POST CAN'T GROW WITHOUT LIVING QUARTERS—

Housing Lack May Retard School Program

Post school officials are frankly worried about the teacher situation, and while this affects more people, their worry is no more acute than that of other persons who are trying to employ skilled help not available here.

Just this week one of the school teachers, which the Post Independent School Board hired this spring, sent her resignation, giving as the reason her inability to find reasonable living quarters for herself and school-age son.

"If anybody in Post is able to help us out in this teacher housing shortage, we certainly will appreciate hearing from them," Supt. G. R. Day said yesterday. "We can't afford to keep losing the teachers we have already hired, and we certainly can't expect to hire teachers for the vacancies still existing if we can't find places for them to live," he continued.

Rural Schools, Also

The rural schools are facing a similar problem, County Supt. Dean Robinson said yesterday, and "for this reason," he explained, "we have tried to hire as many local people as possible, but we still need teachers. We may not be able to open some of the schools this fall, unless we can find some teachers."

That local business is being effected in a similar manner is illustrated in this typical letter (dated July 25) in the Post Chamber of Commerce files:

"Dear Sirs:

"I would like to know if there are any available apartments for rent in Post. If so, for what prices?

"They must be furnished, two or three rooms, and private bath. Also in easy walking distance of the town and high school.

"I have two daughters, age 14. I will appreciate any information you may be able to give me.

"Yours truly,

"Mrs. C. G. Brown,

"Quanah, Texas."

All Post Regrets

Sherrill Boyd, Post Chamber of Commerce secretary, said that he was unable to tell Mrs. Brown about available living quarters of any type, much less of the specifications requested, at the time he received her letter and so he answered with a letter typical of many answers to rent housing requests:

"Dear Mrs. Brown:

"We regret to inform you that the housing situation here is acute and we cannot give you any definite information at present. However, we will keep your letter on file and if we should have any information soon we will be glad to send it to you at once.

"We are sorry we cannot help you at present.

"Sincerely,

"R. S. Boyd, secretary, Post Chamber of Commerce."

Listings Are Requested

Boyd requested the Post Dispatch to announce that all list- ings with the Post Chamber of Commerce of available rental space, either of business build- ings or living quarters, will be greatly appreciated by the orga- nization.

The local chamber works close- ly with the oil people who are oper- ating in this county, as to their housing needs for additional per- sonnel, and has been instrumen- tal in finding living quarters for many of them.

The Post Chamber of Commerce also gets requests for informa- tion on available business space.

"The Post Chamber of Com- merce is pleased to offer this ser- vice," Boyd said, "whenever pos- sible."

On Monday night the governor will meet with officers and 1947-48 committees of the local club at the Scarborough Dining Room. On Tuesday, he will address the entire club at the regular luncheon meeting.

Mr. McCulloch, who is a farmer by profession, is coming here to advise and assist the local president, James Minor; the secretary, Lewis Nance, and other officers and committeemen on matters pertaining to club administration and Rotary service activities. In discussing this, Minor said that he learned at the international convention in San Francisco this summer that during the last fiscal year, 418 new Rotary Clubs were organized in 16 countries of North and South America, and in Australia, Belgium, China, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, England, Finland, France, Greece, Ireland, India, Italy, Macao, Malayan Union, The Netherlands, Netherlands Indies, New Zealand, Norway, the Philippines, Portugal, Scotland, Siam, Southern Rhodesia, Sweden, Switzerland, Trieste, Union of South Africa and Wales.

Garza 4-H Boys To Attend Camp At Fairgrounds

Twenty-five Garza County 4-H Club boys and two club leaders, Gene Carpenter of Garza and Alvin Davis of Graham, will attend the district 4-H encampment on the Panhandle-South Plains Fair grounds in Lubbock August 11, 12, and 13. D. F. Eaton, Garza County agricultural agent, has announced.

They will camp in army barracks recently moved there by the Lubbock Board of City Development and fair directors for youth activities.

The barracks have 300 bunks and complete mess hall facilities, Eaton said. They make it possible for a larger number of boys to attend the encampment because the problem of hotel reservations and restaurant facilities is eliminated, the agent said.

The boys will have the use of the Lubbock Rifle Range for rifle instruction and will be allowed to swim each morning in the pool at Mackenzie State Park. Ball games and other form of entertainment also are planned for the 250 to 300 boys who will attend from 17 South Plains counties, Eaton explained.

Millers Sponsor Saturday Dance

The public is invited to the dance which the Post Millers, baseball club, are sponsoring Saturday night at the American Legion Hall, beginning at 8:30 o'clock.

The Rainbow Swingsters of Ralls, a string band which is well known here, will play. Admission price will be $1.

NEW ARRIVALS

Mr. and Mrs. James Kennedy of Breckenridge, formerly of Post, are announcing the arrival of a 7 pound boy born July 25. He was named James Lee.

A son weighing 5 lb., 5 oz., was born to Mr. and Mrs. Teddy Brannon at 2:12 p. m. last Friday in the West Texas Hospital at Lubbock.

Four-H Boys And Girls To Attend Countywide Rally

A countywide boys' and girls' 4-H Club Rally will be held Saturday at Post Boy Scout Camp, beginning with registration at 9 a. m.

The girls will study handicraft during the morning, learning leather lacing and the making of shell jewelry. The boys will play baseball.

Each boy and girl is to bring a picnic lunch, consisting of fresh fruit and "plenty of sandwiches." Garza County home demonstration clubwomen will provide potato salad and pickles and assist with serving of the lunches.

The noon program will consist of talks by Judge J. Lee Bowen and a representative of the Post Chamber of Commerce. All home demonstration clubwomen, all boys and girls 4-H Club members and all their parents are invited to attend.

After the luncheon, the 4-H Clubbers will attend a theatre party at the Garza Theatre. Each person will pay the regular admission fee, but the theatre management will return 20 per cent of the proceeds to the club for use in promoting their fall exhibits.

The countywide rally was planned in detail at a meeting of representatives of the clubs last Saturday at the court house.

Girls present were Lenora Stone of Graham, Jeanne Kiker of Close City and Charlotte Brox. Boys attending were Donald and Gene Carpenter of Close City.

Visiting Ford Men To Attend Power Opening

Stroud, sales and fleet owner representative, of the Ford Motor Company district office in Dallas and Elmer Tarbox of the Lubbock Auto Company are expected here for the formal opening of the local Ford agency owned by Tom Power Saturday.

The public is invited to attend the opening, which will be featured by exhibits of new Ford automobiles and trucks and new and rebuilt Ford parts.

Refreshments will be served all day, and string music for the occasion will be provided by the Rainbow Swingsters of Ralls, orchestra which is staying over that night to play for a public dance at the American Legion Hall, benefitting the Post Millers, baseball club.

Gospel Meeting Opens Tomorrow

The public is invited to attend a gospel meeting at the Church of Christ in Close City, August 1-10 at 10 a. m. and 8:15 p. m. daily.

Wildcat East Of Town Abandoned As Dry Hole

A wildcat, drilled by J. T. O'Neal Drilling Company of Lubbock for Brown, Brown & Comanche Oil Corporation, on a section adjoining the east townsite, was abandoned as a dry hole last week end. The rig was moved to a new location south of the Postex Cotton mills on Post Estate land.

