TRAFFIC HEAD WARNS AGAINST DEATH TOLL EXPECTED JULY 4

The July 4th week-end consisting of Saturday, Sunday, Monday, and Tuesday is calculated to be the deadliest in the history of July 4th traffic in Texas according to Colonel Homer Garrison, Jr., director of the Texas department of Public Safety. "Our statisticians, who are usually accurate, have estimated that 36 people will be killed in traffic accidents during this four-day period," Garrison said. "The Highway Patrol will be on the job early and late with instructions to curb excessive speed and apprehend those drivers who endanger their own lives and the lives of others."

Colonel Garrison requests drivers to assist traffic officers by observing the following rules.

1. Drive well within the posted or legal speed limits.
2. Do not pass another vehicle unless you have a clear road ahead.
3. Driving is a full time job. Do not let your passengers distract your attention.
4. Be sure to check your tires, brakes, and lights before starting.
5. Stop often for non-intoxicating refreshments.
6. Wear dark glasses during daytime driving. Eye fatigue will result in miscalculating distances.
7. If there is a question of right-of-way, give it to the other fellow. The few seconds you might lose will be a great contribution to safety.

Smith-Doxey Application Deadline Set

Deadline for filing applications for Smith-Doxey cotton benefits is Aug. 15. County Agent L. C. Herron announced. "Application should be sent immediately to me or to Leil O. Buchanan, 1701 Ave. H., Lubbock," Herron said.

Buchanan is in charge of the Lubbock cotton classing office of the Production and Marketing administration. According to him, one application for Smith-Doxey benefits will cover all farmers in an organized cotton improvement group.

"The popularity of this cotton improvement program has increased so much in the last few years that applications must be filed early in order to prevent a log-jam just before the deadline," Buchanan told Herron. "It takes at least 15 days to process applications and deliver supplies of forms to gins, warehouses, compresses or other approved agencies."

Any group of farmers organized to promote the improvement of cotton is eligible for free United States Department of Agriculture classing and news service under the Smith-Doxey act.

Financier Gives Tips to Housewives on Seasonal Purchases

by EDDIE the EDITOR

Well, I guess the city dads feel like they just broke a hornet's nest now that they had to cut out center parking.

Not that there is much they can do about it. If I were one of them and heard any gripes, I'd just suggest writing a letter to the highway department.

It does seem that the city can no sooner provide additional parking spaces than the old ones are taken away.

It really is going to create a problem and it seems to me that each individual merchant is going to have to work out a parking system for himself and his employees.

Of course, the obvious solution is for the merchants and their employees to park back of the stores.

All those people who are howling about dispensing with center parking should be glad of it when they think of the danger it causes.

People park in the middle of the street with a car full of kids. The kids get out and scatter in every direction, half the time without looking to see if a car is coming.

I still notice a lot of double parking in front of the office. I don't know if there is a time limit on it.

It seems to me that everybody feels like the traffic laws don't apply to them. Should an officer pick somebody up for running a red light or turning wrong into an alley or something, they always have an excuse and think they should not be fined.

It has been a long time since I have heard any complaints on the red light on the Lubbock highway and Main street. It has either been adjusted or else everyone has got used to it.

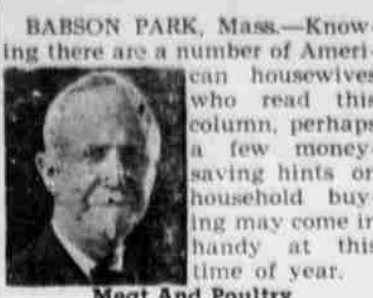

I wonder what effect abolishing center parking will have on the speed limit. Despite all its dangers, it does offer a breathing spell and a margin of safety.

Occasionally you see some out of town Joe cruising down the wrong side of the street but with the center blocked off, you can be pretty sure the cars are only coming from one direction.

Last year when the school zone signs were first put up, a lot of people by-passed them without even seeing them, they claimed. These signs were the size of a school child and were placed right in the middle of the street.

I'm not sure, but I think one of those signs was finally torn up. That just shows how little attention people pay. When grade school kids start in the new school building, the traffic hazard is going to be worse.

It seems to me it would be

Meat and Poultry

Meat and poultry account for a large part of the food budget of most families. Intelligent purchasing of these important items should result in substantial cash savings during the course of a year.

