Southwestern Junior Rodeo Is To Be Held Here

Entry blanks for the Southwestern Championship Junior Rodeo, to be held in the Post Stampede and Rodeo Arena September 18, were mailed this week to county agricultural agents, chamber of commerce managers and a number of newspapers over a wide area in West Texas and the Southwest.

The rodeo for junior boys and girls is being sponsored here for the first time by the Post Chamber of Commerce in connection with the Annual 4-H Club Show scheduled for September 17 and 18. Proceeds from the rodeo will benefit the building fund of the 4-H Clubs of Garza County.

Two clowns, Earl Hodges with his mule, Tar Baby, and L. P.

Kennedy with his mule, Orphan Annie, have been engaged for specialty acts and negotiations are now under way to get the two most outstanding junior ropers in Texas for a matched roping at the rodeo. Additional specialty acts and a riding event may be added to the program.

Judges for the rodeo will be Lewis (Sonny) Nance and Ed Kelly Sims of Walsenburg, Colo., both outstanding ropers and capable judges. Junior girls of the Southwest are being invited to enter the Cowgirl Sponsor Contest. Dances are being planned for both nights of the Annual 4-H Show. Music will be by the Garza Rhythm Boys.

Officials of the sponsoring organization, in announcing the plans for the junior rodeo this week, said "we sincerely believe that it will be the largest and best show of its kind that has ever been held." Contestants must be 18 years old or under. The entry blanks list the following events:

Events Listed

Calf roping (regular tie-down), sponsor contest (barrel race), ribbon roping (boy and girl work together with either one roping and the girl carrying the ribbon to the judge), hat race (rider races to where his hat is placed, dismounts and places the hat on his head, mounts and returns to the starting point, with entry fees ranging from $3 to $5.

All of the contests are open to both boys and girls, except the sponsor contest which is open to girls only. Any city, club, ranch, rural community or civic organization may sponsor a girl.

Entry blanks should be mailed to the Post Chamber of Commerce, along with entry fees made payable to the organization. The prize list will include all entry fees plus a special award to the Southwestern Champion All-Around Cowboy and Cowgirl.

Senior and junior officials for the rodeo have been announced as follows:

Manager, Phil Bouchier; junior manager, Alvin Davis; secretary, Sherrill Boyd; junior secretary, Jimmy Puckett; arena director, Novis Rodgers; junior arena director, Carter White; chairmen of the sponsor contest and parade, O. D. Cardwell, and Jimmy Avery Moore, and cowgirl hostess, Zoe Sims.

An effort will be made to get a number of decorated floats entered in the parade, which will be held Saturday evening. Rural communities, business firms, clubs and individuals will be eligible to enter floats.

Davis is negotiating for a matched roping contest between Jimmie Bird and Scooter Fries of Bandera, state champion high school roper.

Anyone having steers or dry cows which may be used in a riding event is urged to report to Davis.

Bureau Prepares Plan For Roads

By the time the next legislature convenes, the Texas Farm Bureau Rural Roads Committee will have compiled all the facts necessary for a positive rural roads program, Mrs. W. C. W. Morris, Garza County Farm Bureau secretary, announced this week.

The program includes a plan for financing a permanent rural road building project, calling for a minimum of 60,000 miles of roads in the first five-year period.

Funds required to finance the program is estimated to be $40,000,000 for the first year, with an annual $27,500,000 to complete the five-year plan and to continue the necessary building, improving and maintenance of rural roads.

The bureau suggests that money for the first year come from the surplus fund in the state treasury and that the funds for succeeding years come from a natural resources tax.

Bingham To Attend School For Coaches

Coach V. F. Bingham, who was in charge of the Post Boys Club this summer will attend a Texas Coaching School in Abilene August 1-8. The school's staff will include Glenn Dobb of Georgia Tech and Mattie Bell and his staff of S.M.U. The course will be concluded with a football game between the "North All-Stars and the South All-Stars."

Vernon Ray, the assistant coach employed for Post High School, is attending the second six weeks of summer school at Texas Technological College.

Both Ray and Bingham need apartments here for the 1948-49 school year, Bingham said. The latter has been staying this summer in the home of E. E. Pierce, Post Grade School principal who is in New Mexico.

Entry Blank For Yard Contest Is Published Today

Elsewhere in today's issue is an entry blank for the Yard Beautification contest sponsored by the Post Chamber of Commerce.

Each person wishing to enter the contest is asked to fill out the blank and submit it to the chamber of commerce as soon as possible.

There are three divisions of the contest: (1) Best kept yard, front and back, in south Post; (2) yards more than three years old, and (3) yards less than three years old.

General improvement of premises during the summer months will be a basis for judging. Cash prizes will be offered the first and second winners in each division.

Post Chamber of Commerce members this week each received a letter from the board of directors describing some of the current profits, asking for suggestions for improving the program of work, and asking for volunteers to serve on committees.

The letter said, in part: "The Chamber of Commerce is a community-wide organization. . . ."

