the homestead for school tax purposes. An additional $3,000 county homestead value is available against the portion of the county tax rate for farm-to-market roads or flood control.

Persons 65 or Older. Elderly citizens are entitled to an additional $10,000 exemption off the market value of their residence homestead for school taxes. And, while an elderly citizen's property may increase in value through the years, the school taxes owed in any one year cannot be greater than the amount owed in 1979 or in the first year the property owner qualified for the exemption, whichever is greater. An annual application to the school tax office is required.

By local option, school districts, cities and counties may offer additional exemptions to elderly homeowners of not less than $3,000.

Disability Exemption. Citizens who are disabled and qualify for the residence homestead exemption are entitled to an additional exemption of $10,000 off the market value of their resident homestead. This exemption applies to school taxes only, and a property owner may not receive both the disability exemption and $10,000 exemption for the elderly.

School districts, cities and counties may offer an additional local option disability exemption of not less than $3,000.

Disabled Veteran or Qualifying Survivor. Certain disabled veterans or their survivors may be entitled to an exemption ranging from $1,500 to $3,000, depending on the percentage of service-connected disability.

This exemption may be applied against the value of any property owned on January 1 of the year in which the application is made. The disabled veteran must be a Texas resident and complete an annual application at local tax offices. Only one property may receive the exemption, and VA or armed forces documents verifying disability are required.

State Property Tax Board officials said agricultural productivity values, mentioned earlier, may reduce the tax liability of qualified farmers and ranchers. Details on what types of land may be taxed on productivity rather than market value are available in local tax offices, or in the "Remedies" pamphlet.

Hedrick due—

(Continued From Page One) interview concerning the accident this week that she ran off a T intersection east of Graham after being harassed by two youths in a blue car who drove up beside her, got in front of her and slowed down, then prevented her from passing.

Finally when she succeeded in passing them and looked back she was too close to the T intersection to make the turn so she just drove off into the field.

She told Walker she hit her head on the steering wheel. She later drove home. Walker said he was told the boys in the blue car did not come into the field to help or hurt her.

Walker was prevented from discussing the accident with her by her physicians until out of intensive care with a clear head.

City Council—

Morton told council members they should read the article in the March issue of Texas monthly on Houston's problems with its cable TV franchise and the mistakes that city has made.

Morton said if the city didn't transfer its cable TV franchise to High Plains Cablevision as requested, the franchise would be "open" for any other cable company seeking it.

In other actions, the council: Amended the city budget on first reading to take $2,513 from the ending cash balance to finance the city's portion of the real property revaluation being undertaken by the new county-wide equalization district.

Decided to press for a street paving program here in 1980 as well as airport runway improvements even if some of the financing had to be completed by borrowing, as paving costs are rising more rapidly than available interest rates. The city has $45,000 in its 1980 budget for paving with the cost now estimated at $6,000 a block. Few contractors will move into town for a job smaller than 10 to 12 blocks, city manager Pete Maddox said.

Approved the appointment of a joint eight-member park board with the county to include Archie Gill, Sue Shytles, Zoe Kirkpatrick, Lonnie Gene Peel, Julian Smith, Danny Shaw, Ted Aten and Jack Alexander.

City to fight—

(Continued From Page One) Municipal League reported a steering committee already has been set up to oppose General Telephone's request for big rate increases and that engineering and rate consulting firms as well as attorneys have been selected to present the city's side of the case.

General Telephone's rate increases for Post would include a 37.5 percent boost of residential rates from $5.90 to $9.21 monthly, and a 68.9 percent hike in business telephones from $12 monthly to $21.37.

Business phone rates in some cities would be increased over 100 percent according to the TML letter.

The city is pledging 15 cents per citizen to help finance the participation against the rate increase.

The Spanish are noted for their subtle ways of approaching simple, economical recipes. Beef is scarce in Spain and they make it go far with great tomatoey sauces. We've revised one of their original recipes to use a full-bodied canned Chef-life spaghetti sauce with meat that saves you time and adds a special heartiness. Vegetables complete the flavor complex. Served over rice, this rich tasty dish allows one-pound of meat to serve four to six. In these days calling for economy, that's sound Spanish thinking.

SPANISH STEW

- 1 pound beef cubes
- 4 tablespoons flour
- 3 tablespoons olive oil
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1 cup onions, diced
- 1/4 cup Burgundy wine
- 1 can (15 oz.) Chef Boy-ar-dee® Spaghetti Sauce with Meat
- 1-1/2 cups carrots sliced diagonally
- 1 cup green peppers, 1 inch chunks
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon black pepper
- 1 box small pearl onions, frozen
- 1/4 green pepper sliced lengthwise

Dredge beef cubes in flour. Brown meat in skillet; add garlic and onions the last few minutes. Add wine; cover and simmer 3 minutes. Stir in the spaghetti sauce with meat; add carrots, green peppers, salt and pepper. Cover and simmer over medium low heat for 1 hour. Stir occasionally. Cook pearl onions according to package directions; drain. Stir into stew just before serving. Serves 4-6.
