

Hospital sets up scholarships for nursing training

Garza Memorial Hospital trustees last Thursday morning voted to establish a scholarship fund to help finance registered nurses schooling. The recipients would commit themselves to working in the hospital here for five years following their graduation.

The scholarships will be open to any Garza countians but the first will go to three LVNs currently employed at the hospital who want to return to school to be come registered nurses.

Garza Memorial Hospital is caught in a Texas-wide shortage of RNs and currently is operating well below the required number of RNs because of their inavailability.

Jack Alexander, president of the hospital board, said the hospital will accept contributions from local individuals and firms to help provide the scholarships.

The scholarships will be for a maximum of $2,000 a year which would pay required books, tuition and travel for training in either Snyder or Lubbock.

Recipients would sign a promissory note for the amount of the scholarship (maximum $6,000 for three years) but one-sixth of the loan would be retired for each month worked at the hospital here after graduation.

One of the three LVNs to benefit is starting to school this month and the other two will start in January.

As long as the persons accepting such RN training work for five years at the hospital, their complete scholarship obligation will be retired without any pay back of the money.

Some Lubbock hospitals and area hospitals already are using such a scholarship training program in efforts to solve their own RN shortages.

The board was told at their September breakfast meeting at the hospital that there are now 9,000 unfilled RN positions in Texas.

In other actions, the board:

Adopted a budget for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1, 1980, of $868,000 with an estimated $421,700 being received in hospital district taxes and $446,300 in payments by hospital patients over that 12 months period.

Approved an annual renewal of Dr. Rodriguez's contract with the hospital. Last year the hospital had to pay only a very small portion of the physician's guarantee as well as provide offices for him. The board expressed itself as (See Scholarship, Page 10)

A. C. Cash has accepted the job as Garza County chairman of the Ronald Reagan campaign. A. C. is taking his new job seriously too and will attend training and strategy sessions to learn what he needs to do as he's never gotten into politics before.

Cash told us the other night that Carter's "giving away the Panama Canal" and coming up with the windfall profits tax were just too much for him.

Cash hopes to flood the county with Reagan bumper stickers, buttons, and placards to let local Democrats know they have a lot of support around here in not liking Carter.

One person A. C. needs right now is a telephone chairman. As soon as he accepted the chairmanship, he was asked if he had a telephone chairman. "no," said A.C., "but I guess I can appoint my wife Jo to the job." Jo had a quick answer to that, "No you won't either," she declared — and he didn't.

Post's volunteer firemen got their new "beepers" Monday night at fire drill. No longer will they have to "call in" on the telephone to learn the whereabouts of the fire after the fire siren goes off. The "beeper" beeps and then starts repeating the fire's location until the fireman shuts it off. The city and county (See Postings, Page 10)

Phillips fund decision made

The Post Chamber of Commerce directors have finally decided what to do with the $2,500 speaking fee check Houston Coach Bum Phillips returned to them following last winter's Chamber banquet.

It will be called the Bum Phillips Fund and is to be used as "a floating fund." The $2,500 will be earmarked to be given at the high school commencement in May for a contribution to a scholarship to a deserving Post High School graduate unless "a greater need should arise before May."

Should a greater need be determined, the money will be contributed to it.

The decision came at the directors' September meeting Monday night in the bank lobby.

"The Chamber welcomes any other contributions to this fund," Danny Shaw, Chamber president, told The Dispatch.

The Garza County Commissioners Court voted to spend $187,361 last week at their first September session for new road graders for precincts 1, 3 and 4.

The purchases were as follows:

WORLD CHAMPION COMING — Guy Allen of Santa Anna, Tex., who recently captured the 1980 world steer roping title by sweeping aside all opposition in the National Steer Roping Finals, will head the OS Ranch Steer Roping field here Oct. 5. Above, Allen is shown chasing down a steer.

Guy Allen sets new prize total—

New world champ in steer roping here

The top three 1980 steer ropers in the nation, including newly crowned 1980 world champion Guy Allen of Santa Anna, will be among the 38 ropers who will compete in the tenth annual OS Ranch Steer Roping here Sunday afternoon, Oct. 5.

Allen clinched the world title recently by winning the National Steer Roping finals in Laramie, Wyo. He went into the national finals leading the steer roping field and added the first place check of $8,900 there to carry him to his second Pro Rodeo Cowboys association (PRCA) title within four years.

