Funding sought for park

The new park board voted Tuesday afternoon to ask the city to apply for park development funds to finance redevelopment of the city-county park along lines proposed by five groups of Texas Tech University landscaping students.

The federal funds are available through the Texas Park and Wildlife Commission and requests need to be made by June.

The park board looked over five different park redevelopment plans submitted by the five groups of Tech students. Most of the plans centered on park beautification.

Jack Alexander, park board chairman, said the cost factors have yet to be determined on the park redevelopment plans, but SPAG would handle most of the technical work on the application.

He said a proposed covered park bandstand is included in the redevelopment plans.

The board also heard a report from Julian Smith on progress to date on the park's swimming pool repair project. City and county employees are having to break through pool concrete in the search for water pipe leaks.

Smith reported some leaks already have been found but the project still has a considerable way to go. It hasn't progressed far enough yet to determine how expensive corrective repairs are going to be.

Smith also reported lights in the bottom of the pool have been vandalized, some being shot out by pellet guns. These also need to be replaced at considerable expense.

The board concluded its session by interviewing applicants for the job of swimming pool operator for the summer season. No decision was made on an operator. Alexander said the board hopes repair work can be completed on the pool so it can be opened for the summer.

An item not discussed at the meeting was what to do about the park's playground equipment.

"Most of it is worn out and needs to be replaced," Alexander told The Dispatch (See Park board, Page 14)

HONORED FOR SERVICE — Mrs. Ruth Young, one of the original five members of the Post Public Library trustees when the board was organized in 1966, is presented with a plaque from the board of trustees at the board's April meeting in the library last Thursday noon "in grateful appreciation of 13 years of service on the board." Mrs. Young resigned last year. Making the presentation was Jim Cornish, library board chairman. (Staff Photo)

Spring Art Show to open here Friday

The 10th annual Post Spring Art Show, sponsored by the Post Art Guild, should draw a record entry list for its three-day exhibit in the Post Community Center Friday through Sunday.

A record $3,000 in purchase awards will be given plus a $100 cash jurors' award given by the Post Art Guild and selected by the two judges.

Heading the long list of purchase awards will be a $500 award for the purchase of a painting or sculpture to be exhibited in the new Huntley Nursing Home.

The show will be open to the public from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. both Friday and Saturday and from 1 to 4:30 p.m. Sunday.

Presentation of awards is scheduled for 3:30 p.m. Sunday.

Included in the show this year for the first time will be a photography division.

Judges for the show this year will be two artists from Albuquerque, N.M.

They are Gale Waddell and Ann Epple Upson.

'Snakeman' makes hospital escape

Sheriff Jim Pippin said Wednesday that Lloyd Dale Ready, about 40, who stole a sack full of nine rattlesnakes here and then used the snakes to threaten a Lubbock family in a night of terror one night last week, has escaped from Methodist Hospital.

The sheriff said Ready was being held without bond but was taken to the hospital because he had been accidentally shot in both legs by his wife during the night of terror.

Ready reportedly was shot as he wrestled with one of the two boys whom he had tied up when he and his wife broke into the Lubbock apartment with robbery as an apparent motive.

Mrs. Ready, about 30, was (See Snakeman, Page 14)

Hospital board is reorganized

Garza Hospital trustees at their April breakfast meeting last Thursday morning canvassed the recent spring election, swore in Wayne Childers and Colley Gatlin, and reelected officers for another year.

These include Jack Alexander, president; Gatlin, vice president; and Danny Shaw, secretary.

After opening bids on hospital building insurance, the directors accepted the low bid of Tom Power Insurance Agency of $1,107 for $550,000 coverage of the building and $70,000 coverage of the contents.

In another action, directors turned over $2,431.86 in back hospital bills to a collection agency. Those on the list turned over had each been sent three statements of charges without response.

The board also approved a salary increase for Laverne Jones, director of nurses, retroactive to last December when hourly paid employees were given boosts.

The March hospital report was very encouraging, showing patients billed out $53,266.10 for the month with total bills of $55,613.43, meaning very little in tax revenue had to be allocated for operations.

Actually, the hospital took in $57,803.59 on accounts during the month to $52,546.47 in expenses.

Fifty-eight patients were admitted during the month for a total of 262 patient days. This means an average stay of 4.5 days and an average of 8.5 patients in the hospital daily throughout the month. (See Hospital board, Page 14)

A sack of nine Garza County rattlesnakes was the talk of Lubbock over the weekend after one of the most bizarre crimes to hit Lubbock headlines and air-lines in many a year.

A Lubbock family was terrorized overnight in a Lubbock apartment by another Lubbock couple who held a gun on them and used the sack of rattlesnakes to frighten the family in a robbery attempt.

It was such a confusing story we never have gotten it quite straight. The sack of rattlesnakes at one point was placed on the stomach of the frightened man who was being held at gunpoint.

We did track down the rattlesnakes though. They were stolen from Ed Witt, 607 West Fourth, who had caught them to give to the Caprock Peace Officers Association for their annual rattlesnake shoot.

He has what his wife calls a "snake house" in his backyard which he used to keep locked when he had snakes in there. He hasn't kept any snakes since last spring when there was a furor created here on his backyard rattlers.

But he had caught the (See Postings, Page 14)

Living cost hike on agenda

Post school trustees have a full agenda for their April meeting tonight, including a "closed door session" with the board's attorney, Tom Milam, on an unannounced subject and action of a cost of living increase for school personnel.

Other items on the agenda include:

Action on right of way for Exxon Corporation, report and possible action as representative of architectural firm of Whitaker and Hall appear before trustees;

Action on investment of $600,000 from general fund in 90-day CD at 12 3/4 percent interest retroactive to April 1; action on recommendation of Miss L. Gwen Landers in Post Middle School for 1980-81 school year subject to assignment;

Action on renewal of commodities agreement, action on textbook adoptions by textbook committee, action on budget change requests, action on policies concerning collection of money for textbooks and flutorns, voting by trustees on Education Service Center directors, approval of bills, and a report on a proposal for possible action.

Snow falls on Saturday

It wasn't much Saturday — in the way of moisture that is — but it was a big surprise.

Snow fell twice during the day, but melted as it hit the ground because the temperature was around 40 degrees.

In Lubbock and Slaton snow covered the ground briefly. In Denver City, the district 5AA track meet finals Saturday had to be postponed until Monday because of the snow. One inch was on the ground there by 7 a.m.

