Deep Oil Picture for Garza Looks Somewhat Gloomy

Deep oil picture for Garza county once again is somewhat gloomy with the recovery of sulphur water on the Fumagalli well and the abandonment of an offset to the recent Conoco No. 2 Swenson discovery.

Only one new location was slated during the past week. It was the Duncan Drilling company No. 2 Bingham two miles northeast of Post. A rotary contract to 3300 feet, drilling was to begin at once.

Reports yesterday had the Continental Oil company's No. 1 J. C. Fumagalli, 11 miles northeast of Post, bottomed in sulphur water at some 8206 feet in the Ellenburger. Electric surveys have been run. On the most recent one and one-half hour test, recovery was 1690 feet of sulphur water, containing no shows of oil or gas. The test was run between 8159 and 8206 feet.

Continental abandoned their No. 4 Swenson, northeast offset to the discovery at 7046 feet after water developed. It was in barren reef lime. The discovery, the No. 2 Swenson Land and Cattle company is some 20 miles northeast of Post.

The southwest offset to the No. 2, the No. 3 Swenson, is drilling ahead below 5250 feet in Permian lime. Nine and one-half miles north of Post the Conoco No. 2 Welch was below 2330 feet drilling in dolomite. Contract calls for a possible depth of 8500 feet.

Fifteen miles east of Post, Stanolind oil company was drilling ahead on the No. 1 D. C. Hill, after a drillstem test which recovered no shows, likely from the Pennsylvanian. Ninety feet

Later Date Is Necessary Under Law

Contractors submitting bids on the proposed Garza county hospital are being asked by the commissioners' court to hold their bids open until June 11.

This was made necessary, according to Commissioner Buck Gossett, in order that the court might comply with the law in issuing warrants for the remaining $25,000 needed for the hospital, above the funds voted last year.

No construction can begin until after June 11, Gossett explained. Bids opened and found acceptable totaled $317,778. McQuaid Construction company of Fort Worth bid $214,560 for low on general construction of the 24-bed hospital.

Samson company of Lubbock had a low bid of $38,448 for the plumbing. Low bid on the electric contract was $20,970 by Taver Electric of Lubbock. Moseley Refrigeration of Fort Worth submitted a bid of $43,800 for the heating and airconditioning contract.

Money for the hospital construction was voted last year. A $175,000 bond issue was approved. The government will match that amount. The building is to be of brick construction and will include x-ray and operating facilities, a dining room, kitchen, nursery and lounge. Former Mayor John Herd gave the tract for the hospital site.

Patricia Burdick Is Buried Sunday

Funeral services for Patricia Ann Burdick, year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Burdick of Big Lake, formerly of Post, were conducted Sunday afternoon.

Rites were at 4 o'clock in the First Baptist church. The Rev. T. M. Gilliam, pastor, and the Rev. A. B. Lightfoot of Big Lake were officiants.

Burial was in Terrace cemetery under the direction of Hudman Funeral Home.

Patricia Ann died Thursday of pneumonia after a few days' illness.

One Man Dies and Two Are Injured In Burning Wreck Near Here Friday

One man died and two were hospitalized as a result of a fiery wreck on the Snyder highway about one mile south of Post Friday afternoon about 3:45 o'clock.

J. A. Hunt of Snyder, about 35, died after the pickup he was driving was in collision with a truck driven by Jack Hair. It was not known whether Hunt was killed in the crash or died in the subsequent fire which charred the pickup.

SENIOR PLAY SET TOMORROW

The senior play, "Maid of Money," will be presented again tomorrow night in behalf of the band uniform fund.

Donations of 30 and 50 cents will be accepted. Curtain goes up at 8 o'clock. Mrs. G. E. Fleming and C. D. Lee, class sponsors, are directors.

Consolidation of PMA, SCS Is Revealed

Soil Conservation service workers and the Production and Marketing administration committee in Garza county are now checking recommendations for the 1952 Agricultural Conservation program, according to PMA Chairman Claude E. Spence.

In the past, the chairman explains, these recommendations have been the responsibility of the PMA committee, but this year under the consolidated program the Soil Conservation service representatives share in the responsibility.

Those assisting in the 1952 program effort are Merle Britton, of the SCS, Claude E. Spence, of the PMA, Lewis C. Herron, county agent; and Perry Walker, of the Farmers Home administration.

Arrangements also are being completed to bring the PMA and SCS offices together. The Soil Conservation Service office now is at the Double U building and the PMA office at 22 Main street. About July 1, 1951 the offices will be consolidated.

Personnel of the Soil Conservation Service is now available to help in drawing up specifications for permanent conservation practices. Particular attention is being paid to practices emphasized in conservation districts.

NOVIS RODGERS, ARENA DIRECTOR, SAYS

Buck Jackson Is Best Announcer in Country

Novis Rodgers, who will see his 10th year of service as arena director in the May 23-26 Post Stampede, says that Buck Jackson, this year's announcer, is the best in the southwest.

"He has the most unusual gift of gab," Rodgers says. "There is never a dull moment, regardless of whether or not the action lags. He knows every cowboy by name and gives stories about each."

Jackson, a former sheriff of Reeves county, is now in the stock buying and selling business. He is one of the most widely known rodeo announcers. He has announced shows in Carlsbad, Pecos, and Fort Stockton and other places. His line is 'typical western gab' Rodgers says.

The arena director's main job, according to Rodgers, is to clean the arena after events and to be on hand to prevent accidents or assist when they happen. He has been crippled since last fall and most of his usual work will be done by Jack Meeks.

"Jack is very capable," Rodgers says, "and has been helping me for several years. We are looking for a third man, since the one who usually helps us is gone."

Rodgers says being arena director is quite a job. Although the show furnishes a pickup man, the arena director must get the broncs and bulls out of the arena. He is responsible for taking the rigging off bulls and bareback broncs and unsaddling saddle broncs.

"I will probably ride in the grand entry the first night, because it is usually such a problem," Rodgers says. "Otherwise, Jack Meeks will take over."

Examipations will be held Tuesday and Wednesday, S. D. Strasser, high school principal, announces. There will be no school Thursday. Strasser will present eighth grade diplomas and Paul Jones, school board president, will give the seniors their diplomas.

The Rev. Bracey Hicks officiated. Pallbearers were sons-in-law.

Mack Terry, third and historian. Following the graduation exercises, a short program will be presented by the other pupils of the school. The annual picnic will be held May 18.