The test was bottomed at 3,112 and plugged after being tested for production. Only slight shows of oil were encountered, but considerable gas was found near the bottom.

The well, had it turned out to be a producer, would have brought about the drilling of two more wells on the acreage by the Comanche Corporation.

HOWELL TWINS BUY BEAUTY SHOP FROM LULA MAE YOUNG

Lois and Lenis Howell of Close City purchased the Unique Beauty Shop from Lula Mae Young on Monday and took over management of the business on Tuesday morning.

The new owners need no introduction to Post and Garza county folk as they have lived in his area for many years. They are experienced operators.

Anne Russell who has been associated with the shop the last several months will continue to work but will be out of the shop for perhaps two weeks.

Lula Mae Young is withdrawing from business but wishes to express a sincere thank you to all her business associates and friends. Her advertisement in this week's issue of the Dispatch is expressing this thought to all persons with whom she has come in contact during her business venture.

WANTED: 2-INCH RAIN BY AUG. 10—

Flea Hoppers Threaten Garza's Cotton Acreage

There is a good growth of cotton all over Garza County.

The plains cotton will need two inches of rain by August 10, if it lives up to present expectations.

Moisture is still pretty good, although down to seven to nine inches, in the sandy areas.

There is quite a bit of cotton flea hopper damage, three to 40 per cent, all over the county.

It is not too late to dust and prevent further damage.

In event of a wet August, farmers can expect heavy infestations of leaf worms and boll worms, as there is now a medium infestation of millers.

The above sums up, in brief, the cotton crop situation as seen by D. F. Eaton, Garza County agricultural agent whose busi-

Seventy-Three Badges Won By Charles Moore

A joint Court of Honor for two Post Boy Scout troops was held Monday evening at the court house. Steve Strasser, chairman of the Lions Club committee on advancement, presided. He was assisted by Oscar Chapman, assistant scoutmaster of Troop 16 and R. A. Moore, scoutmaster of Troop 11.

Charles Moore of Troop 11 received the Eagle award and a letter from the National Council which was read by Mr. Strasser who presented the badge to Charles' mother, Mrs. R. A. Moore. Charles also received six merit badges, bringing his merit badge total to 73. Other members of Troop 11 received the following awards:

Bill Jones, Life and merit badges; Wayne Thomas, Star and merit badges; Roy Pharris, Bernard Welch and David Penning-First Class and merit badges; Don Tatum, Wiley Jones, Darrell Stone, Dannie Tillman, Toppet Bilberry and Buddy Davies, Second Class awards and merit badges; tenderfoot, John Norton, and merit badges, Cordell Custer, Troop 16 awards went to:

R. A. Moore asked the parents of the award winners to read the Boy Scout Manual to learn how much their sons have accomplished in earning the awards. He said he believed this would stimulate more interest on the part of the parents and result in parental encouragement for the type of Boy Scout advancement which builds community leaders.

Only a few parents attended the court.

Commission Hears Garza Group Today

Highway Designation May Be Decided Soon

Garza County Judge J. Lee Bowen, Commissioners W. T. Parclman and W. C. Quisenberry and Post Chamber of Commerce Secretary Sherrill Boyd are in Austin today attending a meeting which they hope will result in the designation of the proposed Broadway-To-The-Big Bend link of an international highway which would diagonally cross Garza County via Post.

They left yesterday morning and attended a banquet given by the Broadway-To-The-Big Bend Association at the Stephen F. Austin Hotel last night for members of the Texas and Oklahoma Highway Commissions, Highway engineers, Governor Beauford Jester and a large delegation of representatives from the West Texas counties along the proposed route.

On Regular Docket

Scheduled to appear on the regular August docket of the Texas State Highway Commission, approximately 75 West Texas county commissioners were to request the designation this morning.

Also scheduled to appear before the Commission on the same request were G. F. Wacker of Pauls Valley, Paul V. Carille of Sallisaw and J. L. Selman of Woodward, representing the Oklahoma Commission which already has designated the proposed route from Tulsa to the Red River, tying it with a proposed superhighway from Tulsa to Oklahoma City, where it would connect with a highway which goes well into Canada.

To Meet Park Route

The route would cross the river above Quanah and would go through Paducuh, Dickens, Post, Lamesa, Andrews, Kermit and Pecos, joining there with the present highway south to the Big Bend National Park. At Presidio, the link would join with a route which the Mexican government is building across Mexico to the ocean.

Since the route would entail much new construction, the commissioners are asking only for designation at this time, for long-range consideration. Several counties along the route, in the Permian Oil Basin, already have completed construction of their portions of the route.

Chamber of Commerce and other delegates from Presidio to Quanah were to be in Austin for last night's banquet and for today's hearing.

Charles W. Roberts of Andrews, secretary-treasurer of the Broadway-To-the-Big Bend Highway Association, arranged the banquet at which the association's president, Judge K. H. Corbin of Lamesa, was to preside. Judge Bowen is a director in the association.

Robertson of Lubbock and Corpus Christi, formerly of Post, were announced at a tea given in the Nease home Friday evening from 6:30 until 8:30 o'clock.

The couple will be married at 8:30 o'clock the night of August 28 in the First Methodist Church in Plainview. They will make their home in Denton, where both are students of North Texas State Teachers College.

More than 100 guests called at the Nease home and were greeted by Mrs. Nease and her daughters and Mrs. Robertson and Mrs. Stuckler of Plainview.

Mrs. Marvin Neely of Plainview, formerly of Post, presided at the punch bowl at one end of a cleverly decorated announcement table. At the other end was a miniature football field, with goal posts decorated with musical staffs. Music notes indicated the first few notes of "The Bride's Chorus" and the letters, MARY, were lettered on the faces of the notes.

At one end of the goal posts was a small white football, laced with aqua ribbon and lettered, Ed. An aqua ribbon on his post carried the date, August 28.

Miss Mildred Beck of Plainview assisted with the tea service.

Miss Hazel Cash directed guests from the dining room to the guest room where Miss Ruth Elizabeth Knowlin of Plainview presided for registration.

Piano music by Mrs. Dean and Miss Mary Jane Hamilton, both of Plainview, and vocal selections by Miss Hamilton comprised the program during the receiving hours.

A series of pre-nuptial parties is under way in Plainview as a courtesy to the bride elect, who will also be honored here at a party given by Miss Cash.

Bank Employees Enjoy Baseball Game and Party

Two of America's most popular requirements, food and recreation, were amply satisfied for the personnel of the First National bank on Tuesday night.

The officers entertained the employees with dinner at the American Cafe in Lubbock and the Hubber-Gold Sox baseball game, with Ira Lee Duckworth and O. L. Weakley as active hosts.

The group left Post in three 1947 Fleetmaster Chevrolets and sat down at 7 p. m. in the very pleasant surroundings and marine decorations featured by this new cafe operated by former Postites, Mr. and Mrs. O. Flanking the meat on each huge platter were French fried potatoes, onion rings, and tomato salad. Servings of ice cream concluded the feast.

Adjourning to the Hubber Park the group joined some 5,000 other fans in watching Lubbock ease through as winner 7-6 after the Gold Sox staged a ninth inning rally and two home runs by Lubbock's Cola and Arers provided the thrills expected of the most popular sporting pastime.