This program includes the Annual 4-H Club Show September 17 and 18. The awards and prizes will be increased to include the girls' exhibits. Cash prizes in both boys and girls divisions will be approximately $500. Many merchants also will give additional merchandise awards.

For the agricultural exhibit at the Panhandle South Plains Fair in Lubbock, seeds have been bought and distributed over the county. From the results, the committee will select 25 exhibit items.

The yard beautification contest will end some time after September 1. Total prize money is $50. Yards will be classified and a point system will be worked out by the committee. Yard inspections are being made a bout every 30 days.

Mother Of Three Garza Residents Dies In Lubbock

Mrs. Melvina McClellan, mother of three Garza County residents, died unexpectedly from a heart attack in her home in Lubbock Sunday morning. She was 73 years old.

Her body was taken to Mt. Vernon Monday for the funeral Tuesday afternoon.

Survivors include three daughters, Mrs. Bill Lamb of Lubbock, Mrs. Jewell King of Post and Mrs. Jack Case of Mt. Vernon; seven sons, Jess and Bryan McClellan of Lubbock, Morris and Ray McClellan of Garza County, Jade McClellan of Mt. Vernon, Noah McClellan of Marble Falls and Walter McClellan of Dumas; 23 grandchildren and a great granddaughter.

Fleahoppers Invade South Plains Slowly

Last week's Progress Report of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, Texas A. and M. College, on the Cotton Insect Situation in Texas showed only a small amount of infestation on the South Plains.

Fifty-seven fields were inspected in Lubbock, Howard, Dawson and Lynn Counties. No weevils and an average of three fleahoppers per 100 terminals were found. Lubbock, with four fleahoppers per 100 terminals, has the highest infestation.

IN ROTAN HOSPITAL

Mrs. Weldon Swanger was admitted to the hospital in Rotan for treatment. Her condition had improved by press time.

Results Of Election To Be Posted

Attention is called to an error made in last week's Post Dispatch regarding those who will vote Saturday at Place 8, the County Commissioners Court Room. This is the voting place for all Post voters living south of Main Street and west of the American Legion Hall, which is on Jefferson Street. All other Post voters should vote at Place 1, in the district court room.

T. R. Greenfield, county Democratic chairman, advises voters to mark their ballots as early as possible Saturday. In order to get early results of the election, voters of Place 1 are especially urged to vote early as theirs is the biggest box, the chairman said.

Polls will be open from 7 a. m. until 7 p. m.

The returns will be posted on a big board on a truck provided by W. F. Pierce in front of the Ford agency. The public is invited to attend the election returns party, which will begin about 8 p. m.

Tuesday was the deadline for voting by absentee ballot. County Clerk Ray N. Smith said yesterday that 101 persons had voted in person or by mail. Fifty additional ballots that had been issued had not been received. Only those postmarked not later than July 20 will be counted if they are received, he said.

Boys Club Closes Year With Boxing Matches At Park

Three lively boxing bouts by five negro boys and one Mexican boy added zest to the Fun Night program which concluded the Post Boys Club's summer activities last Thursday night in the Postex Park.

The program was featured also by 11 bouts between boys' club members, two of which—John Schmidt vs. Nolan Williams and Kenneth Poole vs. Jimmy Minor—ended in a draw. The following decision bouts were fought by the members:

James Gibson over Donald Hodges, Jackie Odom over Ross Anthony, Jerry Windham over Larry Welch, Tommy Malouf over Bernard Welch, Jack Schmidt over Don Brown, Dale Gordon over Jerry Brown, Herbert Hays over Jimmy Short, Jerry Hays over Richard Graves and George Graham over Larry Sanders.

In the extra bouts, Alvin Moore, Jr., won over Pete Costello and James Hoosey won over Johnny Moore and A. J. Brown beat J. D. Smith.

Calf Roping And Dance Scheduled

The crowd which always comes to town on election day will have plenty of entertainment Saturday night in the Post Stampede and Rodeo Arena.

Five ropers from the Garza County Roping Club will contest five Spur ropers in calf roping, and other roping events are scheduled, beginning at 8 o'clock.

Election returns will be broadcast from time to time during the program.

A dance sponsored by the Post Stampede and Rodeo Association will begin at 9 o'clock on the pavilion near the arena. Music will be by the Garza Rhythm Boys.

Republican Precinct Convention Planned

A Republican Precinct Convention, to elect delegates and alternates to the Republican County Convention, will be held at 2 p. m. Saturday at the court house, the county chairman, L. R. Johnson, has announced.

All qualified Republican voters of Precinct 1 are invited to attend. A Republican Precinct Chairman will be elected and candidates for Republican County Chairman will be voted on.

The Republican County Convention will be held July 31, and the Republican State Convention will be held August 10.

POST FOLKS AT WORK:

J. N. Power, standing, is shown ordering merchandise for his White Auto Store from Frank Bernson of Lubbock, salesman for the Graybar Wholesale Electric Company. The new merchandise will include Sunbeam mix-masters, toasters and irons, Proctor Ions, electrical fixtures and wiring and a number of other items. The Graybar is one of several companies from which the White Auto Store buys nationally advertised appliances.

