An employee of the Texas Department of Highways here for the last seven months, was pronounced dead at the scene by Justice of the Peace Pat Kitchens.

North and Marion Cruse, another employee, were patching holes on FM 669 approximately 9½ miles south of Post when North stepped from behind the truck and was hit by a pickup pulling a two-horse trailer loaded with one horse. Driver of the pickup was Fred B. Lucero of Southland, a student at Howard County Jr. College in Big Spring.

Patti wins in knife contest

Post High School students revised the old game of Mumble-Ty-Peg this year under the guidance of Principal Joe Giddens, E. A. Howard, and Ray Conner and have just completed the first tournament ever this past week.

The idea originated in horticulture class and after interest seemed to grow in the 'sport' it was decided to sponsor a tournament.

The tourney was held during the lunch hour from 12:10 til 12:30 and seventeen entries participated in the event.

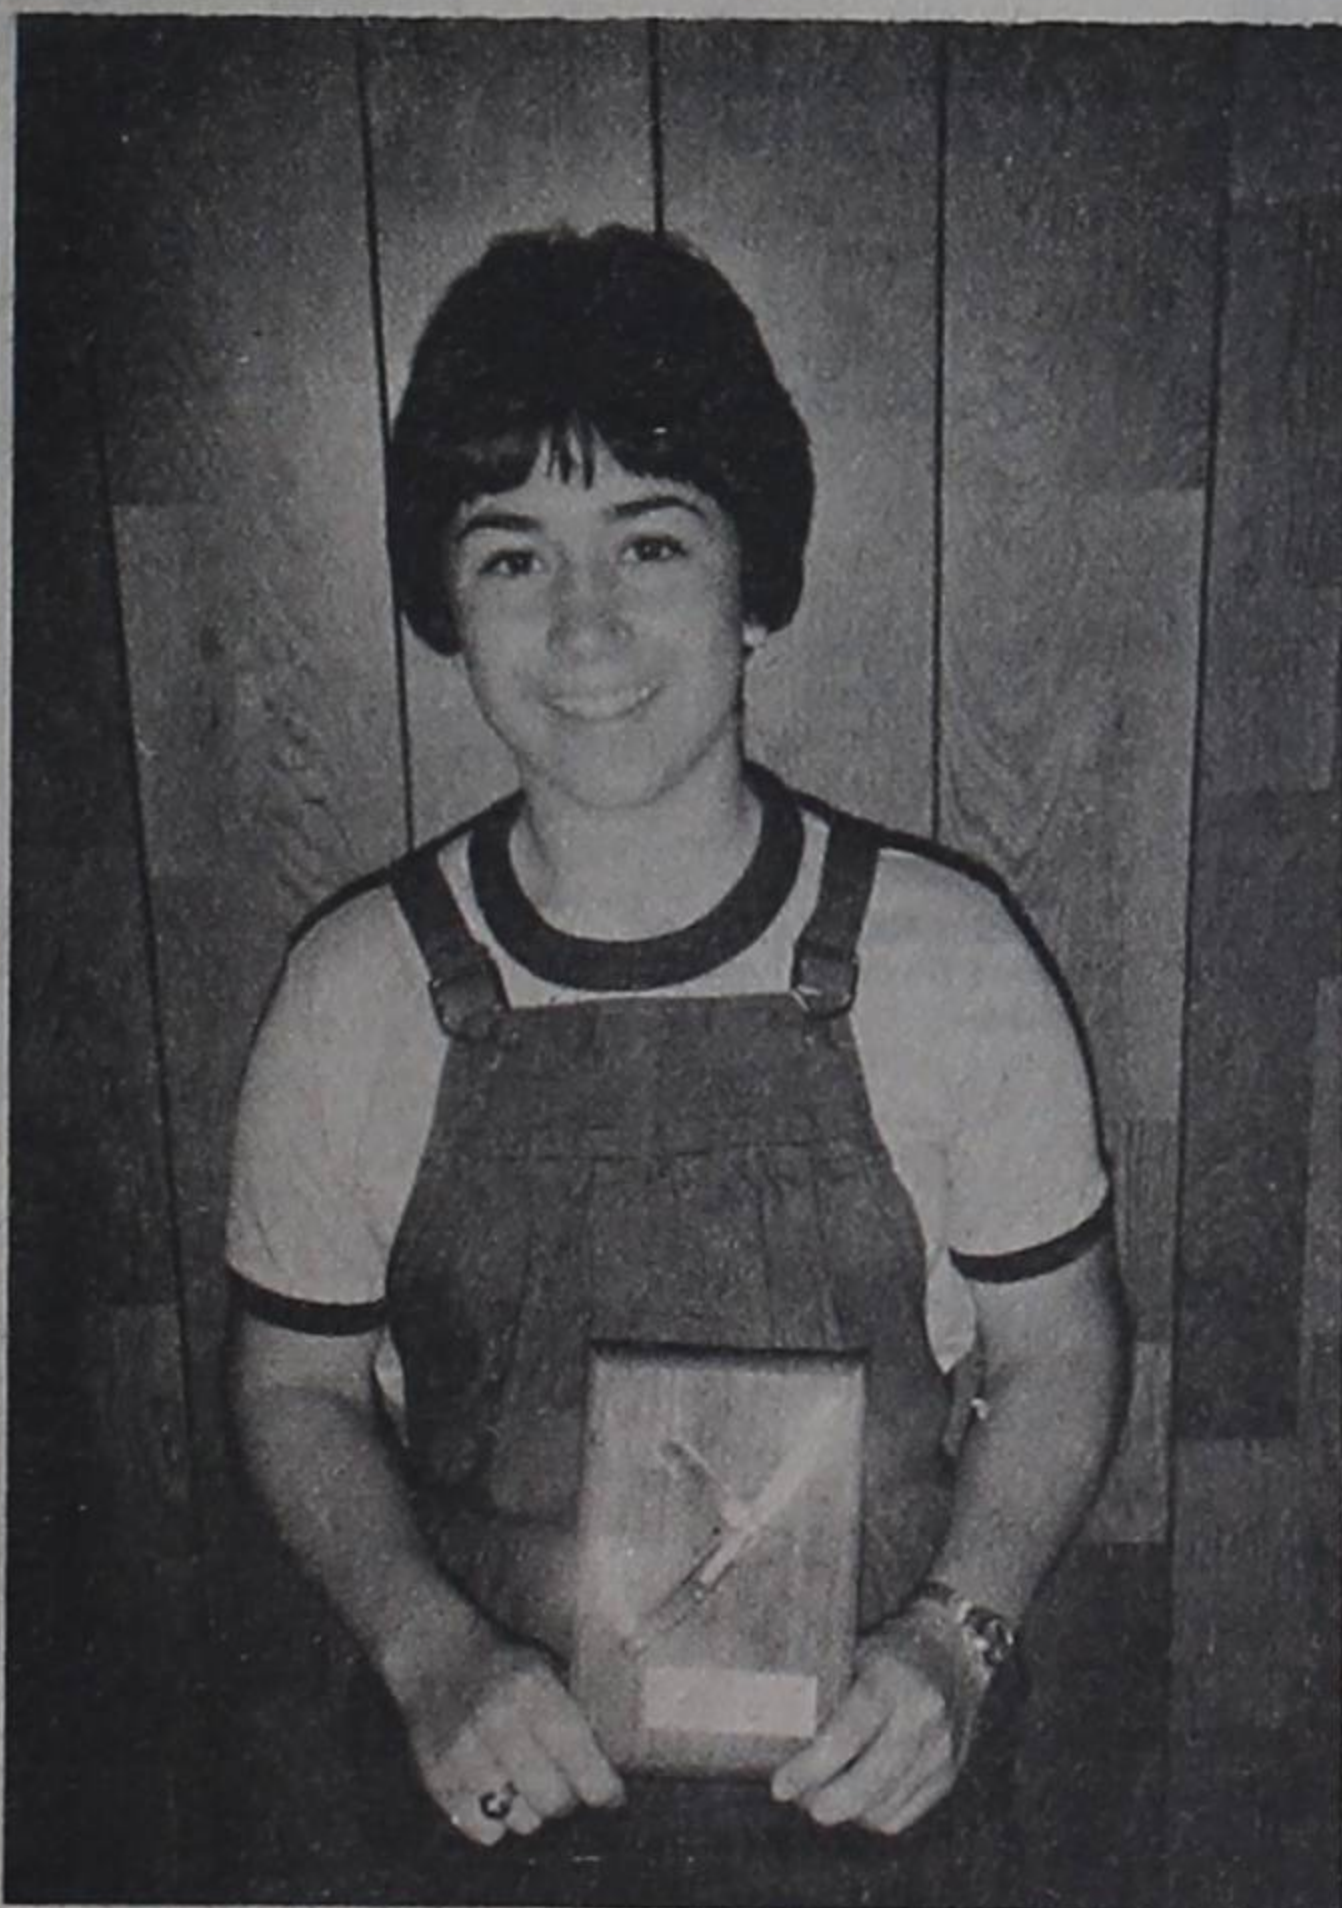

Patti McClellan, the only girl in the tourney, had what it took to win over the sixteen fellows. Kraig Peel was runnerup, followed by Kim Norman, Wade Giddens, Ken Young, and Mike Sullivan.

The object of the game is to stick a pocket knife in the ground from various positions.

Ray Conner acted as judge for the event, and Principal Giddens carved the walnut trophy presented to the winner.

Students hope that this will be an annual event.

Local school receives balloon launch returns

Elementary school students from Post released 400 balloons into the air on March 22 with this message: "Dear Balloon Finder! Our school is participating in Weekly Reader's Writing Pals Balloon Contest. Please put this message in an envelope along with your name and address and the city and state in which you found my message. Then mail the card to me (name) at: Post Elementary School, 309 W. 8th Street, Post, Texas. Tell your local newspaper that you heard from me. If you write to me, I'll write back."

Criselda Hernandez found Lisa Foreman's balloon seven miles west of Floydada, about fifty miles from its launch site. Closer to home, Janell Jones found Jimmy Holleman's balloon about 1½ miles from the school, and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Melcher of Southland found Gabriel Perez' balloon. David Heaton's balloon was reported found by Gordie Washington of Flo-mot, after travelling about 75 miles. Tyra Burk of Estelline found Paul Ribinson's balloon after flying 119 miles. Jan Ramsey, who lives northwest of Quitaque, found Damon Curtis' balloon when she went out to get her morning paper, six days after the balloon was released. Josie Tobar also wrote to report the finding of Christy Mendez' balloon in Ralls, about 30 miles from Post.

The distance record belongs to Veronica Quintana, whose balloon was found 133 miles away, in Hollis, Oklahoma, by Morris Boothe. Thousands of students across the country released balloons, hoping that theirs might travel the farthest, winning $500 for their school, or some of the hundreds of free books to be given by Weekly Reader. At the very least, eight students from Post have received letters from new friends in communities to the northeast.

Volunteers are honored

With April 18-24 as National Volunteer Week, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A & M University System, extends a special salute to the more than 115,000 persons who volunteered some 6 1/2 million hours of service during 1981 in support of the state agency's educational programs in agriculture, home economics, 4-H and community development. Volunteers are an invaluable resource in disseminating educational information which has brought about adoption of new technologies and improved quality of life, notes an Extension 4-H and youth specialist. What's Happening in Home Economics

By MRS. CHERYL WALKER
County Extension Agent - Home Economics

Have you ever had problems with hard water spots collecting on your glassware? Sometimes we just live with the problem. At other times we become determined to clean up the spots.

