Expansion Of All Fair Departments Announced Today

Substantial expansion of all departments of the Panhandle-South Plains Fair, which is to be held in Lubbock September 27 through October 2, were announced by officials of the fair association in this morning's Lubbock Avalanche. Cash prizes posted in the cattle and swine departments will be increased by about 25 per cent. Top prizes in the livestock departments will be raised from $1250 to $15, and in the swine department from $750 to $10. These awards, both in aggregate amount and as to top individual prizes, are above the average for state fairs and compare favorably with the biggest shows, officials said. The total of the cash awards in the women's departments will be approximately doubled. This does not mean, officials emphasized, that all individual prizes as offered last year will be doubled. But the aggregate will be increased about two-fold, with a complete readjustment of award schedules. Prize lists in the agricultural department also will be overhauled, with the idea of eliminating competition in crops no (Continued On Back Page Col. 3)

At present he is director of the Post Rotary Club and of the Post Chamber of Commerce and is serving as an assistant Boy Scoutmaster. He is pictured here in front of a large, attractive display of General Electric lamp bulbs.

Scattered Rains Quench Thirst Of Many Local Crops

It rained from a little to a lot Monday and Tuesday over most of the county, Agricultural Agent Robert H. Gibson had learned by yesterday. "It was the most spotted moisture we have received this season," he said. Hardly two neighbors received the same amount of rain. Here in downtown Post, the Double U Company measured .41 of an inch. A few blocks northwest, within the city limits, Gibson's gauge measured exactly an inch. Out at Verbera, Al Bird received so much rain Monday that one of his holiday guests' automobiles was stuck in the mud. His neighbor, Julius Fumagalli, received no rain at all that day. Some farms in the Cross Roads and Kalgary Communities received a half inch; two and a half inches were reported at Justiceburg, and from a half inch to two and a half inches was received in the Graham Community during the two days. Widely scattered thunder showers have been hitting the entire South Plains this week, bringing cooler temperatures.

Flashing Signals To Be Installed On State Highway

The State Highway Department, in agreement with the City of Post and the Panhandle and Santa Fe Railway Company, is planning to install highway-railroad grade crossing protection, consisting of two flashing light signals, one with a bell, on U.S. Highway 380 (at the railroad crossing between Main Street and the road to the cemetery), the City Commissioners announced yesterday. A survey made recently by the highway department revealed that 12 trains and an average of 1,310 vehicles use that highway-railroad intersection each 24 hours. A flashing light signal, placed for the benefit of the motorists, will be installed on the highway on each side of the railroad.

Revenue Bond Propositions Carry By Two To One Vote

Garza County Has Head Start With Its Fair Exhibit

If Garza County doesn't win first place in the agricultural exhibit at the Panhandle-South Plains Fair in Lubbock, September 27 through October 2, it won't be because the local exhibit planners didn't get started early. After winning second place at last year's fair, the ground-work was laid for a 1948 exhibit which would be better than last. During the year, selected seeds for various products were planted by selected growers during the proper things are now being assembled for the exhibit in the Post Chamber of Commerce office by County Agricultural Agent Robert Gibson. The revenue bond issues for waterworks improvement and extension and sewer improvement and extension carried by a vote of more than 2 to 1 in a city election held here Saturday. A total of 361 legal votes—estimated to represent approximately 60 per cent of the city's voting power—were cast, with the following results: FOR the issuance of waterworks improvement and extension revenue bonds, 252 votes; AGAINST, 109 votes. FOR the issuance of sewer improvement and extension revenue bonds, 262 votes; AGAINST, 99 votes. Plans for selling the bonds, purchasing the existing waterworks and sewer facilities and negotiating with H. N. Roberts and Associates of Lubbock, engineers employed by the city last year to make the necessary surveys, for extensions, were discussed at a regular meeting of the City Commission Tuesday night. Mayor John T. Herd called another meeting of the Commission tonight to further discuss the projects with the Roberts engineers. J. T. Curb served as election judge, and Mrs. Ray N. Smith, Mrs. Marvin Hudman and George Tracy served as election clerks.

