Divided council calls for hiring local attorney

Mills calls action "a joke"

by Wes Burnett
Calling the vote on a motion to hire a local attorney "a joke," Post city council member Larry Mills told fellow council members Monday night that they were voting "without knowing what you're voting for," and "this is a railroad job if I ever saw one."
The motion, submitted by council member Jimmy Holleman, called for "hiring a local attorney," but did not explain why 20 year veteran city attorney Harvey Morton was to be relieved of duties.
Council member Jim Schooler tried to clear the air on the motion by pointing out "that the way this sounds, if we vote for this, we are immediately firing Harvey, is that what you meant, Jimmy?"
"I just want us to have a local man, one we can go see when we want to," Holleman responded.
"Mr Holleman," Morton calmly explained, "you were elected to serve on the city council with a form of government that does not give you the authority to talk directly on city business to the attorney, that responsibility rests with the city manager."
"I guess I will if I want to," Holleman shot back.
"If every council member goes directly to the attorney, can you imagine the chaos, not to mention the cost to the taxpayers?" Morton answered.
"Well, I don't know about cost," Holleman retorted, "but I can see this man on the street and just get advice like that."
"Surely," Morton replied, "you would not ask your attorney to provide advice without payment for his services."
"Well, he'll know about that when he takes the job," Holleman continued.
Schooler pointed out that hiring should not be based solely on being from Post, "we should really be sure who we hire is qualified, not just because they live here."
Mills attempted to raise questions about the motion, and said he thought the timing was not right. He suggested to Holleman that "this looks like a done deal." When Mills later made another attempt to explain his objection to the motion, Holleman said he was not interested in hearing any more from Mills.
"In other words, you've made up your mind already?" Mills answered.
Holleman shook his head from side to side and Mayor Jim Jackson suggested an amendment to the motion for a proposal from local attorneys.
When I requested a clarification of the motion and its amendment as proposed by the mayor, Holleman said "why bother, you can't get it right." I responded by saying, "I'd sure like to try," to which Holleman responded in a threatening tone, "you'd better get it right this time!"
Local attorney S. Rafe Foreman, who said he was called a few minutes before the meeting requesting his attendance, was asked by Jackson, "do you understand the motion?"
Foreman said he wasn't sure, but it appeared to him that the council should put in writing what it expects of its city attorney, and that local attorneys might be interested in seeking the position. He said that no one would want to take a job that has no defined duties.

Jackson called for a vote on the motion and amendment to the motion, which still was not clearly stated, but implying that the council would take action to hire a local attorney after preparing a job description.
Council members Maxine Conoly, who had seconded the motion, Holleman, Dan Lamb and Schooler voted yes, Mills voted no.
The action set no timetable for the transition and no designation was made for preparing a job description.
I asked Morton following the meeting if he is still the city attorney, and he said he thought so.
The whole episode was shabby and improper as well as out of order. The item "discussion of city attorney position" was not an action item. The attitude shown Mr Morton was, in my opinion, an embarrassment for the city of Post, especially considering his 20 years of service to the city.
It also appeared that the motion and the vote were prearranged, with hints that more than two council members may have discussed the issue outside of the open meetings act.
In other action, the council made no decision on choosing one of three engineering firm proposals for preparing the application for opening an additional 35 acres for a new landfill adjacent to the current facility. Proposals were received from Parkhill, Smith and Cooper; Enreco and Oller Engineering, Parkhill, Smith and Cooper representative Butch Davis and Enreco's Ches Carthel made personal presentations.
Jackson said that the decision on which firm to choose would be made at a work session Thursday, July 9.
The work session will include a joint meeting with the county commissioners to discuss jointly funded operations.
Jackson told the council that attempts to catch dogs using the bounty method weren't working, and suggested that city employees who have volunteered to do the job after hours be allowed to perform the duties.
Mills asked if there wouldn't be an overtime problem, using city employees.
Jackson said that since they would "be on contract basis, being paid a bounty, they would not be considered on duty for the city."
Morton pointed out that contract status is very complicated and specific and that the city might have difficulty using its own employees in off-duty work such as this, especially if city vehicles were to be used.
Jackson requested Morton to review the situation and let city manager Bob Turner know what could be done.
Turner provided a detailed, line by line discussion of known expenses for the budget and requested council members to study the various options for revenue increases needed to maintain services.
Attending the meeting were council members Conoly, Holleman, Lamb, Schooler, Mills, Mayor Jackson, city manager Turner, city secretary Wanda Wilkerson and city attorney Morton.

