Even when there were only two people left on the stage, it was a mystery as to "Ten Little Indians."

Another brilliant performance by veteran actress Alison Hoefler as 'Vera Claythorne', co-starring with David Rambo as the unnerved 'Capt. Philip Lombard, kept audiences guessing until the very end. As is the case with Christie's thrillers, the least likely suspect comes pouncing onto the stage in the final scene to shock the remaining cast as well as the flavor we've come to expect from the Garza Theatre.

In this production the dramatic closing was deftly offered by Bill Woodard as 'Sir Lawrence Wargrave.'

The play opened with Hotel Garza Bed and Breakfast inn-keeper Jim rescues 'Vera' and shoots the crazed jurist... Plummer, as 'Tom Rogers', calmly arranging the living room of a house on 'Indian Island' off the coast of Devon, England. Joining him on stage to set the of murder or killing.

The plot then unwound with the "bumping off" of the visitors in tune with 10 who did the killing in the recent Garza Theatre production of Agatha Christie's Indian figurines on the fireplace mantle, which was accompanied by the riddle, "Ten Little Indians ... now there are nine."

A noted jurist, 'Sir Lawrence Wargrave' takes charge of the investigation and begins an inquisition. He directs the visitors until he too apparently is killed. One by one the cast dwindles as they each mysteriously die.

Finally it gets down to the flamboyant 'Capt. Lombard' and 'Vera Claythorne'.

As they struggle with a pistol accusing each other of being the real murdered, Sir Lawrence Wargrave.'

Under the direction of our own Christy Morris, "Ten Little Indians" had all looking ever much dead, on the stage pounds 'Sir Lawrence' as he charges toward 'Vera'. They struggle, then 'Captain Lombard' comes around and Lights, applause. It was wonderful fun and the cast was obviously having a great time of it.

Managing director Jane Prince-Jones turned this one over to a talented crew, They bounced on and off the stage at various times, adding to the mystery.

Bart Mason receives Scholarship

Bart Mason, a Senior Agri-Business major, recently received the Robert E. Malone Memorial Scholarship. The scholarship in the amount of $600.00 was presented to Bart at the Abilene Christian University's Homecoming Aggie Banquet on Saturday, October 31, 1992.

Bart is married to Hayley (Hughes) of Sterling City. He is the son of Lewis and Jane Mason of Post; grandson of Quanah and Sue Maxey, and Mrs. G. T. Mason, all of Post.

He is a 1987 graduate of Post High School.

The Robert E. Malone Scholarship was established in the spring of 1968 by family and friends when the young 1st Lt. Malone was killed in Vietnam. Malone was a graduate of ACU with a major in Range Management and a major in Business.

He encouraged Dr. Churchill and other Ag professors to establish an Agri-Business degree. Malone was instrumental in organizing Delta Tau Alpha, the honor fraternity for Ag students.

He then served as Vice-president and President of the organization. This year marks the 25th year that the scholarship has been given to a deserving Ag student. LaDonna Craig Buschmann, formerly of Post, is the daughter of the late Robert Malone.

Before about 1800, there were no separately designed shoes for right and left feet.

TxDOT targeting teen deaths in traffic accidents

The Texas Department of Transportation (TxDOT) is working with an insurance company to fight the No 1 cause of death among teenagers: traffic accidents.

TxDOT traffic-safety experts are distributing an educational kit developed by Liberty Mutual Insurance Group for teens, parents and teachers.

"Avoiding Collisions: How to Survive the Teen-Age Driving Years" promotes a non-threatening atmosphere for teens to talk about their driving habits openly with adults.

The kit, which includes a videotape, was developed in cooperation with Students Against Drunk Driving (SADD) and the National Safety Council.

Last year in Texas, accidents killed 362 teens between the ages of 15 and 19. "The program challenges teens to re-evaluate their driving habits by examining four subjects key to their survival: speeding, night driving, using safety belts and drinking and driving,: said John Connors, executive vice president of Liberty

"We want teens to realize that a license to drive is a privilege that carries responsibility.' Arnold Oliver, TxDOT executive director, said, "Too many of our young people are killed needlessly, with so much of life ahead of them. But we are encouraged that programs such as this one can make a difference."

Project Graduation, another program administered by the department, has helped reduce traffic deaths among graduating seniors by 10 percent. The program helps schools pay for alcohol-free proms and graduation parties.