ROGER W. BABSON WRITES THIS WEEK:

Comic Magazines Encourage Juvenile Delinquency

Gloucester, Mass.—I am back again for an annual visit to my old home city. Cannot help reminiscing and comparing conditions today with those of my boyhood days.

Certainly the people now have much more in food, clothing and shelter than ever before. They dress better and have better homes. Probably over half the families have automobiles and most children go to high school. Whether those young people are any happier than we were, is questionable. A ride on a merry-go-round is no more fun today at 25 cents than at a nickel in my day.

These better conditions are not due to the people working harder or longer; in fact everyone worked 10 hours a day when I was a boy. These better conditions are due to the machine age and mass production. The chain stores have also brought goods to the people for less money although they are hard on the local merchants for whom I truly feel sorry. Surely, if some of the old time storekeepers should come back they never would recognize Main Street, bordered on both sides with flashy "chains," automobiles and gas stations.

Opportunities Are Less

The freedom and opportunities which we boys had 50 years ago no longer exist. Not only is it difficult now to get a good job without belonging to a labor union, but almost every trade is governed by laws and regulations. Everyone with whom you deal, from the nurse who takes care of your baby to the undertaker who burns you must register and have a license. This applies also to druggists, plumbers, painters, electricians, builders, masons and even barbers. Ostensibly, these "examinations" are demanded to protect the public, but they are fast developing into a racket.

Not only are young people handicapped today in getting jobs and learning trades, but the wage and hour laws discourage employers from building new plants and expanding. The "drive" and willingness to take a risk, so evident in my boyhood days, is very rare today. Almost all are depending upon something apart from their own brain, thrift and energy to support them. It may be a state law, a labor union, a pension or some stocks and bonds,—or perhaps Uncle Sam! Courage is lacking. The present habit of avoiding personal responsibility for one's troubles will someday cause a smash.

Education Is Worse

The most dangerous change is the source of education. In my boyhood our education came from the home, the school and the church. Today these great institutions have lost their grip on the youth. The young people of Gloucester and most every other city are today being "educated" by movies, radios and comics. None of these existed when I was a boy. They must be controlled or "God help America." The curse of liquor is bad enough, but the liquor problem is no worse now than during my boyhood. Our school committees are asleep.

Perhaps this flood of comics (I refer to the paper, not to the newspaper strip) which I notice, fifty years in most barber shops and magazines, are everywhere, every reader of this would buy and read a book of these terrible pictures but then, please, burn them. You will soon realize that the cursed comic magazines are responsible for most of juvenile delinquency.

GETTING OUT On The LIMB

By EDDIE the EDITOR

One thing wrong with a small town is that it has to lose some of its best people when they reach the point of having done all the good they can at home.

Now we're losing the Joe Norton family, and the loss will be keenly felt—not only in church groups but in the school and entire community.

In three short years, the Rev. Mr. Norton and his wife have built up the Nazarene Church to a position of major importance in local religious circles and the family has endeared itself to many a Garza County resident who has never been inside the Nazarene Church. Now it is time for them to go to a larger challenge and, as it is their duty to go, we must accept it.

The Post Dispatch, in particular, will miss its most cooperative contributor of news to its church column. It is surprising but true that church news is the most difficult of all to gather. Our church editor works harder each week trying to make the church column interesting than on any other department of the paper. It has seemed, at times, that of all the people in this predominantly churchgoing town only she and Brother Norton were interested in seeing church news presented intelligently in the paper.

Our school will miss Mrs. Norton as keenly as will the church. Her fine personality and artistic talent, which she used so successfully in her church work, is something badly needed on any school's faculty.

We're never ready to say Goodbye to folks like the Nortons.

Speaking of schools: We need so much in the way of improved facilities here, there's hardly a starting point in listing them in the order of importance.

One of the crying needs, as I see and hear it, however is something we could have if just one person would open up her home and take on the responsibility at, say, a fixed sum per head.

It's a kindergarten, one qualified to give something approximating first grade work to children whose sixth birthdays fall in October and November, just late enough to have them ineligible to enter the public school. These six-year-old children present real problems, many parents tell me; particularly those who are large for their ages and normally healthy. Their friends are getting a year ahead of them in school, they will be the biggest children in a class of younger children when they do get started, and they are also a problem at home. Their parents would gladly pay a tuition fee to get them in school, many of them tell me.

The need for a kindergarten, however, is a simple problem compared with our other needs. This town has been recognized by the State Health Department as being badly in need of a hospital and it has been published by the Associated Press that Post has a top priority for federal aid on such a project.

Since publication of this news, almost a year ago, the Chamber of Commerce has been studying the situation and is now in a position to push the project if sufficient public interest is shown.

