City Council Studies Reserve Police Idea

by Wesley W. Burnett

The Post City Council, at its regular monthly meeting Monday night, authorized city manager Bob Turner to begin preliminary studies for the establishment of a police reserve to be coordinated with Garza County Sheriff Freddy Cockrell.

Council members approved the concept with the understanding that a specific and careful plan would be formulated, to include supervision and administration of the reserve program by the sheriff and certification of reserves at no expense to the city.

The police reserve idea is in response to concerns by citizens and merchants about the recent rash of vandalism.

"I started out completely against this idea," Turner told the council, "but after seeing how much good the program did in Lake Worth, I can see how this would be helpful to the citizens as well as to law enforcement."

Turner emphasized that all expenses for certification, uniforms and other necessary items for a reserve officer would be paid for by the prospective volunteers.

City attorney Harvey Morton explained the program in Slaton, which uses certified reserve police officers, under the supervision of the city police chief.

Turner is to provide a follow-up report in the near future.

In other action, the council also authorized Turner to begin work on a study to determine ethnic neighborhoods in preparation for a single-member district plan for city council elections.

Morton told the council that the Post city council at-large election system is unconstitutional and eventually will have to be changed to meet federal voting guidelines. The study would be used to determine district voting areas for a detailed plan to be presented to the U.S. Department of Justice.

Following an executive session, the council approved a motion to proceed with review of White River Municipal Water District (WRMWD) records to answer a series of questions which had been requested last year. At a special meeting between council members and the WRMWD board of directors last year, questions concerning sale of water to third parties were presented by Post's city attorney Morton. At that meeting WRMWD attorney Harry Jung agreed that the water district management would provide answers to the questions, but several months ago reversed his decision and informed the council's attorney that the answers to their questions would have to be researched by the council. WRMWD records will be made available for inspection.

The council approved the appointment of Pam Mueller, Maury Shiver and Betty Dennis to serve on the library board of directors.

A report was also received from Dee Justice, representing the city on the South Plains 911 emergency system. Justice explained that 911 service is expected to begin by December 31, 1991. The 50 cent per month surcharge will begin Jan. 1, 1990.

Turner reported that seal coating of city streets is expected to begin next week, weather permitting.

Turner also told the council about the city's support and participation with the Post Economic Development Corp. and its current discussions with an industrial prospect.

"We want to make sure the citizens know that we are doing everything we can to help bring this industry to Post," Mayor Giles McCrary emphasized, "we are looking forward to assisting when the time comes."

Turner and council member Larry Waldrip reported on damages to the Volunteer Fire Department building, which was structurally warped following the June 1 "tornado" winds that ripped through town. "It looks like the building roof was lifted off and the steel is warped," Waldrip said. Insurance adjusters are to inspect the building for repairs.

A joint meeting with county commissioners was discussed, at which time a review of funding for repairs of the apron and taxiway at the airport and the future of the landfill will be on the agenda.

Jeff Lott and Jim Wells, members of the airport board, presented a report to the council concerning the "bad shape" of the apron and taxiway and the need for repairs. A Texas Aeronautical Board inspection of the airport is planned this month, and state funded repairs to the runway will be inspected. "The runway is in great shape, but if the apron and taxiway aren't useable, then we'll probably be in trouble," Lott explained.

Last year only one bid was received for the repairs, and it was approximately $90,000, which commissioners and council members rejected at the time.

Turner told the council that the landfill problem is a result of new federal guidelines, which when enforced will "shut down as many as 25 percent of Texas landfills." He recommended the closing of the current landfill and opening of a new facility to meet the new standards. Council members will discuss county sharing of landfill funding at the joint meeting.

The council took no action on a request by Mission Cable television representative David Hilton of Idalou for a rate increase.

Hilton explained that the cable system will be upgraded to add six more channels to the basic rate, and reduce rates for pay channels. The new basic rate will be $15.95 per month, compared to the current $13. McCrary voiced his concern about interruptions in service, especially with CNN and the scrambling.

Turner told the council that health insurance premiums will increase from $177.51 per employee to $266.51 per employee, with a $500 deductible.

He also told the council that current revenues are below budgeted estimates, with oil franchise tax receipts the largest single factor, followed by sales tax rebate. At the current rate of expenses and revenues, the city will be $75,000 short at the end of this budget period.

Students Return From Washington Area Tour

The tour group left Post Wednesday morning, June 7 to fly to Washington from Lubbock. While in the area, the group stayed at the Holiday Inn-Calverton in Beltsville, Maryland.

Thursday, June 8 was spent touring the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis. One of the highlights of the Academy was Bancroft Hall, one of the largest single dormitories in the world. The mammoth complex is the heart of the Academy, with five miles of corridors and 33 acres of floor space.

Bancroft Hall contains a movie theatre, auditorium, tailor, cobbler, barber shops, laundry, stores, radio station, bowling alleys and soda fountain.

With their first-hand glimpse of a midshipman's room, the students saw how midshipmen are required to keep their uniforms and other belongings available for frequent inspections.

