Snow shuts down half done harvest

The trials and errors of putting out a paper just after having one put to press is bad enough, but when you have to do it without the "bossman" telling you what to do and who you need to see and where there might be a possibility of pictures is something else again.

But that's what Beth, and myself with loads of help from Corkey are trying to do with the Thanksgiving Edition.

After sending Mr. C off in an ambulance last Wednesday morning to Lubbock and trying to assure him that the paper would get out, but shaking so bad in your shoes and trying to reassure yourself that the ambulance might have to come back after you is an experience in itself.

To make a long story short, Mr. C had a pacemaker put in last Wednesday afternoon and is doing great. As a matter of fact, he's home now and recuperating nicely. WELCOME HOME!!

And my kids wonder why I'm getting white headed.

Having never written Postings before (since it's not my column), I came upon some interesting news concerning J.R. Saturday morning, that I thought you might be interested in.

Have you ever seen a society get so caught up in a "Soap?" It was quite obvious what time it was Friday night, when basketball fans started drifting out two and three at a time when the magic hour of 9 rolled around. The overpublicized "Time" was about to happen. What everyone had been waiting for was who shot that villain? And then you had to wait until 10 minutes before time for it to be over before the magic answer came out. Christen did it!

Iris Trulock called down here early Saturday morning and said she was supposed to cable her daughter-in-law in Singapore the answer to who shot J.R. When calling Western Union and giving them her message, the operator began to laugh and said "Here's another one." When Iris questioned further, she learned that the company had been sending similar messages all night to all parts of the world and even sent one to Russia!!

The time of Thanksgiving is here again and the community prayer service (See Postings, Page 10)

Extrication day held

"Extrication Day" for Post EMT's was held Saturday from 1 p.m. until 9 p.m. at the Post Middle school. Students who are in the process of becoming trained EMT's will be going through training sessions in moving victims from accidents and from buildings and other places accidents may occur.

Lubbock EMS Paramedics Jeff Young and Deak Enabnit will be instructing the students.

The use of short and long spine boards used to immobilize injured people before moving will be stressed as will other techniques which are important in transporting victims.

Garza ginners Friday estimated that this year's crop is a little more than half out of the fields, with things brought to a virtual standstill by last week's snowstorm. With the drying conditions also at a standstill, most feel it will be at least a week to 10 days before harvesting operations can begin again.

Total bales ginned in Garza County as of Friday was 5,000.

Farmers report that the ground stays frozen until almost noon, with it beginning to freeze again before much drying takes place. Snow is still in the fields and will have to melt before it dries enough to start harvesting operations.

The gin by gin report given Friday is as follows:

Post Gin: ginned 17 bales, and is just really getting started with their ginning year. They estimate that farmers will be at least 10 days waiting to get back in the fields.

Storie Gin: 290 bales, about half through with their harvesting and expect to be at least 10 days before resuming operations.

Graham Coop Gin: 943, caught up with their ginning with operations at a standstill, estimate at least 10 days or longer before farmers can get back into the fields. Grades are holding up very well on cotton already ginned.

Close City Gin: 849 bales ginned and figure approximately half of cotton expected is ginned. Grades holding up with work at a halt for at least 10 days.

Southland Gin: 310 bales ginned expecting that many more with operations halted for at least 10 days or longer.

Hackberry Gin: (half Garza cotton) has ginned 3,846 bales and expect they are a little more than half complete. Farmers are waiting for drying of fields to complete their harvest.

Producers Coop in Grassland: 1445 (one-third Garza cotton) is about two-thirds complete but expect to be at least 10 days before resuming operations.

Grassland Gin: 747 (one- (See Harvest, Page 10)

Man charged in shooting

William McLaury, 34, Clairmont rancher, has been charged with attempted murder here and released on a $25,000 surety bond.

The man who was shot in the head with a 38 revolver and probably will lose his sight is Roy Don Hodges of Spur who tried to act as a peacemaker in an argument between McLaury and another unidentified man at the Long Branch.

Hodges is in Methodist Hospital in Lubbock.

According to Sheriff Jim Pippin nobody saw the actual shooting outside the Long Branch where Hodges was trying to calm McLaury down. He said he did not know whether it was accidental or intentional.

According to witnesses giving statements, after the shot was fired Hodges was seen lying on the ground and McLaury was seen driving away.

Pippin said McLaury drove to Plains where he surrendered his gun to a deputy there.

McLaury showed up at the sheriff's office here next morning with his attorney.

In other cases here, Tefy Castillo was jailed last Thursday on a charge of shoplifting at a local store.

On Saturday, Clarence Linford Warren was charged with trespassing and disorderly conduct.

Guy James Abbott, 38, was jailed when he left the scene of an accident Sunday at the intersection of West Third street and FM 669 involving a car he was driving and another driven by John Redman, Jr.

Thanksgiving Service Tuesday

The Thanksgiving Community Service, sponsored by the Post Ministerial Alliance will be held Tuesday Nov. 25, at 7 p.m. at the Holy Cross Catholic Church.

Order of the service will be a call to worship by Benny Valdez followed by a song "Praise, Praise Him" and the invocation by Rev. Glenn Reece, president of the alliance and pastor of the First Baptist Church.

Grider has arm surgery

Drew Kirkpatrick, son of Mr. and Mrs. K. W. Kirkpatrick, and quarterback for the Post Anetopes underwent surgery Wednesday morning to remove a blockage in a blood vessel in his left arm.

The blockage was cleared and a vessel taken from his leg to replace the damaged one in his arm.

He played the last three ballgames with the injury which appeared to be only a bruise.

The welcome will be offered by Father George Roney of the host church followed by a song "Pass It On".

A scripture read by Rev. Kenneth Cook, pastor of the Church of God of Prophecy will be followed by a song "Kum Ba Yah". Rev. Don Travis, treasurer of the alliance and pastor of the First Methodist Church will give the offertory.

Mrs. Sylvia Evans will offer a special entitled "My Tribute" which will be followed by the message given by Rev. Morgan Ashworth, pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church. "Thank You, Lord" will be his topic, taken from Luke 17:11-19.

A song "They'll Know We Are Christians" will precede the benediction given by the Rev. Arthur Kelly, pastor of the Pleasant Home Baptist Church.

Phil Alford, song director will close the service, accompanied by Georgil Willson.

Gold Star banquet set

The 23rd Annual 4-H Gold Star Banquet will be held tonight in Lubbock and among special guests honored will be Garza County Gold Star Boy and Girl, Sam Butler and Jana Terry. Senator E.L. Short of Tahoka, principal speaker for the banquet made the statement, "We need not have mixed emotions about the future of tomorrow as long as we have 4-H leaders like the ones we now have."

The annual affair, honoring forty outstanding young people from twenty counties throughout the South Plains, is sponsored by Rural Electric Cooperatives serving the area.

Among others attending from Post will be Mr. and Mrs. Noel White, Mr. and Mrs. Mack Terry, County Extension agents, Syd Connor and Cheryl Walker.

All-School play is success

The all-school play "You're A Good Man Charlie Brown", by all rights should be called a production instead of a play. The combined efforts of a superb cast, stage crew, light crew, director and music director and accompanist was an hour and a half of sheer delight.

Miss Candace McConnell who directed the play, Phil Alford and his wife who directed and accompanied the cast in the musical production are to be congratulated for coordinating the difficult presentations and dance routines.

The stage crew who worked feverishly during the production changing props and keeping order on stage and the lighting crew who worked the lights were a major part of the success of the play.

The cast composed of Benny Jackson, Charlie Brown; Lillian Cendalski, Lucy; Mark Stark, Linus; Jack Rylant, Schroeder; Gail Scott, Patty and Jimmy Ticer, Snoopy, sang and danced their way professionally through their parts, much to the delight of the crowd.