Justiceburg will have closing exercises May 15. Crossroads is expected to close about that time. Several days were missed at Garnolia because of the bad weather, and it is not known exactly when school will close there.

Bryan J. Williams is Garnolia principal.

Maxey, Travis Wayne Parrish, Vee Oden and Katie Lou McClellan.

Graduation exercises will be held at Close City May 17 at 8 o'clock in the school, according to Mrs. Pearl Davidson, principal. Ted Shults, school board president, will give the diplomas. Awards will be presented for perfect attendance.

The three highest students will be on the program. They include Hazel Shultz, valedictorian; Rev. Jerry Bartlett, salutatorian; and TRAFFIC VIOLATIONS . . .

We have heard it said that you can have a bloody wreck in Garza county, killing and maiming innocent people and never even be fined, but just steal some chickens and you can go to the penitentiary for five years. The man who would never think of beating his landlord out of his rent, beats the traffic light every day. The fellow who would never take his gun and shoot a child speeds by the schoolhouse daily, never thinking one might run in front of his car. A heavy automobile going at a fast rate of speed is a dangerous weapon. The higher the speed, the more dangerous the weapon. Yet the fine for speeding is light and the law is laxly enforced. The average person would not think of making a borderline statement on his income tax return, yet he double parks with regularity. We commit traffic violations with the same aplomb we accept the wrong change when we are given too much. Yet none of us would steal a million dollars or crash through town in a heavy tank. We buy an automatic record player and take great pains to learn to operate it correctly. We buy automobiles and think that the ability to drive is an instinct like self-preservation. We are careless and our law enforcement is lax. Traffic violations are placed in a different category from other law-breaking. On most questionnaires is asked "Have you ever been convicted of any crime other than a traffic violation?" or words to that effect. Traffic deaths rank higher than war deaths in the United States. We have had automobiles some 50 years and wars some 175. Why not obey traffic laws?

WHAT CAUSED IT . . .

We in Texas and especially in the South are prone to gripe about the government's policies in Washington. We are not satisfied with the conduct of the Korean war, with the price ceilings and controls of Truman's domestic policy. We blame our troubles on Truman, Acheson, Congress or England. Some recently published figures show who is really to blame. In Russia, 99 per cent of the voters turn out to approve the party slate. In the United States as a whole, 57 to 62 per cent vote in presidential elections. In Texas 28 per cent vote. This is not the only alarming factor. Each year the percentage of eligible voters responding to their duty in Texas decreases. During the 1950 presidential campaign, 27.5 of the eligible Texans voted in Congressional elections. In 1944, the total was 26.5 per cent. In 1948, a decrease of 2 per cent was shown, to 24.5. Off years are even worse. Only 7.2 per cent voted in 1942 and 8.4 per cent in 1946. Of course, our one party system is a partial reason for these low figures. Usually the Democratic primary is sufficient to elect a qualified representative. But the Republican tag has almost always meant political death in Texas. California has a good plan of letting a man run on two tickets. Governor Earl Warren won both the Republican and Democratic nominations once. Perhaps this would help Texas. Each year fewer and fewer Texans vote and taxes rise higher, controls become more numerous and socialization more advanced. When will we realize who is paying the fiddler? When will we turn out and vote?

Getting Out On the LIMB . . .

by EDDIE the editor

I had the hazy idea that women controlled 70 per cent of all the wealth in the United States and now some woman columnist turns up and tells me they just don't know an it'sy-bitsy thing about finance and stuff.

Well, kid don't get an inferiority complex. Who does understand price supports coupled with price controls, parity and rationing, urging belt-tightening and increased unnecessary government spending? Not this boy.

This girl says we should speak of economics in the same words they use in naming perfumes and nail polishes. The withholding tax could be called instead, I suppose, "Surrender" or "New (and lower) Horizons". Profit could be described as "My Sin." If it was possible.

Sirocco is a hot, searing wind, a perfume and doubtless a good name for what happens to incentive after reading an OPS bulletin. In perfume it's Black Satin -- in Washington, it's pink mink.

Chamel has some 25 or 30 different numbers and the government has its Kefauver Nos. 1 to 100. Both types have a pervading smell.

This girl thinks if economists just wrote of money as Paul de Kruif, Morris Fishbein and others write of advances in medicine, all the women -- God love 'em -- could understand. I take issue with this.

I recently read in a national magazine about a woman having an atom exploded in her brain to cure a cancerous brain tumor, but I passed right over some Senator's plan to save 13 billion dollars -- or whatever it was, in the same magazine.

She also suggests that a series of day-time hearings be held on the state of the nation's coffers. Witnesses would be the nation's top embezzlers, con men, counterfeiters, and stock swindlers, who would tell exactly how their operations operate.

Me, I think I have a different and better solution. Let the National Association of Manufacturers hire Walt Disney to make a movie and Milt Caniff to write some comic books on inflation, rising prices, the cost of living, the reason for increased taxes, the horrors of socialized medicine and so forth.

Nine hundred ninety-nine out of 1000 children read funny books, so-called. Milt Caniff makes Steve Canyon the most exciting pilot in the Air Force besides Hotshot Charles. Terry (of the Terrates), Smilin' Jack and Hotrod Happy.

J. Edgar Hoover could be cartoonized like Dick Tracy or Fearless Fosdick and cut down crime 90 per cent in the next generation. If the Democratic National committee would get the guy who draws Blondie to get out a little comic strip featuring Harry as a Dagwood-type character, with MacArthur as Herb Woodley or Mr. Dithers, think of the friends it would make the little man from Missouri.

Collectors of the Bureau of Internal Revenue might be ballyhoed as junior editions of the Batman and Robin or Captain Marvel, Dick and Mary, the Marvel family.

Supermouse could be portrayed as Your Social Security Man. Slats could take up contour farming with the SCS and Abbie could become a home demonstration clubwoman. Mary Worth straightens nearly everything out so the cartoonist might picture Dean Acheson with his hair parted in the middle and an apron on.

If an appeal to the Women -- God love em -- is to be made, why not have Young Widder Brown explain the stock market to Dr. Loring -- they never make much love to each other -- on the daily soap opera.

Pepper Young's family would be an ideal vehicle for explaining ways to combat the high cost of living.

I can't understand what could be unclear about the world situation to the woman who understands about Carolyn's being in love with Miles who is in prison for a crime he didn't commit while her former husband, Dwight, tries to kidnap Skippy, or whatever the kind's name is, and she turns for comfort to Jenny, wife of her former boyfriend, Dick.

