SOUND WAVES FIND OIL

Sound waves are used in exploring the earth for oil deposits.
The waves are made by an explosion underground, and the time for the reflected waves to return to the surface gives a clue to rock formations below the earth's surface.

FOOD WASTE

Approximately one-fourth of all the food produced in the United States is wasted, so government food surveys tell us. Part of it is wasted by being left unharvested, more is wasted in storage and in wholesale markets through poor handling and sorting; some is wasted in retail stores, partly because of consumer carelessness in handling. The biggest single waste, however, is in the homes of Americans. We buy more than we need, cook more than we will eat, give or take larger servings than will be eaten, leaving good food un-eaten on plates, let food spoil before it is prepared for eating, fail to utilize leftovers. The average family of six, by stopping this home waste, will save enough to feed another person at home or abroad.

DIVIDING THE SUGAR

Signs are that the family sugar bowl is going the way of the common butter plate—not for reasons of table etiquette, but to preserve family harmony. Lads and lassies with unrestrained sweet tooth are prone to use more sugar than their share of the short sugar supply, with resultant sour notes sounded by other household members. So some mothers are instituting individual bowls, with extras for company and cooking.

SAFER FLYING

Army Air Force fields now which make it possible to bring the Appalachians about 1792 and

Minute of Prayer

Inspired by the late President's suggestion to pray for an early victory, made at the time of the Pearl Harbor tragedy, this prayer is that of

Rev. LOUIS S. HAUBER
Chaplain, St. Mary College

Let us pray:
O God! Thou who hast marked us that unless the Lord build the house, their labor is vain that build it, and unless the Lord keep the city, he watches in vain that keeps it. Enlighten, we beseech Thee, the hearts of nations from on high that they may give to the world a greater fountain and bark upon the unchangeable principles of Thy eternal law. Amen. Amen and

Swarms of Insects Add to Hell of War on Okinawa

Fleas and Mosquitoes Vie to Keep Men Awake Far Into the Night

By Ernie Pyle

Publication of this column completes the series written by Ernie Pyle before his last death at the hands of a Jap machine gunner of Okinawa.

OKINAWA.—One of the most miserable damn nights out of hundreds of miserable nights I have spent in this war was spent out here.

Bird Dog Clayton, and Gross and I, turned into our sacks just after dark. So did everybody else who wasn't on guard.
It was too early to go to sleep, so we just lay there in the dark and talked. You could hear voices faintly all over the hillside.
We didn't take off our clothes, of course; nobody does in the field. I did take off my boots but Bird Dog and Gross left theirs on for they had to stand watch on the field telephones from 1 till 2 a. m.

The three of us lay jammed up against each other, with Bird Dog in the middle. We smoked one cigarette after another. We didn't have to hide them under the blanket for we were in a protected position where a cigarette couldn't be seen very far.

Right after dark the mosquitoes started buzzing around our heads.
These Okinawa mosquitoes sound like a flame thrower. They can't be driven off or brushed away.

I got a little bottle of mosquito lotion out of my pocket and doused my face and neck, though I knew it would do no good. The other boys didn't even bother.

After a while the hillside grew silent. The hours went past. By an occasional slap at the mosquitoes each of us knew the others weren't asleep.

Suddenly Bird Dog sat up and pulled down his socks and started scratching. Fleas were after him.
Even the grass has fleas in it over here.

For some strange reason I am immune to fleas. Half the boys are red with hundreds of itchy little fleas bites, but I have never had one.

But I'm the world's choicest morsel for mosquitoes. And mosquito bites poison me. Every morning I wake up with at least one eye swollen shut.

Get the Best Of Leatherneck

That was the way it was all night, with all of us—me with a double dose of mosquitoes, all the rest with a mixture of mosquitoes and fleas.
You could hear marines hushfully cussing all night long around the hillside. Suddenly there was a terrible outburst just downhill from us and a marine came jumping out into the moonlight, cussing and jerking at his clothes.

"I can't stand these damn things any longer," he cried. "I've got to take my clothes off."