Child seat safety includes parents' responses to recalls

Seemingly scant public response to recent recalls of child safety seats has prompted state health officials to question how well parents are informed about the safety of their child's auto safety seat.

The Texas Department of Health (TDH) Occupant Protection Program's toll-free phone line, 800-252-8255, has sometimes received hundreds of calls after announcement of a child safety seat recall. But according to Steve Anderson, the program's coordinator, the October 9 federal recall of nearly a million Fisher Price seats prompted few consumer inquiries.

"Answering a flood of phone calls, as we sometimes have done is not easy," Anderson said, "but it assures us that the public knows about a serious problem. We think the recent lack of response shows that the recall was poorly publicized nationally."

He said that the current recalls of Fisher Price seats include:

*Models 9100 and 9101 (424,000 seats) made between February 1989 and October 1989, which have defective buckles. Fisher Price offers replacement parts.

*Model 9101 (472,000 seats) made between February 1991 and January 1992, which have shoulder belts which can shift into unsafe positions. Fisher Price offers a new part to prevent the problem.

*Model 9104 (14,000 deluxe booster seats) made between April 24, and September 4, 1992, which have defective buckle assemblies. Fisher Price offers a replacement seat now, or a new buckle assembly when they are available.

Owners of the seats can call Fisher Price, toll-free, at 800-332-3457 for Models 9100 and 9101 or at 800-432-5437 for Model 9104. Callers should be able to give the seat model number and the manufacture date, molded or printed on the side or back of the safety seat.

Anderson said that anyone needing further information about these or other child seat recalls should call a local health department or TDH regional office for the number of a child seat loaner representative. Or they may call the toll-free Occupant Safety line, at 800-252-8255.

The Occupant Protection Program is funded by a federal grant to supply information and education about child passenger safety seats and the state law requiring parents to buckle every child younger than two into an approved seat. All 50 states have similar laws. The program also oversees 320 local child seat loaner programs for low-income families.

"We stress that even a recalled seat is safer for a child than no child seat at all. Parents always should continue to buckle their kids into a recalled seat until it can be repaired or replaced by the manufacturer," Anderson said.

"However," he added, "safety seat recalls have two purposes. The first, of course, is to correct defects in products which are meant to save children's lives."

Anderson explained that the second purpose of a recall is to underscore the federal standards for child seats. The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) announces recalls when it finds a seat model to be defective or substandard.

"Public participation is an extremely important part of a recall--it returns responsibility for the unsafe product to the manufacturer. It helps to ensure industry-wide quality control for child seats," Anderson said.

NHTSA records show that including the three Fisher-Price models recalled October 9, about 19 million child safety seats have been recalled since 1981, when federal standards were established. But relatively few have been repaired or exchanged for safer models or refunds.

"The response rate by owners has been only about 13 percent," Anderson said. "By comparison, the rate of public response to automobile recalls is about 60 percent, according to NHTSA."

Anderson said that although some child seat defects have been minor, requiring small adjustments or easily replaced parts, others have been more serious. The problems with some models have been so irreversible that they have been discontinued and the inventories destroyed.

He added that the TDH Product Safety Branch also needs information about any wholesalers or retailers known to be selling previously recalled seats. Such reports should be made to Charles Branton, director of the branch at 512-458-7519.

Stenholm introduces Conservative Democratic Forum's health care

Congressman Charles Stenholm (D-TX) and members of the Conservative Democratic Forum today introduced the Managed Competition Act of 1992, H.R. 5936, legislation designed to promote cost containment and expand access to the nation's health care system.

"There is no question that our current health care system is badly in need of an overhaul," stated Congressman Stenholm.

"What needs to be strongly stressed in this debate is the fact that we all hold some responsibility for making attempts to reform the health system."

Managed competition is the driving mechanism behind the CDF reform bill. Managed competition uses changes in the federal tax code to effect the fundamental reform of the health care market and delivery system. Insurance companies, physicians and hospitals will be very strongly encouraged to pool together to form cooperative partnerships which will offer health insurance and health care as a single product. Consumers will be provided with useful information on the quality and costs of health care services to make it easier to shop for the lowest cost, highest quality care.

