Housing project is back on track

The Post city council was told Monday night that a request for reinstatement of a proposed 32 rental unit housing project here has been forwarded to the Dallas office of HUD and that apparently the site problems on Earl Rogers' land have been solved.

Jack Alexander told the council the Post Public Housing Board met last Thursday with the contractor and took steps to readjust the site so that the pipeline across one corner of the site was now outside the adjusted site.

A HUD official is due in Lubbock in about two weeks and Mayor McCrary was asked to see if he couldn't come to Post at that time to clear up any uncertainties about the project.

The council expressed its satisfaction with the way the housing board has gone about solving the site problem.

In another major action, the council along with representatives of the Garza County Commissioners Court heard a request for the purchase of a new ambulance in the next fiscal year.

The request was made by the ambulance committee, composed of city, county and hospital district representatives.

The request asks $6,000 each from the city and county to go with $5,000 available in a CD from the EMTs, which includes donations of first $100 of pay on runs. Cost of the new ambulance would be about $22,000 with $5,000 off on the trade-in of an eight-year-old four wheel drive ambulance.

The committee also is interested in securing a "jaws of life" costing from $10,000 to $12,000 enabling rescuers to cut their way into wrecked vehicles to get out victims in a matter of minutes.

The committee said it didn't know whether to try to raise such funds by public subscription or ask the city and county for it.

The new ambulance proposal was made as the council took up special items to include in the budget for the next fiscal year starting Oct. 1.

A new fire truck is expected to be the major item. The city has been putting aside money to help make this purchase expected to exceed $100,000.

The ambulance committee also asked the city to raise its monthly contribution to the EMTs for the city-county ambulance service operation from $375 to $500. The county took such action recently.

This is the first requested increase since the ambulance service began its present operations several years ago.

Alexander, chairman of the city-county park board, reported that the Lyons Plumbing Co. of Lubbock is well along in winding up its swimming pool pipe repair job, which was contracted for $6,800.

He also reported that the CETA crew was cleaning up the park and that the Green Thumb crew was helping paint the bath house for the pool. He said bath house plumbing also is being overhauled.

Alexander said Jay Ken-

Final and official—

Population for Post — 3,961

Post's official and final 1980 population is 3,961, down three from the 3,964 preliminary figure announced some weeks ago.

This is a 2.8 percent increase over the 1970 population of 3,854.

Lubbock was the big gainer in this area, its population jumping 16.7 percent in the decade to 173,979. Abilene climbed 9.7 percent to 98,315.

Other final population counts for towns in this area include:

Crosbyton, 2,289, up 1.7 percent; Ralls, 2,422, up 23.4 percent; Slaton 6,804, up 3.4 percent; Spur 1,690, down 3.3 percent; and Tahoka 3,282, up 10.4 percent.

Death takes Dorothy Haas

Mrs. Dorothy Haas, 43, wife of Mickey Haas, died Tuesday night in Garza Memorial Hospital following a long illness.

Mrs. Haas, a resident of Post since 1969, was bookkeeper at Wacker's here. She was born May 20, 1937, in Denver and was married in San Francisco May 4, 1958.

Survivors include, besides the husband, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Griffey of Santa Rosa, Calif.; one son, Michael of Post; two daughters, Meridian Haas of Post and Kelly Shackelford of Garland; one brother, Don Griffey of Escondido, Calif.; and three grandchildren.

She was a member of the Baptist Church.

Funeral services are pending at Hudman Funeral Home.

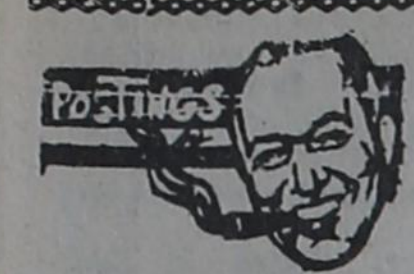

Rural home burglarized

The home of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. (Buster) Moreland, just north of Post on US-84, was discovered burglarized last Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Moreland returning after several days found the back door open and the lights burning. The door had been pried open by the burglar or burglars.

Stolen were a microwave oven, a coffee maker, two bed spreads, a stack of sheets, some jewelry, a clock and other items.

Chief Deputy J.W. Jolly told The Dispatch that the sheriff division is continuing its investigation into the burglary.

There's never been a prettier spring in West Texas within memory — thanks to the Coreopsis.

The Coreopsis also are called Golden Wave, and are the yellow flowers you see everywhere — in and around Post, whole fields of them.

Seems as though we had so many dry springs that the wild flower seeds have piled up everywhere just waiting for a chance to bloom.

We're reading comments about the wild flowers in papers from all over Texas. It's reported the drive between San Antonio and Houston is "just gorgeous".

But just driving up US-84 over the cap fits the same description right here.

Zoe Kirkpatrick, who has a hobby of collecting pictures of wild flowers in this area, reports that the red-orange wildflowers mixed in with the Coreopsis are called Indian Blanket. Then there's the Stork's Bill, a purple flower which has quit blooming now.

