"June is BUSTIN' Out!" and Post merchants are planning the biggest sale of the year to celebrate.

The big event, sponsored by the Post Chamber of Commerce, will be held Saturday, June 4 . . . with most of the participating merchants closing Saturday morning to get the sale merchandise marked down.

In addition to the sale, Post merchants are also offering $350 in gift certificates to be given away in three different drawings, starting at 4 p. m.

One name will be drawn from each of the 21 participating stores, and those names will be scrambled and one of the 21 names will be the winner of the drawing.

After each drawing, those entries will be eliminated.

To be eligible for the second drawing, registrants will be required to submit registrations after 4 p. m. at any or all of the participating stores, those names will be used for the 6 p. m. drawing.

The first two drawings will be for $100 in gift certificates, with the final drawing at 8 p. m. to be for $150 value.

All drawings will be conducted on South Ave. H, near Main street. All winners must be present to win, and there will be a five minute time limit to claim the prize.

If for some reason the first two drawings are not claimed, the dollar value will be added to the next drawing.

Winning certificates may be redeemed starting Monday, June 6 at any participating merchant.

Musical entertainment will be provided, starting at 4 p. m., along with a refreshment stand with snow-cones, cotton candy and other snacks.

Commissioners Deny Delinquent Tax Dismissal

M. L. Richards, accompanied by local attorney, Mitchell Williams, appeared before the county commissioners during a regular meeting last Monday, May 23 and asked them to consider dismissing a tax suit which is now 12 years old.

The delinquent tax suit was originally filed by Pat Walker on behalf of local entities. Even though the suit was filed, no citation was ever served.

Mr. Richards told the commissioners that his family was unaware that any delinquent tax existed for Garza County and that his father had passed away in 1975. He also said that they were unaware until October when they received a letter from Amaco Production that they were holding $100,000 in escrow for M. L. Richards due to the pendency of a tax suit.

Mitchell Williams read Number 3305 of the new tax code to the commissioners which stated the statute of limitations.

He added that he thought it was unjust to penalize the family when they were unaware of such a suit and added that he thought it wrong to hold up $100,000 when only $6,000 was involved.

County Attorney Preston Poole was also in attendance and advised the commissioners not to drop the suit and to let the district judge make the final decision.

After further discussion, the commissioners voted to go along with Mr. Poole's recommendation.

In other action, Sharla Wells with the local Mental Health Clinic met with the commissioners and asked their help with an indigent application which they also voted to do.

Bids were discussed on installing glass doors on the south side of the courtroom and was awarded to Jerry Osborn.

The probation office and the jury room will trade offices when remodeling work is done.

The Commissioners also discussed having each office holder to report its' staffs sick leave each month and also times of vacations.

Before adjourning they set the budget hearings for June 13 and 27 with meeting place and time to be published in The Dispatch at a later date.

It didn't take long for community-spirited Bob Palmer and his crew to get the Antelope Booster Club sign back in place last Tuesday afternoon. In fact, the sign, which had been cut down early Tuesday morning, was only on the ground for a few hours, which shows what folks can do when they pitch in together...the town owes Bob a big thank you. Cancer Society Uses Funds Wisely

"More and more people are asking for information about how their money is being spent to help control cancer in the United States and we're glad to be able to tell them," said Kim Mills, Chairman of the American Cancer Society's educational and fund raising cancer Crusade in Post.

Mills said that the money raised in this year's Crusade in Post will be used to support programs for the prevention, early detection, and treatment of cancer, and to provide assistance to cancer patients.

Besides Crusade contributions, the Society also receives support from legacies and memorial gifts.

"Informing people about cancer's Seven Warning Signals; urging them to be aware of the importance of their life-styles; alerting them to factors that mean higher risk for cancer; instilling good health habits early in our children — all of these are part of Public Education programs that were received during the past year," she said.

Services to cancer patients include transportation to and from doctors' offices, clinics, or hospitals for treatment; home health care - provided often by ACS volunteers; loans of sick room supplies - such as hospital beds and wheel chairs; dressings and other personal needs of individual patients.

"Our Rehabilitation programs aid patients last year," Mills added.

"Fund raising and administrative costs are kept reasonably low because of the committed work of our volunteers," she said.

The Society's most important contribution to cancer progress — its research program — is administered nationally.

Forty percent of all funds collected in Post are used for nationwide purposes, and the bulk of this money goes into research.

During its fiscal year ended on August 31, the national Society invested approximately $53,000,000 in more than 600 research projects and postdoctoral fellowships related to research.

"A few months ago the Society launched a mammoth six-year study of how the life style and environment of Americans are related to cancer," Mills added.

"It will be conducted in 50 states, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico. Such a study could never have been undertaken without the help of thousands of ACS volunteers.

Tanner joined Burlington at Postex in 1953, and has held several managerial positions at the plant. He was quality control manager prior to being named to plant manager.

He is a native of Glenn, Georgia, and is a World War II veteran. He is active in several community organizations, including membership in the Masonic Lodge and the Shriners. He is also chairman of the Garza County Democratic Party.

Flower Staying Power
 To keep your flowers looking fresher longer, here are some good tips for you to follow:

It is important for you to cut the stems at an angle and under water so that no air bubbles can form and impede the free flow of water into the stem.

Any decaying plant matter in the vase poisons the water and is very bad for flowers, so you should remove any leaves below the waterline.

A preserving solution can be added to prolong the life of your blossoms. Two tablespoons of white vinegar and two tablespoons of sugar per quart of water is best. The growth of organisms is inhibited by vinegar and the sugar is used for food.

To double the life of your flowers refrigerate them overnight. Also, make sure that you don't crowd them into a vase. They need adequate space to thrive for long periods.

