Welcome, Charlie!

Congressman Charles Stenholm is off to an excellent start on what should grow through the years into a brilliant political career.

Charlie has a mind of his own. He takes his own position on every issue. He is a conservative Democrat who is not afraid to put country above party.

As head of the Conservative Democratic Coalition, Stenholm is exerting tremendous national influence in this session of Congress.

He and his "bollweevils", as his conservative Democrats are called in Washington because almost all of them are Southern Democrats from cotton country, gave Reagan the votes he needed to win the budget cuts in the house. They will be needed again when the tax cut issue comes up for decision in the Democratic controlled house.

Stenholm, to us, looks, thinks, and acts like a good congressman should.

We welcome him to Post Tuesday. We know he already has earned the solid support of the conservative district he represents so well.

And we urge all those who have concern for their country to turn out and hear him talk and field all the questions.

Two good pay hikes

The Dispatch is delighted that Post teachers have received two sizable pay hikes this year — one from the state which boosted amounts it pays the teachers by 26 percent, and one from the school district, which added $2,500 more to give local teachers $3,700 "over state." They well deserved both.

The two increases were necessary and serve different purposes as far as taxpayers are concerned.

The state hike raises all Texas teachers to a "more livable" wage in these days of high inflation. With the state treating teachers fairly, the day of militant teachers unions in Texas with schoolhouse strikes may never (we hope) come to pass. The action by the legislature has postponed it for a few years anyway.

The local pay hike was for a different purpose. It is designed to make Post teaching jobs much more attractive than teaching jobs in many other Texas schools which can't afford to pay $3,700 "over state." — which is a vast majority of them.

No complaints now

We don't know what the taxable valuation will be on our home or business property when it arrives in the mail next month.

But one thing for sure — no matter how big the figure we won't get in line to see the Board of Review. Not after looking at Garza's taxable oil valuations last week.

In 1980, the oil folks paid 88 percent of the Post school taxes.

Even with valuations on homes and business buildings going up this year, along with farm lands, it is hard to see how oil won't be still paying almost all of the tax bill in 1981.

We're defused of any possible upset on taxable valuations by those oil figures.

With taxable oil valuation in the Post school district now approximately $463 million and utility valuations actually doubled, then all the rest of it will have to almost double too before real property owners will have to pay any increased amount of taxes for the same tax dollar total in the school district.

We figure the rest of it will just about double with some of the bigger homes built within the last 15 years or so increasing more than double in the taxable valuation. You can really put a pencil to all these figures — or a pocket computer if you carry one around to relieve your brain of a little useful activity.

The way we see it, local property owners are facing probably the biggest evaluation boost in history — because real estate values have "skied" in the last 10 years — without much of a pinch on the bank account.

For that we say a heartfelt thank you to our oil folks.

We're so glad that Garza has the oil. A lot of Texas counties, school districts and towns don't and they are truly hurting these days.

We would like to point out that the oil folks took their 1981 boosts — and they were pretty terrific ones — without a single appeal launched to the new appraisal district's board of review last week.

What's more Carlton Meredith, the man who probably knows more about property taxes on West Texas oil than any other, stood up and made a speech saying oil got a fair shake if real estate values are adjusted accordingly.

Horse show to be July 2

STAMFORD — The 41st Texas Cowboy Reunion Quarter Horse Show will begin Thursday, July 2 with 15-year veteran Charles W. Stenholm as Chairman. The annual event, which is part of the Texas Cowboy Reunion here, has a colorful history which has earned it the "Stamford in July" bumper sticker slogan. Three of the coveted TCR hand tooled saddles will be going to the winners of three shows, the Open Youth Show, Registered Youth and American Quarter Horse Show. Judge for the Open Youth Show will be Larry B. Sullivant of Gainesville, Texas. James H. Nance of El Reno Oklahoma will judge the Registered Youth and the AQHA Show.

Entries for all three shows may be made upon arrival at the show. Further information may be obtained from Show Secretary, Pat Prewitt, 915-773-3684 or 915-773-2385.