The purple flower now blooming, according to Zoe, is the Tansy Astor. She also mentions the Wild Honey-suckle and the Texas Thistle, a tall pinkish-purple flower.

Zoe told us that she went out into one field last week and found 31 varieties of wild flowers blooming. She has a collection of 200 color photographs of varieties of wild flowers, flowering shrubs and trees which are native to this West Texas area.

The Coreopsis are so pretty that some local householders apparently are refusing to cut them in their yards until they stop blooming. You'll find whole fields of them along the highways.

This is the prettiest spring we've ever seen since we moved to West Texas 24 years ago.

While we're on flowers, we'll report about the roses. One old-timer contended in another exchange paper when the roses really boom and cover the rose bushes it's going to be a good cotton year.

If you've noticed the roses around town lately, you can logically look forward to a bumper cotton crop. They're just like the wild flowers — terrific.

We can't close without mentioning the beauty of the courthouse square this year. Gene Solis has had his lawn a beauty spot season after season, but with the help of some real spring rains this year he has his lawn almost like a carpet.

Pre-School Day is next Thursday

Kindergarten students who will begin school next fall and their parents are invited to Pre-School Day at 3 p.m. Thursday, May 14.

Children must be five years old by Sept. 1 to attend kindergarten. Parents are asked to bring their kindergarten-age children to the east wing of the primary building.

A meeting for parents will be held in the primary auditorium.

75th birthday planning begun

The pre-planning committee for Post's 75th birthday celebration met Monday afternoon at the Bank Community room with all members present.

Those present included Riley Miller, Bryan J. Williams, Donald Brynham, Charles Hardin and Maxine Earl.

The group decided to invite the Rogers Company, who did the 1957 Golden Jubilee celebration, to visit with the committee sometime in May to discuss the possibility of them helping with the 75th celebration.

The group appointed Jim Cornish as publicity chairman and Wanda and Mike Mitchell as chair persons in charge of TV and Radio press releases.

Bryan J. Williams acting for the Chamber of Commerce talked to the Rogers Company by phone and was assured a company representative will contact the committee this month.

Trustees to meet Monday

Post school trustees will meet at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the high school library to consider architect's remodeling recommendations and the authorization to take bids for the summer work program estimated to cost about $400,000.

The board decided at its April meeting to completely remodel the high school gym, do extensive remodeling at the primary school, and do both interior and exterior painting at the elementary and high schools.

A proposal for sidewalks around the Post Middle School also will be considered.

Also on the agenda are approval of certificates of deposits, budget change requests, revision of the 1981-82 school calendar, report and possible action on a teacher bonus increase, approval of financial statement, and reports on a workmen's compensation proposal and notification by the Santa Fe railroad of a "close call" with a school bus crossing in front of a train here April 2.

Historical group to meet Tuesday

The Garza County Historical Commission will hold its May meeting at 10 a.m. next Tuesday, May 12, in the Community room of the First National Bank.

Tatum tries persuasion

Tim Tatum, who is the first Post student within Jack Alexander's memory, to ever win a trip to state competition in persuasive speaking, gave a demonstration of his talent before Post Rotarians at their Tuesday luncheon in the community center.

Tatum placed second recently in the UIL regional contest.

Candice McConnell, Post High speech teacher, explained to Rotarians that the contestants draw five subjects, choose the one they like best from the five and have 30 minutes to prepare their seven minute talk. They can only put down 50 words on a note card to refresh their memories.

Tatum's talk before Rotarians was entitled, "Employers should be punished for employing illegal aliens."

Clint Herring retires after 40 years on Main

Clint Herring, who has been in business on Post's Main street for almost 40 years, has sold his Danish Imports business here to Jeri Lott and Patty Kirkpatrick — and retired.

Clint opened Herring's department store here in 1938 and operated it for 30 years before closing it in 1968.

Two years later, he was back with Danish Imports, selling various fine collector lines he had picked up in world travels with his wife, Lois.

The Herrings got their start in the import business while operating the department store.

The import business blossomed after the department store closed as they had more time to travel.

Their travels have taken them to Europe, Alaska, Hawaii, Africa, Australia, and New Zealand.

Mrs. Kirkpatrick and Mrs. Lott told The Dispatch they will continue to operate the business as Danish Imports, Inc., but plan some store remodeling and will hold their grand opening in midsummer.

They plan to expand the store's present lines to include other gifts.

Asked what he planned to do, now he is retiring, Herring said he "wants to do some more traveling."

Post has chance for block grant

Post still may have a chance at a three-year block grant from the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Mayor Giles McCrary told the city council Monday night that he had received a call from HUD's Dallas office requesting the city send a representative to Dallas next week to discuss a possible block grant for still unused HUD funds.

Post failed by just 23 judging points in obtaining a $1,725,000 three-year community development block grant in late March.

