Skeet Enthusiasts Spend $50,000 Annually On Purely Amateur Sport

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor

The National Skeet Tournament, a sports spectacle in which the participant pays all the expenses and gets nothing in return except a cup or two, will open in Dallas next Sunday and run a week.

It's quite an event. Some 500 persons, most of whom have more money than they know what to do with, will spend plenty of it on shells, entry fees, trap boys, targets, officials, and awards which they hope to win themselves.

If ever there was an amateur sport this is it.

During this tournament some 500,000 shells will be fired and almost that many clay targets will be smashed. Those shells alone will cost better than $50,000. The shells weigh over 46 tons. They will be propelled by 15 tons of gunpowder.

Here's an example of what it costs to participate in skeet tournaments: Mrs. Leon Mandel, Chicago socialite who has gone into the game with the intentions of becoming the greatest marksman of them all and who is making rapid strides toward that objective, spends $12,000 a year at it.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Akin of Dallas got into skeet shooting only last year. They counted up at the end of the year and found they had spent between $50,000 and $60,000.

Otella Deckshot of Dallas, who doesn't go into the thing anywhere near so heavily, paid out $1,000 on four tournaments.

It's truly a rich man's and rich woman's game.

Skeet is easy to learn but for that reason it is the most exacting sport and the sport in which it is more difficult to win than most any other.

You will see men break 199 targets out of 200 and wind up in sixth place. You have to be perfect to take home the trophies in this endeavor.

Skeet is only 26 years old. It was started by three quail hunters in Andover, Mass., who wanted something to practice on. They shot at targets in a circle but got complaints from a fellow that they were killing his chickens. So they cut it to half a circle.

Skeet shooting today is in a half-circle with eight stations. You shoot from every angle.

The National Skeet Shooting Association chose Dallas as its permanent home in 1949.

One thing about a Texan: let him get you in his own balliwick and he'll beat your ears down for sure. Thus Texans dominate the National Skeet Tournament in Dallas every year.

But Texans have some advantages to make them the best in the world in this sport. There are more people who like the outdoors and they have more money to spend. Skeet shooting can be carried on 12 months out of the year in Texas because of favorable weather conditions.

There are some 8,000 persons who shoot registered targets in the nation. There are probably 60,000 who participate in skeet shooting but on a limited scale.

The association was formed in 1935. The second world war came along to give it a big boost. The military installations used it to train to shoot Germans and Japs.

There's no doubt but that it is one of the most entertaining and interesting sports of all. Everybody likes to have a gun in his hand and knock over a target, be it a tin can or a clay pigeon. Thousands of people are willing to pay for the privilege of doing it.

And there's still another important feature of skeet shooting: Nobody has to pay to watch it.

Higher Social Security Payments Slated For 3,500 South Plainsmen

About 3,500 people in the South Plains area will receive higher social security payments beginning early in October as a result of the social security amendments which President Truman signed into law last Friday, July 18, 1952.

John G. Hutton, manager of the Lubbock social security office, emphasized that no one needs to apply for the increased payments. "The Social Security Administration is already changing the amounts," he pointed out. "We expect to get them changed in time to have them in the mail October 3, the regular delivery date, but if in a few cases we don't meet that schedule we'll send the regular check and make up the difference in a later check."

Hutton pointed out that although nearly every family receiving payments would receive an increase, the additional amount would not always be divided among all the members of the family receiving monthly checks. In some cases the entire increase will go to the retired worker.

Under terms of the law, most families will get an increase of about $5; some will get less, some will get more. A few benefits now being paid, and most of those payable in the future, will be based on earnings after 1950 instead of after 1936. The amended law provides a new formula for determining the amount of the payments in these cases. Under it, a retired worker's monthly benefit would be 55 percent of the first $100 of his average monthly earnings plus 15 percent of the remainder up to $300.

Beginning September 1, the new law increased to $75 a month instead of $50 the amount of money a beneficiary may earn and still receive the monthly benefits. Self-employed people entitled to old-age and survivors insurance benefits may receive the payments for each month of the year if their net earnings during the entire year are not over $900.

