Saturday voting all at community center

Voters will get eight votes in three spring elections here Saturday with just a single stop at the Post Community Center.

It's never been that convenient for local votes before. In past years they have had to stop at three different voting places.

At the suggestion of some of the voters themselves, the city, school district and hospital district have agreed to hold their elections in the community center.

There will be different election judges and clerks with three separate ballots.

Voters will select two school trustees, three hospital directors, two city council "persons", and one week he would rather not disclose his reason for withdrawal but asked that voters not vote for him. He said he has been informing friends of his decision.

The state election law says a name cannot be taken off the ballot within 21 days of the election. That is because the ballots have to be printed in advance for the absentee voting which closed here Tuesday evening.

Other candidates for city council posts in the order in which their names will appear on the ballot beneath Gordon's are Maxine Marks Earl, Ray Bagby, Ronald G. (Ronny) Ammons, W.G. (Bill) Pool, Jr., Johnnie Q. Ward and Jack Glenn Ault.

Mrs. Earl and Pool are (See Elections, Page 16)

The Dispatch hereby selects for its "one liner of the year" award President Ronald Reagan's remark when he entered the hospital operating room after being shot Tuesday afternoon. He said "I hope all of you are Republicans."

His son didn't come up with a bad one either when a TV crew caught him in a quote concerning his father's condition before a post operative announcement was made. Said son: "He's going to serve out his full eight years."

Now how do all the Democrats like that one?

We got the assassination attempt flash direct from Washington on a telephone wire early Tuesday afternoon before it hit the national air waves. An aide of Senator Lloyd Bentsen was calling to discuss sending us a column head for the senator's weekly column which we are starting to publish today on The Dispatch's new editorial page.

He started out by saying there had been "a shooting incident" reported outside the Hotel Hilton in which somebody had fired some shots at the president but apparently missed him.

Speaking of The Dispatch's expanded editorial page which you will find on page 2, we had hoped to do a better job of it but were "delightfully" overwhelmed by Dispatch advertisers this week and didn't have time to do it full justice.

The Dispatch hasn't missed an issue for editorials in the last 24 years but hasn't had a real editorial page full of columns and comments. We hope to improve it and add additional column material too.

This is just one of the improvements we're planning for The Dispatch. Another will be a new "church page" if we can get enough church news to go with our second year-to-go church directory ad. We had considerable church news this week, so it looks good for a starter.

Post group tours Reece

Approximately 35 to 50 Post citizens toured the Reece Air Force Base last Wednesday on "Post Day" at that air force installation.

Included in the group were 11 high school students who made the trip in a school bus and a group of senior citizens in their mini-bus.

The retreat ceremony was cancelled due to the weather with the local group spending most of their time viewing the simulators in which student pilots are introduced to a lot of aerial situations without leaving the ground, and on the flight line viewing different types of aircraft used at the air base.

By just 23 judging points—

Post fails to win huge block grant

The City of Post failed by just 23 judging points in obtaining a $1,725,000 three-year community development block grant from the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

Mayor Giles McCrary has been notified Post scored 650 rating points and 673 points would have been necessary to outscore Huntsville which received the ninth and final grant in the Small City Grant Program for Texas.

Post ranked 14th among 43 small cities and counties applying for grants. Top-ranked in the state competition was Spur with 756 points for its $1,572,000 grant.

The eight others receiving grants were Lamesa, $5,250,000, 725 points; Lockney, $812,000, 705 points; Levelland, $2,250,000, 702 points; Tenaha, $345,000, 695 points; Clarksville, $2,250,000, 689 points; Tahoka, $2,250,000, 684 points; Nacadoches, $2,250,000, 682 points, and Huntsville, $2,250,000, 672 points.

Communities now receiving grants and the rating points received in order of points were:

Lampasas, 669 points; Jasper, 656 points; Sweetwater 655 points; Post, 650 points; Plainview, 632 points; Eagle Lake 631 points; Limestone County, 609 points; Borger, 607 points; Coleman, 604 points and Center, 600 points; Hillsboro 596 points.

City appraisal almost finished

The reappraisal of the northwest portion of the Garza County Tax Appraisal District is progressing very well as the Associated Tax Service personnel learn their way around the Southland School District.

The City of Post has been measured and classified with the exception of some of the outlying portions that are carried on the tax roll as in abstract and section number.

Much back-up work has been done on the aerial maps and with the computer to coordinate the different taxing entities to make up a master roll of all the property in the district. Burt Lively of Associated Tax Services says his firm plans to have the City of Post data key punched into the computer and the Southland ISD measured by Friday, April 3, if at all possible.

The homestead and Agricultural exemptions are coming in and being filed in the local tax appraisal office until the deadline of April 30. After April 30th they will be sent to the computer and put on the tax roll.

On losing $1,750,000

The failure by Post by only 23 points of winning a $1,750,000 community block grant from HUD is a disappointment to many, especially to Councilwoman Maxine Earl who worked so hard individually to win federal funds for local "poor areas."

In looking over the point scoring The Dispatch could see that the local application was a good one. We would say we lost out as far as funding was concerned simply because this community has taken more positive steps than many other Texas communities to improve its own way of life.

For one thing, the minorities generally have spread into most residential areas of the city, and are not boxed together to make their life style more depressing.

Most of the HUD funding was to be spent on improved housing, which certainly is badly needed here. With home improvement costing so much, those toward the bottom of our economic scale have a much more difficult time improving their homes.

There are of course many who question the idea of Uncle Sam using billions of taxpayers' money to fund home improvements for a few without any real strings attached. Most everybody has considerable reservations on this score. But then there's the argument that Sam is going to give those billions to the poor somewhere and Post deserves to get its share.

It was the first time Post has made an application for a block grant although Mrs. Earl has been working on the project for two or three years trying to create enough interest to generate council action.

She vows to be back at the HUD counter next year with an even more attractive proposition.