Recipe

Here is a recipe that I got from the Bailey County Extension Agent. Many restaurants serve Potato Skins as appetizers. They can be served by themselves or with a dressing for dipping.

Oven Fried Potato Skins
 4 medium baking potatoes, (about 1 1/2 lbs.)

4 tablespoons butter
 Salt and pepper.

Preheat oven to 450. Scrub potatoes thoroughly and pat them dry. Bake directly on the center rack of the oven for about 1 hour, or until tender. Cut the potatoes in half lengthwise and scoop out the insides with a spoon, leaving shell about 1/8 inch thick; reserve the pulp for another use. Cut each shell lengthwise into 1/2 inch strips. In a large skillet, melt butter over low heat. Add the potato skins and toos until well coated. Arrange strips on a baking sheet, skin side down, and bake about 15 minutes, or until crisp and golden brown. Sprinkle with salt and pepper to taste. Serve hot or at room temperature.

One for the Books...

The Library keeps adding books to its shelves, and I keep trying to tell you about them.

Two residents of the San Antonio area, Kathleen Silber and Phylis Speedlin have written a book called "Dear Birthmother."

The idea for the book came when the mother of a baby she was giving up for adoption asked permission to write a personal letter to her baby's new adoptive parents.

This has been allowed, but not encouraged, in some places.

She then had an even more expansive idea: would you ask my baby's new parents to write to me from time to time?

Of course, this is an approach far removed from the original practice of strict secrecy in matters of adoptions. The authors offer the concept as being "appropriate to this era of greater openness."

"Allegiance," by Wayne L. Green, chronicles the comradeship of two soldiers caught in the life on death struggle for the Aleutian Islands during World War II.

As the Japanese in desperation arm their half-starved and wounded soldiers with hand-grenades and sent them back to battle with strict orders to blow themselves up, rather than risk dishonorable capture, American pilot Michael Andrews crashes his plane into the middle of that situation.

Dr. Tomi Nakamura, an acting officer in the Japanese Imperial Army, knows that Andrews will be shot after interrogation, and so he risks his own life and honor to camouflage Andrews and plan his escape back to the American lines.

James Clavell, author of Shogun, was captured as a young British army officer and imprisoned as one of 8,000 criminals arrested for the "crime" of losing a war to the Japanese.

In 1945, the Japanese abandoned control of the camp to the prisoners, and some Allied officers enforced Japanese laws, while other prisoners, like Kigg, an American corporal, made a grand life by outwitting those laws.

He used techniques so forbidden, that if he had been detected, he would have been sent to even a worse place than Changi.

As it was, he had the name, "King Rat," the name of the novel.

"Riding Fence," by June Rayfield Welch circles the State of Texas, recounting some of the stories about the counties and the people who live in the "outside" counties of the state.

He "rides fence," going from county to county and giving us glimpses of history, and life, which is sometimes stranger than fiction.

"Woodworking with Kids" is designed so that children in nursery school, or the early primary grades, can enjoy working with tools, and building the simple projects of most interest to them. Richard Starr draws on 14 years of experience in working with kids, and with wood.

He loves them both.

Dennis Frost describes "Capturing Personality in Pastel," suggesting techniques an artist can use.

Post school students celebrated Thursday afternoon with a show of enthusiasm, just in time for summer vacation. Teachers take a breather, moms look forward to September, as the energy of youth turns from school to home. (Photo by Tim Burnett)

CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

Mrs. Artie Young celebrated her 86th birthday last week and received many cards, calls and flowers along with a congratulatory letter from President and Nancy Reagan. Helping her celebrate her birthday was her son and wife, William and Ruth Young of Lubbock.

Memorial Day Is...

Memorial Day, or Decoration Day, is the day on which the United States honors its soldiers who have died.

Services usually include decorating the graves of American veterans with flags and flowers and special ceremonies.

Memorial Day was first observed in 1868, when Gen. John A. Logan, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, designated May 30 as Memorial Day on which to honor union soldiers who had died in the civil war.

