Blueprints For New Post Office Get Underway this Week Here

Blueprints were started Monday for the new post office to be built on the corner of Main and 10th streets. The building, constructed of brick, will be 40 by 50 feet in dimensions, 50 per cent larger than the present building. The new building will have a central heating and air conditioning system, as well as fluorescent lights. Furniture in the present post office will be removed and moved into the new building. The post office department will furnish a new vault for the delivery of mail. A postal inspector here two weeks ago and approved the application down because of the lack of sidewalks on paved streets. He said that the department could not put an out with 35 pounds of mail on the present city streets. There will be a 15-foot space between the new building and the old one, Voss stated.

Ed Gossett Flies Down for His "Day" At Junior Rodeo

Rep. Ed Gossett of the 13th Congressional district, flew down from Washington, especially to attend the junior rodeo and be here yesterday for Ed Gossett day.

Gossett, a former Post boy whose home is now in Wichita Falls, is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Gossett, sr., of the Garlynn community. He is completing his 12th year in Congress and has been renominated for his seventh term. Gossett is a member of the House Judiciary committee.

"I think the youngsters of the Garza county area are to be commended for their enthusiasm, ingenuity and sportsmanship in trying to build up the community and create more opportunities for young people. This is conducive to good citizenship which is badly needed now," Gossett told a Dispatch reporter.

He is a graduate of the University of Texas and was principal of the Hackberry school for a year. After his graduation from law school, he set up a practice in Vernon. Before being elected to Congress in 1938, he was district attorney there.

Gossett refused to comment on the Korean war, saying that anybody could predict anything but that nobody knew much about it. He said that the tax situation was just about the same. The congressman said that the House would not likely adjourn until September.

"I certainly must approve of the idea behind the Southwestern Championship Junior rodeo or I wouldn't be here, especially on the basis I am," Elliott said. "After I got Alvin's letter explaining what he had in mind and the purpose behind the rodeo, I was eager to come. Other rodeos contacted me for appearance."

Winning sheriff's posse in the parade was that from Seminole. Other winners of the trophies in this contest were Big Spring, second; Lubbock county, third; and Lynn County fourth. Wacker's won first in the float contest. The 4-H club was second.

ROGER W. ... WRITES THIS WEEK

GETTING OUT

On the LIMB

by EDDIE the EDITOR

My Dog Bugle not being particularly pedigreed hasn't cost me too much money in his lifetime.

However, it looks like the good old days are gone forever.

It's not enough that the Little Woman has to have a fancy bonnet every new moon. Dogs are wearing Paris chapeaus, yet.

I wouldn't have believed it if I hadn't seen it in the paper. Here was a bunch of photos of a boxer named Jefferson. He looks something like Charles Boyer and in other poses something like Rod Skelton. One pose was reminiscent of Maria Ouspenskaya, but nothing, nothing could make him look like Betty Grable. Maybe that is because she never wears a hat.

Of course, My Dog Bugle is a much handsomer animal than this Jefferson ever was in his balmyest days.

I realize that to hold his head up among the rest of the dogs My Dog Bugle will have to have a wardrobe of hats. The only thing he has to wear now is a greasy old piece of blanket, somewhat chewed.

They say these Lilly Dache hats are $75 apiece and Mr. John and Mr. Fred have a floor of $125 or something like that. Everybody but me has already got their new Sears and Roebuck catalog. My Dog Bugle has his pride and I am mighty afraid he would take a dim view of a $2.98 job though.

This Jefferson had on a hat called a modified bonnet from Paris. Except for the black fur around the rim and feathers, it looked more like one of these wacky unisils nurses are always carrying in and out of hospital rooms. We don't have one small enough for My Dog Bugle who is a very small dog.

I thought sure that Jefferson was going to growl. "Come with me to the Casbah," when I saw his soulful pose in a "beret that lends that dashing Continental air." Now My Dog Bugle dashes from pillar to post, but I can't see that a beret is necessary to that operation.

The next picture of Jefferson and his toppers is captioned "a pert helmet for dewey-eyed innocence note." It looks more like a gyrene on the Korean battlefield who had been sleeping in his helmet under a mosquito net, tropic quality.

Jefferson tries to achieve that "intellectual Bohemian look with a babushka." And I always always thought a babushka was a Hungarian dance. Maybe that's a Ninotchka. But I am not going to tie any rag around My Dog Bugle's head. He would never be so humiliated. Besides, as I said, My Dog Bugle is more butterfly type, flitting constantly from tree to tree.

Jefferson tried on a peasant straw and had his pitcher look like Red Skelton after he had run his gamut of acting emotions by falling flat on his face. It appears to me to be more for the lazy type, which My Dog Bugle is not.

He can chew up more good shoes and comfortable wornout houseleppers than any Jefferson that ever wore a hat.

Jefferson also had on a flowery little Easter number which I am sure wouldn't fit My Dog Bugle's personali-

Personal Conservation of Health and Body is Important

BABSON PARK, MASS.—"Poor Tom, he was such a nice guy. I was shocked to hear of his untimely death. He was still in his early fifties. . . ."

Conversations like this are heard too frequently today. I'm very much concerned about the way we are wasting our needed brain power.

Today's Struggle The struggle today of personal, economic, social and political survival is taxing many men to overexertion. The business tempo becomes faster and faster whether you are on the production line, in the office, or part of management. Today's social responsibilities find men burning the candle at both ends. Hot and cold wars help keep men nervous and jittery. The result: a civilization "on the go" of impatient, tense persons, characterized by hypertensions, ulcers, insomnia, a high divorce rate, delinquency, and crime.

Have you too become touchy and sensitive about little things? Have family quarrels grown out of proportion to the incident? Do business associations make you irritable? Are headaches bothering you? Chances are, then, you too have forgotten how to relax. My long years of active life have taught me that, if you are to survive, you will have to learn how to conserve and utilize economically your own physical and mental resources. You owe it not only to yourself and your family, but to your country. A healthy, vigorous, emotionally well-balanced stock is especially essential to the democratic state if it is to be submerged and overrun.

Hard Work vs. Overwork Hard work never hurt anyone. There is, however, a very real difference between hard work and overwork. Hard work produces a pleasant, healthy good-and-tired feeling. It dispels fatigue by food and sleep. Overwork drives a tired body and mind on and on without rest and without thought of the consequences of overfatigue. Many overworked people can't seem to slow down. Instead they immerse themselves in more work or seek escape through overstimulating commercial amusements, or liquor. No matter what a man's goal may be—money, professional advancement, social prestige, or what have you—he must take time out periodically to restore body tonus.

Too many men in business are hurried, nervous, and headachy, and are unable to attain their goal, they cannot take time out for quiet diversion. These individuals will not live long for a mess of pottage. What most of these overworked people don't realize is that they could easily accomplish 50 per cent better results if they would learn how to relax through regular periods of constructive body-mind-soul refreshment.

Maintaining Maximum Output Too few business leaders have concerned themselves with their own problems of prevention and psycho-physical breakdown and increasing their own physical stamina, particularly those over forty. It is not my purpose to prescribe a course of action for such individuals. I shall be satisfied if I have made them aware of their own needs. They owe it to the concern for which they work.

Experience has taught me that in order to maintain maximum output, the average man must find a job he enjoys doing, maintain good health, learn how to play, achieve satisfaction in love, and keep spiritually refreshed. To live a useful, well-balanced life today requires or. Vigor comes primarily physical, mental and spiritual energy. Such energy can be up only by alternating periods of powerful output with proper periods of relaxation and meditation—preparation for ever greater achievement.

This is vacation time. Take vacation by all means. Take with you a book or two on relaxation, meditation, and so on. It is an excellent time to up a conservation program your own resources! Don't d around in an automobile. Go some quiet place and sleep!

TEXANS IN WASHINGTON

By TEX EASLEY Associated Press Washington Service. (Editor's Note: While Tex Easley is on vacation other columnists are filling this space. Below are biographical sketches of the two runoff candidates for lieutenant governor.)