We all laughed under our ponchos while he stood there in the moonlight and stripped of every stitch, even though it was very chilly. He shook and brushed his clothes, fouled them with insect powder and then put them back on.

This unfortunate soul was Capt.
Leland Taylor of Jackson, Mich. His nickname is Pop, since he is 33 years old.

Pop is a "character." He has a black beard and even in the front lines he wears a khaki overseas dress cap which makes him stand out.

After Pop went back to bed everything became quiet for several hours, but hardly anybody was asleep. The next morning the boys on guard said that Pop must have smoked three packs of cigarettes that night. It was the same way with Bird Dog, Gross and me.

Once there was a distinct rustling of the bushes in front of us. Of course the first thing I thought of
was a Jap.

But then I figured a Jap wouldn't make that much noise and finally I decided it was one of the horses the mortar boys had commandeered, crashing through the bushes. And that's what it turned out to be.

Pop Taylor also had the Jap idea, at first. The next morning "Buddy" Bradshaw, who was sleeping with Pop, said Pop shook him violently during the night to wake him up and borrow a .45 just in case. Buddy laughed and laughed about it, for lying on the ground between them all the time was an arsenal of two pistols, two shotguns and Pop's own .45.

Along about 4:30 I guess we did sleep a little from sheer exhaustion.
That gave the mosquitoes a clear field. When we woke up at dawn and crawled stiffly out into the daylight my right eye was swollen shut, as usual.

'Sacking' Eases Strain on B-29 Crewmen

"Back time" is one of the most-used expressions in the B-29 outfit in the Pacific. It means simply laying on your back doing nothing.

Combat B-29s everywhere have got to give time, because they are under a terrific nervous strain when they work, and must rest.

There's really nothing else to do except lie on your back. Crewmen

THE GOSPEL

Jesus went about all Galilee, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing all manner of sickness and all manner of disease among the people.—Matthew 4:23

My heart has always assured and reassured me that the gospel of Christ must be a divine reality.

The shifting systems of false religion are continually changing their places; but the gospel of Christ is the same forever.

There is not one book on earth so favorable to all the kind and to all the sublime affections, or so unfriendly to hatred, persecution, tyranny, injustice, and every sort of malevolence as the gospel.

So comprehensive are the doctrines of the gospel, that they involve all moral truth known by man; so extensive are the precepts, that they require every virtue, and forbid every sin.

GOVERNMENT STREAMLINING

Sooner rather than later the United States Government may undergo a bit of streamlining and modernization, both Congress and the Executive branch. They are talking about it in Congressional committees and in sources close to the White House. There is even a new "March of Time" film which deals sympathetically with Congressional shortcomings and proposed remedies. Something may result.

It will be a good thing. It is widely acknowledged among students of government that there is too much fumbling and duplication of effort in Congressional committees, where Congress does its real work.

Europe will suffer in silence, but the boys on Okinawa may have something to say about our "good-timing" at the night-clubs and raceracks.

tact with the Russian army in

To Draft 4-Fs Limited Service

The Army plans to induct a few under 25 with minor physical defects for limited service assignments.

Selective service announced a limited number of such men would be drafted in addition to the monthly quotas for general draftees.

The new policy also covers conscientious objectors. Those under 25 who are physically acceptable will be assigned to "work of national importance" under civilian supervision.

Selective Service announced last week that all 4-F registrants would be reviewed. The Army found that about 10 per cent will be found acceptable for general draftees.

Priorities For War Services Advocated

A suggestion that discharged veterans be given priorities in the purchase of new automobiles was made last week by Representative Flood of Pennsylvania.

Flood wrote Price Administration Director Chester Bowles that the opportunity to buy a car would be "a major contribution to the re-orientation" of veterans.

Soil Conservation District News

Range surveys were made last week in preparation for developing conservation plans for the farms of T. R. Greenfield, O. G. Hamilton, and Allan Cash. It was noted that on areas that had been grazed conservatively in the past the grass had held up better during the present drought.