The truth is of course there won't be nearly as much "merchandise" on HUD's shelves next year if the Reagan Revolution" is successful in turning the budget-cutting corner during this session of Congress.

One aspect of the turnaround of the block grant application is that Post isn't going to get $150,000 to finance park improvements, especially an expensive new set of plumbing for the swimming pool.

We're going to have to "make do" with city and county funds, but actually we can manage on those just fine.

"ABOUT THE MOTOR... I'M AFRAID WE HAVE BAD NEWS FOR YOU."

Congressional Comment

WASHINGTON, D.C. — One of the few real economic stories of the past few years has been the economic power that our agricultural trade has provided this nation.

During the 1970's, the value of United States agricultural exports has increased five times and the volume of trade increased by two and one-half times. Every citizen has a stake in those exports, although few outside of the agricultural industry may have thought about it, because agriculture's contribution to the reduction of our national balance of trade effects everyone's pocket.

Despite the fact that we are the major world power in agricultural trade, however, we have consistently failed to use this power to the extent necessary to provide the maximum returns to our economy.

For this reason, I have introduced two bills that will provide the mechanism by which our competitive position in agricultural world trade can be further strengthened and enhanced. Most importantly, the economic returns to our entire economy, and consequently to every American, can be significantly increased.

The first bill, H.R. 2377, provides for the establishment of a revolving credit fund for the development of agricultural exports to those nations which have need of short term credit but for various reasons are unable or unwilling to obtain this credit through normal commercial sources. This type of program is necessary to provide U.S. exports with a competitive edge in the opening and establishment of new markets.

History has proven that initial entrance and market presence in developing economies are of immeasurable benefit in terms of maintaining markets in later years as these economies mature and become regular and dependable export customers. This legislation does not require the appropriation of new funds, but only makes additional use of the funds which are due to be repaid to the Commodity Credit Corporation during this and the next two fiscal years. These loans would be made at commercial rates and would not be on concessional terms.

The second bill, H.R. 2376, provides for the appointment of an additional Deputy U.S. Trade Representative. Trade negotiations are of vital importance to the success of our programs for agricultural and other exports. I believe it is essential that the U.S. be represented at the highest levels possible by an adequate number of individuals who can devote proper attention to all areas of importance in that trade area.

While this legislation does not require that his additional Deputy Trade Representative be established to deal exclusively with agricultural trade issues, I would hope that the formation of this new position will enable the Office of the U.S. Trade Representative to devote the high level attention to the agricultural trade matters that will be so necessary in the months ahead.

It is my understanding that such a position can be accommodated at current staff levels within the office of the U.S. Trade Representative.

These two non-inflationary bills would provide an important cornerstone in a revitalized, aggressive agricultural trade policy that is a key element in the campaign of economic recovery that the 97th Congress had embarked upon for this country.

MORE COMING

In case you are tired of sandstorms already, Bill Fryrear of the U.S. Experiment Station in Big Spring has a gloomy report. He says those we had two weeks ago are only two of 26 predicted for the year. And he rated that one on Tuesday, March 17, as only a four on a scale of 10. About every 46 years, he says, we can expect a nine, and a 10 comes along only about every 350 years. — Wacil McNair, Snyder News.

GOOD CROP FORECAST

John Green, Spur's answer to Frank (Chief) Runkles, the Post "Indian" crop forecaster, said this year the signs point to a good year. In past years, John has gone up the hill behind his home in Spur, started a fire at dawn on March 22 and depending on which way the wind is blowing at the time, offered a prediction on the crops for the area. This is a custom developed by the Comanche Indians who once frequented this area and is said to be 94 percent accurate.

However, this year it was a different story. Readers will recall that early Sunday morning, March 22 the wind was blowing very strongly out of the north. So instead of going to the hill behind his home to build a fire, John propped his feet up and leaned back in an easy chair and turned his TV to the local weather channel.

"The wind was blowing straight out of the north at 25 miles an hour. It was 40 degrees, John pointed out. "This indicates a good crop year."

As it turned out, Chief Runkles also performed his Indian ceremony inside this

CAPITOL UPDATE

John Tower

U.S. SENATOR for TEXAS
142 RUSSELL OFFICE BUILDING
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20510

Recent Senate committee hearings confirmed that the Administration's grain embargo has had a minimal effect on the Soviet Union, while dealing a hammer blow to the American farmer.

The President's purpose in imposing an embargo on grain sales to the Soviet Union was to punish the Soviets for their invasion and subjugation of Afghanistan. We were told depriving the Russians of feed grains would have a devastating impact on their meat production. In fact, the impact has been so slight, the average Russian is giving up not more than the equivalent to two hamburgers a month. Brezhnev probably isn't giving up that much.

For the farmer, the embargo meant plummeting prices, which began to rise again only as a result of a drought — which diminished production to such an extent many farmers will see scant benefit from the recent increases.

Therefore, we must conclude the only real victims of the embargo are American farmers. Aid promised by the Administration to minimize the damage to American agriculture has been slow and inadequate. Obviously, the embargo must be lifted immediately.

But the embargo raises even larger questions which cry for answers. A number of my colleagues and I have called for joint hearings of the Senate Agriculture, Banking and Foreign Relations committees to examine these critical issues. We are concerned that the decision to embargo grain as an instrument of foreign policy apparently was made without thinking through the implications for the future.

We want to ask Administration officials: — Have trade suspensions proven to be an effective tool of foreign policy? I know of no instance in which they have been.

— Does the Administration intend to make future use of trade suspensions to help carry out its foreign policy? If not, it seems unfair that the American farmer has been singled out to bear the economic brunt of our policies.

— What effect does the use of food as a foreign policy tool have on agricultural production and distribution here and abroad? Agricultural exports are about the only bright spot in our balance of payments situation. I wonder if the Administration considered the critical role these exports play in keeping the dollar stable internationally.

— Wouldn't it be better to use the phenomenal productivity of our farmers in a positive way to support U.S. foreign policy interests?