Especially should this be true if your family is the fortunate possessor of a deep freeze unit, since economical quantity buying is not feasible without adequate cold-storage space. I strongly recommend that you invest in a deep freeze unit, if you do not already own one.

This is not the time to stock up on meat or even poultry. Normally, these should be on the bargain counter in the late fall or early winter, say November or December.

Eggs and Dairy Products The modern healthy hen can produce a surprising number of eggs during a year. But in March, April, and May she really settles down to business, with an output unequalled in size and quality in any other three-month period.

Prices of dairy products are rather closely related to the milk flow, which is at its seasonal peak around June.

There is a time lag in cheese, however; best buying opportunities appear to be in November, since good cheese must be well cured.

Seasonal factors also play an important part as price determinants of both hard and liquid fuels. In normal times, it is the practice of the anthracite producers to cut prices in April, as an inducement to customers to fill their bins during the summer period of slack consumption.

Minute Editorial

Post's growing, but fluctuating, oil population has spotlighted the need for apartments here. Chamber of commerce officials estimate that right now 25 or 30 two and three room furnished apartments could be rented here.

By TEX EASLEY Associated Press Washington Service.

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Most tourists who come to Washington never see how laws are really made. Usually they get only a glimpse of the Senate and House.

Some 200 young farm folk, here for a national meeting of 4-H club leaders, were fortunate enough to get an inside peep at the legislative machinery.

Four Texas youngsters were among them. They were Joyce Ann Marek, Victoria; Doris Rudolph, Fashing; Richard Luensmann, Marion; Bruce G. Gibson, Turkey.

The young farmers attended a session of the House Agriculture Committee over which Rep. W. R. (Bob) Poage of Waco presided.

While they listened eagerly, Poage outlined to them the steps that are necessary in the enactment of a law.

Over the years members of the various committees get to be authorities on the subject matter handled by their own group. It is understandable, therefore, why the recommendations of a committee usually determine the fate of a bill when it comes up for a vote on the floor of the House or Senate.

This is one reason why only a handful of legislators may be on the floor when a measure is under discussion, particularly if the bill is of interest to only one part of the country or a limited number of people.

So many bills go through the legislative mill that no congressman can know about them all; therefore he must rely on the judgment of his colleagues who have studied the proposal in committee.

Consequently, a great many tourists sit in the spectators' galleries briefly to hear a lawmaker address an almost empty chamber. This is particularly true in the Senate.

Practically all the towns in this section have already assumed the lead, but we remain as usual, behind them all.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Maybe This'll Wake Us Up!

Because a couple of thoughtless drivers threw a newspaper out of their car yesterday, Miss Gilbert, our school principal, nearly had a bad accident.

She was following them on the highway and the paper flattened over her windshield, so she couldn't see. In a minute her little coupe was across the line—right in the path of an oncoming trailer-truck. It missed... but only just!

The parties were recognized and soon as I heard about it I ran over to Sheriff Harper—demanded they be brought up on charges. But Harper says: "Hold on, Joe. Let's talk this out, over supper and a glass of beer at Andy's."

He pointed out that those men aren't criminals. Just careless, like a lot of us seem to be getting these days, judging from the trash you see along roadsides. From where I sit, this near accident may be the lesson we need to make us stop littering our roads—and start showing a little tolerant consideration for our neighbors!

Elect W. O. REED YOUR LIEUT. GOVERNOR

W. O. REED has really done something about efficiency and economy in our state government besides talk about it.

W. O. REED wrote the pay-as-you-go law which put Texas on a cash basis in 1942, and prevents the Legislature spending money it does not have.

W. O. REED believes our state government, like a family, should live within its income.

spreads from Texas to Virginia, riddling cotton fields. Herron describes the boll weevil as a beetle with a grayish-brown snout. It is about one-fourth of an inch long when grown. The adult feeds on squares, bolls and terminal buds. Bolls and squares form the menu for the white grub which is about the same size.

Bad Year for Weevils
This is a particularly bad year for weevils, if prompt control is not exercised, says Herron. They hibernate under leaves and trash in fence rows, woods and ditch banks adjoining last year's fields. Herron can recommend insecticides that will give effective control now, but he also recommends proper farming practices for better control.