Enjoying the evening's excursion were Messrs. and Mesdames Ira Lee Duckworth, O. L. Weakley, Emory Stewart, John Cearley, L. J. Richardson, Jr., Misses Mary M. Duckworth, Martha Roach, Wilma Pirtle, Vera Jean Branson, Iris Floyd and Ila Fae Bratcher.

Pickled Peach Recipe Offered By Miss Hipp

As pickled peaches are one of America's favorite sweet spicy relishes and since the peach season is reaching its climax here, Miss Jewell Hipp, Garza County home demonstration agent, recommends this recipe, which uses eight pounds of small or medium sized peaches:

The specialist recommends this recipe using 8 pounds of small or medium sized peaches; after peaches are washed and pared, two cloves are stuck in each peach, or the 8 two-inch sticks of cinnamon and 2 tablespoons of whole cloves may be tied loosely in a clean, thin, white cloth and placed to cook with 2 pounds of sugar, 1 quart vinegar and 1 cup of water for 10 minutes. The peaches are added to the liquid and cooked slowly until tender but not broken. After standing overnight, sirup is drained from the peaches and spices removed. The sirup is boiled rapidly until thickened, and poured over peaches already packed in clean, hot sterile jars. The jars are sealed tightly.

To give time for the flavor to be blended, the jars of peaches should be kept in a cool place for several weeks before serving.

Other canning information may be had by calling Miss Hipp's office 30-W.

BET MISS HIPPI WON'T EAT HER FELT TOPPER

Felt hats and cottage cheese are cousins.

This information was released this week by Miss Jewell Hipp, Garza County home demonstration agent, who says that cottage cheese—or hard cheese, for that matter—is casein hat hasn't been freed from other food in milk.

In industry, casein is used to make plastic buttons, umbrella handles and costume jewelry. It's even used in making water emulsion paints and synthetic rubber.

But a few years ago, an artificial fiber was made from casein by an elaborate factory process much like the making of rayon. Though casein fiber isn't as strong as wool, it's mixed with cotton and other fibers to make a yarn for weaving, and for felting it's mixed with hair or wool. Most felt hats in the country today are made with some casein fibers.

The casein makes cousins of felt hats and cottage cheese.

Overdue Change In Fashions Is Around Corner

Not in many years have there been such radical changes in women's fashions as those announced for the fall and winter season of 1947.

Fortunately for those who feel it necessary (and have the extra-materials) to re-style last year's togs, the fashion scope is wide. There are as many slender as full silhouettes, according to the New York Times Magazine.

The most important change is longer skirts for daytime wear, some being from 13 to 14 inches from the floor; others venturing even a bit lower.

The more natural shoulder has been accepted, but the slender waist is accented by rounded hips or curves. Necklines of suits and coats are enhanced with revers, drapes and cowls.

Coats swing, or wrap or mold the figure. Pictures in the New York Times Magazine show several types of wrapped coats and indicate that the matching cowl-hood will be popular.

Suits have long coats or jackets, fitted at the waist and flaring down to well below the hips, often longer in back than in front. Tunic dresses, the blouses fitted at the waist and flaring to just below the knees are popular as are snug-fitting dresses which mold the slim silhouette until it hits the knees, then flares into a flounce.

Molded hips are accentuated with huge bustle-type bows. In contrast to the molded silhouette are dresses with, of course, fitted waists and immensely full skirts.

It definitely will take extra material to remodel last year's clothes.

Post Millers Even Double-Header Last Sunday With Seagraves Nine

Post Millers evened a double-header with the Seagraves Oilers last Sunday at Postex park, taking the first seven-inning affair, 2-0, and giving over to the visitors, 7 to 9, in the second game.

Pitcher Ed Altman weathered 4 hits in the first tilt to hold the Oilers scoreless. The backing offered by the local crew, even tho 3 errors were chalked up against them, was their season's best performance. Double plays featured the fielding of the Millers as three were racked up in rapid succession at a time when the visitors threatened to score. The locals took 7 hits off of Slim Russell, the Oiler's hard-pitching righthander. The Millers copped their two runs in the first inning.

In the second game the Oilers paced the way by scoring 6 runs in the second frame, added 1 more in each the fourth, fifth, and sixth stanzas. The Millers scored 1 run in the first, 1 in the third, 2 each in the fourth and sixth, and another in the seventh.

French and Holland twirled for the Millers and gave up 9 hits. The Oilers used three pitchers. Blair, Jones and Russell. The locals garnered 10 hits off of the three.

Millers Go To Levelland Next Sunday Afternoon

The Post Millers will go to Levelland Sunday to cross bats with the league's pace-setting Refiners and to attempt to whittle down the Levelland boys' high percentage standing.

Manager Polly Duren indicated this morning that he would use Ed Altman on the mound and throw all he had against the Refiners. The Levelland crew up until several weeks ago led in league percentage, but were crowded out of first place by Sundown, and at this time remain one half game behind the Oilers.

The following Sunday the Refiners come to Post to complete their season's play with the locals. After the Levelland series the locals have two games with Slaton to wind up the season's play.

Jane Cupper's "Daring" Bathing Suit

The Cuppers showed me some tin-types of their nineteen-ten vacation—picnicking on the beach with beer and pretzels, in bathing suits that made them look like they were dressed in street-wear.

Dee was smothered in a long-sleeved pull-over with knee length shorts, and looking embarrassed—as if he thought Jane's costume of a heavy blouse, two copious skirts, and long black stockings was a little daring.

We laughed a lot at those costumes... but come to think of it, as Dee says, we'll probably look as funny twenty years from now in what we call our "Mod" clothes. Only thing that will change in the picture is that low, wholesome glass of beer. From where I sit, tolerable lets us wear sensible, decent— to give us sun and air and dom—will keep that wholesome glass of beer a part of the American tradition.

SEVEN ACRES OF LAND DOES WORK OF 560 ON FARM NEAR ABERNATHY

Fred Kveton of Abernathy has come up with a pasture-producing formula that turned seven acres of grazing land into 560 acres.

Here it is: Seven acres, plus mixed grasses, plus irrigation, equals 560 acres.

Kveton believes that following his formula is a good way to stay in the cattle business, in spite of dry years, reports D. W. Sherrill, Lubbock County agricultural agent.

Kveton began working on the plan last September when he planted seven acres of pasture grasses, in cooperation with the Soil Conservation Service, PMA, and the Texas A and M College Extension Service. The mixture he planted was made up of 10 pounds of bromegrass, five pounds of crested wheat, five pounds of orchard grass and two pounds of alfalfa. He irrigated the seven acres every 15 days.

Since last April, reports County Agent Sherrill, 28 head of cattle have grazed the seven acres, with no feed on the side. Recently Kveton took the cows off and cut 3 tons of hay off the small field.

How does Kveton get the 560 acres? It's just that he believes it would take 560 acres of native dryland grass in his section of the country to support those 28 head of cattle.

BAYLOR UNIVERSITY TO HAVE MORE APARTMENTS AND ROOMS THIS YEAR

Construction is almost completed to 998 men, with the complete classroom space at Baylor University in Waco which will accommodate more students than originally anticipated, President Pat M. Neff announced this week.