Snoopy not once broke character as he displayed his skills as a hunter, a great friend and a pretty good tap dancer. He kept the crowd clapping during his rendition of his "dinner song."

Lucy was the mean little girl down the street who lorded it over Charlie Brown and gave her little brother Linus a good lesson in science, not quite accurate, but at least she tried. Her constant antics and facial expressions kept the audience in stitches and wondering what she might do next.

Charlie Brown was his lovable own failure self, and tried so hard during the play to find some meaning to his life and to get enough courage gathered up to speak to that little red-headed girl down the street. He was never deserted by his faithful dog, Snoopy who was always so "close." Linus, protected his beloved blanket throughout the play, and was the loving little brother he should be as he gave Lucy her one lift (See School play, Page 10)

Wagon Wheels party set for Saturday

You can pick up your copy in plenty of time for Christmas giving, following the party on the 29th at the Museum or from Mrs. J. D. McCampbell, secretary of the Garza County Historical Commission.

The second printing of Wagon Wheels has been published by Eakin Press of Burnet, the state's largest publisher of Texas books in cooperation with the Garza County Historical Commission.

1,500 books of the history were printed in the initial release some years ago and the books were sold very quickly. The interest in the book and the many requests for copies in recent months has brought the printing of this second edition into being.

You will notice an ad elsewhere in The Dispatch with an order blank to help in ordering your books early.

Thanksgiving will be work day only Postex Plant

The Thanksgiving holiday Thursday will be generally observed throughout the community except at Postex Plant where currently strong demands will require the plant to work right on through to Friday night.

Plant Manager Don Smith told The Dispatch that Postex business has picked up some and looks real good for its institutional lines.

He said he foresees a strong operation schedule for the remainder of this quarter as the plant gets out the orders for the January White Sales across the country.

Post schools will close at 2:50 p.m. Wednesday for the remainder of the holiday week with buses running at 3 p.m. Thanksgiving will also be a Chamber of Commerce business holiday with most local stores closed.

The sheriff's department is planning to share a real Thanksgiving feast with any prisoners in the county jail over the holiday.

Members of the department chip in to provide turkey and all the trimmings.

The Post Rotary Club will have its traditional Thanksgiving meal at its regular Tuesday luncheon in the community center.

The First Presbyterian Church held its traditional Thanksgiving dinner Sunday following a short morning service. It was a covered dish affair with the turkey and dressing catered.

DISPATCH TO CLOSE — The office of The Post Dispatch will close this afternoon (Monday) for the holidays and reopen Monday, Dec. 1.

Ballots due in by December 1

Persons Eligible to vote in community committee elections were mailed ballots on Nov. 21. These ballots must be returned to the county ASCS office in person by Dec. 1 or postmarked by that date.

Ballots will be tabulated at the Garza County ASCS office on Thursday, Dec. 4th at 9:30 a.m.

SCHOOL TO DISMISS

The Post schools will dismiss Wednesday, Nov. 26 at 3 p.m. and will resume Monday, Dec. 1 at the regular time for Thanksgiving holidays.

Yule decorations due up this week

The downtown area of Post will be taking on a new look next week as Christmas decorations will be going up. The large Christmas tree that is becoming the major part of the decorations will be brought to Post sometime next week according to Colley Gatlin, who is in charge of getting the tree here this year.

Colley and his helpers will place the 40 foot tree in its place across from the McCrary building shortly after its arrival here.

The other Chamber of Commerce decorations which were purchased last year will be hung in place by city employees during the coming week.

Santa is scheduled to make two stops in Post for visiting with all area youngsters.

Time to give thanks

Since the whole conception of the American Thanksgiving is stopping to give thanks to God for our bounties. The Dispatch last year listed many things we find here and now to be thankful for.

This Thanksgiving in our Thanksgiving edition editorial, we are adding to our list. Here's out "thanks list" as it now stand: We're thankful the air is clean and one can walk the streets alone at night without fear.

We're thankful our town has its head screwed on straight and is full of folks who constantly strive to make life better.

We are thankful for a balanced economy — where cotton, cows, oil wells and looms all play an important part in our scheme of things.

We are thankful that in our town Sunday is still Sunday in the real sense where people fill our churches to hear able men explain our Christian faith and call us to witness.

We are thankful that we live in a hard but beautiful land, which adds zest to living, nurtures natural friendliness to strangers, and cements our bond to continue to strive for something better.

We are thankful for some measure of adversity too, for in facing it we are strengthened. And we can always find a full measure of adversity here.

We are thankful for a man who would create "the OS weekend" and for all of those who join him each fall in his endeavor for the betterment of a group of boys who will be America's men of tomorrow. This to us, is the best one example we know of why we love this town so much.

We are thankful we live in America, a huge and imperfect nation but one so full of freedom and opportunity, a land where the lowest has not once but many times risen to the highest on his or her abilities.

We are thankful for our heritage and aim to thrust it forward to the generation of our sons and daughters, and grandsons and granddaughters, hopefully untarnished while in our hands.

We are thankful for our schools where children of all races learn together in the same classrooms and where the only need for busing is to bring the kids who live in the country into town for class.

We are thankful for our community library where stored for us are millions of words of wisdom, philosophy, poetry, and adventure written by the best writers of not only this generation but all generations. It is truly a bountiful storehouse.

We are thankful for this holiday season which permits families to gather together again around the festive table though some live far away. In reunion we find new life and reawaken fond memories.

Finally, we are thankful for the opportunity which is given to each of us to build a life of his or her own choosing.

And last of all, we are thankful that our town hasn't been discovered by those millions and million of other Americans as the best place in which to raise a family and grow old contentedly and gracefully.

Yep, we're thankful to have our town to ourselves.

Nurse conditions said undesirable

AUSTIN, Texas (Spl.) — Texas nurses leave or stay out of the nursing workforce because of undesirable working conditions, a University of Texas study reports.

That was the major finding of a survey conducted by UT Austin's School of Nursing.

Dean Billye Brown says even though some hospital beds are closed because too few nurses are available to staff them, there are 18,000 registered nurses licensed to practice in Texas who are not working in nursing.

Job dissatisfactions in nursing range from lack of administrative support by hospital and nursing service administrators to inflexibility of working hours, the study shows.

