Council continues discussion, plans for single member district voting

by Wes Burnett

The Post City Council, meeting in regular session Monday evening, continued discussion and plans for implementing single member district voting, aiming for the 1992 municipal elections as a target date.

City attorney Harvey Morton reviewed the complicated process of preparing a voting plan to the U.S. Justice Department and suggested to the council that a citizens advisory committee should be appointed at the earliest possible date to begin the lengthy process.

Morton explained that the committee, among other items, could begin collecting historical data on voting patterns, which will be required as part of the completed material to be submitted to the Justice Department.

The attorney also reminded the council that any changes in the voting must be approved by the Justice Department and must meet all the requirements of the Voting Rights Act.

Mayor Giles McCrary requested Morton to prepare guidelines and priorities for the citizens advisory committee.

Randel Terry, representing the firm of Sandefur & Swindle, Certified Public Accountants, presented the annual audit, saying that the city was in good financial condition and complimented city employees for their controls and cooperation.

The city ended the fiscal year with a fund balance of $753,963, compared to $592,124 for the previous year.

The council approved the first reading of an ordinance to establish a fund for fire fighters, in place of paying premiums for workmen's comp.

Lino DeLeon and Steve Kennedy of the Post Lions Club requested members of the council to participate in the Lions Club planned March 9 pancake supper. "We are asking you to help us serve pancakes," DeLeon said, "we do the cooking, you just serve...whatever amount of time you can contribute." McCrary encouraged council members to join in supporting the local club's efforts.

City code enforcement officer Delbert Rudd briefed the council on the status of standard housing, listing a variety of properties either scheduled for condemnation or in the process. Those properties included structures at 204 N. Ave. I, 309 W. 13th, 315 Henry St., 507 S. Ave. H, 502 W. 6th, 202 W. 11th, 510 Ralls Rd., 215 W. 14th and 402 W. 13th.

City manager Bob Turner reminded the council that when the city agreed to the tax collection services of McCreary and Veselka of Austin, that the company assured the city that tax delinquent law suits would be a priority on the properties under consideration for condemnation. "To date there hasn't been any action on these," Turner added.

McCrary said he would place a telephone call to the legal firm to try to determine the status of the tax suit filings.

Attending the meeting were council members Larry Mills, Jim Schooler, Dan Lamb, Larry Waldrip and Irene Fry, Mayor McCrary, city manager Bob Turner, Yvonne Kennedy and Morton.

USDA issues five percent cotton acreage reduction

Secretary of Agriculture Clayton Yeutter has announced a five percent acreage reduction program (ARP) for the 1991 crop of upland cotton. This compares with a 12.5 percent reduction for the 1990 crop and 13 accidents with no injuries reported during icy road conditions here last week

"It could have been really a lot worse," Garza County Sheriff Freddy Cockrell said, "but in each of the accidents we investigated, all the occupants of the vehicles were wearing seat belts."

Beginning Thursday evening, January 5, roads and highways across the South Plains were covered with "black ice," a thin coating of freezing rain and drizzle, that created extremely hazardous conditions for motorists.

Garza County Sheriff's department officers and Texas Department of Public Safety troopers responded to a total of 13 accidents through Friday evening, and although several involved vehicle rollovers, there were no injuries.

"We believe the fact that these people were all wearing seat belts was what saved them from injury," Cockrell added.

Most of the accidents Friday were on a stretch of U.S. Highway 84 south of Post, and the notorious curve north of Post on U.S. Highway 84 near the Pleasant Valley turnoff.

Warmer air crept into the area Saturday and Sunday, and, except for foggy conditions, traveling was considered smooth through the remainder of the weekend.

is in keeping with an earlier recommendation by the National Cotton Council which represents all segments of the U.S. cotton industry.

The Secretary also announced an advance deficiency payment of 4 cents/pound which represents 40 percent of the projected 10 cent total deficiency payment for the 1991 crop. The law requires the Secretary to make an advance payment of 30 percent to 50 percent of the projected deficiency payment for the year.

The reduction percentage is keyed to a provision of 1990 farm law that requires the Secretary to set the ARP at a level that allows the carryover of upland cotton at the end of the 1991 season to be equal to 30 percent of total upland offtake for the season. The law forbids the ARP to exceed 25 percent.

"Stating the carryover target as a stocks-to-use ratio permits the target to rise and fall with the expected level of total domestic and export demand for U.S. cotton," said Dr Mark Lange, the Council's director of Economic Services. "The higher the level of demand, the more stocks you need to bridge the gap between seasons."