If Harry would just trade places with Lorenzo Jones, he would never do any harm and Belle would set him straight from time to time. Stella Dallas has had more trouble than the Republicans but every day she turns down rich suitors and great legacies to continue her job as charwoman or seamstress.

The soap opera and the comic book are our greatest media of education today, not to discount the movies. I'd like to understand some of this stuff myself. Maybe the Supreme Court jurists could tell in dramatic manner

THE AMERICAN WAY

Waiting For The Kill

Our Contemporaries Are Saying:

OPS Trouble

The OPS is out to control prices and thereby is causing a lot of people a lot of trouble. If you think filling out an income tax return is a complicated piece of business you ought to see the forms that local business houses are having to fill out and post. Of course, the OPS goes on the theory that there can be no enforcement of the law without the filling out of forms, an attitude that most government bureaus take.

The inside dope is that the OPS plans even more stringent controls but plans to enter a gradual decontrol period at the end of two years with 1953 set as the date for lifting controls. If that happens it will be something new under the sun. We've never seen a government bureau yet that dissolved itself.

and two-syllable words why they took the Tidelanders from Texas. I wish they would serialize it or make a March of Time out of it, or turn the whole thing over to Sam Spade or the Fat Man. I like to keep well informed.

Jules Verne has had no more from Washington quoted by my from Washington quoted by my little old columnist friend who gave this explanation of inflation. My bet is that it is clearer to women than it is to me. He said:

"Prices are going up fast, and this was a threat because people ultimately wouldn't have enough money to buy the necessities of life. Then our standard of living would drop, people couldn't buy things and -- boom -- depression.

"This could all be corrected by increasing the amount of taxes we pay, as this pouring of money into the federal treasury would siphon off the excess money we are all making, so that we couldn't possibly spend it for non-essentials. This plan will fix everything."

Me, I'm hard pressed to pay the essentials like the grocery bill, the help, the newspaper and the ink bill. If the government siphons off any more, I'm going to have to leave off groceries. Maybe I could get a subsidy though for all the newspapers I don't print or something.

As for understanding economics, I just doubt that anybody, male or female, even Bernard Baruch understands all about it. Especially New and Fair Deal economics.

But if anyone ever does get around to understanding it all, I stand ready to have it explained to me.

Texans In WASHINGTON

By TEX EASLEY, Associated Press Washington Service

WASHINGTON -- The dogwood is in full bloom in these parts, which may account for the fact that Texans in the capital are talking a lot of politics.

The flowering tree which traditionally signals the opening of political campaigns in East Texas blooms here a month or so later than in the Lone Star state.

Most of the talk here centers around the presidential and senatorial races. Speculation on the House seats is held in check awaiting the outcome of redistricting legislation in the state legislature.

As for the Democratic national ticket in 1952, Rep. John E. Lyle of Corpus Christi, who has been an Administration supporter, comes up with Speaker Sam Rayburn of Bonham for president and W. Stuart Symington, chairman of the National Security Resources board who has been named to head the Reconstruction Finance corporation, for vice-president.

"Some people mention Mr. Rayburn's age as a handicap," Lyle added. "He is just 69, only two years older than President Truman."

"He is certainly respected by party leaders in all parts of the country. I know some influential Southern congressmen who would endorse him but certainly would oppose Truman's reelection."

Symington, who calls St. Louis home, is well known to many Texans and is a close personal friend of many of them here in Washington.

He has been in Texas a great deal in connection with various government posts he has held, including that of Surplus Property chief immediately after World War II.

"He is the most Texan-like non-Texan in the government," Lyle says.

Common Spiritual Values in America Must Be Rejuvenated or We Are Licked as Leader

BABSON PARK, Mass. -- Unless the leaders of our country can rejuvenate the common spiritual values which give meaning and purpose to the New World, America is licked as the leader of free nations.

I get lots of letters these days asking me, "What can a man believe, anyway?" They come from business managers and production line workers alike. One man is as confused as the next. One doesn't like labor unions. Another doesn't like government bureaucracy. The next doesn't want price fixing. Still another doesn't want the United States fighting wars in Korea. But all have a good word to say for General MacArthur.

MacArthur reports that Japanese intellectuals have been shocked by the inability of even our military officers to tell the Japanese what we believe in as a nation and what our long-term objectives are. We don't want the tyrannies of Hitler or Mussolini or Stalin. We don't want British Socialism. We don't want Communism; but, for the moment, we want MacArthur! We are fed up with the political mumbo-jumbo out of Washington. We are relieved and encouraged to find someone who has a policy, even if we don't agree with it.

I think most Americans want something substantial they can grab hold of, -- something to believe in, in ideology, a creed, a way of life. Something with more substance than a 50-cent "dollar bill." There was a time when the church gave a meaning of life to people. Apparently this isn't fashionable any more. Our neglect of the spiritual has brought about a cultural lag in Western civilization.

What was it that satisfied so successfully the wants of our forefathers? Certainly it wasn't fast automobiles, television, the 40-hour week or a soft life. I believe the happiness and success of our ancestors in this country was the result of their spiritual and courageous approach to problems.

The roots of our vitality are not economic. They go deep into the ethical and spiritual soil. Today the trouble is that startling lack of religion has crept into our national economic thinking. Ask the average person what has made America great and he will probably reply, "Our vast resources and our unparalleled production system." People who think this way have the cart before the horse.

I am not a social scientist. Anthropologists tell me, however, that in order for any society, primitive or highly civilized, to hang together, it must have a courageous but simple rational creed, a set of spiritual values with strong emotional appeal which give meaning to life.

This, I believe, is what we have lacked in the Western World since the disillusionment of World War I. This is what most Americans today long for -- a vital, creative, forward-looking creed. We would like more brave leaders to help implement our beliefs for us. Many Americans do not like MacArthur's methods; but his forthrightness appeals to everyone.

Perhaps it is a defect that too many of us voters are waiting for someone else to come up with a real creed. This isn't the way our forefathers operated! They thought their policies out for themselves. I think more of our political, labor and business leaders need to take time to think, pray, meditate, and see if they can't rediscover life's essentials.

Did you ever stop to think what might happen if your neighborhood turned off the TV or forgot the corner movie for a night a week, and instead met one night each week in some house to discuss ways to save our Union? The idea is explosive! Think of the force which such grass-roots thinking of this kind could exert on the electorate, -- on the nation and the world.