Senior Citizens News

Well here we are again not to much news this week. We will be leaving the center at 1 p.m. Friday to go see "Texas" at Canyon. Those who have signed up to go be sure and be here and ready to go.

We will be having the special luncheon this Thursday, June 25. Also the hearing aid man will be here. So if you need your hearing checked or need batteries please call 2998. If you need him to come by to see you also call 2998.

Our blood pressure lady will be here June 30 instead of the 23.

We still have some sick folks but most are doing better, and still have a lot gone on vacation. We will be singing this Sunday at the Church of God of Prophecy. Brother Cook has been a great inspiration to our senior citizens and we really appreciate him very much. We enjoyed the musical this past Friday night. You who play and sing we want to say thank you. Those were Bill and Durwood Bartlett, Aubrey Ritchie, Esker Stone, Bro. Cook, Danny and Nancy Shaw, Weldon Reed, Swight Funk, Dr. Rodriguez, Bob Cat Durham, Mildred Ste-

Post teacher studying oil

Travis Ellis, high school chemistry and physics teacher here, is one of nine South Plains teachers receiving fellowships to attend the 24th annual Petroleum Institute for Educators now under way at the University of Houston.

The Institute, which began June 8 will end Friday. The Petroleum Institute is to provide a broadened understanding of oil and gas as important energy sources and to develop an awareness of the industrial importance of the petroleum industry in Texas.

Lectures, provided by oil industry experts, include transportation, exploration, production, manufacturing, marketing and research.

Three hours of graduate credit in the field of education are granted upon successful completion of assignments.

Mona Boles cited in volunteer work

Mona Boles was awarded the Volunteer Service Certificate of Appreciation from the Texas Department of Human Resources at the Monday afternoon meeting of the Garza County Child Welfare Board.

Mrs. Boles was recognized for her volunteer services working with local families who currently receive child protective services. Within the past year, she has donated much of her time and energy to help local families obtain emergency temporary child care, locate housing, and has assisted child protective worker Shirley Hays in collecting and distributing used clothing.

Last summer, Mrs. Boles expressed an interest in helping families in the Post community, and she was selected to serve on the Garza County Child Welfare Board. She coordinated the KPOS Toy Drive which has served countless children in Garza County for several years. She has also managed to raise cash funds which have helped provide Christmas and birthday gifts for Garza County foster children. She has been a very active member of the Child Welfare Board and she is now working to recruit new board members.

The Child Welfare Board is a group of county citizens who advocate services for child protective families and their children. Board members are officially appointed by the county commissioners to serve a two-year term. The Board meets every two months to discuss the needs of county foster children and county child protective families. Casework services to both foster children and to families are provided by a local caseworker, however, there are many needs which must be met by using volunteers and donated funds. The Child Welfare Board works to fill the gap in services available through direct casework and in services available from the county or state.

According to local caseworker Shirley Hays, Mrs. Boles has proven to be the best asset children's protective services has in Garza County. "She is always willing to help out and she treats everyone fairly, and most important of all, Mona is dedicated to helping children," Mrs. Hays said.

5 Garza 4-Hers attend teen lab

LEVELLAND — Five young leaders from Garza County were among the approximately 175 4-H Club members who participated in a three-day district teen leadership lab here last week, June 16-18.

The annual workshop for selected 4-H members was held on the campus of South Plains College. Garza County was represented by Cindy Basquez, Diana Basquez, Jana Middleton, Kayla Peel, and Sam Butler. Mrs. Cheryl Walker, Garza County Extension Agent, also attended the workshop.

Adult leaders, Extension specialists and a team of older youths conducted the learning experiences for the 4-H'ers attending the lab. Mrs. Patsy Sanderson from Garza County taught a workshop on Quilting. She gave 4-H'ers everything from history to the practice of quilting. Participants took part in a variety of activities, from group learning and discussion sessions to game tournaments and special morning and evening ceremonies.

Arnold Sanderson and Janell Jones also attended part of the Lab.

Training focused on teaching teen leaders to help others learn new projects and activities. Time for fun and relaxation provided the participants with the opportunity to make new friends.

