Committeemen To Elected For County AAA Work

County committeemen who will play important roles in war and post-war farm problems will be elected at annual AAA elections in Garza county between December 14 and December 16. Locations and dates of the election meetings are: Post District Courtroom, December 14, at 2:00 p. m., Southside high school gymnasium, December 15, at 8:00 p. m., and St. John's Church of Christ, December 16, at 2:00 p. m.

Committeemen will choose representatives for each community, and reports from these meetings will be turned to three county committeemen and alternates. Conservation practices for 1945, production and general agricultural matters will be among the subjects discussed at the meetings.

Committeemen represent both the neighbor farmers and the executive branch of the Federal Government in the work and responsibilities of the Agricultural Adjustment Agency. Their recommendations, based on personal knowledge and experience, help shape agricultural programs to meet the needs of their own localities and to meet the problems of producers and consumers throughout the nation.

The election meetings will give farmers a chance to consider the problems and the demands of the coming year," says C. Fumagalli, county AAA director. "A program is being developed for a full discussion of the year ahead. Every farmer should attend the meeting in his community to take part in this discussion and to vote in this election."

SOLDIER OF THE WEEK

Sgt. Mason Justice, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cameron Justice has been serving overseas more than eighteen months. He is with the Headquarters Unit of the Air Borne Division and is stationed in Italy. A recent letter indicated that a move was imminent but no details were given. Mason has been in Africa, Sicily, and Italy. He took his final training before going overseas at Fort Knox, Ky. His family have received many souvenirs from him from Africa and Italy. He described the climate as "damp" and said they had plenty of rain in Italy. He misses letters from home and would like his friends to write.

Post Lions Attend Zone Meeting Of Club In Snyder

Twenty persons from the Post Lions club attended the zone meeting held last Tuesday night in Snyder. A most interesting and entertaining program was presented by the host club.

George Barker, vice-president of the local club introduced the members who attended from Post. He also took part in the business session which preceded the banquet.

The main speaker was Clifton Rogers, Church of Christ minister of the Snyder church.

"A man's greatness is measured, not by the amount of money he accumulates, but by the way he spends it—by his service to his fellow man," declared Rogers.

Rogers recounted some of the people of past and present years whose names will be remembered by the deeds they have done for unfortunate people, schools, churches, hospitals and other worthy enterprises. "The great fortunes that we remember are the ones that were used for others besides the ones who amassed them," the speaker stated.

"By the same token we of today, though we may not be rich, can serve our fellow man in numerous ways—such as through activities of Lions Clubs."

The quarterly meeting of Lions attracted an overflow crowd that could not be seated in the Manhattan dining room. Turkey dinner was served.

A male quartet composed of Lions Carl Herod, L. A. Chapman, M. H. Roe and Clifton Rogers, rendered three numbers.

Willard Jones acted as toastmaster for the banquet.

Those who attended from Post were Messrs. and Mrs. Dan Cockrum, L. V. Presson, Garland Davies, Raymond Young, George Barker, Jess Barnes, Noah Stone, Will Scarborough, Bake Robinson, and Mr. Iven Clary and Mr. Weaver Moreman.

Ship Named In Honor Of C. W. Post

The S. S. C. W. Post, a 10,500-ton Liberty Ship was named in honor of the founder of Post, Texas. The picture above shows the ship just before the christening at the St. John's River Shipbuilding Company yards, at Jacksonville, Fla., on November 8. Mrs. Marjorie Post Davies, daughter of the late Mr. Post, and wife of the Ambassador to Russia, was sponsor of the ship. Post was a pioneer in the breakfast food industry and organized the Postum Cereal Company, nucleus of the General Foods Corporation. He built and lived in the home now owned by Mr. and Mrs. Giles Connell. He died in 1914. The Double U Company, managed by Sam Bardwell, belongs to the Post Estate.

County Lagging In Sixth War Loan By Big Margin

Garza County is lagging on the purchase of Series E bonds, according to T. R. Greenfield, member of the Bond Committee. Mr. Greenfield in a story printed below appeals to Garza folks to do their part in helping the boys in the fight they are so gallantly doing on all the battle fronts of the world.

Keep On Keeping On, Says Greenfield

Up to last Saturday night our good citizens had purchased $26,268.75 worth of Series E Bonds, and $108,947.50 of all other kinds. Total of all purchases $135,216.25, which is nearly half of our overall quota for our county. But only a little over one-third of our quota on Series E Bonds. We are hoping so much that our county will go over on Series E Bonds if we do we will have to whip up on our E Bond purchases.

Won't you please buy a bond now and by so doing prove to our boys in the fox-holes that you are doing your part.