With total earnings of more than $20,500, Allen also set a new season earnings record for the event (the old mark of $18,338 had been held by 1979 champ Gary Good who also is an OS roper.)

Guy's brother and mother were on hand to witness the event, but there was one member of the family absent.

Guy's father, James, also had qualified for the steer roping finals, but was kicked by a horse just minutes prior to leaving for Laramie, resulting in a broken hip. Even without competing, James, who also was slated for the OS roping here, finished 10th for the world title.

Finishing runner-up to Allen was Arnold Felts of Woodward, Okla., who won the OS steer roping crown here in 1979 and thus is the (See Champ roper, Page 10)

Air conditioning of schools under study

Post school trustees at their September meeting last Thursday night showed considerable interest in the air conditioning of the entire school plant and asked its architects Whitaker and Hall of Lubbock, to make a thorough feasibility study of such an air conditioning project.

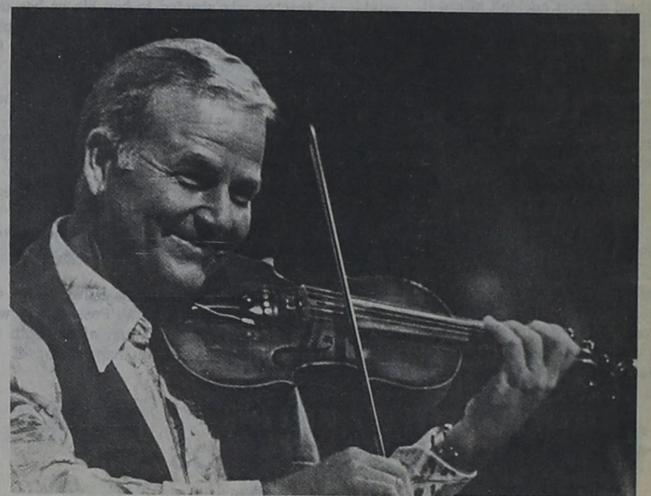

Dewayne McQueen of the architectural firm told trustees it will cost an estimated $363,300 to put refrigerated air in the four school buildings via rooftop units.

He was asked to figure the cost of refrigerated air via classroom window units and to also estimate the operational costs of refrigerated air conditioning in spring and fall.

McQueen told trustees that refrigerated air conditioning via rooftop units could be put in the primary building for $86,275, the elementary building for $67,075, the Middle school for $120,000 and the high school for $90,000.

The construction engineer also told the board that evaporative cooling could be installed in the primary building for $29,950 and in the elementary building for $24,550.

It was pointed out that the life of the refrigerated air conditioning units would be much longer than the evaporative though the evaporative units cost less. McQueen also said the evaporative units could possibly damage the school buildings though cost of See School trustees, Page 10

REAL CROWD PLEASER — Johnny Gimble, "fiddler of the year" for the last two years, will headline the first OS Ranch fiddlers contest. He won't compete — only demonstrate his great crowd pleasing ability — as the "OS weekend" adds a fiddlers contest to its program.

To highlight new $600 contest—

Top U. S. fiddler to perform at OS

The best fiddler in the nation will be on hand here Saturday morning, Oct. 5, when a fiddlers contest with $600 in prize money is added to the "OS weekend."

He is Johnny Gimble of Austin, who was voted "instrumentalist of the year" in 1975 by the Country Music Association, the first fiddler ever to win this award. He has again been nominated for the award again this year. The winner will be announced in Nashville Oct. 13.

Gimble, a native Texan, also was named "fiddler of the year" both for 1978 and 1979 by the Academy of Country Music.

Gimble won't compete in the old fiddlers contest here but will give a demonstration of his musical skills following the competition which is scheduled for the OS ranch house on Saturday morning of the "OS weekend."

Johnny is also a favorite of the fans. Readers of the Music City News voted him "musician of the year" in their 1977 poll.

At the NARAS Super Picker Awards in Nashville for the past several years Johnny Gimble was voted favorite fiddler by his fellow musicians and singers after (See Top fiddler, Page 10)

Damage suit filed here

Jackie and Anne Odom, parents of Jimmy Ray Odom who was killed Jan. 27, 1980, in a car-truck crash on US-84 northwest of Post, have filed a damage suit against Big Mac Trucking Co. of Houston, owner of the truck involved in the accident.

The suit alleges negligence on the part of the defendants and asks for full amount of damages, court costs, and interest at legal rate without naming an amount under the state's wrongful death and survival statutes.