Whatever gets us started on the clean-up, here are different methods to remove hard-water film.

- (1) Soak glassware about 15 minutes in undiluted white vinegar.
- (2) Wash glassware in a basin of water using a generous amount of an automatic dishwasher detergent. Wear rubber gloves to protect your hands.
- (3) Use a commercially designed product according to instructions.
- (4) Use vinegar rinse in the dishwasher. Run a load of glassware through its normal cycle using detergent. Remove metal items from the dishwasher. Start the dishwasher again, but do not use detergent.

When the dishwasher comes to the main wash portion of its cycle, open it and pour one quart of white vinegar into the bottom. Close the door and let it complete its cycle.

(5) To gradually remove the film use twice the recommended amount of dishwasher detergent for the initial film-removing wash. Afterward use an extra tablespoon of detergent in the main wash.

To prevent spotting you may use commercial rinse agents in either liquid or solid form. These products reduce surface tension of water, causing the water to sheet off items in the dishwasher. This reduces the possibility of droplets forming to cause water spotting.

Windmills as power sources explained

Using windmills to generate electricity is a rather recent application of wind power, when you consider that windmills have been used to do man's work for more than 5000 years, reports Dr. Bill Cooper of Oklahoma State University. He also noted that the homes and farms using wind power to generate electricity in the 1930 time period did not have the large power demands that our modern homes of today require.

As a help to persons interested in the subject of wind electric power, Dr. P. M. Moretti of the Oklahoma State University Department of Mechanical and Aerospace Engineering has written an article answering some of the most frequently asked questions. His article also gives the names and addresses of a number of manufacturers of wind electric systems. The article concludes with a list of references for further study, reports Dr. Cooper.

Folk cures may, may not help you LUBBOCK — Folk remedies may or may not cure you, but they likely won't hurt you, says a specialist in the history of science and medicine, Professor Jerry Stannard.

A visiting professor this spring at Texas Tech University, Stannard has published two books and more than 90 papers on the history of medical botany and has lectured nationally and throughout Europe on folk medicine.

"The reasons people trust folk remedies — poultices or tonics made from plants — are often psychological," Stannard said. "The remedies use camomile leaves for a tea, and when people drink it, they honestly begin to feel better." "They are doing something for themselves and convincing themselves it helps."

Many remedies really do work, Stannard said. For instance, the aloe vera plant can be cut and rubbed on burns and wounds and has a soothing and healing effect.

People's experience with these plant medicines contributes to their belief.

Stannard said use of plants to treat or prevent illness goes back as far as written records and probably before. Folk medicine centered on plants reached great peaks during the Middle Ages when magical properties were also attributed to plants. At that time, Stannard said, other forms of therapy for illnesses were nonexistent.

The majority of the people in the Middle Ages were dependent upon remedies of plant origin and upon a supervised diet of plant substances as their main lines of defense against disease," he said.

The root of the white water lily was used by medieval physicians to treat ulcers. Poultices made from ground meal of wheat, barley and rye were used on sores and wounds. Plant inhalants and incense were highly regarded as plaque remedies. Gums and resins led the "folk" to believe in their medicinal value because of their penetrating aroma and plasticity.