Also in Bancroft is King Hall, the midshipmen's wardroom, one of the world's largest dining rooms, with 65,000 square feet. More than 13,000 hot meals per day are served, using two tons of meat and 4,000 quarts of milk. The

Time To Wage War On Pine Tip Moth

by R. Syd Conner
CEA-Agriculture

The pine tip moth can be a serious pest of young pine trees planted by homeowners on the South Plains. And right now is one of the few time homeowners can effectively fight back.

The larvae of this moth bore into the growing tips of trees, causing them to turn brown. Severely infested trees develop a bushy appearance over time.

The tip moth passes the winter as a pupa within the injured terminals and twigs of the tree. Moths emerge in late March and early April and begin the first of several generations which will occur during the summer.

Female moths lay eggs on the needles and stems. After hatching, the young larvae bore into the tip and begin feeding. After several weeks of feeding and constructing a tunnel in the tip of the stem, the larvae pupate. The adult moths then emerge from their pupal cases, and a new cycle of generation begins.

Properly timed application of an insecticide is the best way to reduce pine tip moth populations and damage. Since this pest spends most of its life cycle protected inside the pine tip, foliar sprays are most effective when the young larvae are just hatching from the egg.

To properly time these applications, pheromone traps can be used to detect the presence of adult moths and determine when eggs are being laid and new cycles are beginning. Traps in Lubbock have recently begun catching moths of the second generation, indicating it is time to apply an insecticide.

Foliar-applied insecticides recommended for homeowners include Orthene and dimethoate. Adding a small amount of liquid soap or surfactant to the spray solution will improve control because it helps the insecticide to adhere to the treated trees.

Use the right appliance for the job.

Sometimes it gets hot enough to fry an egg on the sidewalk. But on an electric iron? There are better things to use.

And when you need to cool and heat your home, there are better things to use than a heat pump.

A heat pump can't cool your home in summer as well as a high-efficiency air conditioner. And it can't warm your home in winter as well as a natural gas furnace.

Think of winter this summer. For comfortable efficient heating in your home, the most effective appliance ever made is a natural gas furnace. Period.

Things they never told you about a heat pump.

Fact #1

A heat pump unit costs more than an equivalent high-efficiency air conditioner. And it's more expensive and complicated to install.

Yet it won't cool your home as well, and it's more expensive to operate and maintain.

If you need a new air conditioner this summer, replace it with a modern high-efficiency air conditioner. Not a gadget.

the leaves remaining."

"However, if the stem is shattered and the bark loosened or broken at points below the leaf buds, then recovery is impossible," Supak warned.

Regrowth hinges on the sound terminal bud (the growing point) or auxiliary bud located at the point of leaf attachment.

The agronomist says that because of the young seedling's ability to recover, hail injury in June will cause less yield loss than in July or August when the plants are more mature and replanting becomes impossible.

A crop can recover from damage in early to mid-June to the point that the injured plants are difficult to distinguish from undamaged plants," he added. Also, young cotton that survives early hail damage is often more mature at frost than a crop that has been replanted.

"When a cotton field is destroyed," he said, "the producer has no choice but to replant. But when the crop is damaged and only partially destroyed, producers are faced with a much more difficult decision."

"The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie," an enjoyable play which completed a successful four performance run with a Sunday matinee at the Garza Theatre, was made even more enjoyable by the performances of the actors, the stage settings, the costumes and the production design and direction of the Garza Theatre's Will McCrary.

"The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie," from the novel by Muriel Sparks, adapted for the stage by Jay Presson Allen, is set in the 1930's at a girls' school in Scotland and centers entirely around Jean Brodie and her students, "Miss Brodie's girls."

Jean Brodie is a forerunner of the liberated woman who is not bound by convention. Her heroes are Mussolini and Franco. She is in her "prime" and is free to indulge her "passions" for art, artists, politics, choir directors and "her girls - the crème de la crème."

The story is narrated effectively by a nun who, during an interview with a newspaperman, chronicles the rise and fall of Jean Brodie - and reveals herself, at the play's end, as one of "Miss Brodie's girls," and the girl indirectly responsible for the teacher's fall.

Once again, Will McCrary made good use of the theatre's side stages turning one into an artist's studio and the other into the ivy-walled garden of the convent where the nun tells her story. Otherwise, simple props were used on the main stage and full use was made of lighting, music and the actors talents to tell the story of "The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie" with short skits and blackouts.

Outstanding performances were turned in by Linda Ellis as an incomparable 'Miss Jean Brodie,' Steve Sever as the artist, art master and lover, 'Teddy Lloyd,' Cheryl Thompson as school girl and troublemaker 'Sandy,' John McCullough as the hesitant choir director 'Gordon Lowther,' Roxa Hutchins as 'Sister Helena,' Karla Alexander as the frustrated 'Miss Mackay,' the head of the school; and Michael Nedela as 'Mr. Perry' the newspaperman.

Joining Cheryl Thompson as "Miss Brodie's crème de la crème" were Brandi Brush, Sara Alexander and Shelley Wells who performed splendidly and brought laughter to the audience with their fantasizing about their teacher's love life.