Total moisture here from the flakes officially was .15 of an inch.

PHS band to play Monday concert

The Post High School band will play a public concert at 7:30 p.m. Monday night in the elementary auditorium with the public invited without charge.

Band Director Steven Clary said the band will play its three UIL contest numbers plus several others.

The band will go to contest at Sundown Wednesday and is scheduled to play there at 10:45 a.m.

Glassblower here caring for father

BY BETH SHORT Post has two very unusual things to boast about this week, one is that it has a glass blower in town and the other is that for just last week it had three glass blowers in town. The unusual thing about the number is that statistics prove there is only one glass blower in 100,000 people today.

Billy Heibner, of Osage, Arkansas, is here in Post for awhile to take care of his father, Ralph Heibner, who is in the local hospital. He set up shop in the old Ticer grocery store building on West 8th street and is there most of the day making some 35 to 40 standard glass pieces that he and his family sell all over the United States.

His wife Pat, and son Jim Pierce also are glass blowers and travel with Heibner, or on their own selling articles they have made. Jim keeps their shop in Hot Springs, Ark., open part of the year.

Heibner has been in the glass business on his own for about six years. His decision to become a glass blower was helped by "nature's quirk", when he broke both of his legs at the same time and had to find some kind of employment to keep his family

William Ryan rites Friday

Military funeral services for William C. Ryan, Sr., 82, of Post were held Friday at 2 p.m. April 11 in the Chapel of the Justice-Mason Funeral Home. Burial was in Terrace cemetery.

Ryan died Wednesday, April 9, in the Veterans Hospital in Big Spring following a lengthy illness.

Max Chaffin, Commander of Post VFW Post 6797, officiated the services.

Born in Bosque County, he was in the army during World War II, and came to Post in 1940 to farm and ranch for Tom Henderson and Shorty Hamilton. In later years he was a restaurant cook until he retired in 1963. He was a member of the Methodist Church.

Friday hiring session set

Census needs enumerators

Garza County was reported this week to be one of the trouble spots in taking the 1980 census in the Lubbock district area because the Lubbock census office is having a hard time hiring enough enumerators to conduct the necessary personal check for Garza forms that have not been returned.

Mitzi Jorden, who heads the Lubbock census office, told The Dispatch Tuesday that it will conduct another hiring session here at 2 p.m. Friday in the county commissioners room on the second floor of the county courthouse.

"We still need at least 10 more enumerators to work Garza County," she told The Dispatch. "And we will probably hire more if they are available."

She said the enumerators will make calls over a three (See Census needs, Page 14)

Self defense course here

The Women's Division of the Post Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a free self defense course for women at 7 p.m. Friday in the community center.

The one session course will be taught by Highway Patrolman Burt Sinclair and will include showing of a film on the subject.

All interested women are invited to attend.

County takes over Meals on Wheels

The Garza County Commissioners Court accepted supervision of the Meals on Wheels program here until Oct. 1, 1980.

The action came at the court's first April meeting Monday at the request of Tom Power, president of the Garza Trailblazers. Power asked the county to supervise the program until the grant renewal date, Oct.

The court named Donald Windham to supervise the hot lunch program.

Census help wanted

An accurate 1980 census is vital to every community for many reasons, one being because the population count figures in so many federal aid formulas.

Now Garza County is on the verge of coming up short because of a lack to date of enumerators to make the personal followup to the recent mail census. Every household that did not return its census form must be personally contacted in the next few weeks.

While it may be a good economic omen that there aren't many local folks looking for part-time jobs, this is one kind of community task which needs being done correctly.

We hope today's Dispatch appeal for enumerators brings quick results, and Garza County can look forward to an accurate population check.

Even with the best effort, small towns usually come up a lot shorter in a head count that folks believe possible. So we don't want to lose some additional folks, who are really here, just because they were too indifferent to return their census forms.

Visit our library

"Texans, Remember the Library."

That's the theme for Library Week in Texas this week.

Governor William Clements by proclamation has officially declared April 13-19 as library week in Texas and encourages all Texans to visit their local libraries and to take advantage of the services they will find there whether they be pre-schoolers listening to story hours or senior citizens checking out books printed in large type for failing eyesights.

Mrs. Clements, the state's first lady, is serving as honorary chairman for this year's library week observance.

It's a good time to visit the Post Public Library if you're not a regular patron. You'd be surprised at all the services available.

The Post Library, jointly supported by the city and county, was started 14 years ago by volunteers and a $40,000 addition was built to the library in the city building funds through funds raised entirely through donations.

The library is probably the finest small library in Texas.

It's the best place we know to be able to check out without charge almost every best seller in America without any or much of a wait.

The Dispatch leaves you with one library week thought to remember:

The enjoyment of reading is one of the best educational tools and hobbies from first grade youngsters right on through the retirement years as senior citizens. Good reading habits are worth development both in yourself and your children.

Politics heating up

With the primaries little more than two weeks away, political action on county races, especially the four-way race for the Democratic sheriff's nomination, are beginning to heat up.

We've heard some candidates complain a bit that things are so quiet here on political matters they wonder themselves what is in the voters' minds.

There isn't much on the state ballot coming up to help either.

State officials are elected for four-year terms and there aren't any of the major offices coming up for filling except for a pair on the railroad commission.

Mostly, the state ballot will be judgeships to be determined and the voter pays little if any attention to these.

Voters will elect a congressman and a state representative, but neither has any primary opposition. No U.S. or state senators are to be elected.

Of course the two parties' presidential nomination races might move into Texas to some extent, but right now the two races are moving close to determination and almost all the candidates are starting to run out of campaign funds.

So there won't be any real presidential donnybrook in the Lone Star State.

That leaves it up to the county races of which there are only three — for sheriff and two county commissioner nominations on the Democratic side.

The Republicans would like to get a bigger following locally for their primaries but are having a hard time even though the county is conservative enough to elect Republican candidates in November from time to time.

Getting county candidates on the ballot is the difficulty here. Max Chaffin, who is making his second race for sheriff, has been the only county candidate in Garza in years and years. In fact, this is going to be only the second primary the Republicans have held here. The first one didn't attract enough voters to make it worth the trouble, except for the "historical footnote" that at least it was a start.

Garza folks are just like Americans everywhere else. They aren't in the habit lately of all turning out to vote. But the best turnout of the year is usually in a Democratic primary with the sheriff's office at stake.