The campaign closes the 15th ... so let our workers continue to work and our citizens continue to buy for we sure do want our county to go over in this 6th War Loan. Therefore, "keep on keeping on" until this campaign is finished.

Ship Named In Honor C. W. Post Launched On November 8

Makes Maiden Voyage On November 15; Mrs. Joseph E. Davies Present For Launching

The S. S. C. W. Post, a 10,500-ton Liberty Ship was named after the founder of Post, Texas, and was launched from the St. John's River Shipbuilding Company at Jacksonville, Fla., on November 8. This information was relayed to the Post Dispatch early this week by Sam Bardwell, manager of the Post Estate in Post. The ship took its maiden voyage on November 15.

Mrs. Joseph E. Davies, daughter of the late Mr. Post and wife of the Ambassador to Russia, christened the vessel which bears her father's name. Three generations of the Post family were represented at the launching. Mrs. Davies, her middle daughter, Mrs. James deBevoise and Miss Marjorie Durant, Mrs. Davies' eldest grandchild.

Mrs. Davies said of the launching ceremony, "As the time for the launching drew near, my daughter, my granddaughter and I closed nearer the rail of the small platform which was built at the edge of the pier. The yard whistle blasted suddenly. In a sweeping crescendo, noises seemed to rise intensely. Workers who had a part in the building of the ship were gathered below and the crowd expectedly to one another. I felt a tightening in my throat as the master of ceremonies said a few words. Through my mind ran a swift series of images ... various tableaux in the life of the man ... my father, in whose memory the ship was being dedicated.

"I thought of the small 'white barn' at Battle Creek 56 years ago, where he and but a handful of helpers launched an enterprise, which is now Post Products, a company with several thousand employees. There was his pioneering work with breakfast foods and the introduction of Grape-Nuts. Then followed several varieties of cereals which are now on grocers' shelves throughout the country. The little 'white barn' transformed itself into the picture of the large colony of Post Products plants as they are today, occupying many acres in Battle Creek. It was this small white barn, and its primitive hand production which formed the nucleus of General Foods Corporation.

"Then I thought, too, of the land colonization enterprise in Texas. He bought thousands of acres of land, developed it, applied scientific agricultural research to the problem of dry land farming, and made a substantial contribution to the development of Texas. He laid out the town of Post, established the Post Cotton Mills, and contributed in many ways to the development of that state."

Ernie Pyle Ready To Go To Pacific As Navy Writer

Ernie Pyle, Scripps-Howard reporter, is getting ready for a look at the battlegrounds of the Far East.

Dispatch readers who declare a column is the most popular feature ever run by this paper will be able to keep up with the news in the Pacific through the columns of this paper.

Pyle, who since 1942 has covered the war in North Africa, Sicily and France, will leave around the first of the year for the Pacific theatre. He will be accompanied by the Navy.

This fall Pyle returned to the United States to rest after covering American troops in the invasion of France. He is now at his home in Albuquerque, N. M.

Mrs. Roy Mullins To Present Pupils In Recital On Dec. 15

Mrs. Roy Mullins has announced her winter recital date as Dec. 15 at 8:00 p. m. in the High school auditorium. Mrs. J. A. Stallings will be accompanist.

As the date of the recital is near the Christmas season several numbers have been arranged to emphasize the Christmas theme. Versatility will be stressed in presentation of the entire recital program.

The public is invited to attend. Plans have been announced too for the recital to be held in Graham school house.

Christmas Holidays Announced By Public Schools This Week

Post public schools will dismiss on Friday, December 23, at 4:50 o'clock p. m. for the Christmas holidays and will not reconvene until Monday, January 1. This announcement was made by Supt. Hanson on Saturday afternoon. Teachers enjoyed a holiday period from Thursday through Sunday of this last week as schools were dismissed for Thanksgiving.

Mrs. Be Hard of Lubbock was a visitor of Post friends over the week end.

Truett Fry Is Now Purina Mills Agent For Garza County

Truett Fry of the Fry Feed and Hatchery is now local agent for the Purina Mills products. He took over the agency here two weeks ago and spent all last week at the Purina Experimental Farm in St. Louis, Mo.

Mr. Fry studied the various units on the farm and learned many valuable things about Purina products that he will sell at the Fry Feed and Hatchery store. The experimental farm of 540 acres specializes in scientific and practical methods of feeding. The farm makes sure that Purina Chows are built to help to get top production from today's farm animals and no Purina feed is put on the market without a two year continuous test.

"Good scientific feeding makes for good breeding and results in profitable production," Mr. Fry said. "The experiments I saw on the farm were of untold value to me in making me realize that good feeding is essential to practical production."