In introducing this legislation, Stenholm disputed the claims of skeptics that the free market can't work in health care, and that the only answer is another federal bureaucracy. "We believe that with improvements to our current system, the market not only can work, but is our best hope for both cost-containment and access," said Stenholm. "Individuals, too, must do their part," cautioned Stenholm. "The CDF health plan will give individuals the tools they need to effectively shop for their health care based on quality and cost, not just emergency-driven, emotional decisions."

H.R. 5936 is financed through a combination of the limits on the tax deductability of health insurance, and elimination of the cap on wages subject to the Medicare hospital insurance tax.

Card of Thanks

At a time such as our hearts cannot express, our heartfelt thanks to all of you. Bless the Ladies of the Calvary Baptist Church that spent their time in serving and preparing the delicious food, every expression of kindness and thoughtfulness and love that came with the beautiful flowers and donations in Donnie's memory. They will always be remembered and cherished. The Justice-Mason Funeral Home, who knew the answers to our every need during the time of our sorrow and were so kind to us. To Bo Jackson for the beautiful service he performed, it helped to ease our burden in the loss of our loved one. To Terry Don Thomason for the lovely song he sang. To Louise Greene for all the love and support she gave us. For those we missed with thank you cards, for whatever deed of kindness you expressed, please accept this as our personal thanks to you. We ask for your continued thoughts and prayers for us, we loved him so.

The Family of Donald E. Bowen

We would like to express our appreciation and gratitude for the food, flowers, prayers, and acts of kindness expressed to our family with the loss of our loved one, Joe DeLeon. A special thanks to the ladies at the Catholic Church for the wonderful food they prepared for lunch. May God bless each and every one of you for your time and thoughtfulness. The family of Joe DeLeon

I would like to say thank you to all my visitors while I was in the hospital and since I have returned home. Also, the cards, food, and especially the prayers. May God Bless you all. Oneta Williams

We would like to thank all the good people of Post and Garza County for all their kind thoughts and good deeds while our sister and aunt, Marguerite Hotaling, was sick and at her death. Thank you for your visits, cards, flowers, food and prayers. We appreciate everything everyone did for our family

NOTICE OF RATE CHANGE REQUEST AND STATEMENT OF INTENT

Notice is hereby given that DICKENS ELECTRIC COOPERATIVE INC., (The "Utility") intends to change the rate applicable to large power loads of 40,000 KW or more for customers qualifying for service under the existing load retention rate. The existing load retention rate was approved by the Public Utility Commission of Texas and is applicable to certain qualifying loads over 2,000 KW. At the time this rate was approved the Utility was not contractually committee d east side of US Hwy 84, one mile to supply power in excess of 40,000 KW southeast of intersection FM 2458 and and it was not anticipated that any single Hwy 84 in Garza County, Texas. load would exceed 40,000 KW. Recently, however, the Utility has been requested to the trade name of Fort Justice. provide service to a larger load. The proposed rate change would not affect customers with loads of less than 40,000 KW but would reduce the rate applicable to large power loads of 40,0000 KW or more. The changes are proposed to be effective November 9, 1992. The proposed rate changes do not affect historic test year revenues. The changes are applicable to all customers with large power loads of 40,000 KW or more qualifying for service under the load retention rate in all areas served by the Implementation of the proposed load retention rate and other changes is subject to approval by the Public Utility Commission of Texas. A statement of intent including the proposed revisions of tariff and schedules and a statement specifying in detail each proposed change is available at the general office of the Utility located at Spur, Texas.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Physician urges flu shots

Influenza better known as the flu, is a viral infection of the respiratory system which can be serious or even life-threatening.

Each year flu causes about 20,000 deaths in the United States. The majority of people who die are 65 or older.

For the best protection against influenza, Lowell Johnson, M.D., a family practitioner on Methodist Hospital's medical staff, advises people to get a flu shot between mid-October and mid-November. "A vaccination at this time means your immunity peaks during flu season, which runs from late December to early March," said Dr. Johnson.

Those at increased risk for flu and its complications include persons 65 and older, residents of nursing homes and other chroniccare facilities, adults and children with chronic problems, blood disorders or immune problems.

Other high-risk individuals are children between six months and 18 years old who regularly take aspirin for another condition and who are therefore at risk of developing Reyes Syndrome after a bout with the flu.