A 15-bed hospital is recommended, I understand. If there is

By EVELYN BOYD

Last weekend there floated a round Post an attractive blue folder which had on the back side "These Are Kilmer B. Corbin's ONLY Special Interests" and pictures of his lovely wife and three handsome children.

On the front side, there was a picture of the successful Dawson county judge who is running for State Senator from the 30th District. Under his picture was the slogan "A Stronger Voice For West Texas in State Government."

Had I not been personally acquainted with Corbin and known him to be the fine, capable person that he is, I would have read on, anyway, after seeing the above slogan.

Reading on, I observed that Corbin advocates: (1) Redistricting. This is something that I would like to insist on every state candidate favoring.

(2) Veterans' Bonus. While I feel that the bonus is a national, rather than a state, affair, I'm in favor of it the way Corbin sees it. He has a plan for paying the bonus out of the natural resources. While I haven't studied his plan carefully, it looks good from here.

(3) Resubmission of Old Age Assistance Amendment To Remove Limit. I agree with him that the red-tape ensnared assistance that is available now isn't enough to feed a snail.

(4) NO LEGISLATION TO FIX PRICES OF RETAIL GOODS. Enough said.

(5) No state control of underground water. As this isn't one of our problems here, I haven't studied this matter and so have no comment.

(6) Farm legislation, farm-to-market roads, soil conservation, continuation of gasoline tax refund.

Inside this folder are four clever drawings depicting Kilmer's life and his accomplishments. One observes at a glance that he grew up working on a Dawson County farm, worked his way through Texas Tech by waiting tables, later served as a school principal in Dawson County (and so he must be acquainted with some of our school problems), that he attended the University of Texas School of Law and later became the youngest county judge in Texas at the age of 22, and that he is now serving his third term as Dawson County judge and is "a man young enough to serve you and old enough to do it well."

As county judge, Corbin has laid some 50 miles of farm-to-market roads, has seen the valuation of his county raised from six million to 12 million without raising valuation of taxes on a single farm or home.

One of the men who brought these interesting folders to Post last week was a Dawson farmer, whose name I did not ask. He told me that the valuation of his farm had increased by several times because of one of the farm-to-market roads which Corbin got at no cost to the taxpayers.

How did he get the money, I wanted to know. I haven't verified the farmer's answer, but here it is for what it's worth:

"When Corbin went in as a judge, he tossed out all these $1 and cost fines on major offenses. When he fined a bootlegger for the first time, it was $100 and cost. The second offense was $200 and cost, and so on. I've known him to collect $1,000 and cost on a bootlegging fine. The county built roads with the proceeds."

Time's a flettin' and so, hurriedly, here's how I'm going to vote for a few candidates on July 24:

For United States Senator, Coke Stevenson, who made a good governor.

For governor, Roger Q. Evans, who retired as state commander of the V.F.W. to make the race.

For railroad commissioner, Ernest O. Thompson, who is doing a fine job, for the regular term and William J. Murray, Jr., who is also making a good showing, for the unexpired term.

For state senator, 30th District, Kilmer B. Corbin.

For district attorney, H. B. (Virgil) Crawford.

I haven't made up my mind yet as to some of the state candidates in the other races, but I am certain that I will vote for the above and those mentioned in previous columns.

I've known Virgil Crawford for a number of years. He is a native of West Texas, is a graduate of the Floydada High School and he has both business and law degrees from Baylor University. He is a former city attorney of Brownfield, and he is now serving his sixth year as Terry County attorney.

He is active in both church and civic work and my Brownfield friends tell me that some of Brownfield's amazing post-

What Our Contemporaries Are Saying:

ELECTION TIPS—As usual, Comptroller George Sheppard has an opponent. But Sheppard will be re-elected by the usual big majority. George took over the office at a time when public life in Texas was at a low ebb. He added business methods and honesty to his office; and brought order to confusion.

Just why Bascom Giles has three opponents as Land Commissioner is hard to understand. Giles has a good record in his work, and has not held office too long.

Jesse James is seeking re-election as State Treasurer. This office is purely a clerical job, and James has a good record. We see no sense in making a change.

But the case of J. E. McDonald is an altogether different one. Old Mac has been Commissioner of Agriculture for 16 years. He supports the Republican candidate for president, but asks the Democrats of Texas to keep him in office. He is now under federal indictment. Mac has a grip on the cotton farmers of Texas, and always turns up top man in the political scramble. This time his opponent is James D. Griffin, a farmer and former school teacher. He is well-qualified for the job, and this time the voters should turn down the man who has held such a long tenure of office.

This brings us down to local, District and County offices. Every voter in Randall county should know all of these candidates for these offices. You have seen many of them several war development is directly attributed to his energetic pushing. He is a combat veteran of World War 11, is 33 years old, is married and the father of two children.

Roger Q. Evans gets my support largely because he is "ashamed of our treatment of our teachers" and he has fought on the side of the teachers ever since he entered the legislature eight years ago.

Beauford Jester has shown the people of Texas that he isn't hipped on improving our school standards and the lot of the teachers, and he hasn't even recognized West Texas as being part of the state in matters of higher education.