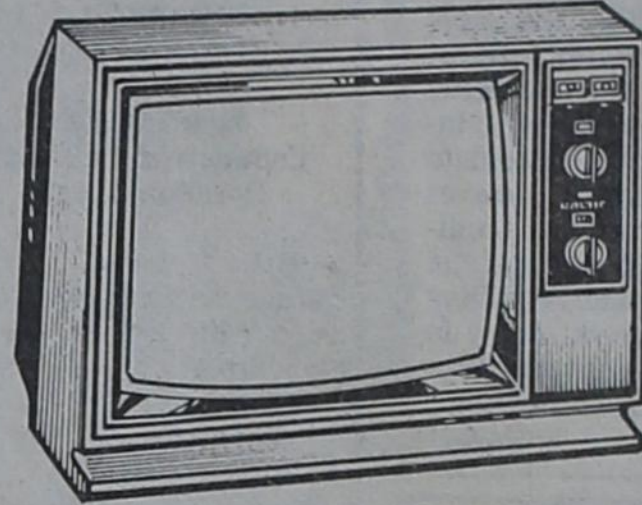

The annual leader lab helps 4-H youths develop skills in working with younger club members, broaden their friendships and strengthen their leadership abilities.

Four-H is a year-round youth program of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service which is open to all youths from nine to nineteen years of age, regardless of socio-economic level, race, color, sex, religion or national origin. Contact the Garza County Extension Office for more information.

Taking a Cool Look

If the cost of cooling your home has become a burning issue, here are comforting ideas.

If you don't need central air conditioning, consider using individual window or through-the-wall units in rooms that need cooling from time to time.

When outdoor temperature is 78 degrees or lower, an open window is as good as an air conditioner — and much less expensive!

STATEMENT OF INTENT TO CHANGE RATES

General Telephone Company of the Southwest, in accordance with the Rules of the Public Utility Commission of Texas, hereby gives notice of the Company's intent to implement a new schedule of rates in Texas effective October 1, 1981.

On April 28, 1981, the Public Utility Commission of Texas issued its order in Docket 3690, creating a separate Docket 3861 to consider the impact and effect of the accounting changes ordered by the Federal Communications Commission (CC Docket 79-105).

The Federal Communications Commission has changed the method of accounting for inside wiring costs associated with the one-time station connection, move, or change activity. The new rate schedule will increase the Company's gross annual revenue derived from local service by no more than three percent. The schedule of rates and charges is available for inspection at each Company business office in the State of Texas.

Terry-Nowlain vows said in Methodist Church

Wedding vows for Cindy Lynn Terry and Kenneth Darrell Nowlain were exchanged at 2 p.m. Saturday, June 20 in the First Methodist Church.

The Rev. Tommy Wilson of Childress and the Rev. Gary Cotton of Lubbock performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mack Terry of Post and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Geroge Nowlain of San Angelo.

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white chiffonette with accents of Venise and chantilly laces, designed by Queen Fit Gowns. The moulded bodice featured a high neckline, with a sheer yoke and a wedding band collar. The bodice, yoke and collar was embellished in Venise Lace, detailed with clusters of beads and sequins. The sheer Bishop sleeves were shirred to wide cuffs edged in Chantilly lace. Beaded lace motifs were scattered on the sleeves. Sequins defined the Chantilly lace which encircled the hemline and train, and was also defined in Chantilly lace.

To complete her ensemble Cindy wore a silk illusion veiling caught to a beaded Chantilly lace bandeau capulet. The double layered fingertip veil was encircled in Chantilly lace and finished in petal edging.

For something old, the bride wore a ruby ring belonging to her great-great grandmother; something new was gold heart earrings a gift from the groom; something borrowed was a lace handkerchief belonging to her grandmother Terry and something blue, a blue garter made for her by Mrs. Sue Maxey. She also wore a penny in her shoe minted in the year she was born, 1961.

Jana Terry, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor with Belinda Bean of Abilene, Debbie Coston, Midland and Donna Nowlain, sister of the groom of San Angelo serving as bridesmaids. They wore identical gowns of Nile green lace trimmed with white flowers and buttons and each carried bouquets of Nile green and pale yellow carnations.