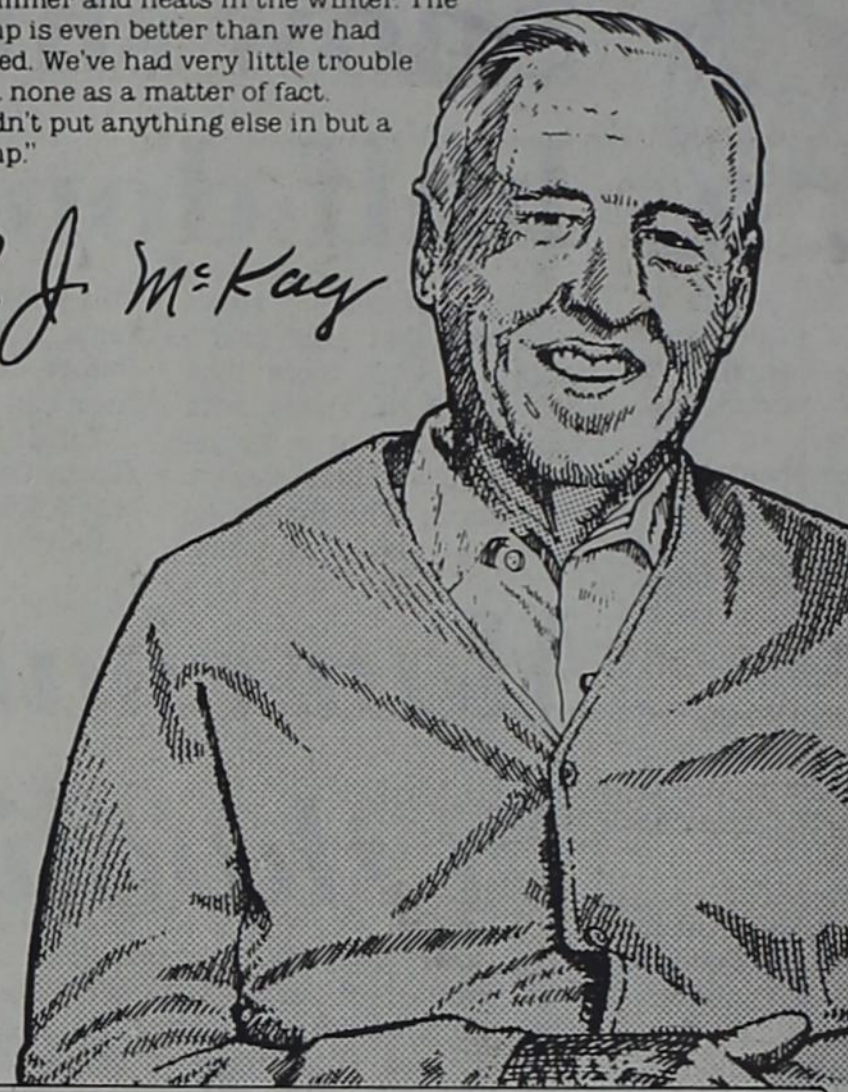

It's True.

"When the electrician was installing the heat pump I asked him how we could get a service contract from for maintenance. He explained that Southwestern Public Service had the best and most reasonable service contract in town. We've had the contract with SPS for about 4 1/2 years now and we've never had to call them about any problem with the heat pump... outside of the normal inspections.

We find the heat pump is practical, too, because the same unit cools in the summer and heats in the winter. The heat pump is even better than we had anticipated. We've had very little trouble with it... none as a matter of fact.

I wouldn't put anything else in but a heat pump."

R. J. McKay

The things said about the heat pump are true. Find out more about the heat pump. It can save for you.

What makes Thanksgiving?

(Editors note: The following editorial was one written by Charlie Didway in the Dispatch on Thursday, November 16, 1964, which we thought expressed the true spirit of Thanksgiving.)

Having things for which to be thankful doesn't make a Thanksgiving any more than receiving gifts makes a Christmas.

If any country ever was blessed with things for which to be thankful, it is this country of ours. Perhaps the very reason many of us are not as thankful as we should be is because we are blessed with more than our share.

Thanksgiving was not established by a people with a multitude of things for which to be thankful. Hardships far outweighed the good things of life for that hardy band of early settlers who observed the first Thanksgiving, but they felt so grateful for the few blessings that had been bestowed upon them that they paused to thank their Creator who had bestowed them.

The man who has one thing and one thing only to be thankful for can put more meaning into Thanksgiving than the man who can't begin to count the things he has for which he should be thankful. Like Christmas, Thanksgiving has a spirit and if the spirit isn't there then there just isn't any Thanksgiving.

None of us want to give up any of our many blessings, because we feel we deserve them or they wouldn't have been bestowed upon us. Neither do any of us begrudge our fellow man his blessings. But some of us, no doubt, would be more thankful this Thanksgiving if we had fewer things for which to be thankful.

To enter into the true spirit of Thanksgiving we need to be grateful for each of our blessings, if they are numerous enough to be pluralized. If, on the other hand, there is only one, we should be thankful for it, since we are more fortunate than the fellow who has none.

Take time out this Thanksgiving to be truly thankful. Give thought to the Creator who has endowed us with life. Be thankful for your homes, your churches, your schools. Be thankful for those near and dear to you. Be thankful for the great nation in which you live and of which you are a part. Thinking and thanking aren't too far apart, as words go. The first will lead right into the second, and before you know it you'll be observing Thanksgiving by thinking of all the things you have for which to be thankful.

Sharp Carousel Microwave Oven at our fabulous low price

INTRODUCING A NEW CONCEPT IN COOKING. Sharp has combined the best of both worlds of cooking... Convection Cooking plus Carousel Microwave Cooking... to make one of the most practical kitchen appliances ever made.

Our Convection oven offers you many pluses in addition to the ease and speed of the microwave oven. First, the Convection oven cooks food in less time by using a current of hot air directed around the food. This makes the food more flavorful and appetizingly attractive since the food actually browns.

The Convection oven also broils, and cooks in combination with Sharp's Carousel Microwave System. This speeds up the cooking times of breads, cakes, casseroles, meats and roasts, and poultry dishes. Like we said... the Best of Both Worlds of Cooking! But don't take our word for it.

Come in today for complete information and a free demonstration. You'll finally see the ultimate kitchen appliance you've always been waiting for... SHARP'S CAROUSEL CONVECTION MICROWAVE OVEN, THE RB310.

Warranty—7 years on Magnetron Tube, 2 years on all other parts, 2 years on labor with in-home service.

Gwen Landers wed to Tom Marrier Friday night

Wedding vows between Gwen Landers and Tom Marrier, both of Post were read Friday, Nov. 21 at 7:30 in the First United Methodist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P.K. Landers of Sweetwater and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W.E. Marrier of Indio, California.

The double ring ceremony was read by Reverend Don Travis, before an altar decorated with blue carnations, yellow gladiolas, and yellow roses arranged beneath a cross. A three candle arrangement for lighting of the unity candles, a yellow one for the bride and blue for the groom, with the traditional white candle in the middle was also featured.

The bride given in marriage by her father, wore a wedding gown belonging to her sister. It was a white empire style gown with a satin bodice and lace skirt featuring a rounded neckline, elbow length sleeves and covered buttons down the back. Small, flat bows accented the sleeve edges and empire waist in front and back. The skirt was tiered alternating wide lace with fine lace ruffles. The train was satin and chiffon trimmed with lace and the veil was mantilla style. The bride's bouquet was of white roses with miniature blue carnations carried atop a white Bible. She lifted her "going-away" corsage from her bouquet and threw the remainder for the single female guests.

Mrs. Curtis Hudman, sister of the bride of Post, served as matron of honor with Jana Hudman, niece of the bride, serving as junior bridesmaid.

The matron of honor wore a yellow chiffon dress with a pleated skirt and bell sleeves. She carried a single yellow rose. The bridesmaid wore a blue chiffon dress with a pleated skirt and bell sleeves. She carried a single yellow rose also.

Lori Hudman, niece of the bride, served as flower girl and was escorted by Jay Mitchell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Mitchell III. The flower girl wore a yellow chiffon dress identical to the attendants, and threw yellow rose petals from her basket.

W. E. Marrier, father of the groom served as best man with Richard Hudman, nephew of the bride, serving as junior groomsman. Curtis Hudman and Archie Gill served as ushers.

Wedding music was presented by Margie Pennell, organist, as she played the theme from "Homecoming" as the bride entered. The couple left to "Sam" by Olivia Newton-John. Soloist, Jack Gordon, sang "All My Life" and "Follow Me" by John Denver.

A reception was held following the wedding in the basement of the First United Methodist Church. The bride's table was centered with an arrangement of blue carnations, yellow gladiolas and yellow roses. A decorative yellow and blue candle centered the groom's table.

Serving in the house party were Earline Bagby, Julia Hudman, Johnnie Norman, Mary Jackson, Nan Campbell, Nerissa Jay and Kay

I understand the All School play was a smashing success. I'm sorry I missed it. The reviews have all been outstanding. I understand Jimmy Ticer "Snoopy" received a standing ovation for his tap dancing as did the whole cast at the end of the performance.