100 Dozen Garza Sheets Daily Are Output of Postex Mill hundred dozen Garza sheets are turned out daily at the mill, currently ballyhooed as "the best in Texas." The mill is not an idle claim. In all different makes of sheets, a research firm, those of quality were found to be of wearing quality with the weaving also rated.

having only 325 employees. But according to Victor Slater, assistant manager, it is large for a sheeting mill. It still operates in the original plant built by C. W. Post.

The story of a sheet, as far as Postex is concerned, begins at the warehouse by a railroad siding where bales of long staple cotton come in and are stored. A tow-motor has been ordered so that one man can unload and stack this cotton. Cotton used comes from the deep South, mostly, as this cotton has a longer staple. It comes from Georgia, the Carolinas, Mississippi and Alabama, with some from California. After the cotton is stored in the warehouse, samples of each bale are taken and sent to Greenville, S. C. Here they are graded for staple length and quality.

ers onto a smaller bobbin to form the warp, which runs lengthwise of the cloth and must be stronger than the filler or crosswise thread. The filler is made exactly like the warp with less twist. To get the yarg where it is usable, it is run on a spooler from the loom beam. These are automatic and stop when a thread breaks.

The thread now runs 44,000 yards in continuous length. Each bobbin is automatically thrown out and a full one picked up. The spool of this thread is taken off and put on the tryand table. Then it is taken to the creel and warper.

Large spools are put on the slasher creel, seven to 14 at a time, depending on the number of threads required for the cloth. Then it is run through a size solution at a temperature of 200 degrees Fahrenheit to coat and penetrate the yarn. This enables it to stand the abrasion and wear in the loom.

end threads with an electric trimmer. They are then taken and labeled and tied in bundles. Bundles of sheets are wrapped in heavy paper for shipment to retail stores.

After pillow cases are hemmed and sewn, two women turn them right side out on a metal rack. Each woman who sews sheets averages 450 in an eight-hour shift.

The mill also operates its own machine shop. The generators used here once generated the electricity for Post. They now provide means for humidification. The mill's humidification system reduces the static electricity, makes working conditions more comfortable and makes the yarn more pliable.

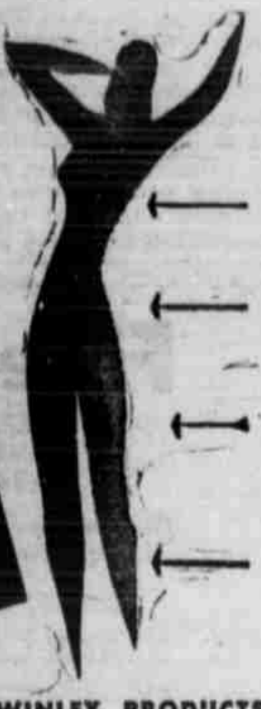

Plans are under way to improve the air conditioning system throughout the mill. The office has been newly painted and rearranged. "First impressions are lasting ones," Slater believes.

Waste Baled Up
Waste cotton is baled up and shipped out to manufacturers of mattresses, medicated cotton, cotton gauze and paper. None of it is wasted, Slater explains.

From the warehouse, the cotton is taken to a room or building containing the picker. Here it is opened and allowed to "bloom." It is put through a blender, combining several bales into one soft, wide sheet of cotton. It is put on a lattice belt and then on a gyrator. Pickers clean the cotton of short fibers, seed and all other foreign matter.

The cotton runs out of this machine as a "lap," a large spool of cotton which is stored on wagons until taken to the next machine. Here it is put on the back and carded to comb out any remaining short fibers.

It runs through the carder into a web which makes the cotton into a "sliver." The slivers are rolled into round cans, known as sliver pans and are twisted as they are rolled. Sliver pans are taken to the breaker draw frame, then to the finisher draw frame.

Six Silvers
Six silvers are fed into the breaker draw frame to make one delicate, soft cotton cord. Six of these are fed into the finisher draw frame to make one cord. A series of rollers draws the fibers out in each machine. One cord from the finisher drawer is a combination of 36 original silvers.

These are placed on the roving frame and wound as soft, white cotton rope on a 10-inch bobbin. In roving, the fiber actually gets its first twist, which gives strength. The bobbin is then put on the creel in the spinning room. It passes over a series of rollers

After sizing, the thread is run through a series of rollers to squeeze out the excess. It is then threaded on a series of huge copper cylinders for drying. From there, it runs onto the loom beam or warp. It is made into the warp thread here.

The warp is then drawn over the drop wires, harnesses and reeds, then it is ready to get into the loom and be woven into cloth with filling. When a thread breaks, this loom stops. The filling is thrown onto the cylinder automatically and woven with the warp. This machine automatically throws out the empty bobbin and puts a full one in its place. End process here provides a roll of cloth on a large spool.

It is put into a container called a battery and carried on a small railroad track to the next building. This is the cloth room. Material is inspected here and made into a continuous roll to go into the singer which contains a desizing solution. It stays in vats or bins for a period of time before going into the first washer, then into the caustic saturator for the first bleaching.

In the next step, it is put in the jay box where steam causes chemicals to react at a certain temperature and complete the bleaching process. It comes out of the jay box and through another washer into bins and then begins the same process all over through peroxide.

30,000 Yards in Batch
Ropes are attached to the cloth to thread it through. Some 30,000 yards are treated in a batch during a 14-hour period. The average weekly run through this part of the mill is 150,000 yards.

From here, the material is run through a high window onto the finishing range, where one continuous operation is performed with several machines. It goes through starch and bluing first, then is dried, calendared and pressed. After starching, it is run on a tentering frame. After it goes through the calendar, it is finished. This is the operation that gives Garza sheets their superiority, Slater says.

After going through the dry cans and the calendar, the roll of sheeting goes through the double doubler, where it is folded four times. A woman sits at the double doubler with a long stick to mark imperfections in the cloth. It is folded on to carts and

FROM THE... GRANDSTAND by WILBUR MARTIN Associated Press Staff

The most exclusive tournament in professional golf isn't going to be so exclusive this year.

You still need an invitation to participate, but sponsors of the Colonial Invitational at Fort Worth have added six extra places to bring in some veteran names in money golf.

The field this year has 42 pros after the $15,000 prize money.

In the past the Colonial has emphasized its hand-picked field—the smallest at medal play in big-time golf—was limited to 36 places.