Mr. Fry invites the farmers and poultry men of this county to look over and invest in Purina Mills products.

Crowd For "G. I. Jamboree" Very Disappointing

Old Man Bad Weather succeeded in calling into the attendance Saturday during the presentation of the "G. I. Jamboree" show. The show, featuring servicemen who have returned from the theatres of war, was held in the High school auditorium. The soldiers put on a splendid and very informative program in the interest of the 6th War Loan. The troupe was brought here by the theatres of Texas.

B. J. Edwards, local theatre manager, had charge of arrangements for Post.

Bond sales were disappointing due to the small crowd but the show was an inspiration to those who attended.

New Arrivals...

Pat and Mrs. Dale Kidd are announcing the arrival of twin girls on Saturday morning, Nov. 25. They were named Linda Elene and Brenda Dulow. Mrs. Kidd is the former Dorothy Hunt.

Bowen, Pampa pastor and conference missionary secretary, Rev. Lamar Bowden, missionary to Brazil, and Dr. L. N. Lipscomb, district superintendent of Lubbock district, presided.

Dr. Harold G. Cooke, president of McMurry college at Abilene, spoke in behalf of the college's endowment campaign.

Christmas Shopping Earlier Than Usual; Merchants Report

The request of postal authorities that packages be mailed earlier this year has resulted in earlier Christmas sales for stores. Contributing also to an earlier demand for holiday goods is the scarcity of supply and the realization that at selection will be more difficult at later dates.

This earlier shopping possibly will cause a steady consumer trade instead of the last minute rush which is difficult for both the shopper and clerk.

Thanksgiving Day Worship Service An Inspiration

About a hundred people braved the cold on Thanksgiving morning to attend a religious observance of the day.

The beautiful music set the mood for a most inspirational message on The Year of Jubilee as presented by Rev. Palmic. The theme of the talk was the rejoicing there will be at the conclusion of the war and was based on the Bible text that every fiftieth year would be a year of jubilee.

Everyone present agreed it was certainly a privilege to hear the message presented by the forceful young preacher.

Brighter Weather Is Forecast After Clouds and Rain

Brighter weather is looming up for Garza counties for the next few days, according to the predictions of the weather man. The South Plains region has been under the spell of old man winter for several days with the coldest temperature of the week being recorded Wednesday morning. On top of the cap temperatures are always several degrees lower than down under. Ice blanketed the streets of Post Wednesday and heavy ice has been reported from the plains area all this week.

Rain for the week registered 2 inches. In some sections of the county the precipitation was somewhat heavier but most sections report about two inches. A heavy drizzle fell here all day Sunday and Monday and continued intermittently Tuesday.

Light snow flurries hit the plains region on Tuesday but disappeared when a strong wind broke the clouds. Heavy snows reported in the Panhandle were soon melted by an afternoon sun.

Rains were general throughout Texas.

Former Pastor Moves Back To Garza County

Rev. J. E. Stephens was appointed pastor of the Graham and Graeland Methodist churches recently and last week moved into this county. Rev. Stephens was pastor of the First Methodist church here in 1932 through 1936. He has been serving the churches at Union and Cooper.

All his friends here are happy that he will make his home in this section again.

Memorial Service for Wm. Ervert Edwards Called Off by Family

The memorial service for William Ervert "Skeet" Edwards which had been planned for last Sunday was called off by members of his family.

Letters from the young soldier son of Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Edwards were received last week. They were dated November 6 which had been reported as the day of his death.

An appeal was made by the family to the Red Cross through Clie Weakley. The reply stated in effect that in such cases of doubt photostatic copies of the letters should be sent to the War Department. If the evidence warranted it, a field investigation of the case would be made.

Photostatic copies could not be obtained so the letters were sent to the War Department. It is not known how long an investigation of this type will take.

Sincere sympathy is extended to the family of this fine young man in the time of their uncertainty and it is the heartfelt hope of everyone that good news will be the result of this waiting.

Jim Thomas Murder Trial Transferred To Dawson County

The famous murder case of Jim Thomas, charged with the slaying of Dr. and Mrs. Hunt at Littlefield last year, was transferred last week from Plainview to Lamesa. Thomas in a recent trial at Plainview was given the death penalty by the jury.

The case was reversed by a higher court and sent back for retrial, and it was upon this that Judge Russell of the Hale-Lamb county district, granted change of venue to Dawson. Judge Garland of Lamesa will try the case this time, but at what time was not presently known.

PRAYER for the Week

—George Washington
Almighty God, we make our earnest prayer that Thou will keep the United States in Thy holy protection; that Thou will incline the hearts of the citizens to cultivate a spirit of subordination and obedience to government; to entertain a brotherly affection and love for one another and for their fellow-citizens of the United States at large. —Amen.