Harvesting promptly enables the farmer to cut the green stalks before frost in some area, which holds down the weevil population. Correct planting, fertilizing and cultivating methods are useful in keeping ahead of the boll weevil early in the season.

Another major cotton pest is the bollworm. When it is newly-hatched, the bollworm feeds on leaves, then it attacks squares and bolls.

Bollworm Color Varies
Bollworms vary in color from ping and green to almost black. Herron says. Four to six generations hatch annually. The full-grown worm is one and one-half inches long. It enters the ground and turns mahogany-brown before the adult emerges. A generation is completed in 30 days in warm weather. Control should start as soon as eggs and newly-hatched worms are found, the agent warns.

At the adult stage, the bollworm is transformed into a yellowish to brownish moth, sometimes with a strong greenish overcast. Wingspread is one and a half inches. The female lays about 1000 small, ribbed, white dome-shaped eggs singly on growing tips, squares and bolls. Eggs are half the size of a pinhead.

Farmers in the Southwest find that lygus bugs are an important menace to their cotton crops. These bugs also like alfalfa and migrate to cotton after the alfalfa is cut or dried out. They cause the plant to shed squares, blooms and young bolls by their feeding methods.

Adult females are straw-colored and males are darker with red and brown markings, Herron points out. Usually these bugs are not quite a quarter of an inch long. They lay their eggs in the tissues of the plants they are feeding on. Plants also become deformed, as a result.

Six Generations
Since a generation of these may be completed in 30 days under favorable conditions, there is a possibility of six generations in one growing season.

Thrips have already appeared on Garza county farms. Adults of all varieties of thrips are easily identified by their fringed wings, says Herron. Minute in size, there are several varieties of thrip that feed on cotton. They include onion thrip, flower thrip, tobacco thrip and bean thrip, varying in color from light yellowish to almost black.

Thrips cause injury to terminal buds and leaves. Feeding thrips leave the young leaves ragged and sometimes cup-shaped. When they attack seedling plants, damage will result in stunting, excessive branching of terminal growth and sometimes outright death to the plants. Later attacks may cause the plants to shed leaves and even squares and young bolls.

Migrate from Weeds
Thrips are likely to migrate from weeds and small grains to cotton, after the grain is harvested or becomes mature. Weeds on ditch banks and deferred lands often harbor thrips and prove a source of infestation.

Last year, Herron reminds, leafworm control in South Texas was practiced to such an extent that the pest did not make its way this far north. Presence of this familiar cotton pest is indicated by ragged or stripped leaves.

Greenish, with white and black stripes, the full-grown worm is possibly an inch and a half long. It has black spots over its body and is easily identified by its half-looping crawl. A tropical insect, the moth or miller migrates to the cotton belt each season. It appears first in South Texas from April to June.

Eggs are laid on the underside of the leaves. They hatch and become full-grown within two or three weeks. In the folds of the leaves, the eggs change into brown pupae. After a week, the moths emerge and a new life cycle begins. Three to six generations a season are customary, said Herron. Leafworms are encouraged by wet weather.

Control Worms Early
If bolls are not full-grown, insecticides should be applied when the worms first appear. Cotton aphid is a species of the lowly plant louse. A small, soft-bodied sucking insect, it ranges in color from light yellow to almost black. Females give birth to living young throughout the year. It takes only a week to complete a generation during hot weather.

Although most adults are wingless, some times, winged forms appear. Customarily, they feed on the underside of leaves and on the stems. Injury to seedlings can occur during cool weather. Results are stunting, deforming or even killing the young plant.

Heavy infestations later in the season cause shedding of leaves and decreased yield. A sticky secretion from the aphid, known as honeydew falls on open bolls. It stains the lint and causes the grade to be lowered. Aphids have natural enemies, particularly lady beetles, that help keep them in check.

Destroy Squares
Greatest loss of cotton caused by rapid plant bugs is the destruction of young squares. Injury is similar to that produced by the flea hopper. It is primarily caused by piercing squares and young bolls.

Damage also occurs through piercing the terminal buds, leaves and stems of the plants. This causes malformations. Adults are one-third inch long. They have a narrow yellow band along the sides of the body. In early stages, the rapid plant bug is light green with red markings.

Adults lay eggs in plant stems. Although the winter is spent in the egg stage, there are several generations annually.

When cotton leaves become blotched with red or yellow spots, it is probable that two-spotted spider mites are present, the agent says. Heavy infestations cause the leaves to turn rusty and shed from the plants.