The amended law contains a provision of special importance to self-employed people who have retired or plan to retire during 1952. Before the passage of the amendments their earnings for the year in which an application was made could not be used to figure their old-age benefit payments. Now, those self-employed people who originally applied for benefits in 1952 may re-apply at the close of the taxable year and have their 1952 earnings used in figuring their monthly benefit payments. In general, this will increase the monthly benefit payment to self-employed persons.

In a similar change in the law now permits insured wage earners who retire in 1952 to have their wages for this year used immediately in figuring the amount of their benefit payments. Heretofore, it was necessary for them to come back after the end of the year in order to have all of their covered wages for 1952 included in the computation of the benefit amount.

It applies to service in the armed forces up to January 1, 1954.

Of advantage to the survivors of deceased service people is a provision in the amended law extending the time for claiming a lump-sum death payment. This applies to servicemen who die abroad and are later returned to the United States for burial or reburial. Survivors who pay the burial expenses may now claim reimbursement up to two years after the reburial instead of two years after the serviceman's death.

Grass Plantings Discussed By SCS

Cover For Grass Plantings

The best way to insure the success of a grass planting, say supervisors of the Duck Creek Soil conservation district, is to have a good cover established at the time grass plantings are to be made.

Grass plantings in the district that have been most successful were planted in a dead feed stubble. Late summer planted grain sorghums and cane such as "Red Top" provide an excellent cover. The dead stalks protect the young grass plants from sand and wind.

The litter will also provide a mulch to help shade the ground in the dry, hot part of the summer. Several grass plantings in the district have not survived the first growing season because the ground was exposed to the sun and to dry, hot winds.

The supervisors say that best covers have been obtained when the cover crop was "double-planted" and the land left relatively flat. This method of planting gives a close, thick cover and leaves the land level so that a grass drill may be run over it without further land preparation.

Use Moore's Porch and Deck Paint

An easy brushing, excellent hiding, high-gloss floor enamel, that is exceptionally durable and weather-resistant on exterior surfaces.

Dries in about six hours. May be scrubbed. May be used for porch floors, steps, or interior floors . . . where the ultimate in wear is desired. One gallon covers approximately 600 square feet, depending on surface.

In a similar change in the law now permits insured wage earners who retire in 1952 to have their wages for this year used immediately in figuring the amount of their benefit payments. Heretofore, it was necessary for them to come back after the end of the year in order to have all of their covered wages for 1952 included in the computation of the benefit amount.

Final Article In Series Explains How To Vote In All State Elections

(Editor's Note: This is the final article in a series presented to Dispatch readers on voting and voting procedures. The material is taken from a booklet, "A Handbook For Texas Voters" by Patricia Stuart. It is published by the Institute of Public Affairs, the University of Texas.)

Two processes—proposal and ratification—are involved in adopting amendments to any constitution. Amendments to the U. S. Constitution may be proposed in two ways and ratified in two ways. The Texas constitution provides only one method of proposal and one method of ratification. Amending The U. S. Constitution Congress may propose amendments to the U. S. Constitution by a two-thirds vote of both the Senate and House of Representatives. This method has been used to propose all of the present amendments. A national constitutional convention may also propose amendments. The Constitution provides that Congress shall call this convention when it is petitioned to do so by the legislature of two-thirds of the states.

Amendments must be ratified and approved before they can be added to the Constitution. Ratification is accomplished by (1) approval by the legislature of three-fourths of the states or (2) approval by conventions held specifically for this purpose in three-fourths of the states. In proposing an amendment Congress specifies which ratification method is to be used. The first method of ratification has been used for all but one of the present constitutional amendments. Thus, for the most part changing the structure of our federal government has been in the hands of Congress and the state legislature with no direct action on the part of the voters.

Request help in marking your ballot if you cannot write because of some physical disability which renders you unable to see or to write. Two officials of the election will be designated to assist you. They must confine their help to answering your questions, naming candidates and their parties, and preparing the ballot as you direct. During this time the officials and you must speak only in the English language. In partisan elections the two officials must be of different political parties if both parties are represented at the polling place.