I don't know who Snoopy's seamstress was, but she had to do a fast makeup job Saturday morning. As Jimmy and Lillian went through the different schools Friday to help advertise the play, in their costumes, Jimmy was down on all fours, as dogs do, when a little primary student mistook him for a horse and jumped on his back yelling 'giddyup'. When Jimmy began to unload his rider, he fell backwards and grabbed Snoopy's tail tearing the costume in four different directions. Panic set in, but all was well by the time of the performance. CONGRATS KIDS ON A JOB WELL DONE!!!!

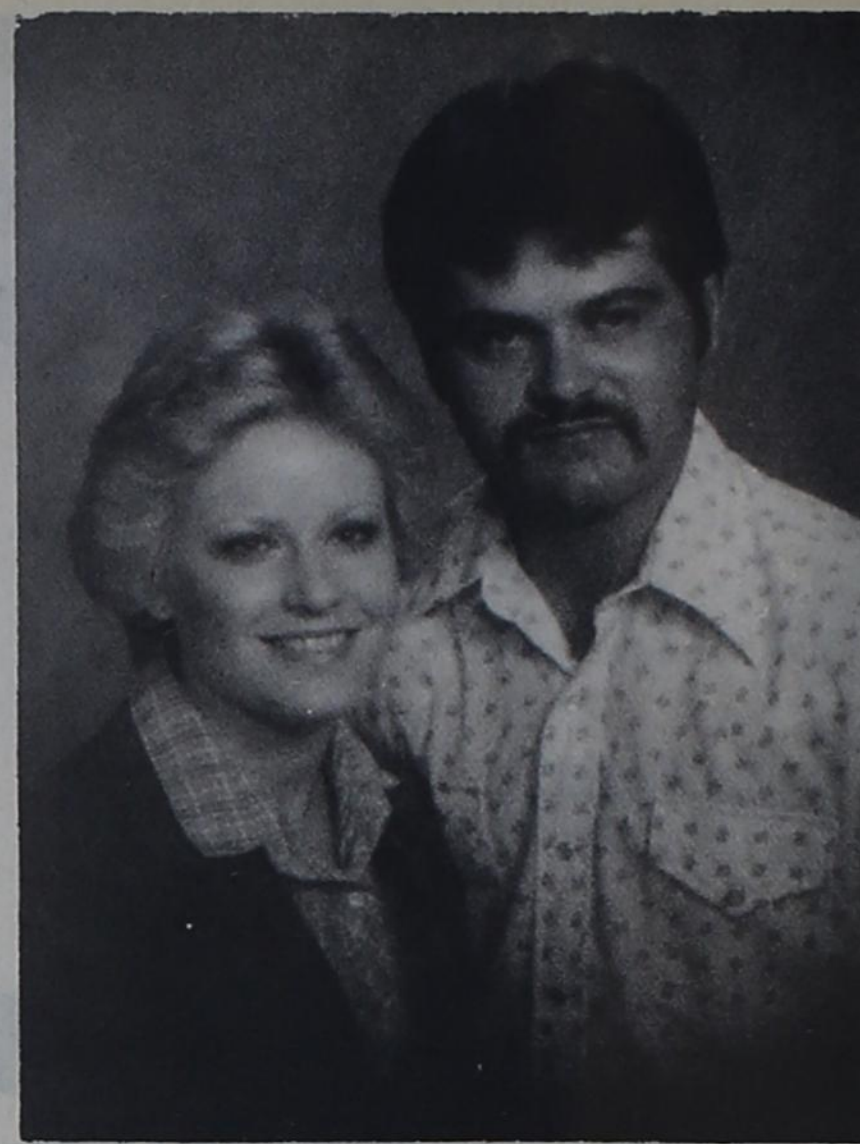

The JV girls, varsity girls and boys all played well here Friday night. The girls and boys varsity teams will play here again Monday and Tuesday nights, with the JV boys playing Monday night. So go out and support all our teams.

The snow last weekend delayed Amy Thuett, and Jeff Lamb on their return trip home Sunday when they had to spend the night in Dallas and got here on Monday afternoon. Their New York trip was quite an exciting venture. Both had a Russian instructor in Acrobatics. His name is Misha Toiber and he has been in the states for only a year. While in Russia he was a silver medalist in men's competition. Amy had a little bad luck while at the clinic as she re-injured her ankle the first day there. Jeff was in the show of champions on Saturday night performing the double back. Look out olympics, we have two that are on their way up!!!!

Talked to Cliff Kirkpatrick Saturday afternoon and he was a little perturbed that they interrupted the Tech rodeo to announce who shot J.R. You can tell Cliff is not a Dallas fan, as he thought Preston did it???

Don't forget the dance Friday night to be held in the Youth Center from 9 to 1. School kids from 7th through 12th and those in college are invited to attend. See ya there.

World's top cowboy await rodeo finals

COLORADO SPRINGS, — With only three weeks until the $500,000 National Finals Rodeo in Oklahoma City, Dec. 6-14, the world's leading pro cowboy is brimming with confidence. Paul Tierney has a $24,000 lead over his toughest competitor in the 1980 Pro Rodeo Cowboys Association all-around race, and the Rapid City, S.D. cowboy is confident he can stay tough and win the championship. Tierney already has amassed an incredible $92,000, and as a two-event qualifier has a chance at an additional $55,000 in NFR money.

"He knows he will have to contend with Danny Torricellas (the Oregon cowboy who also will go to the NFR in two events)", according to one sportswriter.

"But Paul's self-confidence has grown tremendously since he won the 1979 PRCA world calf roping championship. Before this year he seemed to be more apt to let the competition worry him. Now he believes in his ability, and he is confident he can become the next PRCA all-around champion of the world."

Leading in the Women's Professional Barrel racing is Martha Josey, Karnack, Texas with winnings of $39,882.

The top six contenders in the eight divisions are as follows:

CAPITOL UPDATE

John Tower
U.S. SENATOR for TEXAS

The elections are over, and preparation has begun for the new Congress. But the old Congress still has a substantial amount of unfinished business, which it will attempt to handle in the lame duck session that began this week.

I hope that enough can be accomplished during this session that the new Congress will not start off with a substantial backlog of "old business."

Among its chief priorities will be the defense appropriations bill, which is still before the Senate Appropriations Committee. The bill provides funding for the fiscal year which began in October, and is needed to replace the "continuing resolution" passed as a stopgap measure.

The appropriations bill up for consideration provides for a substantial increase in defense spending, but still is deficient in a number of critical need areas. Therefore, I expect the new Administration to submit a supplemental appropriations bill.

The specific content of that legislation will, of course, be determined by the new Administration. However, I would expect that, at a minimum, it might include funds for another pay raise targeted toward the middle grade enlisted men and junior officers who are leaving the service in large numbers. Further, I anticipate it will include additional money for increased fuel costs, a first step toward restoring shortages in our war reserve stocks, and funds for sustaining a solid presence in the Indian Ocean.

In other words, the supplemental appropriations bill will simply address the most urgent short-term needs of our services.

Necessary major funding for major new systems and accelerated modernization of others can be included in the bill for fiscal year 1982. I might note, however, that work on that bill should begin early in the year.

I am looking forward to the new Congress, because I believe we will find more support than ever for beginning to rebuild our national defenses. I anticipate being chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee during the new Congress, and look forward to the opportunities and challenges that position will provide.

As I have said before, the problems facing our armed services developed over a period of years of neglect. Reversing the trend, and rebuilding our position will take time, also. Our needs cover a wide spectrum.