Todd Blair of San Angelo served as best man with Elmo Nowlain, brother of the groom of San Angelo, Jimmy Fontenot, and Perry Hargraves both of San Angelo serving as groomsmen.

Candlelighters were Valerie Baker and Kerri Crispin, cousins of the bride of Midland. They wore pale yellow tiered gowns with ribbon straps. Flower girls were Krisha Horner of Midland and Salli Bush, cousins of the bride. They wore pale yellow dotted Swiss gowns trimmed in white lace and carried white baskets of yellow and green petals.

Serving as ushers were Ricky Spence, cousin of the groom of San Angelo and John Bil Hedrick of Post.

Musical selections for the ceremony included "God Made Love", "God, A Woman, And A Man", and "Wedding Candle Song", sung by Noel White and accompanied by Mrs. Jan Bartlett, organist.

Guests were registered by Miss Darlene Gunn of San Angelo.

A garden reception was held at the home of the brides' grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Wade Terry. The bride's table was covered with a white polyester cloth and a lace overlay gathered at the corner with white bows. The four tiered cake was decorated in the brides' chosen colors of Nile green and pale yellow. The grooms' table was covered with a Nile green cloth from which was served a chocolate cake with the words "Good Luck".

Servers for the brides' table were Nita Jo Heckaman of Amarillo, Klomah Fletcher of Midland, Larisa Shiver and Christy Morris of Post.

Serving at the grooms' table were his cousins, Sonya and Pam Spence of San Angelo.

Members of the houseparty were Mmes. Sharron Morris, Lucille Bush, Bil Hedrick, Oneita Gunn, Ruth Ann Young and Judy Bush.

Following a wedding trip to Dallas the couple will be at home in San Angelo. Cindy is a Post High School graduate and attends Angelo State University. Darrell graduated from Water Valley High School and is employed by Nowlain Pipe.

Out of town guests attended from San Angelo, Midland, Lubbock, Abilene and Austin.

Mr. and Mrs. George Nowlain were host for a dinner following the wedding rehearsal Friday night in the First Methodist Church Fellowship hall.

Hospital Notes

Those admitted to Garza Memorial Hospital since Thursday of last week were:

Gladys Blacklock Daniel, medical; Lawrence Ticer, medical; Ruby Woodard, medical; Danny Isbell, medical; Lela Smith, medical; Robert Lusk, medical; Reyes Bustos, O.B.; Sandra Bradshaw, O.B. and Mark Terry, surgery.

Those dismissed were Snadra Bradshaw, Shirley Fields, Lawrence Ticer, Ruby Woodard and Reyes Bustos.

AUGUST 1 WEDDING — Mrs. Eula B. Smith of Post announces the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Sylvia Jane, to Donald Eugene Dingus, Jr. son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Dingus of Lamesa. The bride-elect is a graduate of Post High School, attended Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene and graduated from the University of Houston in Houston. She is a pharmacist at Webb Pharmacy in Lamesa. Dingus is a graduate of Lamesa High School and Texas State Technical Institute in Waco. He is currently engaged in farming. An August 1 wedding is planned in the First Baptist Church of Lamesa.

WARM WEATHER BREAD

CRACKED WHEAT CARROT BREAD
Makes 1 loaf

1/2 cup boiling water
1/4 cup cracked wheat
2 medium carrots, scraped
2-3/4 cups unsifted all purpose flour
3 tablespoons Fleischmann's Margarine
3 tablespoons light brown sugar
1 teaspoon salt

1/4 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon ground nutmeg
1 package Fleischmann's Active Dry Yeast (105°F.-115°F.)
1/4 cup warm water
1/3 cup cold milk

Pour boiling water over cracked wheat and allow to soak 15 minutes. Drain excess water off of cracked wheat.

With shredder blade in food processor shred carrots. (Yield should be about 1-1/4 cups shredded carrot.)