I am not satisfied that the Administration looked at these questions when it decided to respond to the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan with the grain embargo. After all, the President declared the invasion the worst act of aggression since World War II. Was the embargo our only alternative to war? That seems to be the Administration's view. Does the President plan to continue it indefinitely — despite the evidence it hasn't worked? The American farmer needs to know.

Agriculture is of critical importance to the general well-being of our people and the economic health of our nation. The American farmer has fought drought, flood and misguided federal policy, and still is a marvel of productivity and patriotism. To use him as a pawn in an international chess game is a disgrace. To do it without a well-thought out plan — with consequences and probable effectiveness thoroughly examined — is worse.

I promise you that those of us in the Senate who are concerned about these critical issues will probe and press until we get satisfactory answers.

Stenholm's leadership

President Reagan's budget cutting program may not be in nearly as much trouble in the House of Representatives which is "controlled" by the Democrats as many observers seem to think.

This is because Congressman Charles Stenholm has organized the conservative Democrats in that chamber into the Conservative Democratic Forum.

There are 44 of these Democratic congressmen in the organization and if they vote anywhere close to a block for Republican budget cutting, the Republicans will control the key votes in the house as well as in the senate where the GOP is in firm organizational control.

Conservative Democrats in the house, most of them, from southern states, used to complain a lot about the liberal social legislation pushed through congress by their party. But they did little more than complain.

The Forum was organized last September by Stenholm to counter what the group saw as disproportionate liberal influence in the House Democratic leadership and on major committees.

Now, only seven months later it is making both policy and headlines.

Early in March when President Reagan courted the Forum over a White House breakfast, members urged him to whack $11.2 billion more out of the budget than Reagan had proposed. The President told them, "You've made my day."

The new forum seems eager to rip into great society social programs, but is loath to cut money for defense, water projects or veterans. They explain: "Our special interests are just different from liberals."

Forum Founder Stenholm bristles at the suggestion of cutting farm subsidies. "How cheap do we have to make food in this country?" he asks.

Forum members caucus about once a week over breakfast. They say they won't vote as a block but this is cold comfort to Speaker Tip O'Neill. Stenholm estimates that "30 to 35" of the 44 members will vote "regularly" with the Republicans.

Thus if the 192 House Republicans stick together, as few as 26 Democratic defections would be enough for a House majority.

Voters in Stenholm's home district welcome his tough approach to party politics.

And less it has been forgotten, we point out that southern Democrats and northern Republicans ran things pretty well down the middle of the road for a good number of years in the recent past.

Senator Bentsen's weekly column--

To honor a hero...

Heroism, goes an old mountaineer's saying, is "endurance for one moment more." These days, you may think this particular virtue is in short supply.

Today it seems more often than not, the attention-getters are fleeing celebrities on the easiest path to fame. They make the most of their new-found status, because the odds are such that six months later their story will fizzle out.

On the other hand, we know of millions of unsung heroes across the country who may never be in the public eye. But their tales of heroism will endure.

It took a long time for the story of Sgt. Roy P. Benavidez to reach the American public. His story is the kind we won't forget in a few months.

Recently I attended the Washington ceremony in which President Reagan awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor to Benavidez, now a retired master sergeant and resident of El Campo, Texas. After 13 years, Sgt. Benavidez finally has been recognized properly as a genuine American hero.

Green Beret Sgt. Benavidez served with the Fifth Special Forces Group in Vietnam. On May 2, 1968, he was at his usual post — the front line of combat. After returning to a ground base from the thick of jungle battle, he turned around to plunge back in.

What spurred him on was the sight of several helicopters returning empty after failing to rescue a 12-man unit stranded by enemy fire in the jungle. Benavidez volunteered at once to get on the next helicopter going out to save those men.

In a later interview, Benavidez recalled that he entered "a hot, very hot" area. But the unflinching sergeant cool-headedly worked his way to the wounded or dead team members and set up a defense area.

Before all the wounded had been loaded into the helicopter, it was hit and rolled on its side. Sgt. Benavidez then removed the soldiers and kept directing the group's defense. He also used an emergency radio to direct air strikes against the enemy, enabling another rescue helicopter to land.

After getting all the dead and wounded soldiers onto this helicopter, the sergeant was evacuated. From the start to the finish of this mission, enemy fire struck Sgt. Benavidez time and time again, severely wounding him. Some medical corpsmen, in fact, later mistook him briefly for dead.

Yet not even the grenade wounds in his back could topple the sergeant; and the will to save his comrades kept him upright.

As a result of his actions, Sgt. Benavidez was discharged from the Army with an 80-percent disability.

Those aware of his astounding courage knew he deserved the highest award America could bestow — the Medal of Honor. His commander recommended him for it. During the mid-1970's my office was involved in administrative efforts to secure the Medal of Honor for Sgt. Benavidez. But there were some hitches. Sgt. Benavidez was denied the honor because of a lack of direct evidence. Fortunately, early last year an eyewitness to the sergeant's bravery was located on a far-off Pacific island.

The issue also was complicated by a regulation requiring the award to be made within three years of the date of the act justifying the award. Then last December Congress approved legislation I co-sponsored to waive the time limitation, permitting the President to award Sgt. Benavidez his overdue Medal of Honor.

The valiant story of this honest-to-goodness American hero was a long time coming to public attention. But like the tale of every great hero, it has endured over the years.

$4,147,000 funding approved--

Three area towns win HUD grants

Although both Post and Slaton missed getting community block grants from HUD this year at least three area towns will benefit from $4,147,000 in federal funds for a wide variety of improvements in their poorer sections.

Tahoka was the biggest winner with tentative approval given to a $2,250,000 million over the next three years.

Spur received a $1,572,000 grant for three years; and Crosbyton has been approved for $350,000 from the Department of Housing and Urban Development for housing rehabilitation.