ANY BED BUGS TODAY?
To those who make the statement, "Why should I advertise—no one ever reads the paper anyway!" the following routine has proved successful. For example, a hotel manager makes the above statement when solicited. Here is the answer to break down his opposition: "The paper will give you any size ad you want. We will let you use any illustrations and will do everything in our power to lay out an attractive ad—if you will let us place down in a corner in the smallest type we have, these lines: "This hotel has bedbugs!" The look of abject horror that appears is amusing to watch and leaves a perfect opening for the ranch line. "What are you afraid of, no one will ever read the darn thing anyway!" —Kentucky Press.

IN GOOD HANDS

The full value of Cordell Hull's work as secretary of state must wait on time. It will be easier and safer to judge it 25 years from now, but at the moment of his retirement after serving in that office longer than any man in history it is possible to forecast his standing with a reasonable degree of accuracy. It will be very high. He will rank as one of the great world statesmen of his time. Indeed, it may be said that Hull laid the foundation for world co-operation in an enduring peace; for one of his principal contributions has been his unwavering effort to secure cooperation by the removal of friction.

As with all great men, Hull had many detractors, many small canines barking at his heels. But time will judge his merits, not contemporary critics. Edward E. Stettinius, his successor, came from the opposite pole in the American economic ladder; Hull was born to honest poverty in the hills of Tennessee. Stettinius was born to great wealth and social and industrial position, but by the strength of character and purpose he overcame this handicap. If you don't think being born to great wealth is a handicap, you haven't studied the history of American families who have fulfilled the shirt-sleeve-to-shirt-sleeves tradition.

As lend-lease administrator Stettinius ran the smoothest-working organization in war-time Washington. He had the smallest staff of any major agency, and ran his show with less fuss and operating expense. He knew most every one of the hundreds of employees in his department by name, and looked after their welfare with fatherly interest. He worked harder than anybody on his staff, kept longer hours, was inconspicuous and modest.

Episcopal Stettinius was born in Chicago, but raised and educated in Virginia. He brings to the task a youth and vigor that will stand him in good stead in the rough going ahead. The good gray head of Cordell Hull will be looking over his shoulder. —Exchange

INCOME TAX SIMPLIFICATION

The Bureau of Internal Revenue states that more than 30,000,000 U. S. citizens will be benefited through the simplification of the new income tax forms which will be used between January 1 and March 15, 1945. The new forms and methods of filing have been changed drastically for the purpose of making the annual chore of income tax filing both easier and more understandable. About 30,000,000 Americans, generally wage earners whose incomes are under $5,000, will dispense altogether with traditional income tax forms. Instead, they will be able to make a simple statement of their income and exemptions on their Withholding Receipts, and send in the receipts for the government to do all tax figuring. The other 30,000,000 taxpayers will use a greatly simplified tax blank, Form 1040, which supersedes both the long and short forms of last year. March 15 will still be the standard filing date, but several million taxpayers, especially farmers, are expected to advance their filings to January 15 to take advantage of a new law which makes a January 15 return do for both a return and Declaration of Estimated Tax.

Ernie Pyle's Slant on the War: How War Is Conducted From Forward Command Post Informal and Unexcited Officers and Men Carry On Under Heavy Fire

By Ernie Pyle
(Editor's Note: Pyle recalls some of his experiences while he was with the GIs during the Tunisian campaign. He is now taking a long-needed rest in New Mexico.

AT THE FRONT LINE IN TUNISIA.—We drove our jeep under a tree, camouflaged it by covering it with limbs, and then walked up the side of a hill for about 500 yards.

Half a mile to the south of us the battle for Ousseltia Pass in central Tunisia was going on. We stopped in what is known as a forward command post, from which a battle is directed. This one consisted of a tent 20 feet square, well hidden under a tree. However, the whole tent had been dropped down and simply lay like a tarpaulin covering the officers' bedrolls and bags. All the work was being done around two field telephones lying in their leather cases on the ground ten feet from the tent.

The rocky hillside was covered with little bushes and small fir trees. The sun was out and the day was rather warm. There were no papers or desks or anything—just three or four officers standing and sitting on a hillside near two telephones on the ground. One officer had a large map case. That's all the paraphernalia there was for directing the battle.

Our troops were on top of a ridge about a quarter of a mile above us. The enemy was in the valley beyond, and on a parallel ridge a mile farther on. We could walk up and look over, but we couldn't see anything. Both sides were well hidden in the brush.

