Second Winter Storm Stops Traffic

Not since 1969 has Post missed its regular mail delivery, but Friday, when Post received over 10 inches of snow, and the mail truck was not able to come into Post, there was no mail. This was the second time in the history of the Post office that regular mail was interrupted due to weather here.

The mail carriers and Postmaster A. J. McAlister made it to the Post office, some actually hitching a ride to work after burying their vehicles in snow drifts, but the mail did not arrive to be delivered.

Post, along with most of the South Plains, was buried under a blanket of sleet and rain beginning Thursday, which was right on the tail of mist and fog that shrouded the area on Tuesday night and Wednesday.

Snow began falling late Thursday afternoon, and continued through the night and on Friday.

Weather forecasts were predicting much the same through Saturday.

The March 20, 1969 snowfall, which many oldtimers said was the deepest snow in the history of Post, also was one of the wettest with 2.21 inches of moisture recorded. Streets in downtown Post were virtually impassable, with most businesses closing, and most all churches cancelling their regular schedules. Hundreds of motorists were stranded, and the storm forced the windup of the Garza County Junior Livestock show to be postponed.

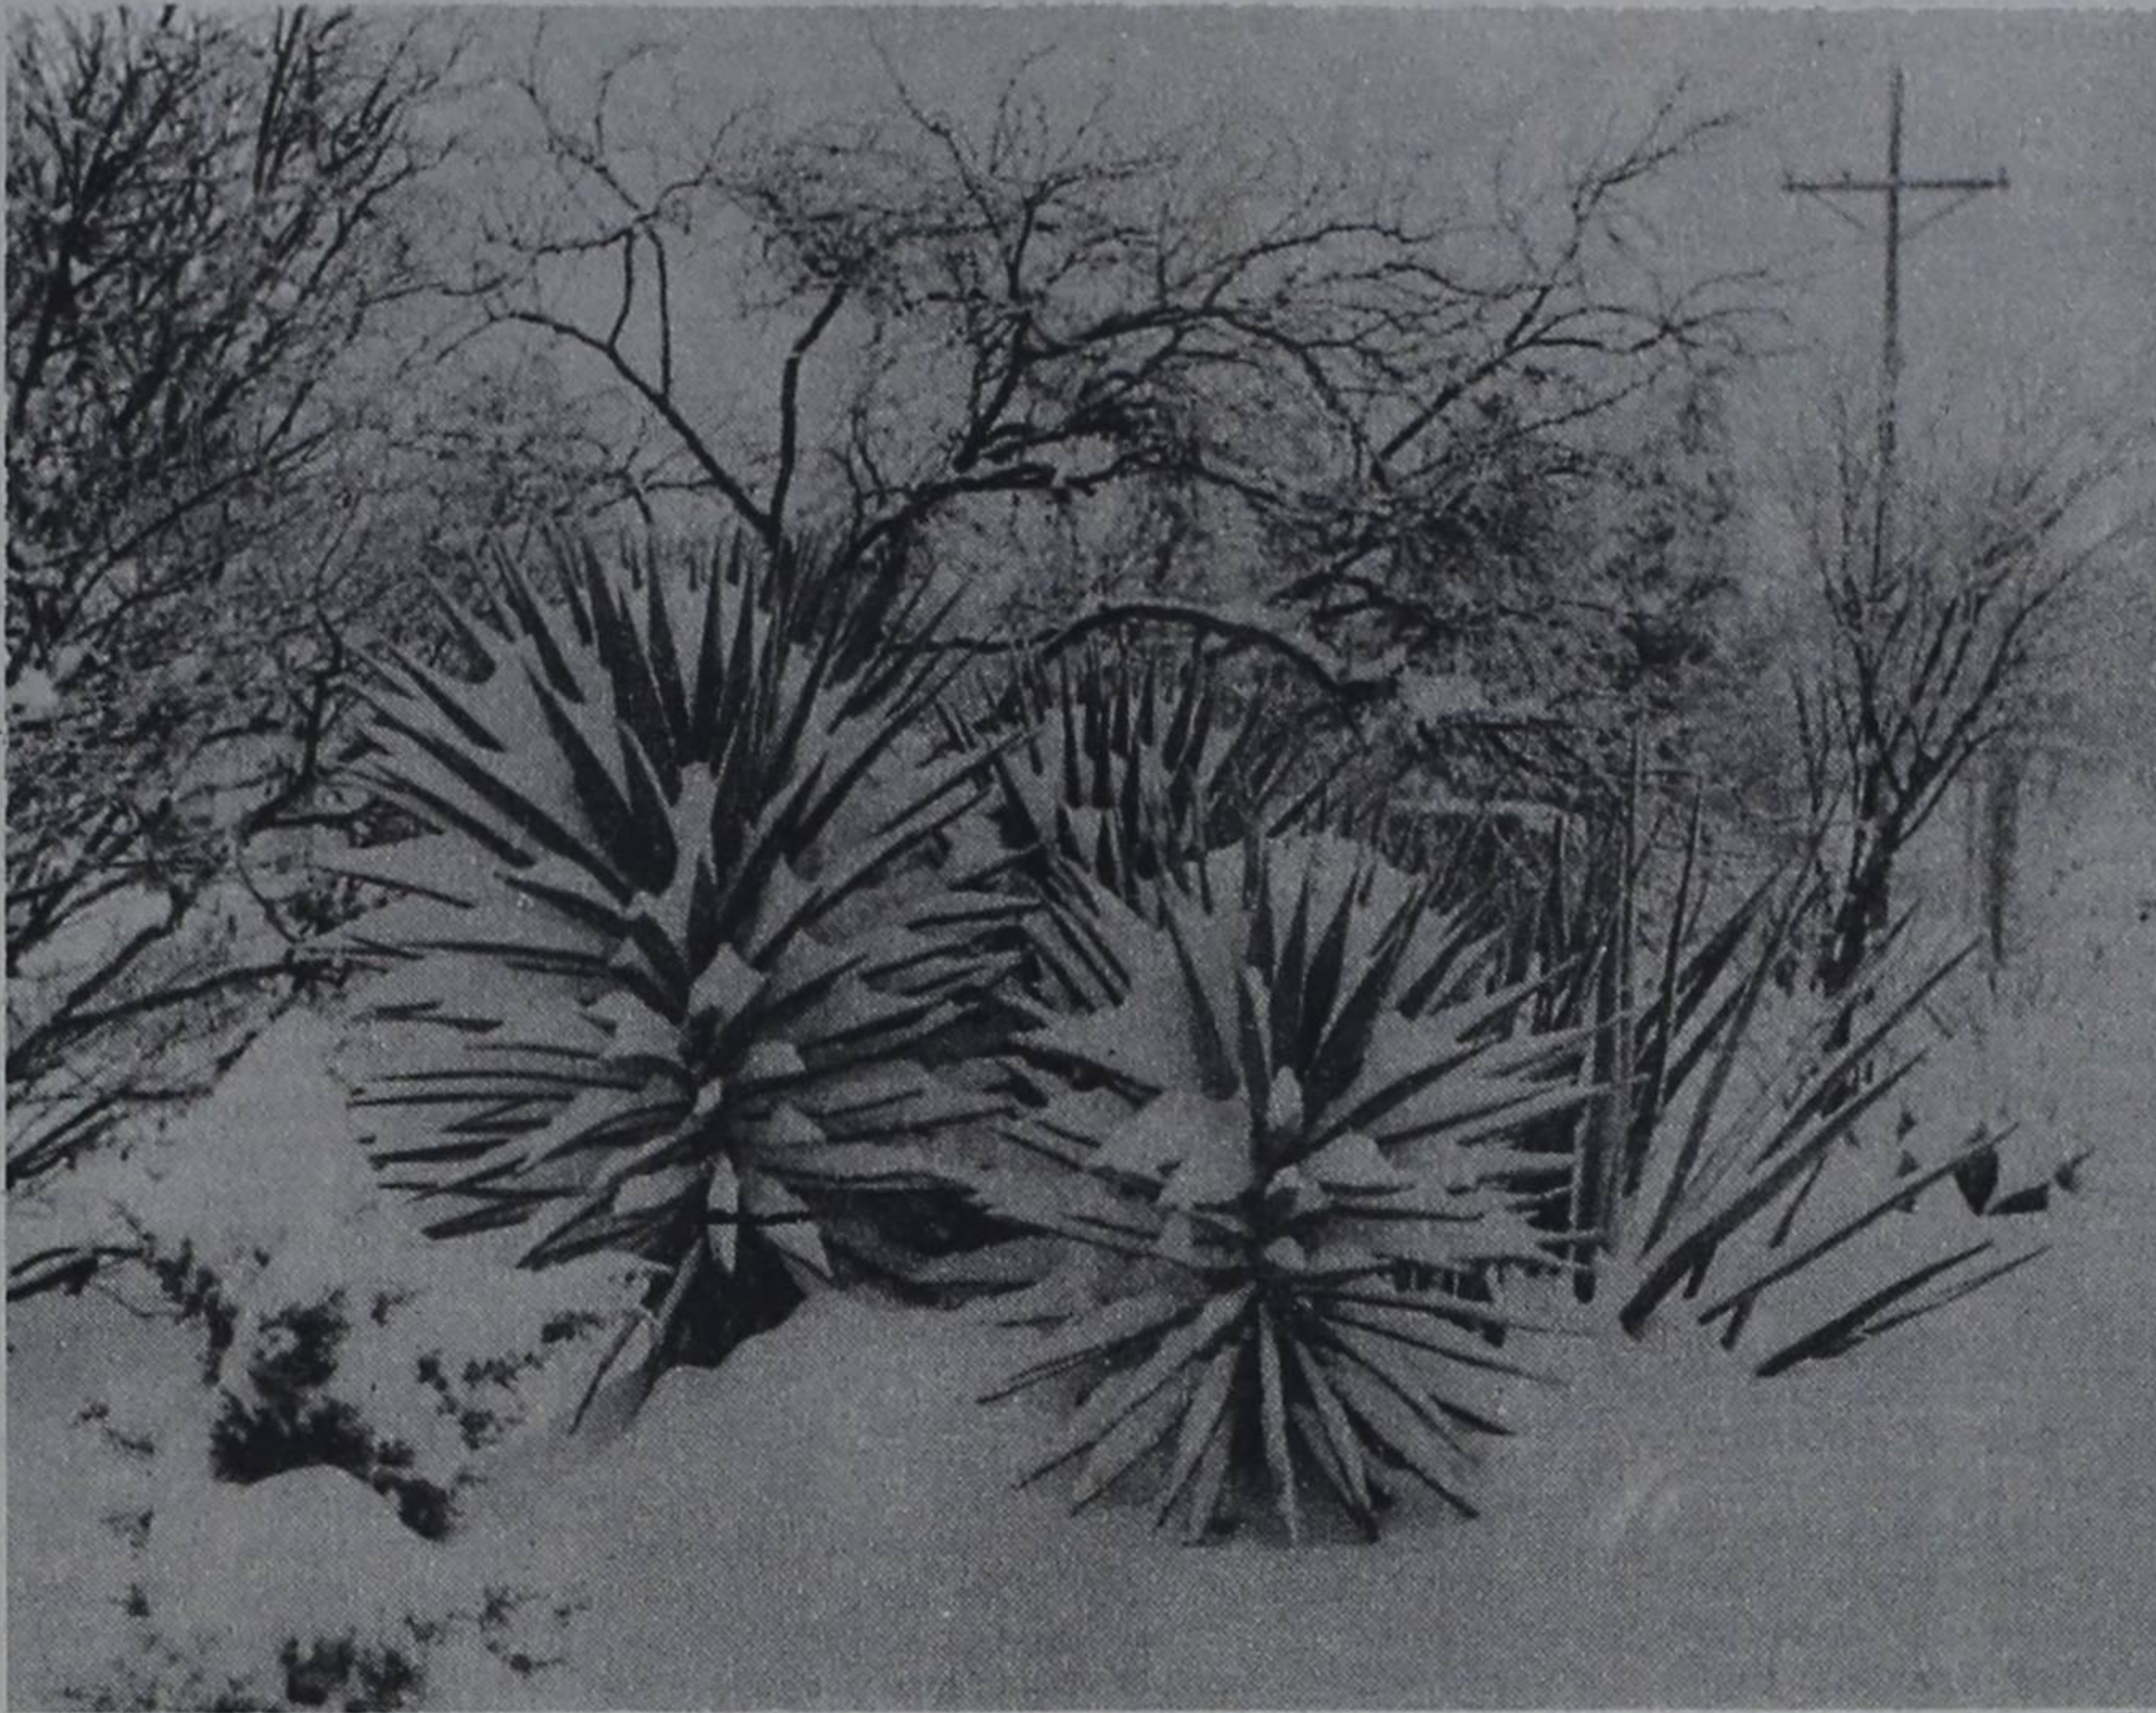

The moisture content of Thursday and Friday snowfall was good for the farmers and ranchers, and was an unusual .42 of moisture recorded by Thursday evening.