Post ranked 14th in that competition among 40 small cities and counties in Texas with the top nine receiving grants.

Councilwoman Maxine Earl, who represented the council in making the city's original community block grant application, was selected by the council to go to Dallas to see if a new block grant opportunity can be worked out.

Prison term for Post man

District Judge George Hansard here Tuesday sentenced Jessie Lee Taylor to two years in the state penitentiary after he had revoked Taylor's probation on a forgery by passing conviction in a hearing April 13.

Taylor was involved in a theft here Feb. 24. He originally was convicted on the forgery charge in September of 1980.

Man held in $2 robbery

Jessie Rodriguez is in the county jail on a second degree felony charge of robbery.

He was arrested here Monday after he allegedly roughed up and robbed a 12-year-old boy of $2, Chief Deputy J.W. Jolly told The Dispatch.

Local group to be CPR instructors

A local group of approximately 25 persons have only a little more work to complete Saturday to finish a two-day CPR instructors course at the Post Community Center.

The local group, composed of emergency medical technicians and several law enforcement officers, put in a long day last Saturday, going from 7:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. trying to get it all finished in one day.

But they didn't quite make it. Among those taking the Decision postponed

Governor Bill Clements' constitutional amendment for initiative and referendum by Texas voters went down to defeat in the lower house of the legislature last week.

The lobbyists, who worked hard to defeat L & R as it is called, were elated.

Texas voters, who have shown repeatedly in public opinion polls that they strongly favor the opportunity to make their own laws via L & R, were again for the second straight session left empty handed.

Lobbyists opposed L & R because they don't want to lose any of the political power they now enjoy in Austin by being "folksy" with the 181 lawmakers.

As the Dallas News points out: "If the voters were brought in on the decision making process, the lobbyists' influence would be reduced because some of the ridiculous legislation they now slide through the legislature would be in jeopardy."

The present legislature is building a strong case for L & R both with its current actions and inactions in failing to support badly needed legislation.

Initiative and referendum is now dead for this session, but you can look for it to be back next session with an even stronger case and even larger public support.

Is our party over?

"Texas politicians foresee day when the party will be over."

That was a headline in Tuesday's Wall Street Journal over a story out of Austin by one of the Journal's staff reporters who took a good look around the state capital.

It's interesting to see what outsiders find when they come looking.

The story reports there's a feeling this year that the party, if not over, is nearing an end. The $1 billion-plus state budget surpluses of the mid-1970s are down to a few hundred million as the effect of the oil decontrol bonanza diminishes.

Despite its reputation for rabid conservatism, the legislature is a big spender, the story points out. Before it goes home this time it will have approved spending of close to $27 billion for the next two years. That's more than the budgets of a lot of countries, the Journal adds.

The state is going to have to have some hard choices soon in revenue raising to another point made. One reason is the state highway program now that the state's five-cent-a-gallon gasoline tax no longer cover road costs. In 1977 the legislature started dipping into general revenues to make up the difference. Since then the drain on general revenues has climbed to almost a billion dollars for the next biennial. It might have added the state can no longer afford to regularly cut the weeds on the right-of-ways.

The gasoline tax hasn't been increased in 26 years in Texas, it's pointed out, because Texas lawmakers hate taxes.

Texas stands to lose as much as $2.5 billion in federal aid through Reagan budget cuts in the next two years. But Speaker Bill Clayton is quoted as viewing this as a blessing in disguise, providing an opportunity "to clean house." Clayton thinks many of the federal cuts won't be replaced.

The Journal is a pretty conservative paper. You might call it an "arch conservative paper."

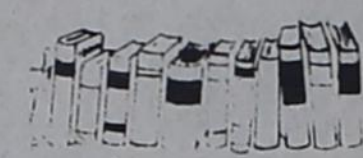

But it appears Texas is too conservative for the Journal's own conservative tastes.

One thing about Texas conservatism though.

It has built a booming economy that other states would give their eye teeth to possess.

It's an economy something like the American economy used to be.

Library Corner

Under President Reagan's proposed budget cutting for the 1982 fiscal year beginning this Oct. 1, public libraries are not being spared.

Reagan would reduce Title 1 of the Library Services and Construction Act by 25 percent over current level funding. The West Texas Library System budget currently contains about $95,000 in Title I funds, roughly 40 percent of its total budget. Its interlibrary loan program is primarily funded by this federal money.

The Reagan proposal did not slice Title III of the same act so probably the Title III funds can be substituted for the funds lost from Title I.

It is time the State of Texas took over more of this funding anyway and it possibly will if the state legislature approves budget requests now under consideration.

The difficulty in getting a boost in state library funding is that Texas legislators have a very low profile view of libraries in this state.

Thirty-six legislators were interviewed in a recent survey and found that 78 percent of them "had had no experience with Texas State Library services to give them an opportunity to personally evaluate the effectiveness of the agency."