As for the other candidates for the governorship, I don't know anything for or against them except Caso March, whose unfortunate publicity seems to be written by a screwball.

times during the course of this campaign, and therefore have the opportunity to pass judgment of their merits.

When you hire a man or woman in your own business, or to do your work, you expect to get the best that money will hire. The same index should govern when you vote for public officials.

But above all, go to the polls on July 24 and vote your sentiments. Those who refuse to take the time to vote hire some public officer with whom you are displeased.

You have an obligation, as well as a public privilege in casting your vote in our public elections.—Canyon News.

JUST TALK—Women are funny folks. Last week Mrs. W. E. Smart came into the Slatonite office with a big roll of paper and said that she wanted to get a Club book printed and she and Mrs. Nat Heaton, who came with her, wanted to know the earliest date for the completion of the book. After deep consideration I gave them a date about two weeks later than I thought they expected the book and they howled considerably but turned the copy over to me with the instructions that they were to see the proofs as soon as possible. Having some slack time we got the type set up and the proofs were taken to Mrs. Smart a few days after we received the copy but it looks like it is going to be Christmas before we see them again.

Most women are like that, in a big hurry one day for something and before they get anything finished they are off on some other road and have forgotten what it was that had them in a high fever the day before. They are mighty nice about it though and forgive the men for never getting things done right.—Slaton Slatonite.

DEEP BREAKING—A deep breaking contractor with one of chisel model deep breaking gang plows, is turning over a large portion of the old A. B. Bynum farm three miles northeast of the city. Many people are driving out there to see his mighty tractor tear a seven-foot swath, 30 inches deep into the atavial soil of this early settled place.

For the past several years, one of the heirs, Arnett Bynum, has had charge of the old place, but it had formed a habit of blowing out on him too frequently, so it was decided to deep break a large section of the place. Farming operations on this old place will be watched by many with interest.

On the right of the road as one drives out there, one will find that the Alton Webb place has also been deep broken, and a lot replanted since the breaking operation. On the Bynum place, some 8 or 10 inches of sandy type soil is being with some 20 inches of soil.

Yes, it costs considerably to deep break, but you get new farm when the operation is complete, and perhaps that won't blow out each Terry County Herald.

Don't worry about it sonny, CONNELL CHEVROLET can fix it in a jiffy.

Cowmen Have Good Outlook On Price

Agricultural economists estimate that today there are four hundred thousand less beef cattle in the United States than on hand at the close of World War I in 1918. Dairy bulls are included in the beef cattle total because the separate figures aren't available, says Robert H. Gibson, Garza County agricultural agent. But when total figures are used in this case, the real story is covered.

Although total beef numbers are lower between the two periods, cow numbers are up. There are nearly fifty thousand more cows of two years and over, and about four hundred thousand more heifers one to two years old. Calves and steers, in about equal numbers, account mainly for the general decrease. Estimates are made as of the first of the year, says Gibson.

"Compared to World War I, we now have in supply fewer beef cattle but we can increase beef production quicker in view of a higher percentage of cows and heifers," Gibson points out. Right after the first World War there were 400 head of cattle for every 100 persons in America. Today this picture is a little different. At the present count there are only 284 head for the same number of people. Even the number of beef cows and heifers, when related to population, lost ground instead of gaining, as did the total number of cows and heifers.

Another interesting fact about the beef cattle trends says Gibson is that the number of pounds of beef hasn't gone down as much as the cattle numbers. All in all, it looks as if the cowmen have a pretty good outlook "price-wise."

Best Portion Of Cropland Is That Which Washes Off

The cream of the cropland goes first, when land is washed or blown away, says Will Wright, chairman of the Garza County Agricultural Conservation Committee. It is the top few inches of soil that usually hold the humus and fertility which produces crops. In most soils "the deeper we go the less humus and fertility."

A heavy rain on a cultivated field where the soil is unprotected breaks up the surface soil and the finer and lighter particles are carried away with the water that runs off, the chairman explains. This finer and lighter material is the humus and fine particles of soil that hold most of the fertility. The coarser sand and gravel that settle back on the first are the least fertile.

The action of wind is about the same. The lighter and finer particles are carried away while the coarser particles and less fertile soil remains.

This emphasizes the importance of holding the top-soil. Damage by gullies and "washes" is more spectacular but the most widespread damage, says the chairman, is that done by sheet erosion that "skims the cream" off the land.

Evidence of sheet erosion are found in the muddy water that runs off during the storm and in the peck-marked field with its little hummocks of soil which were protected during the storm by pebbles or leaves and which stand up above the rest of the soil after the storm is over.

As the chairman explains, "because it is the best part of the land that has been washed away, figures showing tons of earth moved by erosion only tell part of the story. The ton of soil that was taken by erosion may be worth two tons of the soil that is left."