Redistricting committee airs five plans

Members of the City of Post redistricting committee, chaired by Marion Cruse, presented five plans for citizen review at the public hearing Monday evening, held at the Holy Cross Catholic Church.
Seven citizens attended the hearing, along with committee members Cruse, Noah Gutierrez, Margaret Barley, Lois Cook, Victor Ashley, Robert Lopez and Thessa Harp.
City employee Delbert Rudd and city attorney Harvey Morton also attended the meeting.
All five plans provide for five individual voting wards, divided generally into northeast, northwest, central, southwest and southeast quadrants.
The northeast and southeast districts provide for 60 to 70 plus percent minority populations, an attempt to meet the U.S. Justice Department's goal of offering "safe" voting districts for minorities.
Cruse explained that although the state law requires cities the size of Post to elect two representatives from each district, the committee will present the single member district plan of five council members as its recommendation, "and let the court decide if this is okay," Cruse said.
Local attorney Pat Walker expressed opposition to the plans, saying that the higher percentages of minorities appear to be "packing", and thus diluting the ability of minorities' voting rights.
A discussion of this topic and the committee's desire to provide all minorities the best possible chance to elect "one of their own" to office did not appease Walker, who insisted that the only resolution he could see would be to create seven districts.
He was invited to prepare a seven member district plan for consideration by the committee in 10 days.
One citizen complained that no matter what happens, "blacks will not have much of a chance, hispanics still dominate."
Cruse pointed out that with only seven percent of the population fitting the category of black, "it is just not possible to carve out a safe district and still maintain the required population balance between each district."
Gutierrez asked if it is not possible for blacks to be properly represented by a hispanic or vice-versa. "Yes," the citizen answered, "it depends on who is running."
"That's the way it is all across town," Lopez said, "the quality of the candidates is always the deciding factor."
Walker agreed to prepare a plan for seven districts and the committee will hold another public hearing to review the plans within 10 days.
Other members of the committee are Linda Hernandez and Irene Ammons.

'A Harley Sadler Show' opens July 16

In a salute to one of West Texas' most popular personalities, the beloved tent show entertainer Harley Sadler, this summer the Garza Theatre will offer "A Harley Sadler Show" 14 times, Thursdays through Sundays beginning July 16 and continuing through August 8.
Although Harley Sadler's shows were presented in tents, the Garza will once again re-create the old-fashioned "under the canvas" atmosphere within the theatre building.
Starring in the show will be area favorites Christy Morris, Bill Lanier, David LeMaster, Alison Hoefler, David Weaver Jr., Cheri Brooks, Mike Toombs, Shelly Knight and Michael Sommermeyer.
Evening performances begin promptly at 7:45 and Sunday matinees at 2 p.m. The fun begins one-half hour before showtime with a musical concert inside the theatre, featuring the Garza's own live "Harley Sadler Band."

"A Harley Sadler Show" features the three act comic-melodrama, "Too Poor to Paint, Too Proud to Whitewash." The character, "Lunk", a red-headed, freckle faced run down country farm boy, was one of Sadler's most famous roles.
During the first intermission, Harley Sadler's fast-paced candy sale will be re-created. Each candy package will include "West Texas salt-water taffy" with prizes in many of the packages.
Also during the two intermissions, the band will continue its concert and accompany the on-stage vaudeville acts.
For reservations or additional information, call the Garza Theatre box office at 495-4005. The box office is open Monday through Friday 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Saturdays 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.
Tickets are $7 for adults and $4 for students ages six to 12 years old.

Fourth in the Park is a blast

by Michael Stearns
The Fourth of July celebration in the park this year was greeted by warm temperatures and smiling faces. The park was filled with booths of various kinds sponsored by the different civic organizations in Post. Everything from hamburgers smoked to perfection to snow cones of every type (including something called wildcats blood) could be found in the park.
The festivities began at noon but the crowds really started arriving in the late afternoon in anticipation of the fireworks display over the lake. "The attendance was down some this year because of the holiday falling on a Saturday", said Chamber Secretary Dru Ann Laws. "The crowds were good though and the event well attended", she added.

