The groom was attired in a grey tuxedo with a white ruffled shirt and groomsmen were attired identical to that of the groom.

Wedding music was provided by Ms. Lori Sealy, pianist accompanying Mrs. Marje Sealey, soloist. Wedding selections included "Ice Castle", "You Light Up My Life", "The Lords Prayer" and "Twelfth of Never."

A reception followed in the Fellowship Hall with the bride's table laid with an off white lace cloth over deep purple and featured a three tiered wedding cake in off white and purple. Servers included Judy Clayton, berts and Lis Overstreet.

Donna Cheyne, Clarice Johnson, sister in law of the bride and Sue Hart, sister of the bride.

District Showdown Staged Here Friday

by Wes Burnett

PLAYING BOTH WAYS - Giles Dalby (32) intercepted a pass and recovered a fumble, leading the Antelope defense, and also scored a touchdown.

HERE COMES ANOTHER ONE - Tracy Price's strong legs gives him an advantage as a running back, and as a kicker. Price put most of the kickoffs at Lockney out of the end zone. (Photo by Norma Baumann)

There was really never any doubt at Lockney last Friday night, as the Post Antelopes left the outmanned Longhorns huffing and puffing in a 49-0 tune-up for the District 3AAA showdown this Friday in Antelope Stadium.

Beating Floydada 35-6, Idalou comes here geared up with a "must-win" to tie for a first place and have a chance to represent the district, possibly in a three-way tie.

The Antelopes will be just as determined to win, in order to avoid the possibility of being left at home during playoff action on a coin-toss to decide the district one and two teams.

Back to Lockney...it was a brilliant display of offensive power and a steadily improving defense Antelope fans witnessed.

College scouts will be impressed with another Milton Williams outstanding performance, gaining unofficially 211 yards and scoring four touchdowns.

Excellent offensive blocking and running from Giles Dalby, Felix Bustos, Tracy Price, Daniel Gonzales and Mike Ollison helped Williams get the statistics.

Setting the Pace

The defense stopped the 'Horns on their first two possessions, giving the offense time to get warmed up.

David Shults, Gilbert Perez, James Brown, Jay Valdez, Tommy Basquez, R.J. Greathouse and L.D. Harper won the battle up front, completely shutting down the Longhorn running game.

Taking the ball with 4:51 left in the first quarter, the 'Lopes ran three plays, going 70 yards, with Williams breaking two tackles on his 44 yard blast over right tackle to the end zone.

Chuck Morris was perfect on extra points following each touchdown.

Mike Ollison intercepted a Jerry Mathis pass on Lockney's next possession, as Greathouse applied pressure in the backfield.

Ollison's interception set the 'Lopes at the Lockney 27.

Six plays later, on a fourth down and goal, quarterback Joel Kirkpatrick took an option run to his left, and at the last moment pitched back to Bustos, who scampered into the end zone from four yards out.

On the next possession, Williams had a 91 yard punt return touchdown called back on a clipping call...and the 'Lopes opened up a seven minute, 14 play, 91 yard drive, with Williams going in from the two over right tackle for the six points.

Price, Dalby and Gonzales helped mix up the drive with strong running as Williams got the call seven times.

A highlight of the drive was a third and long situation when Kirkpatrick threw a sideline pass to Gonzales at the 14 and the running back powered his way to the two.

Lockney couldn't move the ball and was forced to punt again, this time Williams got the ball at the Post 46 and cut to his right, broke a would-be tackle and did what he is good at, racing down the sidelines for touchdowns.

The 'Lopes led 28-0 at the half.

Second Half

An exchange of punts gave the 'Lopes the ball at their own 34 with 9:05 left in the third quarter.

They executed a 16 play, seven minute drive, using the talents of Bustos, Price and tough inside running by Dalby, getting the ball to a fourth down from the Lockney 25.

Kirkpatrick rolled to his right, faked a hand-off to Williams inside, then threw a strike to L.D. Harper on the 10, who carried it to the six.

On third down from the one, Dalby

A few plays later, early in the fourth quarter, Dalby put an end to a Longhorn drive by recovering a muffed snap, giving the Antelopes the football at the Lockney 46.

Four plays later the 'Lopes led 42-0 as Williams hit a big hole over his left side, cut across the middle, racing for a 56 yard touchdown.

Bustos intercepted a 'Horn pass at the Post 45 four plays later, setting up the final 'Lope score.

It took six plays and two illegal motion penalties against the 'Lopes, but Kirkpatrick guided the champions to the end zone as he avoided a tackler rolling to his left, found Ollison at the Lockney 25, who then bounced off defenders, breaking clear to the end zone.

The defense took over, reserves were freely substituted and Dalby and Bustos each got one more interception late in the game.

STIFF DEFENSE - Curt Greer (30), David Shults (51), Felix Bustos (40) and James Brown (88) stop Lockney's Dickie Hernandez as the Antelope defense dominated the Longhorns.

8th Graders Smack'Horns 32-8

The undefeated 8th grade football team man-handled Lockney last Thursday in a 32-8 win there.

