Even a windy little thunderstorm that poured .40 of an inch of moisture over city-county park shortly before 8 p.m. Saturday night didn't dampen Post's Fourth of July celebration for long.

A crowd of hundreds had to leave - or get soaked but half or more of them stayed in their cars and 30 minutes later were back on the wet grass listening to Danny Shaw's musical group on the bandstand while they waited for the 10 p.m. free fireworks.

The shower did send the senior citizens band off the bandstand early to avoid the deluge.

Council wrestles insurance and budget

Insurance renewals and final budget decisions will take the city council into July overtime despite a six and one-half work session Monday night which didn't end until 2 a.m. Tuesday. Both insurance and budget decisions must be made by early August. The council heard insurance proposals from Harold Lucas and Tom Power Monday night and looked over a letter from Bryan J. Williams who suggested the council determine the amounts of fire and extended coverage it wants on its buildings and contents, so that he could offer his proposal. The council after some discussion asked Mike San-each building. The three local insurance agencies then will be asked to submit their quotations for the next year based upon the same coverage. Present coverage held by Harold Lucas Insurance runs out Aug. 4. The council did make two Fifty Fourth Year insurance decisions Monday night. They authorized Harvey Morton, attorney for the city, to file suit in district court here against St. Paul Guardian Insurance Co. in an effort to recover book losses in the Post Public Library from water leakage during a May thunderstorm. We're in his debt

Chief Neal Clary its gratitude for the busy decade he has given Post as the top man in a very good volunteer department.

The announcement this week that Clary had decided to step down Aug. 1 came as no surprise to all who know him.

His present position as assistant superintendent here for the George R. Brown oil interests keeps him on the go far longer than the usual 40 hour working week. He felt he couldn't devote enough time to being fire chief to do a good job.

Neal has had the solid support of the Third Round coming up

Round three of President Reagan's will depend upon the politicians around the economic recovery package is coming up.

And you may hear just as many howls over this as you did over the budget and tax cuts in the first two rounds.

Round three is block grants.

The President intends to combine a whole lot of government programs into two or three sets of block grants to the states. His planners figure that by cutting out so much national bureacracy he can reduce the total cost 15 percent without reducing the amount of federal funding which finally ends up in the various programs.

The president promised in his campaign to cut back on all the federal involvement and leave more decisions up to the states.

Of course the people now benefitting from the programs fear the states may change some things as well they should, and probably will. They cry that new state congressional elections come out. Oh, they bureaucracies will develop.

Certainly, this community owes Fire firemen, the city council and the community over the years.

It is significant to note that Neal is just stepping down as chief but plans to continue as a volunteer fireman. That shows where his heart is after 23 years of protecting this community as a volunteer fireman.

Bobby Terry, the assistant fire chief and a veteran of some 25 years or more in the department, will step up to take command. No problem there. What's more Bobby can look forward to the city buying a new fire truck in the new fiscal year. Come to think of it, maybe that is part of the reason Neal did not resign off the department.

Maybe yes, and maybe no on that. That

Jeff Lamb, 15-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Lamb, participated in the National Age Group finals of the United States Acrogymnastics Federation held in Canyon, July 3 and 4. Jeff qualified through the West Texas Tumbling Association to be able to participate in three events, tumbling, double mini-tramp, and trampoline. He reached the finals in two of the events. He was competing in the 15 to 18 age group.

In the tumbling prelimi-naries he placed third with the top six making the finals, but dropped to 4th place in the finals. He placed sixth in trampoline preliminaries and in the finals, and tied for seventh place in the double minitramp competition. He received a ribbon for placing, but did not get to participate in the finals. Jeff is coached by Jackie Arnwine of Levelland. Attending the meet as spectators were Amy Thuett, and Dan and Kay Lamb. The group stayed in Canyon Sunday July 5, to see the AAU Jr. Olympics which 50TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY - Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Epley will host a reception from 2 to 4 p.m. Sunday in the bank community room honoring the 50th wedding anniversary of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Epley, picture above, of Post. They were married July 13, 1931, in Sulphur, Okla. She was Thelma Chesnut prior to her marriage.

What's Happening in Home Economics By MRS. CHERYL WALKER County Extension Agent — Home Economics

When gardens start producing we enjoy lots of fresh vegetables, but sometimes you may harvest some bitter cucumbers. What causes the cucumber plants to start producing bitter produce? The age of the plant, high temperatures, low moisture, low fertility and some foliage diseases can cause plant stress which can lead to bitter fruit. Therefore, any condition which causes cucumber plants to grow slowly and do poorly can cause bitterness. Once the cucumber plants start to produce bitter fruit they should be removed from the garden. Bitterness is not only associated with garden cucumbers. You may have also had bitter lettuce and eggplant. The lettuce should be removed from the garden, but the eggplant can be saved. Prune the eggplant, then fertilize and bring back a healthy plant that will produce high vields.