The Colonial tournament committee this year said the extra places were to enable it to invite all players who have participated in the majority of its tournaments.

Invitation to the Colonial are highly prized by the touring professionals. The sponsors really take care of the golfers and galleries benefit by seeing the cream of pro golf in action.

Ben Hogan is always the favorite at Colonial—either from a fan standpoint or from a winning standpoint.

Fort Worth is his home town and since his accident—and re-

Photographer Yousaf Karsh Has Great Men of Contemporary Day for Subjects

By IRVING DESFOR AP Newsfeatures

Metoris rise to fame came to Yousaf Karsh, Aremian-born Canadian portrait photographer, with one exposure of Winston Churchill in December, 1941, during a five-minute sitting. Britain's wartime Prime Minister had just finished his stirring address to the House of Commons in Ottawa and strode to the private chambers. There, Karsh was all prepared to take a picture.

The camera was focused on a predetermined spot, the lights were set. But Churchill was in no picture taking mood when he arrived, his teeth firmly clamped to a freshly lit cigar.

Karsh had determined to take the picture without the cigar. He proffered an ash tray. It was ignored. Karsh went to his camera, removed the slide.

"Forgive me, sir," he said, then personally removed the cigar from Churchill's mouth and quick returned to his camera.

This audacious action brought a belligerent, fighting look to the Prime Minister... which was immediately captured by a click of the shutter.

"You can even make a roaring lion stand still to be photographed," was Churchill's tribute when he grasped the significance of Karsh's temerity.

That fighting symbol of war-time England clicked with the world and started a procession of world famous figures before Karsh's camera.

This story was part of the lecture given by Yousaf Karsh recently at the Photo short course at Kent State University, Kent, Ohio. Here were gathered 250 photographers from the press, armed forces, industry and colleges to hear various experts. In four crammed days they reviewed methods, techniques, equipment and "know-how" then scattered back across the country to digest the information... or perhaps to put it into practice.

Karsh's talk was the highlight of this year's session. Some of the pictures and anecdotes were published by Ziff-Davis a while back in "Faces of Destiny," but they bear retelling.

There was the memorable session with George Bernard Shaw. Precise arrangements had to be made beforehand with his secretary, Miss Patch, who dictated the terms.

"You can have five minutes. You may not use a large camera—only a miniature camera. You must use natural light—you may not set up artificial lights. And you must pose him by this mantle... where everyone else snaps him!"

While this was being argued, Shaw himself appeared to ask why a photograph was wanted at all.

"The Canadian Government wishes a portrait for its national archives," Karsh replied.

"Since when would the Canadian Government know a good portrait when it saw one?" was Shaw's rejoinder. "And if it wants one," he continued, "why doesn't it commission my good friend, Augustus Johns, to paint one?"

"Because it still wouldn't be a Karsh portrait!" Karsh countered.

Shaw, the great egotist, liked suiting warmth from the galleries—he is even more popular than when he was methodically winning all the big meets.

The tournament is played over the course where the National Open was staged in 1941. That was the only time the Open has been held in Texas, but Dallas gets it next year.

The Colonial starts the PGA tour, but is the only tournament where all the big names usually play. Most skip a tournament or two during the summer and some, like Hogan and Byron Nelson, make only a select few.

Sirens of History Often Dyed for Love While Some Used More Strenuous Ways

By BETTY CLARKE AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor

You can't get a man unless you get artificial props. So say historians who show that Lorelei used lyres, Circe needed magic, Cleopatra had wigs, Lucrezia Borgia eliminated rivals with poison and Delilah found a pair of scissors—all in the interests of beauty.

Women have gone to many lengths through the ages to attain the semblance of beauty and its consequent booty.

Queen Ses, of the Third Egyptian Dynasty, won her king when she discovered henna as a hair tint, "is said, Empress Faustina, wife of Marcus Aurelius, kept a small army of tress - experts designing the more than 300 hairstyles she affected.

When the Roman legions brought fair-haired captives from northern Europe, the ladies of the Emperor's court heaped ashes from beech trees on their heads and left them for a month in order to become blondes.

During the era that Paris of Greece lost his all on a horse for the favor of Helen of Troy, women waved their hair by winding it in small strands around thin sticks under a mud pack and drying the mess under the sun.

Bes, the god of toiletry, was supposed to supply the girls with inspirations for new ideas for personal pulchritude. Old-time glamor girls used to send their husbands out for the day with "the boys" while they languished under the ministrations of slav, girls who tried to make them beautiful.

Venus de Milo is supposed to have been the first known woman to wear a chignon. It always seemed a wonderful way to snare a man, because French women of the 17th century called this beauty accessory a "cache folle" or "hide a folly." Such sirens as Madame du Barry, Madame Pompadour and Madame Recamier were not above hiding a poor nape line by an array of hair.

Hair coloring, now done by an enthusiastic 45 per cent of the nation's women, intrigued women from the earliest Egyptian days. On the other hand, Cleopatra had 40 or more wigs made up in her favorite shades. No one knows which color caused Marc Antony to take Egyptian leave from his regiment.

Once there he found the electricity shut off. The pictures were taken by natural light coming from the window.

In rural Finland, at the home of Jan Sibelius, the composer, he found an inadequate five amperes of electricity. Karsh asked a local electrician to tap the electric man. Horrified, the latter called the public utilities' director, suspecting sabotage.

"If a man comes all the way from Canada to photograph our country's great composer," the director said, "Why go ahead... tap the main!"

Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Murphy Come Here from Denison

Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Murphy, members of Post, arrived here from Denison. They had there four years.

Mrs. O. G. Murphy is new manager of the Cotton mill. She is from Georgia and he is a Georgian. They moved to Denison, they in Georgia for 10 years. She born and reared in Tallahassee. After finishing high school, she took a business course and worked for a short time before her marriage.

Her husband is from West Georgia, originally. He was in the Mount Vernon lumber mills in Tallahassee. The couple was married, living from a textile family. She has worked his way up through every department in the mill. Both his father and grandfather were textile workers. Mrs. Murphy raised African American children for a hobby. At present she is routing 15 different varieties. So far she has had no difficulty here, but she does need to learn where they can be more light.

She also enjoys sewing, but when the notion strikes she makes dresses, pajamas things like that. Mrs. Murphy also enjoys bridge and cards. In Denison, the Murphys are members of the Country Club and both did a lot of fishing in the club lake and Lake Texoma. They particularly like fly fishing.