Some medieval medicinal plants have survived to this day, Stannard said. For instance, the squill, used in medieval treatment of dropsy, jaundice, colic, chronic cough and asthma, is used medically today for heart conditions and as a diuretic. It is commonly called sea onion and is of the lily family.

Standard said plant treatments maintained their place in medicine until fairly recent times — the early 20th century. But little of the folk medicine survives in scientific medicine.

In England, he said, there is a controversy going on now over the medical value of the comfrey plant, found in many herb gardens. The large leaf plant is used in folk medicine to promote healing of sores, abscesses or bruises. The leaf is so big it also serves as a bandage.

The main medicinal plant drug in modern American medicine is the heart drug digitalis, which comes from the plant of the same name, commonly called foxglove. The plant's effects were known as early as 1500 B.C. and it was used to treat dropsy in the 19th century.

Citrus oils, starches and sugars are used to flavor and add substance to American medicines, but are not employed for any medical value, Stannard said.

In a recent venture to a local health food store, Stannard said he found more than 75 dried plants that are sold for possible uses in West Texas folk medicine.

Some folk remedies survive in other forms. Hre-hound, from the mint family, was used by pioneers and earlier as a cough syrup and has become a candy. The candy is still commonly used to pamper a sore throat and it helps, Stannard said.

Stannard said his own private herb garden filled with 50-60 herbs grown in traditional medieval herb gardens is an asset to cooking.

There is majoram and thyme for soups and stews; tansy and rue to flavor fish as early French cultures did; tarragon and basil for salad dressings; and chives and burnett for green salads.

Majoram and thyme, both of the mint family, were used to obtain medicinal oils in medieval medicine. Tansy was used as a post-Lenten tonic and is still used in folk medicine to dispel worms and treat bruises and inflammations.

Rue is used to flavor drugs and was believed to prevent poisons and diseases. Tarragon was used medicinally to stimulate appetite or as a diuretic and sweet basil of the mint family was believed to be effective for some illnesses. Burnet, of the rose family, was formerly used as a poultice to stop bleeding.

IT'S A FACT

Some 5,000 Texans have attacked high home repair and maintenance costs by attending workshops and enrolling in a television shortcourse conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A & M University System. These "do-it-yourselfers" reported saving more than $165,000 in just one year by doing many of their household repair and maintenance jobs with skills and information learned through Extension training programs. Fellow Agriculturalist:

I know you have a deep interest in the future and profitability of agriculture in West Texas, and I, as a fourth generation farmer, share in your concern. Having been raised on the farm and having been a farmer and stockman all of my adult life, I am keenly aware of the multitude of problems that face agriculture, not the least of which are low prices, high costs, and high property taxes (which must be paid whether you're making a profit or not).

I became a candidate for the state legislature because I felt that someone who knows the problems of the rural areas, and who has a direct stake in the future of West Texas should be in Austin representing this very rural district. I feel strongly that our representative should not be someone from an urban setting who has no real interest in or first hand knowledge of our problems.

There are some important priorities concerning agriculture at the state level. One, to reverse the trend of placing more and more of the burden of financing education on the local property tax. Two, to fight the coming push by urban interests to repeal the sales tax exemption for agricultural inputs. Three, to explore new avenues at the state level of enhancing prices received for our products.

I genuinely believe that I am the only candidate in this race who has the qualifications, ability, and willingness to fight for agriculture in Texas. Please join me with your support, your influence, and your vote.

Sincerely,

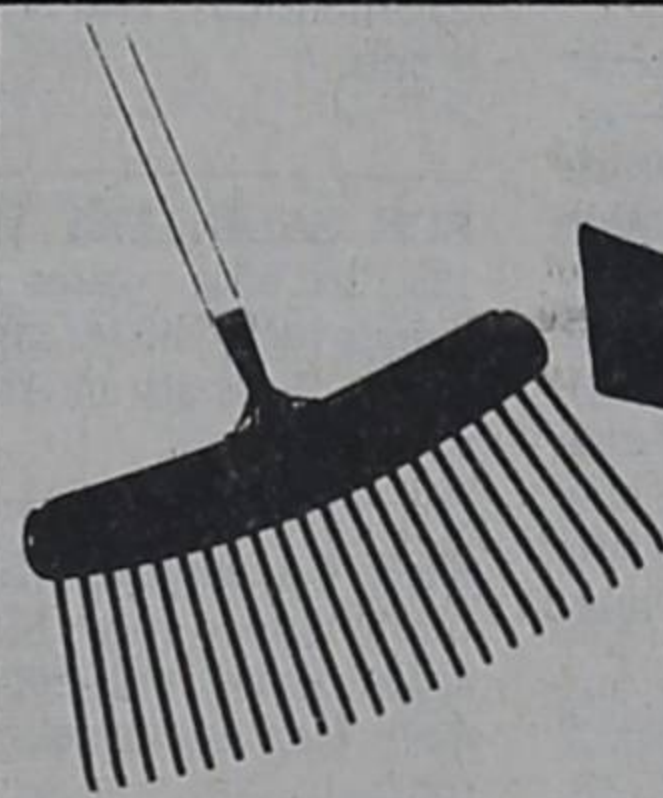

Steven A. Carriker

Culture club hears pioneer

The Woman's Culture Club met April 14, in the club house with Ruth Duckworth as hostess.

Maxine Earl, president, presided for a short business meeting.

Reports were given on the district convention held in Lubbock recently by Linda Malouf, Ruth Duckworth, Maxine Earl and Doll Haire.

Mrs. Haire introduced Lillian Potts, who presented a tape on "The Beautiful Heritage We Share in Garza County," by our own pioneer, Tom Bouchier. The tape was most informative and very interesting.

The organization of the county was planned at a picnic at the OS ranch in 1906, which a number of the ranchers, and cowboys and other early settlers attended.

The year of 1912 was a very exciting year for the county and Post as the railroad came to town and also the Post Mill.

These pioneers came, they stayed and they carved for themselves homes, education for their children, comfort in their old age, peace of heart that comes to those who have labored well, justifying their faith in themselves and the land they have chosen, and who follow reap the rich harvest of their faith and labor.

Refreshments were served from a table centered by arrangement of spring garden flowers.

Those attending were Sylvia Evans, and son, Maxine Earl, Doll Haire, Linda Malouf, Ruby Kirkpatrick, Lillian Potts, Opal Pennell, Ruth Young, Pearl Storie, and Ruth Duckworth.

Shower held for Ashley

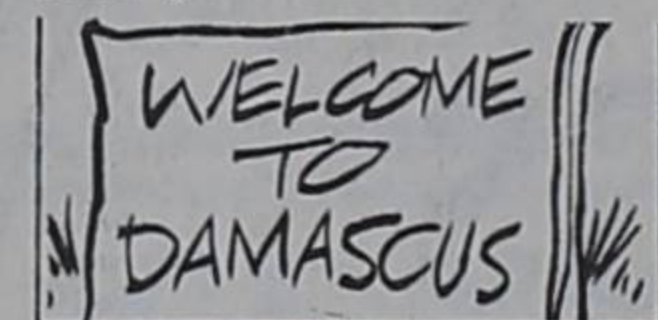

A get acquainted shower was held for two week old Ashley Brooke Stotts, daughter of Randall and Donna Stotts, in the home of Mrs. Silas Short, Saturday, April 17.