By Tim Parker Associated Press Staff Pierce Brooks surprised many seasoned political observers when he came out on top in the 12-man race for lieutenant governor in the July 22 Texas Democratic Primary election.

But the balding Dallas insurance executive and safety man wasn't surprised. He's convinced he and the people of Texas think alike on several questions—especially on elimination of "waste and extravagance in government."

That, and opposition to new taxes, is the crux of Brooks' platform. Now he is carrying his appeal to the people again in the campaign which leads up to the Aug. 26 second primary.

Brooks' opponent in the Aug. 26 balloting—the man who ran second-best in the first primary—is a sage political veteran, Ben Ramsey of San Augustine. Ramsey got his political know-how in office. Brooks got his running for office.

Started in '30 The chunky businessman with the round face and thinning red hair has been trying for public office since the middle 1930's. All this time he has preached economy in spending the tax dollar, streamlining governmental machinery and elimination of waste. He's also for more paved roads, more rural telephones, and opposes socialized medicine and nationalization of natural resources.

Brooks, now 49, was born on an Alabama farm in 1900 and attended school there. Soon after the first World War he and his family moved to Tyler in East Texas. While in his early twenties he moved to Dallas.

As a youth Brooks was a newsboy, grocery clerk, waiter, oil well driller and farm helper. He won a certificate for not missing Sunday school for ten years.

In Dallas, his energy and resourcefulness soon won him a place. He organized an insurance company, founded the Texas Safety Council (of which he is president) went into the real estate business and got interested in politics.

Stumped State In '34 He first stumped the state in 1934. He wasn't seeking public office then. He campaigned at his own expense in behalf of a constitutional amendment calling for old age pensions, aid for the needy blind, the destitute children and participation in the teachers' retirement fund.

Then he decided the only way to gain his objective was to get in public office. In 1936 he ran for governor—and lost. In 1938 he ran for lieutenant governor—and lost. (He led Coke Stevenson in the first primary but lost the second primary after a freak whirlwind upset his campaign trailer and severely injured his back.) In 1940 he ran for railroad commissioner—and lost. The same thing happened in 1942.

This won him the reputation of being the smartest Texas politician who ever lost a race. One of the things he learned was that prospective voters like to be entertained. He was the only candidate in the first primary to set his campaign to music. Singers and musicians—versed in popular hillbilly and religious songs—were a part of his caravan.

But when the music died Brooks became deadly serious: "The state is overspending its head. Here with taxes going up, food going up, and every darn thing going up, now I have to start hating my dog."

I think a stop ought to be put on this thing right now before the dog starts dreaming.

Minute Editorial

Of all the injustices we know of, the worst are those people are determined to perpetrate on themselves. Time after time itinerant photographers have come to Post and fleeced the public. Post does not have a city ordinance requiring them to make even a deposit. But why should such an ordinance be passed when people are asking to be gulled? An outfit was here last week selling coupons for a fixed price—"you pay no more at the studio." When proofs are selected, the photogenic flub is told that so many pictures will be sent COD and to get the one he chose he will have to pay them all out. At least that is the way we heard it. Salesmen were allowed to sell coupons to minors, but photographers could not take the same minors' picture unless their parents could select proofs. The people of Post have no protection against such outfits. The Post Dispatch has brought the matter to their attention before. Why should we worry, it seems the people are going to insist on being bilked. We wish a studio would operate here permanently, run by local people again. Maybe that would solve one problem.

his bar exams before he was graduated. Seeing no need to stick around school longer, he quit and returned to San Augustine to set up his practice.

He was 27 when he made his first successful campaign for office. He ran for state representative in 1930 and won. He ran again and won. Then he returned to private practice for six years. In 1940 he ran for the state senate and won. He held his senate seat for eight years and then returned to private life again.

The quiet, drawing Ramsey popped into public eye again in January, 1949, when Gov. Beauford H. Jester appointed him secretary of state. He continued to hold the post under Gov. Allan Shivers after Jester died. But last Feb. 4 he resigned. Three months later he announced for lieutenant governor.

Even among his opponents there is a great deal of respect for Ramsey. Fellow legislators demonstrated this in 1947 when they elected him president pro-tempore of the senate. They like his lack of rancor, his ready wit, and his willingness to work with others.

The angular lawmaker is active in all community affairs in his home town. He's been a member of San Augustine's Methodist church almost all his life. He's also a leader in his town's life and is a former national president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Hobbies? None—except participation in the affairs of the Democratic Party, the Texas state government and the Methodist church.

Ben Ramsey of San Augustine is the man who has never lost. Lincolnesque in appearance, the tall and lanky East Texas lawyer has some of the Civil War President's other attributes. His wit is dry and sharp. His logic is incisive and he has demonstrated an ability to compose the difference of warring factions.

A quiet and studious man, Ramsey has not issued a long and detailed platform. He didn't need to. Most Texans know what he has done, and what he stands for. It shapes up like this:

1. Soil conservation and improvement. He early recognized the seriousness of soil and forest conservation and worked hard in the Texas legislature to solve the problem. His own farm near his native San Augustine is a model of soil conservation.

2. Labor. Labor bills sponsored by the 46-year-old former legislator include the "right to work" bill which banned the closed shop; bills to outlaw mass picketing, to prevent unions from having employers deduct union dues from paychecks without employees' consent; to make labor unions subject to anti-trust laws, and to ban secondary strikes, boycotts and picketing which would disrupt essential utility services.

3. Rural electrification. A leader in electrifying Texas farm homes by legislative action, Ramsey knows the field well. He has been attorney for ten years for the Deep East Texas Electric Cooperative and helped guide that pioneering rural utility to its status as one of the state's biggest and most stable cooperatives.

4. Ramsey also is for more paved roads, more telephone service for the country folk, and economy in state government.

That's Ramsey's record during 12 years as a legislator and a stretch as secretary of state.

Ramsey was born Dec. 28, 1903, at San Augustine. He attended the public schools there and then decided he wanted to be a lawyer. He studied law at the University of Texas, but passed

Ramsey Gets Manford's Backing

Manford said Ramsey's experience as a House member and as a Senator made him the best qualified man in the race. (Pol. Ad.)

HYGIENE IS IMPORTANT

Agent Gives Tips on Freezing and Cooking Various Foods

conservation is likely to be even more important as the world situation. Some frozen food storage can hold many surplus products, Mrs. Jewell's home demonstration reminds housewives. It is a good season for butter production, she says. Fresh, thoroughly washed butter made from good cream with no off flavors may be frozen. It is necessary to wrap in good packaging material, even if previously wrapped in parchment. "Butter made from milk which has not been pasteurized turns rancid or acquires off flavors in two or three months," Mrs.

Strasner says. Pasteurized butter may be stored four to six months. Creamed cottage cheese will lose quality when frozen due to change in texture. Wash curd, salt lightly (do not cream) and freeze. Then salt to taste before serving.

Heavy cream if it contains 22 per cent or more butterfat, may be frozen. It should first be pasteurized by heating at 145 degrees Fahrenheit for 30 minutes. For best results add about one-third cup sugar to one quart of cream before freezing. It should be stored at 10 to 15 degrees below zero. It may be held about three months at zero.

Ice Cream
Ice cream should not be stored for longer than three weeks. "Break eggs before you freeze them," says Mrs. Strasner. "First, cool them to about 32 degrees Fahrenheit. Whites and yolks may be frozen separately or mixed. Whites need no treatment, but one tablespoon light colored corn sirup should be mixed with two cups egg yolks to prevent undesirable coagulation."

Salt may be used rather than sirup if the product is to be used for mayonnaise. Dirty eggs should be cleaned before breaking. Mrs. Strasner emphasizes breaking each egg into a separate dish before turning it into the mixing bowl. Stale eggs can be discarded.