After recovering a fumble on the Lockney 20, tailback Mike Bartlett scored on the second play from the 15 and Blair Didway got the two-point conversion.

In the second quarter the 'Lopes took over on downs at their own 33 yard line and drove the 67 yards in 11 plays, with Bartlett taking it the last 20 yards.

Dewayne Warren ran in the two-point conversion.

Another fumble recovery in the third quarter gave the 'Lopes the football at the Lockney nine.

In two plays, full-back Ben Kirkpatrick went up the middle for the touchdown and Didway got the two points.

Eric Reece threw a 63 yard pass and run touchdown pass to Glenn Hardin in the fourth quarter to round out the scoring, as Brent Jones took the ball in for the two-pointer.

"Everyone played well and hit well," coach Darryl Radle comments.

He praised line-backer Roger Martinez for his pass interception and 22 yard return, as well as Bobby Gonzales and Kirkpatrick for their tackling.

The coach also praised Mark Tyler, Mike McClain, Brian Gibbs, Mike Ayala, Eddie Slay and Lex Dunn for their efforts.

"Our offensive line did a good job against Lockney's gap defense, with Greg Benham and James Leverett blocking well," the coach adds.

The team hosts Idalou Thursday.

7th Grade Wins

The Post 7th grade football team outscored Lockney 18-6 at Lockney last Thursday.

A short punt by Lockney gave the young 'Lopes the ball at the Lockney 21, Felipe Vargas went up the middle on second down for 20 yards and a touchdown.

The run was made possible by blocking from John Bilberry, Chad Davis, Tyge Payne, Mark Cruz and Billy Odom.

A blocked punt on the next Lockney possession set up another touchdown drive at the Lockney 21.

Dale Gonzales went off right tackle for the touchdown.

Later the defense held Lockney at the one yard line in four plays, with one minute to go in the game.

The goal line stand was credited to Gonzales, Pete Aguilar, Keith Peel, Vargas, Matt Pennell, Cruz, Odom, Trevor Thuett, Rolando Armendariz and Mario Ayala.

Opening up the second half, the 'Lopes began a 10 play, 40 yard drive, with Dustin Ammons going the final two yards up the middle for the score.

Vargas picked up 25 yards on the drive, with runs by Gonzales, Thuett, Mark Solis and Pete Aguilar.

Twin Cedar News

By Tina Rodriguez
 It has been such a great week for us here at Twin Cedars.

We had a new resident join us in our home. She is Artie Young and she is a very sweet lady and we are very pleased that she chose us to take care of her. We welcome her to our home.

We thank everyone who has come to visit us. We are always glad to have visitors.

We had Scott and Christopher Metzgar visit this week and we were very happy to have them here with us. They played a game of Bean Bag Toss and the little ladies watched and enjoyed their company.

We put up some Halloween decorations and I thank my little helpers who were: Evelyn, Tommie, Irene and Lucy. They were really a lot of help.

We thank Ginger Williams for coming Wednesday, the 19th. She had a demonstration for our little ladies. She had some lotion, bath powder, soaps and perfume. She let everyone try out a little of everything and to smell the different fragrances. We were very happy to have her come and entertain us. She is welcome to come anytime.

This past Friday we had dancing class. We hadn't done this in a long time so we all had a great time. Everyone took turn at dancing and our D.O.N. Tricia Metzgar even joined us.

Our Bingo winner for this week was Irene Wheeler. Activities have been the regular ones and a little different ones.

We thank the Church of Christ for Church service on Oct. 16. We enjoyed it and we also thank the Pleasant Home Baptist Church for Church service on the 23d. We are always grateful for them coming and sharing time with us.

We wish our residents, Mr. Pittman, Hazel Prestridge, Betty Newberry and Laura Mae Vaughn a happy birthday for this month and also Nannie Litrell our employee.

We wish everyone a happy and safe Halloween this year.

Last Saturday night we were entertained by Brother and Mrs. J. W. Davis, Ray and Peggy Lee and daughter, Brandi from the Church of God of Snyder. Jimmy Pendley the manager of Winns arranged the entertainment for us he is also a member of this church. Special guest was Faye Maddox. The residents greatly enjoyed the music and are looking forward for them to come again.

We thank Maude Dobbs for the delicious cake she fixed for us.

Our visitors were Mr. and Mrs. William Young of Lubbock, Modena Farmer, Agnes Welch, Bill Bartlett, Ruth Head, Patsy Sanderson, Mack and Lola Ledbetter, Mary Goodwin, Dorothy Callaway, Rose Askins, Shirley Foster, Billie Idell, all of Post. Belle Lee and Charles W. Stewart of San Antonio, Alpha Davis of Roby, Betty Davies of Abilene and Carolyn Carol of Roby. We thank all of them and everyone else and we hope they keep coming.

RETURNS HOME
 Fannie Lou Richards, who was injured in an accident several weeks ago has now returned to her home here in Post following a recovery period in Lubbock.