But the most urgent ones deal with manpower and readiness. We took a first step this year in stemming the mass exodus from the services of the skilled, experienced enlisted men and junior officers -- the cadre of talent that is the backbone of the military. However, even if we are successful in adding this year to the previously approved pay and benefits improvements, we will have to pay attention to this problem in future budgets.

Moreover, we must take whatever steps are required to make sure all of the equipment -- the planes, the tanks, the jeeps, and the guns -- are ready and have adequate fuel. We must restore our vital war reserves.

Use CARE cards for greetings

NEW YORK — "You can turn your holiday greetings into help for destitute people overseas by sending special CARE cards to your friends, relatives and business associates," said Dr. Philip Johnston, Executive Director of CARE, the international aid and development organization.

"The message on the card lets the recipient know that you have given a contribution to CARE in his or her name to help needy people throughout the world. Thousands of families who were helped by your donations last year are now living a better life. Millions more want to become self-supporting, but they need your help," he said.

CARE conducts feeding and a wide variety of self-help development programs in more than 35 Third World countries throughout Africa, Asia, Latin America and the Middle East. Disaster aid as well as medical and health care training through MEDICO are also vital components of the organization's work.

Dr. Johnston gave examples of what donations accomplish: $5 serves 100 school children a nourishing bowl of porridge for one week; $10 provides 36 bundles of millet stalks to protect trees in an African desert soil erosion program; $15 supplies weight scales, charts and nutrition booklets for a health center in an East Asian country; $25 furnishes materials and tools to rebuild a house destroyed by a hurricane in a Caribbean country.

"For every dollar that you, the public, donated last year CARE provided $6.73 worth of aid. We were able to do this through stringent economy measures and by combining U.S. Food-for-Peace commodities with contributions from domestic and foreign governments, private individuals and companies. The beneficiaries provide labor and locally available materials for the self-help projects," he said.

To order, at a minimum contribution of $3 per card, write to CARE, Dept. HOL, Box 570, New York, N.Y. 10016 or to any regional CARE office. Cards will be sent to you, or if you want CARE to mail the cards for you, please send the names and addresses on your gift list and indicate how each card should be signed. Order early for delivery before the holidays.

Pleasant Home Church held our Sunday afternoon service with the Rev. Arthur Kelly officiating.

We also had Sam Hill and his band Sunday afternoon. They played the kind of music we really enjoy. We hope they will come back again soon.

We don't know what we would do without Patsy Craig. She is so faithful to come every week to be with us. Not only does she give us a good Bible lesson, but she shows she cares for each and every one of us.

Freda Harmon visited with her mother, Blanche Clayton. They also played dominoes. Charles Murry visited with Blanche Graham and brought her some goodies. Other visitors were Bobbie Spence and Jackie Schofer from Lubbock. Zora Robinson, Inez Grantham and Little Sanders also visited.

We want to welcome our two new residents Lucille Knight and Thelma Hodges. We are happy to have them with us.

HAVE A HEARTH!

Enjoy using your fireplace, but have no illusions about the heat you get from it. It may be warm right near the hearth, but overall a fireplace draws heat out of the house and sends it uselessly up the chimney. To prevent this, buy a glass screen instead of the conventional metal mesh. Better still install a "heatolator," a device which actually captures hearth heat and sends it into the room.

It also helps to open a window near the burning fireplace just a crack, to supply air to the fire directly, without drawing heated air from the rest of the house. Close the fireplace damper after the fire is safely out.

While you shouldn't normally fiddle with the thermostat, you should lower the setting to between 50° F and 55° F while the fireplace is in use.

Safety experts estimate that more than half of the 10,000 pedestrians struck and killed each year by automobiles had been drinking.

Museum opens new art exhibit

LUBBOCK — An exhibit, including paintings by major American artists Georgia O'Keeffe, N.C. Wyeth, Robert Vickrey, d Robert Wood and Peter Hurd and foreign artists Leon Gaspard and Jose Luis Cuevas, went on display Thursday (Nov. 20) at The Museum of Texas Tech University.

Taken from the collections of The Museum, West Texas Museum Association and Texas Tech University Foundation, the works will be in the permanent gallery for art through Jan. 18.

"The Purple Hills" and an untitled work by O'Keeffe, who taught art in Amarillo public schools and West Texas State University, are part of the exhibit.

"The Prospector" and "Cowboy Watering His Horse" by Wyeth will be displayed. Wyeth, a painter and illustrator, created murals for the Missouri State Capitol, New York Public Library and the National Geographic Society in Washington, D.C. He is the father and first art teacher of American watercolorist Andrew Wyeth.

Vickrey's "Stone Leaves," Wood's "Along the Brazos" and Hurd's "Uncle John" and "Moonlight" are also part of the exhibit. Hurd, western painter, painted the South Plains history mural in the rotunda of Holden Hall at Texas Tech.

Works by Gaspard, a Russian painter who painted in Europe and Asia before settling in the Taos, N.M., area, are "After the Storm" and "In the Sun — Taos Pueblo Woman."

An Ink and watercolor, "Hombre Viejo Con Su Madre" by Cuevas, a contemporary artist of Mexico, was purchased this year.

"Sun Mirage" by Avel de Knight, a Black American painter, "Seeing Through My Mind's Eye" by Patrick Swazo Hinds, an American Indian Artist, "Fille se Coiffant" by French artist Marcel Dyf and "Below the Summit" by Ethel Magafan, a prominent American woman artist, are other works in the exhibit.

Some of the paintings have been purchased by the West Texas Museum Association or donated as gifts. Others have been purchased through Clifford B. Jones estate funds and funds from the National Endowment for the Arts.

Southwest area artists represented in the exhibit include Wilson Hurley of Albuquerque, N.M., Manuel Acosta of El Paso, Frank Gervasi of Alpine, Fremont Ellis of Santa Fe, N.M., and Julian Onderdonk of San Antonio.

Other artist with works on display include John Sloan, Robert Henri, Marsden Hartley, Abraham Rattner, Herbert Dunton, Nicolai Fechin and Henriette Wyeth Hurd.

A favorite artist of Lyndon B. Johnson, Porfirio Salinas, is represented by the work, "Big Bend Country."

The Museum is open 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Mondays and Fridays, 8:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays, and 1-4:30 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays.

Christmas seals began in 1907

Wigwags on a snowy plain. Santa on a surfboard. A grinning angel flashing golden wings. These are some of the striking images on this year's Christmas Seals, created by young children across the country.

In a world of turbulent change, traditions like Christmas — and Christmas Seals — reinforce lasting values. Peace, health, concern for others.

Way back in 1907, a woman called Emily Bissell, who was deeply concerned about the plight of TB patients, created the first Christmas Seal to save one treatment center. The Seals proved such a success that they have provided a direct way ever since for Americans to support lung associations in the fight for better lung health for everyone.

When Emily Bissell designed the first US Seal, TB and other infectious diseases cut life brutally short for most people. The average life span was 47 years. Today the span has been stretched almost three decares longer. That accomplishment represents a miracle made possible by astonishing medical advances, including drug treatment of TB, along with drastic changes in the way people protect their own health.

But, says the American Lung Association of Texas, those changes have not been drastic enough. Cigarette smoking kills 300,000 Americans every year and inflicts crippling disabilities on thousands more. Environmental hazards and dirty air are major threats to the lungs. Today, three-quarters of Americans die lingering deaths from long-term disease. Chronic lung disease is a critical public health problem.

Children deserve healthy lungs and a pollution-free future, says the American Lung Association of Texas. Contributions to Christmas Seals help foster that future. It's a matter of life and breath. For more information, write the American Lung Association of Texas, 7701 N. Lamar, Suite 104, Austin, Texas 78752.