Range Production

How many farmers would be satisfied with a strain of cotton that would produce less than a quarter of a bale of cotton to the acre, when they knew of another strain that, if planted right beside it, would produce a bale or better? Now that seems like an awfully foolish question but a lot of farmers and ranchers have grasses in their pastures that are in the quarter bale or better class.

Needle grass, wild rye, and fillerec are in the quarter bale class. Buffalo grass, blue grama, side oats grama, hairy grama, spear grass, and little blue stem are some of the grasses in the bale or better class.

Lots of people think of cattle as the main crop from range land, but as the old saying goes "They can't see the forest for the trees." The progressive rancher realizes that grass is the crop from the range land and the cattle are just a mighty efficient harvesting machine.

Range land like cultivated land has to produce the highest producing crop if it is going to make the most money. The most expensive cattle or the most expensive combine can't make a crop that the soil didn't produce.

This argument for proper range use was written in the Aspermont Work Unit for the "Aspermont Star." Fortunately the grasses that produce the most money for the ranchers are most efficient in saving water and conserving the soil.

Conservation Crop Seed

District cooperators who will be using the established conservation crops will be interested in knowing that there will be an abundant supply of African weeping lovegrass seed this fall and winter. Prices in large lots are sure to be lower. Last year Tom Gilmore, T. R. Greenfield, Ralph and Rex Welch, Jim Graves and Bob Williams, all cooperators of the Duck Creek Soil Conservation District, combined their order for a hundred pounds and purchased it for $2.25 per pound.

Hairy vetch seed is very scarce. This legume soil conserving crop continues to gain in favor. The demand will far exceed the supply. Prices will likely be like last year: Somewhere between 18 and 25 cents per pound. District cooperators are urged to contact the Work Unit Office in the Double U building immediately if they will need assistance in getting vetch seed.

Gas Publication Devotes Two Page Spread To Post

A two-page story of Post is featured in the July issue of the Employees' News, which is published in Amarillo for the employees and families of the West Texas Gas and affiliated companies.

The lead picture shows a typical Saturday afternoon Main Street scene when "cars, trucks and people jam the streets." The next two pictures show construction of the new gas extensions that have been laid here in recent months, and the fourth picture shows the original C. W. Post home which is now the Hudman Funeral home. The photos were made by Sherrill Boyd.

The article says, in part: "Over 6,000 feet of gas mains have been laid by the West Texas Gas Company in Post during the past two years. A recent check of the meter book in Post showed 672 customers are being served by the company in that city."

Closures Hold Water

Delmer Cowdrey, Duck Creek Soil Conservation District cooperator who lives near Graham, says "All of the 2½ inch rain which fell Sunday July 11 was held on my farm and stored in the soil." He gives credit to a properly designed system of level closed-end terraces and contour cultivation. He believes, in spite of the dry spring season just past, that enough water was stored from this recent rain to carry his crops a long way through the summer months. Mr. Cowdrey's object in terracing his farm was to conserve water.

Oscar Graham, also of the same community, held his newly built terraces half full of water from this same rain but states that as soon as crops are off he intends to make full closures on all of his terraces in order to hold more rain fall on the land.

Mr. and Mrs. Haws went to Abilene last Friday and obtained an apartment near McMurry College.

Three-Year Four-H Girls Are Eligible

Rural girls in Texas between 14 and 21 again have the opportunity to take part in a special 4-H "wear-care" clothing demonstrations awards program, which is being renewed this year.

The demonstration may apply to what participants have learned regarding good methods of selecting, wearing and caring for a clothing wardrobe. The care may include washing, drying, ironing, removal of spots and stains, and handling of garments when not in use.

State champions—either two individual demonstrators or two members of a demonstration team—named by the state club office, will each receive a $25 cash award provided by American Viscose Corp. The winners must have completed at least three years of 4-H Club work, including the current year.

County extension agents will furnish complete information regarding the demonstrations.

Heat Is Greatest Enemy Of Quality In Egg Production

The quality of eggs is affected by their environment. In the case of eggs, that "environment" means the way eggs are handled from the time they are laid until the housewife serves them at the table.

Heat, says F. Z. Beanblossom, extension poultry marketing specialist of Texas A. and M. College, is the greatest enemy of high quality in eggs. Eggs should be gathered several times a day and the animal heat reduced as soon as possible. All eggs should be held below 68 degrees F.; higher temperatures break down the egg rapidly.

As a matter of fact, says Beanblossom, quality may be lower in eggs after three days of improper handling than in eggs which have been properly stored for as long as six months.

Quality egg rules for the flock owner include: Keep hens in the laying house until late afternoon on rainy days; put ample clean nesting material in the nests; remove broody hens from nests; remove male birds from the flock; cover dropping pit with wire; gather eggs three to five times a day; cool eggs promptly after gathering and store them in a cool place.

For business firms: Handle eggs carefully; store eggs in good cases with clean flats and fillers; keep eggs at proper refrigeration and away from strong odors.

For the housewife: Keep eggs in clean containers, under refrigeration in the hot summer months and away from other foods which have strong odors.

Eugene Debs was five times the Socialist Party's nominee for president of the U. S.