Most of the town was vacant, except for a few businesses that opened late, and some remained open, others closing because people were just not venturing out.

Graders from the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation, County and City were out in full force, trying to clear area roads and city streets.

The Highway department worked through the night Thursday, and was planning to stay out until roads could be partially cleared, allowing traffic to go on through.

Travel was virtually at a stand still, and rightly so, because the snow was so wet, once in the ditch you stay!

Nature really did a good job in this photo, just one of the many beautiful scenes painted by the snowfall Thursday night and Friday. This scene is just beside the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Dodson, and was captured by the Dispatch photographer, Tim Burnett when making snow pictures for the Sunday Edition.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — The Sunset Advisory Commission pulled the big surprise of this very new year last week when it voted to recommend that the Legislature abolish the Public Utility Commission.

The commission voted to abolish the PUC after proposed reforms for utility regulation were defeated through a parliamentary maneuver by Texarkana Sen. Ed Howard, who chairs the sunset panel.

The PUC which sets rates for electric, telephone and other utilities, has come in for harsh criticism from many lawmakers and Gov.-elect Mark White for handing out large rate increases on nearly an annual basis.

White also has criticized the PUC's rules allowing utilities to pass through to customers any increases in fuel costs without prior commission approval.

Few Capitol observers expect the Legislature to go along with the Sunset Commission recommendation, partly because the utility companies — who argued against the creation of the PUC in 1975 — want to keep the agency now.

As one utility company attorney put it, "We haven't always gotten everything we've wanted from them, but we want to keep them around." If the PUC were abolished, the utilities would have to return to each local community for approval of their rates.

The Sunset Commission action is seen more as a warning shot to let the utility lobbyists know the reformers are serious about winning some pro-consumer changes.

However, at least one senator has indicated he'd just as soon do away with the PUC as see it continue in its present form.

Fuel Adjustment

And as the Sunset Commission was debating the PUC's future, the PUC was considering measures to partly address Gov.-elect White's criticism of the fuel adjustment clause. The three-member PUC is debating new rules that would eliminate the automatic fuel cost pass through and require prior commission approval before those costs are added to customers' bills.

The proposed rules also would require companies to set their fuel adjustments on a quarterly basis, which means utilities that underestimate their fuel costs would not be able to make up that undercollection for three months.

The PUC staff, which proposed the rule, says it will force utilities to exercise more scrutiny over their fuel costs and allow customers to know what their fuel charges will be each quarter.

The utilities companies, however, argued that the proposed changes will only create more red tape and negatively impact their company cash flow.

The PUC has delayed final action on the matter until Feb. 2.

Governor's Attorney

Gov.-elect White has named a black woman as his general counsel—a move that will put Myra McDaniel in the history books as the highest-ranking black appointee in the history of Texas government.

McDaniel, a native of Philadelphia who is a former assistant attorney general and Railroad Commission lawyer, is giving up a position with a Midland law firm to take the general counsel's post.

McDaniel, 50, didn't realize she was making history when she accepted the post. She is taking a cut in pay to return to government service, but says people should be willing to sacrifice if they are "willing to be involved in making government work."

White also says he was unaware of the historical significance of McDaniel's appointment.

"I made this appointment because she's talented,"

White says. "She also happens to be black and she happens to be a woman."

Special Election

U.S. Congressman Phil Gramm made good on his threat to leave the Democratic Party and even went so far as to resign his seat in Congress to allow voters from his Central Texas district to decide if he should return to Washington, D.C. as a Republican.

Gov. Bill Clements already has set a special election for Feb. 12 to fill the seat vacated by Gramm, the former Texas A&M University professor who angered Democrats by supporting President Ronald Reagan's budget proposals.

Gramm's resignation and switch to the Republican Party followed his ouster from the powerful House Budget Committee.

Gramm will now seek reelection as a Republican, but he is already facing Democratic opposition for that post.

Former State Rep. Dan Kubiak of Rockdale is the most likely Democrat to face Gramm, although humorist John Henry Faulk was considering the race.

Kubiak, who was unsuccessful in a bid for land commissioner in 1982, was attempting to drum up support for his race only hours after Clements announced the election date.

GOP leaders welcomed Gramm into their party with open arms, praising him for his courage in switching parties.

They couldn't have been to pleased, however, at the decision that places their hopes of gaining a seat in Congress up in the air for at least a month.