More funds now for winterization

Prospects are good for as much federal funding for "winterization" of Garza homes for the elderly and poor as a local crew can handle.

That's what the Garza County Community Action advisory board was told Tuesday night by Luis Perez of Levelland representing the South Plains Community Action Association.

He said weatherization is a different type of program — "the more we do the more we get."

Eight homes were "winterized" here last year by a manpower crew directed by Donald Windham with federal funds paying $2,524 for the materials used. (See Winterize, Page 10)

A cool solution

The school board's architects are now making a feasibility study of air-conditioning the Post school system. A rough guess on the cost of air conditioning as given to the board last Thursday night was a little over $361,000.

The Dispatch endorses the air conditioning project as the next logical step in the board's program to bring the school system's physical plant up to the minute.

Classroom air conditioning is essential to the learning process, we're convinced, in both spring and early fall. It puts the teachers in a much better frame of mind to teach, and students in a much better frame of mind to learn.

Let's look at the schools' air conditioning problem here.

The last feasibility study on air conditioning Post schools was made 10 years ago in 1970. The board at that time with a $40 million dollar tax roll concluded the school district couldn't afford it.

Things are vastly different today. The school district in 1980 has an estimated tax roll of $239 million, five times bigger. The costs may be double what it would have been a decade ago but with the tax roll increasing almost 500 percent, it is obviously affordable.

Other aspects have changed too.

With the expansion and remodeling of the Post Middle School, a new duct system has been installed for heating which could be equally used for cooling at no additional cost. This cuts down the cost of air conditioning the middle school greatly over a decade ago because the air conditioning duct system which didn't exist 10 years ago is now in place.

Worthy scholarships

Hospital directors are taking a new long range approach to solve the local hospital's registered nurse shortage.

They are establishing scholarships of up to $2,000 a person to pay for books, tuition and travel for persons to take nurses' training in Snyder and Lubbock.

The student signs a note for the amount received but if she completes her studies and returns to work in Garza Memorial Hospital for five years she is given the note and is not required to make any payments. In fact for each month she works at the hospital one-sixtieth of the amount of the note would be subtracted.

Other hospitals have adopted this method of trying to get home-rooted folks on the hospital staff as RNs.

In both the elementary and primary schools, heating-cooling units for classrooms would enable the two schools to shut down its boiler-steam heating system. A boiler going out would be really expensive in these inflationary days.

The high school building is likewise already ducted for air conditioning. In fact, it already has central air in its administrative offices, learning center and library.

School trustees don't have an air conditioning policy although the 1970 feasibility study firmly decided trustees at that time against air conditioning. A new heating-air conditioning unit installed this summer in the school lunchroom was hooked up without authorization for cooling and brought an instantaneous welcome response when the fall term started from the teachers, students, and cafeteria staff.

Strangely enough, while school trustees have had no air conditioning policy any teacher who wanted to buy his or her own room air conditioner was permitted to plug it in with the school system paying the utility bill for the electricity involved.

While this was not official policy, it was a strange way to approach the problem. In most instances the room units were evaporative coolers, but not always.

We are happy to report there appears growing board sentiment in favor of air conditioning the school system, although no formal vote has been taken.

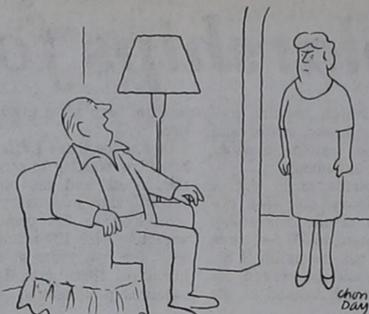

There is no question either — in our mind at least — that the Post schools with their current tax roll can afford both the installation and maintenance cost of air conditioning.

The Dispatch is convinced this is an excellent idea and that over the long run hospital directors can expect their scholarship fund to steadily build up as citizens realize that the solution really works.

In the meantime, the hospital will start it off by funding its own scholarships to three LVNs who work here who want to go on to become registered nurses.

There is a tremendous RN shortage throughout Texas.

The success of most businesses in small towns in keeping help is to start with local folks who have roots in the community and train them. In this respect, the hospital is just like any other business.