Eggs should be frozen in small containers and used promptly after thawing. They should not be allowed to stand. Thawed eggs may be used just like fresh eggs for cakes, meringues, omelets and scrambled eggs.

Freshly shelled pecans may be stored at 0 degrees Fahrenheit. They should be packaged in tin cans, cellophane bags or heavily waxed cartons.

Cooking and Preparing
Mrs. Strasner has tips for cooking and preparing frozen foods. "So many different foods lend themselves to freezing that it makes the housewife's choice in meal planning much wider," she says. "Use the smallest possible amount of water in cooking. Only one-half to two-thirds the ordinary cooking time is necessary. Be careful not to over-cook."

Corn on the cob is the only vegetable which should be completely thawed before cooking. Shrinking and loss of ascorbic acid occurs in other cases. Foods should be served as soon as prepared to avoid loss in nutrients, color and flavor.

Frozen green beans should be cooked eight to 14 minutes after one-fourth to one cup water has been added to a pint. Add one-fourth to three-fourths cups water to a pint of peas and cook for four to eight minutes. Mrs. Strasner has a time table for several different vegetables. Information may be had by telephoning her office.

Frozen fruits can quickly be made into a delicious dessert or served partly or completely thawed. It should be left unopened in the original package while thawing. Serve immediately after it is thawed. Rapid thawing is best.

A pint package of fruit thaws within four to six hours on a refrigerator shelf. It takes from two to four hours at room temperature. Less than an hour is required in front of an electric fan.

Thawed fruits are used just as fresh fruits in pies, tarts, cobblers, short cakes, muffins, upside down cakes and frozen desserts.

It is possible to cook meat either frozen or thawed. It can be cooked more uniformly if thawed first. Increase the cooking time for unthawed meat 15 to 20 minutes per pound. Completely thawed meat is cooked exactly as fresh meat. Keep the meat in the original package to thaw.

Allow five to eight hours per pound in thawing on the refrigerator shelf. Two hours per pound is required at room temperature. In front of an electric fan, only 45 minutes per pound is necessary.

"Begin cooking immediately after the meat is thawed," the agent says. Cook at low temperature for less shrinkage. Use same directions as for fresh meat in roasting, broiling, panbroiling, braising, stewing and frying."

It is best to thaw poultry in a package on the refrigerator shelf. For roasting, it should be completely thawed and then cooked at once like fresh poultry. Extra cooking time should be allowed when the meat has not been completely thawed. Start at a lower cooking temperature.

Six Garza County Girls Go To 4-H Camp And Two Write Impressions for Paper

Six Garza county girls attended the district 4-H camp at Lubbock recently. Below is an account of the camp activities written by two of them.

Willie Faye Graves says: "We left Post about 10 o'clock Tuesday morning. We went in the county 4-H pickup. We arrived at the camp in Lubbock—the girls who went were Eva Lou Key, Janie Morris, Glenda Grantham, Sue Stephens, Onelta Jones and Mrs. Wesley W. Stephens, sponsor.

"The first day we arrived we all attended a demonstration given by Miss Gena Thames. It was held in the lunchroom and it was a very educational, interesting talk. A demonstration on table manners and how to set a table correctly was given.

"We met in the dining hall for camp cookery under the leadership of Miss Frances Reasonover, extension service foods and nutrition specialist. She demonstrated how to cook beef chops with vegetables and stuffed apples in foil. The meeting ended with songs.

"We got up at 6 o'clock, breakfast at 6:30 and lights out at 11:30. The chartered bus rides to the swimming pool were fun. For some of the girls, it was their first bus ride, it was mine. "Our bunks were inspected every morning.

"Our party Wednesday night was Spanish. The games played were La Rampa, Millionaire, broom dance, human bingo, the Spanish circle dance and odd and even.

"Miss Helen Dunlap taught us how to tie and dye headscarves. We had a choice of lavender and blue green. We styled our headscarves. Four girls got their pictures made and put in the paper.

"After the meeting five extension staffers were given pink headscarves. Tuesday night, a man who took pictures in Africa in 1946, showed them to us. They were very interesting.

"We left for home about 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon and got there about 5 o'clock.

Willie Faye is a member of the Post junior 4-H club. Sue Stephens, senior 4-H club member writes.

"On the morning of July 25, six very happy and excited girls with their agent, Mrs. Jewell Strasser, and leader, Mrs. Wesley Stephens, left Post for the Dist. 2 Girls 4-H camp at Lubbock.

"When we arrived at the fairgrounds, we registered at the recreation hall and received our sombrero name cards, a card with our name, county and barracks number. We were told to go to our barracks and find a sombrero to match the one we wore and that was our bunk. We were told to make our bunks and be ready for inspection before lunch.

"I was on the inspection committee. "From 12 noon until 1 o'clock, we ate our lunch and got acquainted. Here the colorful green red and yellow name card sombreros came in handy again as you could look and see your new friend's name and where she was from.

"Reporter on Camp Paper "I was a reporter on our camp paper, "Las Campesinas." It means girls from the country." Mrs. James Allen, professor of journalism at Texas Tech, was our instructor in newswriting. Our next class was taught by Miss Gena Thames from A&M college, specialist in home management. The lesson was on table setting for a busy family and table manners.

"Our class of crafts was taught by Miss Dunlap. Terry county home demonstration agent. It was tying and dyeing headscarves. They are very pretty—we could choose our color of dye, blue or lavender.

"Our next class was camp cooking. We met in the dining hall for this because of rain. Miss Frances Reasonover, foods and nutrition specialist from A&M college, demonstrated how to prepare beef chops with vegetables wrapped in heavy tinfoil to cook in coals of open fire. We also fixed apples in foil. These were cooked in the oven in the dining hall. We sang songs while we waited for them to cook. Then the food was passed around for everyone. It was served in the tinfoil, saving work and time of dish washing and the food had a better flavor, too.

"Our 4-H assembly period was held in the recreation hall at our first day in camp. Miss Lelia Petty gave a report on attendance. There were 108 girls, 18 adult leaders and 29 county HD agents, specialists and visitors. Each leader introduced her club members.

"After assembly, each county elected three delegates to vote for 4-H officers for Dist. 2 in 1951. Garza delegates included Glenda Grantham, Onelta Jones and myself. W. G. McMillan of Lubbock showed a movie that he made in Africa in 1946 on African wildlife.

"After the show, we listened to Dr. R. S. Underwood of Texas Tech tell about the stars, the moon and meteors. It was impossible to look through the telescope because of rain.

"We had devotionals each morning. The Lord's prayer and songs and one morning Dr. E. N. Jones spoke to us and gave a very interesting lesson. We said grace together before each meal. Miss Ferguson led us.

"Wednesday and Thursday from 8 until 9 o'clock in the morning we went by bus to the Mackenzie park swimming pool. Miss Marie Davis, our camp nurse from Tech, went swimming. She was a good sport and lots of fun.

"Our 4-H club party was held the last night at camp. Our theme was Spanish. Games, songs and dances were also Spanish.

"The food was good and plentiful. Everyone was pleasant and courteous. Mrs. Strasser is to be given a vote of thanks for the good job she did at camp. I wish to say thanks to each one who made my trip to 4-H camp possible."

Anti-Red Prankster Gets Laugh in Movie

BERLIN, Aug. 9. (AP)—An anti-Communist jokester got a laugh from a German movie audience at Wittenberge in the Russian occupation zone recently.

A newsreel was being shown in which East Germany's Communist president, Wilhelm Pieck, was chatting with a group of Russian officers.

Out of the darkness the prankster shouted: "Wilhelm, hold on to your watch." The audience burst into a storm of laughter. Jokes about Russians and their fondness for watches have been standard in Germany since the conquering Red Army came in 1945 to strip wrist watches off thousands of conquered Germans.

Police swarmed into the theatre and inspected the audience upon departure but the jokester escaped.