The Student Union building, under construction since the early war years, is one of six new buildings which will be occupied September 17 when school opens. Two others will be ready for use in the winter quarter. The Union Building will house nine club-rooms, lounges for men and women, a cafeteria which will serve 1,200, a bowling alley, a snack counter, recreation rooms and the book store.

Dormitory capacity will be raised to 998 men, with the completion of a new dormitory for men. In addition, space for 1,000 has been provided at Blackland air field.

Several pieces of residential property now owned by the University are being converted to dormitory use for young women. Also, 540 apartments are available for rental by the University to married veterans.

Flies Transmit Dysentery And Other Diseases

This is the season when dysentery, diarrhea and "summer complaint" are most prevalent in Texas, and Dr. George W. Cox of Austin, state health officer, has issued a warning to parents of young children regarding the prevention of these diseases.

"The chief causes of these intestinal diseases are impure milk, water and food; allowing a child to become overheated; using too much sugar and cream in the diet; and under or over feeding," Dr. Cox said. "All foods should be fresh and clean, and left-overs should be properly refrigerated to prevent spoilage."

Dr. Cox said definitely that when a feeding formula for infants is used, it should be prescribed by a physician and then prepared with extreme care, especially in regard to cleanliness and refrigeration. Babies should be fed at regular intervals and on a definite schedule. Their stomach and bowels can become easily upset if they are fed haphazardly whenever they happen to be fretful or restless.

The state health officer declared that with dysentery, as with many other diseases, the fly is an agent of transmission, and every home should be well screened and free of flies.

"If diarrhea or dysentery develops, consult a physician at once," Dr. Cox advised. "This so-called 'summer complaint' can become a very serious menace to your baby's health, if not an actual threat to his life."

Ford Policies Are Considered As Barometer By Publications

Henry Ford's influence on American life, over the years, has been both marked and continuous. His model T cars marked the beginning of a new era and, through the years, additional developments in Ford products have been identified prominently with the major events of each respective era.

This was publicly recognized by newspapers and magazines all over the world when Mr. Ford died this year. Since that time, the Ford personality has transcended from the man to the company and news publications throughout the nation have come to regard the activities of the Ford Motor Company and its personnel as major news.

Even the Congressional Record, non-commercial, official record of congressional proceedings, early this year included the news that the Ford Motor Company would reduce the prices of Ford cars, terming it "a great step in our economic life."

"It's Make Or Break"

In January of this year, the Kiplinger (national affairs) Magazine featured an interpretive article on Ford progress, entitled "It's Make or Break for Ford" and describing with praise the company's goal of discarding "tin-lizzie" policies and staking all to regain top place in the automobile industry.

Consumers Research, Inc., devoted to giving straight dope as to good and bad qualities of all types of retail merchandise, said in its January bulletin that the postwar Ford bodies were made of the same good gauge of steel as were the pre-war bodies.

The Advertiser, national house organ of the advertising business, lauded Henry Ford II for his widely-advertised cut in prices and recalled that a similar Ford move in 1920 started the nation's economic recovery from the Post

New Policies Explained

The National Sales Management magazine in March featured Ford's reorganization and expansion program which came with the company's announcement that it was pledged to regain sales leadership in the low-priced field of the automobile industry. The article explained in detail the company's creation of an autonomous Lincoln-Mercury Division, establishment of separate research and sales promotion departments, setting up of a dealer council, initiation of nationwide training and laying of the groundwork for more intensive advertising coverage.

Advertising Age, the national marketing newspaper, also devoted an article in its March issue to the "miracles" being performed in public relations and sales under the new Ford policy set-up.

Forbes, nationally-known business magazine used a picture of the Ford Company's Ernest R. Breech, "who is providing the punch behind young Henry Ford II's drive for leadership of the auto industry," on the cover and devoted its Personalities Section to Breech and his new-found Ford promotion methods.

On April 27, the Detroit News, which has been publishing in serial form "Ford's Life Story" devoted Chapter 15 to answering the question: "What effect will Henry Ford's death have on the Ford Motor Company?"

A careful breakdown by the newspaper of the company's reorganization revealed that with Henry Ford II, grandson of the late Henry Ford, in the president's chair, the company has the guidance of a directorate, every member of which is a man of long-proved ability in his field.

The research tended to prove the new president's statement that "The goal of the Ford Motor Company is that of all industrial America—to find ways and means to make better things at prices which will enable more and more people to buy them."

Liberty magazine used the picture of Henry Ford II on its April 26 cover and carried an illustrated article in its Industrial Department to the effect that: "Your wildest dreams of your car of tomorrow are visioned by Ford engineers, whose hot ideas are backed by a cool $50,000,000 for research."

Fortune magazine, in a long, attractively illustrated article in the May issue, analyzed the Ford reorganization, and reported that the job of regaining lost leadership is largely done but the profits are yet to come.

Also in May, the Modern Industry magazine devoted a long article to the Ford Company's Albert J. Browning and his modern idea of leaving "penny-saving" to Ben Franklin's Poor Richard while he saves company millions by tapping vendors' engineering brains and employees' initiative, and treating sellers right.

Extends To Post
One of the newest Ford agencies to be set up under the Ford Motor Company's revised policies is that of Tom Power, successor to the Outlaw Motor Company, which will have its formal opening all day August 2.

The public is invited to see the display of postwar Ford models, visit with the owner and agency personnel, and enjoy refreshments and music by a string band.

GETTING OUT

On The LIMB By EDDIE the EDITOR

A newspaper publisher in a small town is like the woman with the disgruntled husband...

If I spend a little money to keep my printing equipment up-to-date and my office clean and modern-looking...

If I should let the equipment run down and my premises deteriorate and make no effort to keep my business up to date...

If I put my profits—what there are of them—into new equipment and better salaries for qualified personnel...

If I operate my paper on a shoestring, using outmoded equipment that results in poor type and a dumpy looking country newspaper...

If I spend a lot of time on the streets and in the stores, selling advertising and gathering news items, people who can't find me in my office say I am "always loafing on the streets and how can you expect a loafer to get out a good newspaper?"

If I stay off of the streets and out of the stores, expecting the business to walk into my shop—which it won't—my critics say "it's no wonder his paper only halfway covers the news. You never see him out observing what's going on."

Knowing all these things, from long experience, I have gone out on a limb. The Post Dispatch is being remodeled and brought up to date, at considerable expense...

To the people who jeer—and they've been doing it (jokingly, of course)—and accuse me of getting rich, I say "I only wish you were right" and recheck my list of country editors and publishers over the nation.

The only rich ones I can find are those who inherited money or had luck on the side, such as striking oil on a small farm that they have paid out through the years in order to have a place to live after they get too old to peddle advertising and set type.

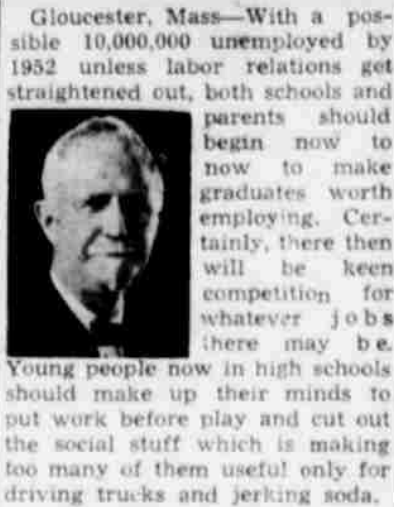

I did it and I'm glad, as Weldon Jobe says. If I were to wait until building materials and labor were reasonable, times would be so bad I'd be afraid to invest myself in this manner.