Carnes-Josey nuptials are said in Andrews church

The Downtown Church of Christ of Andrews was the setting for the August 29 wedding of Miss Cynthia Jane Carnes and Rodney Lynn Josey. Dyrel Collins, former minister of the Andrews Church of Christ, officiated the double ring candlelight ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe C. Carnes of Andrews and the groom is the son of Mrs. B. J. Dorner of Victoria and Mr. Royce Josey of Post.

The altar area of the sanctuary was decorated with two 20-taper brass half-circle candelabras. Centered between the two candelabras, was a garden arch of English ivy, lilac colored flowers and satin bows. A Unity candle waited for lighting by the couple after they repeated their vows under the garden arch. Greenery and satin bows marked the pews. Kathleen Floyd of Ackerly registered the guests.

Escorted to the altar and presented in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her wedding an Edwardian gown fashioned of white silk organza over peau de soie and embellished with white silk Venise lace. The fitted empire bodice was lavishly overlaid with the lace and featured a portrait neckline from the neckline to the waist. The back closure was accented with tiny covered buttons. The long fitted sleeves were of Venise lace and point desprit and repeated the tiny covered buttons at the wrist closures. The graceful A-line skirt was highlighted with the Venise lace by tracing the waist line and forming a deep V on the front from the waist to the hemline of the skirt. The skirt then swept into a chapel length train.

Her face was framed into a fingertip veil of illusion, edged in matching white silk Venise lace, gathered and falling gracefully from a Juliet Cap. She carried a dainty bridal cascade of lilac gamellias, baby's breath and greenery interspersed with orchid miniature pom-poms and daisies.

Ponnye Chastain of Andrews and Linda McMullen of Forney attended as matrons of honor. Lori King of Lubbock attended as maid of honor with Clare Carnes, niece of the bride, as flower girl.

They were attired identically in Tiffany lilac Quiana dresses which featured a blouson bodice, spaghetti straps, and gathered at the waist with a tiny rolled fabric sash. The bias gathered skirts were worn formal length. They each carried cascade bouquets of orchid miniature pom-poms and daisies.

The flower girl was attired in a dainty sheer veil lilac print over French lilac silk, which featured a fitted bodice and gathered three-tiered skirt highlighted with a lilac satin sash tying in the back into a full bow. Her miniature version of the bride's bouquet was carried in a very small white basket. Master Jared Elzner of Forney, nephew of the bride, served as train bearer.

Royce Josey of Post, father of the groom, served as best man. Groomsman were Kohen Josey of Lubbock, cousin of the groom, and Terrel Havens of Mission, Texas.

Seating guests were J. R. Carnes of Lubbock, brother of the bride, Vince Gribble of Post, cousin of the groom, Tommy Turner of Andrews and Mitchell Sawyer of Andrews.

MRS. RODNEY JOSEY (Cynthia Jane Carnes)

Clay Carnes of Lubbock, nephew of the bride, served as ring bearer. All of the groomsmen, ring bearer and train bearer, and ushers wore light grey tuxedos.

The mother of the bride wore a formal length dress of French lilac chiffon and Quiana, and mother of the groom wore a formal length dress of yellow chiffon and Quiana.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony. The bride's table was covered in a white lace cloth and highlighted with a delicate white basketful of flowers in the bride's choice colors of shades of lilac.

The wedding cake was three-tiered with columns decorated in shades of lilac flowers and topped with a bride and groom. Raspberry punch, nuts and mints were also served. Sharla Turner

This may be year to desiccate dryland cotton

LUBBOCK — Premature opening of dryland cotton on the South Plains, brought about by the prolonged summer drouth, could cause significant losses of seed cotton, an Extension cotton agronomist warns. As a result, it may pay growers this year to make prompt and proper use of harvest-aid chemicals on the crop, he said.

"Most of the area's dryland cotton is opening rapidly because of the hot, dry weather," said Dr. James R. Supak, area agronomist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "Most of this is premature.

"When this happens, cottons tend to lose a lot of their inherent storm proof characteristics. There is a danger that a lot of this cotton will fall out on the ground."

Because it still is far from the normal frost date for this area, which usually occurs between late October and early November, this year it appears it would pay producers to use harvest-aid chemicals, the cotton specialist said.

There are two types of harvest-aid chemicals: defoliant and desiccants. True defoliant are relatively mild materials that act slowly and cause leaves to drop off. In contrast, desiccants kill the entire plant rapidly.

Neither type helps the cotton to mature. Just the opposite, they stop the plant growth, and with that the fiber development stops, Supak noted. The chemicals are only an aid in harvesting naturally matured cotton, he said.

