

GETTING OUT

On the LIMB

by EDDIE the EDITOR

Now that the Stampede is over, I think it is in order to give credit, full credit, to the 10 or 12 men who worked on it and put it over.

Biggest crowds we've ever had attended the show two nights when the weather was favorable and a fairly good crowd attended Thursday night's performance, braving wet bleachers and threatening skies.

The fact that Saturday night's show drew the biggest gate of all was proof that the fans liked the previous performances. On the whole, the 1950 Stampede was considerably enjoyed by fans from all over West Texas.

The Stampede costs some $8,000 to stage and is put on purely for entertainment. Any time any money is cleared from the rodeo, it goes back into the plant. Every town needs a big entertainment of some sort once a year or so, and the Post Stampede has kept Post well-known far and wide.

Directors work hard on the show and give their services free. They buy tickets just like everyone else, besides donating a lot of their time. It is a policy of the rodeo association not to give any more passes than necessary. There are always some people who want a pass for doing the least little thing, but the Stampede directors try to put on a show that is worth paying for.

Although this year's Stampede was considered the most successful ever, it was not a financial success. This was strictly due to the weather and not a reflection on the quality of the performances.

As I said before, the Stampede was put on by about a dozen men this year. Local merchants simply did not cooperate as they should have. This year was the worst possible indication of their indifference.

The original Southwestern Junior Championship rodeo is slated again for August. Directors are all teen-age boys working with Alvin Davis, the promoter, and I might say, an A-1 promoter. These boys have already been planning their show for weeks and weeks.

Alvin already has a bunch of topnotch junior performers—all 18 years old or under—from all over West Texas and other states. During the last two years ranch kids and other cowboy-crazy kids have competed from all over the West.

Sheriff's posse's from as far away as Amarillo have been invited. This includes the famous Will Rogers Range Riders.

A former Post boy who grew up here and then went away to gain fame as a song writer and musician will be here with his band. I am referring to Floyd Tillman and his presence alone will draw a tremendous crowd.

Alvin went to Amarillo and saw Roy Rogers during a personal appearance there and Roy regretted that he was booked up for this year but told Alvin to try Wild Bill Elliott of Hollywood movie fame. Negotiations are now underway to get Wild Bill here for this rodeo. Roy Rogers may come another year.

Governor Allan Shivers will be here for one or two performances. Numbers of people will be here to see the governor—don't know how long it's been since we had one here.

All this has been done by Alvin Davis.

What are Post business men going to do for this show which will no doubt be an outstanding event in this area?

Financier Scores Government Butter-Buying Support Program

BABSON PARK, Mass.—Can anyone tell me, why, in the name of common sense, our Government bought and stored away 114,000,000 pounds of butter last year at a cost to you and me of better than $78 million?

Farmer's Cry The cry has gone up from farmers across the land that people's eating habits are changing. They say folks aren't eating as much butter as they used to. Obviously not—they can't afford to! But why not? Because the economic medicine men in Washington have pushed the price so high that substitutes have to be bought. The family physician may tell you that vitamin-reinforced margarine is just as nutritious as butter, but abolish your phony controls on price and you will see which spread the people really prefer! They prefer good creamery butter.

Last year, for example, we spread only 1 1/2 billion pounds of butter as against 2 1/2 billion pounds pre-war. But still the farmers cry in their churns over the sharp increases in margarine sales—from 300 million pounds pre-war to nearly 1,000 million pounds last year.

Yet they let the department of agriculture continue turning their churns! If the boys in the Agriculture department keep on, they will churn butter producers right out of business. And I say this as a boy brought up on a dairy farm who has both milked cows and delivered milk.

We Want Golden Butter But this isn't the end of the sad tale. People cannot afford to pay current high prices for butter. Hence, consumption falls off. The government buys mountains of the stuff to maintain high prices. So the dairy farmers go merrily on churning out more and more spread for no one to buy; but for Uncle Sam to store away, and for you and me to pay for the privilege of not using.

What's the Government going to do with all the golden butter bricks? Who knows? Recently they have been trying to give them to relief agencies, schools, and so forth. But takers are few because they haven't the kind of money it takes to pay transportation charges, especially when a good substitute answers the purpose. Anyway, who wants rancid butter? To my way of thinking, not only the butter, but the whole phony system is rancid.

Action And Reaction This is but one illustration of the system of false economies in vogue in this country today. You just can't tamper for long with the law of supply and demand before it will boomerang. Newton's law of action and reaction also apply here as aptly today as 200 years ago. Ostrich economics (the head in the sand variety) is due for a terribly rude awakening some day.

Yet, our President is urging other spending programs like the butter program that could run up a debt $15 billion in three years. Projects requiring huge outlays of public money—when business is at near peak performance—will lead some day to economic disaster. If we must prime the pump in this fashion in good times, what can the soothsayers possibly have in store for us in hard times? The awful consequences of this kind of reckless spending ought to be taught by all high school teachers to their classes. The harsh object lessons of Great Britain offer excellent source material.

Unemployment is rising. Unemployment is currently and steadily rising. Even Leo Keyserling suggests we may lose as many as 12 million jobs by 1954. I wonder if the connection between a mountain of butter and the mounting unemployed is as long as business is stifled by an increasing tax burden to make up prices there just is not sure capital sufficient to create and expand business.

Minute Editorial

The Post Dispatch is hoping Post will get a hospital. It was not our original idea to finance it through the government, but since responsible people say that is the only way it can be done, we are for doing it that way. The few dollars a year it will cost in taxes will not even pay ambulance fare to Slaton or Lubbock. We do not expect a Mayo Clinic in Post and we realize that for some things, people will have to continue to go out of town. And there are some people who will go out of town for hospitalization just like they shop in Lubbock for things that can be bought in local stores for the same price. But there are a number of people who are denied needed hospitalization while there is no hospital here. Sometimes denial of hospital facilities is denial of medical care. Post is a population center for a large area that has no hospital. We believe there would be a financial benefit for Post business men to locate a hospital here and we are sure patients would benefit financially from a nearer hospital. Post is modern and progressive in adopting new ideas but is pitifully lagging in cultural and civic enterprises. We hope some day to see a library here but our first interest and greatest need is for a hospital. Let's all do our part to promote the passing of the proposed bond election.