CAPITOL UPDATE

John Tower
U.S. SENATOR for TEXAS
142 RUSSELL OFFICE BUILDING
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20510

Thousands upon thousands of Americans could become victims of the international crises in Iran and Afghanistan — shot not with guns but with needles.

Already, large supplies in heroin from the "Golden Crescent" of Iran, Afghanistan and Pakistan have flooded Europe and begun their almost inevitable drift to American streets.

In the 1960s and 1970s, we had an epidemic of heroin use with as many as 700,000 persons addicted to the drug. Vigilant law enforcement efforts reduced supplies of heroin to 4 metric tons last year, the lowest amount in a decade. By the middle of last year, there were about 400,000 American addicts — a horrifying number to be sure, but still the lowest number in 25 years.

Part of the reason for the reduced supply was cooperation from Asian and Middle Eastern nations. But with the chaos in Afghanistan and Iran, U.S. and European officials are bracing for all-time high levels of illicit supply. That means there not only will be more heroin on the streets, but also that it will be less expensive and of higher potency.

Many people think of heroin as a drug exclusively used by hard-core addicts. But that is not the case. The addict starts as an occasional user, who may flirt with heroin for quite some time before being trapped into addiction. Regrettably, rehabilitation efforts to cure addicts of their dependency have been slow and suffered high failure rates. So the obvious step is to redouble our efforts to keep young occasional users, or those who would be tempted to "try" heroin if it were readily available, from getting to the addiction stage.

Certainly, our law enforcement agencies will bear a large portion of this responsibility as they continue their efforts to stop drug smuggling and dealing. We in the legislative branch must make sure they have all the means possible to do that job.

But there is something else we can do to help solve the problem. In Texas, and most other states in the nation, anyone can walk in off the streets and purchase a hypodermic syringe, which is a tool for using heroin.

Now, it can be argued that an addict determined enough will find some way to use his drug whether he can get a sterile needle and syringe or not. But the occasional or first-time user likely would be deterred by the prospect of risking infection or disease from using dirty or makeshift paraphernalia. So I have introduced a bill in the Senate to require prescriptions for hypodermic needles and syringes.

I have carefully studied the question of whether it might also hurt diabetics or others who have legitimate need for these items. My conclusion, based on the experience of other states which regulate their sale and conversations with many people who use them for medical reasons is that the law can be framed in such a way that it accomplishes its purpose without causing serious inconvenience to those people.

Most pharmacists share my concern about their products being used illicitly, and most try to exercise caution in selling needles and syringes. But my bill would give them legal backing, and let law enforcement agencies put unscrupulous sellers out of business.

I thought the bill was important when I introduced it in November. But with the expected influx of Iranian and Afghan heroin, it is critical now.

It's Beyond Us Why You'd Look Beyond Us

One of Southwest's best success stories— Allsups build small store into $50 million business

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Post with three Allsup convenience stores which remain open 24 hours daily throughout the year is probably the "biggest" small town in Allsup's mushrooming convenience store chain. For Dispatch readers who wonder what Allsup's really is all about here is a story written by Jack Swickard, editor of the Roswell Daily Record which tells the story of how a young couple has built a $50 million annual business which is still growing by leaps and bounds.)

People — the more than 1,300 employees and customers from Grants to west of Fort Worth — get the credit for helping write one of New Mexico's biggest retailing success stories.

The first chapter began in October 1956 in Roswell with the opening of Lonnie's Drive-In Grocery at 1500 W. Second St.

Now, Lonnie and Barbara Allsup have put together the 24th largest chain of convenience stores in the nation, with 168 Allsup's Convenience Stores helping form a $50 million business.

Before the final chapter is written, Allsup's Convenience Stores Inc. will have some 400 stores selling items ranging from garden hoses to barbecued chicken throughout New Mexico, West Texas and parts of Oklahoma. In conversation, Mr. and Mrs. Allsup speak repeatedly of motivated employees, long-term workers, loyal customers and consumer convenience.

"Anybody can have buildings, fixtures and merchandise, but if they don't have good people to run — those stores — all the way up and all the way down — you won't be successful," explained Allsup, president of the corporation which he and his wife started building alone.

"I'd look pretty funny trying to run 168 stores," he added with a chuckle.

"Anyone who gets negative on people won't grow with the business. You really have to be optimistic and you have to think that people are good," Allsup said. "If we decided that people are no good, we'd have to get out of the business."

As chief executive officer of a major chain, Lonnie Allsup looks back nostalgically to the time not so long ago when he was waiting on customers.

"One of the parts I enjoy about the grocery or convenience store business is meeting the customers, taking care of the customers. I really enjoy that. Now I don't get enough contact with the customers; it's all employee contact now."

"I always enjoyed the customers and the customer was No. 1. That's your business, that's all you've got is the customer," Allsup added.

Barbara Allsup, financial vice president of Allsup's echoed the same thoughts.

She fondly recalls their Roswell customers when they were starting out.

"They were really receptive about what we were trying to do. A lot of people were very helpful," Mrs. Allsup added.

In addition to what she describes as "Lonnie's vision," she attributes the chain's success to Allsup employees through the years.

In fact, they opened their second store — also in Roswell — with money borrowed from an employee.

"We've been lucky to get good people and to keep them," Barbara Allsup said, pointing out that some of the current employees of Allsup's Convenience Stores Inc., started with the first stores in Roswell.

"They're very loyal, it's almost like a family relationship," she added.

The Allsups began putting their present chain of 168 stores together shortly after selling their 12 initial stores to Southland Corp. in 1963.

At that time, the couple owned eight stores in Roswell, two in Ruidoso and two in Alamogordo.

These dozen convenience stores had been built up since 1956 when Lonnie Allsup opened Lonnie's Drive-In Grocery after his discharge from the Air Force.

Allsup's infatuation with grocery retailing, however, began many years before that.

"I started out standing on a box, sacking groceries when I was 10 or 11," he recalled.

"It's a fast business," he added, explaining how he "liked the fast part of the grocery store business."

Working in the grocery business, he said, was much faster than working for his father's Chevrolet dealership in his hometown of

Lonnie Allsup

Morton, Texas.

"That was more a work real hard and trade cars, maybe make a sale of one a day or two," he added.

Allsup also recalls working in the maintenance area of his father's automobile dealership, around the oil and grease.