The highlight of the day came as dusk settled over the park and the Volunteer Fire Department prepared to light the fireworks. The crowd was dazzled by the continuing display of various skyrockets exploding against the night sky with bursts of color. The crowd delighted to the fifteen to twenty minute display provided by the Post Chamber of Commerce.
The afternoon events included various competition at the city pool. Swimming contests were held in different age groups. In the 4-7 age class, Samantha Lawrence finished first, Jared Tucks, who was visiting from San Antonio, finished second, and Sheenette Sanchez came in third.

Raymond Perez won the 8-12 age bracket, Olga Torres finished second and Vondi Gradine came in third. Jay Williams won the Gold medal in the 13-16 age group. Elijah McElroy won silver and Tammy Mathis captured bronze. Medals were given to the top three finishers in each age bracket.

The pool also sponsored a goldfish catching contest. The little pool was filled with goldfish and the little kids then went in after them. Anyone catching a goldfish received a free pass to the pool for every fish caught. The crew filled the big pool then and let the older kids try to catch the fish in deeper waters.

Kamdon Baker, Manuel Saucedo, Zachary Lopez, and Stephanie Martinez all caught one fish each. Matt Cooper, Jamie Hernandez, Roy Soto, and John Paul Hernandez caught one apiece also. Sheenette Sanchez was the only swimmer who managed to capture two of the slippery goldfish.

The event in the park which drew the most attention was the date raffle held by Los Mexicanos Unidos. The booth featured open bidding starting at five dollars for the "hunk of your choice". The bidding was fast and furious and all the guys participating had dates by the end of the evening. Reports on the romances for dollars should be interesting.

"We take care of problems before you even know they're there!"

Larry King
Central Office Manager

You may not even know when your phone line goes dead. Because, if you're a GTE customer, chances are the line wasn't dead long enough for you to find out.

There are lots of reasons why your phone could suddenly go dead. It could be a frayed cable, or it could be a curious squirrel. Whatever it is, our 4-Tel* computer monitoring system immediately has identified the problem by remote control and, if necessary, has dispatched a GTE technician to the actual site of the break.

In other words, we're fixing the problem before it becomes a problem. And chances are, you'll never know your line was dead.

Our computer system doesn't wait for things to happen. By looking for potential problems before they happen, we can often repair them before you even become aware of them.

Because we know you value your telephone service by what you get. And that's why we at GTE are committed to making sure you get dial tone the first time you pick up the receiver and a ring each time someone tries to call you -- any time of the day or night.

You see, at GTE, it's not just communications we offer. We offer solutions. And just because there's a break in your phone line doesn't mean you have to hear about it.

THE POWER IS ON

Sherry Haire attends training workshop

Southland I.S.D. trustee Sherry Haire attended a school board member training workshop June 2nd at the Region 17 Education Service Center, which was in keeping with her acceptance of responsibility to being a school board member.

Training at this workshop included governance issues, ethics of being a board member, update of school finance, and a session on site-based decision making. This workshop was sponsored by the Service Center, Texas Association of Administrators, and the Texas Association of School Boards, to bring the most recent information on school practices to school board members in this region.

This workshop was the first joint effort of the three organizations to provide such training at the regional level. This effort provided the opportunity for trustees to earn credit toward the 20 hours required training of all school board members during their first year of service. This required training is part of the Statewide Standards for School Board Members, a document of The Texas Education Agency, which provides guidelines for the operation of all school boards in Texas.

Sherry Haire has been a Southland resident 40 years and has twin sons, Jason and Justin, who will be juniors at our secondary school next year. We welcomed Sherry to our school board May 11, 1992, after her first campaign for the seat.

Letters to the Editor

Letters to the editor policy:

Letters to the editor are encouraged and invited. Letters may be edited for brevity. Letters which are deemed slanderous or libelous will be rejected. Letters must be signed, but the name may be withheld from publication if requested.

I have been gone from Post since 1962.

I would like to correspond with all members of the graduating class of Post High School for 1955.

Gerald E. Bradley
208 Garvin Dr
Centerville, Ga 31028

Dear Editor:

This letter is written to express our sincerest appreciation to the people of Post who so warmly responded to us during our quest to find our little lost cat.

On June 1, 1992 our cat accidentally escaped from the far of a friend who was taking him to my daughter in Austin. Our friend tried in vain to find him but had to travel on to Austin without him. Needless to say, my daughter, as well as the rest of our family was devastated. She called the City Hall in Post, the local vet, the radio station and the newspaper. Everyone was extremely kind and sympathetic and offered to help her in whatever way they could. The week went by and we received no calls that he had been found.