While Republicans were welcoming Gramm, Democratic leaders were saying "good riddance."

Bob Slagle, Texas Democratic Party chairman, stopped short of saying he was glad to get rid of Gramm, but said he certainly wasn't "shocked or surprised."

Farmers, Ranchers Meeting Scheduled

Information to help crop and livestock producers in Garza County reduce costs and plan for profit in 1983 will be presented during the annual meeting of the South Plains Development Program, January 25 in Lubbock.

"It's more vital than ever that our farmers have the latest information on economic conditions affecting agriculture," Syc Conner, county Extension agent, said. "This day-long program will bring them up to date on the economic outlook, national farm policies and programs, and export prospects, as well as give them specific information to help make production decisions for cotton, grains, oilseeds and livestock."

The program will begin at 9:15 a.m. at the KoKo Palace, Avenue Q at 50th Street in Lubbock. A registration fee of $7.50 will include lunch.

Conner said leading agricultural economists and commodity specialists with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service will present the program.

Dr. Carl G. Anderson, economist and cotton marketing specialist from College Station, will analyze the current economic situation and its implications for South Plains producers. National policies and farm program decisions will be examined by Dr. Ronald D. Knutson, economist and specialist in marketing and policy, from College Station. Suggestions to help local producers plan for profits this season will be offered by Dr. Gary Condra, Extension economist and farm management specialist at Lubbock. Texas' prospects for agricultural exports will be presented by Dr. Mechel S. Paggi, economist and marketing specialist, College Station.

Anderson and Johnny R. Feagan, economist and organization specialist from College Station, will discuss cotton and oilseed crops. Grain crops and livestock production will be discussed by Dr. Edward G. Smith, economist and grain marketing specialist, and Dr. Ernest E. Davis, economist and livestock marketing specialist, both from College Station.

"This program will provide timely information needed not only by farmers, but by agribusiness firms and anyone involved in agriculture," the county agent said. He urged anyone interested in attending to advise his office this week so meal arrangement can be made.

The SPD program is a coordinated regional effort of individuals, associations, businesses and agencies to promote economic development in agriculture and improved family life in 21 counties. It is sponsored by the Extension Service, working through county Extension program building committees and special SPD task forces which identify educational needs and coordinate educational activities.

Prevent Fires

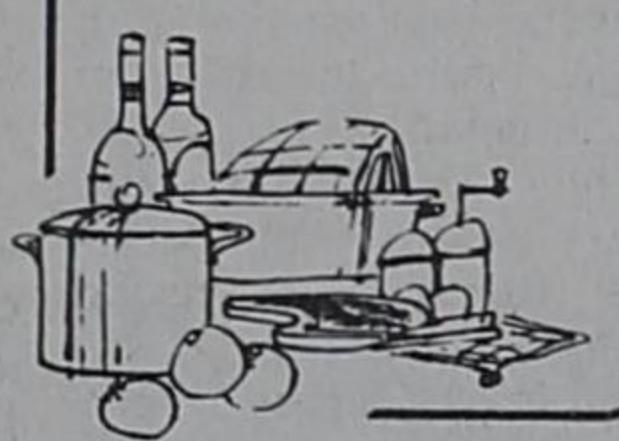

"Vigilance, Good Housekeeping Guard Against Church Fires," is the theme of this year's Texas Church Safety Week, February 13-19.

Hilton Gilliam, Texas Safety Association Vice President for church activities said today the theme of 1983 Texas Church Safety Week will be fire prevention.

"Church officials and fire department fire prevention workers all over the state will be combining efforts during the week following Valentine's Day to help guard against church fires," Gilliam said. He noted the three major causes of church fires are arson, heating systems and kitchen equipment.

"Churches are especially vulnerable to fires because they are not occupied all the time and many churches are left open," he said. "We want to create an awareness of the need for active fire prevention, even in 'God's house,'" he said.

'Old Fashioned Hate'

To the Editor:

I am not trying to be rude, but I am just going to voice my opinion on a subject you wrote about in last weeks paper.

That is the Post and Slaton basketball games. It seems to me that the Post fan that said Slaton deserved everything they got, might have had a good reason for saying something that you wouldn't know anything about!

The Post boys were just taking up for themselves, if someone hit you I don't think you would have walked off, so you don't have any right what-so-ever to say a word about what happened.

what he did. I also don't think you have any right to say a thing about what happened because "The Post, Slaton Rivalry" has been around longer than you have.