To this day, he insists that all stores in the Allsup's chain to be virtually spotless.

At the age of 16, Allsup graduated from Morton High School; married Barbara, his school sweetheart, who also was 16 years of age; and moved to Abilene, Texas, so he could attend Hardin Simmons University.

While Lonnie was studying business and medicine at the university, Barbara was finishing high school in Abilene.

She said that when they left Morton she "only lacked one credit for graduation."

But the new school raised requirements and eliminated some credits.

"I ended up going to school all day long," she said, "I was taking more hours than he was. Unbelievable!"

Barbara recalls with a laugh, that "we never saw each other. It was just a mass of books. It was a hectic year, but we made it."

While in Abilene, Lonnie Allsup's interest in grocery retailing surfaced.

"There was a little grocery store nearby and he's got down and buy a loaf of bread and he's come back and say, 'I'd really like to buy that grocery store,'" Barbara recalled.

But he didn't. Instead, the couple moved to Lubbock, Texas, where Lonnie enrolled in Texas Tech. Then the Korean war started and he enlisted in the Air Force.

When discharged in Las Cruces in 1956 at the age of 23, Allsup held the rank of staff sergeant.

Barbara Allsup recalled that her husband looked into purchasing land in Las Cruces for a store, but "it was extremely expensive, like it was $200 a front foot even back then."

"We couldn't afford to buy it new and start building a store, so he found a store for sale in Roswell," she said.

"His father cosigned the note or we wouldn't have been able to borrow the $6,500," Barbara said.

Lonnie Allsup, thinking back to that time, recalled that "my ambition was five stores. If I just had five, I think I could run five."

Today with a goal of adding 25 stores to the chain this year, Lonnie regards building up to 12 stores in eight years as "pretty slow."

But, he adds, "it was pretty fast for me," at the time.

After selling the 12 stores to Southland Corp., which operates 7-Eleven Stores, Allsup "took the week off and went fishing," his wife recalled.

I was still buried in paperwork, trying to close out with Southland and he called me from Clovis and told me he'd bought three stores," Barbara said. "I could have killed him. I never had had a day off."

Rebuilding the chain rapidly.

"Then he bought one in Portales and then we built the one here," she said motioning toward an Allsup's Convenience Store near the company's Clovis headquarters. "We started construction right away."

"That gave us seven pretty quickly, within three months of when we sold, Barbara said.

However, because of a five-year non-competitive agreement with Southland not to operate stores in Chaves, Lincoln and Otero

Mechanics course for women slated

SNYDER — An intermediate course in Powder Puff Mechanics is scheduled to begin April 22 at Western Texas College.

Classes will meet from 6:30 - 9:30 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays for two weeks, with classes ending May 1. Jimmy Hess will be instructor for the course, with classes meeting in the WTC automotive shop. Students will use their own automobiles for lab activities, and will concentrate on maintenance and minor repairs that can be done without extensive equipment.

Fees will be $18 per person.

Space in the class is to be reserved by calling the Community Services office at 573-8511, extension 240.

counties, Allsup stayed out of the Roswell market for a while.

"Lonnie was afraid that people in Roswell had forgotten who he was," his wife said.

Once Allsup entered the Roswell market again, he moved fast and now has six stores in the city.

In the convenience store field, Allsup is an innovator, willing to try new ideas in retailing.

And he usually is followed by the larger, national chains.

It was Allsup who started selling cooked foods through convenience stores and he was one of the first operators to sell gasoline — a concept he and other convenience store owners initially had poo-hooped.

"The first time that a fellow came in here and asked my why didn't I put a set of pumps out in front of my store, I said, 'That won't work, you can't sell gasoline with groceries.'"

"And now I won't build a store without it," he volunteered.

It's easy to understand why, too.

Allsup's Convenience Stores Inc., sells more than two million gallons of gasoline a month, he estimated.

Long hours and hard work are a reality to Lonnie and Barbara Allsup, Lonnie's ultimate goal is to 'cover every town in New Mexico and every town between Clovis and Fort Worth, Texas." His short-term goal is 25 new store locations within the next 12 months.

Focus on Home Economics

By PAULA CAWTHON
County Extension Agent

When shopping for upholstered furniture, remember to question and test.

Home furnishing sales this month offer excellent money-saving opportunities, so shop around to get the best values.

Remember, a high price does not necessarily indicate high quality.

Start by examining the tailoring.

Look for no loose threads and well-concealed staples and tacks.

Check that seams are straight and securely stitched. Pull on each side of a seam gently — they should not give.

Look for straight — not wavy — welt cording.

Check that plaids and stripes are well-matched and that prints are centered on each cushion.

If the piece of furniture has a skirt, be sure it is sewn on straight and hangs evenly.

Second, look for labels to see if the fabric is treated to repel water and stains.

Some furniture carries a warranty that indicates the fabric has been performance tested for color fastness and durability.

Third, bounce in the chair or sofa. The springs should not hit the frame.

Seat construction should feel soft but provide good support, the agent points out.

The furniture should allow your feet to rest on the floor.

Squeeze the arms of sofas and chairs. If padding between the fabric and the wood is sufficient, the frame can't be felt.

Some features are not visible, so ask the salesperson questions about the quality.

First, ask about the frame.

Better quality will have frames of steel or kiln-dried hardwood — maple, ash, birch, mahogany, alder or oak. Be wary of soft wood — fir, cedar or pine.

The joints where the frames are put together should be double dowel or triple dowel with reinforcement blocks at points of stress.

Next, ask about the springs.

Two types of springs are used in well-built furniture, coil spring and convoluted spring.

Finally, ask about the type of filling used in the cushions.

Polyurethane foam, foam rubber and man-made fiber fill are non-allergenic, odorless, mothproof and mildew proof. Filling of down or down and feathers is usually used in expensive furniture.

Priscilla club to Kemp home

The Priscilla Club met in the home of Odee Kemp Friday, April 11.

Members enjoyed sewing and visiting. Refreshments were served to Virginia Custer, Thelma Epley, Wanda Cox, Jimmie Hudman, Sybil Cockrum, Irene Mitchell, Maudie Smith, Pauline Warren, Annie Laura Francis, Lillian Nance, Faye Mathis, Emma Mueller and Maxine Smith.

Honored on 80th birthday

Mrs. Bessie Windham was honored on her 80th birthday with a dinner Easter Sunday by her children, grandchildren and great grandchildren.