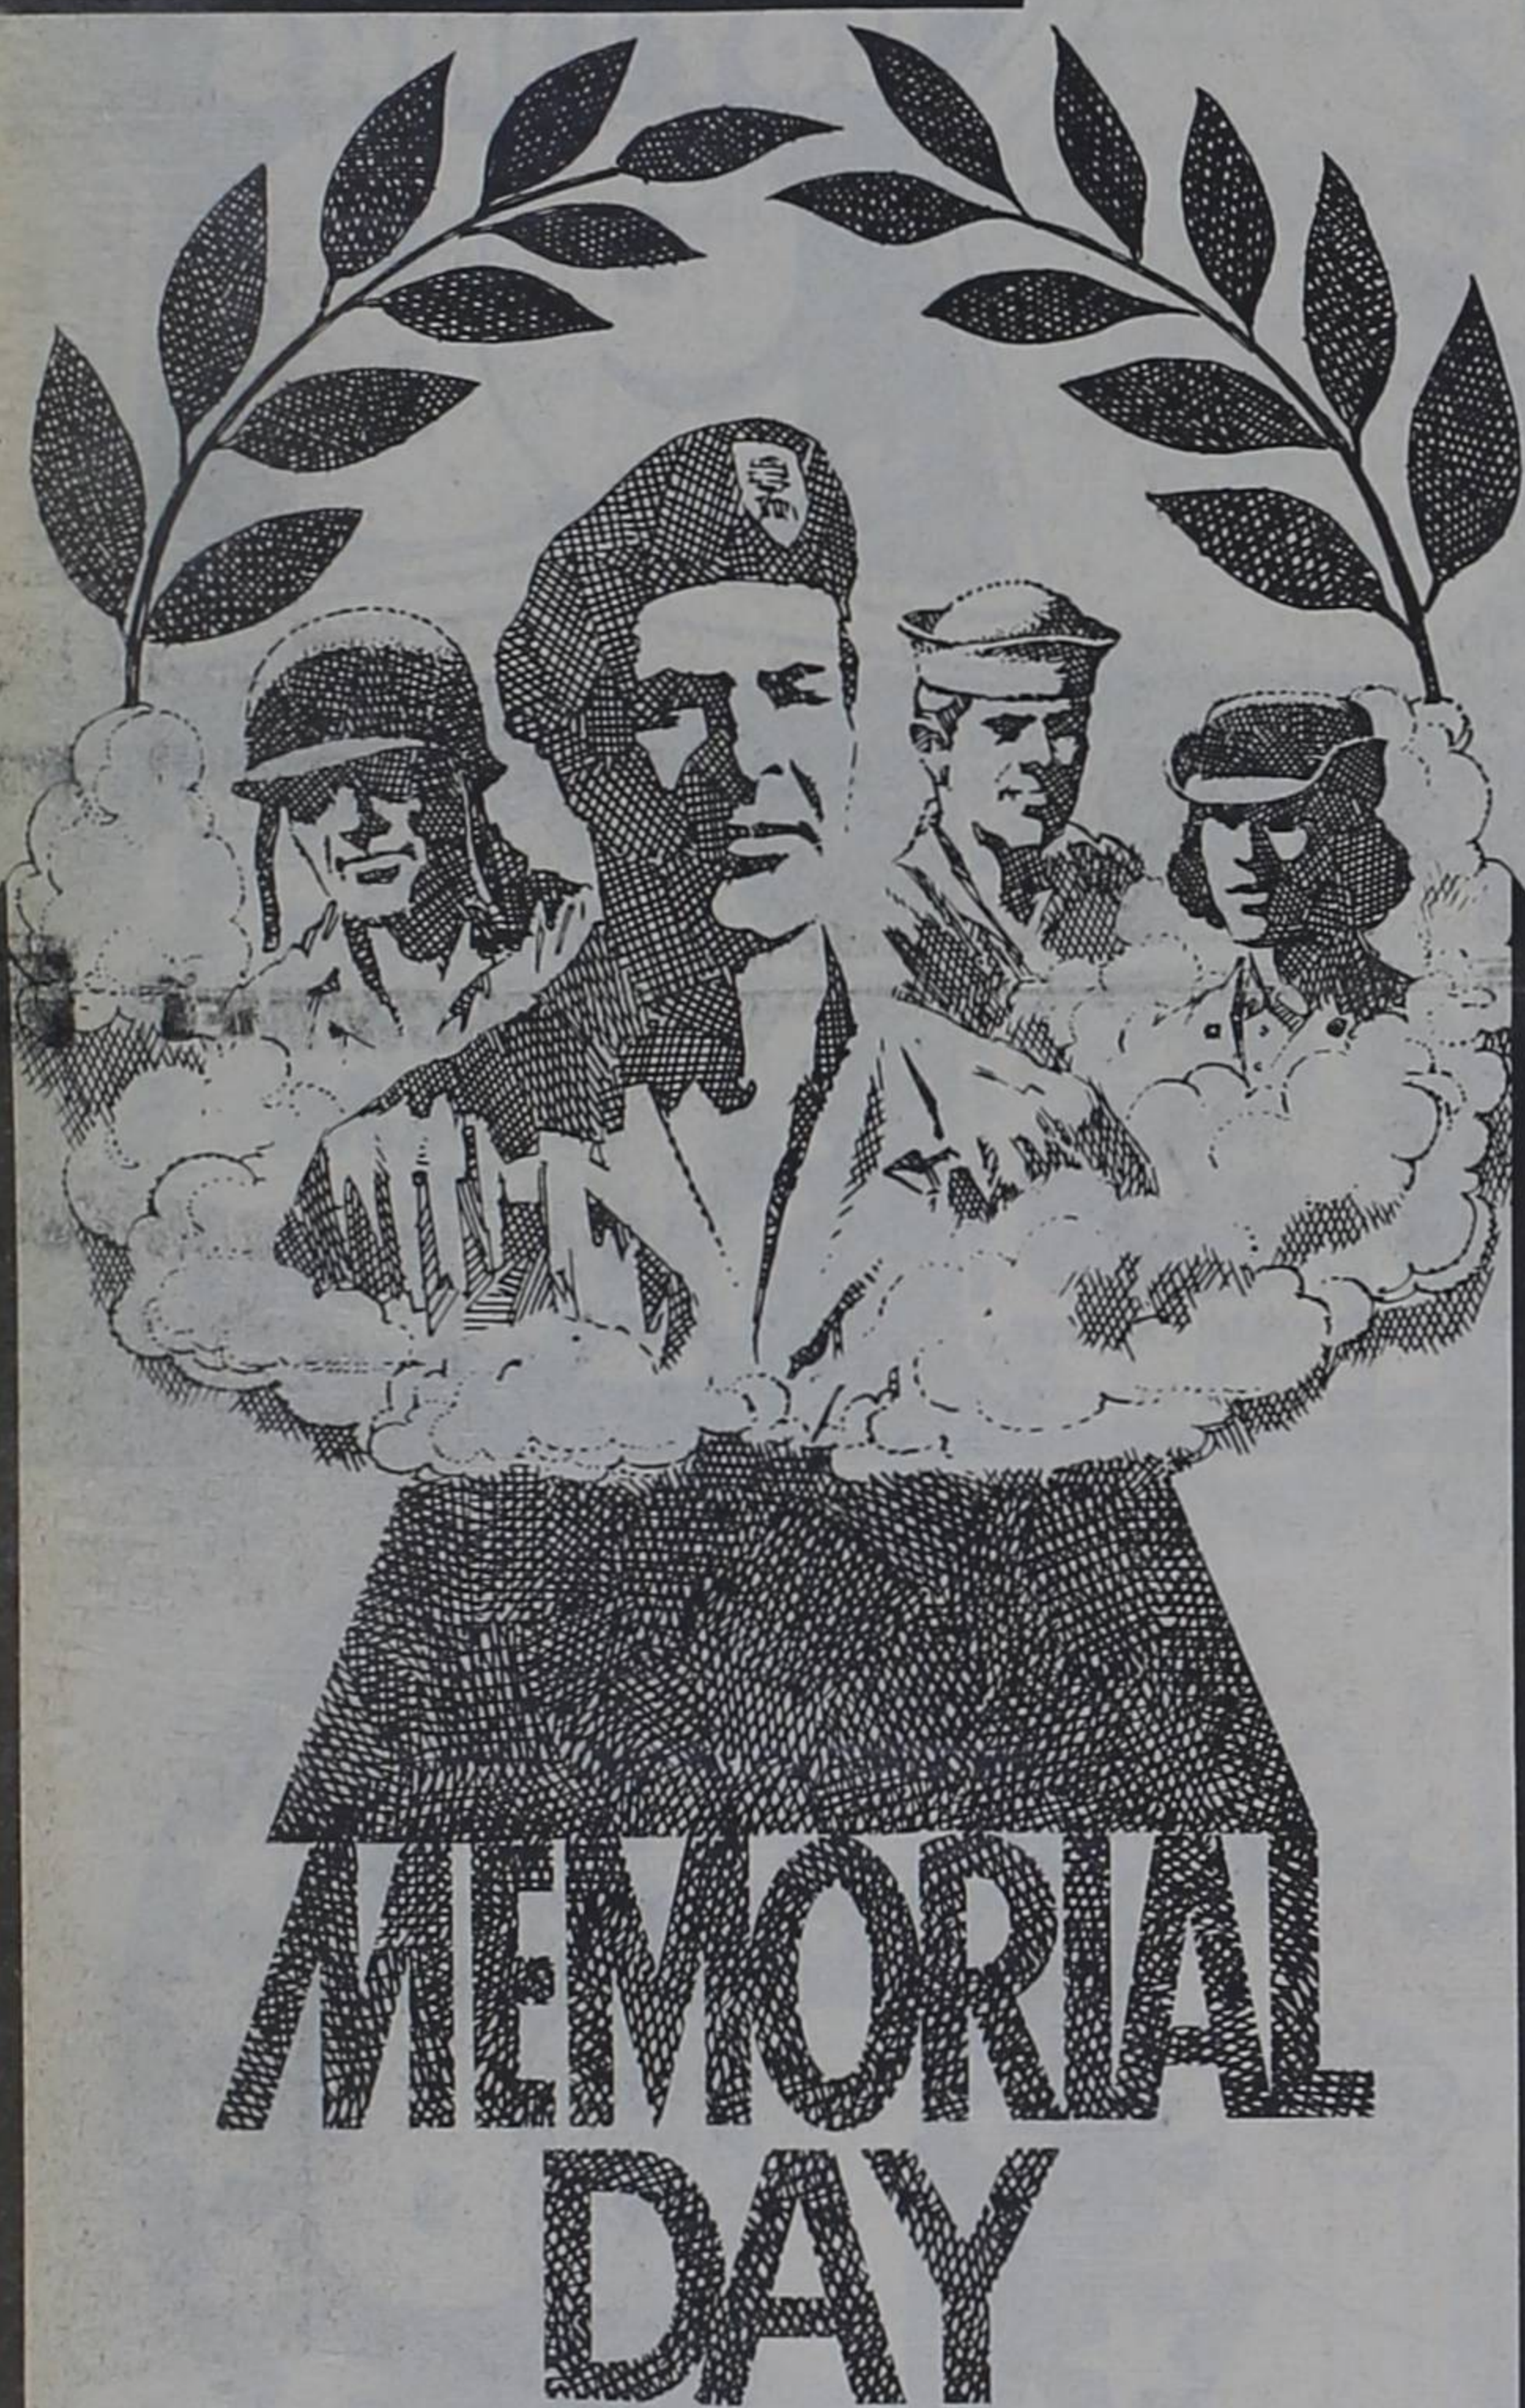

In southern states of the confederacy, special days were set aside by Alabama, Florida, Mississippi and Georgia on April 26; North and South Carolina on May 10 and on June 3 in Kentucky, Louisiana, and Tennessee.

Comptroller Rep. Here

State Comptroller Bob Bullock has announced that Jim Chauncey from his Lubbock field office will be at the Garza County courthouse in the Tax Assessor's office on Tuesday, June 7, 1983 from 2:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m. A comptroller's representative is available to assist local residents at the courthouse the first Tuesday of each month.

Bullock urges anyone with problems or questions concerning State Taxes to contact Mr. Chauncey at the courthouse in person or call the Lubbock field office at (806) 795-0691. A toll-free number (1-800-252-5555) is also available to Texas Taxpayers.

Let us pause on this day and pay tribute to all the brave men, living and dead, who in time of trouble answered their country's call.....gave even their life's blood that our freedom might survive.

Needlecraft Club Oldest Club in Post

The pioneer ladies of the budding town of Post City soon began to realize a need for a strong community spirit.

While the men were busy constructing buildings and establishing businesses, the ladies became involved in creating some of the finer things of life.