The 30 guests attending registered between the hours of 3 and 4 p.m.

Special guests for the occasion were Ashley's grandmothers, Norma Baumann and Doris Stotts of Tahoka.

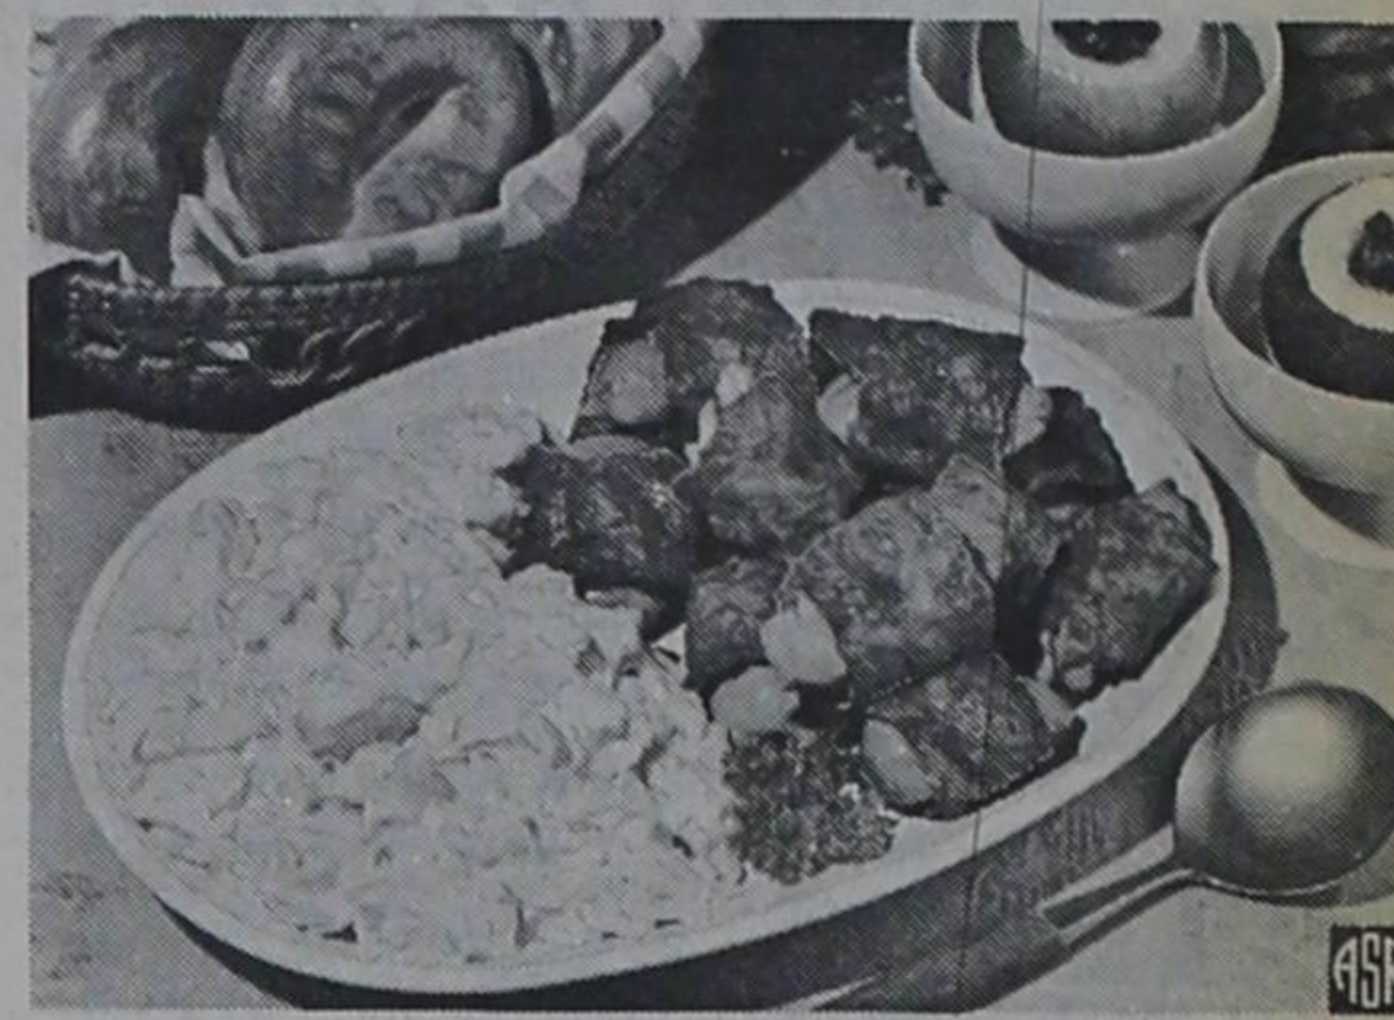

Pink filled cookies and punch were served from a table laid with a white cloth and featured a gold boot with pink roses as the centerpiece.

Hostesses for the event were Mmes. Beth Short, Allane Ammons, Juanella Hays, Bonnie Duren, Karla Morris, Susan Strawn, Meg Nelson, and Weaver McKamie. Hostesses presented individual gifts.

The oldest continuously inhabited city in existence is Damascus in Syria.

A Worthwhile Breakfast

Whether it is a leisurely weekend breakfast for the family or a company meal for guests, all meat pork breakfast strips are worthy of the occasion. For your next special breakfast, try this oven-easy menu. While the Wrap-ups and apples bake, the eggs can be scrambled, and the bagels or English muffins can be toasted. Plan on serving two Wrap-ups per person.

Sizzlin' Wrap-ups
Yield: 6 servings (12 wrap-ups)
12 strips Sizzlean 6 chicken livers
Partially cook pork breakfast strips by panfrying over low heat 5 minutes. Turn once. Drain. Cut livers into halves. Roll each piece in one pork breakfast strip. Secure with a wooden pick. Place on rack in baking pan. Bake in 375°F oven for 25 minutes, turning once. Remove picks before serving.

Scouts to hold Jubilee camp

Seventy-five years ago the first scout camp was held on Brownsea Island in Poole Harbor England. Lord Baden-Powell ran the camp for 22 boys and started the Boy Scout movement which came to America 3 years later in 1910.

A "Footsteps of the Founders" camporee with 800 scouts and leaders will be held April 30 - May 2 in Lubbock's Comanche Canyon to celebrate the 75th Anniversary of world scouting. Entry to Comanche Canyon is east on Kent Street located just north of Lubbock State School in Lubbock, Texas.

Many of the activities and contests conducted in Baden-Powell's Camp will be reenacted in the 1982 Camp. Each Patrol of 5 to 8 scouts will enter its patrol flag in a contest. Recognition will be given for most original flags in design. There will be 3 prizes for the entire Camporee.

There will also be a contest for the most original scout staff. A scout staff is a stick about 6' long and 1" in diameter. The staves have been used by scouts as an aid hiking, in first aid, and scoutcraft. Many staves are marked with measurements so they may be used as a ruler. Also some scouts mark various points on the staff as a fulcrum point so the staff may be used to measure weights. Staves are decorated by carving, paint string, leather, feather and other emblems.