Mrs. Murphy plays golf and hunts in her spare time, when he is not hunting. They are members of the Methodist church. In Denison, Mrs. Murphy was active in the Young Matrons' circle of the Women's Society for Christian Service. Here, she hopes to join the Wesleyan Service Guild.

The couple has no children. Post is different in some respects from our previous homes," Mrs. Murphy admits, "but we like it very much. The people have been so nice to us and so friendly. We are awfully happy to be in Post and to be associated with Post Cotton, the best mill in Texas."

Scripture
I am the true vine, and my Father is the husbandman. Every branch in me that beareth not fruit he taketh away; and every branch that beareth fruit, he purgeth it, that it may bring forth more fruit. Now ye are clean through the word which I have spoken unto you. Abide in me, and I in you. As the branch cannot bear fruit of itself, except it abide in the vine; no more can ye, except ye abide in me. I am the vine, ye are the branches: He that abideth in me, and I in him, the same bringeth forth much fruit: for without me ye can do nothing. If a man abide not in me, he is cast forth as a branch, and is withered; and men gather them, and cast them into the fire, and they are burned. If ye abide in me, and my words abide in you, ye shall ask what ye will, and it shall be done unto you. St. John 15: 1-7.

Post Credit Bureau Is a Service to Merchants And Helps Individuals Establish Credit Rating

A person can move away from Post owing money but he can't buy anything on credit anywhere else until he pays his creditors here.

That statement is made by Dan Wiles, director of the Post Credit Bureau which was started here several months ago by Mrs. David Willis and Mrs. Pat Walker. Purpose of the credit bureau is to protect local merchants. It also helps the individual establish his credit rating.

"Suppose we get an inquiry from a local merchant on an individual who has asked for credit," Wiles says. "We look up our card on the man to see who he does business with. The card contains such information as the date he opened each account, whether or not it is an open account, the highest amount paid on the account, the highest amount owed, the man's paying habits and any information as to a change in his financial condition."

In case a newcomer applies for credit and the Bureau has no file on the applicant, a letter is written to the town from which he moved and the information is sent from the credit bureau there. File of 3000 Locally the Bureau has a file of 2500 to 3000 names. On each card is the individual's name, age, race, years lived in community, marital status, name of spouse and information as to whether he or she works, number of dependents, employer's name, type of business, position, previous residence and employer, estimated monthly income in present and previous positions, ownership of home or other property and other pertinent information.

If the man is a farmer, his equipment is itemized, as well as the mortgages on his equipment. Each month, the Bureau sends out a confidential report to members, listing the chattel mortgages taken and released in the county court. Divorces granted are recorded for the protection of the merchant. It lists the names of those who have given bad checks and the reason the checks were turned down.

Merchants Cooperate "The Credit Bureau is a service to members and if the merchants would cooperate, they could protect themselves," Wiles says. "When members call us we can give him the prospect's credit history."

Wiles also pointed out that it is to the newcomer's benefit to call at the Bureau office and get a credit rating set up. The Bureau gets newcomers' name from the local utility companies and establishes a card on them without being asked.

Records are completely revised each three months. The Post Credit Bureau is a bonded collection agency. Mrs. Willis and Mrs. Walker have both resigned. Wiles' assistant is Mrs. Morris Huff. Wiles came here Feb. 23 from El Paso. He is a certified public accountant and had been told that Post was a fertile field for accountancy. He is a nephew of Mrs. Lee Bailey.

Besides the credit bureau at El Paso, Wiles was connected with the credit bureau at Kermit. "The set up at Post is just the same as that at Kermit," he says.

Mr. and Mrs. Samie West have moved back to Post.

NEW DODGE "Job-Rated" Trucks

The trucks that do the most for you

Why a "Job-Rated" truck is your safest investment

A "Job-Rated" truck is engineered at the factory to fit a specific job . . . save you money . . . last longer. Every unit from engine to rear axle is "Job-Rated"—engineered to haul a specific load over the roads you travel and at the speeds you require.

Every unit that SUPPORTS the load—frame, axles, springs, wheels, tires and others—is engineered right to provide the strength and capacity needed.

Every unit that MOVES the load—engine, clutch, transmission, propeller shaft, rear axle and others—is engineered right to meet a particular operating condition.

Safer stops with "Job-Rated" brakes

Step on the brakes of your Dodge "Job-Rated" truck and you're sure of smooth stopping action far in excess of normal requirements. You get long-lasting Cyclebond "no-rivet" brake lining—with lining area increased as G.V.W. rating goes up! Now, on models 1½-ton and up, except air brake models, you get another Dodge "first"—new Tapered, Molded Cyclebond brake lining. It's longer-lasting, extra quiet—free from "squeal." Independent hand brakes also adds to safety.

Safer steering and easier handling

Now, you can maneuver your Dodge "Job-Rated" truck with less effort! Steering is more accurate. New easy-acting worm-and-roller steering gears on many models. Leo Ackers Live in New White Siding Bungalow On West Tenth Street for Past Two Weeks

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Ackers have lived for two weeks in the bungalow they had built in Lubbock and moved to West 10th street here.

It was here about two months before it was finished and they could move in. The house faces north and has a narrow concrete front porch. The roof is gray asphalt shingles and the walls are faced in white asphalt siding.

Dimensions of the living room are 9 by 14 feet. Walls are textured pale rose and woodwork and blinds are the same shade. In front is a large paneled window. White organdy Priscilla half curtain covers the blind.

At the back of the living room, almost in the hall, is an apartment sized limed oak buffet. On it is a Chinese planter set. On the opposite side of the room, by the large window are two Chinese host and hostess chairs. The chairs are upholstered in bright green with a Chinese print in green, rose, and white taffeta.

A double window on the east side of the room is covered with a blind and a half curtain. On the floor is a dark rose wall to wall carpet. On the west wall is half of a large brown-upholstered sectional sofa. Across from it, placed at an angle is the other half. Mrs. Ackers has ordered two limed oak step tables and a coffee table to complete the furnishings of the living room.

Wide Door
A wide door separates the dining area from the living room. It is south of the living room. Carpets, walls and ceiling match those in the living room as well as blinds and curtain at the windows. Dining chairs are upholstered in chartreuse. The dining area is 7 by 8 feet.

The kitchen is 8 by 12 feet in area. There is no wall separating it from the dining room. Ruffles at the back door and window over the sink are brown chintz with pink and yellow flowers. Walls are painted yellow and the blinds are yellow. Ceiling and inside of the cabinets are pink.