In January, 1913, Mrs. J. B. (Belle) Slaughter, Mrs. A. W. Bouchier and Mrs. W. O. Stevens, founded the Needlecraft Club

"to promote greater interest in needlework and to stimulate a deeper social atmosphere among its members" quote from the constitution and by-laws.

The Needlework Club is the oldest women's club in Post.

Some of the first members were Mrs. George (Betsy) Samson, Mrs. Jimmy (Elizabeth) Samson, Mrs. R. H. (Ida) Collier, Mrs. T. R.

(Jenny) Greenfield, Mrs. W. R. ("Aunt Minnie") Graeber, Mrs. T. L. (Maggie Mae) Jones, Mrs. J. R. (Mamie) Durrett and the founders.

The dinner was held Thursday, May 19

Assisting Mrs. Bird with co-hostess duties were Peggy Ellis, and Nita Gibbs.

Guests attending the occasion were Mrs. Bonnie Tyler, mother of the honoree, Oneita Gunn, Sue Foster, Cynthia Poole, Julie Tyler, Jennifer Wilson, Charlie Dalby, Becky Cook, Darla Jack-

Mrs. Graeber had the longest membership with 64 years.

Mrs. Jones was a member for over 50 years. Mrs. Boone (Eula) Evans joined the club in 1927, son and Tina Greene.

Mrs. Chapman was presented a hostess gift of a Lapis Add-a-Bead Necklace and earrings.

which at present is our oldest membership. Mrs. Joe (Lucy) Callis at age 88, is our oldest member.

After seventy years, the Needlecraft members continue their interest in needlework and enjoy being involved in the finer things of life. We hope the Needlecraft Club will be an established part of Post City for at least another 70 years.

Youth on Wheels.. Too Early?

Editor's Note: The following is one of our continuing series of "The Best of Jim Cornish", taken from the files of The Post Dispatch, Jan. 10, 1963.

We don't rightfully know how many persons were charged in either Justice of the Peace court or the city court here during 1962 with not having a driver's license, but we would guess the total would number well over 100.

But few such charges that we know of were made against youngsters legally too young to drive.

If the law is to be administered fairly to one and all, these should not be overlooked either.

How widespread the practice is of youngsters too young to legally drive driving in this area we don't know. Some tell us it's a considerable one.

We don't recall exactly where we read it recently, but some writer was comparing the dangers of today's civilization with that of our forefathers. He said the danger was about even to brave Indians attacks and cross the Great Plains to the west coast a little more than a century ago by covered wagon, or to drive a modern, high speed automobile down a modern highway with only a few inches or a few feet of pavement separating the car you are in with one approaching head-on at a tremendous speed. We bet you never thought of such a comparison; certainly we hadn't. But the danger is there and the comparison seems highly accurate.