Story Roberts completed terracing in his largest field last week. He had the lines run early in February and laid his rows off with them. This enabled him to use this delay in planting time to advantage by constructing his terraces.

The Polar community in the southwest corner of Kent county got a fairly good rain week before last. Most farmers had enough moisture to plant. J. W. Shipp said that all of the terraces which he had built up with a whirlwind terracer last winter held, while some of the terraces which were not built up were topped but did not break.

Ford Completes First 1946 Auto

Detroit—The Ford Motor Co. announced Saturday that the first 1946 Ford had been completed.

It's a handmade job and the first new model since that of 1942, on which production ceased late in 1941. While basically the same as the 1942 model, the company said the new car would embody "more mechanical improvements than many prewar annual models."

These improvements, a company spokesman said, will result in greater economy and a better ride. The appearance of the front end, interior trim and hardware are also new in design.

Assembly line production is expected to get under way in 60 to 90 days, depending upon the availability of raw materials. Ford officials pointed out, however, that the average motorist who has no priority may have to wait a year or two before he can buy a new car.

Production quotas will limit Ford production for the rest of this year to approximately 40,000 of the new cars, it was estimated.

Pfc. Billy Hancock Longs for Good Old USA; Is On Okinawa

Pfc. Billy Hancock of the U. S. Marine Corps is in the midst of the bitter fighting on Okinawa. In a recent letter to Nell Poole he expressed, we imagine, the thoughts of many a home-sick and battle weary marine. Parts of his letter to Miss Poole are quoted here:

"This place is so lonesome I can hardly exist. If I ever get back to the good old USA I won't ever be idle a minute. You can't imagine how it is over here—no women, no place to go, nothing to do for past time. All you can do when not fighting is just sit and think of home and the things you could do if you were there. Guess we all have our hardships and so have to take so much. Someday I'll be back to civilization never to leave anymore. Just hope I'm one of the lucky ones who will get back although I know everyone can't come back—someone has to pay the price so that the people back home can live in peace. We want to be sure they never have to live under a ruler like this so-called Tojo. I just can't tell you about things here for it would be censored. You should be proud of the fact that you don't have to live like these people on this side of the pond.

The light I'm using is so dim I can hardly see but nothing can stop me from writing home to the ones I know and love. Some of the boys are singing across the way—sure makes me blue. I'm always wondering what's going to happen next."

Billy started his training at Camp Lejune, N. C. and then was sent to San Francisco where he was assigned to the Pacific war theatre and landed in Okinawa.

Average daily petroleum production was up in Texas during April, compared with April, 1944, and was slightly higher than in March, 1945, the Bureau of Business Research of the University of Texas reports.

A STRANGE SORT OF PRAYER

WELL, GOD, here we are.

You up there. Me down here, with a burning sun, a mess of insects, too much ocean, and other buddies just as lonely as me.

Oh, God, how nice it must be back home, with Germany licked, and the folks humming, and some of the boys all finished with the fighting.

But I guess that wasn't meant for me, was it? And tomorrow and tomorrow I'll still be dodging bullets, still feeling lost in the middle of the night.

Well, no hard feelings.

I'll go wherever You say, and do whatever You want me to. For You know what's best for me.

But say, if You can only get the people back home to remember me, maybe they'll still bear down. Maybe they'll still send us their blood, still stay on the job, still keep making the stuff we need.

You see, God, I'd like to get home, too.

Interesting News
Sent to Dispatch
By Ruby Mason, NC

Miss Ruby Mason, (NC) of the USNR of San Diego sent a very informative paper concerning news events as recorded in "Dry Dock," the official camp magazine of the San Diego Hospital. It follows:

San Diego, Calif.,
May 25, 1945
Dear Mrs. Warren:

If you have a few spare moments you might enjoy reading our weekly edition. It will give you an idea of what goes on around a navy hospital. This week's pin-up picture on the last page is somewhat of a contrast to the usual exposure but they are giving us girls a "break".