A special corner cabinet is at the bottom. Cabinets extend around two walls. A window is over the double sink. There is a fluorescent light fixture over the sink and one on the ceiling. A small limed oak radio is on the cabinet.

A large automatic washing machine, range and electric refrigerator are on the north wall. The kitchen door leads to the back yard where Mrs. Ackers hopes to plant silver poplars. Across the tiny front porch, the family plans to put an ornamental iron rail with a hedge across the yard.

Mrs. Ackers also wants to plant a mimosa tree there.

A floor furnace is in the living room. Centering the house is a long ell-shaped hall, 4 by 10 feet. Walls, ceiling and woodwork are pink like the living room and the floor is carpeted identically to the living room.

Bath on South
The 5 by 7-foot bathroom is on the south side of the house. Walls and ceiling are ivory. Brown metal tile with a yellow trim is placed half way up the walls and around the tub and shower. Fixtures are pale green and the venetian blind matches it. Plastic shower and window curtains are white, yellow and clear stripes.

The hot water heater closet is above the dirty clothes hamper in the hall. Around the ell at the north end is a wall of shelves for linen storage. Doors close the shelves into closets. Another floor furnace is located in the hall to warm the bedrooms and den.

Acker's den has chartreuse walls and ceiling, chartreuse blinds with dark green tapes and a dark green carpet. A ruffe valance over the windows is gray with rose, green and chartreuse print. Acker's desk and filing cabinet are to be placed in here. This room will also double as a guest room.

Rose Beige Couch
The rosy beige studio couch converts into a double bed. A chest of drawers completes the furnishings. The den is 11 feet square. Doors throughout the house are slab, painted to match

Perry Porter Serves In Korean Waters

Perry Porter, Jr., commissaryman, second class, USN, of Post, is serving aboard the destroyer USS Charles S. Sperry which is operating along the east coast of North Korea as a unit of the United Nations Blockading and Escort force.

The Sperry has added her firepower to that of other destroyers and heavier warships in the continuous day and night bombardments of enemy shore installations, roads, bridges and railroads at key transportation centers.

She is also providing Naval gunfire support for United Nations forces making harassing raids on smaller targets along the siege line and patrolling the coast for blockade running junk traffic.

the woodwork. The master bedroom is the northwest room. Woodwork and walls are gray. A gray carpet covers the floor. Maple furniture includes a double bed, a double chest and a small rocker. Bedspread is peach with dusty rose print with a white trim. Curtains match.

The Ackers have two sons, Lexa, 12, and Leslie, 7. Their room is the southwest bedroom. Walls are taupe with matching blinds and woodwork. Twin beds have identical spreads made with patterned stripes. The boys have a tall chest which holds their record player. Each bedroom has a large closet. Leslie's rack is low so he can reach it and is made so that it can be raised as he grows taller.

13 Miles More Paving Will Be Completed in May

Thirteen miles of paving is to be completed this month, finishing the paving voted for Precinct 2, Commissioner Buck Gossett announces.

It will provide a through pavement from Post to Grassland, except for a short stretch in Lynn county. The pavement intersects the Tahoka highway at Monroe street. It runs four miles past Graham and a mile south, and three-quarters of a mile west to the Lynn county line.

Bryan and Hoffman of Plainview are the contractors. Work was scheduled to begin more than two weeks ago. They are now moving in equipment to complete the topping on 13 miles. This will make 28 miles of paving completed recently in this precinct.

The base has been down several months, but will need moistening, scarifying, then rolling and scraping for caliche asphalt base, Gossett reports.

ALWAYS BE CAREFUL DRIVING

The difference goes more than Skin-Deep

Nobody wonders what you're driving when you roll by in this one. In the 1951 line-up, its brand-new front-end styling stands out with a beauty all its own. You're the proud owner of a Buick—and the whole world knows it. But you—at the wheel—enjoy a long list of differences that go far deeper than looks. The ride is different—level and true. You sit the road with special assurance—because Buick's torque-tube drive keeps rear wheels firmly aligned—soft coil springs on all four wheels soak up the bumps and bobbles—honest weight keeps you on a steady keel.

The power is different—eager and sure. Buick's high-compression Fireball engine does wonders with fuel—and no matter what you demand in emergency, there's horsepower to spare. Handling is different—this car seems to steer itself on straightaway or curve—and swings lightly into parking spots inches shorter than you'd think you need. Capping it all, there's the silken versatility of Dynaflo Drive,* that takes all the tenseness out of driving—responds to your slightest wish with a surging swoop of power. No doubt about it, what you get in a Buick is far more than just a new car—it's a whole new experience in getting pleasurably from here to there. So why not explore this difference? Come, take a Buick over and find out how very much satisfaction smart money can buy.

No other car provides all this:

Plane Replaces Pony — To Certain Extent On U Lazy S Ranch Run by John F. Lott

The plane has replaced the pony — to a certain extent — on the U Lazy S ranch, run by John F. Lott.

Lott, great-grandson of John S. Slaughter who originated the U Lazy S brand in 1896, flies a Piper Super Cub equipped with a wing speaker that can be heard more than a mile at 1000 feet. He uses a public address system bought from Oscar Garner, with 25 watt power. This is the first year he has used a Cub, previously he had a Stinson but found it too fast.

"The plane certainly does not replace the cowboy," says Lott, "but it makes each man more effective. We are getting cattle we never even knew were there."

When using the Cub in the roundup, Lott drifts above the riders in the plane. He spots cattle in the brush and especially watches for those coming back between riders. He also uses the plane for checking windmills to see that they are working, for checking water tanks, fences, gaps, making water surveys and checking terraces following heavy rains.

For cross-country flying, Lott has another plane, a Beechcraft Bonanza. This is necessary because of the extent of the U Lazy S acreage. The spread covers 79,000 acres with 50 sections leased near Seminole. Home range lies in Borden and Garza counties.

Lott has been flying since 1946. Use of planes in cattle roundups has been done since the end of the last war, he says. He got the idea from Johnny Matthews at the Paddle ranch near Claremont.

At ranch headquarters, Lott has a lighted airport with a north-south runway 3200 feet long and an 1800-foot runway coming northeast-southwest. A rotating beacon with electric eye control turns on the light at dark whenever a night landing is scheduled.

The ranch is a state game preserve and all is under Soil Conservation Service contract. Pets include six elk, 45 deer, and 30 head of native antelope. Some 4000 cattle, mostly Herefords are on the range which is extremely dry now.