CONCRETE BLOCKS AND PERMA-STONE

Red Simses Build Ranch Style House in Hartford Community

Mr. and Mrs. Red Sims and daughters, Zoe and Jean, have lived in their new ranch style home in the Hartford community almost two years.

Mr. and Mrs. Sims drew the plans. The house is built of concrete blocks faced with perma-stone. It has a red composition roof. Ish Hahn of Spur was the builder and Charles Benson finished the inside. The rambling six-room house faces south.

The fireplace wall on the west end of the 28x18-foot living room is faced in perma-stone. The fireplace itself is flanked by shelves holding books and pictures, as well as Jean's salt-shaker collection, Zoe's horses and Sims' pipes. A large rectangular mirror hangs above the fireplace.

Walls and ceiling are painted a pale gray-green. Floors throughout the house are hardwood and doors are all slab. Mrs. Sims kept a couch and chair she had and added another set of living room furniture. Her original couch and matching chair will be covered later in the same material she is using for side draperies at the picture window. This window is flanked by two side windows. It is on the south. The draperies are a saddle blanket plaid in shades of red and green.

Ranch Furniture
Furnishings in this room are ranch style. The sofa on the north wall is upholstered in dark green plastic. There is a matching chair and two platform rockers. One is upholstered in red and the other is in green and yellow. A portrait of each of the girls will hang over the couch.

At either side is a carved shelf table with western-style lamps. The lamps have a wooden base and the shade is of a western print pattern. On the east wall is a blond console radio-phonograph. A small red box holds records. The coffee table is also carved after ranch style.

On the floor is an extra large throw rug with warm stripes. A table in front of the picture window holds another lamp. An ashtray stand by one chair was made for the Simses from a stirrup by Avery Moore. On a shelf beneath the table at the picture window is a white milk glass bowl that belonged to Mrs. Sims' grandmother.

Hanging Lamp
Ceiling fixture is the living room is like an old-fashioned hanging oil lamp. The house is heated by a central system with one or more ducts leading to each room. The air conditioner is adjusted by opening and closing doors. It is attached to a window in the utility room.

A hall, oil-shaped, connects the living room, kitchen, bath and the girl's rooms. It has pale green walls and ceilings.

A large dressing table of white pine in a natural finish is an outstanding built-in feature of the large bathroom. Bathroom dimensions are 7x14 feet. A full-length mirror is on one wall. A large closet is also located in the bathroom.

It contains shelves and storage space as well as a dirty-clothes hamper. The hot water heater is also in this closet.

Pale Orchid Walls
Walls and ceiling of the bathroom are pale orchid. White tile board wainscots the walls. Rubberized linoleum on the floor is white mottled with black. Fixtures are white.

A large closet in the hall holds linens, quilts, card tables and chairs—a general storage space.

Zoe, who is 18, has the north-west bedroom. Dimensions of all the bedrooms are 12x16 feet. Each has corner windows. Venetian blinds are at all the windows. Green cornices in this room are decorated with a "Z". Zoe's brand, formed by a lariat rope. Side draperies at the windows match the bedspread which has boots, guns, hats and brands on a green background.

Furniture of knotty pine is ranch style. It includes a night stand, double bed, chest, dresser, and desk. Zoe also has a limed oak cedar chest and a green-upholstered platform rocker.

There are two large walk-in closets in each girl's bedroom. A figure of a horse on Zoe's chest of drawers, further shows her interest in this field.

Chartreuse Walls
Jean's room has chartreuse walls and ceiling. Marquisette curtains are yellow. She has a modern style double chest and nightstand in a light wood. A small cedar chest and a leather covered rocking chair are saved over from her childhood. A green chaise longue emphasizes the color scheme.

On the Hollywood bed is a spread of quilted pink chintz with a dust ruffle of a green floral pattern on white chintz. Jean's first boots form bookends on a table. Above her bed is a picture of herself as a child. Zoe has a similar picture in her room.

The inside of Jean's closet is covered with pinup girls of various sizes and kinds pasted on the walls. A white chenille rug is on the floor.

Back of the living room and in the center of the house is the utility room. Dimensions here are 24 by 12 feet. The floor is rubberized linoleum identical to that in the bathroom.

The central heating unit is located in this room. On the west wall are built-in cabinets in a natural finish. The sink placed here is not only for Mrs. Sims' use in washing but for men coming in from work to wash up in as well.

Bright Ruffles
Walls and ceiling are painted gray. Bright ruffles are across the tops of the windows. A door leads to the back yard. Appliances in here include an automatic washer, ironer and home freezer. An enormous cedar chest was built by Mrs. Sims brother 18 years ago. Quilts, blankets and woolens are stored here.

An extra bed is also in this room. Lights in the utility room, kitchen, bath and master bedroom are fluorescent fixtures. Mrs. Sims keeps her sewing machine in the utility room also, making it truly a work center.

The kitchen and dining room are together. The entire room is 27x15 feet in dimension. Orange-red and yellow flowers on a brown background are used as side draperies on the double window in the dining area. Dining chairs are covered in brown leather. The table has a polished walnut top. It was made during the war by Mrs. Sims' brother.

Walls are gray. The rubberized linoleum on the floor is similar to that in the utility room. A bar in natural-finish knotty pine separates the dining area from the cooking area. A work counter is on the kitchen side of the bar.

Built-In Cabinets
Cabinets are built around the butane ice box. One of the cabinets is over a built-in buffet. A broom closet is on the east side of the refrigerator. Cabinets line the east and north walls. A fluorescent light is over the double sink beneath a north window.

Pullout drawers near the sink are especially made to hold pots and milk jars. One has a board up the middle with hooks to hang the pots on. This enables Mrs. Sims to find the ones she wants without reaching back into the back of the cabinet—she just gets down on her out drawer has shelves to hold milk jars.

A pullout cupboard rack is right beside the stove. Heat from the stove dries the cupboards out quickly. Mrs. Sims is going to have to make some alterations in the lid and pan drawer. Graduated partitions to make pans easily accessible were not made wide enough.

Back Porch
The back porch, opening south of the kitchen, is screened in and finished on the inside with perma-stone. Dimensions are 9x18 feet. A glider is back here.

Mr. and Mrs. Sims' bedroom opens onto the kitchen and is adjacent to both the back and front porches.

"We decided on the location of our bedroom, the kitchen and the back porch. When we could not find a house plan with that arrangement, we just drew up those three rooms and then added the rest of the house," Mrs. Sims relates.

There is only one big walk-in closet in this room. However, the room that corresponds to the other closet in the girls' rooms is made into a half-bath in here.

Walls and ceilings are pale blue. A linoleum is on the floor. Blue and red draperies are on the corner windows and the east window. Mrs. Sims especially likes the corner windows because they give her so much leeway in rearranging her furniture.

Looking for Chair
Ranch style furniture includes a chest, dresser and double bed. A tier table serves as a nightstand. A couch is on the north wall. Mrs. Sims is still looking for the right chair to add to her bedroom furniture.

The front porch is 32x8 feet in dimension. It overlooks a grassy lawn with myriads of blooming flowers. Zinnias are on each side of the walk. Flowers in bloom now include petunias, phlox, geraniums, cannas, gladioli, and periwinkles. Shrubs, crape myrtle and trees are growing around the house.

"We live in every room in our house, every day," Mrs. Sims said. "We had been used to living in a house with high ceilings and large rooms when we were first married. We felt so cramped in the house we had before building this one, that we were determined to have large rooms. We didn't want the high ceilings, though."

Electric butane, central heating and airconditioning give the Simses all the comforts they would have in town. The road to their house is now being paved.

F. S. John and Miss Henrietta Nichols left Thursday for Abilene to visit a niece, Mrs. J. H. Miller, who is in a hospital there.

Bell Countians Schedule Reunion In Mackenzie Park

All of the former residents of Bell county are invited to attend a reunion at Mackenzie state park at Lubbock Sunday, according to E. I. Hill, president of the Bell County Reunion association.