The movies here on the compound are out-of-doors and are free. Many of the patients who never have a chance to get out on liberty can see the very latest movies. Many of the entertainers make this a stopping place during their tours. Some of the recent popular ones have been Kay Kayser, Harpo Marx, Eddie Cantor, and the Andrews Sisters. Naturally I enjoy these shows as much as the fellows do.

Sincerely,
Ruby Mason

Improved Uniform SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D., Of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago, Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Lesson for June 10

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

THE MINISTRY OF JESUS

LESSON TEXT—Mark 1:14, 15. Luke 4:18-21; Mark 2:15, 21. GOLDEN TEXT—I am come that they might have life and that they might have it more abundantly.—John 10:10.

The dawn of a new day had come! The long-promised and expected Messiah came to break the 4000 years of silence by His personal presence.

We learn of His coming, His life and ministry, His death and resurrection, and find the promise of His coming again in the four Gospels. They are our complete lesson for this Sunday, but we obviously cannot review them in their entirety in our limited space.

Our Scripture references speak of His ministry in presenting the good news of the gospel to needy mankind.

I. The Good News Preached (Mark 1:14, 15).

Jesus always honored preaching as the primary and the effective means of spreading the good news of the gospel.

The forerunner, John the Baptist, had borne his witness. Jesus had come, had been baptized, and as John was cast into prison, He began to preach. "Repent ye and believe the gospel." The key verse of Mark is 10:45: "For even the Son of Man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister." The characteristic words are "straightway," "forthwith," and "immediately." The Greek word thus translated appears about forty times in the book.

The Servant of God went quickly about the Father's business. Christians, can we say the same for ourselves?

II. The Good News Practiced (Luke 4:18-21).

The daily ministry of Jesus as He lived here on earth is summarized in the prophecy of His coming which was given by Isaiah the prophet. As we read these words, we realize that we who profess to follow Him need to learn more of His spirit of tender and loving service to others.

It is significant and appropriate that Jesus' declaration of Himself as the fulfillment of Isaiah 61:1, 2 was made in the synagogue on the Sabbath day. He met with the people in the house and at the time set apart for God's worship. He opposed spiritual deadness, the misinterpretation of the truth, the distortion of religious principles; but He was not, as some would have us believe, a religious free lance who despised the established worship of His people. Having been prepared by the thirty years of privacy, and more particularly by the baptism and the temptation in the wilderness, He appeared at the synagogue in Nazareth to declare Himself as the fulfillment of prophecy.

Those who teach that Jesus was only a young Jewish teacher with a new philosophy of life have evidently not read the Scriptures. He knew Himself to be God's Son come into the world to bring the good news of salvation by His own blood to poor, sin-captive, blinded and bruised humanity. He is the Saviour!

Look at Isaiah 61:1, 2 and note that Jesus stopped reading before the end of the sentence. "The day of vengeance of our God" will come when Christ returns. This is the day of grace. Sinners are urged to accept God's love now, and thus to escape the terrible day of judgment which is to come.

III. The Good News Prepared (Mark 5:27a, 28, 31).

Jesus preached the gospel of the kingdom. He went about doing good, but always He knew Himself to be the Christ, the One who was to die for the sins of the world and to arise again for the justification of those who put their trust in Him.

Even those who deny to our Christ the recognition of His deity, and the devotion of life which is His just due, must, if they are at all intelligent, admit that no man ever lived who has made such an impact on human history. Even now, unbelieving men speak of Him as the founder of Christianity, a mighty leader, a wonderful example, or an unequalled teacher.

It is not enough that we stand with the mass of humanity who may thus admire Him, but who do not count Him as Saviour and Lord. The question comes to us as it did to the disciples, "Whom say ye that I am?" "Thou art the Christ"—this alone suffices as the foundation for Christian testimony and conduct. Although Jesus was not yet ready to have His Messiahship proclaimed to the public, He was prepared to teach His disciples concerning not only that important truth, but of His rejection and death.