Forty-seven percent of the lawmakers interviewed said no constituents had ever talked to them about the state library or about new or improved library service. They said the only lobbying being done for libraries they knew about was by the librarians themselves.

One legislator told the person making the survey that "Few persons understand the power of the constituent when they write to us. The letters, if brief and to the point, have more weight than generally credited to them. If some of your local people want something strongly enough, can present the case clearly and show the need to be met, we just about have to support it."

All of which means a good letter writing campaign on behalf of your local library and the state library system would pay real dividends at Austin.

One example of the benefits of the Texas State Library for Post is the free movie service available. The Post Public Library was given a movie projector by the state library system which makes available a packet of 16 to 18 films a month, both entertaining and educational, for local use on a revolving basis. Both projector and films are available to any local library patron free. In addition, a patron may request a film without charge from the Mahon Library at Lubbock, the West Texas library resources center, and also can obtain them from other libraries, but these must be requested well in advance of use. If you want to have a movie party at your house just make arrangements with Librarian Pee Wee Pierce.

Don't forget the library story hour for pre-schoolers from 10 to 11 a.m. each Friday.

RETURN HOME
Mable and Glenn Voss accompanied by their daughter, Geraldine King of Roswell, N.M. have returned from a three week vacation in Arizona and California. They visited relatives in Camp Verdes, Ariz., San Bernardino, Calif., Thousand Oaks, Calif., and Westminster, Calif.

Congress is back from its Easter recess, and work is beginning again on the President's plan for economic recovery. Though all indications are the public is still solidly behind the Administration's proposals, it will be a tough fight to get them enacted into law. In a representative government, that may sound like an odd contradiction, and it's logical to ask why there is a problem with a plan the people support.

Much of the increased federal spending that has led to recent massive deficits has been for programs designed to provide small amounts of assistance to relatively small numbers of people. The programs frequently became "entitlements," with virtually unlimited access to federal dollars for people who meet the program qualifications. We have learned the hard way that certain people who were not the originally intended beneficiaries learn very quickly how to qualify for assistance.

The result has been spending at much higher levels than originally envisioned -- and small but vocal, and sometimes well organized, groups with a direct interest in keeping a specific program in the budget.

In addition, each program has spawned armies of bureaucrats who make their livings administering the disposition of benefits. Regrettably, there are unmistakable indications that in some cases these bureaucrats are spearheading letterwriting campaigns among their constituencies. I have even received multiple photostats of letters with a signature scrawled at the bottom, next to a check mark which presumably was placed by the distributor so the signer would know where to put his name.

It is not surprising that the people receiving the money want to continue to do so. Nor is it surprising that the people who have found jobs administering the program want to keep them. Most of the program beneficiaries can show that the money helps them satisfy some need.

But the problem is that the people paying the taxes also need that money to help make ends meet. The tax burden has become so heavy that there is a real risk of doing irreparable damage to the hard-working men and women who must earn the money that is taxed. We must begin to reduce the crushing tax burden and enable the working people of America to decide once again how to spend their own money.

Let me emphasize that the most needy will continue to receive help from the "safety net" programs. Those who do not fit neatly into the safety net also will benefit, however.

As the size of government shrinks, so will the tax burden. More money will be available for private business investment, and more jobs will be created. That will make it possible for those at the end of the economic ladder to get a solid foothold in the job market.

But an even more important benefit will come from controlling inflation, which hurts the poor disproportionately more than it does the affluent. This is because those with the lowest income spend almost all of it on necessities. Price increases don't mean fewer luxuries to these people; they mean fewer necessities. The old economics-as-usual has made our inflation problems worse, and more of the same will mean even higher inflation rates.

For these reasons, it would be extremely short-sighted for the people's representatives in Washington to ignore the often quiet working taxpayer in favor of vocal interest groups.

When God Created Mothers . . .

When the good Lord was creating mothers He was into His sixth day of "overtime" when the angel appeared and said, "You're doing a lot of fiddling around on this one."

And the Lord said, "Have you read the specs on this order?" She has to be completely washable, but not plastic; Have 180 moveable parts . . . all replaceable; Run on black coffee and leftovers; Have a lap that disappears when she stands up; A kiss that can cure anything from a broken leg to a disappointed love affair;

And six pairs of hands; The angel shook her head slowly and said, "Six pairs of hands . . . no way."

"It's not the hands that are causing me problems," said the Lord. "It's the three pairs of eyes that mothers have to have."

"That's on the standard model!" asked the angel. The Lord nodded. "One pair that sees through closed doors when she asks, 'What are you kids doing in there?' when she already knows. Another here in the back of her head that sees what she shouldn't but what she has to know, and of course the ones here in front that can look at a child when he goofs up and say, 'I understand and I love You' without so much as uttering a word."

"Lord," said the angel, touching His sleeve gently, "Come to bed. Tomorrow . . ."