Snakes meant toilet

In the days of imperial Rome, shopkeepers advertised their type of business with signs, usually made of stone or terra cotta, set into store fronts. For instance, a cupping glass (for drawing blood) indicated the profession of a surgeon. Two sacred serpents on a sign designated a public lavatory.

United Convelescent

By Nell Mathews
 We are looking forward to our Halloween party on our Family Night.

Remember that starts at 4 p. m. and will last until 8 p. m. We are planning to have a lot of fun. Families, we would like to have your resident dressed up. Those that participate in the party will be eligible for a big prize. We encourage all families to be here. We have Mr. Sparlin back home with us after a stay in the hospital here and Lubbock. But we have Mary Caywood in the hospital now.

Mrs. Brawley came back yesterday all refreshed after a trip to Lubbock with Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hail.

We would use a few more things for our prizes for our Halloween Party.

Our activities are going great. We have about 30 or 35 in our exercise class each day and we have a lot of fun.

We had a lot of fun putting glitter on our turkeys that Ada Buchanan made for us to put on our doors for Thanksgiving.

Oh my, it won't be long until Thanksgiving and then it will be Christmas and then the New Year. Can't believe it, can you?

We have a lot of volunteers and we love everyone of them but we have one that comes every Monday and does a lot of things for us. She volunteers three hours and more each Monday morning and she has been a blessing to us. We love you Winona Ward.

We are needing volunteers for our Bingo each Monday afternoon. If you can help us just 1½ hours please call Nell Mathews at 495-2848 or 495-2849. See ya next week...

Mrs. Clover Bailey, a senior at Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary, will preach at the Presbyterian Church this morning at 11:00.

Almost half of the 67 churches in an area from the Panhandle to Brownwood, and from Lamesa to Jacksboro will welcome pulpits guests from the faculty and student body of the Seminary.

Mrs. Bailey is a member of Highland Park Presbyterian Church in Dallas, a congregation of almost 8,000 members. In addition to her seminary studies, Mrs. Bailey currently teaches a class at First Presbyterian Church, Waco.

The local pastor, Dr. Thomas E. Pass, will be on hand to welcome the guest and to share in the leadership of worship. The public is cordially invited to this special service.

Strength to Forgive

Strength to forgive
Pastor Steve Traw
First Christian Church

The need for forgiveness is widespread and ever before us. Its exercise brings a new quality to living. Tension free and grace filled days result. When missing, ones become in-grown through self-pity and self-righteousness.

But seeking forgiveness from others we have wronged in thought or deed is much more difficult to actuate than it is to theorize. This transition from hurt to reconciliation and its difficulties are illustrated by the experiences of evangelist Corrie ten Boom. The late Miss ten Boom had endured the deep scars of Nazi concentration camps. Here agony came at the hands of the guards. Here her freedoms were taken. Here her sister Betsy had died.

Corrie survived the ordeal and gave her remaining years to writing and lecturing about God and His forgiveness. Following one such speaking engagement, a man shared his gratefulness for the message. He was thankful for the message. He was indeed appreciative that Corrie had shared of the same cleansing of sin that he knew from Christ.

But the one-time prisoner recognized this man. He had been the SS guard at the shower room in the Ravensbruck processing center. All the pain and death of her former days flashed back so vivid. The man thrust out a hand to grasp that of the evangelist. There was no response.

Not love nor pity, but anger was felt. Corrie prayed. Forgive me and help me to forgive him. Christ had died for this man. Could I ask for more?

A pause, a deliberate effort to respond, and second silent prayer followed in those frozen moments. Corrie ten Boom took his hand. She felt the warmth of love flow from her to this stranger.

It was from this event that the late Miss ten Boom reflected. It is not on our forgiveness any more than on our goodness that the world's healing hinges, but on God's. He does tell us to love our enemies. In so doing, He gives to each of His own, the love, the strength to forgive.

To Be Humanly Human

Dr. Tom Pass
Post Ministerial Alliance

Presbyterian Church
Think about these words from Mark R. Littleton:

The lamb had no speech, nothing to utter of the wonder about him. It needed a vocabulary of earth, sugarless yet sweet, boney but not arthritic, nothing of glue or wax or fire, yet still as jarring as cigar smoke and as quiet as solar eclipse. Everyone said it was impossible. But the Creator said, "Bah,"

In a way, that's like life. God gives certain gifts and capacities and skills to His favorite, human, creatures.

Then we choose what our response to His goodness shall be. We join the Creator by our praise, thanksgiving, and our being gloriously human, or we reject His great goodness, and choose something less.

Wouldn't it be something if we could be as humanly human as a sheep is sheepishly a sheep!

Pleasant Home News

Services well attended here throughout the day beginning with Sunday School. Teachers at their Post of Duty due to the fog. Lesson subject "The Result: New Persons" Ephesians 4: 17-32; Ephesians 5: 1-2; Corinthians 5: 17.

Morning worship service devotion was conducted by Deacon Jim Henry Osby, Bro. Mack Porter, Sister Iona Smith and Bro. Porter read Galatians Chapter 5 verse 1; Ephesians Chapter 2, verses 1-7.