Every minute or two our nearby artillery would fire, and then half a minute or so later we could hear faintly the explosion of the shells far away. "Nobody's doing much damage right now," an officer said, "but at least we're getting in ten shots to their one." Now and then a louder and much nearer blast interrupted us. When I asked what size gun this was, an officer said it wasn't a gun—it was enemy mortar shells exploding. I supposed they were three or four miles away, but he said they were falling only 800 yards from us. Once in a while we could hear machine gun fire in the distance. A young second lieutenant stood near the phones and did all the talking over them. In fact he appeared to be making all the decisions. And he impressed me as knowing his business remarkably well.

Lieutenant Gives Orders. The highest officer around was a lieutenant colonel, but he seemed to leave everything to the lieutenant, and at every signal of approaching planes he ran to a nearby foxhole and stayed there till the planes had gone. The phone rang every few minutes. Other command posts would be calling in to report or to ask instructions. Now and then the chief post, some 15 miles back, would call and ask how things were going. Officers and enlisted men kept appearing from down below or over the hill asking about things. One sergeant came to inquire where a certain post was, saying he had two jeep tires and a tire for an anti-air gun that he was supposed to deliver.

Another sergeant, wearing an overcoat, came up the hill, saluted normally, and reported that a certain battery setup was ready to fire. They told him to go ahead. A phone rang. The captain of an ack-ack battery said the enemy had his range and asked permission to move. He was told to go ahead. All the conversation was informal and unexcited.

A phone rang again. An officer at another command post was asking for a decision on whether to move forward. The young lieutenant, apparently not wishing to give direct orders to a higher officer, solved the problem by putting his words in the form of advice, sprinkling two or three "sirs" in every sentence. I thought he handled it beautifully. Now and then the lieutenant would phone some other post. All the posts have code terms such as "back" and "Monsoon" and "Chicago." I've just made those up as ex-

Sergeant Captured and Escapes

The sergeant said he didn't know. Then he said he himself had been captured. "Captured?" the officers asked. "Yes," he said. "The Italians captured me and then turned me over." The sergeant was Vernon Gary of South Bend, Ind. He is a married man, and was a lawyer before the war. He is a young and husky fellow. He didn't appear to be very much shaken by his experience, but he said he never was an actor. Sitting there on the ground he told me his experience. He and the missing captain and a jeep driver had gone forward at 9:30 in the morning to hunt for the body of a popular officer who had been killed. They pushed the jeep and the captain told them to stop there till he returned.

Gems Of Thought CHRISTIANITY

A wise man will always be a Christian, because the perfection of wisdom is to know where lies tranquility of mind, and how to attain it, which Christianity teaches. —Laudor He who shall introduce into public affairs the principles of primitive Christianity will change the face of the world. —Benjamin Franklin Christianity reveals God as ever-present; Truth and Love, to be utilized in healing the sick, in casting out error, in raising the dead. —Mary Baker Eddy Christianity is not a theory or speculation, but a life, not a philosophy of life, but a life and a living process. —Coleridge Christianity is the companion of liberty in all its conflicts—the cradle of its infancy, and the divine source of its claims. —De Toqueville

ORDERS FOR THE DAY

Your way of living has been touched by the call to service. It will never be quite the same again. Either your close ones, or the close ones of friends in your circle have already moved out. First thing to do is to accept this. Do not fight it. Second thing to do is to determine a course of action to meet the circumstances. Here are a few suggestions: 1. Make up your mind to accept what comes bravely as will the boys who sign up. 2. Undertake a few hours of war production service that will make you a part of the fight. 3. Look on cheaters and self-seeking people or firms with contempt but do not let them or their acts throw you off stride. 4. Rise cheerfully each day, do tasks efficiently, enjoy relaxation, visit with friends, live above normal instead of below it. 5. Write regularly and often to those in service who expect to hear from you. 6. Determine and determine how to make yourself a help to the nation's effort instead of a hindrance. Taking that attitude is the first step. Do these things and you will be doing your part in this world emergency. But do not make the mistake of trying to do too much—of going too far in any direction. Keep stable. Be fair. Be ef-

Right in your walls, wherever there's an electric outlet, you'll find Reddy Kilowatt, your electrical servant, waiting to come in and help do your work. He's fast, strong, always on the job, and works for only a few pennies per day. While most other workers' wages have gone up, Reddy's have actually gone down. And even though he's been doing a lot of wax work, he's always been right on hand when you wanted him to help with the housework. He still is. Whenever you need him, plug in—be's Reddy! CHRIST IN THE HOME

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 19:4-6; Luke 16:26-28; II Timothy 1:1-4

GOLDEN TEXT—These things I command you, that ye may love one another.—John 13:34.

The American home faces many enemies and powerful destructive influences in our day. At times one wonders whether this most important of all institutions has not so far departed from what God intended it to be that it has lost its place and power.