Detach from your ballot the numbered stub and write your name on the back of it without revealing to anyone the number of the stub. Deposit the stub in the stub box. If you cannot write, place an "X" on the back of the stub and have the election official write your name below it. Fold your ballot with the signature of the presiding judge exposed and your marks concealed and deposit it in the ballot box. Remember, do not let anyone see the number of your stub and deposit your own ballot and stub in the boxes.

(Voting machine elections will not apply to voters in Garza county and Absentee voting has already been discussed, so they will not be taken up here.)

How Our Constitutions Are Amended

Not only are you called upon to vote for persons running for political office at each general election, but you may also be asked to vote on amendments to the state constitutions. Or there may be an election called for the specific purpose of securing a vote on constitutional amendments. Furthermore, you may be asked to elect delegates to a convention to ratify amendments to the federal constitution.

Taking the time to consider each of these matters carefully and to vote your preference is an important part of every voter's responsibility. No matter how painstakingly you select the men to hold public office, they must still work within the framework provided by the written constitution. Two processes—proposal and ratification—are involved in adopting amendments to any constitution. Amendments to the U. S. Constitution may be proposed in two ways and ratified in two ways. The Texas constitution provides only one method of proposal and one method of ratification.

Amending The U. S. Constitution Congress may propose amendments to the U. S. Constitution by a two-thirds vote of both the Senate and House of Representatives. This method has been used to propose all of the present amendments. A national constitutional convention may also propose amendments. The Constitution provides that Congress shall call this convention when it is petitioned to do so by the legislature of two-thirds of the states.

Amendments must be ratified and approved before they can be added to the Constitution. Ratification is accomplished by (1) approval by the legislature of three-fourths of the states or (2) approval by conventions held specifically for this purpose in three-fourths of the states. In proposing an amendment Congress specifies which ratification method is to be used. The first method of ratification has been used for all but one of the present constitutional amendments.

Thus, for the most part changing the structure of our federal government has been in the hands of Congress and the state legislature with no direct action on the part of the voters. About the only way an individual voter can express himself on proposed amendments is to make wise selections of congressmen and keep them advised of his wishes. When the issue of ratification is to come before the state legislature, voters can raise the question at election time and support candidates who pledge to carry out their wishes. Of course, if a convention is to be elected, the voter has a direct opportunity to elect the delegate he wants.

Amending The State Constitution

Amending the Texas Constitution involves proposal by the legislature and ratification by a direct vote of the people. The legislature may at any biennial session by a two-thirds vote of the membership of both the Senate and House of Representative submit constitutional amendments to be voted on. The legislature specifies the time at which the election is to be held and the form in which the amendments are to appear on the ballot. Furthermore, although the Texas constitution is silent with respect to the calling of a state constitutional convention there is little doubt that the legislature could do so. If a convention is called, the voters would elect delegates and vote on the completed constitution.

SENATOR Yields—White-haired Senator Tom Connally walks slowly down the capitol step as he leaves the Senate Chamber on what may be his final day of an active career in Congress. As the 74-year-old Texas Democrat picked his way down the steps he ended a 35-year Congressional job. He served in the House and then had four six-year Senate terms. He announced this year he would not run for re-election.

It saves your strength - and it might save your life CAN you imagine parking a car as easily as you steer it on a straight-away? You twirl the steering wheel with one hand—turn the front wheels until you get the last inch of advantage from Buick's short "turning radius"—spot the car in a tight spot at the curb—or swing out when the car parked in front of you seems impossibly close. For this alone a lot of people—especially women—are saying that Buick's Power Steering is the biggest advance since Dynaflo Drive.* But you're going to find out something more as you pile up the miles. You're going to feel the same confident and thrilling sense of command you have always felt in a Buick, because Power Steering only goes into action when extra effort is needed to turn the wheels. You're going to find that your front wheels track just as they always have—that they automatically swing back on course, after you've made a turn, when you ease your grip on the steering wheel. You're also going to find that Power Steering takes over when your front wheels hit loose dirt or sand—road irregularities and chuekholes—and smooths down their jerk or tug on the wheel in your hands. All this adds to the ease and pleasure of driving. But it adds to the safety, too.