TEXANS IN WASHINGTON

By TEX EASLEY Associated Press Washington Service.

WASHINGTON. —P—Recent differences between this country and Mexico have focused attention on two Texans in the State department.

Director of the Office of Middle American Affairs is Laredo-born-and-reared Tom Mann. Under him and head of the Mexican affairs division is Roy Richard Rubottom, a native of Brownwood who was a Corsicana banker before joining the State department in 1947. The latest incident to be tossed in their lap was the April 23 seizure of the five Texas shrimp-carrying vessels by Mexican authorities in the Gulf near Tampico.

Another matter is the controversy over visa rates for tourists from each country. Last year Mexico was charging Americans a $2 visa fee for visiting their country. After this was raised to $2.50, the United States in turn hiked its charges to Mexicans in like amounts. Differences continued and then both countries agreed to fix the fee at $3.

American border towns and cities from Brownsville to California are particularly interested in the visa issue, because of the effect on the amount of the tourist dollars they get. They have taken the matter up with congressmen, and the latter in turn have gone to Mann and Rubottom.

Mann is 37. A graduate of the Baylor Law School in 1934, he practiced law in Laredo before joining the State Department in 1942. His first post was in Montevideo. After a year there he came to Washington, and in 1947 went to Caracas, Venezuela. He assumed his present position last November.

His wife is the former Nancy Aynesworth of Waco. They have a 5-year-old son, Clifton, who learned Spanish as well as English while beginning to talk. "He lapped Spanish up like a blotter," commented Mann. "Even better than English."

"He promptly forgot it when we came back to Washington. But they say that once having learned it as an infant, it will always come back easily, and with a perfect accent."

United States relations with all of the 10 northernmost Latin-American nations come under Mann's jurisdiction. Rubottom received a BS degree from SMU in 1932 and an MA degree the next year. He did graduate work at the University of Texas and served as assistant dean from 1937 to 1941.

He was a Navy commander in the war, serving some time as a Naval attaché in Mexico and Paraguay.

He went to Bogota, Columbia, as consul upon entering State department service. The 19 American consulates in Mexico and the embassy there are under his direction.

Around the Capital: Mynant Smith, editor of the McAllen Evening Mirror, and Mrs. Smith stopped here en route home from New York.

Other recent Rio Grande Valley visitors included Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd M. Benisen, sr., of Mission, parents of the 15th district congressman.

Ralph D. Pittman, formerly of Wichita Falls and DeLeon, has been elected president of suburban Manor Country club. A Southwest conference football star when he attended Baylor, Pittman now practices law here. He is a past president of the Texas State Society and the Touchdown Club here.

Philippine Ambassador Joaquin M. Elizalde wanted some good Herefords for his nearby Maryland farm. He learned that Texas was a good source, so he got in touch with Rep. Olin E. Teague, whose district includes

What Our Contemporaries Are Saying:

JUST TALK—Most of the time when I come to the sections in newspapers where the information is devoted to oil news I have been giving the stuff the go by. What little I have tried to read was so confusing to me that it might as well have been written in Chinese. Some day I'm going to get B. G. Gunn cornered and try to find out what they mean by block 10 of the Gulbranson survey, four and one half miles west of the Hurd discovery well in Hockley county. And what is the Permian basin and all the other queer terms that they use. Lots of times I have wondered where an oil well might be located that the oil editors were writing about but I have always ended up so confused that I have given up and gone to reading something about corn borers, traffic accidents and bathing beauty contests. They are things that do not amount to much but at least you have a faint idea about what they are trying to tell.—The Slaton Slatonite.

HOPES FOR DIAL TELEPHONES—The Southwestern Bell Telephone Company is this week approaching the people of Lockney with a proposition to install a new $100,000 dial telephone system here if the city council will authorize a rate rise for the company.

THE DIAL SYSTEM will be modern and complete in every respect. To provide the new service, a dial telephone building must be erected, a dial switching system must be manufactured and installed here, and all telephones in Lockney must be replaced with dial instruments.—The Lockney Beacon.

IT SEZ HERE—The Almighty is now in the life insurance business. Pappy O'Daniel, well-known biscuit-pusher and sometime politician, announced the unusual merger over a statewide radio hook-up Sunday. Texans had their ears glued to the radio to hear what Pappy was going to do about his threats to run for governor. What they got was a corny advertisement for Pappy's new life insurance company, which got off to a good start with background music featuring a hillbilly band grinding up "Sweet Hour of Prayer."

Pappy, of course, knew he wasn't going to run for governor all the time he has been badgering the press. But he did know he was going into the insurance business, and it had to be advertised—free. It was a good gag. We wish we had been spared his pious and border-line sacrilege though. All the sound and fury turned out nothing less than a cheap radio commercial. How the Almighty will fare as a partner in Pappy's business venture is open to speculation. But remembering his activities in the fields of pastry, politics, wealthy sons-in-law and apartment housing, we think somebody is in line for a first-rate trimming. But we're going along with the gag. Once more Pappy is booming his business on the basis of (1) making the dear old folks happy, (2) saving Texas from professional politicians, (3) putting all the Texas A&M. One result was an invitation for Teague and Charles Burnmeister, Aggie graduate and one of the top authorities in the agriculture department, to have dinner at the embassy. Teague said the ambassador wants to buy two carloads of Texas Herefords. He has in mind improving herds on dairy farms in the Philippines as well as stocking his own farm in Maryland.

Retired Railroad Man, C. W. Terry, Builds Own House in Post

C. W. Terry retired from railroading and went back to his old carpentering, long enough to build the English-type, two-story house on Adams street, East 12th streets.

Mrs. Terry drew their plans, modifying and changing several times until they arrived at what they wanted for themselves.

Guests enter a small 5x5-foot vestibule with the pine, panel opening from the south. A door is on the east side, corresponding to the door throughout the house.