The committee arranging the reunion expects some 300 persons to attend. Ample space has arranged for the event at the park, located one mile east of Lubbock, cool water and seats will be provided at the site of the reunion for the comfort of those attending.

Well-filled dinner baskets will be the contribution expected of family groups attending the mid-day feast. Hill stated that all former Bell county citizens are urged to attend the event and are asked to spread the word of the reunion to other Bell county citizens. H. M. Homesly, 1503-25th, Lubbock, is secretary and treasurer and should be contacted for additional information.

Texan Establishes Ranch in Holy Land

BELASHEBA, Israel, Aug. 9. (AP)—A cowboy is trying his hand at running a ranch south of Beersheba not far from where the Negev desert begins.

Jesse (Tex) Slade, 25, of Pecos, county, Texas said he now had about 180 head of cattle and the ranching business was good. There's a big demand for milk and meat in austere Israel.

Slade is a familiar figure to Israelis. He wears hightop western-style leather boots, a flat, broad-brimmed hat, and rolls his own cigarettes. His "Lone Star Ranch" is about 50 miles south of Beersheba—down in a rough country where he and those who help him often have a hot time fighting off attacks by Arab marauders.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Cook and daughter, Betty June, of O'Donnell visited Sunday in the home of Mrs. R. W. Babb and Ganell.

The Duck Creek Soil Conservation district, the second created in Texas, is also among the largest, according to an article in the August issue of the Southwestern Crop and Stock magazine.

The article states that in September, 1941, an agreement was signed with John Davis of the Polar community, making him the first man in West Texas to join the soil conservation movement. He was one of the first in Texas.

The district is comprised of Dickens, Kent, and Garza counties. It contains 1,812,000 acres of farm and ranch land.

Main problem at present for the soil conservation is demonstration of the value of cover crops. Officials say it is being rapidly overcome. In 1947, some 500 acres were planted to cover crops. By 1949, 18,000 acres were in cover crops.

Vetch, Rye for Sand
Work units in the district recommend sweet clover for tight land, and vetch and rye mixture on sandy soil. The Double U company and Rex Welch are among those turning part of their land back to grass.

According to the magazine article, this is particularly desirable on badly eroded land unfit for rowcrops. Sand love, weeping love and native bluestem are principal types used.

Soil conservation technicians, the article points out, show the farmer how to conserve his water as well as his land. Management of crop residue is an important facet of the program. Technicians stress the value of cover crops in rebuilding eroded soil. Farmers and ranchers are being trained to identify many of the key grasses.

Proper use of diversion terraces is demonstrated by the technicians when needed. These are used to drain water into stock tanks. The work unit also requisitions fish from state hatcheries to stock the farmer's and rancher's tank. The fish aid in keeping the tank clean. Also they furnish food and recreation for the operator.

District Supervisors
A committee of district supervisors assists the work units. They are elected by the farmers and ranchers of the district. Once monthly, they meet and pass on applications of those wishing to be cooperators.

Applications are then passed on to the work units. Supervisors in the Duck Creek district have recently purchased and made available small grain drills with fertilizer attachments. Now they are buying grass drills. In 1949, they bought a slide projector and camera for use at educational meetings.

Range conservation shows a steady increase. At last count, 65 per cent of the operators were cooperating in soil conservation. Erosion has greatly diminished.

Many ranchers are using proper stock rates, season of use and deferment.

"With the corrective conservation procedures," the article concludes, "water erosion and blowing dust are being held to a minimum. As Merle R. Britton, Post work unit conservationist, says, 'If the farmer will farm as he has learned to do, there will never be another dust bowl.'"

Mrs. G. E. Fleming of Post was among the 69 graduates of Howard Payne college in Brownwood, Aug. 1. She majored in secondary education and math. She plans to teach in Post high school.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Verdman and sons visited relatives in Clairmont over the weekend.

ances after they learned I was to be in Texas. I came solely because of the local junior rodeo."

Elliott was born in Pattonsburg, Mo. He attended school in St. Joseph and Kansas City. In 1924, he moved to California. It took him 12 years to get into motion pictures, Elliott says, but he wouldn't give up. Since he has starred in 67 westerns, his career has been as a western actor, throughout.

Elliott's first break came when he appeared in "The Story of Wild Bill Hickok." From that picture, he adopted the name "Wild Bill."

In his Red Ryder series, Elliott uses his trained horse, Thunder. Thunder was purchased from Levi Garrett in Sterling City, who laid the foundation for his training. In the deluxe western epics, he uses Stormy Night. Both horses are appearing with him here. Stormy Night is also a Texas horse, being purchased from Tex Moody in Stephenville.

He also uses Thunder when he appears in television. Elliott has no definite program of public appearances and road trips, preferring to make what rodeos and cutting horse contests he can. In addition to being a director of both the Pacific and American Quarter horse association, he is also a director and judge off the national cutting horse association.

He has appeared in or attended rodeos in Big Spring, Weatherford, Stamford, Fort Worth, Houston and San Antonio. Elliott is not merely a motion picture cowboy. He owns two ranches in California, running Herefords on them.

Mrs. Elliott makes as many trips as possible with her husband. She was working for I. Magnin in California when they met. She was a model, hostess and window decorator for that firm. Elliott has one daughter, Barbara.

MAIN STREET

(Continued from Page One) tonight's show. He is here today with the famous Amarillo Will Rogers Range Riders. He has enjoyed much success in the business world the past several years.

If you don't think we've got a swell bunch of merchants—just go ad-venturing through this week's Dispatch ads. Almost one hundred per cent they have gone "all out" in giving the kid's rodeo a boost. Best bunch of boys we know!

Hugh and Thelma Blevins have purchased the American Cafe from Wesley Northcutt. You'll enjoy the friendly atmosphere of the American. Go by and see these former Postites. Try eating at the American!

MRS. CONNELL

(Continued from Page One) were operators of the 64,000-acre OS ranch in Kent and Garza counties. With them, she operated five farms in Kent, oil and cattle properties in Crane and Ector, including the C-Bar ranch. Survivors include three daughters, Mrs. Paul Spinning, Chickasha, Okla., Mrs. Bruce Young, Fort Worth and Mrs. I. N. McCrary, Post; two sons, G. W. Connell of Post and A. B. Connell of Fort Worth. Giles McCrary of Post is a grandson and Mrs. Blanche Dalby a granddaughter. Great-grandchildren include Giles Dalby, Pamela and Mary Louise McCrary.

and the FFA float, third. Mrs. Jack Samson had the best decorated car. Iven Clary was second.

Winning junior rider was Coney Connell, daughter of Willson Connell of Polar; second was Butch Wilson, son of the C. R. Wilsons of Post; third, Sandy Cross, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sid Cross of Justiceburg; and fourth, Sonny Simpson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Simpson of Post.

Johnny McBride was the most comically dressed participant. Wesley Stephen's stock farm float received special mention.

At 10 o'clock this morning a breakfast was held for all cowgirl sponsors at the Willard Kirkpatrick home. Assisting Mrs. Kirkpatrick were Mrs. Ed Kelly Sims, Miss Zoe Sims and Miss Jean Sims.

Today is Delbert Dalby "day." A barbecue is planned at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the Cross-H ranch honoring Dalby and the Amarillo Will Rogers Range Riders who will be here for today's parade. A band is expected from Amarillo, also.

Performances including matched roping contests will be held today, tomorrow and Saturday afternoon and night. Saturday is Floyd Tillman "day" and that western composer will be on hand for honors then.

Following the United States and Texas flags in the parade held yesterday afternoon at 6 o'clock were Wild Bill Elliott, Hollywood, star of the show, and Alvin Davis, president of the rodeo association.

NO GERMANS FOUND

CARO, Aug. 9. (AP)—Authoritative independent sources here say there is no basis for recurrent West German press reports that "6,000 Afrika Korps veterans" are serving with the Egyptian army.