I'm of the opinion that now is the time to improve my business and to do what redecorating and remodeling is necessary in my own home, while money is cheap. When money gets expensive, the prices of materials will be down and labor will be glad to have the job at a reasonable price but I will be too scared to remodel. I will know that the time has come for saving a few dollars against harder times that this situation forecasts.

The people who are remodel-

ROGER W. BABSON WRITES THIS WEEK:

Garza and the World

Editor's Note—The author of this column spent part of the war years as an overseas employee of the U. S. Government. Her opinions, based on personal observations and subsequent news developments, do not necessarily reflect the opinions or policies of the Post Dispatch.

For three weeks now, this space has been devoted to the farmer's future with Uncle Sam as dole-outer, as fought for by Congressman Eugene Worley of Shamrock before the House in Washington.

Each week I asked for reactions for publication here today. The reactions were many, but all along the same line. They may be summed up in one sentence: "That Worley is an out-and-out New Dealer."

As I possibly am the only person in Garza County who personally knows Congressman Worley, I hasten to say that the above impression is wrong and the very uttering of it does an injustice to one of the most fair and brilliant young men among our present day lawmakers. I happen to know that he represents one of Texas' most rabidly anti-New Deal Congressional districts.

I think that everything Worley said in his speech before the House was true and important, with one exception. I don't, as he does, hold the Republicans responsible for the depression. We would have had a depression, just the same, had Roosevelt and the rest of the New Dealers been in office. Perhaps, it would not have been as bad and maybe they would have merely called it a recession, like they're terming this next inevitable depression cycle.

While everything, except the part about the Republicans, stated by Worley is true in my opinion, I don't go so far as to say the agricultural program of the Roosevelt regime should be carried on any longer to the doing out extent. It was fine as long as it was necessary, but the need is no longer evident.

I'm highly in favor of keeping up the Soil Conservation program and adult education in matters of better farming and more production of better foods. These projects will cost plenty of money, but they will pay off in the long run.

The farmers are on their feet now and they are ready to start paying their own bills. When it gets to the point where a man can bring now are doing themselves and Post a favor, and they will be glad they did it a few years from now when shabby looking places look even shabbier and money is not so plentiful.

Some of the people who are remodeling, such as me, actually cannot afford to spend the money but their chances of paying the bill eventually are excellent, and much better than they will be a few years from now.

THE WOMEN—God love 'em! Pensive before marriage, expensive after marriage.

conomic forces which have produced our nation. Our young people should also be given a background of the many "isms." With such a background students should understand the merits and benefits which our free society has to offer. However, the school cannot do much unless backed up by sensible talk and religious instruction at home.

No nation can long prosper without the proper incentive, progress and efficiency. This causes a continuous improvement in the standard for living and security for all producers. When people produce more, business thrives, national income increases, standards of living rise and our voters are happier. It is the understanding of these basic factors including some real religion, which our homes and schools should teach.

These include emphasis on that simple economic fact that only as we all produce more is there more to divide.

Schools Shortchange Pupils Schools today are shortchanging pupils. Youngsters are being shoved out into an ever increasingly competitive world with inadequate training in the fundamentals of reading, writing, spelling, arithmetic, self-expression, etc. Too many of our young people knocking on the employment manager's door are unable to do relatively simple mathematical tasks. These are basic tools of work, rather than the useless frills which schools now teach.

It is not the accumulation of vast amounts of factual material that makes a young person employable. Rather it is his character, his health, his desire to be of service and his ability to work with others. Schools are shortchanging students by their failure to teach how to work and live, how to get and hold good jobs. Schools should spend much more time in both group and individual counseling to help their students better understand themselves, their interests and their aptitudes.

Shortchanging Vocationally With 29,744 different jobs listed in the Dictionary of Occupational Titles, schools of this Atomic Age should offer systematic courses in vocational information, get their students out on field trips, make greater use of occupational films, part-time job experiences, etc. Most important of all, young people should be taught the dignity of working and the disgrace of loafing. To teachers, I say: "Get to know your student more than from just grades." Prepare him for job interviews. Make sure a student understands his own balance sheet of assets and liabilities. Teach him how to sell himself on the interview. Schools should have students realize that personal qualifications such as incentive, resourcefulness, adaptability, and willingness to assume responsibility are more important than joining a union to assure success.

Parents Should Wake Up But the best training of all for getting a good position after graduation is to work summers. Whether or not your boy and girl does this is up to you,—and not to any teacher. In some states boys and girls must get the okay of the superintendent of schools; but this always is obtainable if you as a parent request it. Parents who let their children run wild or loaf all summer are committing a crime against them.

Too many parents hate to see their dear Susie and Johnny do a job because their friends do not. Instead of being a good listener to speeches, parents should refuse to give up their car or loan the car to kid, who dies winters. It is not too late for parents to get tough this year.

What Our Contemporaries Are Saying:

MIGHTY GOOD WORK—Have you ridden around the loop in the Slaton Club House Park recently? If not you should do so and enjoy the new paving that the county has completed. Ben Mansker, our Commissioner, has done some mighty good work in keeping the Slaton Club House and grounds around it in good condition. The people of this area have been provided with facilities for entertainments and the public gatherings that are not available in many communities and it also should be noted that the people of this area have taken advantage of the Club House and that they appreciate and use it. —The Slaton Slatonite.

FARMERS ARE PROSPEROUS—Reflecting increased costs of producing crops and availability of more farm and ranch equipment, the volume of credit used by stockmen and ranchers is currently higher than it was a year ago, according to A. C. Alexander, vice president of Scurry National Bank.

Mr. Alexander represents the Texas Bankers Association as Scurry County key banker.

However, farm families in this trade area are probably in the strongest financial position that they have ever been," Alexander says. "Less farmers and ranchers need to use bank credit available to them because continuing high incomes make it possible to finance operations out of the current production, and when credit is used it is retired when crops and cattle are sold." —Scurry County Times.

UNBUMPERED—The motorist (sex undetermined) who is always locking bumpers with the automobile immediately ahead or behind is steering into a bright new era. Standard bumpers recommended by the Society of Automotive Engineers and approved by the motor industry are soon to become a feature of all automobile, station wagon and light truck models. The new bumpers will not dip below or rise above 18.25 inches on a normal step.

Financial Sacrifice Of Teaching Is Worthwhile To School-Marm Novelist

en Americans nt Teachers, y Will Pay

Editor's Note: Because the article will be interesting to parents and other teachers, as well as to teachers, and also because Post Garza County is still of teachers for the 1947-48, it is being reprinted, part from the July Red-Magazine. The author is Grace Erdman of State College, Canyon, friend of Evelyn Boyd Post Dispatch staff.)

the Redbook-Dodd, Mead novel prize. During the press conference at which the presentation was made, one of the reporters said, "Of course you'll give up teaching now."