At times, even the squares and bolls shed.

Spider Mites Small
Spider mites are only barely visible. In color, they may be red, reddish-yellow, yellow or green. Getting on the underside of leaves, they suck the sap, spin filmy webs and lay their eggs. Each year sees a number of generations.

Hot, dry weather is particularly favorable to spider mites while heavy rains are known to check them.

Grasshoppers have been a scourge in this area, but nothing has been said yet about expected infestation here. They attack all kinds of crops and can destroy thousands of acres in a single community.

Of the many species of grasshopper, the differential grasshopper is more damaging to cotton. As an adult, it ranges in length from two inches down to one and a half. Brownish-yellow, it is often tinged with olive green. On the outside of the hind legs are distinct V-shaped bars.

This grasshopper lays eggs in pods on the ground during the late summer or fall. The young grasshoppers hatch out in the spring, feeding on grass and weeds before going over to field crops. Herron says control is more effective before the hoppers take to the field crops.

Worldwide Pest
The pink bollworm, the most notorious worldwide cotton pest has been eradicated in parts of the United States, but unfortunately, says Herron, the Southwest is not one of those parts. A small pinkish or whitish caterpillar, it feeds on cottonseed.

Damage is in partial destruction of the boll and lowering quality in seed and lint. When the infestation is particularly bad, squares and bolls fall off.

The tarnished plant bug is another lygus variety. It feeds on say with its mouth parts equipped for piercing and sucking. Young bugs are green but the adult insect, a quarter of an inch long, is brown, mottled with yellow, black and red. They develop rapidly.

Malformed plants result from their attacks on cotton, as well as blasted young squares. They winter in trash and debris. Plant tissues host their eggs. Several generations occur in one season, being completed in two or three weeks.

Cotton Fleahopper
The cotton fleahopper has already appeared here and control measures should be started at once if they are not already underway, said Herron.

It pierces terminal buds and newly formed squares, causing them to drop. Results are tall whip-like plants without fruit or fruiting growth. Injury occurs chiefly early in the season.

As an adult, the fleahopper is only one-seventh inch long. Its oval-shaped, pale-green winged body is dotted with small dark spots. Near the wing tips are four black marks. When young, the fleahopper is green and has no wings.

Eggs are inserted singly in the stem of certain plants it chooses to breed in. A life cycle is three weeks. Winter is spent in the egg stage.

Stink bugs are among the more familiar pests attacking cotton. They transfer to cotton late in the season. Chief damage is sucking juice from the seeds after puncturing bolls. Inferior seed and lint are produced. Squares and young bolls shed.

Conchuela stink bugs are the worst cotton enemies. They pass the winter as adults.

Mrs. Paul Beach and children, Paul Allen and Diane, of Inglewood, Calif., are here visiting Mrs. Beach's father, Al Bird, and others. She is the former Mary Kathryn Bird.

Gilbert Johnson and Donk Walker will be reunited in pro football next season and it will be interesting to see if the combination enjoys the success it did in college.

Johnson skipped his last year at Southern Methodist to turn professional. He was no ball of fire last year in the money league.

Philadelphia handed Johnson outright to Detroit, a club that wanted him. That's the club Walker reportedly received $60,000 from for signing a three year contract.

Johnson, of course, was a sensational college passer. And Walker, the three-time All-America back at SMU, was on the receiving end of many of his spectacular tosses.

Next season he'll have Walker as a target and also Leon Hart, Notre Dame's great end and sometime fullback.

Detroit has been trying to line up a team that will go places in pro ball and this season the Lions may have it. At least they have a flock of players that were stars in college. But, as has been proven, this doesn't mean too much in pro football.

Whether Johnson and Walker ever gain any fame as pros makes little difference on past performances. Both became legends at Southern Methodist university. Arkansas and Texas Christian university will never forget Johnson's performances in 1948.

That was the year his last second pass snatched victory from Arkansas and it was his passing that powered SMU on a length of the field drive that netted a 7-7 tie with Texas Christian and a second Southwestern Conference championship.

There's no need to mention the feats of Walker. As a matter of fact there are many coaches, players and fans who would like to forget all about him. Particular, University of Texas partisans.

Softball Team Sets Doubleheader Here

Monk Gibson and Luther Bilberry are team managers.