"I can't," said the Lord, "I'm so close to creating something so close to myself. Already I have one who heals herself when she is sick . . . can feed a family of six on one pound of hamburger . . . and can get a nine-year-old to stand under a shower."

The angel circled the model of a mother very slowly. "It's too soft," she sighed.

"But tough!" said the Lord excitedly. "You cannot imagine what this mother can do or endure."

"Can it think?"

"Not only think, but it can reason and compromise," said the Creator.

Finally, the angel bent over and ran her finger across the cheek. "There's a leak," she pronounced. "I told You You were trying to put too much into this model."

"It's not a leak," said the Lord, "it's a tear."

"What's it for?"

"It's for joy, sadness, disappointment, pain, loneliness and pride."

"You are a genius," said the angel. The Lord looked somber. "I didn't put it there."

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — Although the Legislature may not have meant it that way, Gov. Bill Clements took it personally when the Texas House voted against his pet Initiative and Referendum bill last week.

Clements accused the legislators of "playing games" and said they will live to regret it.

He was referring to the House's action to first broaden the bill before voting to kill it. Pro-I&R forces could muster only 86 of the 100 necessary votes.

The bill by Rep. John Sharp, a Democrat from Placedo, was originally restricted to tax and spending issues but later amended to include any issue.

Its fate was sealed when Rep. Ron Wilson, D-Houston, tacked on an amendment giving voters the power to recall their elected officials in all three branches of the state government.

Clements, who campaigned three years ago on a promise to give Texans the power of I&R, indicated after the defeat he will make I&R a campaign issue in the 1982 election.

That threat angered more than a couple of lawmakers standing in a group outside the chamber.

"The House is composed of 150 members elected by their voters back home. We don't live in the Governor's Mansion, but will be returning in five weeks to our home towns. Legislators certainly don't need the Governor to lecture us on what is the will of the people," said one.

Tax Reform Showdown
A tax reform showdown is in the making in the House, following a Ways and Means Committee decision opening the gate to one tax reform bill and to another repealing the controversial 1979 Property Tax Reform Act.

State Rep. Wayne Peveto, who authored the 1979 reform bill, may get a chance to pass his bill "cleaning up" the measure passed last session.

But legislators may also get to vote on a bill by Rep. Lynn Nabers to completely eliminate Peveto's 1979 reform. Nabers said Peveto's bill has completely eliminated local control over property taxes, and actually resulted in higher property taxes across the state.

Insiders say the showdown may be engineered to force Peveto to accept election instead of appointment of tax appraisal board members. The play, should it come to fruition, should make for interesting action on the House floor.

Higher Education Fund

Peveto fared much better with his attempt to amend House Speaker Bill Clayton's bill creating a permanent fund for state universities and colleges. Dispute occurred over the issue of initial funding.

A meeting between Clayton, Clements, Peveto, Don Rains and others resulted in a compromise plan drawing funds from three different sources.

The fund will be built to $2 billion partly from a hike in student tuition (probably 50 percent), partly from surplus funds, and partly from interest collected on the sales tax by credit card firms.

Currently, credit card accounts are charged interest on the sales price plus sales tax, but the firms do not give the state that part of the interest collected on the state tax. Such collection will bring in $80 million annually.

Senate Action

Last week the Senate approved a bill allowing pharmacists to fill prescriptions with non-brand name drugs. The generic drug bill is expected to save consumers more than $20 million annually. Texas is one of only two states which do not allow such substitutes.

The Senate also gave final approval to a bill raising the legal drinking age from 18 to 19. The measure was sent to Clements for his veto or signature.

Thank You

THANK YOU
 The family of Glenn Lehman wishes to thank each of you for your loving care and kindness shown to us through our loss. Lynn County and the area counties can be very proud of their people, we are. As busy as this world is, you all took time for us when we needed you. Fishing was Glenn's third favorite thing to do. Second was farming and his family and first was his Lord and Church, St. Paul Lutheran.

While I pray my husband's death will make you all more careful around water, do not be afraid, because this was God's way of taking Glenn home. Glenn was not afraid to die, he told many of us this over the years, he said he was going to a better place. Had he not told me this numerous times I could not stand it. He is happy and with the Lord. The following people — we thank you.

Everyone who went to the lake, the fifth and sixth grade children, teachers of Tahoka Schools, St. Paul and St. John Lutheran Churches, the Youth Basketball teams, all the fine friends of Tahoka, Post, Slaton, Wilson, O'Donnell, Snyder, Seminole, New Home, Plains, Gail and Lubbock.

It has not been intentional to leave out anyone who has helped us with the many acts of Christian love, if we have, it will be a favor to me, if you will call it to my attention. In closing I will ask each of you to please read Mark 13:32-37.

We would like to thank each and everyone for the cards, flowers, visits and most of all your prayers while we were in the hospital. God Bless you all. Clovis & Faye Hudman

Senior Citizens News

Seems like a week comes around pretty fast especially when you don't have a whole lot to write about.