Walls are papered in pale green textured paper, matching the living room.

Inlaid linoleum in a tile pattern of greens and black is on the floor. North of the vestibule is the kitchen dining area which is 22x12 feet, with a three-foot closet off the dining room.

Palest Yellow Walls

Walls are painted palest yellow with yellow blinds on the window trimmed with brown cords and tapes. Brown ruffles curtain the windows. On the south end of the dining room is a built-in china closet which is to have sliding glass doors. The bottom section is closed in with yellow wooden doors.

Dining room suite is maple in a modern style. The gateleg table is placed against the window.

A small service bar separates the dining area from the large kitchen. Ceiling of both rooms are pale yellow but walls of the kitchen, mostly in cabinets on all three sides, are white. Inside of the cabinets are painted yellow.

Green rubber tile is on the counter tops, beneath the cabinets on two sides of the room. Small windows with yellow blinds and brown ruffles are on either side of corner shelves, above the double sink placed in the corner.

Clock Is Present

Terry built a special place above the sink for an electric clock given them by Mrs. Terry's brother. The cabinets are all painted yellow inside to harmonize with the dining area. Inlaid linoleum on the kitchen and dining room floor, as well as in the hall, is a varicolored, conventionalized stripe.

In one cabinet is a cake drawer, with a sliding top. Mrs. Terry is very proud of her closets containing the waste basket, hot water heater, brooms and cleaning equipment, next to the door leading to the service porch.

Her appliances include a gas range and electric refrigerator.

The screened-in service porch is 6x8 feet in measurement. It is trimmed in brick-red, as is all the outside woodwork to match the roof. Half-walls are gray.

In the middle of the house is the 4x14 hall. Walls are painted pale yellow. The telephone is in a niche in the wall, convenient to the kitchen and living room. Opening off the hall on the right, is the bathroom.

Large Bathroom

Dimensions here were 8x12 feet, before a closet was taken out for the bedroom. At the right of the entrance door is a large linen closet, extending to the ceiling. The bathroom is floored with rose inlaid linoleum and the top of the make-up counter built by Terry and surrounding the lavatory is also rose inlaid.

White tile board wainscots the walls with the remainder being papered with large pink roses on a pale blue background. Beneath the make-up counter is the dirty clothes hamper, a make-up drawer and extra storage space.

Above it is the usual medicine chest and a large mirror.

The bathroom is heated by a small wall heater. It boasts a shower as well as a tub. Mrs. Terry's shower curtain is pale pink with a rose-colored hand-painted floral design. The ceiling is also pink.

The master bedroom is the next room above the hall and is at the back of the house. Walls are pale pink. White glass curtains are at the windows which are covered by venetian blinds. Blue, covered cornice boards are at the top.

Wine Floral Carpet

The floor is carpeted with a wine floral pattern, extending into the closet. A wine chenille

Movies Are Better Than Ever!

FROM THE GRANDSTAND
by WILBUR MARTIN
Associated Press Staff

If Tex Robertson makes his resignation as University of Texas swimming coach stick, his successor is going to have a hard time matching the big curly-haired fellow's record.

Robertson resigned recently, but he quit once before and came back to direct the Longhorns to another championship—his 13th winner in 13 years as coach of the team.

Robertson's boys camp has been taking more and more of his time and that's the reason he gave for giving up his part-time job of coaching Texas swimmers.

Dana X. Bible's announcement that Julian Robertson had quit as coach was the first that many people knew Robertson had another name besides Tex.

As a college swimmer at Michigan, Robertson was a star. After he came to Texas to do post-graduate work, he became swimming coach in 1936. For eight years he guided his teams to titles, then entered the Navy. When he came back he had five more championship teams.

The job of swimming coach at Texas has been more or less on a part-time basis. That gave Robertson time to build up his summer camp.

Besides coaching winning teams, Texas annually put on an "aquacade" until someone mentioned that this name belonged to Billy Rose, so it became the "Aqua-Carnival." Under both names it was a combination of fancy swimming and diving, horse play and bathing beauty revue. And it became quite a success.

Robertson was also quite a success as announcer at various swimming meets, with probably his greatest success as such coming in the Women's National AAU meet at San Antonio last year. Contestants, coaches and fans—what few there were—welcomed his drawing commentary.

While he may or may not coach again, Robertson will probably be on hand at Southwest Conference swimming meets as regularly as before. This time, though, he may escape the traditional dunking of the winning coach.

Millers Meet Sundown There And Go to Seagraves Sunday

Post's Millers will be struggling to hold their one-game advantage over Slaton's cellar-men when they meet Sundown tonight there in Oil Belt league play.

Sunday the locals journey to Seagraves in hopes of avenging the recent 15-2 pasting given them by the Oilers here, to return home for their next game against third-place Levelland next Thursday night.

Last Thursday night the Millers gave the Slaton Lions their first win of the season, 8-1. Sunday Denver City came to Miller Ball Park and trimmed the locals 8-2.

Millers got four scattered safeties off little Denny Davidson, Gasser pitcher. Bill Ramage, Post's schoolboy pitcher, held Denver City scoreless the first four innings, only to have the Gassers blast across five runs in the fifth. Lane and Williams scored for Post in the second half of the fifth. Scores by Jackson, Keel, and Gorman wrapped up the game and tied a blue ribbon around it for the Gassers in the sixth.

The locals used a number of new faces and returned some old ones to the lineup for the past two games. Louis Mills got one, a double, for four, in Sunday's game and accounted for Post's only score against Slaton.

J. R. Brewer, S. D. Sander, Raymond Pierce, Hugh Ingram, Spud Williams, Bill Hall, Carter White, R. E. Josey, George Morse, Watts, and Lane were among the newer players on the Miller roster. Josey got two singles against Denver City and Lane got four hits for four times up.

Sunday's game between Slaton and Sundown was postponed because of rain. Levelland pleased a crowd of 500 hometown fans by stopping Seagraves 4-2 Sunday.