Monday, he entered a plea of not guilty and was tried in justice of peace court Tuesday afternoon. He was bound over to the grand jury. Four persons were arrested on drunkenness charges during the holidays. All pleaded guilty and paid fines of $1 and costs each. Three negro men, arrested in the flats for gambling Monday evening, paid fines of $1 and costs each. ### SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

Range Conservation
Getting the range to produce all the grass it will with soil and moisture available is the objective of the Soil Conservation Service as well as every rancher.

Every rancher knows that the amount of grass on the range determines how much beef he has to sell. Likewise, the grass determines whether the rain soaks into the ground or runs off. If the moisture is led into the ground, it may be used later by plants to produce feed. Of course the grass holds the soil tightly, so neither rain nor wind can get hold and move it away. Deferment of a pasture during the growing season will help bring more grass to the pasture.

All of these things lead to permanence — permanence in holding the soil, permanence of feed, and permanence in the cattle business.

Makes Application
Doyle Howell of Cross Roads this week made application to the Duck Creek Soil Conservation District Board of Supervisors for assistance in soil conservation work.

In making application, Howell is requesting the District Supervisors to furnish technical assistance by Soil Conservation Service technicians to help him develop a coordinated soil conservation plan on his farm. The application which Howell submitted to the District Supervisors does not obligate either himself nor the District Supervisors. However, if a conservation plan incorporated sound land use is developed by Howell and the soils technicians, the plan will be submitted to the District Supervisors for their approval. When the District Supervisors approve the plan they agree to furnish to Howell technical assistance and other assistance as it may have available at the time the work is to be done.

May Be Canceled
The farmer agrees to carry out the conservation plan. It is further agreed the plan will remain in effect for a period of five years and will be automatically continued from year to year after the five years. The plan may be changed by amendment and it may be canceled by written notice by either the District Supervisors or the farmer.

Star Ranch Applies
Jack Myers foreman of the Star Ranch, 12 miles north of Post, made application for soil conservation work with the Duck Creek Soil Conservation District last week. A conservation plan will be worked out for the eight sections of land, using every acre of land according to its capability.

Will's Hospitality Isn't "Cracked"!

Ever since January, Will Dudley planned to give his living room that "new look"—planned to carefully refinish the woodwork and replaster the walls.

Every time Will got out the putty to start filling in the cracks, a neighbor stopped by to pass the time of day—and first thing you knew, there was a group of us helping Will do the job up right. After Will called a halt to the evening's work, we'd sit around the fire enjoying a friendly argument and a sparkling glass of mellow beer.

So Will's living room doesn't look like it did a year ago—but it's far far the most "livable" living room I know: A place you can always drop in for good talk, good beer, and a warm welcome.

From where I sit, so long as Will puts that atmosphere of hospitality and good fellowship ahead of everything else, we'll all be happy to help Will change the looks of his living room any time he wants.

THE CENTER OF COOL SUMMER MENUS

You'll never know what a pleasure the preparation of summer meals can be until you've got an electric refrigerator.

There's nothing like a crisp, refreshing salad or cool, flavorful dessert to make a summer meal successful, and there's nothing like an electric refrigerator to make those tasty dishes stand out on your menus.

Now, before the full summer heat is here, see your appliance dealer and make arrangements to have a dependable electric refrigerator in your kitchen. You'll love it . . . and so will your family.

And remember . . . electric service is cheaper than ever before.

ROGER W. BABSON WRITES THIS WEEK:

Return To Conservatism Is Normal & Also Inevitable

Sir Isaac Newton (1642-1725) was one of the world's greatest scientists and a founder of Mechanics, Chemistry, Physics and other sciences. He is especially known for his Law of Action and Reaction which he illustrated by the pendulum, the lever the spring and later in politics. This law is that all progress has a normal growth line; that as we deviate above this normal line, there must be a corresponding reaction below it, in area.

Since the days of Cain and Abel there has been a constant conflict between those who "have" and those who "have not." As each group got on top, it would abuse its power and a reaction would follow; then the opposing group would get on top until it likewise abused its power and lost out. English history illustrates Newton's Law. Although the masses of England have gradually secured more power since their days of serfdom, yet it has been by alternate periods of conservatism and new dealism. Fifty years ago the Conservatives of England were in control and England was a great world power. Today the reverse is true, although the Conservatives will come back again someday even in England.