This is the first year the stocks-to-use ratio was used to calculate the acreage reduction program for cotton. Under the Food Security Act of 1985, the carryover target was fixed at 4 million bales. The Secretary is confronted with a difficult job in trying to hit a carryover target, regardless of whether it is a fixed number or a variable number keyed to offtake.

"Remember," Lange said, "the target the Secretary is trying to hit is the stock level on July 31, 1992. That's 19 months from the date he must make his final ARP announcement."

Lange said if any one of several variables across the 19 months differs slightly from the Secretary's projections, the carryover target will be missed.

"To hit the target, his projections have to be right for domestic and export demand, for acreage planted to cotton and for yield," Lange said.

The assignment is further complicated by new flexibility rules expected to result in a net increase in acreage planted to cotton in 1991.

Council President Tommy Funk said the new procedure, which was a cotton industry recommendation, "is an attempt to do a better job of managing supply at a level adequate to meet domestic and export demand without adverse price consequences. We don't want supply to be so tight that price restrict demand. Nor do we want a supply so large that prices are depressed and program costs soar."

The Harlingen, Texas producer said the variable carryover level embodied in the stocks-to-use ratio is in harmony with the industry's general goal of market orientation in farm policy.

"While demand can be expected to fluctuate, as it always has, we think the outlook is good for long-term growth in global demand for cotton," Funk said, "and if our supply is adequate and our price is competitive we fully expect U.S. cotton to participate in that growth."

Economic impact of arts dollars in Post estimated at almost $1 million

by Wes Burnett
A total of $137,610.41 in total arts dollars produced an economic impact of $963,272.87 for the fiscal year 1989-90 in Post, according to a recent report compiled by the Caprock Cultural Association's JoAnn Mock.

"We are elated at the completed figures, which reveal an unprecedented increase of 50 percent in one year," Mock said.

She emphasized that the one year increase was more than the total combined of the previous five years of 1984 through 1989.

"Considering this growth," Mock added, "we believe that the arts development in Post will produce an economic impact of more than $3.5 million at the end of fiscal year 1990-91."

The total of arts dollars for the previous five years was $409,920.91, which generated an estimated $2,869,446.37 economic impact.

"The 1990-91 figures do not take into account the successful Rendezvous of the Arts and the One Man Art Show events this fall as well as the fall productions at the Garza Theatre," Mock said.

Details of the study are available at the Caprock Cultural Association office in the Algeria Arts Center.

Cosmetics May Cause or Aggravate Acne

Acne is the most common skin problem. This condition is characterized by skin lesions such as nodules, whiteheads, and blackheads. By the mid-teens, most boys and girls experience some form of acne. In one study of 1,555 young people from 8 to 18 years old, one-half of the girls and over three-fourths of the boys had acne severe enough to require medical treatment.

Many women do not have acne until their 20s or 30s. Some have noticed that acne may be aggravated by different cosmetic products. Skin specialists call this condition acne cosmetica. Cosmetics can inflame hair follicles, which can lead to formation of pus-filled nodules in the skin. Some cosmetics have less tendency to cause acne-related problems than do others. Check cosmetic labels to see if they are "noncomedogenic and nonacnegenic."

According to a recent article in Pharmacy Times, coal tar and the halogenated hydrocarbons are known to cause or aggravate acne. And it is thought that some oil-base cosmetics seal the surface of the skin, clogging the pores. Water-base cosmetics may be best for women with oily skin.

Woman's Culture Club

by Katharine Cathcart

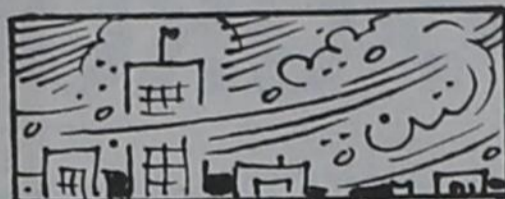

The Woman's Culture Club met Wednesday, December 12, at 2 p.m. in the home of Ruby Kirkpatrick, with Dorace Wilson as co-hostess. Dr James Bell spoke on "Volunteerism and Leadership in America." He stated that in doing research on the subject he found 90 books on volunteerism and discovered that there are three million volunteer groups in the United States: hospitals, schools, women's groups, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, men's service organizations, just to mention a few. He stated that America is unique and fortunate to be blessed with this spirit of volunteerism. It is the lifeblood of this nation. We are the only nation in the world to have volunteerism. Other nations seem to have a mindset for "fatedness," or "turn-in-wardness," or have a helpless resignation for carrying their own burden.