Problem solving events will be featured during Saturday's program. The events which are designed for fun will test the scouts preparedness in knots, first aid, teamwork, tracking, signaling, fire building, axmanship and compass.

The public is invited to the big campfire Saturday night. The campfire will include a dramatization of Baden-Powell's first camp-out in addition to the recognition and awards.

Jack Baker of Lubbock heads up a Camporee Committee of 40 scouters from the South Plains area. The South Plains Council consists of 20 counties and is supported by 12 United Ways.

Election signs may be unlawful

LUBBOCK — Candidates for political office may violate the law if they erect campaign signs on some private property.

The highway beautification provisions of the Texas Litter Abatement Act control the erection of signs on property adjacent to Interstate and Federal-aid Primary Highways. Anyone desiring to erect a new sign along these highways must have a state license to engage in outdoor advertising and a permit for each sign.

Existing signs may be repainted or repapered; however, they may not be enlarged nor may lighting be added unless approved by the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation or the city which issued the sign permit. Subject to city ordinances, signs may be erected at campaign headquarters.

No signs except official traffic control signs are permitted within the rights of way of any highways in Texas. Maintenance crews may remove any signs not conforming to state law.

Candidates or their campaign managers are urged to contact the nearest district office of the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation for further information if they are considering erecting campaign signs.

CATTLEMEN ARE CHALLENGED

Cattlemen need to understand who their customers are today and their concerns for diet and health, said J. D. Sartwell of Port City Stockyards in Sealy at the recent Beef Cattle Short Course at Texas A & M University sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. He called for more economy in beef production and more attention to promotion and marketing of the product. Cattlemen must continue to provide beef in the way that consumers want it. They also need to explore ways to increase sales of beef, especially in the export market. New product development should also be explored.

LUBBOCK — Word came to Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock, from Washington April 14, that there would be no farmer-held reserve program for cotton in the foreseeable future.

"There has been no official announcement that reserve program proposals have been turned down by U. S. Department of Agriculture officials," says PCG Executive Vice President Donald Johnson, adding that "Government agencies aren't prone to publicize negative decisions, so it is entirely possible that no such announcement will be forthcoming."

USDA reportedly analyzed three different reserve program possibilities and found all three unacceptable. Each would have allowed producers to enter cotton into a three-year reserve at different loan levels. All however would have required cotton to remain in the reserve until the market price rose to at least 75 cents per pound, four cents above the 1982 target price.

Loan rate entry levels said to be considered were at 120 percent of the 1982 base loan (68.5 cents), 112.5 percent of the loan (64.2 cents), and at 57.08 cents, the same as the 1982 base loan.

The initial outlay that would be required from the U. S. treasury and the danger of building burdensome cotton supplies, PCG was told, were the major reasons for the Department's refusal of reserve program requests.

The PCG Board of Directors voted March 11 to endorse "the concept" of a farmer-held cotton reserve program but deferred recommending special program details pending further developments. PCG for the past months has been pursuing the possibility of a reserve but no decision has been made, Johnson said, on PCG's future actions on the issue.

Gary Ivey of Ralls, PCG President, is encouraging High Plains farmers to give full cooperation to the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service of Austin when it begins interviewing Texas farmers and ranchers in mid-May on 1982 crop acreage and mid-year livestock inventories.

Confidential interviews will be conducted through the mail or in person by field enumerators. Results, according to State Statistician Doug Murfield, will be published in June.

Murfield is urging farmers and ranchers to complete and return mail questionnaires promptly. All information will be combined for state and county estimates.

Murfield said estimates give Texas farmers and ranchers planning information for planting, breeding, feeding, storing, producing and marketing. "Without these reports most farmers would have to depend on trade and other sources for information on crop and livestock prospects," he explained.

Reports also are used by farm organizations and legislatures to plan and develop farm programs, extension economists and farm and ranch management consultants to advise farmers and ranchers, and exporters to plan and promote sales of Texas agricultural products in foreign markets.

ONION FIELD DAY
New onion varieties and an improved mechanical onion harvester will be featured at an Onion Field Day at the Texas A & M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center at Weslaco April 28 beginning at 10 a.m. A total of 61 onion varieties will be reviewed and the harvester developed by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station will be demonstrated. Onion growers and representatives of vegetable related industries are invited to attend, notes a horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A & M University System.

Commercial scales regularly checked

AUSTIN — Garza County people can count on getting their money's worth in weight through the year if the products are weighed on local scales or gas pumps, Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown said today.

In the county there are 99 weighing devices of different types, ranging from 71 fuel pumps to 17 supermarket scales.

"Our Department regularly checks the commercial scales in the county and has found that they conform to our previous surveys across the state. Of those that are above or below tolerance, not many scales were off by significant amounts. Also, as many were giving the customer too much of the product as were giving too little. Because of frequent checks, scales are not out of calibration very long," Brown said.

"Business owners are glad to see us come in because as often as not, they have been losing money if their scales were not accurate," Brown said.

The Texas Department of Agriculture has inspectors assigned to every county. They are trained to check all different types of scales — from those for medicines in a pharmacy to those for livestock and grain.

The inspectors also spot check packaged goods, such as cereals and crackers to make certain that the weight stated on the label is accurate. If on the average the weights of the packages are below the amount stated on the label, the shipment is put on a Stop-Sale order. The store owner then either returns the items to the processor or as is the case very often, gives them to charitable organizations. Meat packaged in the supermarket as well as processor packs are also checked by Department inspectors.