Crosbyton has yet to hear whether a second request for $220,000 for paving and drainage improvements in the low income areas has been denied or whether action is pending.

Federal cutbacks by the Reagan Administration and congress in the federal budget would deny second and third year funds to both Tahoka and Spur, or provide somewhat reduced totals for the final two years of the three-year grants.

Tahoka has been slated by HUD for $750,000 in each of the three years.

Tahoka in 1979 received a $500,000 community development grant for paving and resurfacing roads in the area judged to be 90 percent low-income area.

The new $2,250,000 three-year grant will be used for housing rehabilitation, sewer and water improvements and more paving and street improvements.

A hearing is to be held April 9 to get feedback from citizens in the target area about what needs to be done first.

Spur, which is nearing completion of a $349,000 block grant, plans to spend its $1,500,000 received this way:

$508,000 for extensive paving and guttering.

$335,000 for rehabilitation of 50 homes.

$350,000 for relocation involving 20 families.

$53,000 for demolition of uninhabitable housing units.

$90,000 for water improvements including a six-inch line looping the Freeman Addition and includes new fire hydrants.

$20,000 for sewer improvements.

Mayor Bill Barrett, expressing his pleasure for Spur's receipt of the grant, said Spur is the smallest town in Texas to receive block grant funds this year.

Crosbyton plans to spend its $350,000 on improving 69 housing units, including owner occupied housing rehabilitation, renter occupied housing rehabilitation, and relocation and demolition.

To All the People of Post & Garza County

I am running for a seat on the school board because I am for the children. I want an all around education for all children. Being responsible for a school system that is growing and supporting that growth is an important job. Responsible thinking and common sense, especially where expenditures are concerned, are necessities.

IT'S YOUR HEALTH

answers to your questions from the Texas Department of Health

Heart disease will be the number one killer in Texas during 1981, causing more deaths than cancer, accidents and homicides combined. The following column from the Texas Department of Health answers some frequently asked questions about heart disease.

QUESTION: You hear a lot about atherosclerosis. Just what is this disease and what problems can it create?

ANSWER: Coronary arteries supply the heart with the nourishment it needs. But sometimes the arteries become narrowed, roughened and eventually blocked with fatty deposits and cholesterol. This is called atherosclerosis, a coronary artery disease that has been compared with the formation of lime deposits in a water pipe.

When the arteries get too narrow, or a clot is formed, the blood flow to the heart is blocked off entirely and that part of the heart dies. Doctors call this condition a coronary thrombosis, coronary occlusion, or a myocardial infarction.

The "Tennis Match of the Century" between Billie Jean King and Bobby Riggs also drew the greatest crowd in tennis history... 30,472. The fans who watched the match saw King beat Riggs in straight sets.

arm, neck or jaw. (3) pain or discomfort often accompanied by sweating, nausea, vomiting, and shortness of breath. Sometimes these symptoms may subside and then return.

QUESTION: What can be done to prevent heart attacks?

ANSWER: Medical studies have identified several risk factors associated with heart attack and stroke. Among these factors are heredity, sex, age, race, cigarette smoking, high blood pressure, elevated blood cholesterol, diabetes, stress and lack of exercise.

The more risk factors present or the greater the degree of abnormality, the greater the risk of heart attack. By adopting a healthy life style through exercise, proper nutrition and rest, a person can lessen the chances of suffering from heart attack.

QUESTION: What are the dangers associated with high blood pressure?

ANSWER: High blood pressure adds to the workload of the heart and arteries. If this continues for a long time, there is increased risk of stroke, heart failure, kidney failure and heart attack.

QUILTED FABRICS FOR SPRING AND SUMMER

An old winter friend will be a new spring-summer fashion item. Quilted fabrics are an important fashion item for the 80's, year round. They offer a texture dimension to fashions, and they add interest and variety to the wardrobe. Quilted fabrics do require special cutting and sewing techniques if you're trying for a professional look in homesewn fashions.

Here are some suggestions on those special techniques: Let's look at some pattern pointers first. Select a pattern with a straight silhouette. Avoid gathers and curved stitching lines, since the batting in quilted fabrics can make them bulky and prevent drape and ease. Next, there are special cutting techniques. When cutting, use the "with nap" layout. Horizontal and vertical quilt stitching will need to be matched at the seams just as you would a stripe or plaid design. Because of the fabric's thickness, hold the scissors at a right angle to the fabric as you cut. This will assure some size pattern pieces. Mark the fabric with chalk or tailor's tacks. Avoid a tracing wheel, because it may mar the quilted surface or ruin the paper pattern.

Finally, use this stitch strategy: When stitching, use a cotton-covered polyester thread in the luster and strength suitable to the fabric. Always test stitching on a fabric scrap. Match the stitch length to the length of the quilting stitch lines. This is usually eight to ten stitches per inch. Because of the fabric's bulk, you may need to lessen the presser-foot pressure and loosen the stitch tension. For stitching, use a regular sharp-point machine needle. A size 14 needle for lightweight quilted of a size 16-18 for heaviest weights should do the best jobs. To prevent the shift of the bulky fabric when stitching, pin it generously.

If stitching with two different textures, stitch with the smooth side up. An even-feed foot attachment will help the fabric feed smoothly without puckering.

To avoid distorted seam lines, stitch from center to outside and from bottom to top. To finish seams, trim away the batting in the seam allowance. This will cut down on bulk. Then you can bind the seams with seam tape. Spring and summer fashions will have that "something extra" with a little quilt-fabric fashion fun.

Convenant Players here Saturday

The Post Ministerial Alliance is sponsoring the appearance here at 7 p.m. Saturday night, April 4, in the Church of the Nazarene, 202 West 10th, the Convenant Players.

The Convenant Players got their start in the early 1960s when Charles Tanner talked of his dream of a travelling ministry in drama.

His friends smiled and told him the church would never pay for it.

But over 300,000 performances later, Convenant Players continue to roll along with over 50 full-time touring units. The players are now performing throughout 30 countries on four continents.