Those attending and helping her celebrate were: Mr. and Mrs. Everette Windham, Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Danny Windham and Brant all of Post; Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Windham and family of Coleman, Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Lowe and children of Woodrow, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lee Mock of Slaton and children.

Others were Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Windham and Retha of Post, Mrs. Margie Petrus of Skidmore, Mrs. Louise Disbro of Fremont, Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Mooney and granddaughter of Carbon.

Green Thumb club meets

Wanda Cox was hostess Thursday night in her home, to the Green Thumb Garden Club.

A business meeting was held and members planned a trip to the Arts Festival in Lubbock.

Members brought flower arrangements to the meeting and those present chose the proper place in the house for display.

San Jacinto Day to be observed

Hundreds of patriotic Texans and Americans will celebrate Monday, April 21, the 144th anniversary of the Battle of San Jacinto, one of the most significant military encounters of American history. San Jacinto Day commemorates the 1836 victory of 910 Texans under Sam Houston over 1300 Mexican troops commanded by Santa Anna.

Cecil Burney, Chairman of the Texas Historical Commission, said "Historical groups should take advantage of this official state holiday and pause to recognize this milestone of Texas' history."

This important battle determined not only the future of Texas, but also the future of 1,000,000 square miles of the United States.

As a result of the decisive engagement, Texas gained its independence from Mexico. But the battle also led to the Mexican War with the United States, and the eventual US acquisition of territory comprising the current states of Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, Nevada, California, Utah, and parts of Colorado, Wyoming, Kansas, and Oklahoma — more land than the original 13 states and about one-third of the present area of the US.

The Battle of San Jacinto was one of the best planned and executed campaigns of the Texas War for Independence. In March, 1836, Sam Houston was in full retreat before Santa Anna, but one month later Houston delivered the resounding defeat to the Mexican general.

Victorious at Goliad, the Mexican forces had moved to take possession of the Texas coast. Santa Anna burned Harrisburg and pursued the Texas government and army in its flight from New Washington and Galveston. But Houston too moved toward the coast. He learned that Santa Anna had gone down the west side of the San Jacinto River, and that the Mexican forces would have to cross the bridge at Vince's Bayou. Houston established his strategic position in woods about a mile from Harrisburg and assembled reinforcements.

On April 21, taking advantage of the Mexican afternoon siesta, Houston moved his troops through thick cover near Santa Anna's encampment. The Mexicans were unaware of enemy activity until they heard the famous cry "Remember the Alamo!"

The Battle of San Jacinto lasted only 18 minutes. Houston had taken Santa Anna completely by surprise, killing 630 enemy soldiers and taking 730 captives. Santa Anna himself was found among the prisoners. Gen. Houston was injured, but only nine of his men were killed.

Between 1883 and 1901 the State of Texas worked to a quire 445 acres around the battlefield. The San Jacinto Monument was erected between 1936 and 1939 at a cost of $1.5 million. Constructed of reinforced concrete and faced with Texas fossilized buff limestone, the Monument is 570 feet high and tapers from 47 feet square at the base to 30 feet square at the observation tower. A star 35 feet high tops the Monument, and a museum is housed in the base. The imposing tower is mirrored in a reflecting pool. San Jacinto Battlefield is a National Historic Landmark.

A PRAYER FOR TODAY
LORD, Thou knowest better than I know myself that I am growing older, and will some day be old.
Keep me from getting talkative, and particularly from the fatal habit of thinking I must say something on every subject and on every occasion.
Release me from craving to try to straighten out everybody's affairs.
Make me thoughtful, but not moody; helpful, but not bossy. With my vast store of wisdom, it seems a pity not to use it all — but Thou knowest, Lord, that I want a few friends at the end...
Seal my lips on my many aches and pains — they are increasing, and my love of rehearsing them is becoming sweeter as the years go by.
Teach me the glorious lesson that occasionally it is possible that I may be mistaken...

Food as diplomatic tool poses threat to farmers

COLLEGE STATION — Use of food as a tool of international diplomacy poses a serious threat to the Texas economy, declares an economist in marketing and policy with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A & M University System.

"The result of continued use of food as a diplomatic tool will result in the loss of our competitive edge in the international market for food grains, feed grains and cotton," Dr. Ron Knutson says.

Two billion dollars worth of Texas agricultural products moved into export markets in 1978. In addition, more than $5 billion worth of agricultural products moved through Texas ports from out of state, Knutson adds.

"By analyzing the countries that have bought grain from the U.S., it appears that food diplomacy strategies could affect 80 percent of the wheat exports, 76 percent of the rice exports, 58 percent of the feed grain exports, 23 percent of the soybean exports and 60 percent of the cotton exports," the economist says.

Such adverse effect to Texas, Knutson explains, would result from the U.S. being a less favored grain supply source for importing countries. American agriculture would truly become a market of "last resort" for importing countries. In years of favorable worldwide production, Texas farmers would be left "holding the bag" in terms of surplus stocks, low prices and high storage costs.

Texas grain merchandizing and transportation firms would be adversely affected by lower volume of grain handled, he adds.

Effective use of food as a tool of international diplomacy will require centralization of export decisions in the government, Knutson believes.

"It has become increasingly apparent that the Russian grain embargo is not effective," Knutson declares.

The embargo was supposed to prevent Russia from obtaining 17 million metric tons of grain from total anticipated Russian imports of 35 million metric tons. Shifts in world trade patterns, combined with second and third party sales of U.S. grain to the Russians, now makes it appear that Russia will get all — or nearly all — the grain it originally anticipated buying. Even the U.S. Department of Agriculture now admits that Russia will be able to obtain 30.5 million metric tons of the desired 35 million tons,

Dust Petition Filed

The National Cotton Council has filed a petition asking the Supreme Court to review the District of Columbia Appeal Court's decision upholding the cotton dust standard. The petition presented two questions covering the lower court decision: (a) Does substantial evidence in the record as a whole support the Occupational Safety and Health Administration's determination that the standard is feasible; and (b) does the Occupational Safety and Health Act require OSHA to demonstrate that the standard is reasonably necessary and that its benefits bear a reasonable relationship to its costs?

Propst Meets with Official
National Cotton Council President Herman Propst, Anson, Tex., and other agricultural leaders last week discussed the farm credit situation with Federal Reserve Chairman Paul Volcker and Agriculture Secretary Bergland. Propst reported that a survey taken within the Cotton Belt showed credit is generally available although interest rates are high.