Foreign military experts and correspondents who have traveled extensively with Egyptian army units in all parts of the country say they have never seen any indication or hint of any German units or individual German soldiers.

Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Sanders and twins, Terry and Jerry, of Carlsbad, N. M., visited in the home of Mrs. Lizzie Gilmore the first of the week.

They were followed by the Post Junior Cowboys, sponsoring organization. Next came Ted and Betty Lamb, trick riders from Dallas. Behind them rode the Lynn County Sheriff's Posse. Marca Dean Holland rode on Wackers' float.

The Big Spring Sheriff's Posse preceded the 4-H float which was drawn behind the 4-H pickup. Tom Power's Model T Ford was next. Dale Winders, Earth, the clown preceded the Lubbock County Sheriff's posse which was ahead of the Lamb County Sheriff's posse. The Gulf sound truck followed. Music for the parade was presented by G. W. Norris of Norris Radio shop.

Weldon Mason of Meadow, state FFA president, rode in the FFA float which was the new FFA pickup. The Seminole Sheriff's posse followed. A Kaiser-Frazer float was next, followed by the Terry County Sheriff's posse and the Post Stampede Cowboys, Junior horsemen and bicycle riders brought up the rear.

Some 250 contestants were entered in the various events when the rodeo books closed at noon yesterday. Twenty-three individuals had entered horses in the cutting horse contest, each entering from one to five horses. Eighty-nine had entered the boys' calfroping contest.

The ribbon roping contest saw 89 entries, while 96 contestants entered the ribbon roping contest. Largest single competition was the bull riding event with 126 entries. One hundred seven entered the bronc riding contest. Twenty-nine girls entered the girls' barrel race and seven girls are entrants in the girls' calf roping contest.

Eighteen Quarter horses had been entered by noon Wednesday, but the deadline in the show which is to be held Friday and Saturday is not up yet. Several horses are expected from the Top of Texas rodeo in Stamford.

Ted and Betty Lamb, trick riders from Dallas, arrived yesterday. Dale Winders of Earth is the rodeo clown. Stock is being furnished by Goat Mayo and Nat Fleming of Wichita Falls is announcer. A Gulf Oil company sound truck is the public address system.

Elliott is performing with his trick horse Thunder. Another horse, Stormy Night, is also appearing with him. He is one of the judges of the Quarter horse show and the cutting horse contest will be judged by him and Novis Rodgers.

LeDrew Arrott of Bronte, Bobby Gray of Fluvana and Betty Rush of Levelland are main judges. Yesterday was Rep. Ed Gossett day. Gossett, member of the House of Representatives from the Wichita Falls area, was here, accompanied by his small son, Glenn. He and Judge Louis R. Reed were entertained at dinner last night by his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Webb.

Today is Delbert Dalby day. Dalby and a large cabine will a stovin down on the thing. The...

Israel Reaffirms Religious Freedom

JERUSALEM, Aug. 9. (AP)—The Israeli government says it is sticking to a policy of religious freedom from all denominations in this country.

This principle again was made clear recently in a letter from the office of Premier David Ben Gurion to five Protestant church leaders.

They had protested the refusal of the Israel Broadcasting Service to permit the Hebrew portion of a scheduled Protestant religious service to be broadcast. The government replied that Protestant communities are free to use the Hebrew language in their radio-cast services as long as the content does not constitute an affront to the religious feeling or sense of propriety of other religious denominations.

Johnnie Hudman of Tulsa, Okla., who is spending the summer in Big Spring with relatives, visited the first of the week here with her grandparents, the J. T. Peddys.

Man-Eating Lion Is Speared to Death By Native Hunters

KHARTOUM, Anglo-Egypt Sudan, Aug. 9. (AP)—Natives finally have speared to death "Asad the Assassin," a man-eating lion who killed seven humans but ran away when an angry housewife pulled his tail.

Three persons mauled by the lion are in serious condition at Soures Yubu hospital. For weeks the killer had been stalking the Zande country of Equatoria Province, South Sudan. He got his name from the Arabic word for lion—"asad."

The villagers finally tracked the lion down and killed him with spears. Examination of the body showed he was very large, old and—like most man-eaters, had teeth missing which caused him to turn to easily killed human prey.

KHARTOUM, Aug. 9. (AP)—The Sudan government advises Khartoum dwellers to stop using cannon shells as door-stops.

The reason: an old warhead dating back to the 1884-85 siege of Khartoum, exploded during building excavations. Several offices in the Sudanese capital were old canon shells as door-stops.

McCoy Stops Post In Softball Meet

McCoy defeated the local softball team, sponsored by Storie Motor company, 2-1 last Thursday night at Floydada to shut them out of the double elimination softball tournament there.

Malouf tripled in the second inning and was scored by Hugh Ingram's high fly. McCoy saw a man walk in the fifth inning to be followed by a home run, getting their only two scores.

Ingram pitched for Post and Roy Williams was catcher. Last night the locals were to play in a tournament at Grassland. They were to meet New Home.

FROM THE... GRANDSTAND

by WILBUR MARTIN
Associated Press Staff

The United Golf association says it isn't going to start any investigation of those rumors that some amateur golfers in Texas aren't as amateurs as they should be.

Bill Rives, Sports Editor of the Dallas Morning News, got the USGA to state its position after Dick Peebles, sports editor of the San Antonio Express, first reported the rumor.

Peebles' story said the USGA was becoming alarmed over the number of Texas amateurs who play in tournaments all summer long, with no visible means of support.

John P. English, assistant executive secretary of the USGA, wrote Rives that the organization had heard for some time that the rules of "Amateur status were not being fully observed in the Southwest, but we have not received any concrete evidence of violations."

"And as a result we aren't contemplating any immediate disciplinary action. We do not take action except when it has a solid basis in the way of evidence."

He added if the USGA got any concrete evidence, it would "of course, take appropriate action."

A. L. Exline of Dallas, the USGA's sectional representative, asked Rives:

"Who is to say that some golfers have no visible means of support?"

He then said, "Certainly, I am not and I think anyone who did would be a fool."

Rives points out that the USGA's authority would be limited, even if it decided to crack down on suspected amateurs. It could only prevent the players from taking part in USGA-affiliated tournaments.

The USGA has already decided that a boy going to college on a golf scholarship isn't amateur enough to compete in its tournaments. But, on this, the National Collegiate Athletic association thinks different.

SOUND SLEEP COSTS

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Calif., Aug. 9. (AP)—S. E. Robbins of Orange, Calif., is sorry he's such a sound sleeper.

The two front wheels and a spare tire from the trunk were stolen while he slept in his car, he reported to police. Robbins said he parked his car and went to sleep at 3:30 a. m. When he awoke at 4:30 the wheels and tires were gone. The jack in his own car was used by the thieves.

Southwest Conference Schedule Begins Within Month and May Be Best of All

by HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor

Just a month away is the start of a Southwest Conference football campaign that could be the best of them all barring an exodus of top talent in the direction of Korea.

One hundred and fifty-five lettermen are slated to begin practice in the seven conference camps Sept. 1. That means practically every squad is loaded with experience. And the freshman crop of last season was exceptionally good.

Texas will go to the post as one of the heaviest favorites for the championship in years. An awesome line and a better balance in backfield material are giving the Longhorns the nod to do what they haven't accomplished since 1945.

Texas A&M, which hasn't won a conference game in two years is expected to do it this time and to finish somewhere other than the cellar. There are 30 lettermen at Aggieland.

Baylor's New Coach
Baylor, with a new coach and an almost brand new team, is being regraded to last place in virtually every forecast. Coach George Sauer not only agrees with them but says he's glad to see that everybody recognizes his dearth of talent.

When Adrian Burk and J. D. Ison, one of the greatest passing combinations in conference history, would up their string at Baylor last fall, it marked the beginning of another era in Bear football, to hear the experts tell it.