New Chain Saw Cuts More Wood

Cutting a new place for itself among homeowners and others who need a more powerful chain saw to cut more wood is a new model that has all the features to satisfy these heavy wood-cutting demands.

Satisfying heavy woodcutting demands is a powerful new chain saw.

The new heavy-duty gas-powered chain saw features 3.3 cubic inch engine displacement and incorporates advanced engineering design and many important features. The new model has automatic oiling, professional-type Capacitor Discharge ignition for easy starting, low operating sound levels and superior balance.

For greater comfort and longer operating life there's a new vibration isolation system that separates exterior engine housings from the powerhead. Called Model 330, it was introduced by the Homelite Division of Textron, Inc., the nation's largest manufacturer of chain saws. Moreover, to improve operator safety as well as ease of handling, the new chain saw is equipped with an exclusive anti-kickback protective device that eliminates kickback when properly installed. Happily, this won't prevent more and more consumers getting a kick out of the extra wood they're able to cut.

COTTON TALKS

FROM PLAINS COTTON GROWERS, INC.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture now has announced that growers of either wheat or feed grains in 1981 will be required to plant within their established Normal Crop Acreage in order to qualify for loans, disaster coverage or price deficiency payments under government programs.

A pending announcement on whether cotton producers also will be shackled by the same requirement is not expected until after December 2. There is industrywide opposition to the requirement for cotton, plus opposition from state officials of USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service but the Washington source November 20 told Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. that as far as the current Administration is concerned "it looks now like you're going to get it."

And the American Cotton Shippers Association indignantly reported from Washington Nov. 17 that "Unless the cotton industry and sympathetic legislators overrule him, USDA Economic Czar Howard Hjort will be successful in his attempt to limit plantings and thus embargo the production of cotton in much of the Belt."

The "embargo" of production refers to 10 cotton producing states where the NCA requirement reportedly would force farmers to reduce acreage of basic crops by from eight percent to as much as 26 percent.

Texas as a whole, and especially the High Plains, would be much less severely affected. Statewide plantings of wheat, grain sorghum, corn, barley, rice and upland cotton in 1980 totaled 20,366,459 acres as compared to the states' total NCA's of 23,922,420.

In the 25 High Plains counties represented by PCG, 6,900,325 acres were planted to these crops in 1980, considerably below the area's aggregate NCA of 7,485,413 acres. It is assumed the remaining acreage was planted to soybeans, sunflowers, sugar beets, vegetables, etc.

Only two of PCG's 25 counties show planted acreage significantly above their NCA's. Those counties, Bailey and Cochran, according to local ASCS officials, are counties in which there was considerable double cropping due to early losses of wheatland, replanted to cotton or losses of cotton replanted to grain sorghum. In those cases only the planting of one crop is counted against the farm's NCA.

Nevertheless, PCG is fighting the NCA requirement on the grounds that it is unnecessary, difficult and costly to administer and will cause a hardship on a number of individual producers who for one reason or another have NCA's much smaller than the acreage they'd like to plant or have plans to switch planting patterns.

"We still have hopes that the mounting evidence against the wisdom of a cotton NCA requirement next year will be heeded by Secretary Bergland and company," says PCG President Joe D. Unfried of New Home, "but if it isn't there's still a possibility that the incoming administration can be induced to reverse Bergland's decision or at least modify the regulations to reduce unwarranted government interference with farm management decisions."

Veterans to get reminders mail

Approximately 620,000 elderly veterans or their survivors will receive reminders in the mail this week that it's time once again to take a look at their income for this year to make certain it still meets Veterans Administration pension requirements.

The reminder will come with their pension checks in the form of a card explaining that pensioners over 72 who have been receiving VA pensions for the last two years must report to VA any changes in the number or status of their dependents and any annual income increase that takes it above the VA income limits.

The pensioners who will receive the reminder cards are veterans or their survivors who chose at the end of 1978 to remain under what is now called the "old" VA pension plan because it was to their advantage to do so. Their pension rates were frozen at the end of the year.

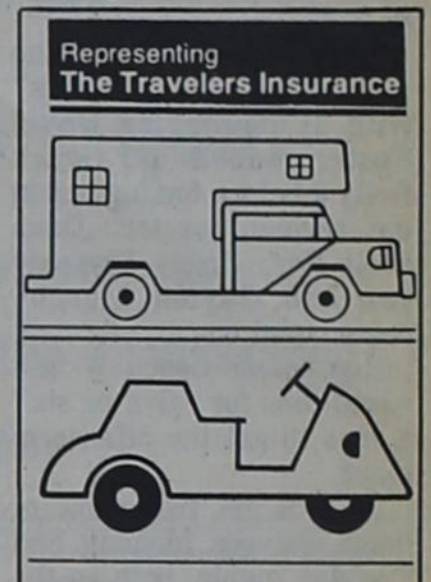

A smaller group of pension recipients chose to switch to a more recent plan which offers higher rates to some pensioners, depending on individual circumstances.

Pension recipients receiving the card need not report cost-of-living increases in their social security income since VA automatically records cost-of-living rate increases.

Should pensioners have any questions regarding the information asked for on the card they should contact the nearest VA Regional Office.

Lope attack not yet in Coach Sid Wright's new "run and shoot" offense can't be learned in just five practice sessions. That was proved here Friday night when Coach Wright's Lopes were run over by Coahoma 86 to 47.

Leslie Willard was the best of the local "shooters" with 21 points, as David Foster added 10, Mark Holly 8 before fouling out in the second quarter, Dana Scott five, Benny Kennedy two and Gaylon Murphy contributed one.

Remember Coach Wright asked fans for "five or six" games to get the offense in place.

He will get two more of those chances Monday and Tuesday nights, both on the home floor, when the Lopes engage Petersburg Monday night and Jayton here Tuesday.

Coahoma jumped into a 21 to 4 first period lead, led 39 to 22 at the half, and 64 to 33 after three.

The Lopes committed 30 fouls and canned 15 of their 28 freethrows for 54 percent accuracy at the line.

The Post girls, already one year into their offense and with almost three months practice behind them, had no trouble in scoring wins over Coahoma.

Coach Sonja Curry's Lady Lopes jumped into front 10 to 4 and won going away 49 to 33 with nine players getting into the scoring column.

It was 30 to 16 for Post at the half and 40 to 28 after three.

Dee Dee Redman led the Post scoring with 11 points. Doris Pringler and Darla Jackson followed with eight each, Lana Dunn had six, Luann Kennedy five, Marinette Hays four, Tina Greene three, and Amy Thuett and Jerri Baumann two each.

The Post girls JVs, playing the preliminary, came away with a 35 to 24 triumph.

It was a close game, 6 all at the quarter, 11 to 10 for Post at the half, and 17 to 16 for Post after three, but the locals hit for 18 points in the fourth period to put the game away.

Trushell Marts led the Post scoring with eight points, Jean Price had seven, Lora Pringler six, Lisa Holly and Sheryl Anderson four each, and Cindee Jackson two.

Monday night's action (tonight) preliminaries will see the Junior Varsity boys starting the action at 5 p.m. against the Petersburg JVs, with the varsity girls following and then the varsity boys.

Tuesday night here in the high school gym will see all four of the high school teams playing. The JV girls will begin at 4 p.m., followed by the JV boys, varsity girls and boys.

The teams will take a Thanksgiving break and see their next action Tuesday, Dec. 2 at Crosbyton when the holidays are over.

$2000 offered in scholarships

REESE AFB, — Second Lieutenant Steve MacLaird, the new Scholarship Awards Committee Chairman for the Lubbock, Texas, Chapter of the Air Force Association wants to remind all high school seniors in the State of Texas that the deadline for submitting essays to compete for $2,000 worth of college scholarship prizes is November 30, 1980.