In such a time, it is important that the Christian church keep before the people, and especially our young people, the Scripture teaching about the home. We need to revive the old-fashioned home, with its piety, purity and high purpose in the plan of God. We begin right when we note:

I. The Plan of God for the Home (Matt. 19:4-6).

When Jesus was challenged by the Pharisees, who claimed that a man had a right to divorce his wife. He appealed to Scriptures. That is the sure foundation for right thinking.

He referred to the story of the creation of man and woman in Genesis 2:18-24. There it is revealed that in all the animal kingdom there was no creature suited for fellowship with man. The one who finds full satisfaction in the company of a cat, a dog, or horse, is just not up to normal.

Adam must have a "help meet" for him, that is, one suited by personality and gifts to be his companion. God made woman for that purpose and gave her to man. Thus He established the home and ordained that all through man's history there should be the coming together of one man and one woman in that indissoluble union of love (v. 6) which makes the home.

We have forgotten God's law, we have deliberately violated it, and have broken down the home in its very foundation. We had better begin to think seriously about the divorce problem if we are not to go the way of other nations.

II. The Presence of Christ in the Home (Luke 10:38-42).

Christ repeatedly honored the home by His blessed presence. He came to the wedding feast at Cana of Galilee, and there He performed His first miracle (John 2). He should be the unseen guest at every Christian marriage. Invite Him, expect Him, honor Him, and He will bless you.

One home in particular was a place of rest and refuge for our Lord when He was here on earth, that of His friends, Lazarus, Martha and Mary, in Bethany. He was a welcome guest, always at home in that household. Shall we do less in our households? We see motteos in homes. "Christ is the unseen guest in this home." How appropriate!

But note that His presence in the home gives Him opportunity to teach and to direct the life of the home. Mary and Martha had both been busy about the work of the household, but Mary knew when it was time to stop being busy and sit at Jesus' feet to learn and to be blessed by His presence. She not only worked, but "also sat at the Lord's feet" (v. 39). Martha went right on working until she was distracted, and came to censure her sister.

The answer of Jesus is significant. He did not rebuke Martha. He only told her to get her life into balance. There must be work in a home, but those who make home only a workshop miss its greatest blessing. Home should be a place of sweet fellowship between the members of the family, and especially between them and the Lord.

III. The Power of Faith in the Home (II Tim. 1:3-6).

Family religion really pays. The home with the family altar, where God's Word is read as a natural and proper part of daily living, where prayer is made, and God's goodness is remembered in thanksgiving and praise, that home will send forth children who know the grace of God, and are prepared to heed His call for service.

Timothy had a grandmother and a mother (two wonders where papa and grandpa were) with unfeigned faith. What a precious heritage! That was far more valuable than silver or gold, or farms or corner lots. What heritage are you giving your children?

Note the reference to Timothy's work as a minister of God in verse 6. It was by the Holy Spirit's call, and was recognized by the church in ordination, the "laying on of hands." But it is evidently closely connected with that which is spoken of in the verse before—the faith of his home. There is power in that faith to send a boy forth to valiant service for God and to keep him faithful to the day of trial. Give your boy and girl something really worthwhile to remember when they think of home. Put the power of faith in the home back on their lives in public life for God.

Your BABY

The teeth are formed during pregnancy and good teeth require the food elements which go into their structure, mainly calcium, phosphorus and vitamin D. The general and widespread tooth decay among both children and adults is evidence that we do not apply the knowledge we have. Years ago, at the University of Iowa, it was found that in the feeding of diabetic children, although they were restricted in the food they could have, tooth decay could be greatly reduced or entirely stopped if they rigidly kept on the prescribed diet. The diet was planned so that it provided the food elements necessary for teeth. For the ten year old child, Dr. J. D. Boyd suggests the following basic daily diet: one quart of milk, one egg, 3 1/2 oz. of meat, 2 servings of vegetables, 3 servings of fruit, 1 teaspoon of cod liver oil, 1 oz. butter plus some additional fat. 3 slices of bread plus 1 serving of other cereal, 3/4 oz. potato (about 1/2 cup mashed), 5 level tablespoons sugar and sweets. These are the same foods as those given in the Government chart of the Seven Basic Food Groups for all of the family and include the same foods, as are introduced to infants during the first year of life. Babies are gradually introduced to cod liver oil or other source of vitamin D, orange juice or another form of vitamin D, cereals, vegetables, fruits and eggs. The right foods will supply all of the food elements without resort to vitamin and mineral concentrates. —Reporter