Without even stopping to think, I answered, "Of course not." My answer made the headlines. "She'll stick to teaching," they cried, as if that, and not the literary award, were the big news.

My answer was spontaneous. Because of the general amazement with which it has been received, I should like to explain why I feel as I do. I think my first reason is that a teacher has the great privilege of constantly being able to renew her youth. When one is working with adults, she finds that they grow old and tired and disillusioned even as she herself does. Working with youth is different. Each year brings a new group—restless, searching, eager, young. It is impossible to be around young people without absorbing their spirit and point of view.

I have been teaching in college for only two years. Before that I taught in a junior high school where, in addition to my regular class work I was freshman counselor. When several hundred pairs of roller skates were bought by the school, there was only one thing for me to do if I were to function properly at freshman parties.

I learned to roller-skate. I had never been on a pair of skates before, but I learned—with freshman boys, two at a time, supporting me as I stumbled around and around the gym.

I was, for the time being, one of them. And as long as they feel that, I am, in a way, ageless.

Is Not Mere Routine
Teaching is not just classroom routine. It is made up of many things—the big games, the pep rallies, the parties, the programs. It is through these that one comes to know the very core of the heart of youth. With them I know the fun of decorating for the class party; with my heart in my mouth I watch the venturesome ones hanging from rafters to put up yards of crepe paper in spots where crepe paper was never meant to be. I know, too, the heartache that this same party may bring to some—the homely, the misfit, the shy.

When I started teaching I was young and foolish. Almost the first thing I did was to plan an elaborate program, including a song number in which the little girls were to wear crepe-paper costumes that would—I hoped—make them look like rosebuds. Blithely I began to pick my cast, choosing only the little girls who could easily be made to look the part.

"What are you going to do with—?" my principal asked, mentioning a girl who was clumsy, awkward and plain.

"Oh," I said, "she can help me backstage."

"Why don't you make her one of the roses? She sings well. And her mother sews beautifully. She'll have one of the nicest costumes of all."

"But—" I protested. My principal was a wise and kindly woman. "Listen," she said. "Every person needs, if only once in her life, to feel that she is a rose in the limelight, not a prompter behind the curtain."

I took her advice. The girl made a not incredible rose, albeit a rather full-blown one. Later on, when she had developed into a nice-looking and pleasantly self-assured young woman, I liked to imagine that it was partly because I had let her be a rose in the class song.

Not Always Right
Another reason I want to go on teaching is that it constantly forces me to clarify my own thinking, to re-examine the basis for my beliefs, to make sure of the validity of my opinions.

Children have an uncanny ability to see through adults. I shall never forget the impact of this fact when it was first brought home to me. I had given hasty and careless directions for the preparation of an assignment. In the midst of the confusion, a little girl's hand went up.

"Yes—what is it?" I asked crisply. Her earnest, bespectacled glance met mine.

"Do you want us to do it the right way," she asked, "or the way you said to?"

I intend to go on teaching because it is a good harbor in which to anchor one's heart.

Without love and appreciation, the very roots of the soul wither. Teachers are privileged to have this appreciation. Let me illustrate.

Recently I had occasion to address a Parent-Teacher meeting. The principal, tired after a long day, was trying vainly to bring order to an audience of many children as well as parents. In the midst of her efforts, a six-year-old came up to her.

"Miss Miller," he said, "bend down here—"

Busy as she was, she bent obediently.

"Miss Miller," he said, "I love you."

Suddenly her tired face was illuminated.

"Why, bless your heart, honey," she said, "I love you, too!"

That is what is so fine about teaching. One does not deal with figures, or materials, or any abstract thing. One works with children whom one can love and who will return that love in their own ways.

Cultivates Humor
Still another reason I should like to continue teaching is that it is one of the best ways I know to cultivate a sense of humor.

Several years ago my picture came out in the local paper, causing considerable excitement among my pupils.

"I saw your picture, Miss Erdman," said a little girl. "And I didn't know you."

"Gosh, I did," the boy next to her drawled; "I'd know that mug anywhere!"

They expected me to laugh with them, and I did. Not because they expected me to, but because long years of association with them had taught me the value of seeing a joke on myself.

The lessons I have learned have not always been easy ones. They have included tacks in my chair, mice jumping out of my desk drawer, and much too true-to-life caricatures drawn by the inevitable class artist.

But out of these lessons has emerged a beautiful, and secret wisdom which is this: I cannot look half as funny to my students as I do to myself; moreover, I could top the best joke they might tell on me with still a better one. Knowing this I can join with them in their laughter at me, and through laughter regain my sense of balance.

At one of the school parties a boy insisted on teaching me to jitterbug. Finally my self-appointed teacher mercifully released me.

"All right, Miss Erdman," he said. "I'll let you stop. But now you know how I feel about learning grammar."

I did. I still do . . .

Again, I want to stay in teaching because of the wonderful opportunities it affords for my mental growth—and for the kind of growth that is even more important than the mental.

Teacher Had Improved

One day there came into my hands a note not intended for my eyes. It was a caustic, blistering attack on me—my personality, my teaching methods, my appearance—written by one of the girls in my classes. I was mad right down to the tips of my toes . . .

By morning I had cooled down a bit. I looked at the girl, sitting sullenly in her seat, knowing I had read the note and wondering what I meant to do about it. And looking at her, I knew suddenly that I could not bring myself to exact vengeance on this child—it was an act beneath the dignity of an adult . . . The only thing for me to do was to set about winning her confidence.

At first I had to grit my teeth. But before many weeks I found myself actually liking her. Better still, I thought she was learning to like me.

On the last day of school the girl came up to me to say good-by.

"I'm sorry to lose you," I said, honestly meaning what I said. "I've enjoyed having you in my class."

"There's something I want to tell you," she said. I braced myself for the apology I thought was coming.

"It's this," she went on casually. "I just wanted to tell you that you have certainly improved a lot during the year."

She never said a truer word. She had no way of knowing how much I had improved.

Teaching has taught me that back of every failure in my dealings with others there has perhaps been some personal failure of my own. Because I am an adult I should have more patience, more understanding, more self-control than I expect from children . . .

I hope to go on teaching because it is a job that offers a full and satisfying way of life. Happiness largely depends upon whether one can find work so big that he can lose himself in it. For me, teaching has provided that opportunity.

Can Afford To Teach

"Yes, I'll stick to teaching. I can afford to. Aside from the financial security given me by my writing, I have reached one of the better-paying levels of teaching. This, of course, has not always been so. Money has been a problem for me, as it has been for many teachers. And yet, in looking back over my teaching career, I feel that I have always managed to get most of the things I really wanted—travel, study, reasonably becoming clothes, contributions to church and worthy causes, security in the form of annuities. And a great deal of fun, besides. I don't quite know how I managed to make the money stretch, but somehow I always did. I suppose the Lord does temper the wind to the shorn lamb, for goodness knows there were times when I was well shorn indeed. And I have been richer in some respects than many teachers are privileged to be.

Most of the teachers who left the profession and most of the young people who refuse to consider teaching as a life work give low salaries as their reason. True, teachers' salaries are a national disgrace. But the roots go deeper than that. The plain truth is that the American people have not yet realized the importance of the work of the teacher; they have not seen that the public school is the very foundation on which rests the American way of life. The American people have always been willing to pay for the things they really wanted. When they want to hold the teachers in the schools, they will pay them to stay. There is evidence that the situation is improving. I believe that the great day, long sought by teachers and friends of education, is at hand. I'm going to stay with teaching because I want to be in on the Jubilee.