Convenant Players is a non-endowed, non-profit corporation. It is not affiliated with any church or other organization. Its only support is derived from performing engagements and donations.

There will be no admission charge here, but a freewill offering will be taken.

The Convenant Players unit coming to Post is what is termed a catalysts unit. Other units are regular drama and three-act special units.

The catalyst unit is the only Christian music group that is also a major drama company. They present both the unique communicative combination of foot-tapping, joyous "Rise Up, Spirits" involvement of contemporary Christian music and the long lasting, thought provoking thrust of drama.

At Calvary Baptist Church-- Spring revival to begin Monday

The Calvary Baptist Church of Post, Texas would like to invite everyone to attend the revival taking place next week (April 6 - 12) with the noon day meeting beginning at 11:45 a.m. and the evening meeting beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Jerry McFather, also known as "God's Tale-bearer" will be preaching. He is the pastor of the First Baptist Church in Rotan, Tx.

Jerry attended Amarillo Junior College, Wayland Baptist College, Dallas Instute of Mortuary Science, and received his Bachelor of Theology Degree from Alabama Bible College before becoming a full-time evangelist in television. He has lead revivals in Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas and Washington.

Bobby Rogers, who will lead the singing during the revival, is from the Westview Baptist Church in Slaton. He has been there a year and one half now serving as their Minister of Music and Youth. He is a graduate of the Criswell Center for Biblical Studies.

Revival will open Monday

The Trinity Baptist Church will hold a revival next week, beginning Monday night and ending the following Sunday. Services will be held at 7:30 p.m. each evening.

The Rev. Norris Taylor, pastor of Spur's First Baptist Church, will be the evangelist, and Jimmy Bennett of Spur will be the song leader.

Pastor Ralph White cordially invites everyone to attend. The church is located at 915 North Avenue O.

Family film series begun

"Focus on the Family", a film series by James C. Dobson has begun at the First Baptist Church with showings held each Wednesday night in the church auditorium.

The first film was shown last week with the remaining five films to begin at 7:30 p.m.

The remaining films are April 1 - Shaping the Will Without Breaking the Spirit; April 8 - Christian Fathering; April 15 - Preparing for Adolescence; April 22 - Preparing for Adolescence, Peer Pressure and Sexuality; April 29 - What Wives Wish Their Husbands Knew About Women, The Lonely Housewife; and May 6 - What Wives Wish Their Husbands Knew About Women, Money, Sex and Children.

The public is invited to attend each one every one of the films with no admission charge and a nursery will be provided.

Four charges against him

Ricky Don Mindietta of Post is in the county jail following his arrest Tuesday on two counts of disorderly conduct, public intoxication, criminal trespassing, and assault.

James W. Schevring, 20, walked into the law enforcement building here Wednesday morning and "gave himself up."

He said he was wanted in Pennsylvania on a burglary charge and that he was tired of running.

You can't deduct capital losses if you buy back the same security within 30 days before or 30 days after your loss sale. This tax rule is called the "Wash Sale Rule."

Leslie Willard is all-district

Leslie Willard, Post High senior, is one of the eight players selected to the 5AAA all-district boys basketball team. He received the second highest vote total from the district coaches.

Post also had two sophomores, Will Kirkpatrick and Irvin Price, given honorable mention.

The reason for the eight players on the all-district team is that four members of the district champion Slaton club tied for a place on the team. They were Michael Whaley, Lonnie Phenix, Charles Phenix and Ronald Nedd.

Other all-district players are Charles Bryson of Tahoka, who also was named the district's most valuable player, Andy Sparkman of Cooper, and Bobby Crossland of Roosevelt.

"I have really enjoyed working with these three talented young men," Coach

Syd Wright told The Dispatch.

"Leslie was second in voting only to Charles Bryson, the MVP of Tahoka. He's a fine and deserving young man, our hardest worker, our leader and deserved this award.

"Will and Irvin have an awful lot of talent and I'm sure in the next couple of years they will both be all district choices.

"I would also like to take this opportunity," Coach Wright said, "to thank the young men who played for me this year. You are a fine bunch and I want to say thank you for your time and effort. Also I would like to thank the community for their support."

Curt Greer was vault winner

The Dispatch inadvertently left out in last week's story on the Colorado City track meet for the eighth grade boys that Curt Greer won the pole vault, clearing nine feet.

Hearing on '81 farm bill set April 21 in Lubbock

WASHINGTON — The House Agriculture Committee will hold field hearings on the 1981 omnibus farm bill in three West Texas cities in April, Chairman Kika de la Garza, D-Tex., announced today.

De la Garza said the hearings will be held April 20 at the Abilene Civic Center, 1100 North 6th Street, Abilene; April 21 in the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center, 1501 6th Street, Lubbock; and April 22 at the Villa Inn, I-40 and Grand Street, Amarillo.

Rep. Charles Stenholm, D-Tex., a Member of the Agriculture Committee, will preside at the hearings. Reps. Kent Hance, D-Tex., and Jack Hightower, D-Tex., are also expected to attend.

All three hearings will run from 9 a.m. to noon and from 2 to 4 p.m. Anyone who wishes to testify at the hearings should notify: For April 20, Elaine Talley in Rep. Stenholm's Abilene office at Box 1101, Abilene, Texas 79604, phone 915-673-7221.

For April 21, Vicki Nixon in Rep. Hance's Lubbock office at 1205 Texas Avenue, S-611, Lubbock, Texas 79401, phone 806-763-1611.

For April 22, Marjorie Errington in Rep. Hightower's Amarillo office at Box F-13207, Amarillo, Texas 79101, phone 806-376-2381.

Witnesses are requested to bring 25 copies of their prepared statements to the hearings for the use of Committee Members and staff. If possible, copies should be sent in advance to the person with whom you arrange your appearance at the hearing.