This same law of Action and Reaction has also ruled our country. The first twenty years, under Washington and the Federalists, were very conservative. Then came a reaction under Jefferson and the country enjoyed its first New Deal. This was overdone and there was a reaction to conservatism.

Again the Conservatives abused their power and there was another New Deal under Jackson. These changes alternated up to the conservative regime of Coolidge and Hoover when the masses again revolted and put the New Dealers into power. Now, according to Newton's Law, a conservative government is a gain due. It will probably be administered by the Republican Party—not necessarily because its principles are any better; but because of Newton's Law.

Brains, Airplanes, Communism

During the great days of the British Empire when the highest type of men were in control, England ruled the seas, and these leaders—fearful of the Revolutionists across the Channel in France—were determined to have the English people the most prosperous of any nation. Today, the United States is faced with a similar opportunity. Our country has men with excellent minds; we control the ships of the air which make the world so small that Europe is as close to us today as France was to England 100 years ago. Furthermore, our industrialists and labor leaders now realize that the best way of fighting Communism is to have continued prosperity here at home.

Also, a Conservative Party in this country would now have a far greater opportunity for achieving good results than Conservatives ever had before. The Federal Reserve, the Securities and Exchange, the Shipping and scores of Commissions, with their tremendous powers, are appointed by the President. Since the Coolidge and Hoover regimes, the real power has been shifted from an unruly Congress to these various Commissions, the members of which are appointed instead of elected. No Conservative Administration could ever have brought about these changes in Government; in fact they came only through the personality of war conditions. Now, however, the Republican Party if successful in November would inherit these huge powers.

Under the above circumstances, it appears that four or more years of good business may be ahead, with perhaps our country entering a great era of expansion with untold possibilities great, but far-seeing that they must share more interest in the welfare of the people, and in fact, must undergo another severe period of their own skin. In short, there signs that our financial and business interests are really "going" they must apply this religiously, based upon this same law of Action and Reaction, the conservatives will someday abuse this power and another New Deal Administration again have its turn. We, ever, need not discuss this

Garza and the World

Editor's Note—Opinions expressed here are those of the author, and they do not necessarily reflect the opinions or policies of the Post Dispatch. The column is carried in the interest of applying world news to the situation here at home.

By EVELYN BOYD

I sure started something when I wrote about people not flying their flags here on Flag Day a few weeks ago. I stood corrected by the South Broadway merchants last week, and this week I stand corrected by the Main Street merchants.

James Minor can't remember who it was that had a flag out on the south side of Main Street, but he is positive that there was one because it reminded him that he ought to put out the Mason and Company flag—which he didn't do because of some interruption or other.

Then James put me on the spot by wanting to know where the Post Dispatch flag was. I explained that we just forgot it that morning, while Bolivar—our official flag putter-upper—was on the job. That afternoon, Bolivar was off-duty and Ganell thought of the flag. She climbed upon the storage rafters where we keep the flag pole, while I made a search of everyplace else to find the flag.

I finally found it in a filing cabinet, while Ganell was figuring out how to assemble our jointed pole. The next problem was to figure out how to attach the flag to the pole. The boss was out trying to peddle a few ads, and we of the office force were just too stupid to figure it out on our own.

Just beneath the Garza and the World column, in the June 24 paper, was a little filler which we clipped from the news sheet that the national American Legion publicity department sends us about once a month. It was about a meeting which "The Yankee (29th) Division Association" was to have the following week in Providence, R. I.

Bill DeWalt, a veteran of birth you learn to open your mouth and put your foot into it. Then it takes 60 years to unlearn the trick.

At every top of most men's heads is the bump of benevolence, as far away from the pocketbook as possible.

Few of our errors are ever serious until we make the error of denying them.

Many people favor that which will return them something for something or much for little.

Advice seldom helps. If we are dumb enough to need it, we haven't sense enough to use it.

If you spend a dollar in your home town, you have some hope of getting it back; if you don't, you just spend a dollar.