Note the divine "must" (v. 31). While it is true that wicked men showed their hostility toward our God and His Christ by hanging Him on Calvary's cross, yet it was to die for our sins that He came into the world. The cross has rightly come to represent God's love to the world rather than man's hostility to God.

LT. COL. JAMES MINOR— (Continued From Front Page)

the 142nd Inf. thought back to the battle they had fought there against overwhelming odds, suffering few casualties and preventing a break through.

It was the 1st Battalion, commanded by Lt. Col. James L. Minor, Post, Texas, which defended Selestal. Their line was spread thinly on a broad front.

In the early morning of Dec. 12, 1944, the Germans launched a surprisingly large-scale attack with the immediate objective of seizing Selestal. Simultaneously other enemy elements in strength attacked the southern flank of the 36th Division front, thus presenting a serious bid for the entire sector.

The situation was further aggravated for the 1st battalion, 142d when a friendly unit holding a vital point on the left withdrew at first sight of the enemy, thus leaving a wide passage for enemy troops.

The fight for Selestal raged furiously throughout the morning but by mid-afternoon the tide of battle had been wrested from the enemy. Mopping up operations continued until after dark when all positions had been fully restored. The courage, individual aggressiveness and distinguished heroism displayed by the officers and men of the 1st Battalion resulted in the repulse of a strong enemy attack which, if successful, would have severed the Strasbourg-Selestal highway and opened the way for an attack against the rear of the Seventh Army.

In the May 23rd issue of the Star Telegram, Robert Wear, correspondent from Paris, quotes Capt. Goldman Drury, a chaplain who has been with the 36th Division for four years as saying: "Texans should be especially proud of two battalion commanders with the 142nd Inf. Regiment, Lt. Col. Seldon Simpson of Amarillo and Lt. Col. James L. Minor of Post, Texas."

The following letter has just been received by Mrs. James L. Minor from the commanding general of the 36th Division:

Letter of Congratulation

Germany, May 12, 1945
Dear Mrs. Minor:
It gives me great pleasure to inform you that your husband, Lt. Col. James L. Minor, has just been awarded an oak leaf cluster in lieu of a second Silver Star for gallantry in action.

It is a privilege to share the pleasure and gratification which this award must bring to you. I feel that his actions are a credit to the entire division.

It is largely through the efforts of men like him that our division has been able to achieve its splendid record in battle.

Congratulations,
John E. Dahlquist, Major Gen., U. S. Army Commanding.

ALVIN G. DAVIS—

Emergency Cotton Insect Report.

Feeling that he was on the right track, Alvin talked his father into letting him have the whole 120-acre farm which they had been renting, the home town bank loaned money for a new tractor, and 55 acres were planted to Western Prolifer seed. The yield was 15% better than the average, and the 55 acres produced $4,226.67 in lint cotton and cottonseed—35 bales and a remnant, with an average yield of about seven-elevents bale per acre, staple length was better, and the grade was better. After deducting $1,724.43 in expenses, Alvin cleared $2,502.24 on this cotton crop. In addition, he had 65 acres in grain sorghums, or combine milo, and fed out seven head of baby beef.

Sure that he's on the right track, Alvin has this year, the 1945-46 season, 95 acres in cotton, 25 acres in grain sorghums, 10 beef cattle and 9 swine in production.

PLANES TO DENVER TO GO VIA LUBBOCK

Of interest to Post citizens is the announcement that Braniff Airways will inaugurate service July 1 between Fort Worth and Lubbock on a third schedule to Denver.

The new schedule, first air service by any line between Fort Worth and Lubbock, will extend to Denver via Amarillo, Pueblo and Colorado Springs. The other two schedules are via Wichita Falls instead of Lubbock.

Billy Adron Boetick left Sunday after spending several days leave in Post with his mother, Mrs. Percy Lee Boetick. He has just completed his "boot" training at San Diego, Calif., and is returning there for new assignment.

Betty Williams, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. D. C. Williams, will enroll in ESCW in Denton for the summer term. She arrived home from the college a few days ago for a short visit.