On Saturday June 6 I was determined and a bundle of fliers I set out for Post. Once there I posted fliers and canvassed the neighborhood and surrounding area talking to everyone I could find, explaining my mission. To a one, I was treated with the greatest kindness and expressions of concern and desire to help.

The ending to this story is indeed a joyous one as I did in fact find our little grey and white cat refuged in an abandoned building in the same area that he was lost.

We are grateful for this happy ending but would be remiss not to express our gratitude and appreciation to the wonderful people of Post who graciously opened their hearts to us and unselfishly offered their assistance. We'll be forever mindful of this thoughtfulness.

Fondly,
Mary C. Smith

P.S. We have added a new name to our rescued little cat and now fondly refer to him as the "Postman."

also drew a large crowd. The calf was delivered by three in the afternoon and everyone waited in anticipation for the grand event. The crowd waited and waited some more as the calf was content to keep the crowd in suspense. The big moment came after two and a half hours of waiting and landed in an empty square. The Theatre became the beneficiary of the calf's efforts. The second chance drawing was won by Bobby Williams. He will receive two tickets to an upcoming Garza Theatre production and a nights stay at the new Hotel Garza Bed and Breakfast.

The event was enjoyed by all who attended. Chamber Secretary Dru Ann Laws gave a word of thanks to the city for their work in preparation of the event. She also stated that the Volunteer Fire Department did a wonderful job with the fireworks display.

This Ann That...

by Ann Nobles, CEA-HE

People home-can foods for many reasons. Those often cited including saving money, eating healthier food and knowing what's in the food or to can for special diets and for personal satisfaction.

For those who also enjoy gardening or producing their own, it often becomes a way to relax and gives a sense of pride to enjoy or share with others the bounty of their efforts.

But does home canning really save money?

A study done at Pennsylvania State University found that home canners could save half the cost of buying commercially canned foods only if they produced their own garden vegetables and fruits and discounted the value of their labor.

If produce is bought at farmer's markets, roadside stands or pick-your-own operations, the home-canned items would cost about the same as similar canned items in the supermarket, particularly those on sale.

And of course, the initial costs of purchasing necessary equipment must be considered by the "new" home canner.

Basically, however, of the three major methods of preservation, canning is the least expensive followed by drying, then freezing.

Is home canned food more nutritious than commercially canned food?

The answer may depend on how the produce is handled between harvest and canning.

Select produce that is not damaged, bruised or wilted, since rough handling leads to vitamin loss.

Choose dark green, orange or yellow fruits and vegetables.

They are the highest in beta-carotene which has been associated with lowering cancer risk.

In many cases, vegetables begin to lose vitamins immediately after harvest.

As many as half of the vitamins may be lost within a few days unless produce is cooled or preserved.

Even refrigerated produce loses many vitamins within a week or two.

To maintain maximum nutrient content, a good practice is to rush vegetables from "vine to jar," work only with quantities you can handle quickly and refrigerate what you can't preserve and use or can as soon as possible.

In commercial canning, produce is quickly canned to address this problem. The advantages of home canning may be lessened when poor quality foods are used.

Canning does not improve the quality of foods.

Also prolonged storage can decrease quality, flavor, texture, color and nutrients.

For best quality retention, store in a cool, dark, dry place and use within a year.

The heating process during canning does destroy some of vitamins A, C, thiamin and riboflavin.

Once canned, additional losses of these are from five to 20 percent a year.

Is home canning worth it?

It depends. TAEX/USDA provides extensive information on the subject of food preservation, most of which is currently available at the County Extension Office.

If you were unable to pick up the publications from the Home Economics Information Center at United Supermarket last Thursday and need this information, please contact me at 495-2050 or come by the office.

The information is free of charge and I'll be happy to find answers to specific questions you may have also.

Puncturevine weevil orders being taken

County residents with a Puncturevine problem have an opportunity to order Puncturevine weevils.

The Puncturevine, more commonly known as goat heads, have become a problem for farmers, ranchers and homeowners in recent years and the Puncturevine Weevil may be just the thing to help get some measure of non-chemical control on these plants.

Interested folks can now order these weevils for personal use. The deadline to order weevils will be July 6, 1992.

The cost will be $12 per hundred with an average of 250 weevils per carton.

The weevils will be shipped directly to purchasers via overnight mail in mid-July.

Although some control of goat head weeds will be achieved this year, the biggest control will not be seen until next summer.