We are having good attendance also real good food. If you are falling to come down you are really missing a lot. We have a lot of fun going on to playing Eighty-eight, Eighty, Skip-Bo, shuffle board and pool, plus some sit and watch their soap operas on TV. We are still painting on our quilt top. It is really going to be pretty. We had a real good turn out for our health screening. Several were sent to their own family doctors for further treatment.

Still have some of our people in the hospital, we pray for their recovery. Don't forget we will be going to Plainview this Thursday. We will be leaving about 7:45 a.m. so be at the center and ready to leave at that time. Also there will be lunch served to those who do not attend.

Durham-Davis vows read in Sulphur Springs church

Traditional wedding vows were exchanged between Karen Annette Durham and Bryan Arthur Davis Saturday, April 18, in the Sulphur Springs First Baptist Church chapel of half past three.

The double ring ceremony was read by the minister of education, Leonard Payne, before an altar of white columns holding urns of silk mauve azaleas, pink snapdragons and ivory babies breath on either side and a brass heartshaped candleabra and two large brass candelabras. Pews were marked with mauve ribbon and silk dogwood blossoms.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. John J. West of Sulphur Springs and Kenneth M. Durham Jr., of Garland, Tex. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Davis of Corpus Christi, former Post residents.

Given in marriage by her grandfather, Kenneth Durham Sr., of San Angelo, the bride wore a long formal gown of ivory organza over taffeta with fitted bodice and empire waistline. The high neckline featured a point d'spirit inset with venice lace and seed pearls. The full pleated skirt of organza fell in a chapel train. She wore a picture brim hat adorned with venice lace and seed pearls with a chiffon train. The bridal bouquet was of fresh flowers of pink roses, gardenias, stephanotis and babies breath.

Lori Durham of Sulphur Springs, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor with Lare Noland of Austin, cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Lee Hammond of Houston serving as bridesmaids. They wore identical mauve silesta knit gowns with full pleated skirts and sweetheart necklines and wore silk flowers in their hair and carried nosegays of azalea, snapdragon, dogwood and babies breath.

Stacey Thomason of Sulphur Springs served as flower girl and Brooks West, brother of the bride, acted as ring bearer.

Bobby Davis, father of the bridegroom, was best man and groomsmen were Brad Davis, of Lubbock, brother of the bridegroom and Bobby Kelly of Brownwood.

Acting as ushers were Kenneth Durham III of Sulphur Springs, brother of the bride, and Brent Davis of Corpus Christi, brother of the bridegroom.

Beautiful pecan trees and regular harvests of high quality pecans begin each spring with frequent zinc sprays. Good foliage is the secret to optimum growth, healthy trees and regular production. Mature pecan trees can have double the amount of foliage with three or four zinc sprays in April and May. Leaves on mature trees are full grown by June, so spray early and frequently. Young pecan trees can grow six feet instead of six inches in one year if zinc is sprayed onto the foliage every two to three weeks from April until August. This is the course in combination with a good management program.

There are two types of zinc which can be used in Texas, zinc sulfate or NZN. Each is effective. Commercial pecan producers have used zinc sulfate with good results for over 40 years. Caution will need to be used however because zinc sulfate can kill many types of plants, so spray it only onto pecan foliage. NZN is a new type of zinc which is a liquid. It was developed by Dr. J. Benton Storey of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. NZN is highly soluble, less toxic to other vegetation and readily available at many garden centers.

The commercial rates of zinc for spraying pecan foliage in Texas are 2 pounds of zinc sulfate or 1 1/4 quarts of NZN per 100 quallons water.

The homeowner would use 2 teaspoons of zinc sulfate or NZN in one gallon of water.

Other forms of zinc, such as zinc chelates or three injectors, have been tested but have not been found to be an effective source of zinc for pecans in Texas.

Zinc is utilized by pecan foliage for the manufacture of a growth hormone called indole-acetic-acid. Without zinc and indole-acetic-acid pecan growth is greatly reduced. The leaves will be small and the shoots will be short and in clusters forming what is commonly called "zinc rosette". Zinc is not readily translocated from shoot to shoot; consequently, frequent zinc sprays are needed if new growth is to receive zinc. This is also why good coverage is important. Since aerial application does not give complete tree coverage, commercial growers have to depend on ground sprayers for zinc applications.

There are over 600,000 acres of native pecan trees in Texas. Yet strange as it may seem pecans are one of the few plants that cannot absorb zinc from the soil. Texas soils frequently contain very high levels of zinc but because of the high PH nature of alkaline soils a high percentage of the soil zinc is not soluble in the soil water and is thus unavailable to the pecan. Applications of zinc to the soil are of no significant value to pecan trees in Texas.