REMOVE CELLOPHANE COVERING FROM LAMP SHADES BEFORE USE

Protective cellophans covering should be removed when new lamp shades are put into use, according to Miss Lola M. Drew, assistant professor of home management at Texas Technological College, in Lubbock.

Cellophane is sensitive to heat and humidity, and its contractions and expansions will eventually ruin a shade if left on permanently, she explained. If fabric shades become soiled they may be shampooed with the same procedure as upholstery, she said, although care should be used not to dampen portions held together with glue. Real or paper parchment may be sponged with a damp cloth dipped in clear water.

Spiders are not insects; they are arachnids, having eight legs, while insects have no more than six.

NEWS NOTES FROM . . . Duck Creek Soil— CONSERVATION DISTRICT OFFICE AT POST

To Plant Sweetclover
John Davis in the Polar conservation group hopes to plant five acres of sweetclover this fall, and use it next spring for early pasture. He plans to take his stock off early enough to allow the clover to make a good growth to add the maximum soil building benefits and to make a seed crop.

Gets Terrace Lines
H. L. Morris of near Calgary had Soil Conservation Service technicians run terrace lines on his farm this week. Morris had wheat on the land, and wanted the lines run so he could build the terraces as soon as it rains.

To Harvest Lovegrass
Earnest Henderson, near Close City, cooperating with the Duck Creek Soil Conservation District, plans to harvest two acres of African weeping lovegrass as soon as the seed matures. Soil technicians advise two methods which may be used in harvesting lovegrass. It may be combined directly from the field. However, since not all of the seed ripens in the head at one time much of the seed is lost by this method. Where lovegrass is first cut with a grain binder and run through a combine after it dries, the seed yields are greatly increased.

Request Seed Early
Cooperators of the Duck Creek Soil Conservation District who will need help in locating lovegrass, native grass, sweetclover or hairy vetch seed for this fall planting are urged to contact the Soil Conservation Service office in Post. These seeds are being harvested in other soil conservation districts now and the best quality can be obtained by ordering early.

Cooperators Order Fish
Eighteen cooperators carrying out a coordinated soil conservation program by making every acre on their farm produce according to its maximum capability have ordered 7,097 fish to stock farm ponds. The fish have been ordered from the Federal Wildlife Service.

Besides providing recreation for farm families, well-managed ponds can provide fish to add variety to farm meals. A properly stocked farm pond can produce from 75 to 150 pounds of fish, fry size, per surface acre each year. All ponds should be fished heavily eight to 12 months after the pond is stocked or after the fish get large enough to fry.

Grass Planting Urged
Soil Conservation Service technicians assisting the District estimate 136,000 acres of land in the district should be planted to grass. This land is of low fertility or on slopes too steep to cultivate and maintain soil fertility.

Grasses which need no cultivation prevent the soil from washing and blowing and adds fertility to the soil.

Tech Officials Back Issue On Aug. 23 Ballot

Texas will be provided with the finest system of state-operated colleges in the nation, and this without increasing taxes, if voters ratify a proposed amendment to the state constitution creating a special building fund for colleges, according to officials of Texas Technological College, in Lubbock.

A special election on the amendment will be held August 23. The fund would enable Tech and other colleges to begin work immediately on a long-range development program to relieve overcrowded conditions.

The amendment would assign to the building fund a five-cent portion of the presently constitutionally authorized seven-cent per $100 valuation property tax for Confederate pension purposes, and would reduce the maximum property tax for the state general fund from 35 cents to 30 cents. This action would have no actual effect on the Confederate fund, since only two cents per $100 valuation has been levied for several years and the fund now has a surplus. The automatic tax board recently announced that collection of the full 35 cents for the general fund is authorized for next year.

If the amendment passes, this levy will be reduced five cents, thus keeping taxes at the same overall level, proponents explained.

The amendment is endorsed by Gov. Beauford Jester and by a number of state-wide organizations including the Texas League of Women Voters.

Oldtimers Help With 'Pursued,' Hollywood Film

Thirty years in any industry is a good record, but 3 years in the motion picture industry is rare enough that it is news when several members of the Thirty Year Club come together in a single Hollywood picture.

Such is the case in "Pursued," United States Pictures production which will be shown at the Garza Theater Wednesday and Thursday, August 6 and 7.

Raoul Walsh, the director, was in pictures way back in 1912, serving his apprenticeship with the Biograph Company when Mary Pickford was the Biograph Girl. He played John Wilkes Booth in D. W. Griffith's "Birth of a Nation."

The director of photography, James Wong Howe, began by sweeping out storerooms and hauling around the old hand-cranked equipment in 1915 and 1916, when Muck Sennett was making comedies and Gloria Swanson was a Sennett Beauty and Wallace Beery was a Keystone Cop. Howe got his chance when he cranked the camera for Marv Minter.

He became her special cameraman and, since then, has served in the same capacity for two decades of movie stars. Maurice Murphy, the dialogue director for "Pursued" played child parts in films 30 years ago. But the genuine veteran is Bear Valley Charlie Miller who came into films after touring the world with Buffalo Bill's Wild West Show. He twirled lariats and rode pintos in the early Western epics and he's doing the same in "Pursued."

The picture is described as "a scorching saga of the young

B. C. Manis probably has the best garden in town, and it is surely the most varied garden. In addition to the usual run of summer vegetables, such as tomatoes, blackeyed peas, okra, etc., he is successfully raising broccoli, celery and other vegetables that usually are imported to this area. He also has strawberries, and a variety of prolific fruit trees, such as plum, pear, apple and apricot. He owns a tractor-plow which he uses in cultivating the garden, and he uses a Manis-devised system of sub-irrigation.

Mrs. C. H. Bailey left Saturday to visit her daughter, Mrs. Guy Troy Harrison in Commerce.

Mrs. A. R. Mills has a strawberry patch, about the size of the Post Dispatch front office, which this week is full of luscious-looking strawberries about the size of bantam hen eggs.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Mickey of Lubbock visited Mr. and Mrs. John Mickey here over the weekend.

Mrs. W. B. Sanders and daughter, Madelyn, left Saturday on a ten day vacation in Carlsbad, Artesia and Lovington, N. M.

Mr. and Mrs. George Thomas and son are visiting his mother and sister, Mrs. Hutton and Mrs. George Barker.

Arthur Talley left Sunday for Sayre, Okla., to join a brother in an automobile trip to Kentucky and Tennessee. At Dawson Springs, Ky., they planned to visit a brother, who is critically ill, and in Nashville, Tenn., they will visit their father who is almost 100 years old. Mrs. Talley and son, W. A., are spending this week with Mrs. Talley's sister in Sweetwater.

Mrs. J. I. Northcutt left Saturday for Lubbock where she will enter the Abel Sanatorium for treatment.