"I'm sure that for much of the dryland crop, with low yield potential, many growers will seriously consider harvesting without desiccating," Supak said. This has been successfully done in the past when the bolls have matured under more normal climatic conditions, he said.

But with the drouth conditions this year causing premature opening of bolls, excessive green plant content in the harvested cotton can reduce the ginning efficiency; stain the lint, thereby reducing the grade, and result in heating which could further reduce seed quality, he cautioned.

"The best advice we can give growers is to check with their ginners to see if they'd be willing to gin cotton that hasn't been desiccated," Supak said. Defoliant probably won't be of much value under current dryland conditions, he added.

Desiccants cleared for use in this area are arsenic acid, Paraquat and sodium chlorate.

They should be applied when 80 to 85 percent of the bolls are open.

"In many cases, the decision won't be cut and dried as to when to desiccate," Supak said. "Low spots in a field will appear greener and have a lower percentage of bolls open than does the majority of the field.

"In some cases it may pay to desiccate the portion of a field that's ready, and leave the remainder for later," he said.

The agronomist suggested that initially, producers stay with the recommended rates for the desiccant they are using. But he also recommended that the growers do a little testing to find the chemicals and rates most effective for their particular fields.

Rains such as occurred last week will stimulate regrowth, especially in heavily drouth-stressed cotton, he cautioned.

New dog disease arrives in Post

Veterinarian Larry Mills told The Dispatch this week that canine parvovirus infection, the new dog disease has arrived in Post.

So far, Dr. Mills has seen a half dozen cases here and wants pet owners to understand the situation.

Vaccination of pets is the only safe preventative, he notes.

The infection is a relative "new disease" in dogs, Dr. Mills said, and is caused by a virus which is highly contagious, spreading primarily through the fecal route.

The disease is not contagious for children, however, Dr. Mills notes.

First symptoms generally are seen in vomiting. Other symptoms are diarrhea, loss of appetite, depression, and a high temperature for the dog. The diarrhea may contain blood as well as the vomit.

Onset of the disease may be sudden with no prior warning of illness, Dr. Mills warns. Some dog owners have found their pets dead in a pool of blood in the morning, after being apparently normal the night before.

Prompt treatment is essential if results are to be expected, according to the veterinarian.

Treatment can be expensive in more serious cases and the best way to avoid this is through vaccination.

There have been epidemics of this disease scattered throughout the country and it has taken its toll of pets, Mills declared.

Lopes 'enjoy' second straight 7-6 game

Defense twice holds inside 10

The Post Antelopes and their supporters found out here Friday night there is a vast difference in 7-6 football games.

This time — against Colorado City's Wolves — they were on the upside. In their 1980 opener they had been on the dismal downside against Lockney.

Most of the credit for the victory goes to the defense which hung tough in the second half and twice held for downs when backed up against its goal line.

The Lopes got their touchdown on the first play of the second quarter when Quarterback Drew Kirkpatrick sneaked for the final yard of a 66-yard drive on its seventh play.

Gary Lamb added the winning point from placement — and it was up to the defense after that.

The Wolves couldn't get rolling in the first half as four turnovers on a pair of fumbles and two pass interceptions terminated most of their offensive efforts.

It was a different story, however, in the second half.

Colorado City's attack unit, led by the running of Jay Green and the passing of Quarterback Mark Carter, put together three long marches.

Lope defenders stopped two of them by taking the ball away on their nine-yard line, but failed to halt the third as the Wolves zipped 57 yards to paydirt in 11 plays. The "big play" came with fourth and seven on the Post 42.

Disdaining to kick, the Wolves went to the air and Carter found flanker Yancy Spivey behind his Lope defender for a 26-yard gain to a first on the Post 16.

Colorado City hammered it across from there with Quarterback Carter diving across from the one on third down.

On the crucial conversion play, Colorado City chose to go for two points and a win with just 4:46 left on the clock. Carter's pass was right on target to an end zone receiver, but bounced off his chest incomplete.

Carter, who is a strong-armed baseball pitcher, proved he could throw a football too, but the Wolves had a lot of trouble catching it. At least five more right-on-target throws were dropped by Colorado City during the game.

In the second half, the Wolves drove 60 yards after the kickoff to the Post nine. The next time they got the ball they hammered 55 yards down to the Post nine again before the Lopes dug in and took it away.