Chairman de la Garza said, "I know that many West Texans who are deeply interested in this year's farm bill and what it may mean to the future economy of the state and the nation, have not been able to testify at Committee hearings in Washington. I hope these hearings in Texas will help give the Committee a sharper view of the situation as our people see it at the grass roots."

quoted in the nine designated U.S. spot markets.

The problem, Johnson explains, is that all nine markets are given equal weight, although discounts quoted in seven of the nine markets — all except Lubbock and Dallas, where most low mike cotton is traded — are applicable to long staple, high grade cotton that will go into combed yarns for the fabrics of dress shirts, sheets, blouses and other constructions in which the nepping and dyeing problems associated with low mike cottons are intolerable.

"On the other hand the Dallas and Lubbock mike discounts apply to shorter staple cotton that is used almost entirely in carded yarns for the coarser fabrics," Johnson continues, "where occasional nepps and or imperfect dyeability are of far less consequence."

That's why the Greenville, Augusta, Montgomery, Memphis, Greenwood, Phoenix and Fresno mike discounts, individually and collectively are consistently higher than quotes from Lubbock and Dallas.

The five month August-December average mike discount on 2.6 and below cotton, as is their current intention, it will mean a jump of from 200 to 600 points, depending on which the Federal Register is used.

Option one would give the 1980 loan schedule discount (720 points) five times as much weight as the five-month market average and would result in a 1981 discount of 920 points. Option two would be figured on a three-to-one ratio, resulting in a 1981 loan discount of 1020 points. The third option, a one-to-one ratio, would leapfrog the 1981 loan schedule discount to 1320 points.

LUBBOCK — The price of low micronaire cotton from the Texas High Plains is being severely discounted because it isn't ideally suited to textile applications for which it was never intended.

This is the opinion of Donald Johnson, Executive Vice President of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock. "It's almost like penalizing a country and western star because he doesn't have the voice to sing like Mario Lanza," Johnson says.

The unfair treatment results from the illogical method used by USDA to determine each year's micronaire discounts in the Commodity Credit Corporation loan schedule.

USDA bases its loan discount calculations on the previous year's loan schedule differentials and the current (August through December, 1980) average spot market differences as

SYD CONNER
Garza Extension Agent

One of the most important factors in getting a good, uniform stand of cotton is learning as much as possible about the planting seed to be used, and applying this information at planting time, says a cotton specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Planting seed normally represents less than six percent of the total costs of cotton production on the Texas High Plains," said Dr. James R. Supak, Extension area cotton agronomist. But the production level and profitability of the crop is largely determined by the kind of stand these seed produce, he said.

Loss of the initial stand results in added costs for replanting, Supak said. Delay in starting a crop often means lower yield and poorer lint quality in this short season area.

Especially under dryland conditions, the agronomist noted, lack of moisture for germination and emergence is a frequent problem in replanting and may add further delay in crop establishment.

Seed quality is determined by the growing conditions under which the crop was produced and by the conditions and treatment the seed are subjected to during harvest, field storage, ginning, delinting and storage, the Extension specialist stressed.

"Generally, a crop that produces good quality fiber also produces good quality seed," he said.

The relationship between lint and seed development is shown in the accompanying illustration.

Lint and seed development essentially began at the bloom (pollination) state. During the 20 to 25 days following pollination, the fibers have attained their length (staple) and boll and seed are now "full sized." During the next 30 to 50 days (depending on growing conditions, especially night-time temperatures) cellulose is deposited within the fibers and various materials are concentrated within the seed.

It's during this period that the fibers are "developing micronaire" and the seed are accumulating the components that will endow them with good vigor and longevity. If the development process is not interrupted, the result is good "miking" lint and well developed, high vigor seed, the agronomist said.

"Low micronaire lint, on the other hand, indicates that both the fiber and seed failed to mature properly. Such seed may exhibit a high germination percentage but perform poorly as planting seed because of their incomplete development."

Because cotton typically sets fruit over a four-to-six-week period, the seed produced often comprise a mixture of well and poorly developed seed. This situation was encountered by many growers in the irrigated sections of the High Plains in 1980.

The "bottom crop" was well developed and opened early whereas some late set bolls didn't open until after frost, Supak said. Consequently, the crop miked reasonable well but the presence of immature "white seed" was not uncommon in the resulting seed lots.

Delinting plant operators and seed companies have the means to separate a fairly high percentage of the immature, poorly developed seed from the rest of the seed lot. As a result, the best seed within that lot are concentrated for use as planting seed.

"On occasion, growers will complain about the high cleanout or the variation in cleanout from one year to the next. Another look at the illustration and a bit of reflection on the kind of crop the seed came from may help explain why cleanouts vary and can, on occasion, be fairly high," Supak said.

The next step in seed quality evaluation involves seed testing, the standard germination test is routinely conducted on all seed that is to be or has been delinted. It is also the official germination test used on cotton seed for labeling purposes.

This test is conducted under fairly optimum conditions and is primarily intended to provide a measure of percent viable (live) seed in a given lot. Its main limitation is that it does not provide a good indication of seed vigor, the agronomist said.

There is another procedure called the Texas Cool Germination test which is intended to provide information about seed vigor. The conditions of this test are harsher and seed must germinate and produce seedlings of a certain length within a prescribed period of time.

Other "vigor" tests include the accelerated aging and the Tetrazolium tests. "Each has its advantages and limitations," Supak noted. The Texas Department of Agriculture, several private laboratories around the state and some delinting plants are set up to routinely run one or more of these tests.

Regardless of which "vigor" test is used, if the test results and the seed history suggest there might be a vigor problem with a given seed lot, then precautions should be taken in the use of these seed, the Extension agronomist cautioned.

Finally, if the seed in question encountered prolonged periods of wet weather (rain, snow) while on the stalk or in modules, it would be a good idea to have a free fatty acid test run on the seed, he suggested. Free fatty acids are a by-product of seed deterioration. If the free fatty acid content approaches or exceeds one percent the seed is of questionable value for planting purposes, Supak warned.