Old Vegetables Should Be Taken Out Of Garden

Gardeners should take advantage of the mid-summer moisture. If old vegetables have not been cleaned from the garden, it's high time to do so, says J. F. Rosborough, extension horticulturist of Texas A. and M. College. The old rows can be used for the new plantings in the next few days.

After the old vegetables have been removed—roots and all—apply two or three pounds of 5-10-5 commercial fertilizer for every 100 feet or row space, stirring the soil to a depth of four or five inches. Mix the fertilizer thoroughly with the soil so that there will not be any possibility of damage to the germinating seed.

This is a good time to get collards in the ground. The Georgia variety is an old standby which grows best in the east and south-east sections of Texas. Sow seed at the rate of six to eight per foot and cover them with about an inch of soil. By placing a few old boards over the planted area, says Rosborough, the soil will be kept cool and the loss of moisture reduced. The seed will sprout sooner, too.

When the young plants begin to show up, remove the planks. Should the weather become dry and hot during late July, it will be necessary to give the young plants a good watering every week or ten days. By late August the collard plants will be large enough to be thinned to two feet apart in the row—and plants that are removed may be transplanted to adjacent rows.

Now is a good time to plant seed for fall tomatoes, Rosborough says. The Stokesdale variety for large slices or the Porter variety for small fruit are recommended. Plant the seed in single rows, care for them as in a small plant bed, and thin them in 30 or 40 days to a spacing of three feet apart. Additional rows may be set from the plants which are removed from the original rows.

The alert gardener should take advantage of favorable moisture in the soil, and prepare rows for planting of Irish potatoes, turnips, radishes, onions from sets and other garden plants which will be started in late August or early September. By preparing the soil now, it can be kept in a loose, workable condition so that with the coming of fall showers, planting can be done immediately.

A few hours in early morning or late evening given over to the garden at this time of year will mean plenty of early fall vegetables and make you the garden leader in your neighborhood or community, says Rosborough.

A djinn was a member of an order of mythical beings said to have been created 200 years before Adam.

Army Forces in Korea since September, 1946, date of the start of the American occupation. He will report for duty with the 571st Field Artillery Battalion at Fort Riley, Kansas. Accompanying him aboard the Army Transport which was scheduled to dock at San Francisco were his wife and three daughters, who joined him in Korea in April, 1947. For the past 18 months Lieutenant Jones has been a unit member of the 1st Field Artillery Battalion at Pusan, Korea's largest southern city.

Local Support Of Schools Keep Up With State Funds

Local financial support of Texas' public schools has kept pace with the greatly increased state aid during the last decade, Dean Robinson, Garza County school superintendent, was informed this week.

A comprehensive state-wide study has just been released by the Texas State Teachers Association in cooperation with the State Department of Education, he said. It discloses that through increased property valuation or hikes in taxes most local school districts are doing their share in paying the cost of their schools.

During the 1946-47 school year, the latest for which complete figures are available, the study disclosed that the state paid 53 per cent of the cost of education and the local districts 47 per cent.

Carrying Big Load

These approximate figures hold true for each of the last 10 years despite the fact the constitution of Texas provides that the state shall pay for two-thirds of the costs of the schools.

Most schools have nine-month terms. The constitution sets out that "the state shall maintain and support schools for not less than six months."

Expenditures for public schools have increased from a total of $76,707,149 in 1935-36 to $137,609,088 during 1946-47. The local support in 1935-36 was 51 per cent to 49 per cent for the state. The average salary to teachers in the mid thirties was approximately $1100.

Shortly after the depression years, Texans became conscious of the deficiencies in their school system and set about to give it more financial aid, the report noted.

Districts Kept Pace

As the legislature hiked appropriations for the schools, the local districts also increased their levies and property valuations.

During the 1941-42 school year local districts bore 51 per cent of the cost of education. They collected taxes amounting to $47,375,861. The state supplied $44,610,190.

Both state and local support jumped in 1946-47. The legislature in 1945 increased the maximum tax rate that may be voted by common and independent school districts to $1.50.

The result was that the districts took advantage of it. Local tax support in 1946-47 totaled $64,116,512. The state supplied $73,392,576.

The larger districts, especially, increased their levies. During the last school year more than 50 per cent of all children of scholastic age in independent school districts resided in districts which now levy a tax rate above $1.00.

TO THE VOTERS OF GARZA COUNTY:

I have endeavored to contact all of you in my visitation to your homes and places of business all over the county.

Of course, it was impossible to see each individual, as many were not at home, and I have not had the privilege of personal contact to present my claims to you first hand, I am therefore having this message placed in our local news publications that you may more fully know my claims for consideration of your support in the coming primary election, Saturday, (July 24).

I consider my qualifications for the office are adequate. I have had four years experience as County Judge. I prepared myself for the office by taking a course in law, especially fundamental law, and likewise studied all through the two terms to equip myself for efficient service.