Lieutenant MacLaird stated that this year the number of essays already submitted for the Texas AFA-Earle North Parker Scholarships has exceeded the number of entries submitted by this time during past years. "This situation may reflect and increased interest in the military on the part of the civilian community that has been generated by political events throughout the world during the past few years, and by the issues raised recently during our national elections," Lt. MacLaird commented. "Whatever the reason," he concluded, "We are pleased with this year's increased response."

Lieutenant MacLaird then reiterated that all high school seniors in the State of Texas have an opportunity to compete for the three cash scholarships to be awarded for the best essays submitted during the statewide contest sponsored by the Air Force Association. Each essay should be original, and from 500 to 600 words long, and should be written on the topic: "National Defense... Whose Responsibility?"

The three scholarships that will be awarded by AFA Texas will be worth $1,000, $750, and $250 respectively to the first, second, and third place winners.

Any high school senior wishing to enter the contest and needing an official entry form should contact 2nd Lieutenant Steve MacLaird at PSC Box 8246, Reese AFB, Texas, 79489, by mail, or by telephone at (806) 885-3657.

Each essay that Lieutenant MacLaird receives will be evaluated by the scholarship awards committee of the Lubbock AFA Chapter. The winner will be announced in mid-January 1981, and will receive a $100 savings bond from the Lubbock AFA Chapter. The winning essay will then be forwarded to the Texas State AFA headquarters where it will compete for best in the State with essay winners from eighteen other chapters.

Drivers urged to drive 55

Texas Safety Association's executive director, George Gustafson, today reminded Texans to "drive 55" this Thanksgiving in order to significantly lower their chances of having a fatal accident.

He also pointed out various economic benefits of the 55 mph speed limit.

Gustafson emphasized that the risk of a fatal accident at 55 mph is only 1 in 33, while at 70 mph the chance is 50-50, or 1 in 2.

Last year in Texas, 4,229 persons died in traffic accidents, according to Texas Department of Public Safety statistics. Approximately one fourth, or 1,046, of the fatalities resulted from accidents involving speeding.

Gustafson indicated that by slowing down to 55, Texans have saved an average of 700 lives each year since the 55 mph speed limit went into effect. "Furthermore, on a national level, the 55 mph speed limit has been described as the single most effective means of saving lives ever implemented by the government, even when compared with the massive polio immunizations of the 1960's" he said.

In addition to the safety advantages of driving 55, Gustafson also commented on the financial benefits of the slower speed. For example, it saves gasoline.

"Department of Transportation studies show that automobiles get better gas mileage at 55 than 70 mph. For the average car, that translates into approximately more miles per tankful. Smaller, fuel efficient cars get even better savings," he said.

Slower, safer speeds also reduce expenses in other areas besides gasoline costs, the safety official continued. Fewer accidents will mean reduced hospitalization and medical costs for the state's citizens, and less income lost by employees who must miss work to recuperate from injuries. Furthermore, motorists will save money by driving at the slower, legal speed because they will avoid speeding tickets.

On behalf of the Texas Safety Association, Gustafson wished all Texans a happy Thanksgiving and warned them not to jeopardize an enjoyable holiday by speeding.

School play—

Schroeder proved to be just a serious minded loner, that is when Lucy left him alone. He was not safe anywhere from her loving advances, not safe even on the pitchers mound playing baseball.

Patty was a loveable little girl who just skipped through the scenes lighting up the audience with her one liners and being Snoopy's friend.

The production in itself was unusual because of the stage changes and lighting, both professional jobs, done by both crews, which evidently took as much practice and timing as the roles the characters played. The curtains were drawn only during the intermission, and all stage changes were done with curtains open and lights out.

The use of funny "one-liners" kept the crowd roaring as the changes were smoothly made during the entire play.

The cast, crews, and directors were given a standing ovation by the near full house of delighted onlookers.

TSCRA agents break theft ring

FORT WORTH — Field inspectors of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association literally caught "red-handed" suspects in a Central Texas cattle theft ring as they worked stolen cattle in a pasture near Fairfield, Texas, recently, says Don C. King, TSCRA secretary-general manager in Fort Worth.

Statements given to authorities by two suspects tie the ring to the theft of 81 head of cattle, four trailers, 190 square bales of hay, one posthole digger and three spare tires. A fair market value for the stolen goods has not been assessed.

The Freestone County grand jury issued indictments Nov. 10 against Danny Robert Cockerell, 33; Lendell Small, 35; and C. E. "Bud" Robinson, 36, all of Fairfield, for cattle theft under $10,000. The suspects are accused of stealing two cows and eight yearlings in Fairfield from Jim Weaver of Irving, Texas, on or about Sept. 7. The cattle were sold at a Groesbeck livestock auction market. They are also accused of stealing 10 head of cattle, all yearlings, in Fairfield from Mrs. Naomi Bock of Houston. These cattle were

Cream Doughnuts For Chanukah

The Jewish holiday of Chanukah is celebrated every year for eight nights and eight days. Candles will be lit in every Jewish home—one on the first night, two on the second, three on the third—and so on up to the eighth night when eight candles will be lit. The Menorah, a special nine-branch candelabrum, will be used for the occasion. The ninth branch holds an extra candle from which the others will be lit. The significance of the candle ceremony is that it recalls the rekindling of the lights of the Temple when the holy place was rededicated after the Maccabean warriors had recaptured it from the Syrians.

Unlike Passover, there are no special food restrictions for Chanukah. Fried foods are traditional at this time of year and many Jewish cooks like to serve fruit fritters and doughnuts for dessert. The Holiday Cream Doughnuts pictured here are fried in Planters Peanut Oil which is kosher and pareve. The luscious cream filling makes these doughnuts festive enough to serve as dessert after a holiday meal.

HOLIDAY CREAM DOUGHNUTS

Makes about 18 filled doughnuts

- 1 cup water
- 1/2 cup (1 stick) margarine
- 1 cup unsifted flour
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 4 eggs

Planters Peanut Oil Confectioners' sugar

Combine water and margarine in a saucepan. Bring to a boil. Stir in flour and sugar. Continue stirring vigorously until mixture forms a ball. Remove from heat. Beat in eggs, one at a time. Stir until mixture is smooth and well blended.

Carefully drop mixture by slightly rounded tablespoons into deep hot (380° F.) peanut oil. Fry until puffed and browned, about 10 minutes. Remove with slotted spoon and place on paper towels to drain. Cool thoroughly.

Carefully cut each doughnut in half about 3/4 through. Place about 2 tablespoons Cream Filling (recipe below) on cut surface of each. Close gently and serve sprinkled with confectioners' sugar.

Cream Filling: In a bowl combine 1 cup milk, 1/2 cup heavy cream, 3 tablespoons dry sherry or 2 tablespoons banana liqueur and 1 tablespoon honey.

Fort Worth. This network collects brand information on more than six million head of cattle in Texas annually.

Two gooseneck trailers belonging to Don Schiller of Taylor were also stolen and later abandoned in Madison County, Texas. The trailers, valued at $3,000 each by their owner, have been recovered.

One suspect has given a statement admitting to the theft of 15 head of cattle and a stock trailer from the Bowie, Texas, livestock auction Oct. 7. Nine head were sold in Georgetown, Texas, at the local auction. Six head were in the pasture near Fairfield when TSCRA inspectors arrested the suspects. The trailer was recovered in Fairfield Oct. 31 by TSCRA.

The suspects have also been implicated in the theft of a flatbed trailer and posthole digger from Groveton, Texas, in Trinity County. TSCRA recovered this trailer and equipment Nov. 1.

They have also been linked to the theft of 190 bales of hay from Warren Awall of Fairfield.