Here is a serious hint to farmers and other butane users: Remember last winter when you couldn't get enough fuel? It will be the same this winter. Better stock up now.

There's just as much horse sense as ever, but it seems like the horses have it.

the 29th Division, believes somebody slipped a cog somewhere and he and I both suspect that many a southern veteran of the Division was hopping mad when he read that filler in his hometown paper. Bill believes the error was a typographical one on the Legion clip sheet, and that it should have read 69th Division.

Jimmy Lumpkin of Amarillo, a candidate to keep his position as associate justice of the Court of Civil Appeals, was in the office not long ago to explain why he did not buy a paid political ad in our paper.

He said there are at least 96 newspapers in his area, and that it would cost him an average of $20 per paper to get in the Political Office column and explain his platform in a news item. This would total $1,920 and, by law, he is only allowed $1,500 to make the campaign. This, I presume, is to cover the cost of stamps, gasoline, etc., as well as newspaper and radio advertising.

I have known Jimmy Lumpkin for a number of years and I know the fine, upstanding, highly respected pioneer Panhandle family to which he belongs. I know him as a successful lawyer and a respected, intelligent associate justice of the Court of Civil Appeals. The statement which he made about his intention of abiding by the law, in my opinion, further qualifies him for the position he is seeking.

Jimmy is more fortunate than many candidates, however, because he is well-known and has a record of fine service that interested voters can hear about through mediums other than the radio or the newspapers. He probably could get elected, while keeping within the law, but his friends are taking no chances. They have taken up a collection to pay for his newspaper advertising campaign.

There are lots of state and national candidates who will be elected merely because they got their names before the radio-listening and newspaper-reading public, and not because they are in any way qualified for the job they are seeking.

There's something radically wrong with this method of electing candidates.

I'm not brilliant enough to figure out the cure for this bad situation. If I were, I'd be rich by now.

But surely there is something that can be done, to make it possible for a poor man who does not have $40,000 to spend campaigning for a $10,000 a year job or for a man wealthier who happens to be law abiding to get elected to an office.

Repealing the law which limits the campaign expenditure isn't the answer. Neither is increasing the amount of campaign funds allowable the answer.

The answer ought to be ENFORCE THE LAW.

But this sort of law cannot be enforced, any more than prohibition can be enforced. There are too many ways to skin the cat.

I am highly in favor of electing Lumpkin associate justice of the Court of Civil Appeals, and I am also in favor of electing James P. Hart of Travis County associate justice of the Supreme Court. I'll have more to say about Hart next week.

What Our Contemporaries Are Saying:

F.Y.I.—Seagraves didn't had a clean-up drive this spring and with the vacation season coming on, we probably won't. Nevertheless, with polio cases reported in Morton and Brownfield, it wouldn't hurt for individual residents to do a little clean-up on their own premises and shoot a few squirts of DDT on the breeding places of flies and mosquitos.—Gaines County News.

TOO MUCH STATIC—We see that Hereford will have a new radio station in operation about the middle of July. The air is so full of static now that hundreds of people in this area seldom turn on their radios. And more stations are being planned. Thousands of these hopeful boys who are sinking thousands of dollars in these little stations are getting ready to lose their shirts.—Canyon News.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT—A Russian citizen—May NOT own land. May NOT be tried by jury. Many NOT choose his own job. Many NOT absent himself from work. Many NOT strike. Many NOT picket. Many NOT employ labor. Many NOT travel. Many NOT own jewelry. Many NOT ring a church bell. Many NOT be friends with a foreigner.

And is FORBIDDEN freedom of speech, freedom of assembly, freedom of religion and freedom of soul.—Seminole Sentinel.

CITY SPRAYS ALLEYS—Last week the city of O'Donnell contracted and had sprayed all the alleys of the business and residential area. Private property was not sprayed unless the resident paid individually for this service which ran about $2 per home. After only a few days after the spraying there is a noticeable decrease in flies and mosquitos. A repeat job will probably be done next month or early in August. This is by far the best money the City can spend, and we commend our City Dads in their wisdom.—O'Donnell Index.

It pays to provide fattening hogs with plenty of shade in warm weather. The shed should be high enough and open enough to permit a good draft of air during the summer months.