Mrs. D. C. Williams and daughter, Betty, and Mrs. Williams' sister, Mrs. C. H. Matthews of Fort Worth, discovered an effective "homemade" air-conditioner during their recent automobile trip to Monticello, Ind., and back. They placed a pan of ice in the floor of the car, just below the ventilator, then closed all the windows, except for a small opening in one back window and had a good air conditioner. Mrs. Williams and Betty returned here Sunday night after spending two weeks in Fort Worth and Indiana, where they visited Mrs. Matthews' son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Matthews, Jr.

Mrs. Paul Duren, Mrs. J. O. Hays, Mrs. Kike Beauchamp, Miss Tinker Beauchamp, Miss Reba Hays and Paul Duren, Jr., spent the weekend in Carlsbad, N. M. They went through the cavern while there.

"Seaboy" Mathis of Carlsbad, N. M., formerly of Post, visited here Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Baze of Colorado City and their daughter, Mrs. Hayes Holman, Mr. Holman and their daughter, Jerry Joan, visited here several hours Saturday en route to Amarillo where the Holmans were to take a train that night to their home in White Salmon, Ore. The Holmans, who formerly lived in Post, spent their summer vacation in Colorado City.

Mrs. W. R. Graeber and her sister in Illinois gave an electrically heated blanket to Maxine Durrett and her fiance, Kent Pesson, at a shower the other day. The card was signed "with currents of love."

CECIL OSBORNE RETURNS TO POST AS EMPLOYEE OF FLOYD SERVICE STATION

Longtime customers at Guy Floyd's service station are not just "seeing things" this week when they drive in there to have their automobiles serviced. The man who reminds them of a former owner of that station really is Cecil Osborne who was in business at that same spot for a number of years.

The Osborne family left here March of 1945 for Muleshoe, where Cecil owned a station until he sold it recently. One of his daughters is married and living in Muleshoe and Cecil, Jr., also stayed there, where he is employed in a service station. Cecil and his wife and two of their children are at home again in Post, and Cecil has gone to work for Floyd.

Guy Floyd's staff now consists of Hayden Johnson, Reece Bivens, Osborne and Floyd. The station is open 24 hours a day.

'Post Miller' Is Author Of Lively Novel

"There's A Spot in My Heart," a delightful nostalgic novel published recently by Simon and Schuster of New York City, has the same delicate honey quality which made "Life With Father" such a success both as a novel and as a Broadway play for seven years.

Reading "There's A Spot in My Heart," one would never suspect that the author, Frank Leslie, was anything more than a talented man of letters. There is nothing in the book to indicate Leslie's true profession, that of textile manufacturing. He is president of Leslie and Company, owner of the Postex Cotton Mills.

Leslie's novel is more of a Life With Grandfather than a Life With Father story. Here are some excerpts:

"Grandfather thought that a man who saves his money will come to no good end. He believed that the only friendships worth cultivating are those not based on some illusory affinity—such as the fact that you were once in a shipwreck together or are married to each other or some other such irrelevancy.

"Grandmother bore out his conviction that nothing a woman says above a whisper is worth hearing. Yet she was very pious and lived on such terms of intimacy with several saints that sometimes it seemed a little indelicate.

"Uncle George was like a cyclone that had been trapped in a barrel. Whenever his soul was stirred to cataclysmic proportions by something tremendous such as a crumpled newspaper or a frayed collar, there seemed to be a kind of valve inside him which went off automatically, and the name of the Lord came forth like a burst of steam.

"Everybody on the other hand, loved Mother even though she left most of her dearest friends waiting for her on street corners and never saw them again."

"There's A Spot in My Heart" is a record of the lives of the above and other members of a family and their hired help, with Grandfather as the hero.

Every character and every incident is identifiable with a person or situation familiar to the reader's own heart. It is a refreshing, truly nostalgic book.

Claude Bailey, manager of the Postex Cotton Mills, recently received an autographed copy of it.

GORDON GAINES TO GIVE BARIATONE CONCERT THIS EVENING AT TEXAS TECH

Gordon Gaines, baritone, will present a concert on the Texas Technological College summer recreational program at 8:30 o'clock tonight on the lawn south of the college administration building, in Lubbock.

A Lubbock youth, Gaines went to New York City about five years ago to study voice and has sung in concerts, oratorios and over the radio and in several musical reproductions, including Kreisler's "Rhapsody" in New York and "Spring in Brazil" on tour. While appearing in "Lady in the Dark" at the beginning of the war, he joined the Army Air Forces and was attached to the special service division for which he gave daily programs. He was in the air force show, "Winged Victory."

The Rev. Charles C. Fike, who used to accompany Gaines when they were students at Tech, will play the piano accompaniment tonight.

A Statement To Our Customers About Resale

PRICES of PRODUCTS

Built by International Harvester Company

Here at Harvester we are concerned over the fact that a growing number of our products are appearing on the resale market at greatly inflated prices.

As manufacturers, we try to produce at the lowest possible cost. We cannot set the prices at which our products—tractors, motor trucks, farm implements, refrigeration, and industrial power equipment—are sold. We can and do suggest list prices which the great majority of our dealers adopt as their retail prices.

$20,000,000 Price Reduction

Our basic price policy was publicly stated in March, 1947, when we announced price reductions at the rate of approximately $20,000,000 per year on our products. At that time, Fowler McCormick, Chairman of the Board, said: "ANY PRICE IS TOO HIGH IF IT CAN BE REDUCED."

Practically all of our dealers cooperated with this policy and passed on the savings to their customers.

The objective of the price reductions was to make it possible for customers to buy our products, which they need so badly, at lower prices. Naturally, this purpose is defeated when our products are sold by anybody at inflated prices.

IH Production at All-Time Peak

Inflated prices are caused by the difference between supply and demand. To increase supply, we now have the greatest number of employes in history on our payrolls—almost 90,000 in the United States, as against about 60,000 prewar. Large new plants are getting into production in Louisville, Evansville, and Melrose Park. A fourth will soon be in operation in Memphis. The men and women now employed are turning out the greatest quantities of IH products of all kinds that we have ever made. These are also the finest products we have ever made, and recognition of that fact is an important contributing factor to the demand for them.

Distribution to Dealers

But even record-breaking production is not sufficient to give your dealer—and other IH dealers—enough products to meet today's demand. We have tried to make the fairest possible geographical allocation of our products so that every dealer would get a fair share, and we know that dealers, in most cases, have tried earnestly to make the fairest possible distribution to their customers.

But we also know that many of our products—far too many—are being resold at inflated prices. The public criticism and resentment of these resales are of real concern to us, as we know they must be to our dealers, because such reactions endanger the good will of the dealer and the Company community.

Distribution to Customers

Experience shows that IH new products are being sold by users who decide to continue to make use of their old equipment although they have had an inflated price for their new equipment. To date this, many dealers are taking measures to be sure equipment purchased through their customers' own hands is not to be resold.

Nearly all IH dealers, believe, are now using the OF PRESENT NEED as the primary guide for the scarce products. The one whose need is real and is not likely to resell.

What Price Should You Pay?

While it may take a little time to get delivery, our customers to compare the factors mentioned before paying more than list price for any IH product. Any IH dealer or branch should be ready to furnish the suggested list price for any IH product.

We know that the overwhelming majority of our customers are as much opposed to inflated prices as we are. In the public interest, we have already asked their cooperation—and are now asking their cooperation in correcting this situation.