Altar call very highly prayed Rev. Kelly prayed wonderful to God. Rev. James then read Isaiah chapter 35 verses 1-10. A very beautiful reading, then the choir came on the scene and truly sang to our loving Master, Jesus Christ.

During the 11 a. m. worship hour, our pastor delivered a wonderful message from Genesis chapter 32, verses 24-32. Text was from the 28th verse. His theme was "Looking for a new name." He truly, really preached from his Holy Spirit.

Please remember the sick and shutins in our prayers of God's churches, homes, community and hospitals.

Thought: Remember nothing in life is to be feared, it is only to be understood.

For spiritual help, you may call Rev. Kelly 495-3192 or write 415 N. Ave. F. Post.

ENTER HERE!

... with resolutions to lift yourself onto higher planes. Plan now to put more faith and trust in the Lord. Resolve now to seek God's wisdom to guide you through the year. Also plan to enter the Lord's house regularly.

"Open to me the gates of righteousness: I will go into them, and I will praise the Lord."

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Cotton growers face good market agricultural community at large, consumers and policymakers at all levels.

The four policy alternatives range from a "relatively free market" to a system of mandatory controls. They are described as:

1. A supplemented private sector, which envisions the stabilization of agriculture without commodity programs but with public measures to provide income insurance, assistance with the holding of commodity reserves and strengthening of forward-pricing markets;

2. Direct payments, without production controls, allowing farmers to be competitive in foreign markets while providing income protection focused on family farms;

3. Demand expansion, which "in theory" could bring farmers an adequate return from the market while removing the burden of administrative and other expenses of government control, and

4. The referendum-quota system, with mandatory controls for all farmers to limit production (thus raising prices) if accepted by vote of a specified majority of farmers.

Any attempt to condense the task force's in-depth treatment of these alternatives here would be ill-advised at best. But a copy of the 38-page report is available for $3 post paid from CAST, 250 Memorial Union, Ames, Iowa 50011.

However, foreign production is estimated at 59 million bales — 3.5 million more than last year. This means that essentially all of this season's world stock reduction will originate in the U. S. notes Anderson.

With some recovery in the world economy, consumption is expected to be up this year, but U. S. textile trade is in a big deficit. Textile imports are up and exports have fallen, dampening the use of U. S. cotton despite the moderate recovery in total cotton consumption, Anderson says.

Also, cotton has once again lost its price advantage over synthetics. "It is essential for cotton to not only maintain its American cotton growers currently face a good market due to reduced production and increased consumption, but it's not all "peaches and cream" down the road, says an economist in cotton marketing.

"Part of the problem is that higher market prices this season will encourage increased production next year, driving market prices down to perhaps just above the loan level for 1984," Anderson predicts, and foreign producers are unlikely to cut back from their increased production this year.

"Assuming favorable weather, conditions clearly point to a bearish cotton market diminished share of total fiber consumption, but to also regain some lost ground," Anderson says. "The future for cotton depends to a great extent upon the industry's desire and willingness to seek new technological developments in the production and processing of cotton fiber."

Increased prices and consumption will encourage U. S. farmers to increase planted acreage in 1984, Anderson predicts, and foreign producers are unlikely to cut back from their increased production this year.

He suggests that farmers market this year's crop early rather than holding out for a higher price next year because it likely won't come. Cotton prices will probably peak sometime early this fall, says Anderson. Plus holding cotton accumulates monthly storage and interest costs of some $4 to $4.50 per bale.

in the second half of 1984," the economist says. "Therefore, producers should consider pricing a large part of next year's crop early, probably well before planting." Only adverse weather in this country, China or Russia is likely to reduce 1984 global production below consumption, contends Anderson.

"Additional farm income will not come out of marketing margins but will come from taxpayers, consumers or improved farming efficiency." That blunt statement is the most eye-catching part of a timely and thought-provoking reappraisal of farm program options entitled "The Emerging Economics of Agriculture." The report was compiled by a task force of 23 members of the prestigious Council for Agricultural Science and Technology (CAST), chaired by Oklahoma State University Economist Luther Tweeten.

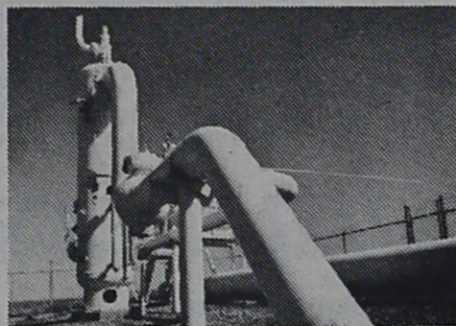

Explaining its stand on the possible sources of additional farm income, the task force says science can help reduce the instability of farm income, "but biological processes of nature set limits upon the extent to which instability can be reduced at favorable cost-benefit ratios."