Relative humidity has a great effect on foliar absorption of zinc. In far west Texas extreme difficulty can be encountered in getting the zinc into the leaf. Along the Gulf Coast, absorption can be extremely easy. Zinc should not be concentrated to 2X or 4X rates because foliage burn can result during periods of high humidity. The use of spreaders are not recommended because they can result in accelerated drying and reduced zinc absorption.

A pecan grower can determine if his zinc sprays are effective by observing the amount of terminal growth the trees make during the year. Mature trees should make 5 to 10 inches of shoot growth annually. Non-bearing trees should make 24 inches of shoot growth each year. In addition, leaves collected in August or early September can be analyzed in a chemical laboratory to determine the concentration of zinc in the leaves. A level of 75 ppm is considered a minimum and 125 ppm is optimum. It is very important to have the leaves washed before analysis to prevent measuring the zinc that may remain on the surface of the leaf. Zinc alone is not the answer to perfect pecans. It is however a very important cultural requirement. With good zinc management other cultural practices such as fertilization and irrigation will be more effective. However, fertilization or irrigation without zinc sprays is of little value. So, zinc sprays are one of the pecan growers most important first steps to success each year.

FEEDER CALF FORUM

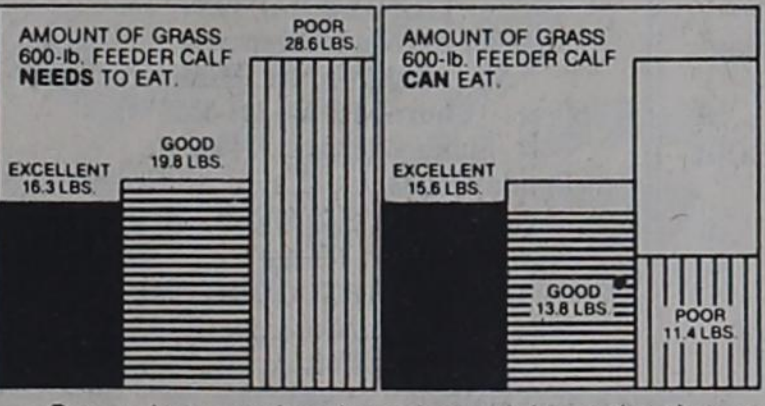

The Great Grass Myth. It could be shorting you 125 lbs. on yearlings.

A myth, according to Webster, is "a notion based more on tradition or convenience than on fact." And based on a common practice in the feeder calf business, that definition fits. Because it seems to have become "traditional" and "convenient" to believe a feeder calf can reach his full growth potential as a yearling on grass alone. Which is not the case.

Grass is a great resource. But as you see above, its nutritional value—which includes nutrient content and digestibility—declines rapidly as it matures through the hot, dry months. And that's under "ideal" conditions. (Remember last summer?)

Grass has another limitation as a source of nutrition for young growing cattle. They simply don't have the rumen capacity to eat and digest enough of it to fulfill their nutritional requirements for reaching maximum yearling growth. The charts below show how far short excellent, good and poor quality grass falls as a 600 lb. feeder calf's total source of needed nutrition.

So we have a situation where right at the time a feeder calf's nutrient needs are rising, the nutritional value and the animal's consumption capability are declining. In fact, when feeder calves are limited to grass alone, they get only about 50-60% of the nutrition needed to reach their full yearling growth potential. And as "good doing" as they may look, you're still getting little more than half the yearling gains you could get. (Thus, the "great grass myth.")

What's the answer? How do you fill in the "missing" 40-50% of nutrition a feeder calf needs for full growth? By supplementing the nutrient deficiencies in grass with the gain-boosting power of Purina® Grass Stretcher RM® brand ration with Rumensin®, extra protein, energy, Vitamin A and minerals.

Purina research, backed by feed trials in back-grounder operations around the country, shows this can make a difference of as much as one extra pound daily gain or 125 lbs. extra yearling weight. With Grass Stretcher RM, you also can feed up to one-third more cattle on the same acres, or have a longer grazing season and more marketing flexibility. Why not discuss it with your Purina Dealer?

Keith Craig advances to state Bible drill final

On the weekend of April 24-25 a group from the First Baptist Church in Post participated in the 1981 Southern Baptist State Semi-final Bible Drill Tournament at Plainview.

Those participating were Michael Wells, Deke Willard, Tyge Payne and Brook Capps in the children's Bible Drill and Donny Payne, Keith Craig and Golden Capps in the Youth Bible Drill. In order to attend, these students had to qualify in both church and associational tournaments.

The Children's drill is for grades 4-6 and consists of memorizing designated scriptures; finding books of the bible and quoting the one called and those on either side; and locating key passages. All children's drills are given on ten-second time limits. In church competition they are allowed no more than twelve mistakes and in associational competition they are allowed eight mistakes. Special recognition was given to several students who had five or fewer mistakes. Tyge Payne and Brook Capps were among this group. The State Semifinals is the competition limit for children's Bible drill.