Baylor, however, does have 20 lettermen and some excellent prospects from the 1949 freshman squad. This just indicates how tough the conference race is expected to be.

The Aggies have the most experienced men back but it is pointed out that 23 of them lettered for the first time last year and that quite a few of those will be replaced by sophomores this season.

If there is a dark-horse it's most likely to be Arkansas, which has 25 lettermen. The Razorbacks are four deep at ends, tackles and guards, three deep at center and quarterback, two deep at fullback and there are five letterman halfbacks. It is going to be quite difficult for a sophomore to break into that squad.

TCU Backfield Good
Texas Christian boasts 26 lettermen and has great backfield prospects except that there does not seem to be a Lindy Berry in the group. The line is questionable.

Rice, the defending champion, has 14 lettermen. They think in Houston that the Owls backfield will be one of the best in the country, with such fellows as Bill Burkhalter, Rex Proctor, Vernon Glass and George Glauser, but the line manpower is pretty thin.

Opinion is that Southern Methodist will be the biggest threat to Texas in the championship race. SMU has 19 lettermen, including Klyve Rote, the general choice to be the greatest back in the conference and in the country. There never was a finer array of passers and runners and the line looks strong except for a thinness at end and there's not much experience at guard—too many sophomores being depended upon.

Texas has 21 lettermen but the key man may be Ben Tompkins, a quarterback who didn't letter last season. Coach Blair Cherry says Ben looked exceptionally good in spring training.

Tom Power Starts Constructing New Building on Main

Construction is underway on the new building for Tom Power Ford Dealer located on West Main street between Garza Tire company and Kirkpatrick Auto Electric. Tom Power announced this week.

The building, on a 170-foot frontage, will equal in size the two buildings now occupied by the Ford house and the used car place on the Lubbock highway. Departments will include a body and paint shop, upholstery, service, show room, used car, and parts.

Construction is of pumice blocks. Atcheson and Atkinson of Lubbock are architects. Contractor is the BMF&P Construction company, the same firm that is building the grade school. The building will be ready for occupancy in about four months.

Power plans to enlarge his staff, employing several more mechanics when he moves into the new building.

HEAD OF TEXAS COACHES GROUP — Grady Hester of Corpus Christi is the new president of the Texas High School Coaches association. He is shown accepting the office and pledging full efforts in behalf of the huge organization that sponsors the Texas Coaching school in Austin, Texas.

A $4,200,000 expansion program is now in progress on the campus of Texas Technological college at Lubbock.

ing, improved greatly as a passer, and should be a fine T quarterback. Byron Townsend, one of the hardest runners in the country, leads an excellent backfield brigade that includes Bubba Shands, Lew Leving, Don Menasco and Bobby Dillon, who won their spurs last year, and such new help as Gib Dawson and T. Jones; Dan Page, transfer from Tyler Junior College, and Backs Bob Raley and Dick Ochoa who did not play last year—Raley because he was ineligible and Ochoa because he was a transfer. The Texas line looks like the real difference in the championship race. Other than Arkansas, no team appears capable of giving the Texas wall a strong struggle.

General opinion is that the best linemen in the conference will be Bud McFadin, the 245-pound Texas guard who was one of the finest in the nation last season.

RFD Means Fire Unit In South Carolina

MARION, S. C., Aug. 9. (AP)—The letters RFD mean more in Marion county than rural free delivery. They stand also for the county's novel rural fire department.

A group of farmers and townpeople put the plan into operation last November. Since then, the department has been credited with saving property worth many times the expense incurred. Five-dollar annual member-team and airplane on her census job, found a five-year-old boy named "Mr. Roosevelt." "We used to listen to President Roosevelt over the radio," the boy's Eskimo father explained.

After lunch there was a first aid session, a rifle contest, and more leathercraft. R. E. Callender, wildlife extension specialist discussed its value and showed specimens of Texas wildlife.

Pusan, Port of Destiny for UN Troops, Has Best and Busiest Harbor in Korea

AP Newsfeatures

Pusan has become a port of destiny for United Nations troops fighting to hold in Korea against the Communists. Situated on the southeastern coast, it is the best port in Korea, the one through which most traffic to the outside world has passed.

When the Japanese held Pusan and its population of a third of a million, they developed the port extensively. They linked it to Japan by cable and other communications and they carried on heavy traffic between it and their port of Shimonoseki, on the island of Honshu, 135 miles away.

Pusan's importance as a port of entry for GIs is helped by its tremendous defensive assets. It has been fortified for centuries and the high hills surrounding it have proved a formidable barrier to invaders attempting to move in from the north. "Rugged terrain screens the city so well," says the National Geographic Society, "that only a fraction of it is visible even from the waterfront."

"The harbor itself also is well protected by nature. Outside the entrance is Mok To, an island four miles long and a mile and a half wide, which incoming ships must skirt in order to reach anchorage. There are two relatively narrow passages between island and mainland, and both are overhung by high rock walls."

Pusan in Allied hands guarantees a port for the build-up of men and material needed to throw back the North Koreans. It also is where the U. S. could—if necessary—make its most prolonged attempt to hold.

Laundering Present-Day Cotton Dress Requires More Care Than Usual Wash

Laundering a cotton dress today just requires more care than tossing it into the washing machine with the family wash, says Mrs. Jewell Strasner, county home demonstration agent.

Especially is this true if the dress is one of those smart fashionable cottons that the housewife wants to keep looking smart through the season.

Today, cottons can be washed in the tub just as easily as ever if the finish of the material received close attention. Mrs. Strasner recommends looking to the label of new goods, whether piece or ready to wear, for information on residual shrinkage and color fastness when subjected to light and washing.

In regard to special finishes on cottons, such as the crispness of organdie or the glaze of glazed chintz, she advises checking the label. A durable finish will wash for the life of the fabric.

Mrs. Strasner says that light laundering of a garment before it becomes badly soiled will extend the life of the material by removing the dirt, dust and perspiration before they become deeply embedded in the fabric, cutting the threads and quickly wearing them apart.

Some laundering suggestions which Mrs. Strasner recommends especially for finer cotton dresses are the removal of any trimmings, buttons and buckles that may be damaged in the laundering, the removal of any spots or stains that need a special solvent or cleaner before wetting the dress, the handling of colored garments as quickly as possible and using heavy suds made from mild neutral soap in warm water.

Referring to the actual washing process, she says, immerse the entire dress and squeeze the suds through the material. Never rub or scrub delicate fabrics. For heavier soiled spots, such as those on collars and cuffs, use a small brush and brush lightly.

Rinse in two or three waters, being sure that the first rinse is the same temperature as the wash water. Cold water hardens soap and makes it adhere to the fabric. Soap left in a garment may cause yellowing or weakening of the fabric.

If the label on the garment says "permanent finish" or if the fabric is wrinkle resistant, no starch is needed in the garment. A closely woven fabric such as gingham or chambray should not be starched for the first wash. Live starching will retain a new look longer without starch.

Mrs. Strasner recommends caution in using new soaps or synthetic detergents which require no rinse. She says that clothes which are washed and not rinsed easily have a tendency to scorch during the ironing process.

Poland China Sale Set at Plainview

The Panhandle-Plains Poland China Breeders association will offer 81 bred gilts, open gilts and boars at a sale scheduled at the Plainview show barns Saturday. Secretary L. M. Hargrave said today.

Hargrave, an associate professor of agricultural education at Texas Technological College, said the sale will be one of the largest held by the association since it was formed in 1943. In its seven years of operation, it has sold 496 hogs for a total of $38,350, he added.

The Tech professor said a free lunch will be held before the sale begins on the show grounds. It will be sponsored by the Plainview chamber of commerce at the Fat Stock show.

Ten per cent of the sale's proceeds will be used by the association to stimulate interest in Poland China hogs through the silver trophy awards at the Lubbock, El Paso, Amarillo and Dallas Fairs.