Remove shredder blade and place cutting blade in food processor bowl. Combine flour, cracked wheat, Fleischmann's Margarine, light brown sugar, salt, cinnamon and nutmeg with carrots in bowl; process 5 to 10 seconds to combine. Dissolve Fleischmann's Active Dry Yeast in warm water; pour through feed tube. Begin processing, pouring milk through feed tube in a fast stream until ball forms, about 10-15 seconds. Continue processing for 60 seconds to knead dough.

Carefully remove dough from processor bowl. Shape into a ball and place in a greased bowl, turning to grease top. Cover; let rise in a warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour.

Punch dough down. Shape into a round ball. Place in a greased 8-inch round baking pan. Cover; let rise in a warm place free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour 10 minutes.

Bake at 375°F. for 25 minutes.

TEEN SCENE By Norm

Hope all of you are enjoying these HOT, HOT, HOT, days of summer!

Personally I prefer the cool, cool days of autumn and winter!!!

The PHS cheerleaders returned home last weekend from cheerleading camp at Hardin Simmons at Abilene and did an excellent job. They brought home three blue ribbons and a superior rating. Congrats girls on a job well done. Exciting things are in store for the upcoming football season.

Happy birthday this week goes out to Roxanne McClellan and Jenny Benton.

Channa Williams, Bunny Miller, Rhonda Williams, Marta Holly, Krisha Mason, Roxanne McClellan, Marcie Sneed, Risa Willard, Golden Capps, and Judy Dudley, have all attended the Wayland Flying Queens basketball camp in Plainview recently. Channa received the honor of being chosen Miss Congeniality and Risa received the award for Most Improved.

Risa and Leslie Willard have moved from Post to Wichita Falls and we wish them the best in their new home.

Thirty seven youth and sponsors from the First Baptist Church attended a Youth Evangelistic Conference in Fort Worth recently and while there also attended Six Flags. Speakers at the conference included Rick Stanley, Roger Staubach and B. J. Thomas.

NOTICE: The Junior-Senior Banquet pictures are in and can be picked up at the high school office between the hours of 8 and 12 and 4 Monday through Friday.

Congrats to Kevin Craig and Tim Tatum on their well deserved scholarships.