Also made is the point that while research and extension to improve farming technology, management and marketing contribute to efficiency gains, they often benefit the whole population more than farmers. Identifying price and income stability, cash flow and international market competition as the most pressing economic problems in agriculture, the report discusses four general policy alternatives that could be adapted to cope with these issues. Advantages and disadvantages of each are listed, preceded by the statement that the role of weighting the good and bad under the various options is for policy participants, including farmers, the

Soil Conservation Service Offers Variety of Programs

By ROBERT W. SCHMIDT

The Soil Conservation Service was established in 1935 under the United States Department of Agriculture to plan and carry out a national program to conserve and develop our soil and water resources.

The SCS gives technical assistance to individuals, groups, organizations, cities and towns, and county and state governments in reducing the costly waste of land and water resources and in putting to good use of these national assets. The objective is use and conservation treatment of the land in harmony with its capability and needs.

The Soil Conservation Service works through local soil and water conservation districts organized by local people. The SCS provides professional conservationists to help plan and carry out the district's conservation program.

They help farmers and ranchers plan and apply conservation measures on their land in the district. Some of the help includes providing technical assistance in designing, laying out, and checking the construction and maintenance of dams, terraces, or other structures; in selecting the proper grass species, seeding methods and rates when seeding grasses; and in solving management problems on pastureland, rangeland, cropland and wildlife habitat.

The SCS personnel assist landusers in planning of various conservation cropping systems, improved tillage methods, fertilization use, contouring, stripcropping, crop residue management, establishment and maintenance of vegetation in waterways and spillways, and irrigation for the kind of crop grown on cropland acres. They also help ranchers develop plans to better utilize their grassland by various practices such as deferment and grazing systems.

Assistance is also provided in planning of brush management and seeding of grasses on the disturbed or deteriorated rangelands and at the same time consideration is given to the habitat for the various kinds of wildlife.

Landowners or landusers can select from several different programs established by the U. S. D. A.

The SCS administers the Great Plains Conservation Program. Cost-share assistance can be obtained by landusers over a period of years on various conservation measures under this program. Also the SCS has technical responsibility of the Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP) and the Long Term Agreement (LTA) program that are administered by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS).

Producers can obtain cost-share assistance on different conservation practices under both programs. The ACP program can help landusers on an annual basis while the LTA program provides cost-share assistance over several years on various practices.

Other assistance provided by the Soil Conservation Service includes working with city and urban groups on various erosion problems, administering watershed activities in designated watershed areas, and resource conservation and development projects in certain approved areas.

The Soil Conservation Service also has plant material centers that grow new and improved plants that can help solve soil and water conservation problems. The agency also conducts and maintains an inventory of land use and soil and water conservation needs on privately owned rural land. The information obtained from this inventory can help in future planning and development of our natural resources to meet the demands of our society.

All of these services provided by the Soil Conservation Service are in an attempt to reduce soil and water erosion on one of our most valuable resources, land. Soil and water resources must be conserved to maintain and develop the strong nation that we live in today. Our land should therefore be treated within its capabilities and needs. For assistance in planning conservation measures on your land, contact the local Soil Conservation Service Office in the Williams Building in Post or call 495-2056.

Garza SWCD

SWCD Organized by Landowners in 1940

By DWAIN BINFORD

The Garza Soil and Water Conservation District, a legal subdivision of the state of Texas, was originally organized in 1940 as the Duck Creek Soil and Water Conservation District by local landowners interested in conserving the area's soil, water and related resources.

At that time it included the counties of Dickens, Garza and Kent.

In 1961 it was reorganized to include only Garza County and was renamed the Garza Soil and Water Conservation District.

The District is governed by five elected landowners who make up the board of directors.

Board of Directors for 1983 were Sam Ellis, chairman; L. G. Thuett Jr., vice chairman; Preston Poole, secretary; Tom Middleton and Walter Boren, members.

The purpose of the Garza SWCD with headquarters in Post, is to promote sound soil and water conservation programs on farm and ranch lands within the district and to serve as a voice for farmers and ranchers on conservation matters and other issues affecting private property rights of landowners.

The district board of directors coordinates the conservation efforts of various local, state and federal agencies and other organizations and has authority to enter into working agreements with these governmental agencies and private concerns to carry out its purposes.

All conservation programs managed by the district are of a voluntary nature to the landowner or operator.

Youth Board Serves SWCD

By ROBERT SCHMIDT
SCS

The Garza Soil and Water Conservation District Youth Board of Directors was created in January 1978.

It is the only one of its kind in the state of Texas.

The purpose of the Youth Board is to assist the Garza Soil and Water Conservation District in carrying out its objectives in soil and water conservation and management.

Youth Board members for 1983 were Ray Mason, chairman; Toby Craft, vice chairman; Chuck Morris, secretary-treasurer; Jana Middleton, Kayla Peel and Rusty Morris.

The chairman acts as a liaison to the Garza Soil and Water Conservation District board of directors.

All members serve at least two years beginning Sept. 1 each year.

Members are chosen from high schools in Garza County and meetings are held at regularly scheduled times throughout the year to conduct business.