Seed with high free fatty acid contents often show a high initial germination percentage and may make acceptable planting seed if the seed are planted before stored food reserves are exhausted. It's advisable to re-test the seed just prior to planting to determine viability and vigor.

By taking into account the conditions under which the seed was produced and by utilizing available test procedures, growers can get a reasonable good idea of their planting seed quality, Supak said.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—If anyone asks you "whats up?" in the Texas Legislature, you can answer "the interest rate ceiling!"

Last week the House ended its first real floor fight by voting 81-to-54 to allow lenders to charge higher interests on several types of loans, with an omnibus ceiling of 24 percent.

The bill's sponsor, Bill Messer, D-Belton, was at the front microphone for two days, fighting off over 50 amendments aimed at killing or weakening his bill. Opponents managed to lower the ceiling from 30 percent to 24 percent.

The measure now goes to the Senate where it doubtless will receive more heated action.

Legislators who voted for the controversial bill by and large explained their position as unpleasant but necessary because of federal policy slowing down availability of money. The measure is needed to keep lending money from drying up in this state.

Comptroller Bill

The Senate passed and sent to the House a bill giving Comptroller Bob Bullock new authority to examine the financial records of any state agency or local government that receives federal funds.

While opponents feared it would allow the comptroller to usurp the state auditor's role in auditing agencies, the bill's sponsor, Sen. Peyton McKnight, D-Tyler, said chief fiscal officers in most other states already have the power Bullock would receive.

McKnight had to bring the bill up twice in one day to get it passed, failing by one vote the first try. A vote change by Bill Sarpatius, D-Hereford, put it over the top the second go-around.

Bills Signed

Governor Bill Clements signed two bills into law last week.

One new law makes it harder for persons who are fired or quit their jobs to collect unemployment benefits.

The other prevents state employees from having union dues automatically deducted from their state paychecks.

Clements also urged the Legislature to prepare to cut state spending by $2.5 billion because of loss of federal funds under the Reagan Administration.

Legislators, for their part, chose not to respond to Clements prompting, instead keeping their noses to the business at hand. A group of three suggested Clements was up to his old trick trying to look good by talking about cutting spending. "We're working day and night to cut the budget and we don't need him prancing into the limelight," said one.

Bullock later commented he saw no need to reduce the state revenue estimate's "just because the governor thinks it's a good idea. I'm not going to be panicked into a wholesale revision on the basis of some rumor floating around Washington."

The political jousting will doubtless continue.

Rape, Ethics, Insurance

In other action last week, the House toughened laws dealing with aggravated rape, legislative ethics and mandatory auto insurance.

Under current law, a person must be threatened by death or serious harm, be seriously injured or kidnapped before her attacker can be charged with aggravated rape. The new definition includes placing the victim in fear of death as grounds for an aggravated rape charge and stiffer penalties.

The House also approved a bill creating a 15-member committee to study the state's ethics laws. The panel will issue ethics guidelines and make recommendations to the 1983 Legislature.

Motorists will be required to carry automobile liability insurance or face heavy fine under a bill tentatively approved by the House. The bill was sponsored by Rep. David London, who told the House his wife was killed two years ago by a driver who had no liability insurance.

Redistricting

The U.S. Census Bureau delivered the new population figures to the Legislature a week early, giving the members a few extra days to beat the June 1 deadline.

If the Legislature does not pass a redistricting bill before it adjourns June 1, the task is handed over to a redistricting board composed of the Comptroller, the Attorney General, the Lt. Governor, the Speaker of the House, and the Land Commissioner.

Ejected Twice

Two months ago Rep. Anita Hill was ejected from Austin's prestigious Citadel Club which had a male-only lunch policy. Legislators subsequently voted to boycott establishments which excluded any lawmaker.

Last week, Rep. Hill thought she was getting the same treatment again, only this time she was being ejected from the Senate chamber. She had walked onto the Senate floor to confer with Sen. Oscar Mauzy about a bill they were co-sponsoring.

The Senate Sgt-at-Arms failed to recognize her and attempted to enforce a rule forbidding non-legislators on the floor.

When informed just who he was trying to expel, the sergeant turned red and apologized amidst a roar of laughter. "This just isn't your session," he told Mrs. Hill. "They won't let you stay anywhere."

RIDE MEXICAN TRAIN

Mayor and Mrs. Giles McCrary and Mr. and Mrs. David Newby returned late Monday night from a 10-day trip by Mexican train to San Miguel De Allende in Old Mexico. They drove to Nuevo Laredo and took the train on from that border city. "We probably won't do it again, but it was a real experience," Newby told The Dispatch.

VISITS PARENTS

Mr. and Mrs. Dan E. Cockrum, Michael, Kim and Andrea visited this past week in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Cockrum. The family makes their home in the Big Bend National Park.

Block grants—

"One of our problems," she told The Dispatch, is that our minorities and poor live in all parts of Post and the community grant programs designed to improve life in the poor areas.

Another factor which hindered Post in its application was that this community has a number of boarded up old empty houses which federal authorities grade as inhabitable.

"What we need to do is to get busy and demolish them," Mrs. Earl said.

As far as next year is concerned, federal budget cutting may materially reduce the size of the community improvement grant program.

The Post grant request had proposed the following expenditures spread over a three-year period:

$671,000 for rehabilitation of 91 owner-occupied homes with 100 percent grants averaging $6,000 each, and rehabilitation of 57 renter-occupied units at an average cost of $2,400 per unit.

$298,000 for demolition of 15 owner-occupied family housing units and relocating them in new housing at an average cost of $18,000 per unit.

$45,000 for paving and drainage improvements in the target area.

$150,000 to improve the city-county park with $100,000 of this to be used to renovate the swimming pool and bath house. Other funds would be used to purchase and install new playground equipment.

$15,000 to develop a community development program for the city.