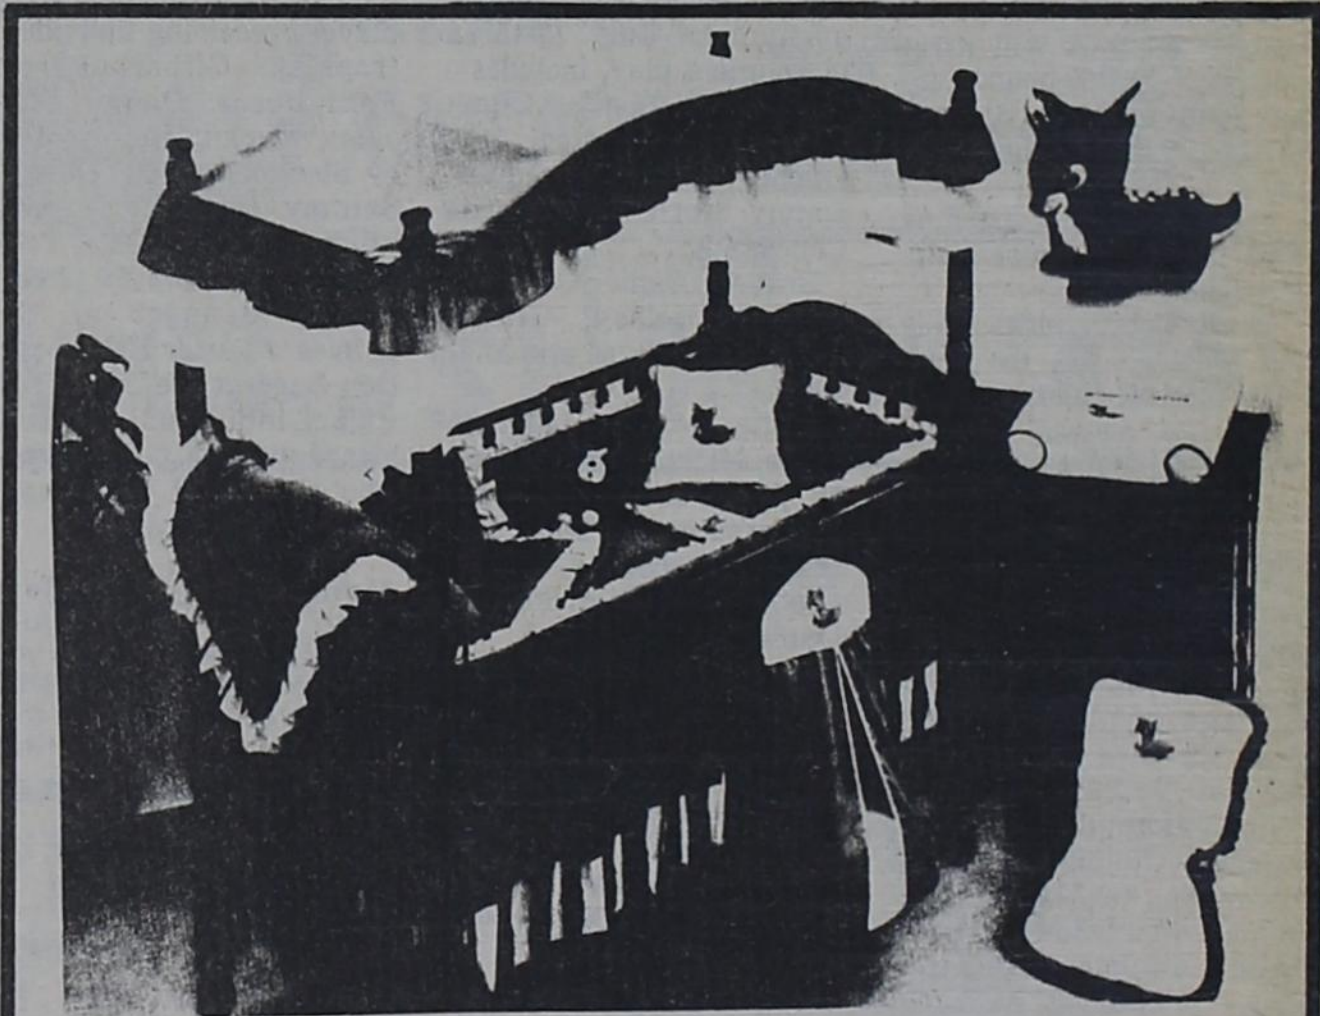

Also in today's Dispatch there is an item concerning 16 Post students who made the Dean's List at Tech. That has to mean something about our Post kids.

NOTICE: There will be a dance this Friday night, June 26 in the community center from 10 til 1. I know it's been a long time since we've had one so I'm expecting a good crowd and it is open to 8th graders through college kids home for the summer and for any kid in that age bracket that may be here visiting grandparents or relatives. It will be well chaperoned and hope to see you there. The music will be both country and rock and admission will be $3 for singles and $4.50 for couples. Should be fun!!!

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—For the month following every legislative session, lawmakers can only hold their breath while the governor uses his veto power to cull the proposed laws.

Last week, Gov. Bill Clements culled some big ones, 27 pieces of legislation in all. More vetoes are sure to follow.

In a move which took most people by surprise, Clements vetoed the state Senate redistricting plan. The task of redrawing district lines for the Senate now goes to the five-member State Redistricting Board composed of five Democrats: Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, House Speaker Bill Clayton, Atty. Gen. Mark White, Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong, and Comptroller Bob Bullock.

Earlier, the Republican governor indicated he would not veto the plan, and at one point referred to White, Armstrong and Bullock as "those three outsiders." But in announcing his veto last Thursday, Clements pointed out that, except for Armstrong who is retiring, all members of the board will be up for re-election. He's assuming that Clayton will be running for higher office, possibly Armstrong's vacated seat.

Not Enough Blacks
Clements said he killed the Senate redistricting plan because it does not create enough predominantly black districts.

In particular, the Governor is thought to want a solid black minority district carved out in Dallas County, his home base.