The Lopes' scoring drive late in the first period was their only offensive threat of the game.

The visitors had all the best of the game's statistics if they didn't own the scoreboard.

They out-firsted downed the Lopes 17 to 11, out-rushed them 181 to 145 yards, out-passed them 91 yards to 19, and even out-kicked them.

The only statistical stand-off was in penalty yards — 40 for each team.

Fullback Barry Wyatt was the top gainer for Post, getting 84 yards on 14 carries for a six-yard average. Tailback Alonzo Luna had 31 in 13 tries.

Kirkpatrick had a miserable night passing because he simply didn't have time to throw.

His only completion was a 19-yarder to Luna in the left flat during the first period scoring drive. In fact he only got two throws away.

In the first half, he was "sacked" seven times for 25 yards in losses while looking for his receivers.

The Lopes' most obvious defensive problem came in their inability to get to Quarterback Carter when he fell back to pass. He had lots of time to throw long.

Sunday in Caprock partnership golf tourney—

Jerry Jolly, Jackie Hays win in sudden death

Jerry Jolly and Jackie Hays won the annual Caprock partnership golf tournament here Sunday by edging out Tony Rodriguez and Dwayne (Bobo) Odom in sudden death on the third extra hole.

They had tied for the lead at 142 strokes in the low ball play over 36 holes.

The best shot of the tournament though was hit by Roy Gilmore who scored a hole in one on the tough 185-yard No. 3 hole with a No. 4 iron.

8th graders win opener, 20-14

Tailbacks Greg Massey and Mike Ollison each had "100-yard games" here last Thursday night as the Post eighth graders opened their season with a 20-14 victory over Colorado City.

Massey had 115 yards on 16 carries and scored one touchdown and two conversion points. Ollison rang up 103 yards in 19 carries and scored two tds.

The Post club dominated the Wolf Pups in the first and third periods.

Lopes out to upset Winds

The Post Antelopes who have had more success upsetting the Floydada Whirlwinds than any other favored team on their fall slate in recent years will try to do it again in Antelope Stadium here Friday night.

The "great big" visitors, as Coach David Thompson calls them, are a 10 point favorite by the Harris rating system. Although sporting a 2-0 record, the Winds have almost as much trouble making touchdowns as have the Lopes. Floydada has scored only three six-pointers in those two games to a pair for the Lopes.

They edged Frenship's Tigers 7 to 3 last weekend in a tight defensive struggle.

Coach Thompson reports he is working his squad hard this week on what last weekend was virtually a non-existent aerial game.

"I called 14 pass plays against Colorado City", Coach Thompson told The Dispatch. "We got the ball in the air only twice and completed but one."

He said lack of protection for Quarterback Drew Kirkpatrick was part of the trouble, but not all of it. On some plays he had a little time and some of the receivers were open, the coach points out.

Obviously, Thompson figures Post must throw to move the ball against a Floydada front line which averages 205 pounds to the man with one tackle scaling 260 pounds.

"I was well pleased with the defense," Coach Thompson told The Dispatch. "I thought they played a good game. Our problem is to get the offense moving."

Coach Thompson singled out sophomore middle linebacker Toby Craft for an outstanding individual performance. Craft was in on 32 tackles against Colorado City, 6 individual tackles, 14 first contact tackles, and 12 assists.

Coach Thompson reports no injuries, no position changes on either unit for Floydada, and high squad morale.

He reports the Winds are primarily a running team out of the wishbone formation.

Quarterback Todd Beedy, a 165-pound junior, is rated by Thompson as "a good option quarterback" with Fullback Norman Allen, 185-pound junior, a "strong inside runner."

Floydada uses a split 67 defense. Kickoff time again is 8 p.m.

JVs roll to 26-6 win at Colo. City

The Post Junior Varsity rolled to their second straight easy victory at Colorado City last Thursday night, but figured to meet its first real test against the Floydada JVs at Floydada tonight.

The locals piled up a four-touchdown lead before Colorado City got on the scoreboard in the final 50 seconds for a 26-6 Post victory.

The JVs got their first two touchdowns in the opening period. Quarterback Tim Tannehill, who passed for three touchdowns and two conversion points during the game, hit Quick End James Lee for 14 yards and six points on a bootleg pass to cap a 48 yard drive.

Then Post grabbed a short punt and moved 38 yards to score with Tannehill again passing to Lee for the td from nine yards out. Neither conversion effort was successful.