Oilers Invade Post Tonight
Millers Meet Slaton Sunday

Post Millers, a reorganized young ball club, will meet second-place Seagraves in an Oil Belt tilt here tonight.

Seagraves used Royce King for the first four innings Sunday to nick Slaton 20-4. Miller batters have been facing Euland Fowler, ace Oiler pitcher, and Lefty Faulkner, on the mound. It is not known who will start tonight for Seagraves. Bill Holcombe pitched a good game Sunday. He may start for the Millers tonight.

Sunday Post plays their first twin bill with the Refiners at Levelland. Next Thursday night, the Millers meet Slaton in what can once again be a battle for the cellar slot.

Sundown had to score twice in the seventh and twice in the final frame to beat out an enheartened Miller team here Sunday, 6-3. The Oilers took a 2-0 lead off Moundsman Holcombe in the first inning.

Josey Doubles
Roy Williams beat out an infield hit. Louis Mills walked and R. E. Josey doubled the two runners home to tie the score in the third. Post moved ahead, 3-2, in the sixth. After G. R. Morris got to first on an error, he made second on a long out-field fly. Joe Boren's single brought Morris in to put the Millers out in front.

Sundown regained its one run lead in the seventh and was able to get only two more tallies, those in the ninth.

John and Doug Ethridge sparked the visitors. Connie Smethers started on the mound for the Oilers. Bob Medford replaced him in the seventh to hold the Millers scoreless for the rest of the game. Between the two, they allowed only five hits.

Holcombe Creditable
Holcombe turned in a creditable job for Post, lasting until the ninth when he was relieved by Boren. Sundown got 12 hits off Holcombe, who kept them well-scattered. Post turned in an excellent fielding record, committing only one error. Two miscues were scored against the league leaders.

Some 150 fans saw a Miller team which only last Thursday lost to Denver City 21-2, force the league leaders to extend themselves in coming from behind.

Reorganization of the Millers is still incomplete, after L. J. Richardson, jr., resigned as business manager. Jerry Queen was elected player-manager. Queen is going along with Former Acting-Manager Jim Hundley's program of using young hopefuls.

How to Pray:

And when thou prayest, thou shalt not be as the hypocrites are: for they love to pray standing in the synagogues and in the corners of the streets, that they may be seen of men. Verily I say unto you, They have their reward. But thou, when thou prayest, enter into thy closet, and when thou hast shut thy door, pray to thy Father which is in secret; and thy Father which seeth in secret shall reward thee openly. But when ye pray, use not vain repetitions, as the heathen do: for they think that they shall be heard for their much speaking. Be not ye therefore like unto them: for your Father knoweth what things ye have need of, before ye ask him. After this manner therefore pray ye: Our Father which art in heaven, Hallowed be thy name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth, as it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread. And forgive us our debts, as we forgive our debtors. And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil: For thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory, for ever. Amen. Matt. 6:5-13.

GEORGE MAHON

Mahon Announces For Reelection To U.S. Congress

Announcement of his candidacy for reelection to the House of Representatives from the 19th District of Texas is being made formally through the press of the district by Congressman George Mahon.

Mahon has met filing requirements in all the counties of the District. "It now appears," said Mahon "that Congress will be in session up to and beyond July 22, the date of the Primary, and I will have very little opportunity to visit and campaign over the district. I thus am taking this method of again presenting my candidacy to the voters of the 19th District."

By virtue of his congressional tenure at the will of the voters, only 47 of the 435 members of the House are now senior to Mahon. By reason of congressional seniority procedure, this gives the 19th District a position of prestige possessed by relatively few areas in the country. Mahon ranks No. 3 on the powerful House Appropriations Committee and is Chairman of the subcommittee handling appropriations for the Armed Services.

Said Mahon in his announcement: "As your representative in Washington, I have been confronted with many difficult problems, as has been the case with you folks at home. You have cooperated with me and placed your trust in me in matters of greatest importance.

We are now in a very dangerous and difficult time in the history of the nation, and as the representative from the 19th District, I am seeking as best I can to measure up to the terrific responsibilities confronting our government."

Mahon said that he wanted to thank the people for the wonderful support they had given him through the years and that he would continue to do everything in his power to do a good job in Washington for the people of the 19th District.