Golfers Are Criticized Most of All For Attitude—Maybe They Have Side

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

HARLINGEN, Tex.—Of all the athletes, the ones criticized most by sports writers and photographers are golfers. From the beginning of the links big-time they have been raked over the coals for a snobbish attitude.

The situation, however, has seldom been analyzed and the golfer's side given. He has one.

For a decade this writer has been observing the golfer under all conditions. In most cases he is just like any other athlete—he's a splendid fellow to do business with if he's winning; he's considerably less amiable when he's losing. But whereas other athletes all follow this line, there are quite a few exceptions among the golfers. There are some who'll give you a short answer or duck for the club house even when out in front.

It seems a golfer strives more for perfection than any other athlete. A missed putt or a hook into the creek weighs on his mind although he may have won the tournament anyway.

Sam Snead, currently the greatest man in golf, is a study in consistency. He talks little, win or lose. Snead is looked upon with general affection by the press in the other areas, but in Texas he's as popular with sports writers as a cut in salary.

George Sneiter, PGA tournament manager, isn't sure but that the press is more to blame for its troubles with golfers than golfers. He cited instances.

There was Ben Hogan making his great comeback after near death in an auto accident, at Riviera in Los Angeles. On Hogan's first shot, a camera snapped and annoyed the game battler who was under terrific tension. On the third shot photographers again "interfered" and Hogan proclaimed "no pictures." "The gallery bawled out the photographers and they were pretty well disgusted," Sneiter relates. "But I got the cameramen and Hogan together and they worked out an agreement for pictures under certain conditions."

In the PGA at Richmond last May, Snead hit into a gulch at the No. 10 hole in his final match with Johnny Palmer. He was down at the time. A photographer got between him and the line of his shot so he stopped and had the fellow removed. "If he'd missed the shot there wouldn't have been and need for a picture because he would have lost," says Sneiter.

Cary Middlecoff got even with a photographer in the Motor City Open in Detroit. He just held his swing until the fellow ran out of film. "I had wanted to do that all of my life," grins Middlecoff.

Joe DiMaggio Rates At Top with Mats

NEW YORK, June 7, (AP)—Joe DiMaggio, Yankee outfielder, was a landslide winner in a recent poll of New York football fans for their favorite athletes heroes.

The Jolter got nine of 47 possible first place votes. Dan Ruth and Bronko Nagurski were runners-up with two apiece. Other votes were scattered. Captain listed Frankie Albert, San Francisco '49ers quarterback, as his choice.

Rookie Catcher Rates High in POW Club

WASHINGTON, June 7, (AP)—Mickey Grasso, peppy rookie catcher with the Washington Senators, holds a lifetime membership in the American Prisoners of War Association. He spent three years, three months and three days in Nazi confinement and was being captured in Africa.

STILL SLUGGING

CLEVELAND, (AP)—Al Rosen, Cleveland's stylish rookie left fielder, has been slugging the ball in a sensational manner for the Indians. He's pretty good slugging with dukes while attending Ft. Military Academy. In 1949, he won the state high school and lightweight boxing championships.

HAD FINE SEASON

HALLANDALE, Fla.—(AP)—Officials of Gulfstream Park track here still are crowing over the fine season they completed recently. Both attendance and wagering were up substantially over the 1949 season, which turned topped the 1948 totals. It was achieved in the face of dropping totals at nearly every track in the nation.

Mrs. Ed Miller was carried Dallas to Baylor hospital in Mason ambulance this morning.

to be termed a snob or a tempered fellow. But he really doesn't mean it.

Horton Smith says the feeling that bothers him in golf is for someone to "invade" his territory, such as walking on the tee as he gets ready to tee. "In no other sport is this possible," he points out. "The golf isn't at your shoulders in other sports."

"I do not feel that many golfers are antagonistic to press even under the spell or during tournament tensions," Smith says. "I think you find most golfers excellent public relations men when not under any strain. Of course, many journalists ask questions which have 'news value' but seem hostile to the golfer."

Scripture: Abide in me, and I in you. As the branch cannot bear fruit of itself, except it abide in the vine; no more can ye, except ye abide in me. I am the vine, ye are the branches: He that abideth in me, and I in him, the same bringeth forth much fruit; for without me ye can do nothing. If a man abide not in me, he is cast forth as a branch, and is withered; and men gather them, and cast them into the fire, and they are burned. If ye abide in me, and my words abide in you, ye shall ask what ye will, and it shall be done unto you. Herein is my Father glorified, that ye bear much fruit; so shall ye be my disciples. As the Father hath loved me, so have I loved you: continue ye in my love, if ye keep my commandments, ye shall abide in my love; even as I have kept my Father's commandments, and abide in his love. These things have I spoken unto you, that my joy might remain in you, and that your joy might be full. This is my commandment, that ye love one another as I have loved you. John 15: 4-12

DISPATCH TO USE FORMAL NAMES ONLY

It is the policy of the Post Dispatch to use a married woman's husband's name when referring to her in a news story. Our reason for this is that it is socially correct—using a woman's first name with the title 'Mrs.' indicates she is widowed or divorced and is not correct then. In the intimate relationship of clubs and lodges, no one is addressed by their formal title, but in the public columns of a newspaper, such a title is correct. We are sure local and county clubs and lodges will cooperate with us in the future. After this, we cannot use any more first names if there is a possibility of the woman referred to having a husband.

Mrs. Lula Floyd Moves from Johnson To Garza County Farm Back in 1914

Mrs. Lula Floyd came to Garza county in 1914, settling one mile north of Close City—and she has never felt like a stranger here.

Her husband, Jay Floyd, and W. O. Thaxton chartered a car and the families came out on the train. The Floyds had lived near Grandview, in Johnson county. They were married at Rock Tank church in Johnson county by a Methodist minister named Glasgow, Mrs. Floyd recalls.

When they came to Garza, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd had six children and a seventh was born soon after they got here. All but two of the children went to school at Ragtown, but the youngest two finished high school in Post, after going to Ragtown for the earlier grades.