Some of the different activities of the Youth Board include assisting the Garza SWCD board in the district Soil Stewardship Week activities, assisting the district's annual Poster and Essay contest and attending the South Plains and State Association meetings.

Other activities include a July 4th part in the community celebration, constructing a float for the Post Stampede Rodeo Parade and a beautification project for the community.

In all of these activities, the Youth Board places special emphasis in promoting soil and water conservation activities by and for the young people in the district and Garza County.

New Grazing Management System

By ROBERT SCHMIDT

For years ranchers have tried to find better ways to graze the native forage produced on our rangelands.

Various planned grazing systems or planned sequences of rest and grazing periods have been tried over the years. Some of the more common systems are the two, three, and four pasture systems where pastures are rested periodically in planned sequences. The rest varies from three to six months in these systems.

Another method used in past years has been the high intensity-low frequency system. A multiple number of pastures is involved with only one herd being grazed at any one time. Pastures can vary in size with this type of system. In the last several years, another grazing system or method has been introduced and is being used in this county.

The system is known as the cell grazing system or Savory Grazing Method. It involves a multiple number of pastures along with one herd of cattle. The pastures are generally divided into a pie-shaped configuration with the watering facilities located at a central point in the middle of the cell. Fencing under one of these systems usually involves electrified or solar powered fence and two wires have been found to be satisfactory when running cattle. Also the working facilities are located in the center of the cell.

A local ranch has been using this type of grazing system or method since August of 1981. The U Lazy S Ranch, operated by Jack Lott, has installed several more since that time. In the past, the ranch has used other grazing systems including the 4-pasture deferred rotation system. "I can get better utilization of most grasses and better control of grazing over the more palatable plants under this type of grazing method," comments Jack. Lott adds, "It gives me an opportunity to decrease labor from a concentration of cattle viewpoint." The ranch has five cells functioning at the present time. They can be run individually or in combination. Jack plans to install several more cells in the future on the ranch.

In these types of systems, one is looking at long rest periods and short grazing periods. For instance, one may be grazing for only 3 to 6 days and resting from 30 to 50 days in any one pasture. Depending on the number of pastures in a cell or combination of cells, each pasture may only be grazed for 13 to 14 days a year. "It is easier to control your operating costs," says Jack. "The machinery and equipment expenses are less and I cut capitol and expenses of running my bulls by a third."