World Cotton Production Up

USDA has increased its estimate of 1979-80 world cotton production to a record 65.5 million bales. Improved prospects in India, Argentina, Paraguay, and Columbia more than offset a downward revision of 300,000 bales in the U.S. crop based on the ginnings report.

USDA Seeks to Revise Grading

USDA is proposing to revamp the official grade standards for upland cotton. Under the proposal, good middling cotton would be graded according to a descriptive standard rather than through direct comparison with a physical standard. Four descriptive standards — good middling light spotted, good middling spotted, good middling light gray, and good middling gray — would be eliminated. The proposal would be put into effect July 1, 1981.

Exports Continue Climb

Export shipments of 238,600 running bales of upland cotton during the week ended March 30 brought the season's total to 5,770,100, compared with 3,776,700 a year ago. Net new sales for the current marketing year delivery were 77,500 to push total commitments to 9,030,200. The major buyer was China, 44,600 bales, to bring the total current year commitment to 2,231,400.

And Cotton Yesterday

The cash value of the 1964-65 Texas cotton crop was equal to the cost of over 31 air-conditioned Astrodomes.

Guilty plea here in 'hit and run'

Betty Lou Robison of Post pleaded guilty in justice of the peace court here to a misdemeanor "hit and run" charge and was ordered to pay fine and court costs of $203.

The sheriff's department said Mrs. Robison was apprehended after her car struck a legally parked car belonging to Robert Reiter in the Hitching Post parking lot last Thursday evening after which she drove away.

No one was injured in the accident.

the economist says. "Centralization of exports in the hands of the U.S. government would destroy the free enterprise system in grain marketing," Knutson declares. Major grain marketing firms would simply become handlers and shippers, he points out, and sales and prices would be determined politically on the basis of government-to-government negotiations.

A Better Kind of Law Enforcement

I have lived in Post for the better part of 41 years. I know just about every citizen of Garza County, and the location of nearly all of their homes.

I'm also a father of two teenage boys, a teenage girl and an eight year old boy in grade school. This should help out quite a bit knowing most all of the kids problems and how to handle them.

I've worked with, and gotten close to, quite a few of the kids (and they all like me) in the last ten to fifteen years. Coaching and teaching Minor League, Little League, Babe Ruth and Teenage League Baseball. Owning my Drive-Inn business has given me a big headstart in knowing what is happening in Post and the rest of Garza County. A lot of the school kids eat there and I enjoy messing with all the kids.

I do know where Justiceburg, Southland, Close City, Verbena and Graham are. I am a firm believer that the duties of the sheriff's office should extend to the last inch of Garza County, not just to the city limits and the highways in and out of Post.

There are too many of the law officers in the world today who get behind the badge and begin to think they're above the law. This is definitely no good. An officer of the law only represents the law, they don't become the law.

I am a man who believes that common sense is the backbone of a good law system, and I have and will use this if elected sheriff.

All officers should know what type of punishment should be used, instead of just writing a ticket for every incident that comes up. Everyone should be dealt with in the same manner. I know when someone needs to be taken to jail, or just taken home. Warning tickets should be used just a little bit more often.

There is too much petty law around. The police can really get to be annoying. Stopping everyone left and right for little or nothing.

The sheriff's office will be open to the public 24 hours a day regardless of race, color, or creed or the type of problem. The law is supposed to be for the people, the people's friend.

Drug abuse is uncalled for. I feel there are better things that the users can do with their lives. I've just got to figure out a way to give these people and all others something better to occupy their time with, another passtime for their fun and kicks. There are so many other profitable opportunities in life today. I want just to rid them of the desire, give them something better to do, gain some self confidence and self-respect.

If I'm elected sheriff of Garza County, I will give 110 percent to do all I can. All of these ideals are not all my own, they are the hopes of quite a few people and I think I'm the one to take on these responsibilities.

YOUR VOTE FOR SHERIFF ON MAY 3RD WILL BE GREATLY APPRECIATED!!

Cattle market in doledrums— Feedlot operators losing $100 head

COLLEGE STATION — A lot of outside factors are causing weaker cattle prices just when things were beginning to look rosy for cattlemen.

Some of these factors are increasing interest rates, shaky world conditions, continued unabated inflation, and further speculation about a business recession. The first reaction was a drop in the stock and commodity futures markets which, in turn, forced cattle prices downward.

"All these factors are enough to put a damper on anything, and that's just what's happened to the cattle market," points out Dr. Ed Uvacek, livestock marketing economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A & M University System.

"The cattle market is extremely volatile right now and is influenced by many such factors, far beyond the normal economics of the industry," says Uvacek.

Despite the current gloomy outlook, Uvacek urges cattlemen to look ahead to the long term. "The future of the cattle business still looks quite good. As the build-up phase continues, it will bring higher calf prices. This will be great for cow-calf operators but might create problems for stocker and feedlot operators," contends the economist.

A major reason why the cattle market is in the doldrums right now is that feedlot operators are losing well over $100 a head. Their breakeven costs are much higher than the price for Choice fed steers. For example, the breakeven cost for most cattle coming out of Great Plains feedlots in April was about $74 per hundred pounds while the market price for Choice fed steers during the first week in April was only in the low $60s.

"Facing such large losses as well as a 20 percent interest rate on new money to buy feeder cattle is causing many feedlot operators to back away and reassess the situation. That's causing the demand for feeders to drop and, in turn, pushing feeder and calf prices down," points out Uvacek.

Over the short term, an increase in fed cattle prices will resolve the problem, believes the economist. Once fed cattle prices hit the high $60s or low $70s, cattle feeders will probably again become interested in replacement cattle. That should give a boost to the entire beef industry.

Sentry Savings is actively seeking FHA-VA and conventional mortgage loans.

In times of high interest rates, spiraling inflation and limited loan funds, it's typical to look backwards to 5 or 10 years ago and wish you had bought a house then.

One of the problems with "backward looking" is that it doesn't solve the problem of today. If you need a house (or would like to move up into a larger, finer home) the problem isn't solved just because there was another time when property sold for less.

One of the facts that escape those who are given to "backward looking" is that buyers in 1975 also wished they had bought a home 5 or 10 years ago when prices were even cheaper. And in 1965 buyers wished they had bought in 1955, etc.