During the refreshment hour members told how they planned to spend the Christmas holidays. Delicious refreshments were served to Dr Bell and to club members: Joyce Strubhart, Barbara Hardin, Peggy Ellis, Jan Crawford, Ruth Hall, Iva Hudman, Buena Bouchier, Lillian Potts, Maxine Earl, Donna Craig, Nona Lusk, Isabel Stelzer, Dorace Wilson, Ruby Kirkpatrick, and Katharine Cathcart. The next meeting will be Wednesday, January 9, at 2 p.m., in the Woman's Clubhouse, with hostesses Doll Haire and Joyce Strubhart.

Billions available for home repair, grants and subsidized loans

Most homeowners are unaware that regardless of their income there are Federal, state and local programs that will help them repair and remodel their homes.

Government at all levels recognizes that neighborhoods are the basis of life in our country. When a neighborhood deteriorates, many things happen both physically and socially. Homes that are shabby seem to make a neighborhood more attractive to crime and criminals. An area in decline is like a spreading cancer. As homes become rundown and in need of maintenance, the residents lose their desire to keep up the neighborhood. Streets become receptacles for trash, schools lower their standards and very quickly the selling price of homes in the area drops sharply. This accelerates the cycle of degeneration.

In order to keep and maintain the nation's housing and neighborhoods, government at all levels have programs to give homeowners money (that does not have to be repaid) for repairs or to lend them money at below market levels or at no interest. In many areas utility companies will do energy conservation work free or at low cost and in other places will lend homeowners money at no interest to pay the contractor of their choice for the necessary work. In addition there are tax incentives to promote efficient energy use.

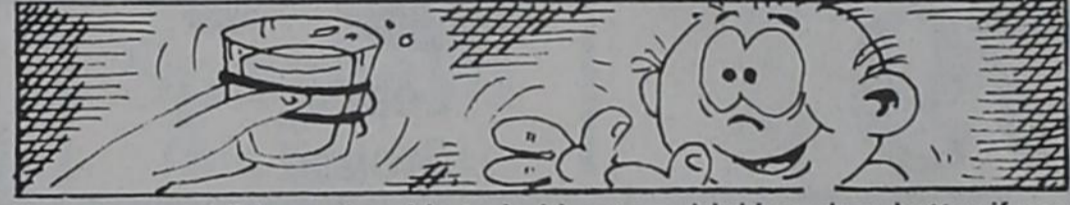

These programs are not restricted to low-income people, slum areas or urban neighborhoods. Owners of single or multi-family dwellings are eligible for some programs regardless of income. Most of the loans offer long terms and low payments.

Some of the other home improvements covered under these programs are: attic and wall insulation, new windows, outerwall siding, security doors and locks, window guards, sidewalks and masonry work, bathrooms and kitchens, electrical and plumbing work, new roofs, gutters or downspouts.

Consumer Education Research Center, a national non-profit consumer group, has just published 'Consumers Guide to Home Repair Grants and Subsidized Loans', a 208-page book which lists over 8,500 sources of loan and grant programs offered by all levels of government, utility companies and others, typical programs offered and eligibility requirements. Form letters for inquiries to these loan and grant sources are included as well as detailed instructions on determining your debt-to-income ratio for eligibility. The book can be obtained for $10.95 plus $2 shipping and handling from CERC GRANTS, 350 Scotland Road, Orange, N.J. 07050 or by calling 1-800-USA-0121 for credit card order.

Robert L. Berko of CERC, tells us, "Some of these programs have no income ceiling and others allow income of as much as $100,000 per year. There are even programs for which tenants are eligible and many allow loans or give grants to poor credit risks. One of the authors of this book received a $5,000 N.J. grant plus a $4,000 interest free loan from his utility company. In many areas, people with disabilities can receive grants to pay for needed repairs such as access ramps and widening of doorways."

Since it is important that the work be done properly, the book describes in detail how to pick a reputable contractor, negotiate a contract and insure that work is done properly and for a fair price.

STATE CAPITAL

HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — Embattled House Speaker Gib Lewis, facing two indictments for misdemeanor ethics violations, entered an innocent plea and is expected to be elected to a history-making fifth term this week.