"The courthouse was an old rock building where the Gulf service station now is," Mrs. Floyd recalls. "I remember the first time I went in there—everyone had a long growth of beard and I could smell whisky everywhere. I thought, my goodness, what kind of a place is this."

Land Cost $26 Acre

The Floyds paid $26 an acre for their land which was already fenced and had a four-room house on it. Mr. Floyd had written about the land as early as 1901 when it could be bought for 50 cents an acre. They were tenants in East Texas, Mrs. Floyd recalls, and were not liking that. Mr. Floyd had a brother in O'Donnell, and he corresponded with him about the land around here for a long time before he came out in June, 1914, and bought.

"He brought back the biggest turkeys I ever saw," Mrs. Floyd says. "Cotton was making a bale to the acre. When we came out here the federeta was just as level as if you could slide a hat across it. It really was pretty."

Windmill in Road

Four houses were built at the four corners of the crossroads.

Buddy Hays left last Thursday morning via train, to visit with his brother, Gene, in Las Vegas, Nev.

when the Floyds moved to Close City and a windmill was right in the middle of the road, serving all the families. Mrs. Floyd recalls that there was some trouble about the water, so each dug a well in his own yard.

The Thaxtons bought east of the Floyds and the Farrowes lived on the same side of the road as the Thaxtons. On the side with the Floyd was the Powers family.

"My daughter, Ola, played the organ and children in each of the four families played some kind of instrument," Mrs. Floyd remembers. "For pastime they would gather in the different houses and play and sing."

She remembers two religious songs that were popular then with the organists and pianists, "The Church in the Wildwood" and "Higher Ground." Mrs. Floyd had three children who were grown and they were all interested in music and singing.

Singing School at Graham

"One time they had a singing school at Graham Chapel, which they called 'Cornbread' and Arthur, my son, wanted to go," remembers Mrs. Floyd. "He was a good tenor. He and the Farrow boy took our buggy and their horse and went to the singing. Arthur studied harmony, I think."

One of Mrs. Floyd's outstanding first memories of Garza county is the terrible snowstorm that came a year or two after they moved here. The Dalbys were then living on one of the four corners and Mr. Dalby and the Floyd boys had to hitch up the wagon and team to go help some travelers.

The travelers wanted to spend the night with the Floyds because it was bitter cold—"the coldest I ever saw," said Mrs. Floyd.

"So we made down 'Methodist' pallets," she recalls, "and everybody slept warm that night."

The Floyd children often went picnicking to Balanced Rock and Cooper's Canyon, Mrs. Floyd remembers. They went to the Methodist church, sometimes in the school house and sometimes in the Baptist church after it was built. Occasionally the children came to town to church, says Mrs. Floyd. A man named Hinds was the Methodist preacher in Post, she believes. The first preacher she remembers at Close City for the Methodists was named Carmack.

Remembers First Sandstorm

Mrs. Floyd remembers her first sandstorm after coming here. "It was the blackest cloud I ever saw," she says. "The children were in the cotton patch and my clothes were on the line. I rushed out to bring in my clothes and saw a little two-year-old girl wandering down the road, carrying a kitten." Mrs. Floyd knew she was lost so she called to her next door neighbor to stop the little girl. A Savage boy came by on a horse and said he knew the child. He picked her up and carried her home where her mother had been out looking for her—going down the road in the wrong direction.

A number of families from Johnson county had come out to West Texas, Mrs. Floyd remembers. That black sandstorm drove some of them back. Those she remembers coming out from Johnson include the Brandons, the Moores, the Hoppers and the Lesters, as well as the Thaxtons.

"Everyone was really sociable then," says Mrs. Floyd. "They would come for miles around to singings, church and other events. The children wanted to move out here and after we came, they said it never did seem like a strange place."

Mrs. Floyd remembers the McElroys running the commissary at Close City. One time she recalls seeing the former Hettie Mae McElroy ride by at a terrific speed. "Where on earth is Hettie Mae going so fast," everyone asked.

Bitten by Rattler

Later they found that Mrs. Sam Wilk, wife of the Llano ranch foreman, had stepped out in the yard and been bitten by a big rattler. She went into the house and latched her doors twice to keep her little girl from wandering outside and getting bit. She telephoned for help and blacked out with the receiver in her hand.

Mrs. Floyd remembers that it was legend how fast Dr. Ponton drove. He drove through the gate at the Wilk home without bothering to open it and then had to break down the door. Mrs. Wilk later recovered.

A humorous incident Mrs. Floyd recalls was perpetrated by "Dutch" and "Shorty" Wright who were living in Close City at the time. They framed up to scare two girls one night in a watermelon patch.

Bill Tipton and Shorty Wright took the two girls "watermelon swiping" and they went down to the patch and started thumping the melons to see which was ripe. Dutch Wright started shooting his gun up in the air, scaring the girls half to death, Mrs. Floyd recalls. One started running from the patch, screaming, "Don't shoot, don't shoot, it's me, Lula Mae."

Mrs. Floyd lives alone now, across the street from the Methodist church. She still attends church regularly, if she is able, as has always been her custom.

Hot-Dog and Theatre Parties Honor Troop I of the Local Girl Scouts

Girl scouts of Troop I were entertained with a hot-dog party at their last week's meeting and a theatre party Monday, seeing "Cinderella" and a short feature on girl scouting.

Some 20 girls were guests of Theatre Manager John Hopkins. Mrs. T. L. Jones of the scout troop committee served popcorn.

An out-door meeting was held at the home of Mrs. James Dietrich, leader, last week when Linda Lott presented the troop with a flag, a gift from her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Lott. The flag is white and blue with the scout emblem in green and gold with the lettering "Troop I Post, Texas" on it.

A supper of hot-dogs was served prior to the business session at which the flag was presented. Games were played and the group sang songs.

Spokesmen for the troop expressed their thanks to the Lotts for the flag and to Hopkins for the theatre party. Troop I has reported a successful cookie sale with only a few boxes remaining to be sold.