Individuals who order these weevils will receive two basic kinds of weevils in each carton.

One type of weevil feeds on the stems of the plants and the second type feeds on the seeds (stickers) of the plant.

Although it is almost impossible for the average person to tell the weevils apart, it is important to know how these insects help control the weeds.

In order to place an order for the weevils, interested residents need to call the extension office at 495-2050 by noon this Friday, July 10.

Make certain to give us your name, mailing address, phone number and the number of weevils you wish to order.

A bill will be included with individual orders of weevils when they arrive and payment is then made directly to the breeder.

This type of program has been tried on the South Plains in recent years. During the first two or three years of the program, control of the goat head was very effective.

However, due to winter loss and depletion of weevil numbers, the unwanted weeds have started a comeback - thus the new offering of weevils.

For residents with Puncturevine problem this appears to be an inexpensive means of possible control, but remember, we are under a pretty tight time frame so order by the deadline.

Local teachers attend 'Think and Learn' workshops

by JoAnn Mock

A total of 13 Post and two Southland elementary teachers will attend the Texas Arts Council's "Think and Learn" teacher workshops at the Region 17 Education Service Center during the month of July.

The workshops will help teachers inspire students for learning through the excitement and vitality of the arts.

Bettye Dawson, a Bay City teacher, reports that the program has enhanced the classroom experience for her students.

"I've seen dependent, robot-like kids turn into independent, logical, creative students, reaching their full potential and using all of their senses, from head to toes," she says.

"I'm getting good readers, we are writing songs, stories and journals. Not only reading, but doing research and active participation.

"They use dictionaries and thesauruses, not only at school, but at home too.

"These are first graders," she added.

Attendance figures are higher and parents become more interested in their children's schooling.

Teachers attending the workshops this year are Norma Gafford, Patricia Hammond, Cres Merrell, Alexa Collier, Mary Lynn Bell, Crystal Greer, Peggy Ashley, Kathy Fluitt, D'Ann Bishop, Debra Webb, Dean Basinger, Serena Voss, Cathy Courtney, Tyra Raspberry and Linda Puckett.

Ten of the teachers signed up for the "Basic Connection" workshop, six for the "Language Arts" and one for the "Math/Science" workshops.

The teachers will receive 30 hours of AAT credit and three are working toward graduate credits.

The local program was developed by the Caprock Cultural Association (CCA) with the assistance of the Texas Arts Council.

Total funding of the project by generous contributions made the workshops available and free to our teachers.

Join us in expressing appreciation to the following for their interest in the educational needs of our youth:

The Post ISD, John B. Malouf, Mr and Mrs Ray J. Diekemper Jr., the Texas Commission on the Arts, United Supermarkets, First National Bank of Post, Chaparral Steak House and Jackson Bros. Meat Packers.

The South Plains Education Chapter of the Texas Arts Council (SPEC-TACular) also received funding and services from the following firms benefiting the workshops:

West Texas Industries, Dillard's, NTS, Caprock Business Forms, Plains National Bank, Wal-Mart and Region 17 Education Service Center.

The workshops are a continuation of the CCA sponsored pilot project that began with the "Hispanic Heritage" presentations last April.

Very positive comments from teachers about these cultural programs are best expressed by Connie Flores, ESI, Pre kindergarten through eighth grade:

"The materials, ideas and concepts presented were very beneficial to each student.

"The question-answer strengthened thinking skills and they were held accountable for responses, rapport was excellent and involvement was the key to the program's success.

"This will help all students in their academic courses," Flores added.

Teachers said the students were still singing the songs and telling the stories weeks after the program.

They appreciated the help in opening the doors to new discussions and establishing more self-esteem among Hispanic students and more understanding of cultural connections among all students.

D'Ann Bishop expressed the feelings of fellow teachers by saying, "Super program, bring on more."

A total of 17 Post elementary school teachers participated in the teacher survey.

Senior All-Stars survive game 1 Tahoka throws scare into Post before falling 13-12

by Michael Stearns

The Post Senior League All-stars opened the Area 4 District 2 playoffs with a win at their home park Monday night. It was the win that almost wasn't.

Post pounded Tahoka pitcher Gerald Cantu for 11 runs in the first four innings building a 11-6 lead. Cantu finally got some fielding help in the final three innings and Tahoka was able to come back and take the lead before falling in the bottom of the seventh.