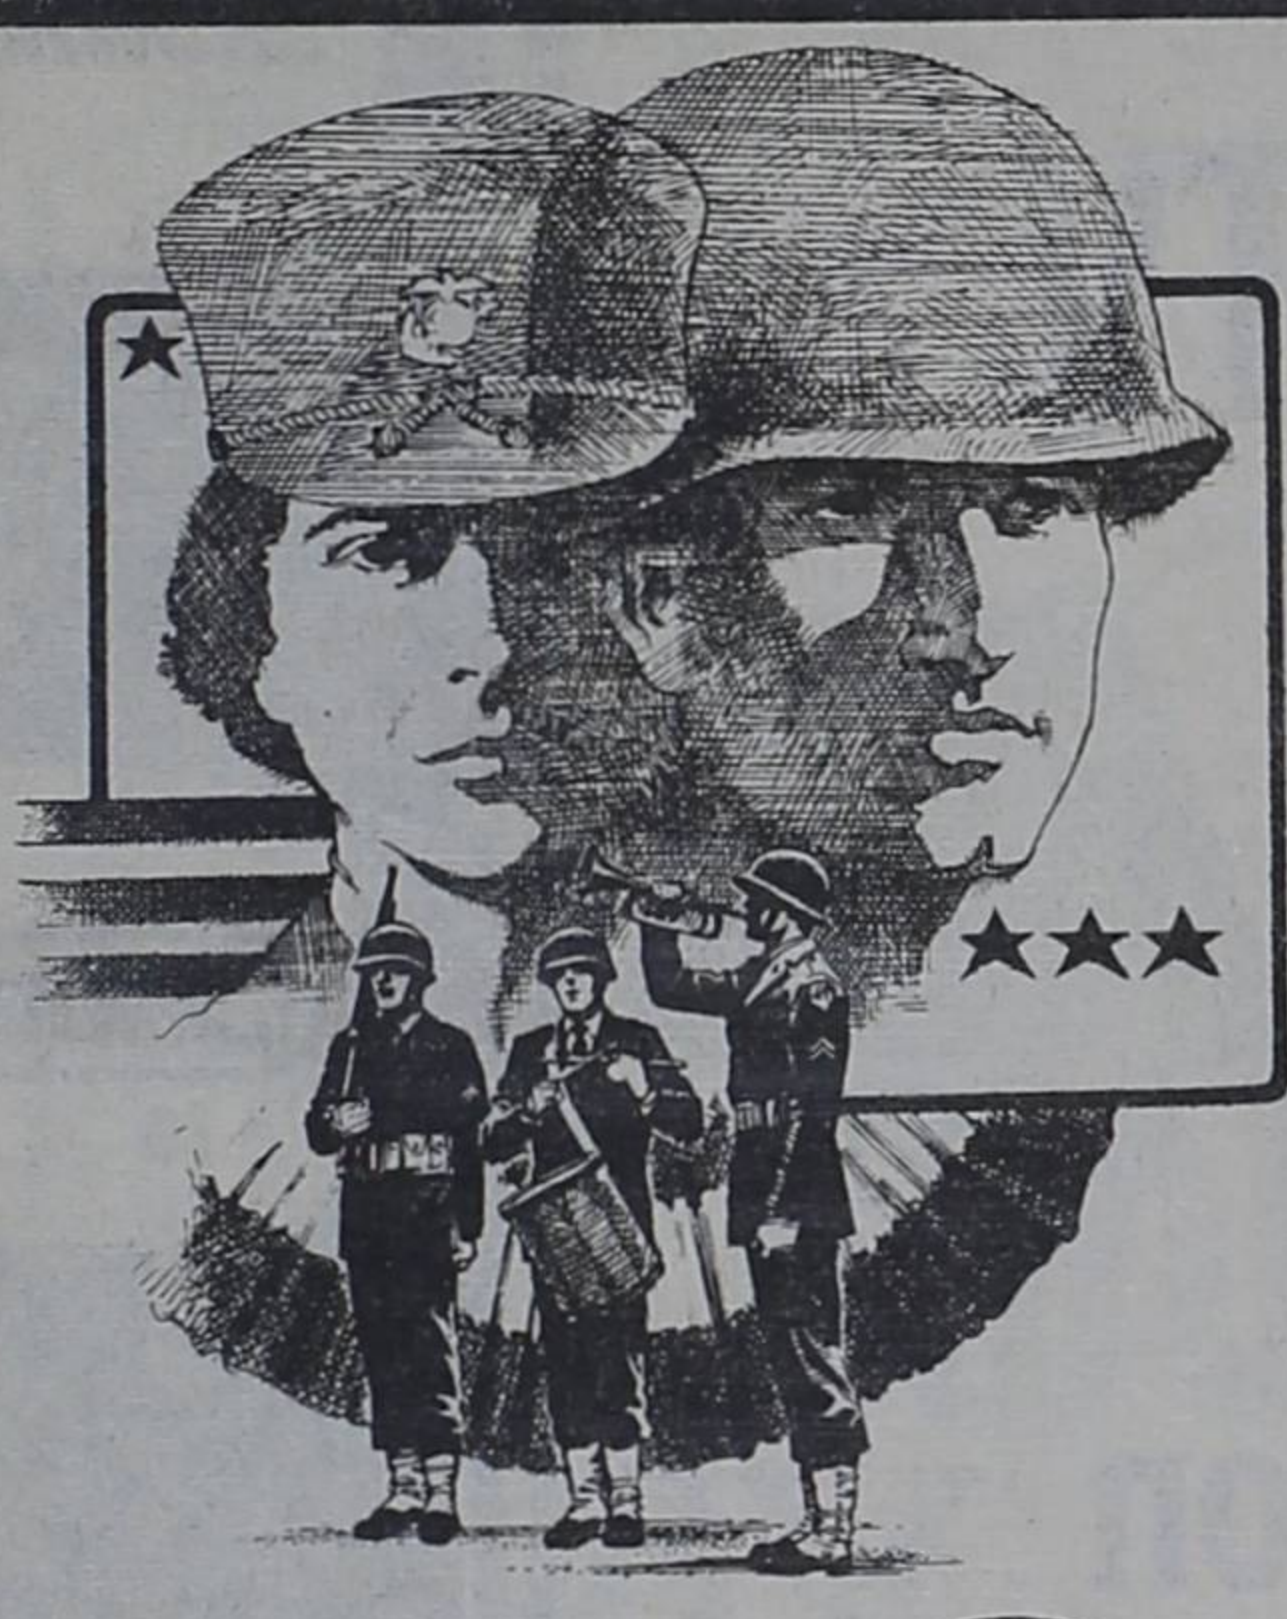

Youth is on wheels today — usually years too early — because of many things. One is because youth wants to be. Another is because parents are too lenient due to the "transportation chore" involved if Junior or Mary doesn't drive. A third is because parents always want the best for their youngsters, even when it's not best for them. A fourth is that the youngsters have a way of cajoling what they want, one way or another.

It's a problem and modern automobile insurance rates attest to just how great a problem it has become.

If youngsters below the legal driving age are competent to assume their responsibility of driving the family car, then we'd suggest that everybody pitch in and get the law changed. And if they're not — well, they shouldn't be driving and they should be checked regularly as to whether or not they have a driver's license in their possession when they're behind the wheel.

It ought to be the same law for everybody.

And we'll bet this editorial viewpoint will arouse far more indignation from parents whose teens do drive and shouldn't, than support from the rest of the folks. That's the way the ball bounces in this life, so we have become a bit philosophical about it.

Memorial Day

LEST WE FORGET...