Appearing in supporting roles were Pete Newby as 'McCready' the gardener, and Kathy Floyd as 'Miss Campbell' the gym teacher.

Also appearing, as schoolgirls and girl guides, were Melissa Ray, Jamie Hawkins, Amber Harp, Jennifer LeBlanc, Tonya Harp, Jamie Glidewell and Jodi Hawkins. Behind the scenes, the staff consisted of Lino DeLeon, stage manager; Michael Nedela, production manager; Troy Timms, lighting; Russell Benham, sound operator; Danny Leach, assistant stage manager; Audra Sanchez, properties; Wendy Clay, dresser; Junior Armendariz and Angela

Tobias, crew; Cecil Martinez, spotlight operator.

Girl's costume coordinator was Anne Leake and set construction was by Patrick Connor and Ab Gutierrez.

The next Garza Theatre production will be "The Tempest" during the annual Shakespeare Festival, July available actual sales prices and quoted prices and the estimated volume of cotton available for sale from competing foreign sources.

In addition, "to facilitate the more timely movement of cotton into the market," USDA would stop the current practice of paying or forgiving storage charges during eight-month loan extensions. Instead, producers seeking a loan extension beyond the original ten-month period, would be required either to prepay eight months storage to the warehouseman or provide documentation from the warehouseman that USDA will not be held responsible for such charges.

Producer Steve Verett of Ralls, who attended the PSC meeting as president of Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., said on his return that adoption of either USDA's or the merchant's proposal for practical purposes would be tantamount to cancelling the loan extension option granted to producers in farm law dating back to 1977.

And, he added, "PCG, and I expect the Producer Steering Committee and other producer groups, will do all we can to save that option as the one way producers can extend marketing decisions over two full crop years."

The NCC Board, made up of producers, ginners, warehousemen, crushers, cooperatives, merchants and manufacturers, had no serious problem adopting an industrywide position on the AWP adjustment. The Board was split, however, on loan program changes, leaving the Council per se without a voice on the issue.

Out of the Producer Steering

Committee came a proposal to determine the need for and the amount of any AWP adjustment based on the share of the U.S. exports as compared to world exports.

The merchant segment offered a method whereby decisions would hinge on whether in any given week Memphis territory cotton was included as one of the five cheapest world growth quotations that make up the Liverpool "A" Index now used to establish the AWP.

The NCC Board found merit in both suggestions, together with additional details omitted here, and agreed that both would be submitted to USDA as acceptable to the industry, used individually or in tandem, at the Secretary's discretion.

On operation of the loan program, the PSC agreed to and asked the Council to support the accrual of interest and warehouse storage charges during the eight-month extension, to be paid by the redeemer of the cotton, and the continued waiving of interest and storage when cotton is forfeited to CCC.

The merchant segment had entirely different ideas, calling for mandatory producer prepayment of interest and storage on eight-month extensions, plus making payment of interest and storage on the original ten-month loan period a prerequisite to granting loan extensions.

According to Charles Bragg, NCC Vice President for Producer Affairs, the Board recognized its inability to reconcile producer-merchant differences on the issue and voted unanimously, in accordance with NCC By-Laws, to leave the PSC on its own to pursue the committee's position.

Cotton Injury from Hail is Moderate to Heavy

Large storms accompanied by heavy washing rains and hail hit large portions of the Southern High Plains causing moderate to heavy damage to the young cotton crops.

Where, how much and how badly the crop was damaged are the questions many producers are asking, and finally comes the big one, "Will I have to replant?"

In many fields, it is obvious that the crop will have to be replanted. In others the best alternative may be to stay with the existing stand even though the plant population has been reduced and the surviving seedlings incurred some injury.

"Don't make any snap decisions when it comes to hail damage," cautions Dr. James Supak, cotton specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "Often, the plant damage and stand loss appears to be much worse than it actually is immediately after the storm."

Give the crop a few days to recover before carefully evaluating the condition of the remaining plants. In the meantime, a sand-fighter or some other tool should be run as soon as possible to prevent sand injury to vital leaves and buds on the injured plants. Quite often, Supak cautioned, sand and wind damage after a hail can do as much or more harm to young seedlings than the hail.

In making the field inspection, consider how much of the crop was destroyed. A hail storm can reduce the plant population to only two seedlings per row foot in 40-inch rows, or about 25,000 plants per acre, and the crop can still produce a normal yield, unless, of course, the crop is poorly distributed or has long skips.

If skips are involved, the potential for significant yield losses is increased. In studies where skips varying in length from 1 to 9 feet were used to reduce stands from 4.5 to 3.5 or to 2.5 plants per foot of drill, yield losses of approximately 15 and 25 percent, respectively were observed.

Another point in determining whether to replant is how much damage there was to plants. The agronomist explained that plants having only traces of leaves will recover better than those with no leaves. "If the plants can be easily 'rowed' down the field, that's a good sign. But even with seedlings that were completely defoliated, plants can still recover and make a crop if the stems are intact, free of breaks in the bark and have sound buds. Recovery of defoliated plants will be slower than that of plants that have at least some portion of