About the so-called "old fashion fight" it all came from a lot of "old fashion hate,"

Of all the 250,000 species of flowering plants, there are just two that don't need water from the soil. One is the pygmy cedar and the other is the caper plant of the Sahara. Both take all the moisture they need from the night air.

The people who first settled this vast country of West Texas were pioneers of the highest standards. They were Rough, Tough, Determined and Dedicated — Because of their unflinching spirit, carved homes and businesses out of a hard and unyielding frontier.

Post people are descendants of these pioneers and possess the same traits as did our forefathers. Knock us down and we will get up — Tell us we can't and we WILL. Times may be hard but so is our Determination.

The 7 a. m. whistle may be silent for the moment, but the spirit and determination of Post Texas is alive, well and poised to plunge into tomorrow with Faith and A Future.

Police receive a call to go to an apartment house where a stabbing has occurred. At the apartment, police find Edward lying dead on the floor and across the hall find Jackie, who confesses to the murder.

Police then read Jackie her rights and she says she wants to have a lawyer present. Nevertheless, Jackie continues to confess to the killing. When she is transported to the station house, Jackie again is read her rights, answers 45 minutes of questions and confesses to the murder.

At the trial Jackie is convicted of second-degree murder and sentenced to three to 20 years in prison. Jackie's confession was a key to the conviction, and she appeals, claiming the confession should not have been used as evidence because she said she wanted to have a lawyer.

How would you handle this case?

A. The conviction stands. Jackie confessed willingly.
B. There must be additional information to support a conviction.

C. The conviction should be overturned because police should not have questioned Jackie after she said she wanted a lawyer.

D. The confession should be accepted only if Jackie is willing to confess at the time of trial.

The court ruled C and said Jackie's right against self-incrimination was violated. "If the individual indicated in any manner at any time prior to or during questioning that he wished to remain silent, the interrogation must cease," the court wrote.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 — Also Sagittarius Ascendant) — Finish up proj-

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 — Also Capricorn Ascendant) — Work cooperatively with mate or partner rather than going it alone. Your efforts could bog down if you don't get help. AQUARIUS: (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18 — Also Aquarius Ascendant) — Partners, associates or mate may object to your plans and desires. Be calmly persuasive instead of engaging in active debate.

Points On Pets

By R.G. ELMORE
D.V.M.

Q. Our 6-year-old cocker spaniel died recently. We were on vacation at the time and had a neighbor checking on the dog twice a day.

The neighbor noticed that the dog did not eat well the last few days and seemed to drink a lot of water. The dog also had a discharge under her tail that looked like white cream.

The dog had been in season approximately seven weeks prior to our leaving on vacation. We did not breed her since we knew we would be gone. Can you tell us what caused our dog's death?

A. Based solely on the information in the question, it is impossible to state without a doubt the cause of your dog's death.

One of the most common conditions with signs as you have described is pyometra. Pyometra is simply the accumulation of pus in the womb or uterus. The disease is thought to be due to ovarian dysfunction. Bacteria are also often involved. Therefore the cause of pyometra may be due to both hormonal imbalances and infections within the uterus.

Most dogs with pyometra do not eat well and drink excessive amounts of water. Vomiting frequently follows drinking and many of these dogs produce excessive amounts of urine.

Early in the condition the dog may have a fever. As the disease progresses the dog's temperature decreases and eventually becomes below normal. The dog becomes increasingly weak and eventually is unable to stand. The abdomen is distended and pain in the abdomen is usually evident. Touching the abdomen causes great pain.

The discharge from the vulva usually has a sickly sweet odor. The pus may accumulate on the hair around the vulva and on the tail. The vulva may be enlarged.

Dogs with pyometra often develop diarrhea. Untreated dogs usually die. Some dogs with pyometra will not have a great amount of vulvar discharge. Usually dogs without discharge will be more distended in the abdomen and exhibit a greater amount of pain.

A definitive diagnosis is usually based on the history, characteristic changes in the numbers of white blood cells in the blood, radiographs of the abdomen and the clinical signs. Radiographs or X-rays usually reveal the large pus-filled uterus.

The best treatment for pyometra is probably a complete spay. The entire uterus and ovaries should be removed surgically.

If the dog is spayed prior to its becoming toxic, the chance of recovery is very good. If the dog is already toxic, the chance of recovery is not very good.