Flu shots contain egg-grown non-infectious (inactivated) flu viruses that activate the immune system but don't cause infection. Those who are allergic to eggs should not receive a flu shot. Anyone who has ever had hives, swelling of the tongue or difficulty breathing after eating eggs falls into this category. Despite some rumors, medical experts agree that flu shots are safe. Their most common side effect is soreness at the site of injection. Fever, malaise and muscle aches may also occur in some people for a few days after a flu shot. For more information about flu-shots, contact your physician. If you are in need of a physician, contact Methodist Hospital's Physician Referral Service at (806) 793-4171.

Late cotton salvage test progress

Producers who attended the production meeting on October 9 and heard comments from Dr. James Supak certainly left the meeting with a number of things to consider, not only this year but in the 1993 growing season as well.

One particular item of interest to many folks was the application of harvest aids, i.e. Prep, Folex, Cyclone, etc.

As was also mentioned at the meeting, the possibility did exist for us to establish a test in Garza County using Prep to determine the salvageability of late planted cotton.

We were fortunate enough to have the opportunity to establish a Cotton Salvage Test on the Lee Norman Farm, just south of the Close City Gin.

The test could not have been possible without the support of a few folks that surely bear mention and thanks. Of course Lee Norman for allowing this to be conducted on his farm, Koy Stair - Extension Cotton Assistant in Lubbock and Max Lee Spraying Service in Slaton. All these folks deserve thanks for their early work in this

Now to the "nuts and bolts" of the test. The cotton in the test is Deltapine SR-383, planting date was June 25 and was treated with 1.33 pints per acre of pre-plant Treflan. Additionally, the cotton received 80 pounds of 10-26-0-5 and was sidedressed with 90 pounds of 32-0-0.

The cotton was evaluated on October 21 for percent open bolls and percent defoliation, when the Salvage Test was initiated. The sixteen acre plot was sprayed by ground rig, using 7 gallons per acre at 60 p.s.i. and 1.33 pints per acre of Prep were applied. An identical sixteen acres was left as a check plot, immediately east of the treated

At the initiation of the plot, the following ratings were taken: percent open bolls were 6% in both the treated and the check plot. Percent defoliation in the check and treated plots were an identical 10%

However, at the first rating, taken seven days later on October 28, the following observations were made: percent open bolls in the treated plot = 39% while the check plot averaged only 21% open.

Defoliation percent in the treated plot was found to be 30% as compared to 15% in the untreated plot. Keep in mind that ratings were found by taking measurements in four random locations per treatment.

Additional rating will be made at approximately 14 and 21 day intervals. A trailer of each plot will be harvested and followed through the gin to determine yield and turnout data as well.

This appears to be a test that holds a great deal of application to our areas' cotton production. Take time to stop by the field and take your own observations. Chances are you'll see something that will give you some food for thought for future production years when you have a chance to compare the cost per acre of treatment versus the potential for returns. Feel free to give me a call should you have

"If a taxpayer is due a refund, all he or she has to do is call our 800 number, and we'll send them a claim form free of charge."

The IRS has a fully staffed 800 number for people who have questions about their income tax returns, including questions about tax refunds. Meanwhile, Postal Inspectors offer tips to keep you from getting stung by scam artists who make bogus offers through the mail.

"Any offer that requires you to pay a certain amount up front should be looked at dubiously," says John Brugger, a Postal Inspector in Washington, DC. "Be willing to check them out. Make a few phone calls and verify the truthfulness of the offer."

But one phone number you should not call is the 900 number printed on the postcard. Scams that employ this method usually charge high fees to victims who respond by calling.

Finally, Postal Inspectors offer this advice for those who get a postcard promising a big tax refund for a small fee: throw it away.

Cancer claimed lives of 28,000 Texans in 1990

Cancer ranked second only to heart disease as the leading cause of death in Texas in 1990, claiming the lives of 28,483 Texans, according to an article in the September issue of Texas Medicine.

Texas Medicine is the official news magazine of Texas Medical Association. Texas Department of Health statistics show 15,622 men and 12,861 women died of cancer in 1990.

Lung cancer was the leading cause of cancer death among both men and women.

Nearly 1,700 men died of prostate cancer, while breast cancer was the second leading cause of death among females.

White females experienced higher rates of lung cancer than Hispanics and blacks, but black females had the highest rates of breast cancer.

TMA sponsors the Physician On-cology Education Program to help physicians prevent cancer deaths.

Nearly 1,500 physicians annually receive continuing medical education in the early detection and prevention of cancer through the POEP. The program also distributes advectional materials tributes educational materials throughout the state.