Clements also objected to the plan because it is gerrymandered to put urban voters against rural voters. The urban versus rural issue is traditional in the Legislature, and was prominent in the recent session.

Historically, Texas has been a rural state, and early Legislatures were dominated by the wishes of rural voters. However, the population growth in this century has created five urban areas in Texas, sprawling, expanding and modern . . . and more populous than the rural areas. Thus, there is a struggle to prevent urban areas from dominating rural, or rural areas from dominating urban.

The State Redistricting Board will draw a plan and submit it to the U.S. Justice Department.

Open Meetings Law
Clements also vetoed a tougher Open Meetings Law because he said it would have "invited anyone in the world" to file suit against public agencies which operate behind closed doors.

The bill had passed both the House and the Senate without opposition, and would have required governmental entities calling emergency meetings to publish dockets explaining which items were on the agenda and why.

Scalping Law Scalped
Clements also vetoed the ticket-scalping bill which banned resale for a higher-than-admission price of tickets to collegiate and professional sports events and to professional entertainment events.

The Governor said too many inconsistencies were written into the law.

Armstrong Blames Clayton

As most readers know, Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong has announced he will not seek re-election, and House Speaker Bill Clayton is considering running for that post.

Last week Armstrong accused Clayton of killing a bill which would have expanded the veterans land program and requested Clements to include the issue in the special session set for July 13.

Clayton denied he ordered an early subcommittee death for the Senate-approved $250 million in veterans' land program bonds. Clements is still mulling the request.

Armstrong has temporarily shut down the land purchasing program for at least six months. Unless the Legislature passes a constitutional amendment expanding the program, the program will die, he said.

Meier Switches Parties

State Sen. Bill Meier, D-Eules, announced last week he will change political parties and may run on the Republican ticket for either Congress or Lt. Governor. Meier, who sponsored the ill-fated proposal to regulate money market funds, has long been rumored to make the switch. For most, the surprise is that he has waited so long. Meier said he will not seek re-election to the Senate.

Prairie View A&M

Texas A&M System regents will give $14.2 million in Permanent University Fund bond money to predominantly black Prairie View A&M, thus possibly heading off a U.S. Justice Department race discrimination lawsuit. Legislators wrangling over alternatives to fund higher education were consistently thwarted by the A&M-Prairie View dispute over dividing the PUF.

Prairie View will receive the greatest amount of TAMU System funding for 1981 and 1982, more than the main campus at College Station which will get $10.8 million.

Gospel singing set for Sunday

A special gospel singing will be held at 2:30 p.m. Sunday in the Church of God of Prophecy, Pastor Kenneth Cook has announced. Everyone is invited.

2 new wells for county

Garza has two new well completions this week, one in the Dorward field and the other in the Sims field.

Exxon Corp. has completed its No. 110 M. A. Fuller, nine miles southeast of Justiceburg in the Dorward field as a 36-barrel producer, plus two of water, from an interval of 1,967 to 2,594 feet.

The Sims field newcomer is Curtis R. Inman's No.1-S Sims, 14 miles northwest of Post which produced 14 barrels of oil daily and 42 of water from an interval of 2,650 to 3,656 feet.

Texas farmers will plant million more

COLLEGE STATION — Texas farmers indicate they will plant a million more acres to crops this year, with wheat and soybeans leading the way.

"How well they fare will depend on weather conditions and the marketplace," points out Dr. Carl Anderson, economist with the Texas Agriculture Extension Service, Texas A & M University System.

The largest increase is in winter wheat, where acreage is estimated at 7.7 million acres. This is up from 6.8 million in 1980.

According to Anderson, the increased wheat acreage is due to a strong market last fall at planting time, the need for winter grazing to supplement drought-reduced forage supplies, and the opportunity to gain cash flow sooner in the year than from cotton, grain sorghum and corn.

While wheat grows over a large part of Texas, leading counties usually are Ochiltree, Hansford and Deaf Smith.

Soybean acreage may total 800,000 acres, up from 800,000 from 1980. Interest in soybeans remains strong because the crop tends to offer lower production costs and is relatively free of crop pests.