At this time, in addition to his regular assignments, Mahon is aggressively seeking to prevent passage of a pending proposal

HD Council Furthers Plans for Political Rally To Be Held at Courthouse July 8

Plans were furthered for the political rally slated at the courthouse lawn July 8 when the county home demonstration council met June 21 in the agent's office.

A report was given on the comfort contest. The finance committee reported that $42.75 had been turned in and reminded the clubs that each member was supposed to sell 10 tickets. It will be given away at the rally.

Candidates will speak and a Post doctor will give a five minute talk on the proposed hospital for the county. Plans for booths for that night include a cake and pie booth. Each club will donate three home made cakes and two pies.

Barnum Springs and Graham Home Demonstration clubs will be in charge of cake and pie sales. A cake will be awarded the ugliest candidate, the prettiest 4-H girl and the most handsome 4-H boy after a contest that night.

Ice Cream Booth
Justiceburg HD club will be in charge of the ice cream booth. Post club will have charge of the comfort contest booth. Snow cones and cold drinks will be sold by 4-H clubs and sponsors. Music will be furnished by a string band.

Invitations have been sent to all candidates in this area. An arrangements committee is responsible for providing a loud speaker, chairs, lights and a truck for a platform. Club members are urging everyone in the county to attend.

Mrs. W. H. Barton presided at the meeting in the absence of the chairman and vice chairman. Since the yearbook committee received no suggestions for 1951, clubs were asked to discuss this again and send in suggestions to the July council meeting.

The council voted to buy a slide projector for the extension agents' and clubs' use. Cost is not to exceed $32.50. They also voted to have a leather tooling school in the fall. A San Angelo woman will conduct the three day school.

Tailoring Classes
Each woman wishing to enroll in the tailoring classes to be taught by the six leaders who recently finished the school here should have the agent check a dress she has made, for sewing principles. Enrollment will be completed in July. First ones eligible to take the course will be the women who participated in the dress revue in 1949 and 1950.

Sample Christmas cards will be bought by the council, it was decided, and each club will use these to take orders from club members and the public.

Mrs. Jewell Strasser, county HD agent, reminded the council that Bermuda fagoting and Italian hemstitching needlework on scarves and pillow cases will be checked this month. She will also give points on selecting bedroom curtains at the meetings.

The council voted to ask the clubs to consider contributing $15 from the Council fund to the which would shift a large portion of West Texas cotton acreage allotment to Central and South Texas in 1951.

Earlier in the session Mahon secured approval by the House of the bill he handles which provides funds for the operation of the Army, Navy and Air Force. The Senate has not yet passed the measure and final agreement between the House and Senate cannot be secured until this is done.

Nicholses Move into New Home on Tahoka Highway June 1

Miss Henrietta Nichols and her husband, John and P. S., are finding the advantages and disadvantages of living in town about fifty.

Before moving to town the last of January and moving into their new home on the Tahoka highway the first of this month, they had lived for 40 years, more or less, in the country. Now they are free to go fishing or visiting when they please. Miss Nichols has the yard to work in, but her husband miss having the stock occupy them.

Tom Bouchier and Lefty Dase, contractor, worked out the plans for the white siding and shingles with the green shingle roof. The Nicholses told them what they wanted and they fitted it together into a house. Screens are trimmed in green, adding another note of color to the exterior.

House Faces North
The house faces north. All doors are gum slab, except the back door. Three tiny glass panes are in the front door which opens into the 18x12-foot living room. Walls and ceilings are papered in solid gray. A sofa and chair in the overstuffed, contemporary style are steel gray. A green barrier chair adds an accent of color. Throw rugs on the floor are dark green and chartreuse.

Miss Nichols chose a coffee table that is higher than usual, containing a drawer that pulls both ways. On each side of the drawer is shelf space. The trio plays cards and games often and the drawer is for storing them.

A companion piece to the end table is an occasional table in the corner, made in the same style. A rose-colored vase, given Miss Nichols by Mrs. A. W. Bouchier, is placed on the table.

Miss Nichols' floor lamp has a white shade. Ceiling fixtures in the living room is crystal. Over the sofa is a round mirror. Miss Nichols plans to replace it with a painting that was a favorite of her mother's. She has had it framed and is waiting to get it touched up.