Movie Projectionist Job Not As Easy As Average Movie Fan Would Imagine

THE SHOW MUST GO ON—Loading the projector at the Tower Theatre so that another picture can meet the public are George Owens, in background, and Ardell Williams.

Are you one of the many persons who stomp and whistle and shout when the picture stops at a movie?

If so, you should wise up. You are definitely not the one who has trouble. It's the projectionist in the booth whose shoulders are bent with the burden of getting the picture running before serious damage is done to the building or the patrons.

The projectionist's job is not a simple one, despite the fact that hundreds of people claim they can perform it just as well as he.

In the first place, there is thousands of dollars worth of equipment which needs constant watch (while you and I are enjoying the love-making of some Clark Gable) to prevent any damage.

First they must sort out the films which are shipped in by special truck line at the approximate cost of $25 for a one-day run or $50 for a two-day run.

Once the movie starts the maw-mouth projectors take over and perform lots of the work—unless something happens. Tower projectionists say the most trouble they experience is breakage of film.

Oh, yes, another little word to the wise. The stomping and yelling doesn't help. In fact it sometimes prolongs the resuming of the picture. It naturally excites the operators and sometimes delays the "re-fixing."

Fire hazards in movie projectors are constantly being diminished. The new safety-base film is practically unignitable. However, the non-safety film can catch on fire when a breakage causes the 80 amp. light which projects the image on the screen to remain in one spot too long.

Two large projectors keep the show in a continuous picture. One is loaded while the other is running. When a switchover is necessary the projectionist steps on a small foot pedal and one machine automatically stops and the other takes over.

Do you ever hear the noise from the projection booth? Well, there is plenty there, but the sound proof booth prevents the audience from hearing it.

All in all the job of providing the critical movie goer with a good picture without any interruptions is definitely not an easy task.

Just take it from the projectionists themselves, it is not as easy as watching the movie.

Movies of the Week

This week is "musical week" at the Tower! Two of the outstanding musicals of the year are scheduled for Garza county movie fans.

So with these two to choose between, let's go all out and say that "LOVELY TO LOOK AT" will win the hearts of the movie fans as the outstanding movie. It shows Sunday and Monday.

"LOVELY TO LOOK AT" is all that the name implies, and more. Starring Kathryn Grayson, Red Skelton, Howard Keel, Ann Miller and Margie and Gower Champion, it skims the cream from the musical and terpsichorean crop.

And listen to the song-tits! "I'll Be Hard to Handle," "Yesterdays," "I Won't Dance," "You're Devastating," "Let's Begin," "Lovely To Look At," "Smoke Gets In Your Eyes," "The Touch Of Your Hand," "The Most Exciting Night," "Opening Night" and "Lafayette."

Billy Murray, of the Garnolia community, might enjoy this big musical. He has two tickets at the boxoffice good for any performance.

Now "ABOUT FACE," starring Gordon McRae, Dick Wesson, Virginia Gibson, Aileen Stanley, Jr. and Eddie Bracken, shows Wednesday and Thursday and gives the fans plenty of music.