At Sentry Savings, we don't look back. We are moving forward by planning for the future. We made strategic plans some time ago to enable us to have building funds on hand now when they are needed. Our loan department is actively seeking new loans for FHA, VA and conventional mortgages and supporting our builders with interim construction financing.

If you are looking for loan funds for a new home we believe there will never be a better time to buy. Talk to your Realtor or your builder, then talk to Sentry. At Sentry, we're building for the future.

They were selected on the basis of their 4-H experience, desire to learn about other cultures, and willingness to share their experience with others, points out Preston D. Sides, 4-H and youth specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A & M University System.

The LABO program has been active in the U.S. since 1973, and some 2,000 Japanese young people have visited various states in these years. Texas has been a participant in the program for the past two years and has received some 200 Japanese youth. However, 1980 will be the first year for Texas to send a 4-H delegation to Japan.

Oil industry to be honored

DENVER CITY — This community will celebrate Denver City Oil Appreciation Day Saturday with an oil equipment parade and a park barbecue expected to draw thousands, including hundreds of out of town visitors.

Governor Bill Clements, Railroad Commissioner Mack Wallace, and R. L. Howard, general manager of Shell Oil Company's Mid-Continent division, will be honored guests.

George Bush, Jr., son of presidential candidate George Bush, also is coming and efforts are being made to secure Republican presidential candidate Ronald Reagan, who if he attends will have to change his current campaign schedule.

The celebration is to honor the local petroleum industry which has made Yoakum County the largest oil producing county in the United States.

Special, Sunday, April 20, on KAMC-TV Channel 28, according to Lubbock Mayor Bill McAlister, chairman of the special.

Aired from 1-6 p.m. the program will feature an impressive list of personalities from Hollywood, including Mary Tyler Moore, Anson Williams, Doc Severenson, Della Reese, Jack Klugman, Lawrence Welk, Charlton Heston, Robert Wagner, plus many more. Ms. Reagan will be assisted in Lubbock by TV personality Bob Nash and a host of local talent.

During the "Arthritis Special", the West Texas Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation will seek to make people aware of the widespread crippling disease and the help and hope that is made available through research and patient services. Interviews will be held with local doctors trained in the fields of Rheumatology and Orthopedic surgery. Experts in the fields of physical and occupational therapy will also be interviewed as well as arthritis patients. Viewers in the KAMC-TV area will have the opportunity to make donations to the Chapter during the broadcast.

"Nearly 64,000 residents of the South Plains are afflicted with some form of arthritis", said Mayor McAlister, "one out of every seven people. More than 10,000 are disabled." McAlister added that $1.25 million is spent by area residents on arthritis quackery and the economic impact of arthritis on the South Plains exceeds $27 million.

Founded in 1948, the Arthritis Foundation is the only national, voluntary health association seeking the total answer — cause, prevention, cure — to the number one crippling disease. It exists to help the millions of Americans with arthritis and to help their doctors ... through programs of research, patient services, public health information and education, professional education and training.

Jew for Jesus to speak to Baptists

This Sunday morning at 11 a.m. at the First Baptist Church, guest speaker Jh'an Moskowitz will present a special program of "Christ in the Passover." Mr. Moskowitz is a member of a California-based organization that believes it is possible to be 100 percent Jewish and 100 percent Christian.

The Jews for Jesus message is that Jewishness and Christ go hand-in-hand. Mr. Moskowitz, the son of refugees from Nazi Germany, says, "I learned at an early age what it means to be a Jew. Many in my family lost their lives during the Holocaust, and for me, that meant committing myself to the survival of my people. Some would tell me that because of this persecution, I shouldn't believe in Jesus. But I've found that it is because of Jesus that I am able to forgive others and share the kind of love God showed me through the Messiah." Christ in the Passover is a sermonic presentation demonstrated from a table on the platform. The table is set with the traditional passover items and foods. Each item brings special spiritual symbolism to light as the ancient feast is portrayed and explained. The ceremony and the pageantry of passover points to the prevailing theme of Christ, "The Lamb of God which taketh away the sin of the world." The public is cordially invited.

Post's tax rebate in drastic drop

Post's one percent sales tax payment for April dropped a startling 42 percent from that of the same month in 1979. What's more the significant decrease was reported by State Comptroller Bob Bullock all across Texas.

Post's April tax rebate totaled $4,805.42 as compared to $8,223.88 for April, 1979. This would have been sales tax basically on March business in this community.

Statewide, cities tax rebates for April totaled $24.1 million, a drop of $10 million from a year ago.

"The next couple of months bear special attention and may give us a clear x-ray about what's happening and what to expect from the Texas economy," Bullock said.

The sales tax drop followed predictions of a national recession which Texas leaders confidently said would not be as bad in the Lone Star state.

Despite the big April drop, Post's sales tax take for 1980 to date is running eight percent ahead of the first four reported months in 1979.

Sales tax rebates here this year total $35,501.72 as compared to $43,650.80 for the same period in 1979.

The same trend was running all over Texas, rebates down drastically in April but up for the year to date by a substantial margin.

Channel 5 to air GOP debate

LUBBOCK, TX. — Public television's comprehensive "Election '80" coverage travels to Houston next week on April 23 for a debate between the narrowing field of candidates vying for the Republican presidential nomination.

On Wednesday April 23 at 10:00 p.m., KTX-TV 5 will offer coverage of a League of Women Voters-sponsored debate from the West Wing of Houston's Civic Center. The program will be moderated by journalist Howard K. Smith and is scheduled to include the three remaining GOP candidates: John Anderson, George Bush and Ronald Reagan.

"This is one of several debates between the candidates that KTX-TV 5 has covered," noted Ken Jarvis, Program Manager at KTX-TV (PBS). "As the field narrows down, we hope to give voters a chance to take a closer look at the remaining candidates."

MY QUALIFICATIONS

With the May 3 primary little more than two weeks away, I want to emphasize my qualifications to be your next county commissioner in Precinct 3.

I have been in private business and closely associated with the public all my life. I know the meaning of work and how to get along with men. I have a little property and it is to my advantage to watch out for the tax dollar. I also am interested in county problems, not just those of Precinct 3, and I will work with the rest of the court to solve them.

I do not pretend to have ready answers for all our problems, but I promise I will work hard for you to find the answers.

Your Support in the May 3 Primary Appreciated nine recently and put them in a tied gunnysack in his "snake house" to keep until delivery. This time he left the snake house unlocked because the snakes were safely tied in the sack. He didn't figure somebody would steal his snakes. But that's what happened.