Meanwhile, the district attorney pursuing Lewis said his probe is widening to include other legislators and lobbyists.

Travis County District Attorney Ronnie Earle also warned reporters that he fears Lewis and his lieutenants will cut state funding for his Public Integrity Unit which investigates state officials.

He can certainly bet that some lawmakers will question his use of state funds to produce two misdemeanor indictments against the speaker in the eleventh hour of his re-election.

Earle has aired some tantalizing accusations, but whether or not Lewis is guilty, Earle's timing smacks of partisan politics, too.

No Opponent in Sight

The prime obstacle to Lewis' re-election never materialized: an opponent who officially filed for the speaker's race with the Texas secretary of state.

Several names have surfaced as successors should Lewis step

This Week In History

On January 8, 1815, some 5,300 British soldiers, unaware of the peace treaty, attacked U.S. entrenchments near New Orleans, resulting in over 2,000 casualties for the British and 71 for the Americans ...

January 13, 1908, a major fire broke out in Rhoads Theater in Boyertown, Pa., resulting in 170 deaths ...

January 13, 1915, a major earthquake hit Avezano, Italy, killing 29,980 people and measuring 7.5 on the Richter scale ...

January 11, 1973, five of seven defendants in the Watergate break-in trial pleaded guilty ...

January 13, 1977, an Air Florida Boeing 737 crashed into the Potomac River after takeoff, killing 78 people ...

January 13, 1978, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.), 66, lost his battle with cancer after 32 years of public service, including four years as vice-president of the United States ...

January 8, 1982, the 13-year-old lawsuit against AT&T by the Justice Dept. was settled wherein AT&T agreed to give up the 22 Bell System companies but, in return, was allowed to expand into previously prohibited areas including data processing, telephone and computer equipment sales, and computer communication devices.

down, but all are his inner circle; as of last week, no real threat was in sight and he has the loyalty of much of the House.

Why the hit on Lewis? Certainly ethics restrictions must be drawn tighter. But as to the political motives, many believe there's much more at stake here than ethics reform.

Redistricting, Income Tax

Although he's a Democrat, party purists do not consider Lewis one of them because he has always given Republicans their share of leadership roles in the House.

And in this redistricting year, the liberals still remember all too well how ten years ago Lewis' predecessor, then-Democrat Bill Clayton, helped draw district lines which gave the GOP over one-third of the House seats.

Remember, Clayton was indicted during the 80s redistricting wars in the Brillab sting, then acquitted, and his supporters, Gib Lewis among them, thought the indictment was a deliberate set-up.

Though not as conservative as House Republicans would like, Lewis is still regarded as a closed-door to such liberal programs as a state income tax, increased education funding, and expanded membership on numerous state boards to provide for minority appointments.

Yes, Texas politics is a contact sport.

Officials Sworn In

Easterners who think Texas is dragging its heels through history might take a look at the "firsts" among the officials sworn into office last week.

Prominent among them are Dan Morales, first Hispanic to become attorney general; Texas Court of Criminal Appeals Justice Morris Overstreet, first black elected statewide; State Treasurer Kay Bailey Hutchison, first woman Republican elected statewide; and Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry, the first Republican elected to that office.

Term Limits Proposed

Supporters of a nationwide camaign to limit lawmakers' terms in office launched a campaign to let Texas voters decide the issue.

The effort, headed by unsuccessful lieutenant governor candidate Rob Mosbacher Jr., will seek a constitutional amendment limiting all statewide elected officials and senators — both state and federal — to two terms.

Gov.-elect Ann Richards has said she supports term limitations and Lt. Gov.-elect Bob Bullock has indicated he would favor a limit.

Speaker Lewis apparently does not. "Recent experience is that about 20 percent of the House members turn over every two years, and that's already an effective term limitation," said John Bender, his press secretary.

Arco Fined $3.48 Million

The Occupational Safety and Health Administration announced that Arco Chemical Co. has agreed to pay a fine of $3.48 million for safety violations related to the explosion that killed 17 workers at the company's plant in Channelview, a Houston suburb.

The company also agreed to put in place worker-safety programs at its four plants across the country in what agency officials said could be a model for the petrochemical industry.

Despite its decision to pay the fine, Arco stopped short of accepting blame for the accident. "In our agreeing to pay, we have not agreed with all the citations, but feel it is in the interest of everyone concerned," said the company's president, John G. Johnson Jr.