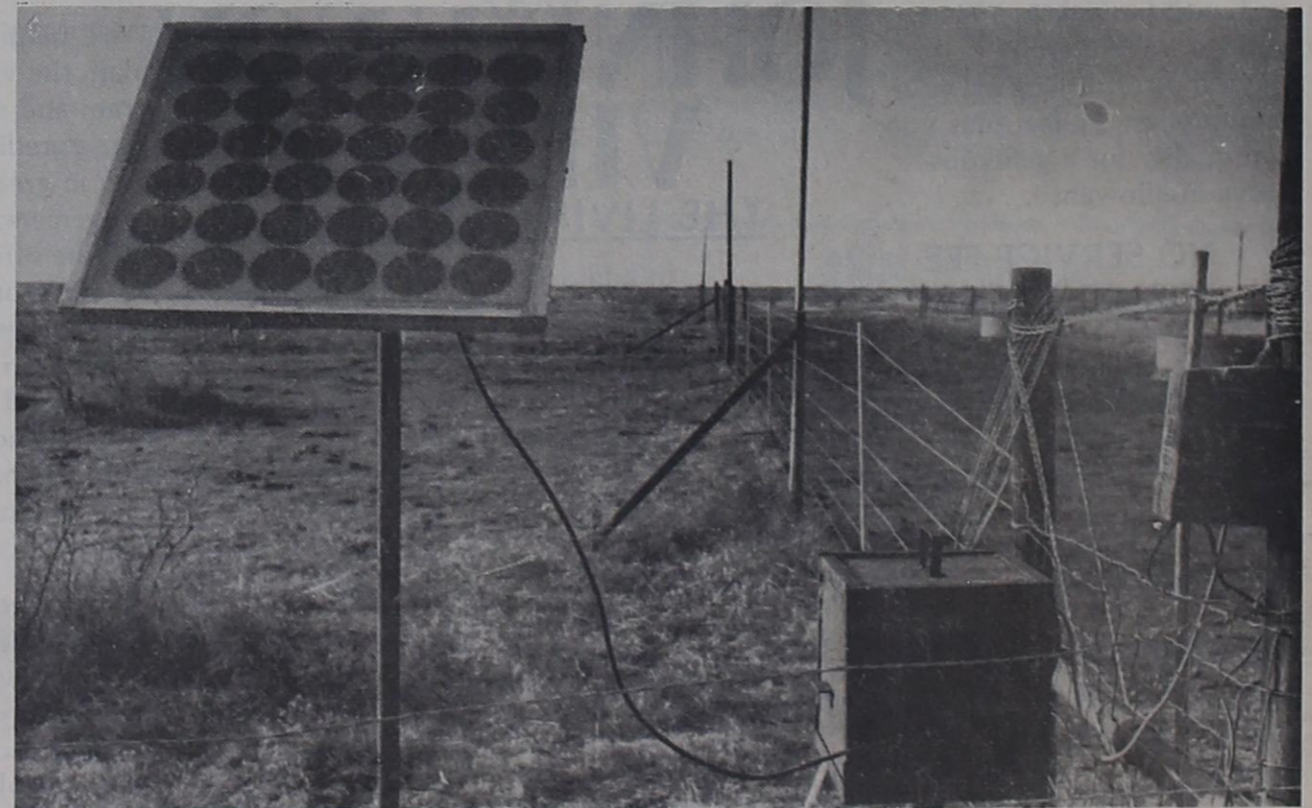

"I can also maintain water distribution over a longer period of time especially in a dry summer like this past one," expressed Jack. In summation, Lott added, "It is the cheapest conservation practice I know that will increase productivity."

For his willingness to try new methods to improve or maintain his ranch and ranching operations, Jack was named the Outstanding Conservation Rancher of the Year for 1983 at the local Garza Soil and Water Conservation District Awards Banquet held in March. The U Lazy S Ranch continues to strive to protect and improve its most vital resource, rangeland.

For more information concerning different types of grazing management techniques or systems, contact the local Soil Conservation Service Office in the Williams Building in Post or call 495-2056.

Wind Strip Crops Prove Valuable Aid to Farmers

By ROBERT SCHMIDT
SCS

This is the time of the year when the cotton is being pulled in this area. It is also time when the wind can blow and sometimes very hard.

It blows across generally unprotected cropland and causes precious soil to erode.

Besides losing soil, the wind and soil blowing is a nuisance to homeowners and businesses as well as a respiratory discomfort to many people.

What can be done to protect this soil from blowing and to relieve some of the discomfort it causes?

One way of protecting the soil is to plant high residue crops, such as wheat or forage sorghum and leaving the residue after harvest on the soil surface through the critical blowing periods.

But the major crop in this area is cotton and during the critical months, the soil is generally bare and unprotected.

Then what other alternative can we use to control or prevent this eroding of soil from the cropland fields?

A relatively new practice that is being tried with a great amount of success is wind stripcropping.

What is wind stripcropping? It is simply growing wind resisting crops in strips, alternating with row crops or fallow land.

The strips are placed at angles to offset adverse wind effects.

The width between the strips will vary according to the type of soil, a climatic factor assigned for the county, the amount of cover on the soil surface and the length of unsheltered distance across the field.

When all of these factors are either known or figured, then the width between the strips can be computed.

The wind strips may be either annual strips or perennial strips.

Annual strips include wheat, rye, oats, grain sorghum and forage sorghum.

Grasses such as weeping lovegrass, kleingrass, switchgrass and Indiangrass are included in perennial strips.

The winter annual strips such as wheat and rye have more beneficial affects of preventing soil blowing during the critical blowing season than do the summer annuals such as grain sorghum or forage sorghum in this area.

And now is the time to think about planting annual strips such as wheat or rye. The perennial strips such as the grasses give even longer lasting protection from wind erosion.

Some of the advantages that wind strips provide, include the following:

Reduce blowing in off season, increase effectiveness of herbicide applied, reduced sand blasting of seedling plants, provides better microclimate (area immediately around plant at soil surface) for growing plants, increase moisture between strips due to less wind exposure, increased yield of crop, improved grade of crop, decreased sandfighting of fields and lowered soil loss from fields.

Besides having a specific pattern of strips across a field, wind strips can be planted on terraces and provide great benefits of reducing soil erosion from wind.

Strips can be put in at a minimal cost with a very small amount of land taken out of production.

Thus windstrips can reduce the loss of precious soil moisture and reduce the number of trips across the field with a sandfighter and this in turn may make the difference between a profit or a loss.

For more information and those interested landowners who may want to install a wind stripcrop, contact the local Soil Conservation Service office in the Williams Building at Post or call 495-2056.

Windbreaks Help Homes

By DANNY RICHARDSON

People living on the High Plains here long recognized the value of planting windbreaks around their homes.

These windbreaks add beauty as well as value in addition to the protection they provide.

There are several trees and shrubs adapted to this area that makes excellent windbreaks.

The Post Field Office of the Soil Conservation Service has information on which plants are best adapted for this purpose to this area. Technical information and assistance is also available on planting, spacing and location of farmstead windbreaks.

The Soil Conservation Service now has information and order forms to order trees for windbreaks from the Texas Forrest Service. intersection.

These elevations are then transferred to a scaled down gridmap.

After this is completed, the natural contour lines are drawn on the grid map on two foot elevation intervals.

Then it is time to design the parallel terrace system.

Usually a key line is drawn on the map and the other lines are run parallel from this line.

After the system is designed, the terraces are staked in the field from the grid map, then the contractor can build the terraces.

Parallel terraces usually cost more to install, but the advantages outweigh the difference.