Cockerell has been released on bond, but faces warrants from Trinity and Montague counties. White has made bond, while Robinson and Small remain in jail at this time.

"The investigation is continuing and more cases may be cleared," King said. "more warrants are expected on the suspects."

INSECT PESTS IN FIREWOOD

Winter is here and many folks will be bringing wood in from the woodpile to fuel their fireplaces.

If the woodpile has set in the backyard during the summer, it is probably well infested with insects by now. The woodpile may harbor any number of pests, ranging from those which can cause structural damage to the house, to those which can be a nuisance.

Small piles of sawdust around the logs usually indicates wood boring beetles, which may emerge when brought into the warmth of the house.

One of the most common wood boring insects to emerge from mesquite firewood is a long-horned beetle called the painted hickory borer. This black and yellow striped borer has red-dish legs and is about one inch long. Eggs are deposited in the spring on mesquite trees cut during fall or winter or on dying or recently killed trees. The larvae cut tunnels through the wood during the summer, pupate in late fall and are brought indoors in the firewood. They warm up and emerge from firewood during late winter or spring. These beetles will not attack furniture in the house but are usually found in windows trying to get back outside. To prevent beetles from emerging in the house, burn the wood soon after it is brought inside or use firewood that has been dead at least two seasons.

If the wood has been stacked on the ground, termites may have infested the logs closest to the soil. A plastic sheet under the woodpile would help to reduce infestations next year.

Ants, wasps, scorpions, spiders, and cockroaches are just a few of the other pests likely to be encountered in the firewood.

To prevent these pests from dampening the benefits of a fireplace, a few simple procedures can be followed: (1) never store firewood in or near the house, cockroaches are difficult to control and termites can easily infest any wood structures near by; (2) if the bark is loose on the wood, then knock the logs together to dislodge any insects; (3) burn the wood as soon as possible when it is brought into the house, never leaving it more than a day or two; and (4) never apply insecticides to firewood, some are toxic or smell bad when burned, and distract from the pleasure of a crackling fireplace.

Cotton dust standard set aside by court

MEMPHIS — The Fifth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans has ruled in favor of the cotton ginning industry in setting aside the OSHA cotton dust standard that has been applied to gins.

National Cotton Council President Hermon Propst said the court's ruling is a victory for small businessmen faced with "impractical" demands of government regulations.

He congratulated the ginners' associations, who sought the standard's overturn, on "a very significant accomplishment."

He said the ruling will provide for a more equitable solution to the industry's most serious problem, and said he hoped it will result in a more reasonable approach to future rulemaking.

"Cotton ginners are small businessmen who had thrust on them an unnecessary, unreasonable set of regulations by the federal government. The ruling in New Orleans in canceling the dust standard for gins is vindication of the American principle that there must be justice and common sense in any regulations handed down by government," Propst said.

The court said OSHA had not offered "substantial evidence" that its cotton ginning regulations are "reasonably necessary and appropriate." Cotton-related dust in some processing industries has been implicated in breathing ailments, but the ginners' associations bringing the suit against OSHA argued successfully that employees have never been shown to develop such ailments as a result of working in gins.

"Consequently, application of the gin standard would impose unnecessary costs with no possibility for offsetting benefits," Propst said.

The court sent the standard back to OSHA "for further consideration."

Letter to Editor

EXPRESSES THANKS

Dear Editor: We would like to acknowledge the services of the law enforcement officers of Post for their help in funeral processions.

Crossing the major highways, often against the lights, is dangerous without their assistance. They not only protect cars in the procession, but also those in the cross traffic who are unaware of the nature of the traffic crossing.

The warning lights on the lead car alerts drivers not to back out of the parking place, or make a turn until the traffic is clear. This prevents the risk and embarrassment of drivers who otherwise would not know the nature of the traffic.

Just let us say THANKS to all officers for a job well done.

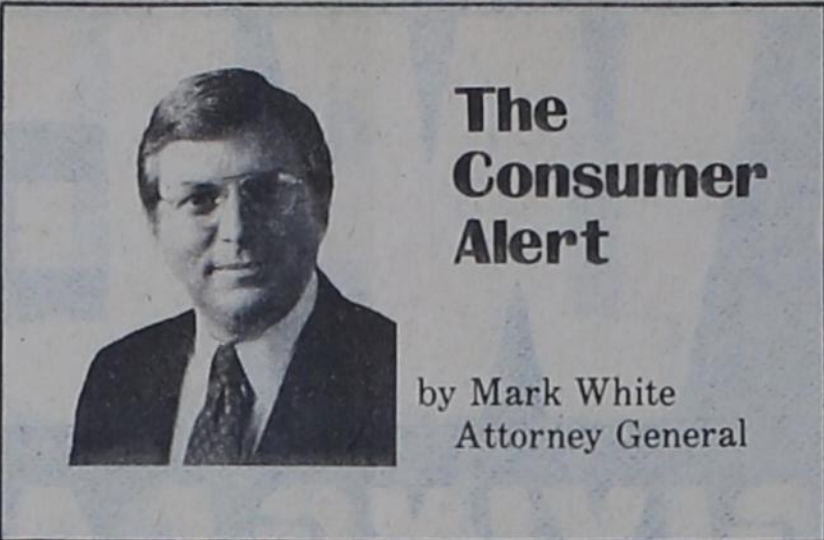

Sincerely,
Hudman Funeral Home

The meeting is being held to explain the SBA Farm Disaster Loan Program to interested farmers, ranchers and to persons in agriculture-related businesses and to make available application packets. The loans are made at low interest rates at terms according to ability to repay.

Disaster Loan Specialists from the Lubbock Office will speak at the meeting.

The Consumer Alert

by Mark White
Attorney General

AUSTIN—Now that cold weather months are with us in Texas most of us are thinking about ways to minimize our heating bills.

The first thing that comes to mind for many of us is the cozy and inviting blaze of a fireplace, although how much warmth and comfort a fireplace can provide on a chilly evening may be questionable. Unless a fireplace is installed correctly and the proper materials are used, consumers will find that resulting problems could cause more discomfort than comfort.

For those of us considering a new fireplace the first step is to decide on the type and size of the fireplace. The best known fireplace is the traditional version with firebrick interior and brick on stone chimney. Another type is the pre-assembled built-in unit with metal firebox and flue. This type can be installed to look like the traditional version, including enclosing the metal flue within a chimney. The third type is the free standing pre-fabricated unit that can be placed anywhere in the room. Each of these types should be safe and satisfactory if installed correctly and made of proper materials.

Several sizes of fireplaces are available. The size you choose determines the size of the logs you can burn. You should also decide what options you want, such as a gas or butane starter or an outside door or special drawer for ash removal. Also consider some of the heat-circulating devices that are designed to improve the ability of the fireplace to heat an entire room. Some of these could prove to be worthwhile investments for those of us who want our fireplaces to provide a major source of heat.

Before you decide upon a contractor it is always wise to get several bids and to discuss exactly what you want before any of the actual work begins. Reputable companies and individuals are generally happy to show you examples of their work. After you have reached an agreement be sure a contract is completed which specifies what work is to be done, and the price and the timetable for completion of the job. While many contractors have drawn up their own standard contracts you should still be sure to review such a contract carefully to see that it states the precise agreement you have reached.

One final tip from our Consumer Protection and Antitrust Division is to be wary of paying too much money before the work is completed to your satisfaction. A good rule of thumb is to hold back a substantial portion of the purchase price until the job is completed.

Our Consumer Protection Division has received a number of reports of fireplace construction problems over the last several years. If you have any questions about specific contractors or wish to lodge a formal complaint contact your local Better Business Bureau and the Attorney General's Regional Office in your area.