THE NOMINEES—Both Governor Dewey and Governor Warren belong to the "internationalists" wing of the Republican party. On foreign affairs both men have backed the "bipartisan" policy—indeed, Mr. Dewey claims that he originated it in the '44 campaign.

On domestic affairs both men are considered moderates. Mr. Dewey has presented himself mainly as a conservative, efficient administrator, but has left intact most of the reforms of his Democratic predecessors in the New York Governorship.

The nominees have a task to fill in the details of their policies for the nation during the campaign. But the complete picture of Republican policy, if the GOP wins the election, may not be drawn until the Eighty-first Congress meets next January. Then Mr. Dewey would face a Congress controlled by more conservative "nationalists" Republicans—with the notable exception of Senator Vandenberg—such as Senator Taft, Speaker Martin and Majority Leader Halleck. The course of the Republican policy might then depend upon whether Mr. Dewey could demonstrate on a national scale the ability he has shown at Albany, to hold the party firmly in line.

But first, of course, he has the job of getting elected.

All through the Republican activities in Philadelphia there ran one persistent note: Victory is ours in November. The Republicans have reasons—historical and contemporary—for their optimism.

The historical reasons are these: in the ninety-two year history of the GOP—since the party nominated its first candidate in Philadelphia in 1856—Republican Administrations have ruled for 56 years. Republicans have elected 15 of their nominees (including second terms). They have been the majority party for the greater part of the last century.

Moreover, the American electorate historically has showed a restlessness after one party has been long in control. The swing of the political pendulum has an almost irresistible rhythm. In 1932 FDR's victory ushered in 16 years of Democratic rule. Today the Republicans—and many neutral political analysts—feel the pendulum is about to swing again.—New York Times.

I wish to thank my friends for the deep concern they showed me during my husband's sickness and death, and for the many thoughtful expressions of friendship, for the nice food sent in, and for the flowers sent by the Eastern Star, Verbena Sunday School, Methodist Church of Post and by many friends.

To the ones who came and sat with my husband the last night in our little home, to Dr. Surman for doing all he could and, especially, to my dear old friends, Mrs. R. L. Kirkendall and Mrs. "Dr." Rumph for coming and staying with me, and to all that in any way helped to rush completion of the little home so that I could move Mr. Rodgers from the West Texas Hospital to Post, and to my children for doing all that was possible for my comfort.

I can never forget the kindness so many showed me during these trials, and I do thank you from the depths of my heart. Beulah Bird Rodgers.

Salt Tablets Are Recommended For Hottest Weather

There is little doubt that summer is here. If you don't think so, take a quick look at your thermometer or feel your shirt or blouse—chances are that it will be wet and salty with sweat. Excessive sweating means the loss of body salt, and Dr. George W. Cox of Austin, state health officer, advises the use of salt in drinking water as a means of avoiding heat cramps.

"Salt is a prominent constituent of sweat," says Dr. Cox. "On days when the thermometer goes to 90 degrees or above, as it has recently, the body may lose as much as 50 grams of salt. Laborers, farmers, and even white-collar workers should be especially watchful of heat cramps."

Heat cramps are characterized by pains in the stomach, headaches and sometimes nausea and vomiting. The danger comes because the loss of the salt may occur without the knowledge of the individual until the deficiency causes cramps or heat fatigue.

Salt tablets may be purchased commercially. If they are not available, a pinch of table salt will serve the same purpose.

"Drinking milk is an excellent method of replacing body salt lost through perspiration," Dr. Cox says, "but alcoholic drinks should be avoided."

Soaking clothes saves hot water, work time and wear on garments. Fifteen to twenty minutes soaking in lukewarm water is all that is necessary. Soaping collars, neckbands and extra soiled spots before soaking is still further saving.

High School Grads Can Continue Study In Regular Army

High school graduates have a two-fold opportunity to continue their education by enlisting in the new U. S. Regular Army. Major Harold Fulghum, commanding officer of the Lubbock Recruiting Area, announced here Tuesday.

Enlisting for three years entitles young men to advance training in occupational skills of their own choosing or credits toward a college degree through the United States Armed Forces Institute self-study course.