Formal Dance Held By Sub-Deb Club

One of the most effective parties of the season's entire social calendar was given recently when the Sub-Deb club held their annual presentation dance. The formal presentation was held this year at Jennie's Tea Room. The entertaining rooms were beautifully decorated for the presentation of the club member and the pledges. Each girl descended the stairs to the soft music and was met at the foot of the stairs by her escort during the formal ceremony. Pledges presented were: Nora Jo Blacklock, Harriet Dietrich, and Edna Ruth Swanger. Old members were then presented. Edna Mae Pierce led the procession. Climaxing the ceremony was the presentation of the sweetheart of the club, Marian Hodge. As she came down the stairway she was presented with a bouquet of thirteen red roses. This number signifying the number of members in the club. The theme song "Star Dust" was played during the presentation and each girl was spotlighted as she was presented. Cake and punch were served. Adult sponsors for the group who attended were Mrs. J. E. Parker, B. M. Robinson, and E. J. Edwards. Several invited guests attended. —Reporter

THE FARMER AND HIS TRACTOR

(III. Fuel For Your Tractor)

By A. F. Peck

Managing Editor, Scientific American

Gasoline is the best fuel that you can use in your tractor. Some people may rear up on their hind legs when they read this and shout that distillate and kerosene are equally good tractor fuels and that, furthermore, they are lower in cost per gallon. In the latter statement they will be correct, but when they say that distillate and kerosene are "just as good" they are talking without complete knowledge of the tractor situation. Here is why I make this statement: The best fuel for any spark-ignition engine is one that volatilizes rapidly. That is, one that changes from a liquid to a gas in a short space of time. Put a few drops of gasoline, kerosene, and distillate side by side on a clean dry board and see what happens. The gasoline evaporates quickly, but the kerosene and distillate take a long time. Now you must remember that an internal combustion engine, such as the one in your tractor, operates through the ignition and subsequent expansion of a mixture of fuel and air in the cylinders. Obviously, gasoline will make the most complete mixture in the shortest length of time. Kerosene and distillate, on the other hand, even though heated in the manifold to promote vaporization, will not vaporize completely and will leave so-called "heavy ends" in the cylinders that, not completely burned, will run down the cylinder walls and dilute the lubricant in the crankcase.

But this is not all there is to the story. Because the manifold has to be heated in order to vaporize kerosene and distillate, the resulting cylinder charge is lighter than an unheated mixture and therefore contains less fuel per cylinder charge. With less fuel, less power is developed. It has been shown that gasoline in a tractor engine will give an increase in power of 10 to 12 percent over kerosene or distillate without any changes except removing the heat from the manifold. To take full advantage of gasoline by putting more pressure on it than kerosene or distillate will stand, the gain is about 30 percent. This is the gain in a low-compression engine that has been converted to high-compression.

What does this mean to you in terms of work to be done? It means that you may be able to pull four plows with your tractor instead of three. That you can pull a disk and a harrow. That your tractor will walk away in high gear instead of plugging along in second. That you can get more work done in a day with gasoline than with other fuels.

Of course, gasoline will do more work in high-compression tractors than in those with low-compression engines. This is because the more "squeeze" you can put on a fuel mixture, the more power you can get out of it, up to the point where the engine begins to knock. Therefore if you are getting a new tractor soon (some 209,000 of them will be manufactured from July 1, 1944 to June 30, 1945), you will find that you will get more power and efficiency from a modern high-compression model. Or if you are considering a necessary tractor overhaul, talk to your dealer about installing high-compression pistons or a high-compression head, according to the model of your tractor, together with the correct spark plugs for burning gasoline. With such a combination and a few minor adjustments of the carburetor, heat control, and timing, you will be able to do more work faster with your tractor than ever before.

(Number 4 of this series will tell of the many things that can be done with your tractor other than plowing and cultivating.)

BIBLE-READING PERIOD ADVOCATED FOR NATION

The Senate Judiciary Committee agreed last week in Washington that it would be a good thing to designate the Thanksgiving-to-Christmas period each year for nation-wide reading of the Bible.
 "Reading the Bible will . . . bring faith, hope and courage to millions of people now disturbed by doubt, uncertainty and fear," said a designating resolution which the committee approved and sent to the Senate floor.
 This idea is being greeted with approval all over the nation. Pastors are announcing the Bible-Reading Period and are asking their congregations to participate.

AN AMERICAN WAR PRODUCTION RECORD THAT DESERVES TELLING . . .

On December 14, at 3:00 o'clock in the afternoon, the men and women of Humble Oil & Refining Company will pause in their work to commemorate, in appropriate ceremony, a feat unparalleled in the petroleum industry: The production of ONE BILLION GALLONS of finished 100-octane aviation gasoline at the Baytown refinery.