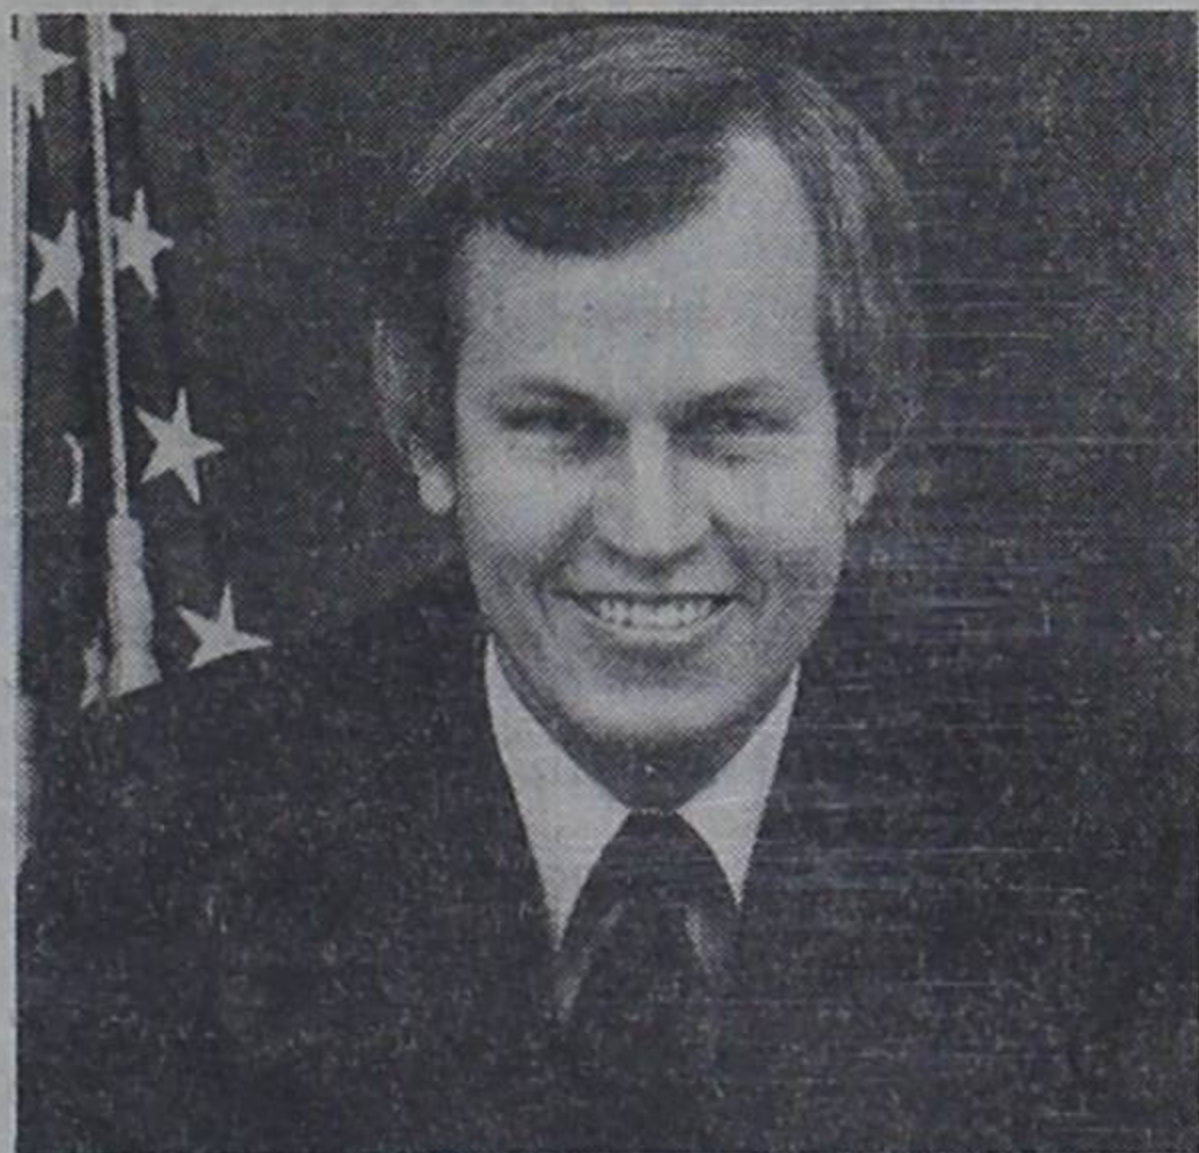

GRAIN OUTLOOK BLEAK

Texas farmers face low grain prices because of a record U. S. crop last year and good crops throughout the world. The market concern now is how fast corn and grain sorghum supplies can be used before the '82 harvest season, says an economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A & M University System. The fact that feed grain exports are off to a slow start this year and that forward sales are considerably behind last year add to the bleak picture for grains. However, increased livestock feeding due to low grain prices could improve the situation some.

Accent On Health

The Texas Department of Health has initiated a statewide training and certification program for animal control officers in an effort to curb animal and human rabies, reduce animal bite rates, and promote other animal-zoonosis control activities.

The first training school, which certified 28 animal control officers, was just completed at Indian Lodge in the Davis Mountains State Park. Training was conducted by personnel from the Bureau of Veterinary Public Health of the Texas Department of Health.

Dr. Foy V. McCasland, chief of the bureau in Austin, said the Texas program of training and certification is perhaps the first of this type in the country.

Dr. McCasland believes proper training of animal control officers is essential to the success of any city or county program. They need to be adequately trained and given recognition — through certification — for the important work they do. In many cases, neither of these factors has been present, he said.

We want the public to recognize that animal control officers are not just "dog catchers" but make an important contribution to the health and safety of the communities in which they serve, he said.

The program was authorized by the last session of the Texas Legislature. Training by BVPH personnel is primarily designed for communities which don't have the means to provide training. While big cities such as Houston have the ability to provide training, personnel from any size community are invited and will benefit from training, said Dr. McCasland.

Training courses will be held in each of the Texas Department of Health's 12 Public Health Regions.

The training course covers such topics as the philosophy of animal control legal aspects, animal capture and restraint, animal transportation and impoundment, health, personal relations, and record keeping. A field training session in animal handling and rabies laboratory submissions also was included in the West Texas course.

For further information, contact: Dr. Foy V. McCasland, 49th St. Austin, Tx.

Library Corner

Did you ever want to give a politician a "piece of your mind"? Or a pat on the back? Perhaps it was once upon a time sufficient to know the names of Texas State Senators, or Congressmen from the 17th Congressional District.

But bureaucrats and politicians from all over our nation hold great influence over our lives, from the issues of taxation to treaties, and many matters in between.

The next time you hear a politician make a statement that catches your interest or your ire, jot down that person's name, and then check with the Post Public Library. A new volume, "Taylor's Encyclopedia of Government Officials" can supply the list of Federal committee members, the roster of our ambassadors throughout the world, state representatives and senators, and the way that you can communicate directly with those persons.

In a similar vein, the library will be receiving a monthly political digest, giving government facts, figures, trends, decisions, and controversies. The "World of Politics," in notebook form, is one way to keep your pulse on the political currents in our nation and world. Both publications are produced by Political Research, Inc., of Dallas, Texas, and they are available to you in the Post Public Library.

"Shampoo" comes from the Hindu word shampu, meaning "to press."

Victim loses car and money to hitchhikers

An Abilene man, Donald Edward Harmon, really came out the loser when he picked up two hitchhikers, approximately 18 and 22 when leaving Abilene Monday. They were headed to Lubbock, all three drinking, when about 4½ miles out of Post, his passengers decided to relieve him of his money and his car, and left him in a ditch beside the road. Harmon was picked up later by Garza County officers and charged with public intoxication, paid $56 in fines and released in JP 4 court.

Only after his head cleared could he explain to officers his predicament and a search was made for the two offenders and Harmon's 1969 Mercury Montclair. The case is still under investigation by Garza County officers.

Other cases investigated by Garza County officers included: Ricky Soto arrested for assault, paid $167 fine and court cost in JP 1 Court and stayed three days in jail.

William Lee Duke, arrested on issuance of a bad check on a Lubbock County warrant and released on a $400 bail bond, and also arrested for theft of over $300 on a warrant in Garza County and released on a $2,500 bail bond.

Arrested Israel Orono and Mary Maldonado for public lewdness, they were released on $750 bail bonds.

Carla Britnell Bilbo arrested on a Garza County warrant for assault and a Lubbock County traffic warrant and released on a $200 surety bond.

Gary Mark Rhodes of Snyder was arrested on the DWI charge and the unlawful carrying of a weapon, released on $750 appearance bond.

Officers also picked up two juvenile run-a-ways Monday night and held them until their parents could pick them up Tuesday morning.

April 30 is cutoff for filing exemptions

With less than two weeks left to apply, over 340 have failed to file for a variety of tax exemptions which will mean unnecessary added dollars on the amount of taxes these individuals will have to pay the City of Post, Garza County and Post Independent School District, or Southland Independent School District.

According to Jean M. Westfall, Chief Appraiser of the Garza Tax Appraisal District, the only way people can get the tax exemptions they legally qualify for is to apply for them. Some folks think the exemptions are automatic, but they are not. They must apply to the Garza County Appraisal District to receive the reduction on the appraised value of their property.