Food preservation is like anything else. If you want good results, you must know the correct procedure. Also, you may need information Mr. and Mrs. Sam Heintz announce the engagement on equipment, terms, selecand approaching marriage of their daughter, Judy to tion of foods, storage and storage time. You may have heard of Dewain Bradford, son of over, open kettle, and or microwave canning. These are not recommended methods. In oven canning, the temperature varies as the heat goes off and on again. The dry heat does not penetrate. Also pressure may build up in jars and cause an explosion or drafts when the oven door is open may cause jars to break. These reasons make the method unsafe. The open kettle canning method does not offer sufficient heat treatment to prevent spoilage and possible food poisoning. Cooking

Sixteen families attend Tanner reunion July 3

Sixteen Tanner families from across the United States celebrated their 13th annual family reunion at the home of Julius E. and Minnie Lee Tanner of Post. Friday, July 3.

Fourty-one people came by plane, bus and car from as far away as California and New York. Several families came from Georgia, Texas, Kansas and Colorado. Two of the seven sisters, Moselle Graley of West Virginia and Norma Pierson of North Carolina were unable to attend.

The 10 Tanner children originally came from La Grange, Georgia. Now there are four generations with 114 living descendents of Talmadge and Mary H. Tanner. Nelder Hart is 67 and the oldest member of the family. Two of the brothers, Robert B. and Harre E. Tanner, now deceased were both former residents of Post.

The guests enjoyed a buffet feast at the Post community Center. The food was prepared by Kay and Mary Jo Tanner and their families. Family specialties such as Grandma Cake, Tanner-family soup and Robert's stew were served. The family danced to country western music, played cards and posed for dozens of pictures. Host Julius (Dick) Tanner and his family welcomed the guests with a warm

Record world crop of cotton in 1981

COLLEGE STATION -Faced with a record world cotton crop and a lackluster demand for their product, cotton growers need to map out a sound marketing strategy. A key part of this strategy is keeping a close eye on the market itself.

Dr. Carl Anderon, marketing economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A & M University System, sugests a number of marketing options for cotton producers:

Establish a selling price by forward contracting or hedging in the futures market and arrange delivery at some future date. Sell at harvest.

Hold and sell later. Place cotton under the Commodity Credit Corpora-

More solar plant funding

CROSBYTON - Four million dollars for the Crosbyton solar power project is in the 1982 federal budget passed by the house, supporters here have been informed.

The money would be used to construct big solar collector mirrors and order long lead materials such as a boiler which will require 12 to 18 months for delivery.

If the solar project is eventually carried through to conclusion at a cost of $35 million, it will include ten 200-foot collector dishes and a "hybrid" power plant which would be capable of handling both solar and tion loan program and hope the price will go up. "Growers can develop a

Dickens Coop meets July 16

SPUR — Dickens Electric Cooperative, Inc. will hold its 36th Annual membership meeting at the Cooperative's headquarters building here Thursday, July 16. The meeting will get under way with registration of members and guests at 6 p.m. During the time of registration, entertainment will be provided by Mike Porter and the "Malfunction Junction". The Arts and Crafts show exhibited in the Cooperative's Willie Room will also be open for viewing. The business session will begin at 7:30 p.m., with Cooperative reports and the election of three Directors to three year terms. The Nominating Committee has submitted the following names as candidates for the Board of Directors: Garth Gregory and D. E. Dillashaw for the Girard area;

Haldean Cave and Roy H. Parker for the Harmony area; and Robert Forbis and Thurman (Frazier) Watson for the Roaring Springs area. Jim Morriss, General Manager of Texas Electric Cooperatives in Austin, will be guest speaker this year. There will be drawings for prizes for Cooperative members during the meeting and a grand prize, a Casablanca ceiling fan, given away at the conclu-

'feel' for the cotton market by watching daily and weekly reports on prices and worldwide production and use," says the economist. "Bumper 1980 crops in Russia and China have burdened the market, and U.S. prices have fallen about $35 per bale since January."

According to Anderson, two developments will bear heavily on the cotton market for the season ahead - low carryover stocks and export demand. "During the summer, the market will move up and down between low supplies and good and bad reports on crop conditions," says Anderson. "A decline in interest strengths may offer an opportunity to forward-price some cotton betwee now and the time harvest gets into full swing, he adds.

"Export demand will be the main factor influencing cotton prices this fall and winter," believes Anderson. "The growing importance of exports to disappearance of U.S. cotton suggests even more price uncertainty than in the past. Export demand is subject not only to the uncertainty of foreign production but also to political disruptions."