Three Front Windows
Three windows with two long glass panes each are across the front of the room. Venetian blinds are used throughout the house. Side draperies have a soft gray background with a green, mulberry, gold and chartreuse floral pattern. In the center are nylon glass curtains.

Another picture in the room is that of a cockatoo that Miss Nichols got in Mexico.

The Nicholses consider the kitchen and dining area as a single 18x12-foot room. Walls are wainscoted a deeper green than the light green ceiling and upper walls. Moldings, woodwork and cabinets are butter yellow. Cabinets are painted the same color inside as out.

An off-white inlaid linoleum with a darker pattern is on the floor of both parts of the room. Dark green rubber tile is inlaid on the counter tops on each side of the double sink.

Some of the cabinets were bought as a unit, Miss Nichols says, while others she had built specially. The utility closet behind the door to the living room and the cabinets across the top of the sink were built at her request.

White Scrim Curtains
Curtains over the window above the sink are identical to the dining room curtains. White scrim, they have a small yellow flowers in green pots painted on them. Miss Nichols has a ladder stool matching the green and yellow decor of the room, to enable her to reach the top shelves.

The Nicholses brought their large butane refrigerator and range in from the country and converted both to natural gas. A tall bar painted light green and yellow separates the cooking area from the dining area.

A planter dining table centers the room. Green plastic, it has a chrome trim. Chairs are yellow plastic and chrome. Shelves in the bar hold a collection of handpainted china that belonged to the Nicholses' mother. It is at least 40 years old. A crystal pitcher, which was given Miss Nichols several years ago, is now about 75 years old, she estimates.

She has a white plate with a delicate green floral border which came from Dundee, Scotland. Another treasure displayed here is a red Chinese pot, given Miss Nichols' mother by her brother, many years ago. She also has a pitcher she found in Mexico and several other pieces.

The back door opens onto a small concrete stoop.

Hall Is In Center
In the center of the house is a small hall, 4x12 feet, connecting the two bedrooms. It is papered in the same wallpaper as that in the living room. The linen closet with deep, graduated shelves and the hot water closet are in the hall. Sliding doors separate the hall from the kitchen and living room.

The floor furnace is also in the hall.

Miss Nichols' bedroom is the southeast room. It is papered in pink with white fronds and blue flowers with darker pink flowers. Lace curtains are tied back with green satin ribbons, matching the green satin bedspread and stool cover made by Miss Nichols. There are three windows in the room.

One of the best features of her bedroom, Miss Nichols feels, is her large walk-in-closet. It is lighted and has shelves. Woodwork is light in natural finish. Her bedroom suite is lined oak and includes a chest, bed, vanity and stool in a modern style. Light fixtures are pink.

Completing the furnishings of the room is an old-fashioned rocking chair which Miss Nichols brought from her home in the country. Ceiling of the 15x12-room is papered in white.

Bathroom Is Green
The bathroom is between the two bedrooms. It is also done in two shades of green. Wainscoting is applegreen and the top is a lighter green. Fixtures are white. The bathroom heater is in the wall.

Towel shelves are recessed at the end of the bath tub. Above them is an enclosed cabinet. Green accents are provided by towels and bath mats. After a long search, Miss Nichols finally found a white plastic curtain trimmed with silver shimp, to put at the bathroom window and blend with the rest of the room.

The Nichols men have the southwest bedroom. It is papered in textured blue wallpaper. Rose spreads are on the single beds, which are painted white. Double windows are on one side and a single window is on the east corner.

A white painted highboy is on the west wall. Above it is the mounted head of the first deer killed by John Nichols. The light fixture in this room is blue. A walk-in-closet is also a feature of this room. Although the maroon platform rocker in here blends with the lighter rose bedspreads, Miss Nichols' plans are to recover it.

London. Mrs. Howard Rankin and two sons, Mrs. J. B. Faulkner, Mrs. L. P. Kennedy, Miss Billie Louise Nichols, Miss Leslie Anita Nichols, Mrs. Lester Nichols, and Mrs. Joe Callis.

Benson Gets Credit
Miss Nichols gives Charles Benson credit for the soft coloring of the painted walls and fixtures. He did the painting, papering and finished the floors. She chose the colors and he mixed the paint.

Another thing Miss Nichols likes about living in Post is the proximity of the church. The church in Verbena has not been a Baptist church for some years and she likes attending her own church here.