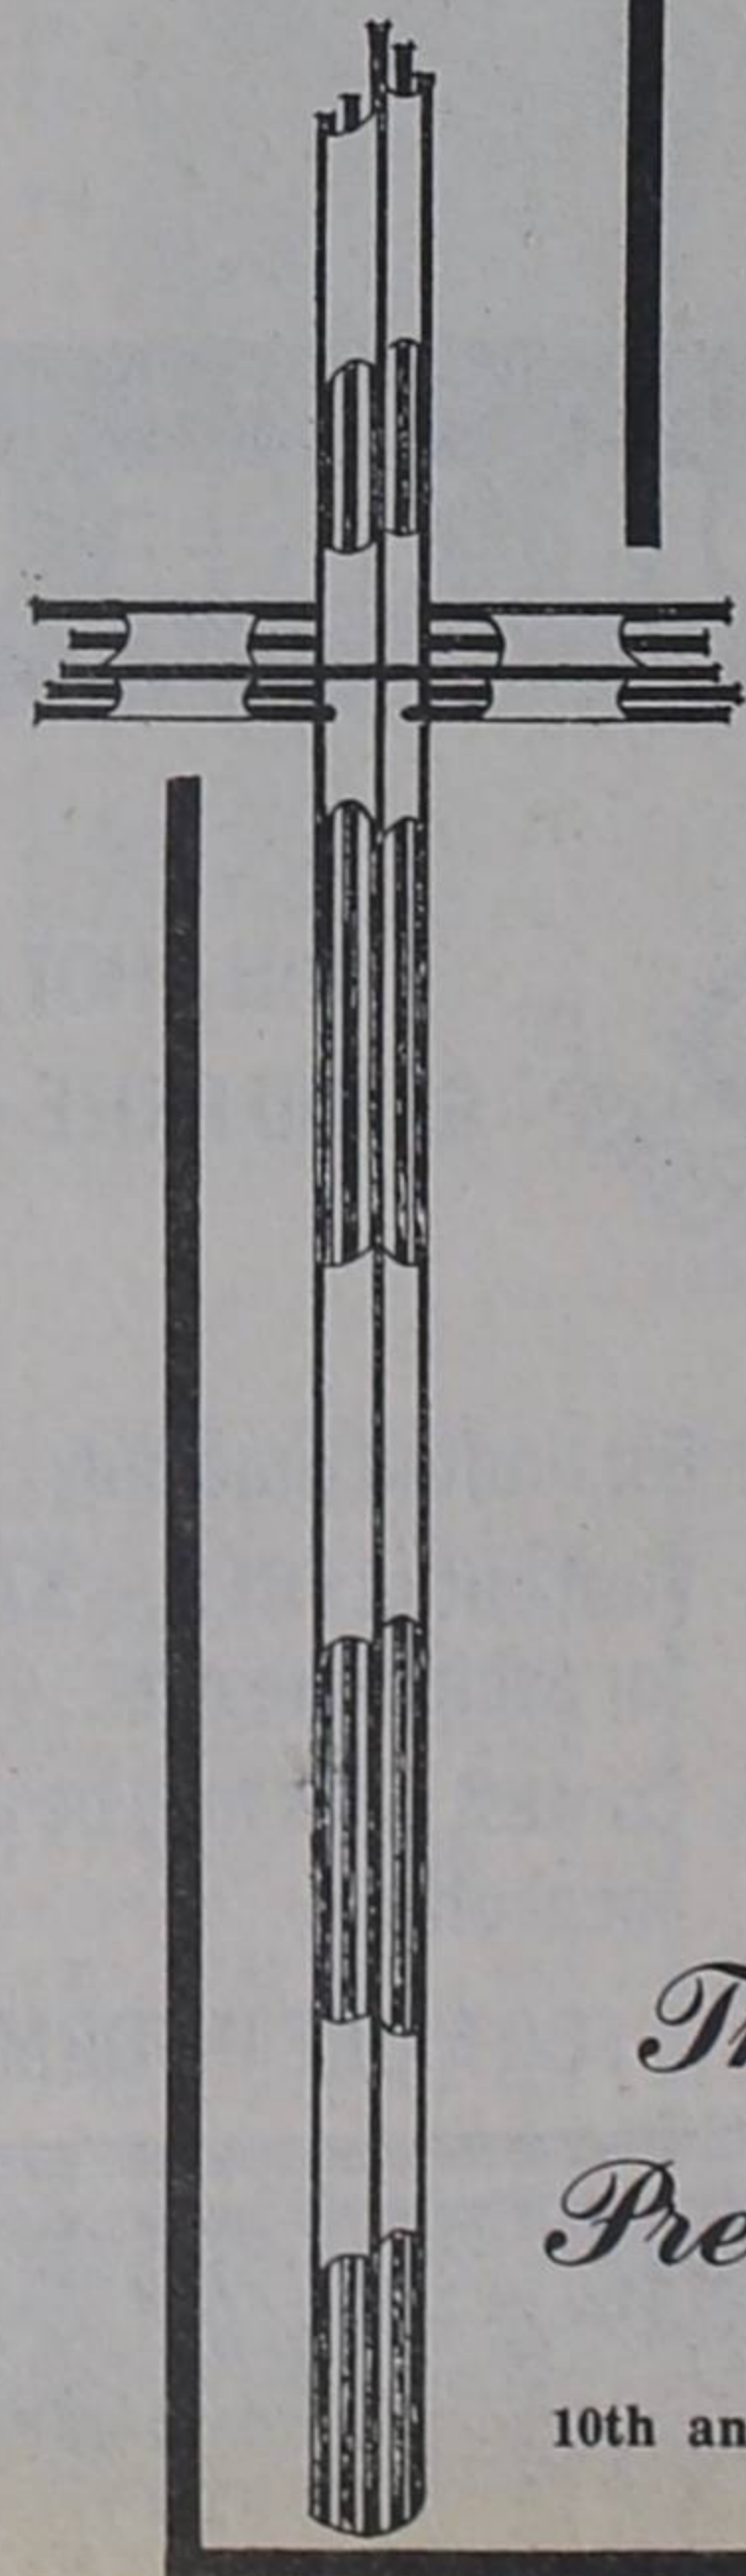

A time for all Americans to pause in remembrance of those who died in the service of their country...defending our cherished freedom. These men and women, from all branches of our armed forces, so gallantly played a vital part in preserving the place of a nation. We applaud their outstanding courage. We honor their loyalty and we sadly mourn their passing. Let's make this Memorial Day a proud and heartfelt tribute to them all.

The Psalmist never forgot that God, the High God, remains above all. In the psalmists' world, the dark universe promotes the sense of human smallness, and does so for a purpose. O God, how full of wonder You are!

I see the reflections of Your beauty and hear the sounds of Your majesty wherever I turn. Even the babbling of babies and the laughter of children spell out Your name.