It looked like Post would have no trouble at all with the visitors from Lynn County. Post batted around in the bottom of the first in route to scoring five runs. Bodie Simpson led the first inning attack with a triple hit through the centerfielder's legs to bring home two runs. Raymond Garza, David Perez, and Tori Harper all added hits in the first inning explosion. Post had the advantage after one, 5-0.

Raymond Garza's two run homer over left center provided the scoring punch for Post in the second inning. Garza got a hold of a Cantu fast ball and hit a line drive that stayed ten feet off the ground all the way to the fence.

Tahoka struck back in the top of the third. Armondo Ayala had a stretch of wildness and walked the first three men he faced in the top of the inning. Raymond Garza dropped a called third strike that allowed the first Tahoka run. Then the Tahoka bats took over.

Two singles by Mike Rodriguez and Chris Rodriguez drove in the final two runs of the inning bringing Tahoka within two, 7-5.

Post responded with one in the bottom half of the inning and then put three runs on the board in the fourth to lead 11-6. Tori Harper had the big blow in the rally, driving in two runs with a double to left in the fourth inning.

Then Cantu settled down on the mound and the Tahoka bats came to life. Tahoka put together four straight singles for two runs to narrow the Post lead to 11-8. Then they chased Ayala from the mound in the sixth, touching the pitcher for three singles and two runs. Bodie Simpson came on in relief but before he could get out of the inning, two more came across to give Tahoka their first lead of the game 12-11.

After Cantu got out of the bottom of the sixth with a bases loaded strikeout, Bodie Simpson took to the mound. Simpson retired the side in order striking out two Tahoka batters and only throwing 10 pitches.

Post still trailed 12-11 in the bottom of the seventh. Justin Terry led off the inning with a single up the middle. Simpson then helped his pitching effort with a mammoth shot to the fence in center field when the dust cleared, Simpson was standing at third with his second triple of the evening and the game was knotted up 12-12.

After a fly out, a strikeout, and a walk and a steal by Oscar Acevedo, Tori Harper came to the plate. With two men in scoring position, Tori hit a sharp grounder to third which Tahoka's Edward Rodriguez was unable to handle. Simpson scored and the Post boys had their first victory in post-season play.

Play continues this week at Nichols Park with game time every night at 7 pm. Post faces Slaton Tuesday with the winner advancing to the championship game Thursday night. The loser plays Tahoka on Wednesday for the right to advance to the championship. The tournament is a double elimination event, so there is a possible game scheduled Friday.

Little League All-stars win first playoff contest

by Michael Stearns

The Post All-stars came into Monday night's opening tournament game a little nervous and a lot excited. After all, they were to face Tahoka on their home field with a vocal crowd rooting for their opponent.

It looked for a while like the Post boys would not get untracked. Tahoka pitcher Courtney Bailey took command in the early going, striking out seven Post batsmen in four innings. After a scoreless first inning, Tahoka drew first blood on Eric Gandy's triple which drove in two runs for Tahoka. Travis Smith then singled Gandy home and Tahoka led 3-0.

Tahoka added a run in the third due to a costly throwing error and two walks. Anthony Flores then settled down and struck out the next two men he faced to get Post out of a potentially dangerous inning.

Post rallied in the bottom of the fourth for three runs to close the gap to one, 4-3. Anthony Flores led off with a walk and Jamie Hernandez singled to center. Steve Gonzales then hit a double bringing home both baserunners. Pete McElroy's single scored another run and chased Bailey from the mound.

Jose Luna, the new pitcher, struck out two to retire the threat for Tahoka.

Once threatened, the Tahoka team came out with a vengeance in the top of the fifth. Base hits by Stone, and DeLeon of Tahoka led to three runs to increase the Tahoka advantage to 7-3.

But the Post boys never gave up.

The Post defense then came out fired up in the top of the sixth. Anthony Flores struck out three in the inning with his high, hard fast ball. He only faced four batters in the inning, only allowing one on base.

It looked like Post would win it in the bottom of the sixth. T.J. Gaydos led off with a single up the middle on a hard hit ball, stole second, and advanced to third on a past ball. Gaydos couldn't score as he was left stranded by a questionable call in right field.

Right fielder Gene DeLeon made a shoetop catch of Sam Woods hit which many of the fans thought was trapped between the fielder glove and the outfield turf. Gaydos had to return to third and he was later thrown out a home on a bases loaded hit to the shortstop.