$75,000 for general administration to insure the program is effectively administered in compliance with all federal rules and regulations.

Jack Alexander, chairman of the city-county park board, told The Dispatch that the loss of the $150,000 for city park improvements does not mean that the 30-year-old local swimming pool won't be ready to open this summer because of very bad plumbing problems.

The city councilman said renovation work on the pool already has begun and is being jointly financed by the city and county. Pool plumbing pipes are being replaced and the pool should be ready for the first heat wave, according to present estimates.

He said some help is being obtained from the Green Thumb crew on both plumbing work in the bath house and painting the bath house.

Alexander also said the city has a small grant application for approximately $10,000 pending with the Texas Parks & Wildlife Department for new playground equipment.

He added the city was told when it made this application it could not apply for pool repairs, but has since learned that it can and probably will submit an application for funding of this work too.

Palbearers will be Bob Collier, Marvin Williams, Harold Lucas, Irvin Cross, James Weaver, Luke Bilberry, Rusty Browning, and L.J. Richardson.

You Knead This Cornbread

There is no mystery involved in turning out loaves of crusty, fragrant bread, just a little time and practice. Once your kitchen takes on the aroma of homemade yeast breads, and after you've sampled that first tender bite, you may never go back to store-bought again.

Basically, yeast breads contain six simple ingredients: yeast makes the dough rise; flour provides the structure; liquids give moisture and a warm environment for dissolving the yeasts; sugar provides food for the yeast to grow; salt slows down the action of the yeast and adds flavor; fats give bread its tenderness, taste and moist texture. From those basic six ingredients, a whole host of breads can be prepared by simply changing the proportions and type of flour used. Add extra ingredients such as herbs, spices, cheese, nuts, seeds, dried fruit or California ripe olives, and the variations are endless.

This recipe for Hearty Olive Cornbread owes its origins to Mexico, where cornmeal and chilies are staple items in most kitchens. The ripe olives add a special nut-like flavor and burst of color to the loaves. Slices of Hearty Cornbread are a perfect companion to bowls of steaming chili or a robust main dish salad.

Hearty Olive Cornbread
 1-1/4 cups very hot water
 1/4 cup butter or margarine
 3 tablespoons sugar
 1-1/4 teaspoon salt
 1 package active dry yeast
 1-1/2 cups pitted California ripe olives, drained

1 4-ounce can chopped green chilies
 1/2 cup yellow cornmeal
 4-1/2 to 5 cups all purpose flour

In large mixing bowl, add hot water to butter, sugar and salt. Stir until butter melts. Let mixture cool to about 110°, then stir in yeast; cover and let rise in warm place until bubbly, about 15 minutes.

Chop olives coarsely. Stir in olives, chilies, yellow cornmeal and enough flour to make a thick dough (about 3 cups). Turn dough onto heavily floured board and knead until dough is smooth and elastic and has lost most of its stickiness (10 to 20 minutes), adding more flour as needed. Shape dough into a ball, place in greased bowl, cover and let rise until double, about 1-1/2 hours.

Punch dough down; knead several times. Shape into two loaves and place each in a greased 9x5-inch pan. Cover, let rise in a warm place until almost doubled, about 45 minutes.

Bake in 375° oven for 30-35 minutes or until loaves are browned and sound hollow when tapped. Cool on racks before serving or storing. Makes 2 loaves.

Variation: Add 1 cup shredded cheddar cheese to yeast mixture along with olives and chilies.

Senior Citizens News

We have been having lots of fun at the center. We had a practice session for our Senior Citizens that will be singing at Calvary Baptist Church and it was enjoyed by all. Those who didn't want to sing played games or just visited. We got our exercises this week. We are going to start having some exercise sessions and hope you will come and join us. We think you would enjoy it.

Blood Pressure girls will be here at the center this Thursday, and then again on the first and fourth Tuesday and first and third Thursday.

We will be having a Health Screening at the center coming up in April and we will let you know the date later.

A group of Senior Citizens went to Lubbock to Reece Air Base for the salute to Post last week. This was enjoyed by all. Thanks to Donald Windham for making the bus available for us also to Roy Gary the bus driver for his time and patience with us.

We are really having good meals each day, so come on

Contests for the two three-year terms on the Post Independent School District trustees will be Jack Kirkpatrick who is opposing Mike Flanigan, incumbent, for Position 6; and Royce Hart, former board member, who is opposing incumbent John Boren for Position 7.

Running for three two-year terms on the hospital district directors are Jack Alexander, David Nichols and Danny Shaw, incumbents, and G.M. Chaffin and Connor Howell.

Polls will open at 7 a.m. and close at 7 p.m.

Absentee balloting, which ended Tuesday, showed the most voter interest centers in the two school board races.

Eighteen absentee votes were cast in the school races, but only three in the city and two or three in the hospital district contests.

No major issues appear to be involved in any of the three elections races.

Postings—

(Continued From Page One) seeing somewhere in The Dispatch each and every week from now on is "State Capital Highlights" by Lyndell Williams who heads the Texas Press Association office in Austin.

—O—
 This column has been reorganized in the last couple of months or so and is now much more readable than it used to be. It's a regular feature now which we're paying good money for because it's our belief that newspaper readers all across the state need to keep up with "the boiling political pot" in Austin. The "goings on" there are not being reported nearly enough in most state dailies.

To All Concerned Voters

The education of our community's young should be one of our greatest priorities. The active interest and involvement of the entire community are our guarantees of a quality educational system. I believe:

1. A diploma should be proof that a graduate can write legibly, speak clearly, think logically and read at grade level.
2. No part of the community, especially the student, benefits from advancement without meeting grade level standards.
3. All rules and regulations should be enforced fairly and equally. Discipline is the backbone of all education.
4. Trustees should insure that raising the educational level of the school system is the primary goal of spending taxes.
5. Trustees should actively seek inputs from all citizens—parents, teachers, students, taxpayers — on the educational needs of the community.