A pre-selected school plan recently launched by the Army allows the qualified high school graduate to pick his own field of specialization before he enlists. After basic training, the young man obtains free and expert instruction in the course of his choice in one of the 60 or more fields of specialization available.

U.S.A.F.I. offers courses ranging from radio and radar to meteorology and photography and, since its inauguration, in 1942, has enrolled more than 1,800,000 students. Fifty-nine colleges and universities accredited the U.S.A.F.I. educational program.

Besides educational advancement, the Army offers young men a secure future, it was pointed out by Major Fulghum. Food, clothing, quarters, dental and medical care are free, and good pay with retirement benefits are not matched in civilian life. With every three-year enlistment the soldier gets a 5 per cent increase and after 20 years can retire at half-pay, after 30 years with three-quarters pay.

Importance Seen In Clean-Ups For Polio Prevention

Reported cases of polio in 65 Texas counties reached the alarming total of 589 during the first six months of the year, according to Dr. George W. Cox, state health officer. For the same period in 1946, the total number of cases reported in 66 counties of the state was only 292.

"This staggering increase in polio in a brief two year period evidences a need for drastic measures in all communities to combat the disease," Dr. Cox asserted. "It is the responsibility of the people of the state to report themselves to their doctors whenever they recognize symptoms of polio. It is also their duty to give wholehearted cooperation to clean-up drives in their communities."

Dr. Cox urged immediate medical attention, especially at this time of year, for such things as headaches, fever, stiff neck, pain in the legs, irritability and drowsiness. These, the health officer stated, are symptoms of polio.

"It is well to guard against panic in polio cases," he said, "for complete recovery is not impossible. Even in the more severe cases, when the germ has penetrated the nervous system causing paralysis of one or more groups of muscles, some remarkable recoveries have been made."

Dr. Cox indicated his belief that the first line of defense against polio is a carefully conceived and thoroughly executed clean-up campaign in all communities.

Local police power should make such clean-ups mandatory," he said.

Phenomenal Rise In Jr. Colleges Noted Over State

The increase in junior colleges in Texas during the last thirty years has been phenomenal.

There were only five of the two-year schools in the entire state in 1917-18. They had an enrollment of 720 students.

Now there are 45 municipal, county and independent junior colleges. During the scholastic year just closed they were attended by 19,848 students.

In 1917-18 two of the five junior colleges were, and still are branches of Texas A. and M. College. They were John Tarleton Agricultural College at Stephenville and North Texas Agricultural College, Arlington.

John Tarleton was the largest of the five, having a total enrollment of 261 students. Westminster College at Tehuacana was the next largest with 193. Wayland College, Plainview, and Lon Morris College, Jacksonville, were the only other two-year schools.

Now There Are Many Now there are seven county-wide or multiple county junior colleges, 20 supported by municipalities and 18 which are denominational or otherwise independently-operated schools.

The municipal and county junior colleges now get financial aid from the state. During the present biennium it is $100 per student each year.

The greatest impetus to increasing the number of two-year schools and of the activities of others was a bill sponsored in the legislature in 1937 by Charles H. Tennyson.

Tennyson, now public relations director for the Texas State Teachers Association, got a prohibition against state aid for the two-year institutions removed from the statutes.

Tennyson and A. M. Aikin of Paris, now a state senator, attempted in 1937 to obtain an appropriation for the colleges, but failed. It was not until 1941 that state aid was made available.

Apportionment Increase That year $325,000 was allocated the schools upon the basis of $50 per student. The amount in 1943 was $286,500 and the per capita the same.

The per capita apportionment was increased to $60 per capita and $925,000 by the last legislature.

Since the war there has been a spurt in the number of junior colleges. The year 1946 was a banner one, nine schools opening their doors. They are Henderson County, Howard County, Navarro County, Odessa Municipal, Wharton County, Southwest Texas, Le Tourneau Technical, Southwestern Bible Institute and Terrell Military. The latter reopened after being closed during the war.

Educators favoring establishment of even more junior colleges know there is a definite place in the picture for two-year colleges. They enable many students to get college training in schools at home or near-by who would be unable to do so were they required to get their education at institutions located at that they could not live at home.