Soybeans in Texas are grown along the Upper Coast, in the High Plains north of Lubbock, and in the Red River area of Northeast Texas.

Grain sorghum acreage is expected to decline to 4.6 million acres in 1981, down from 4.8 million in 1980.

Grain sorghum, a state-wide crop, has lost ground largely because expected returns for alternative crops such as cotton and corn have been competitive, points out Anderson.

Interest in growing corn, however, is being dampened by the high cost of irrigation water. After reaching a peak acreage of 1.8 million in 1977, growers are expected to plant about 1.4 million acres this year. Almost half of the state's corn crop is produced in Parmer, Castro, Hale and Lamb counties.

Although cotton acreage is expected to fall slightly short of the 7.85 million acres planted in 1980, the crop remains a favorite. More than half of the nation's indicated 14.415 million acres will be in Texas.

A major factor contributing to large plantings of cotton is the surging cost of pumping irrigation water, notes Anderson. With cotton, farmers can stretch water further and keep cash flow at a higher level than with grain sorghum or corn. Besides, the price of cotton has generally been more favorable than for grain sorghum or corn.

Rice, grown in 20 counties along the Upper Coast, remains an important Texas crop. Acreage this year is expected to climb to around 619,000 acres, almost 30,000 more than in 1980. Nearly all the rice is grown within 150 miles of Houston, where most of it is milled and packaged.

Although the price level of Texas rice has been reasonably strong, it is sensitive to year-to-year variations in world production and supply-demand relationships. American growers account for just under 2 percent of world rice production but are responsible for about a fourth of the world rice trade.

With hay supplies short, harvested hay acreage is expected to rise to 3 million acres this year, a 330,000-acre increase over 1980, says the economist.

Peanut acreage is subject to some uncertainty because of the high cost of planting seed. Early this spring, farmers said they intended to plant some 315,000 acres, about the same as last year. Good peanut prices, resulting from limited stocks, will likely encourage growers to fulfill earlier planting intentions, believes Anderson. Five counties — Comanche, Frio, Eastland, Atascosa and Wilson — account for half of the peanuts grown in Texas.

Acreage planted to such crops as barley, oats and sugar beets is estimated to advance some 7 to 11 percent.

No major hike for General Telephone

AUSTIN — The Public Utility Commission of Texas last week reduced General Telephone Company of the Southwest's request for additional revenues from $44.6 million to almost $2.1 million and announced continuation of the service penalty imposed on the company in August of 1980 for poor service.

The additional revenues will be received through new rates for services such as mobile telephones, foreign exchange service (service in exchange with a direct line to another), and a charge for the telephone company to pick up telephone instruments when customers discontinue service. Customers could save the pick up charge by returning their instruments to a return point. Effective date of the changes is not known at this time.

GTE Chairman Theodore F. Brophy personally appeared "to reassure this commission of GTE's commitment to seeing that General's customers, here in Texas, receive good service. I'm also here to ask you for your support in that effort."

Brophy told the commissioners during the hearing in Austin on the final order that the continuation of the service penalty significantly weakens the company's ability to invest for service improvement.

"I think the penalty has served the purpose it was intended to serve. It surely has gotten the attention of the people at General and it has surely gotten the attention of the people at GTE. It's also deprived General of $5 million of capital at a time when capital is both scarce and expensive. I believe that a continuation of that penalty at this particular time serves more as an impediment to improved service than as a stimulus for improved service."

The GTE chairman also said continuation of the penalty would be unfair in light of the dollars that have already been committed and the progress that has already been made in compliance with the clear mandate of the commission to improve service.

The hearing examiner recommended a return on equity of 14.14 percent, before penalty, which Brophy said is neither reasonable nor fair when investors in money market funds are earning 17 percent, and A-rated utility bonds yield over 16 percent.

Following the PUC's ruling, R. W. Britt, GTSW president, said, "I was sincerely hopeful the commissioners would allow us a return adequate to meet the obligation we have to serve our customers and earn a profit sufficient to compete for investors' dollars.