Just some of the farmers that installed terraces this past year included Jerrel Stone, Wayne Stewart, Jim Norman and J. Martin Basinger.

Interested landowners or operators should contact the Oil Conservation Service Office in the Williams Building in Post or call 495-2056.

Wheat stubble on parallel terraces on Jerry Thuett farm Southwest of Post. Growing wheat in fall has protected soil from blowing on this field.

Garza County Terraces

By DANNY RICHARDSON

There are two types of terraces standard and parallel.

Standard terraces follow natural contour lines and can vary greatly in spacing, either wide or narrow, intervals making farming operations difficult, due to parallel terrace rows formed by these uneven spacings.

These pt. rows are difficult to farm because the farmer has to turn quite often on top of other rows.

Parallel terraces are built on specific intervals based on the percent of slope of the land and size and type of equipment the farmer has.

Not all fields are suited to parallel terraces, some have such complex drainage problems due to extreme variation in elevations.

In such cases the standard terraces system may be a better choice, even with pt. rows.

Terraces are built not only to control soil erosion, but for retention of moisture.

In our dry area every drop of rain that can be retained on the land may make that extra pound of production that may mean the difference between profit and loss.

In laying out standard terraces, we run in a line which follows the natural contour of the land, then, depending on the slope of the land,

One of the many farmstead windbreaks in Garza County. This windbreak has evergreens planted to provide protection around the farmstead from wind.

we run in the next line.

It usually is not parallel with the one above it as with parallel terraces.

In building parallel terraces, the field is first grid mapped, which is a series of lines run across the field in a checkerboard fashion on 100 ft. intervals.

Time now to stock up on meat

"Now is an excellent time for cost-conscious consumers to stock up on meat for the freezer," says Mark K. Sweeten, a foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service.

More cattle and hogs are being marketed because of the summer drought. This increased supply has resulted in lower prices. According to USDA economists, steady to slightly declining prices for red meat are expected from October through December, says Sweeten. The economists expect that price levels for meat will be relatively unchanged at the first of the year, but anticipate moderate price increases through 1984, she adds.

Consumers can take advantage of lower prices by buying a whole carcass, side or quarter; wholesale cuts; or retail cuts of meat. Before buying meat in quantity, Sweeten suggests that you consider your available freezer space, the amount of meat your family can use within a reasonable amount of time, the type of cuts your family enjoys, and the amount of money you have to spend.

A carcass, side or quarter is sold by its "hanging weight" or total weight including fat and bones, says the specialist. The amount of edible meat will be about 75 percent of the hanging weight, with the other 25 percent lost in cutting and trimming. The carcass or side will yield a variety of all cuts, and not all of them will be equally tender or equally liked by your family. A quarter is limited to only certain cuts, so the buyer can choose more specifically the type of meat wanted, she says.

The hindquarter includes the short loin, sirloin, round and flank sections and will yield more steaks and roasts. It will also cost more per pound than the forequarter. The forequarter contains the delectable rib section, but also has more of the less tender cuts coming from the chuck, shank and brisket sections, says the specialist. The yield of edible meat is actually greater in the forequarter.

If freezer space is limited or you prefer cuts from a particular section, then whole or primal cuts (also known as wholesale cuts) will probably be your best buy, says Sweeten. Wholesale cuts usually are bought from locker and freezer provisions and others who sell meat as sides or quarters, although sometimes they can be bought at a supermarket.

Individual cuts of beef, like pot roast or T-bone steak are called retail cuts. Their wide variety allows consumers to buy as little or as much of a particular cut as they want. Even though the price per pound is usually greater, it is not as costly initially as buying a large quantity of meat all at one time, she says.

But retail cuts usually must be re-wrapped for long-term freezer storage, notes Sweeten.

"Comparing costs and making sure you are getting a good value can be difficult when buying a product with which you are unfamiliar. And most consumers are unfamiliar with meats in carcass form," she says.

That's why it pays to find a dealer who has a well-established reputation for honesty and fairness. In general, beware of advertisements which offer meat bargains which are too sensational to believe. No dealer can afford to give meat away, and reputable ones will not pretend to do so, adds the specialist.

Mr. Wizard's World

Hard times make life easy for military recruiters. When severe unemployment and a tight job market send young men and women to the enlistment office in large numbers, the services can afford to be picky.

Last year the all-volunteer armed forces filled their quotas with high-quality recruits and turned applicants away. Sixty percent of those accepted scored above average on the Armed Forces Qualification Test and 86 percent were high school grads. Two years before, only a quarter of Army recruits scored above average and 54 percent had finished high school.

This year, high-quality applicants are being put on waiting lists or told to "come back in October" — the start of a new fiscal year, when the Pentagon hopes Congress will raise personnel ceilings. Meanwhile, re-enlistment rates are high. Members on active duty are being transferred to the National Guard and Reserves, in some cases involuntarily, or released before their terms are up.

Veterans can get more information and assistance from any American Legion Post or Veterans Administration Office. — Al Keller Jr., National Commander.