This accomplishment merits special commendation, because it climaxes 25 years of development, planning, and teamwork of a great organization. The cooperative effort of Humble employees has brought about a uniform progress in all phases of the Company's operations which has enabled them to establish remarkable records in finding, producing, transporting and refining petroleum during a critical period in the history of our nation.

Humble research and development, in progress for many years before Pearl Harbor, made possible these accomplishments and contributed greatly to the total production of toluene, and the tremendous quantities of finished 100-octane aviation gasoline required by our Armed Forces.	Baytown Ordnance Works, first synthetic toluene plant in the world, has supplied toluene for at least one out of every two bombs used by the United Nations since Pearl Harbor. For this production feat, Baytown Ordnance Works has five times been awarded the Army-Navy "E".	Baytown Refinery has made one billion gallons of finished 100-octane aviation gasoline—more than has been produced by any other plant in the world. The world's first commercial alkylation plant was built at Baytown in 1928. The alkylation process is the very backbone of 100-octane aviation gasoline production by the entire petroleum industry.
Humble Oil & Refining Company is the nation's largest producer of crude oil, and is currently supplying about one-fourth of the increased production required for war, as measured by the gain since 1941.	Through the facilities of Humble Pipe Line Company there is being transported more oil than is being carried by any other system in the country. Nearly 700,000 barrels move daily through Humble pipe lines—six-sevenths of all of the oil production in the United States.	United in a great singleness of purpose, 14,000 Humble men and women are devoting themselves to the task of providing vital petroleum products for war, looking to the day when their 3,000 fellow employees and all their comrades in arms will return.

U. S. and Spain Sign Commercial Air Line Agreement

Of interest to all air-minded citizens of America was the agreement signed by Spain and the United States on Saturday in regard to commercial aviation between the two countries.

The pact enables the two countries to pick up and discharge cargo and mail in the two nations. It gives the United States permission to designate American air services which will be entitled to stop at Spanish ports at Madrid, Barcelona, and Seville.

The agreement covers three specific routes on which American planes can travel through Spain:

1. From New York through Lisbon, Portugal, to Madrid and Barcelona, enroute to Marseilles, France, and points beyond.
2. From New York through Lisbon to Madrid and then to Algiers.
3. From New York or Miami through South America, West Africa, VIII-Cineros, and French Morocco to Seville, Madrid and Barcelona enroute to Paris and points beyond.

The agreement provides for return trips over the same routes. Spanish air carriers designated by the Spanish government to operate under the agreement will be allowed to operate in international traffic at whatever point or points in United States territory are "of similar aviation importance" to those granted to this country.

Oil Treaty Will Never Be Ratified Says Sen. Connally

The oil treaty that has caused so much controversy in Washington will never be ratified by the Senate, according to Senator Tom Connally. The Anglo-American treaty provides for collaboration between the American and British governments in the developments of world petroleum resources.

"It is my view that the treaty is unfair to the American oil industry and is not necessary for the general welfare," he declared in a brief statement.

"I have been opposed to ratification since it was first submitted to the committee."

SHIP LAUNCHED—

The words, "All set, sir," were spoken by the president of the shipbuilding company brought me back to the scene.

"The silken emerald bottle crashed against the hull. Slowly the huge bulk began to move down the grouted ways toward the quiet river water. The shipyard whistle, now accompanied by the voices of two impatient tugboats in the river, became a steady drone. Faster and yet faster the C. W. Post tumbled down its track. Suddenly there was a glistening spray of water. Waves lapped against the row of piers.

"At the same moment the entire C. W. Post was outlined by hundreds of electric lights. She stood reflected in the quieting waters of the river. The tugs hushed their crying, and hastened to her side. The launching is over. In only a few days the Post will join similar ships—taking her place in the convoy line steaming to far-off ports."

Just what part of call the Post made on her maiden voyage, censorship does not permit to disclose—but before the war in Europe and the Pacific struggle have ended, relatives of men serving in both war theatres may receive excited notes from some of Post City's servicemen saying: "I bet you couldn't guess the name of the Liberty Ship which have to in our harbor today."

Of course, it will be the C. W. Post. Because she still will be plying the sea lanes months hence, when the war is won, her story will be most interesting.

To the U. S. Maritime Commission, the S. S. C. W. Post is simply another ship, constructed at the St. Johns River Shipbuilding Company yard at Jacksonville, Fla. In close to record time, (25 days to be exact), James Merrill president of the shipbuilding company, sent in the recommendation that one of his ships be named after the man who did so much to develop breakfast foods, and which was the nucleus of what is now General Foods Corporation.

Included in the recommendation was ample mention of Mr. Post's pioneer work in still another field—the establishment of the model city of Post, Texas.