Categories for tax exemption include the homestead, ag-use equipment, veterans, farming and ranching. The categories for tax exemption on homes include the homestead exemption, the over-65 exemption, disability exemption and veterans exemption which adjust the valuation of a taxpayer's home. The homestead exemption applies to all taxpayers and reduces the taxable valuation of a homestead by $5,000.

Taxpayers who are over 65 may receive up to $10,000 additional reduction on their homestead valuation. And disabled taxpayers are also eligible for up to a $10,000 reduction on the taxable value of their home.

Veterans also qualify for a tax exemption on their homes. To apply for this exemption the veteran must have a letter from the V.A. office in Waco. The amount of exemption for veterans varies.

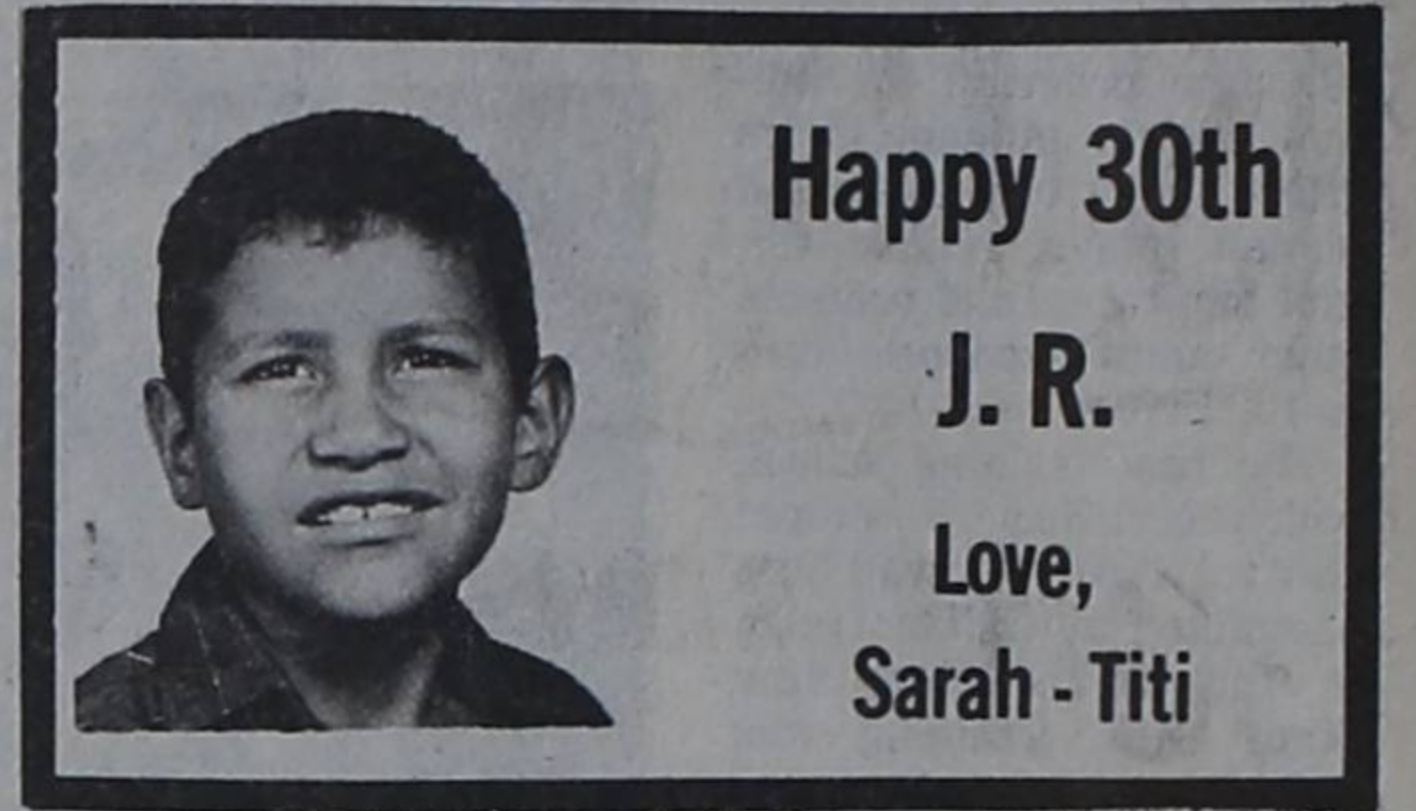

All of these homeowners exemptions are granted on a yearly basis. No exemptions may be applied to back taxes; they apply only to the current tax year.

Other exemptions include various Agriculture Use Exemptions which can make a big difference in a farmer's tax bill. A single farmer qualifies for $15,000 exemption on his farm equipment. If married, a farmer is allowed two such $15,000 exemptions for a total of $30,000 exempted valuation.

Anyone having a question concerning his tax exemption status may call the Garza County Appraisal District at 495-3939.

Deadline for filing is April 30.

ber on behalf of the family. It was then presented to Athletic Director David Thompson who will hang it in the field house.

Redman introduced the speaker for the evening, Tony Mason, who spoke directly to the athletes, saying, that he wanted to speak to them, the young people, and no one else. He began by saying that since this time last year, he has given some 108 speeches and all have been in the state of Texas and Texas is the only state that he speaks in because he thinks they have one of the best athletic programs for young people around.

He gave the three ingredients to becoming an All American which begins with spiritual awareness. He is a firm believer in the FCA program and encourages all athletes to become a member of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, to thank God everyday and speak not against anyone. To have the courage to live up to your beliefs and convictions, be patriotic, stand up and speak out for America.

The second ingredient is to excel. He added that the old adage of "it's not whether you win or lose, but how you play the game" is a bunch of hogwash! Everyone wants to win and should win in everything that you set out to do. Mason encouraged the athletes to excel in something and be the very best. God grants you the power to excel in something, he added.

Respect was the third ingredient he added to the list. Mason said "To respect your body, it is the finest God has created. Prepare to be a champion, don't wait until the first day of practice to get in shape. Respect your parents, tell them "I Love You", say it, mean it. Don't wait until it's too late. Don't think your parents are square, don't hate them because of rules they have set up for you. You'll be in their place someday. Respect the girl you date, you may have a sister. Believe in something and work to have a good year.

Mason concluded his talk by saying, "that if you have spiritual awareness, excel in something and respect, you have all the ingredients to be an All American" and know that each one has and can.

INSIGHT INTO EYESIGHT

SQUINTING

People who squint a lot probably need glasses. This is often a sign of nearsightedness. Nearsighted people who don't have glasses will squint to sharpen their focus when looking at something. It may solve the problem temporarily, but it can also cause eyestrain and headaches. And squinting doesn't do much for your personal appearance.

Some adolescents tend to squint when they're growing up. By the time they are 20 or 21 many of them will realize that their nearsightedness is a problem that needs help.

In some cases the nearsightedness will improve by then.

Sometimes it gets progressively worse. But for most people, the degree of nearsightedness has reached a plateau by the time they're fully grown.

The problem may be in one eye or in both eyes. Only an eye examination can determine that. But with the proper glasses, "squinters" will have normal vision again and will no longer have to strain their eyes to see clearly.

In the interest of better vision from the office of:

"We couldn't decide on what to buy, so this is for you. For one of your little dreams, or part of a big dream."