- 2 cups flour
 - 1/4 cup sugar
 - 4 teaspoons baking powder
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 1-3 cup butter
 - 1 egg
 - 1-3 cup milk
- Mix dry ingredients and sift twice. Work in shortening, then add egg and milk which have been beaten together. Toss this on floured board, roll out to desired thickness and cut. Spread top lightly with melted butter. Set in refrigerator until ready to bake. (These may be made early in the morning for use later on that day.)

Bake in hot oven, 450 degrees, for 12 minutes. Top with strawberries, pineapple or sliced peaches. Serve with generous amount of whipped cream.

"If strawberries are used," Mrs. Dunlap adds, "A large amount of strawberry ice cream tastes good used in place of whipped cream."

Mrs. J. Harve Mathis has a recipe for Candied Sweet Potatoes which she is sharing with Dispatch readers. Her recipe calls for:

- 6 medium sweet potatoes, quartered
 - 1 1/4 cups sugar
 - 1/4 pound butter
- Cover potatoes with water and boil until tender. Drain off water and sprinkle with salt. Cover with sugar and butter and cook until a thick sirup is formed.

candied sweet potatoes. Mrs. Mathis suggests slicing the potatoes to a half-inch thickness and cooking in hot shortening until tender. Drain and add pinch of salt, half cup of water and a cup of sugar and cook until sirup thickens.

Mrs. E. A. Warren's recipe for Beefsteak Pie was mixed with Mrs. Harold Voss' Tomato Relish recipe two weeks ago, making a very weird combination. This error was one of those unavoidable ones that occur in a newspaper shop and for those who would like to make either, we are again printing the recipe for both.

- Ingredients for Beefsteak Pie are:
- 2 pounds rump, flank, or chuck steak
 - pie dough
 - chopped onion
 - salt and pepper
 - sliced potatoes
 - butter
 - beaten egg

Cut meat into bite-size pieces. Cover with water and simmer until partly done. Line baking dish with pie dough. Put in layer of meat and finely sliced onion. Add salt and pepper, then layer of sliced potatoes with melted butter brushed over. Alternate steak and potato until dish is full. Make gravy of water in which meat was cooked by thickening with browned flour and pour over filling. Put crust on top and brush with beaten egg. Bake until brown in a slow oven.

Mrs. Voss thought Dispatch readers might find a use for her relish recipe now that it is tomato season. It calls for:

- 16 ripe tomatoes
 - 16 apples
 - 12 onions
 - 6 hot peppers
 - 12 sweet peppers
 - 2 tablespoons salt
 - 1 quart vinegar
 - 3 cups sugar
 - 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
 - 1/2 teaspoon allspice
 - 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
- Cook until tender, using medium sizes for all fruits and vegetables.

The AMERICAN Cafe
Wesley Northcutt

This year Bryant-Link company in Post is celebrating its 33d anniversary. In the spring of 1917, they opened their doors here with a stock of groceries, dry goods and hardware.

Guy Speck was store manager and R. D. Travis came to Post in 1919 as hardware manager. At that time, Bryant-Link's was one of some 10 local stores, not counting cafes. They included Greenfield's, Davis and Mason, Ross, Edwards, Gent's Furnishings, Warren's Drug Store Doughty Hardware, Graeber grocery, Mrs. Cardwell's, Collier's Drug store, the Packing House Market, and perhaps others.

Bryant-Link opened for business in their present location and have been in that same place ever since. In 1933, they closed out their grocery line, after starting the business by buying out W. O. Steven's groceries.

Until 1939, Bryant-Link stocked dry goods and hardware, but during that year, a fire burned the stock completely out. Guy Speck retired as manager and Travis was made store manager when dry goods were discontinued.

Credit Business
"At first," says Travis, "all our business was credit business. We sold on credit, starting in the spring and didn't collect until fall. Everybody came to town on Saturday in their wagons and bought a week's supply of groceries. Some bought more and it wasn't uncommon to sell a $100 bill."

Travis can recall when wagons would sink axle deep on Main street before it was paved. For the first five years he was here, he sold from five to 25 buggies a year, he recalls.

"Boys put all the possible gadgets they could on their buggies," he recalls, "just like boys put on their cars now."

In dry goods, the store handled high grade, nationally-advertised lines such as Arrow shirts and Stetson hats. In hardware, they handled Simmons Diamond Edge brand until it was recently discontinued. Since the Bryant-Link stores were first set up in 1884, they have handled John Deere tractors and implements, Travis reports.

Greatest Change in '35
"The greatest change in our business came about 1935," he says. "That was the change from horse-drawn farm implements to power-drawn implements. Where we used to sell one-row listers to be pulled by horses, we now sell four-row listers to be pulled by tractors."

Travis recalls that some of the buggies he sold were "convertibles," with tops that could be let down. Some had big umbrellas for tops.

Other basic items stocked when the business first opened were coffee grinders and flat irons. Travis remembers one model coffee grinder that was square and was held between the knees to operate. Another change reflected is the conversion from coal and wood stoves to gas and electric, from all sorts of hand tools to electric appliances, from hand pumps and windmills to pressure water systems.

Bryant-Link in Post no longer stocks kerosene lamps and lamp chimneys.

When the business first opened in 1917, there were eight employees. Boom years raised that figure to a peak of 15, then the depression cut it down. Now with only one of the original three departments, Bryant-Link has seven employees. Besides Travis, the two oldest employes in point of service have been there three years.

Evolving Still
Still evolving from the general merchandise store of 1917, Bryant-Link is now closing out their hardware department. So, they will sell only implements, the bulk of their present business.

There are 10 Bryant-Link stores in West Texas, all located in this area. Headquarters store is in Stamford, where R. B. and W. J.

Bryant, two of the owners live. George S. Link, another owner, lives in Spur. Begun in Post as Baker-Bryant-Link, with those families as owners, its present stockholders include a number of employees of the various stores.

Recently Travis got a letter containing a $5 bill in payment for a clock. Several years ago, he got a letter from Dallas containing $15 in payment of an account for which he could find no record. Names were signed to this letter which contained a promise to pay up the remainder of the debt later.

"Our hardware stock has remained in some ways pretty much the same," says Travis, "because we have stuck with the farm trade. That was where we got our start."