The snakes were taken a couple of weeks ago. Lubbock officers had them "put to sleep" when the sack full fell into their hands, so peace officers won't get to target in on them this year.

The Burlington monthly newspaper, The Burlington Look, in the coming months will publish a series of articles on Post's Postex Plant and its employees, according to Plant Manager Don Smith. One of the articles will be a history of the Postex Plant here dating back to its construction by C. W. Post. Another will concern the interest in flying among Postex employees. The plant payroll now numbers at least five qualified flyers.

Another "good news" Postex item is that a $68,000 Uster Tester II is being installed at the plant this week. It's the most modern quality control kind of equipment available and will replace several pieces of equipment now in use at the plant in quality control.

Library in high interest loans

In an effort to stem the rise of prices and the spiral of inflation, Post Public Library will be offering high interest loans to its patrons during National Library Week, April 13-19, and throughout the year.

With inflation at an annual rate of 15 percent, Pee Wee Pierce, director of Post Public Library, urges patrons to ignore the economists and borrow, borrow, borrow...from the library and take advantage of its outstanding values. The library has the latest best sellers and the oldest classics. Why spend $8.95 on a new book, when their quality is uncertain? Check out the materials at the library and find out for free.

The Ready's had been living in Post until recently. Sheriff Pippin also disclosed that not only was the sack full of snakes stolen from Ed Witt here but that a 45 caliber pistol was missing from the Witt home.

If patrons can't afford the latest television recording equipment, they can come to the library to borrow film and projector, without commercial interruption.

The library also houses an extensive collection of how-to books for the novice plumber, electrician, or carpenter and others who are doing tasks themselves for which they used to pay. For example, to hook-up a built-in dishwasher may require a half an hour of reading and a half an hour for installation. A visit from a serviceman would cost considerably more.

And money isn't the only thing patrons can save by using the library. The library's information and referral staff is trained to find the answers to questions fast, saving patrons time and frustration. Last week someone called to find out who is President of Holiday Inns and the answer was just a phone call away!

These are just a few reasons why the library is America's greatest bargain. National Library Week is the perfect time to come to the library and discover to rest yourself.

and an artist is a challenge. Mrs. Upson is a contemporary painter, drawer and watercolorist who also lives in Albuquerque.

She attended Purdue University in Indiana and was a draftsman and illustrator at Glenn Martin Aircraft during World War II. She is married to Silas A. Upson, retired from the Department of Energy and is the mother of two grown children.

She studied at John Hopkins University and the University of New Mexico and studied with Rex Brandt, Millard Sheets, Ou Mie Shu, Chen Chi, and Charles Reid.

Mrs. Upson has won many honors for her work, including prizes at the Festivals of the Arts in Santa Fe in 1979, an invitational show in Albuquerque in 1978, and her works are exhibited in one man shows, regional art shows, and traveling art shows as well as the Johnson Gallery at the University of New Mexico.

Ann is sales director of the New Mexico Art League, co-chairman of the New Mexico Arts & Crafts Fairs, study group chairman of the American Association of University Women in Albuquerque, and gives demonstrations and lectures to many school groups.

The spring art show is expanding too in another way here this year. In past years it has been open only on Saturdays and Sunday afternoon to the public. This year the art exhibit will be in place for public viewing all day Friday as well. The exhibit is open to the public without charge.

Glassblower here—

going. He became an apprentice in a glass factory in Green Forrest, Ark. and learned the art of glass blowing before going out on his own. His wife Pat also learned in the factory, and they in turn taught their son Jim.

The glass used in making all the objects is about the same as our pyrex and is heated over a burner at 1700 to 2500 degrees to be able to work the glass and make the characters and objects.

The couple specializes in holiday trade, meaning they make objects to suit the holiday in season, such as Christmas and Mothers' Day, which is coming up very soon. They have items they make especially for each one.

Most of their sales are done traveling all over the U.S., setting up in towns, shopping centers, at art festivals and arts and craft shows all over. They are well known in Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Tennessee and North Carolina and have several towns they are invited to each year.

Both Heibners stated they can make their sale items in advance to sell, but the selling point is to make the item while the customer is watching. Items are sometimes made that they do not carry or have not made before, and their existing talents and know how are tried often in making an unusual item for a customer.

Both can paint the glass, but the clear pieces are by far the most attractive.

They also specialize in items popular in the part of country they happen to be in, such as the Texas Longhorn, the Arkansas Razorback, and many others such as windmills, and 3 mast ships.

They have made Christmas trees and almost any item you can name. On display now they have oil derricks, cowboys on horses with ropes twirling around their heads, all sorts of animals, wishing wells, and even a caged dove hanging on its own free standing holder.

Both stated that a lot of learning is just trial and error and of course just the talent to form the animals as realistically as possible.

When asked just how long they are home over a year's time, they said its only a little over three months. The rest of the time they are on the road and both say they really enjoy meeting people in different parts of the country.

Take some time to go by the shop here on Eighth Street and see how the pieces are made. You may never get to see one in Post again, because, Mr. Heibner plans to return home as soon as his father is better.

Applicants for enumerator positions are required to fill out an application and take a test to determine if they can read and write.

"We'll have a recruiter and tester at the Friday afternoon hiring session," The Dispatch was told.

All told 426 enumerators have already been hired and began their work yesterday over the 30-county Lubbock census district in a followup of the mailback of census forms.

About 310,000 census forms were mailed out over the district and not quite 200,000 have been mailed back. The other 110,000 addresses to which the forms were sent will have to be contacted personally by enumerators.

People can still return their forms by mail late without any penalty, according to the Lubbock district census office.

Ms. Jordan first contacted County Judge Giles Dalby this week in an attempt to round up a Garza staff of enumerators. He suggested this Dispatch appeal for workers.

How many Garza census forms have been returned and how many not returned have not been announced.

Originally the district census office had a snafu in getting forms to all local addresses, and said they would depend upon personal enumeration to correct this.

Another reason besides price...
Bute Paint is manufactured in Houston by the James Bute Paint Company. The Bute Company is family owned and operated and was founded in 1867. Through innovations in science and technology, our knowledge has grown over the years—but not so large that we have, or will forget you—our customer. Please remember you are buying a quality product from an experienced company who cares about you, the homeowner.

Thank you.