Breaking the deadlock.

"I think an expensive piece of jewelry is the only way to go," said Bonnie Murray. There was a small outbreak of moans.

"Look, we've been over this a million times and we can't agree on anything. I think we ought to quit arguing and buy her that United States Savings Bond," Doris Rapp said in a voice bordering on anger.

It was the third meeting of the "Gift for Hattie Walker Committee." Hattie had been in charge of all the secretaries and office workers at the company for over ten years. Now she and her husband were moving to a small town to run their own business.

The night before the meeting, Beth Miller had said to her next-door neighbor, "Hattie is really amazing. Ten years on a job like that and everyone still loves her. We've collected over $500 for her going-away gift. $500, imagine! Course we'll never be able to decide what to buy with it."

And it was beginning to look as though Beth was right. The committee had considered 42 separate suggestions and was hopelessly deadlocked.

Grace Brown, a close friend of Hattie, rose to speak. "I agree with Doris. With that $500 we can give her a $1000 Bond and she can do whatever she wants with it. Save it, or spend it on a watch or..."

"Or a Hawaiian vacation," shouted Ann Taylor. "Or some fancy luggage," piped up Beth Miller.

In a second, everyone was shouting out alternative uses for the Bond.

Doris Rapp held up her hands for silence. "Hey, hey, everybody...we all agree at last...it's a U.S. Savings Bond."

Applause drowned out the rest.

The lunch was held at La Sorta. It took over the entire restaurant and it still was crowded.

Grace presented Hattie with a funny card and everyone laughed. Then she handed her the $1000 Bond and said, "We couldn't decide on what to buy, so this is for you. For one of your little dreams or part of a big dream."

Hattie took the Bond and looked at it with relief. "Last week I found a sheet of paper someone left on the copier," she said. "It was a list of 42 different gift suggestions. Everything from a Hawaiian vacation to fancy luggage. I didn't understand what it was at the time. Now, all I can say is I'm so glad you decided on the Bond."

As the crowd cheered, she kissed Grace on the cheek and smiled a big smile. Then she sat down and burst into tears.

U.S. Savings Bonds make a perfect gift. They fit everyone. They're indestructible. And they cost only half the face value.

Take stock in America.

COTTON TODAY

A NATIONAL COTTON COUNCIL SERVICE

Cotton Estimates Revised
U. S. cotton offtake during 1981-82 was reduced 100,000 bales to 12.1 million in the U. S. Department of Agriculture's April supply-demand estimate.

The total is 100,000 bales below the previous estimate. Domestic mill use was lowered to 5.3 million bales from 5.4 million, while the estimate of exports remained unchanged at 6.8 million bales, according to the National Cotton Council.

The latest supply figures also were reduced from the prior estimate, falling to 18.3 million bales from 18.4 million. The production estimate was lowered by 100,000 bales to 15.6 million. The revisions leave the carry-over estimate this season at 6.4 million bales, which includes 200,000 bales unaccounted for.

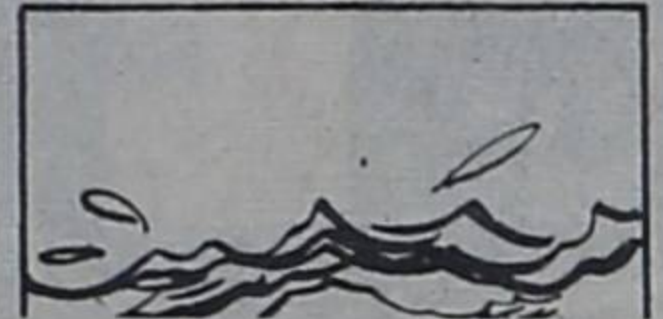

Exports Reported
Cotton export shipments for the week ended April 8 totaled 174,600 running bales. This brought total shipments for the season to 4,414,200 bales.

Net new 1981-82 sales of 35,900 bales were reported. The major buyer was Japan at 26,700 bales. Sales for 1982-83 were 31,100 and the major buyers were South Korea, 13,500 bales, and Japan, 15,800, the National Cotton Council reports.

NCC President to Testify
National Cotton Council President Ed Breihan will testify this week before the Senate Appropriations Subcommittee on Agriculture.

Breihan is expected to call on Congress to provide the necessary funding for an export credit revolving fund authorized in the 1981 farm bill to help boost cotton and other farm exports. Strong support for needed agricultural research to help reduce production, handling, and processing costs will also be emphasized.

Nine of our states got their names from the rivers that flow through them — Minnesota, Colorado, Connecticut, Illinois, Mississippi, Nebraska, Ohio, Oregon and Wisconsin.

Indispensable Tools

Carpenters, craftsmen and do-it-yourselfers know certain tools are indispensable. Every home should have the basic set of tools handy.

— Hammer. A medium-sized claw hammer is needed for pounding nails. The leverage is needed for hundreds of household tasks.

— Pliers. Slight pressure causes the tool to firmly grip objects. In addition to a standard size, needle-nose pliers are perfect for small objects.

— Screwdrivers. Perhaps the handiest tool of all. Not just for turning screws. But for jobs requiring prying, scraping or twisting. The tool kit should have at least three sizes.

— Wrench. An adjustable wrench will turn just about any size nut.

— WD-40. An all-purpose lubricant, penetrant, water displacer, rust preventative and cleaner. The one additional "tool" that comes in handy for household chores. A non-oily lubricant, WD-40 loosens rusty parts, stops squeaks, cleans metal surfaces and frees sticky mechanisms.

The product is available in various sizes in local stores.

For more information, write: WD-40 Company, P.O. Box 80607, San Diego, CA 92138-9021.

VA to collect interest on debts

The Veterans Administration has been authorized to begin collecting monthly interest beginning next November 1 on individuals' debts owed the VA through participation in its benefits program.

The VA also has been given authority to advise consumer reporting agencies when a debtor is delinquent, thus affecting personal credit ratings, said the Director, Waco VA Regional Office.

The new VA rules are to be implemented over a two-year period. They affect those debtors who don't make full repayment within 60 days after notification by the VA district counsel or haven't established installment repayment plans with the district counsel.

The interest rate will be set by the U. S. Treasury, based on the rate paid for its borrowing. Administrative costs incurred in collecting these debts — much of it in GI education overpayments — also will be assessed.

Such debts currently total more than $1 billion nationally and involve 1.3 million veterans, according to the VA General Counsel's Office.

The VA began legal action nationally 16 months ago to collect debts owed it. The decision to have the VA district counsel collect individual debts of up to $1,200 or less is the result of Congressional legislation nearly three years ago and an agreement between the VA and the federal Justice Department.

Those interested in further information on the collecting program should telephone the Waco VA Regional Office toll free at the number listed in your local telephone directory.

An air conditioner can improve the performance of your furnace.

An air conditioner?

A very special air conditioner called the add-on heat pump. It cools in summer and heats in winter. And it works with whatever kind of furnace you have.

The add-on heat pump will improve the performance of your furnace by keeping it off completely during a good portion of the winter. The add-on heat pump can satisfy your home's heating requirements more economically when temperatures are above 30° or so. That's about 80% of our area's normal heating season.

Then, when summer comes, the heat pump becomes a cool pump, efficiently air conditioning the home. So, when you're in the market for air conditioning, look into the add-on heat pump.