I have been a student of human nature through all my life of public service, realizing this is necessary in order to deal with people more safely, justly and successfully.

As chairman of the Commissioners Court, I studied the needs of the county concerning the duties of that court, and endeavored to aid the court in all the responsibilities of taxation and financial obligations, recognizing the welfare of the county as it rested in that court's hands.

It is my purpose to take no other outside responsibilities, considering the duties, if well done, sufficient to require one's very best endeavor.

My one pledge is to be worthy of the respect and confidence of all the people, by serving faithfully in every relationship, without fear or favor toward anyone.

Justice seasoned with mercy, when mercy is due, thought of the individual and public welfare, and an unyielding regard for the oath of office, regard for the spirit as well as the letter of the law, I thus present my claim to the voters of the county to be registered Saturday at your respective voting places.

The greatest good for all concerned, not the candidate, but the people served, I am sincerely and respectfully yours for the things that ought to be.

Classification Service Offered Again To Farmers

Texas cotton farmers who want to receive classification and market news service on their 1948 crop should get their group applications in within a few days.

Deadline date for the eastern part of the state is August 1 and for the western part, August 15. John L. McCollum, manager, southwest area cotton branch, USDA's Production Marketing Administration, Dallas, has announced.

The August 15 closing date takes in all counties lying entirely or for the most part west of the 100th Meridian.

Both services are provided without charge under the Smith-Doxey Act to organize cotton improvement groups.

Group applications may be filed at the Dallas cotton office, 1104 South Ervay, or at PMA's classing offices located in Austin, Abilene, Galveston, Lubbock and El Paso.

Texas had more than 1,000 organized improvement groups last year consisting of nearly 100,000 farmers who had over a million and a half bales classed. This represents about one-half of the 1947 crop, McCollum explained.

Post Graduated To City Status With Directory

Post was graduated last week from a one horse village to city proportions with the issuance of a new directory by the Southwestern Associated Telephone Company.

The new directory is not one of these ad-sprinkled folders that looks like the program for a home talent play. Not one advertisement is contained on the attractive grey cover, inside or out. There is no tag advertising attached with a string to the hole in the top of the book.

The only similarity between the new and old is that, mixed among the names of numerous newcomers, are the names of people who have always been listed in the local phone book.

The new book, however, lists them alphabetically without interspersing the names with advertisements. All the advertisements, which incidentally are a helpful appendix to any telephone book, are listed on the back, on yellow pages. This facilitates searching for service and is particularly helpful to newcomers.

There are approximately 257 listings in the new directory.

The first name is Adams, Thelma Sarah. The first name in the August, 1947, directory was Post Truck and Tractor, which had an ad under Agricultural Implements.

The last name in the new directory, as well as in all the preceding directories, is Zetzman, William.

The first name under the B's in the new book is Mrs. J. H. Babb, whose name is difficult to top in any alphabetical listing. Last year B & B Auto Supply topped it.

Camp Post edged out Cafe American for first place under the C's, but L. W. Dalby held his place as leader of the D's.

B. J. Edwards, who has moved to Los Alamos, N. M., yielded his first place in the E's to Loyd Edwards. Under F, Fannie's Cafe is first, as always, but Garner Butane Appliance Company lost its first place listing to Roy Gaines under G.

Halliburton Oil Well Cementing managed to keep its place as leader of the H's, as did Ideal Laundry under I. Imogene Jewell, leading the J's last year isn't listed this year. Her place went to Merle Jenkins who wasn't here to be listed last year.

Dr. Glenn E. Kahler held his top place under K, as did Lakeview Service Station under L and Maggie's Beauty Shop under M. Last year Lewis Nance was

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Nichols and daughters and Miss Agnes Windham of Post were Sunday visitors in the Isabel Nichols home.

Henrietta Nichols is confined to her bed, suffering from an infected foot.

Mrs. Isabel Nichols has received word that her grandson, Bill Blake of Tucson, Ariz., has re-enlisted in the Navy and is listed first and Edward Neff was second. This year Neff took the place of Nance, who isn't listed. The O. C. Ranch kept its place as leader under O. Otis Palmer came up to first under P with the elimination this year of Holland Page.

Arllie Ramage continues to lead the R's, and George Samson leads the S section which was led by the S-Lazy-S Ranch last year. Tahoka Post National Farm Loan Association leads the T's instead of Arthur Talley, who isn't listed this year.

The Union Bus Station, which led the U's last year, dropped down below both the U Lazy S Ranch and Uncle Dolph's Cafe in the new book.

C. M. Voss kept his position as leader of the V's, as did the Wacker's under W. Warren Yancy nosed out Alvin Young as leader of the Y's.

With the convenient Yellow Pages of classified listings, the telephone patron for the first time can easily find such confusing listings as Garza County GI Vocational Agricultural School. Instead of wondering whether to look under Garza County or the G's, V's, or A's, one can look in the classified section, under SCHOOLS and find it listed along with the Graham, Post Grade and Post High Schools.

This should save time for the patrons and jangled nerves for the operators.