Distribution of some of the advertising card tables was reported. All of them have been received, Mrs. Strasser said.

Council members discussed buying a small projector for the use of the extension service agents and club members.

Britain Sets Up First Mine Gasification

CHESTERFIELD, England — June 7—(AP)—Britain's first mine gasworks is in operation here. Gas is being produced by the burning of coal 60 feet down in an old mine.

The steam was ignited by two incendiary bombs set off in it. Gas piped to the surface burned brightly. Samples were sent to the national coal board for analysis.

The experiment is part of the ministry of fuel's project for the underground gasification of coal. The object is to obtain cheap power from mines that are too poor to work otherwise. The gas is to be used mostly in turbines.

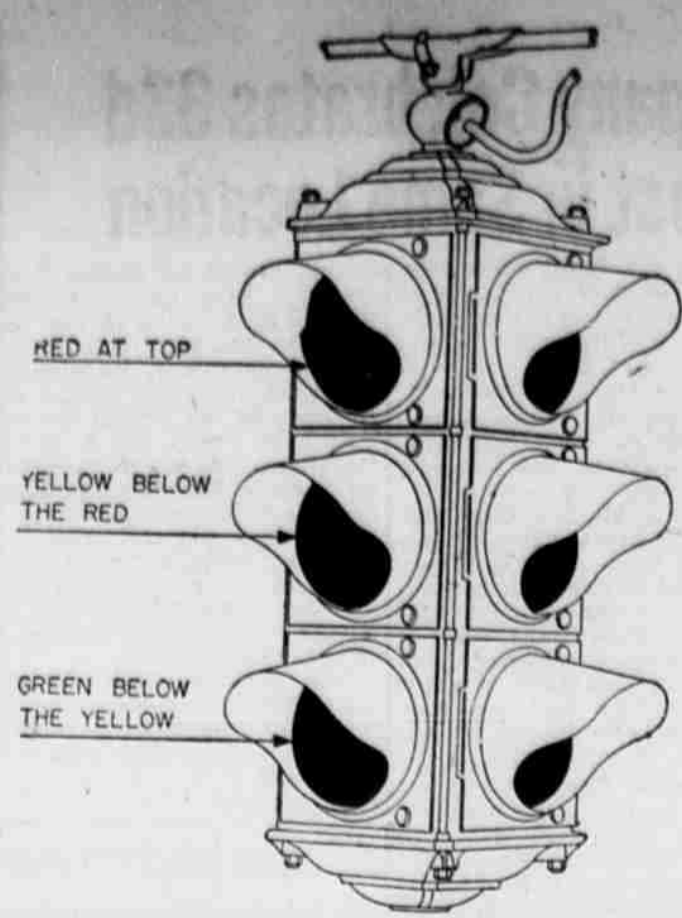

Sudanese Native Gets Human on Pig Hunt

ITAGOM, Sudan, June 7—(AP)—A Sudanese native went pig hunting with his bow and arrow. Another native met him in the bush. The newcomer scornfully said he didn't think the hunter's arrows were big enough to kill a pig.

The hunter, angered, said the arrows could not only kill a pig, they could kill a man. The second native said he doubted it. The hunter was right. He proved it by killing the second native with the arrow, police reported.

STANDARD TRAFFIC SIGNALS
STANDARD VERTICAL ARRANGEMENT OF SIGNAL LENSES

Fixed Time Traffic Signals Are Easier To Understand, Aid Officers In Control

What do you know about highway traffic signals?

If your knowledge is limited to the fact that you go when the signal shows red, you can make the problem of traffic control an easier one for your public officials by knowing more about traffic signals, Sheriff E. M. Bass points out.

You can help bring about uniformity of traffic signals by learning to identify the standard traffic signal and then encouraging your officials to use only standard types when they install new signals or replace existing non-standard signals.

It is much easier to understand the indications given by traffic signals if they were all of the same design in every town and state? In fact, standardization of traffic control signals is considered so desirable and important that the 50th Texas Legislature specified that all highway traffic signals installed in Texas after 1947 shall conform to national standards, Bass said.

NOT A CANDIDATE—W. Lee O'Daniel (above), former governor of Texas and U. S. Senator, told a radio audience from Fort Worth, Tex., that he is not a political candidate. O'Daniel said he was forming his own insurance company.

Local officers have long been trying to get the state to install this type here, Bass said. There are a large number of traffic signals in use today that were installed before the present standards were adopted, and do not conform to present standards. Unfortunately there are some local units of government who still buy non-standard signals without the yellow lenses. Some of these two-section signals show both red and green at the time they are changing color, which is not only confusing but also hazardous.

Newsprint Plant Set As Penang Plan

PENANG, June 7—(AP)—Malaya may contribute to the world supply of newsprint, when the experimental wood pulping plant—as an extension to timber research laboratory—under the six year development plan for the country gets under full swing.

Malaya at present imports all her newsprint supply and other types of paper, and there is a world shortage of newsprint.

Body of St. Francis Xavier To Be Shown

GOA, Portuguese India, June 7—(AP)—The body of St. Francis Xavier, enshrined in an elaborate tomb in the Church of Bom Jesus in the ruined city of old Goa, will be exposed to public view again in December, 1952, church and civil authorities have announced.

The saint's body, in what many consider a miraculous state of preservation, has been shown to the public periodically since it was brought to Portuguese India, scene of his early missionary work, some years after his death in 1552 on an island off the China coast.

Italians Emigrate To Brazilian Farms

RIO DE JANEIRO, June 7—(AP)—A group of 32 Pescara farmers have left Rio for Bahia state as advance guard for 500 families to come later.

They intend to set up farm colonies near Itiriu. The government of Bahia has agreed to furnish each family 50 hectares of land, three cows, one pig and some chickens. T. Primo, agronomist in charge, said the plan is sponsored by a cooperative which pays for transportation from Italy and supplies the farmers with equipment and seeds.