County Agent Lewis Herron Appeals To County Residents On Safety Week

Will you be one of the 15,000 farm residents to die from an accident during the next 12 months? It's not a pleasant thing to think about but estimates released by the National Safety Council forecast that if the average of the past years hold, 15,000 farm residents will die accidentally during the year. County Agent Lewis Herron points out that this has been designated as National Farm Safety week and urges all Garza county farm people to observe carefully the simple safety rules. He also explained that many of them could be put to use by city families. Accidents will kill 41 farm residents each day. Every 24 seconds a disabling injury will strike a farm somewhere in America. One out of every 19 farm residents will suffer a disabling injury. Motor vehicle accidents will take the lives of about 6,000 farm residents and more than 200,000 others will be injured. Nearly 4,000 other deaths will result from work accidents. One out of every six farms in the nation will be the scene of an accidental injury. Herron and other Extension Service workers believe that much of this wasteful loss of lives and manpower can be prevented. He says it isn't enough to think and act safely only for one or a few weeks of each year. Safety must be practiced every day. It is just as important to the health and well-being of every rural family as is eating the correct diet and practicing sanitation in every day living, he adds. Right attitudes toward safety can save lives the year round and Herron believes the work now being done in every section of the state under the leadership of the State Committee and supervised local representatives of agencies, farm organizations and other interested groups will greatly improve the situation in Texas. Right attitudes, he says, just means that farm residents will take time to think safety and act safely in the home, in the field and on the highway. To cut the toll taken by accidents, Herron emphasizes that every rural citizen must become a safety inspector. Industry has developed safety systems and has safety inspectors to see that the systems are carried out. Their success is well known. Farms and ranches, generally, have no safety system and no inspectors, but adds Herron, farming the right way is farming the safe way. Herron suggests that neighborhoods and communities observe National Farm Safety Week by getting a program on safety, fire prevention or any one of a dozen other programs started that will make the community a better place to live. A community clean-up or hazard removal program could well become the first activity for the group. Farm and home accidents are creating such a serious problem that President Truman has issued a special proclamation urging farm residents and all persons interested in farm life to observe National Farm Safety Week. Home accidents are costing Americans over $600,000,000 annually, in lost wages, medical expenses and insurance overhead. The safe home, for family members and for children to grow up in, is one where the parents are safety conscious and where hazards are corrected. Accidents in the home may happen because the homemaker is tired. Herron points out its a smart thing to plan devices to save strength and energy. Use the head instead of the feet; don't carry heavy clothes baskets to the line; put the wash in a plastic bag over the shoulder or in a basket on a small cart; save lifting heavy loads and save bending by having work surfaces of the right height. If every Garza County resident will remember these simple rules and become safety conscious they will find it is worth the time it takes to be safe, Herron concluded.

IT'S THE LAW
in Texas
A public service feature of the State Bar of Texas

Is there a counterpart of our American "Bill of Rights?" Texas lawyers believe that for every guaranteed RIGHT, there is a corresponding RESPONSIBILITY on the part of every citizen. Recently the American Citizenship Committee of the State Bar was presented an award by the Freedom Foundation for its work during 1950-51. One of its projects during that time, and one factor in earning the award, was the development of the following "Bill of Responsibilities":

- I. It shall be the duty of every citizen to render undivided allegiance to the Constitution of the United States, to work for its betterment and perpetuation, to respect the sovereignty of the people's government, and to defend the nation against all its enemies whomsoever.
- II. It shall be the duty of every citizen to be familiar with the Constitution of the United States and to be informed as to what rights and liberties are his, and to use these rights in such manner as is consistent with his own welfare and the welfare of his fellow citizens.
- III. It shall be the duty of every citizen to defend with his life the rights and liberties granted to him and to his fellow citizens by the Constitution, to obey the laws of the land and aid in their enforcement, and to oppose vigorously any persons whose intention is to transgress the law or to oppress the rights of others.
- IV. It shall be the duty of every citizen to make honest, wise and courageous use of the free and secret ballot at every election; to exercise freedom of thought, speech, and worship; to protect the freedom of the press; to safeguard the right of trial by jury and to render willing jury service when called upon; and to perform all other acts conducive to the perpetuation of the rights set forth in the Constitution.
- V. It shall be the duty of every citizen to protect and sustain the unwritten liberties and rights vested in him by custom and usage and to perpetuate the ideals of the equality and dignity of the individual, upon which the Constitution is founded.

Chinese Spending Is Scored By President
SINGAPORE (AP) — Singapore Chinese are too lavish in spending and are not punctual. So thinks Mr. Homer Cheng, president of the Chinese YMCA. He has noticed Chinese extravagance in funerals, dinners and weddings. He said the Chinese YMCA has organized mass weddings at only $10 per couple. He believes Chinese restaurants could be persuaded to cut down the number of courses in Chinese dinners. Weddings, funerals and dinners don't usually start on time because of the Chinese habit of being late.