In the second quarter Tannehill hit Wingback Melvin Wynne for 10 yards and the third touchdown to make the score 18-0 at the intermission.

Post drove 62 yards in the third period for their final score with Tailback Dana Scott scoring from the one on a dive. Tannehill then passed to Wynne for the two conversion points.

The JVs piled up 15 first downs with 112 yards rushing and 90 more passing with Tannehill connecting on six of 11 throws. Colorado City was held to 123 yards total offense.

Scott led the Post running brigade with 59 yards in 18 carries. Marvin Wynne had 22 yards in six, Tannehill 12 in two, Melvin Wynne 16 in four, Roy Gonzales one in one, and Mark Odom two in one.

Melvin Wynne caught three passes for 36 yards, Lee two for 25, and Bill Black one for 31.

Boosters meet Monday nights

The Antelope Booster club meets every Monday night at 7 p.m. in the Student Hall in the Post Middle School Library. Films of the previous Friday night football game are shown and comments are made by Coach Thompson.

A drawing for a door prize is held every meeting and anyone interested in becoming a member of the club, or just visiting the meeting, are encouraged to attend each Monday night.

Two films are shown each night, one on defense and one on offense.

12-12 at Colorado City— Williams scores twice, frosh tie

Tailback Milton Williams darted 13 yards with a quick pitch with only 1:13 left on the clock at Colorado City last Thursday night for his second touchdown to give the Post freshmen a 12-12 tie with the Colorado City frosh.

A fullback dive by L.D. Harper on the all important conversion points failed and the game ended in a standoff.

Colorado City scored first recovering a Post fumble on the locals' 15 yard line and punching it across.

Post came right back to knot the game at 6-6 when Williams broke 63 yards off tackle for the other Post touchdown.

Colorado City got its second score in the second period to take a 12-6 halftime lead.

Post rang up 212 yards rushing for the game and no yards passing while Colorado City was held to 71 yards total offense, 57 on the run and 14 on a pass.

The freshman journey to Floydada tonight to play the Floydada frosh in their third start, still undefeated thanks to Williams' last minute heroics in the first two games.

7th graders lose opener here 14-0

The Post seventh grade football team in their first game in Antelope Stadium here last Thursday night bowed 14 to 0 to Colorado City with the usual number of opening game mistakes hurting the local effort.

The visitors scored their first touchdown in the second period when the Post punter kicked into the back of a Post blocker and Colorado City recovered on the Post 45. Colorado City then drove it across.

Post had its big chance in the fourth when it drove 60 yards to the Colorado City two-yard-line before penalties and fumbles shut down the surge.

Colorado City then got its clinching touchdown on a long td run and added the two-point conversion.

Fullback Rodney Tidwell had 79 yards rushing for the Post team and Quarterbacks Greg Storie and Danny Foster looked good for the locals.

Grid suppers resumed here

Parents of the Antelope Varsity and junior varsity football teams and cheerleaders hosted a supper following the Colorado City-Post game, honoring the football teams and coaches.

The supper was well attended with 165 present. The recently renovated lunchroom added to the success of the supper.

All coaches, players, cheerleaders and their families are invited to every home game supper.

Mothers are asked to bring a covered dish to each supper. The host couples bring food and also organize and serve, and clean up on their designated evening.

Post football suppers have been a tradition for many years and are especially enjoyable after an Antelope victory.

Champ roper—

Coming in third for the world title was another OS roper, Jimmy Brazile of Gruver, Tex., with a total of $11,500 in winnings.

Another cowboy who made off with a big payoff at Laramie was Oklahoman Roy Cooper, who won $5,900 and moved all the way up from 15th to fourth position in the world standings. Cooper is the leading calf roper on the PRCA national circuit, and he proved that he's tough in steer roping as well.

Cooper will compete at the OS in calf roping only on Saturday.

The winner of the NFSR average — with a total time of 200.4 seconds in 10 steers — was Terry McGinley of Keystone, Neb., who also will be in the OS field here.

Other steer ropers coming to the OS roping besides those mentioned who rank in the top 17 for 1980 in prize winnings are Sonny Davis of Kenna, N.M., sixth with $11,224; Bud Upton of San Angelo, seventh, with $7,807; Walt Arnold of Silvertown, ninth with $7,631; Olin Young of Peralta, N.M., eleventh with $7,148; and Marvin Cantrell of Goliad, Tex., seventeenth with $5,081.