The Youth Drill is designed for 7-9 and is much more detailed. They are graded on proper handling of the Bible, attentiveness, posture, correct responses and an eight-second time limit with bonus points given to the first participant to step forward. In both ages they are required to have their finger on the verse called before stepping forward. The Youth Drill includes locating books of the Bible, scripture searching, identifying verses, doctrinal statements, and a bible answers drill. The three youths from the Post church participating in the state-semifinals each had two or less mistakes. The five highest scorers at the state-finals advance to the state finals to be held in Fort Worth, May 15-16.

Keith Craig was one of the five highest scorers so will be eligible for the finals.

This is the third year for group participation in drills outside the Post church.

The most popular adult sport in Britain is dart-throwing.

Have you ever had the desire to sew or the need to sew? I have had several requests from adults wanting assistance with clothing construction. As a result of the request, I have scheduled and "Adult Sewing Short-Course" starting on May 12th at 7:30 p.m. in the bank meeting room. There is no charge for the course. The demonstrations and publications are free.

Please register as soon as possible, but you are welcome to attend even without pre-registration.

The short-course will be set up in four or six sessions depending on the group's needs. At the first meeting I will discuss the plans for the course and decide on future dates. Also a beginner's introduction to sewing will be presented on May 12th.

This short-course is designed to assist you with simple clothing construction. The topics of the sessions will be designed around the group's needs. Remember to mark your calendar for May 12th. If you have questions let me know.

"IT'S A BIG JOB..."

Slowing down the rising costs of anything these days. Even your electricity

You've got someone working on it for you in the Southwest. Southwestern Public Service is using Wyoming coal to make electricity in its new power plants. Because some of the old plants run on fuel that just plain costs too much.

Electricity could cost a lot more than it does. But thank goodness it doesn't — because of coal.

Close City club meets here Tuesday

The next meeting will be May 19 in the home of Mrs. Ruth Young.

Attending the club session and served refreshments by Helen Richards, hostess, were Mes. City Council—

(Continued From Page One) nedy had requested to be the pool operator this summer and the board would draw up a list of pool operation policies before the season.

Harvey Morton, attorney for the city, told the council that the city cannot lease a portion of the city dump for a shooting range.

He explained the city owns the dump in a governmental capacity and is not operating the dump in a proprietary capacity as it does the swimming pool. The law forbids leasing of property operated in a governmental capacity.

"You can give them a license to operate a shooting range there," Morton explained, "but it couldn't be for a predetermined length of time."

The council made no decision on the shooting range pending more information concerning insurance and other matters being secured by a proposed local chapter of the National Rifle Association.

The council passed over making appointments to the public housing and library boards because it wasn't sure if it had enacted a policy that no persons would be reappointed to city boards after serving two consecutive terms.

Charlie Cooper is retiring as city fire marshal at the end of May. The council didn't want to name a successor until receiving the recommendation of Fire Chief Neal Clary.

Connie Flores appeared before the council to request funds for a summer reading-math-English program for disadvantaged children here.

The local primary teacher explained the plan was to hold classes five mornings a week, three hours a morning for five weeks to provide youngsters with summer learning experience.

She said school classrooms would be made available if the city and county jointly would finance the project at a total cost of $2,710, most of which would go for salaries.

Ms. Flores estimated she would have at least 50 youngsters, ages six to 12, in the summer program and no one who wanted to participate would be denied the opportunity.

She said she was considering a period from July 5 to August 7 for the summer program.

The city took the request under advisement.

Council members ordered four abandoned houses torn down after satisfying all legal requirements. They also discussed but did not complete work on a new set of personnel policies for the city.

14 PHS students on A honor roll

Fourteen Post high school students are listed on the A honor roll for the fifth six weeks period, Principal Joe Giddens announced this week.

637 library books read

A total of 637 books were checked out of the Post Public Library during April, according to the monthly report of Librarian Pee Wee Pierce.

This brings to 2,591 the number of books read during the first four months of 1981.

Forty-six new books were added to library shelves to bring to 13,682 the number of book available.

Fifty-nine reference questions were answered during the month and five books secured for patrons on interlibrary loans.

The movie projector was checked out six times for showing eight films to a total audience of 63. Six film strips were shown in the library to 49. Twenty-six youngsters attended three story hours in the library.

Zoe Kirkpatrick won first place with her photography entitled "Rattlesnakes" in the 21st annual Plains Art Association Exhibit in Plainview, with the judging held last Saturday. The entries in the show will hang on exhibit until May 18, at the Wayland Baptist College.

She also won merit awards on "Jess" and "Double Rainbow."

Lil Conner won a merit award for her photograph "The Way It Was."

Also entering the show was Arnold Sanderson.

The average person needs about 40 different nutrients to stay healthy.

Herbert Walls, and Mike Cisneros met with the council for a joint quarterly session to open the May meeting.

They agreed that any proposals made by the sheriff's department should come to the two bodies only through the joint city-county law enforcement committee set up for that purpose.