When I gaze into star-studded skies, I contemplate in utter amazement my Creator's concern for me. I am dumbfounded that You should care personally for me.

A very modern-minded theologian in the early years of satellites and space objects reports that he took his eleven year old into the yard under the night sky. "Which ones did we put up there?" the young world-builder asked. The story by now is dated. We no longer idolize the technological mastery. A generation has passed. The odds are good that the boy, toward middle years himself, is in the backyard with his child. He and she again become aware of their need for wonder on a night in May.

The Presbyterians of Post cultivate that sense of wonder, and gather from Sunday to Sunday to express thanks to Almighty God for the gift of life, and all that gives its meaning. We invite you to join us.

Scout Training Workshop at A&M

Post cotton, corn and sorghum producers in Garza County are again receiving a special invitation to take part in the annual High Plains Scout Training Workshop to increase the effectiveness of their pest management programs.

The workshop will be held Tuesday and Wednesday, May 31-June 1, at the Hale County Agricultural Center in Plainview. The center is on U.S. 87 Business Route south of the city.

The workshop, conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension, part of the Texas A&M University System.

In subsequent years, it has expanded to include scouts employed by consultants, aerial applicators and others, as well as producers who want to learn how to scout their own fields for insects.

The workshop focuses on perfecting skills in identifying crop pests and making timely pest management decisions which can protect investments and yield, and hold down production costs.

The May 31 session opens at 8:45 a.m. with Dr. James Leser, Extension entomologist, outlining the scope of the workshop and explaining pest management concepts. Also on the morning program are Dr. Dale Pennington, Extension soil chemist, and Dr. James Supak, Extension cotton agronomist.

The afternoon program will include Drs. Frank Petr (cq) and Kirby Huffman, Extension agronomists; Dr. Pat Morrison, Extension entomologist, and Greg Cronholm, Extension agent-entomology.

The June 1 session, beginning at 9 a.m., will focus on scouting procedures. Leading the sessions will be three county Extension agents for entomology. They are Cronholm, of Plainview; Allen E. Knutson of Dimmitt, and Dale Spurgeon of Crosbyton.

PIK Offers Opportunity

Farmers have an unparalleled opportunity this year to improve their soil and water conservation systems, said Peter Myers, Chief of the USDA's Soil Conservation Service.

Under the Payment-In-Kind (PIK) program and other acreage limitation programs, farmers in Texas are taking 9.3 million acres out of production. One-fifth of the nations cropland is pledged to the program and now farmers can put a great deal of soil and water conservation on the ground.

Some of the erosive and less productive acreage will be taken out of annual crop use and planted to grasses and legumes as cover crops. This has the potential for saving soil and water resources as well as building up natural fertility.

Myers said this is also a good time for planning ways to fit no-till or other conservation tillage methods into the farm operation.

On more erosive acres, permanent conservation practices such as terraces, grassed waterways, windbreaks and other enduring practices can be installed without interrupting cash crop production.

On the most erosive or other marginal land, farmers are encouraged to discontinue use of those acres for crop production. Those acres may be best suited for permanent grasses, trees, or wildlife habitat.

The 1983 programs offer farmers a rare opportunity to balance their short-term cash needs with their longer conservation and productivity goals said Myers.

Two Post Students on Honor List

Lanny Fluitt and Danny Sappington of Post has been named to the Dean's Honor List at South Plains College for the 1983 spring semester.

To qualify as an honor student at SPC, students must maintain a minimum 3.25 grade point average while enrolled for at least 12 semester hours.

"We wish to extend our congratulations to these fine students who have demonstrated academic excellence which is found at South Plains College," said Dr. Bud Joyner, vice president for academic affairs. "We are always proud of the students who are named to the President and Dean's Honor Lists."

 Last March 1, Frank "Chief" Runkles pointed the peace pipe toward the northeast and people smiled as the Taba'na Yuan'e predicted a very good year.
 Three months later, with plenty of moisture and reasonably warm days following area planting, signs are showing how accurate the Taba'na Yuan'e really is.

Continued soaking rains . . . and a few sprinkles now and then . . . are bringing smiles to a lot of faces around Garza County.

We just wanted to remind folks that "Chief" Runkles and the Indian tradition of Taba'na Yuan'e is not just a lot of smoke.

MEMORIAL DAY

A nation that sustains the course of history's great struggles owes its existence to the people who protect it — the men and women who stand ready to fight for it. America can be proud of those who have served in the armed forces throughout the past, and sadly, mourn those who gave their lives. Memorial Day is a time to remember, and a time to honor, the very people whose greatest sacrifice contributed to the strength and growth of this nation. May their heroic deeds never be forgotten.

Join us tomorrow at 10 a.m.

Memorial Day Driving Hazards

Memorial Day signals the end of school and the beginning of summer vacations. There will be an increase in the number of vehicles on our streets and highways, according to Major Vernon Cawthon, Regional Commander of the Texas Department of Public Safety.

Cawthon stated, "countless lives would be saved if drivers would not disregard their own safety and the safety of others. Speeding, drinking drivers, and carelessness will account for the greatest percentage of deaths this Memorial Day week-end."

DPS records show that 58 persons died in traffic accidents on Texas streets and highways during the Memorial Day week-end last year, and the DPS Commander pointed out that, "one drinking driver or speeding motorist has destroyed an entire family."

Cawthon said, "Holiday or vacation trips should be planned and a rest stop should be made every two hours to allow drivers and passengers a chance to get out and stretch to help eliminate stress and fatigue."

Major Cawthon added, "Drivers who think ahead, stay alert, wear their seat belt, avoid the use of alcohol while driving, and obey speed limits can have a safe trip and a great vacation."