England Gets Iron Ore from Malaya

SINGAPORE, June 7—(AP)—Malaya's largest iron mine has sent Britain a trial shipment of ore in the hopes of developing a new market.

Operated by the Eastern Mining and Metals Company Ltd., the mine, formerly Japanese-owned and situated at Dungun, Trengganu state, north of Malaya, has sold 300,000 tons of ore to Japan this year. Malayan iron ore is of a higher grade than that now mined in England. Malaya is the only country in the Far East now producing iron ore.

British Are Urged To Permit Smoking

MANCHESTER, England, June 7—(AP)—British manufacturers of cotton yarn are being urged to follow an American example and do away with "no smoking" rules in their factories.

An eight-member productivity team from the British cotton yard doubling industry made the recommendation in a report on a recent tour of mills in the United States. The members said they saw mills equipped with glassed-in cubicles where three workers at a time could go for a smoke.

Robert Craig, President of Post FFA Chapter, Is Outstanding Student Leader

E. F. Schmedt, local vocational agriculture teacher, each week is submitting an article on Post boys enrolled in the Future Farmers of America.

"This week," says Schmedt, "the FFA chapter wishes to salute the president, Robert Craig." Craig is a son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Craig, residents of Lynn county. He was one of the six top students in this year's graduating class at Post high school. Although he will not be enrolled in school next year, he is still eligible for FFA membership. He can receive FFA help on his farm projects and enter any FFA or junior agricultural contests, shows or fairs.

Craig became president of the local chapter last September when it was reorganized for the first time since the early war years. In spite of never having headed an organization before, he scored 96 on the district FFA parliamentary procedure contest.

He was not a member of the local chapter's first place winning grass judging team at the Lubbock fair last year, but he helped train them, Schmedt said. He represented the local chapter at the FFA banquet in Meadow,

Insect Control Will Be Problem Here During Summer Weather Says Agent

Recent heavy rains and the coming of real summer weather will make the insect pests a real annoyance and health menace both in Post and Garza county. Mrs. Jewell Strasner, county home demonstration agent, advises.

One of the most annoying and dangerous is the common housefly, she says. It is a carrier of filth and disease and breeds rapidly, making its control difficult. Each female lays up to 2,000 eggs over a month's period in garbage and other filth. The eggs hatch before one day and become full-grown flies in 10 days. They sometimes fly as far as five miles from their birthplace. Adult flies live 30 to 60 days.

Sanitation, Mrs. Strasner warns, is the most important step in a successful control program. Premises should be kept clean at all times and garbage should be burned and the container sprayed, regularly. Manure should be spread and allowed to dry. She especially warned that septic tanks should be kept flyproof.

DDT for Flies
Mrs. Strasner recommends a 5 per cent DDT residual oil spray for the house and a 5 per cent emulsion or wettable powder spray for outbuildings. If DDT is unsatisfactory, the agent suggests a 2 per cent chlordane spray or a combination of chlordane and DDT.

"One treatment is not enough," Mrs. Strasner reminds, "but constant watch must be kept to see that the flies are under control at all times."

Cockroaches appear to be one of the nastiest insect pests and are among those most hated by West Texas housewives, says Mrs. Strasner. Of the three types, American, Oriental and German, the American is the largest. The Oriental cockroach lives best in damp places. The German is very small.

Cockroaches sometimes glue their eggs to a surface and sometimes just drop them unattached. All species are very small when hatched but look so much like the parent insect that they are easily identified.

They develop slowly and live for a long time under unfavorable food conditions. The German roach passes through two or three generations yearly, but other types take a year to mature.

Come Out at Night
Roaches come out at night, hiding in masses during the day in dark, sheltered places. In homes they hide near the sink and the drainboard, behind cabinets and under door and window trims. They come out for food at night and if disturbed hurry quickly to their hiding places.

"At night, after they have come out," advises Mrs. Strasner, "come in the room and turn on the light. Watch them run for their hiding places because knowledge of where they hide is usually the key to their control."

Since they may be brought in the house in grocery bags, they can often be found in the cleanest of homes, says the agent. For best control results, she suggests moving all foods and utensils from the cabinet and washing these places with soap and water. Spray thoroughly with 2 per cent chlordane, making sure all cracks, crevices and baseboards are thoroughly treated.

Leave Spray Residue
Do not wipe off the residue. Replace food and utensils after spray has dried. This will give control for up to six months.

Two or 3 per cent chlordane is also satisfactory control for ants, Mrs. Strasner says.

Clothes moths, the agent says, require from 50 days to two years to complete their growth. The parent does not eat clothing, but eggs are deposited in clothing and it is there that the larvae get their food.

Clean out the closets and spray with 5 per cent DDT, including the walls, woodwork, baseboards and shelves. Residual sprays are effective for about three months. Precautions should be taken against fire as the oils used as solvents may be inflammable.

Sweaters and other woollens which are to be stored for several months may be protected by spraying the drawers thoroughly with DDT. The garments may be lightly dusted with DDT after first being dry cleaned.

Protect Rugs and Carpets
Rugs and carpets may be protected by dusting with DDT, between the carpet and the pad. Applications should be made each spring and fall. New stainless solvents containing DDT may be applied to the top of the rug.

Dry cleaning, Mrs. Strasner reminds, although it kills all forms of moths attack does not impart moth resistance.

Silverfish attack bookbindings, wallpaper, starched clothing, rayon and similar fabrics. They do most damage in dark places. Since they seek out damp places to live and better-built and heated houses probably are responsible for the recent increase of this pest.

Their life span is almost three years and they have been known to live almost a year without food. They develop slowly and have few young. Places frequented by these insects should be treated with a 5 per cent DDT spray or dust.

GETS APPOINTMENT—This is Earl Leroy Smith, 18, of Hereford, Tex., who entered Boys Ranch, 40 miles northwest of Amarillo, when he was 12, an orphan. He was a good athlete, an A student and stayed there 5½ years. He's now finishing his first year at Texas A&M. Cal Farley, president of Boys Ranch, announced he has just been notified that Ben Guill, new Republican representative for the Texas panhandle, has appointed Smith to West Point.