P. S. Nichols is the one who finds living in town rates about fifty-fifty with country. He is liking it better than he thought.

A garage is attached to the west side of the house. Lantern lights are on the porch.

Last Wednesday, several old-time friends honored Miss Nichols with a housewarming. Those present included Mrs. L. A. Barrow, Mrs. B. W. Kennedy, Mrs. Carl Clark, Mrs. R. W. Babb, Mrs. Will Wright, Mrs. H. B. Kennedy, Mrs. Jess Propst, Mrs. Edna Mc-

ANOTHER STRIKE

AGAINST THE PUBLIC AND INDUSTRY AND AGRICULTURE SERVED BY FIVE WESTERN RAILROADS

President Truman's EMERGENCY BOARD recommends a 40-hour week and a pay increase of 18 cents an hour, or $1.44 a day for switchmen represented by the Switchmen's Union of North America.

• Notwithstanding the tremendous increase in their expenses involved, the Railroads' answer to Board is... YES!

Union leaders' answer to Board is... NO!

In face of Board findings to the contrary, union leaders insist on 48 hours pay for 40 hours work. This would be an average increase of 31 cents an hour, or $2.48 a day. So Union leaders have called a completely unjustified strike on 5 Western railroads, effective June 25.

On June 15, an Emergency Board appointed by President Truman under the terms of the Railway Labor Act recommended the railroads grant switchmen a 40-hour week and a wage increase of 18 cents an hour, or $1.44 for an 8-hour day.

Despite the added financial burden involved, the railroads are ready to accept these recommendations, as they have always accepted Emergency Board recommendations on national issues.

But the leaders of the Switchmen's Union refuse to accept! They demand an average increase of 31 CENTS AN HOUR OR $2.48 A DAY—although their present earnings are substantially higher than those of workers in other industries!

Board Says Demands Unjustified
In its report, the Board declared this demand unjustified by all the evidence presented. It also pointed out that it would give the switchmen an unfair pay advantage over other groups of railroad employees, and would add too great a burden to railroad costs.

Here is another case of a railroad union flouting the findings of an Emergency Board—another strike in an outrageous and reckless attempt to force demands which the Board clearly labels as unjustified!

Leaders of the Switchmen's Union are calling this strike in defiance of the Board—in defiance of the facts—and at the expense of the public!

In its report on this case, the Board made this statement:

"The railroad industry, the Board believes, needs above all else a period of relative stability to adjust and adapt itself to present competitive post-war conditions."

Despite this warning, the leaders of the Switchmen's Union are upsetting the apple-cart—forcing a completely unjustified strike against everybody who uses the railroads.

It is time to put an end to such un-American tactics!

The Answer to a Raw Attempt At Dictatorship is "No!"

In the interest of the public who depend on the railroads every day, there can be only one answer to this outrageous and dictatorial action by the leaders of the Switchmen's Union. And that answer is—"NO!"

FIVE WESTERN RAILROADS AFFECTED BY THE JUNE 25 STRIKE

The five railroads affected by this strike, which goes into effect at 6:00 A.M. local time, Sunday, June 25, 1950, are:

- Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad Company
- The Denver & Rio Grande Western Railroad Company

Eye Cancer Is Prevalent in Cattle Here But Its Specific Cause Is Unknown

Eye cancer in cattle is more prevalent in the Southwest and West than elsewhere in the United States, County Agent Lewis Herron has been informed.

Known as epithelioma, it is a tumor which attacks the eye or related tissue, according to Joe Stokes, Texas A&M student from Hale Center who formerly lived in Post.

Its specific cause is not known. Contributing causes may be irritation of the eyes by dust, sand or insects. Strong rays of the sun have been mentioned as a possible cause, particularly in Herefords.

Cancerous growth may originate in the angle of the eye, in the mucous lining of the lids or in the front part of the eyeball. Stokes points out. It appears first as a large reddish mass with a tendency to develop a fungus-like appearance as it gets larger.

These growths are easily injured and bleed freely. The eye proper is not involved in the early stages, but eventually it comes involved and sight is lost. It becomes infected and in the warm months, screwworms may develop.

Little can be done to help the animal after the entire eye is involved, but if it is in a fair condition, it should be sent to market for slaughter, subject to inspection. If the tumor is localized, the carcass may be passed for food.

Early operations by skilled technicians have provided satisfactory results.