Texas' Vastly Improved School System To Reach Higher Level Still--Sturgeon

Texas' already vastly improved public school system will be on an even higher level during the 1950-51 school year, Dean Robinson, county school superintendent, has been advised.

More classroom facilities and more and better trained teachers will be available, it was pointed out by L. P. Sturgeon, state associate commissioner of education.

Under the new Gilmer-Aikin laws which went into effect last fall the teaching staff was increased by 2,000 and more than half of the school districts of the state added to their classroom facilities.

An additional 1,500 teachers will be hired for the next school year, Sturgeon said. A survey disclosed many more schools will increase their facilities.

Increase in pay for teachers has added to their morale and made the profession far more attractive to young people, Sturgeon pointed out. More young people are preparing for careers as teachers and these better trained instructors will be available in larger numbers next year to replace retiring instructors and those less adequately trained, according to Sturgeon.

School districts which met the requirements of state law in order to receive additional financial aid from the state had a teacher for every twenty-five pupils in average daily attendance during the last school year, but many districts were forced to put pupils on a half-time basis.

"This will be partly alleviated during the 1950-51 school year by the construction of more classrooms and the availability of more teachers," Sturgeon said.

"This will add to the great benefits derived by a great many of our school children in the last school term through their being in smaller classes, where they could get more personal attention.

During the 1948-49 school year a survey conducted by the Texas State Teachers association disclosed that more than half of the classrooms in the entire state were badly over-crowded.

Sturgeon also had high praise for the state's teachers.

"While the pay increases under the Gilmer-Aikin laws averaged only $500 for teachers, their morale is at the highest in the history of Texas," he said. "I can see that in their interest in and their attendance of professional meetings I have attended throughout the entire state.

"Superintendents are almost unanimous in their reports of the willingness of teachers to accept additional assignments and to participate in extra-curricular activities.

"Teachers are satisfied and are proud of their profession. That means better education for our children in rooms presided over by well-trained instructors. It is only reasonable that happy, efficient teachers can do far more in imparting knowledge than dissatisfied, inefficient persons.

Increased enrollment in courses leading to degrees in education in the state's colleges was also pointed to by Sturgeon as an indication of the attractiveness of the teaching profession in Texas schools now, with its resulting benefits to the children.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Carpenter and two children of Bowie will attend the rodeo here this weekend and visit with relatives. Their son Gerald, who has been visiting here the past two weeks will return home with them.

United Nations Programs Are Little Known in Russia According to Writer

by A. I. GOLDBERG
 LAKE SUCCESS, Aug. 9.—Russia has charged that United Nations' attempts to halt the North Korean aggression lowered UN prestige in the Soviet Union—but it is hard to find out just how popular the UN has been there.
 UN headquarters itself doesn't have a clear idea. It has some reports from the UN information center in Moscow. The reports show that a certain amount of UN documents have been distributed there and that the center has had visitors—800 last year. But the UN doesn't know how the documents got distributed.

These fragmentary reports reveal only that the UN message has never been carried to Russia's millions on the same large scale as it is done in the United States, by schools, colleges, civic clubs, newspapers, radio, and voluntary organizations that work for support of United Nations efforts.

A recent UN document, entitled "Teaching about the United Nations and the Specialized Agencies," carries 75 pages of reports how the UN is brought home to the people in the western countries. It is a report to the economic and social council of Thursday, Geneva, summarizing Trygve Lie, UN secretary-general, and Palme Torres Bodet, director-general of Unesco.

Administration Unknown
 One paragraph says "Information on the publication of materials on the United Nations has been received from White Russia, Czechoslovakia, Poland and the Soviet Union. No details have been given as to the administrative machinery through which these are being distributed, but it is assumed that responsibility lies with the Ministry of Education in each country."

Also the report does not list any activity during 1949 in any iron curtain country, except Czechoslovakia. There is makes a fleeting reference to UN reports forming a part of history and civic lessons in the schools.
 Some up-to-date unofficial figures, however, indicate that about 33,000 UN booklets and other literature and several dozen documentary films were given through the UN information center in Moscow.

There are 16 such UN information centers in the world.
 Most of these centers—not all—are headed by UN appointees who are not nationals of the country where they are stationed.

Head Is Russian
 The head of the Moscow UN information center is a Russian, Michael S. Vavilov, who used to be head of the Russian Embassy information section in Washington. He was sent to Moscow as acting director when the center opened.

One former Moscow correspondent (Joseph Newman, of the New York Herald Tribune) now stationed in Berlin reported last June that few Russians know the office exists. Lie denied that after he came back from Moscow on his save-the-UN tour of Europe. He said Muscovites saw the blue and white UN flag flying over the center at 15 Hohlovski Pereulok, Moscow, and that UN officials used the offices on their visits.

Lie did not say then, however, how much the Russian people themselves used the center. New information from Moscow asserts that ordinary citizens were among the 800 visitors to the center during 1949 and said that they saw UN material there without any prior censorship.

The 800 visitors in Moscow compare with 1,400 reported during 1949 to the center in Prague, another iron curtain area; and with 1,700 at the Paris center and 1,000 at the Copenhagen center.

Eggs absorb odors of other foods and never should be kept and the like.

Hope of Cure for Cancer Halts Doctor's Retirement Plan for Fishing, Loafing

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Reporter
NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J.— AT retirement age, Dr. Moses L. Crossley had a choice: To loaf and go sailing, or to take on more new work.

The choice was easy for a brilliant chemist who "can't imagine myself not working." So now he's doing a double job in cancer research, of making and testing drugs that may stop or kill cancers.

Dr. Crossley, now 66, retired last fall as director of research of the American Cyanamid Company and its subsidiary, Calco Chemical Co. His industrial career included developing drugs for arthritis and surgery and the first real wonder drugs, the sulfa family. It also covered a search for anti-cancer drugs.

Over the years Dr. Crossley and his staff made some 1,200 new chemicals that might carry a punch against cancer.

He has taken on a new job, as an honorary research specialist at Rutgers University's Bureau of Biological Research, headed by Dr. James B. Allison. Dr. Crossley directs the bureau's experiments in testing new chemicals.

One promising drug is TEM, nickname for triethylenimino-triazine. This is one of a family of drugs, the ethylene imines, developed from German-discovered dye chemicals.

Drugs are tested on rats, on cancers transplanted from other rats, and on other animals having cancer. So far TEM shows ability to decrease the size of certain transplanted cancers.

"Many compounds have shown some activity in retarding tumor growth in animals, but this must

It is not taken to mean that a cancer cure is in sight," Dr. Crossley said.

"It is possible that within the next 10 years we will know enough to control some types of cancer—but not necessarily all types. And whether, even then, we will be able to control cancer in all of its life stages is exceedingly doubtful."

The cancer work of the Bureau of Biological Research is supported by the American Cancer Society, Damon Runyon Memorial Fund, and American Cyanamid.

Retired Employee Makes Tiny Letters

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Aug. 9. (AP)—A knack for printing tiny letters has opened a new world for Bernard D. Jacoby, retired summer city-employee.

Forty-six years ago Jacoby first made tiny silver hearts on which he engraved the Lord's Prayer in miniature but readable letters. It all started as a challenge when Jacoby was a lumberjack years ago in Michigan. A crew member handed him a dime and asked him to engrave the Lord's Prayer on it.

"I couldn't do it," said Jacoby. "He was terribly disappointed, so I kept trying until I was able to print it on a little heart."

Jacoby forgot all about the incident until he discovered the scraps of paper he had used to practice printing the small letters years ago. Then he began making them again.

Cities Seek, Find Bases for New Taxes

CHICAGO, Aug. 9. (AP)—Cities are seeking and some are finding new sources of money outside the property tax field. The International City Managers association cites recent examples. The Bristol, Va., city council enacted a local two per cent sales tax. Phoenix, Ariz., has adopted a new license fee of $200 a year for private clubs that dispense liquor. Eugene, Ore., has placed a three per cent tax on theatre tickets and other admissions.