Maintainers—

In other actions at last week's meeting, the court:

Voted unanimously to give early payment tax discounts as follows: 3 percent in October, 2 percent in November, and 1 percent in December.

Appointed Suzanne Hudman, Mona Boles and Kay Hays to fill vacancies on the child welfare board.

Discussed the need for re-wiring the courthouse and having some boiler lines repaired but took no action.

McQueen was asked to come up with his report for a called meeting of the school trustees which will be set as soon as the school district's tax rolls are received from Pritchard and Abbott. The meeting will be called to hold a tax rate hearing whenever the rolls are received.

Tax notices due in taxpayers hands Sept. 1 cannot be mailed until the tax rolls prepared by Pritchard and Abbott tax evaluation firm on its computer are received.

School trustees also asked Mike Atchenson of the landscape architectural firm of Atchenson, Cartwright and Associates, to take bids on a project to landscape the middle school, elementary and primary school grounds.

Alternates will be taken on some sidewalks and parking too to be considered with the landscaping as well as some tree removal at the Middle School.

McQueen assured trustees in his appearance that problems on doors, electrical and paint at the Middle School will be taken care of by correctional methods within 10 days.

The board also is considering some additions to the lunchroom project. McQueen estimated the proposed handrails would cost $1,585 to install at the lunchroom and estimated cost for installing cabinets with drawers and doors, putting in bins and cutting top at approximately $2,959.

Trustees felt this was too high as did Pharr and Pharr Construction Co. which offered to make the additions on a cost plus basis.

Jack Lott, board chairman, asked McQueen to go over only the lunchroom additions which are needed with lunchroom supervisor Johnnie Willson and to report back to the board at its called Meeting.

In other actions, trustees: Heard reports but took no action on graduation requirements and honor graduate requirements and on high school attendance policy in the absence of High School Principal Joe Giddens.

Johnny's fiddle and mandolin have been heard on records with Merle Haggard, Connie Smith, Moe Bandy, Johnny Rodriguez, Faron Young, Willie Nelson, George Jones, Chet Atkins, and Conway Twitty among others.

His own record albums include "Fiddlin' Around", "Texas Dance Party" and "My Kinda Music."

Approved the eight bus routes for the 1980-81 school year.

Approved payment of bills totaling $115,503.15.

Heard a report from Supt. Shiver on the teacher-student ratio.

Top fiddler—

having played on more chart records than any other fiddler for those years.

Since junior high school in Tyler, where he grew up, Johnny has been entertaining crowds.

He and his brothers had their own radio show when he was 13 years old.

After high school he left home to travel with the Shelton Brothers and then played in the band of Jimmie Davis when Davis won the governorship of Louisiana in a truly musical campaign.

In 1949 he joined Bob Wills and his Texas Playboys for a few years. In 1961 he was a fiddler with the NBC TV show, 5-Star Jubilee, where he met and later traveled with Red Foley and Rex Allen.

In 1976 and 1977 he was featured before 12,000 enthusiastic fans at the Wembley Country Music Festival in London, England. In addition to his recording and television work, he currently is playing dates all over the country on his own and occasionally with Willie Nelson and Merle Haggard.

He moved to Nashville in 1968 and in addition to being featured as regular fiddler on the TV show, "That Nashville Music", he has done guest spots on "Hee Haw" and other shows. He has since returned to Texas and makes his home in Austin.

Johnny's fiddle and mandolin have been heard on records with Merle Haggard, Connie Smith, Moe Bandy, Johnny Rodriguez, Faron Young, Willie Nelson, George Jones, Chet Atkins, and Conway Twitty among others.

His own record albums include "Fiddlin' Around", "Texas Dance Party" and "My Kinda Music."

Markets are changing and expanding continuously. The Dispatch through its participation with numerous other newspapers has opened a new dimension in local advertising.

Rural markets are no longer isolated. What was once a county market through Texas Opportunities is becoming state-wide.

The Dispatch expects the list of newspapers signing up for Texas Opportunities to grow rapidly. Dispatch readers will find it interesting and will note one Garza farm sold before the first issue could reach your hands.

The only source of income from Texas Opportunities will come from the ads you place for it with The Dispatch. So if you're interested bring it into the newspaper office or mail it in. It's on a cash with order basis.

Of special interest to all readers will be the popular "People Who Need People" want ads.