"We are feeding everything now," Lott says, "although there is a lot of old grass from the two years of rain we had here."

Fifty-six hundred acres of the land is under cultivation, divided at present into 60 per cent cotton, 25 per cent bundle feed, and 15 per cent legumes and soil building legumes. Plans are being made to reduce the cotton acreage and increase legume plantings.

J. B. Slaughter, Lott's grandfather purchased the old Square and Compass ranch from Nave-McCord Cattle company in 1901. Then it covered 150,000 acres in Borden and Garza counties. Much of the better farming land is in the vicinity of Post, whose townsite is on former U. Lazy S range. Mr. and Mrs. Lott have three children, Jack, 14; Patty, 12; and Linda 11. They live in Post.

Mesquite Control Regulations Set

Mike E. Custer, secretary Garza county Production and Marketing committee has advised that regulations governing the control of mesquite by chemical spraying have been received in the county PMA office.

According to these regulations no payment can be earned on the spraying of mesquite until sufficient moisture has been received for the mesquite to have had a period of vigorous growth of not less than 30 days before spraying is begun. The deadline date for spraying mesquite is July 15, therefore, if a rain is received on May 15, the date to begin spraying will be June 15 and operators will have 30 days in which to complete spraying before the deadline date, but if sufficient rainfall is not received before June 10 the date to begin will be July 10 and operators will have only five days in which they can spray mesquite.

Custer urges that operators who plan to carry out this practice call at the county PMA office and make application for approval at their earliest convenience.

Post Band Moves To New Quarters

The band has moved into its new quarters, the old cafeteria, Vernon Lewis director, announces.

The building has been remodeled somewhat to provide a rehearsal room, three practice rooms, a uniform room and a combination library and office. There is storage for private equipment there.

Lewis says plans have progressed for the summer band school, May 28 to July 6. Registration will be May 28. Scales, arpeggios and music theory will be taught, with work done on both popular music and symphonies. Private lessons have been scheduled through the day Monday through Friday.

"My schedule is about full," Lewis says. "I think I have room for about six more. Students don't have to worry about their other lessons and can spend more time on band in the summer."

BAKE SALE

A 4-H bake sale will be held in the Outlaw building Saturday. The sale will begin at 9:30 in the morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Williams of Pasadena, Calif., visited Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Sanders. The Williams are former Post residents.

Sensible Precautions Help Prevent Polio Epidemics During Summer Months

By DAVID TAYLOR MARKE AP Education Editor

This is the time of year when parents begin to dread the onslaught of polio.

Yet, if sensible precautions are taken, says the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Much can be done to prevent it. Here are some useful do's and don'ts issued by the Foundation:

DO'S

Allow children to play with friends they have been with right along. Keep them away from new people, especially in the close daily living of a home. Because — once polio has appeared in a community, scientists say the virus probably is widespread. Your children probably have come in contact with it already and developed a degree of resistance to that particular virus.

Wash hands carefully before eating and always after using the toilet—especially important when polio is around. Also keep food clean and covered. Because — hands may carry polio infection into the body through the mouth.

Watch for signs of sickness, such as headaches, fever, sore throat, upset stomach, sore muscles, stiff neck or back, extreme tiredness or nervousness, trouble in breathing or swallowing. Because — during an outbreak of polio, symptoms vary from the very vague to actual paralysis. Watch closely for all symptoms during this period. Put a sick person to bed at once, away from all others, and call the doctor. Quick action may lessen crippling. Because — while paralysis cannot be prevented, doctors have determined that early bedrest and prompt treatment may influence progress of the disease and lessen the severity of deformities.

Remember, at least half of all polio patients get well without any crippling. Because — recent surveys show that 50 per cent of all diagnosed polio cases suffer no paralysis. Another 25 per cent recover with no disabling after-effects.

DON'TS

Never get over-tired by had play, exercise, work or travel. This is a good piece of advice for parents to follow, too. Because — scientists believe once a person has become infected with polio, a delicate balance exists between the polio virus and the body's ability to fight it. The scales can be tipped in favor of the virus by overexertion.

Heavy exertion in the early stages, it has been shown, results in more severe and extensive paralysis.

Don't bathe or swim long in cold water or sit around in wet clothes. Because — chilling and physical exertion seem to lower body resistance to the virus, once it has entered your body.

Mouth or throat operations should be avoided during a polio outbreak. Recent surveys have demonstrated that tonsillectomies performed at this time increase the risk of getting bulbar polio (most serious form) by 11 times.

Never use another person's towels, dishes, tableware or the like. Because—virus is excreted from the bowel and throat and may be transferred unknowingly by these implements.

It isn't necessary to take your child out of camp or playground, where there is good health supervision. Because—he has already been exposed to the virus by the time a case has been reported. Routine daily living under proper supervision, such as good camps and playgrounds offer, is a safeguard to his health.

Rodeo Directors Plan Advertising

At a meeting of Post Stampede directors Tuesday night plans were made for the coming rodeo. It was decided to not charter buses to publicize the shows. Instead, a gation of businessmen will contribute the advertising material.

Garza county folks who like to have rodeo circulars, show cards and windmills sent to take with them on their way to rodeos in other parts of the State, may receive them by calling at either the Post Stampede office or McCray's Advertising Company.

report the following who were out sick have returned to work. Dor-

Nadine Payne, Vada Mendenhall and Ruth Askins.

The management is happy to know of their recovery and hope it will be lasting.

We are also happy to report that Ara Mae Turner who was out because of sickness in her family has returned, reporting conditions in the family much improved.

We are sorry that because of sickness in the family Zora Jones and Mary Owings are still out.

Mr. and Mrs. Oman Ticer recently carried their young son to the hospital for an operation.
It is also sympathetically reported that Sue Hays also carried her daughter to the hospital to be operated on.

We, who have families of our own, can appreciate the worries and anxiety when our loved ones are ill or have to go through an operation. It has been reported that these youngsters are now out of danger, and, in that, the management is happy and hope their recovery will be complete and rapid.

Mr. Watt reports the weave room is now in good health and has nothing to worry about other than the need of a couple of good experienced weavers.

"Gentle Brother, rush, hurry and loud talk each cuts down the ground, a goal in the right direction and success is assured.

Be sure you empty your pockets

Chamber of Commerce this past week

Discussions were held on this week with local officials regarding proposed legislation. We are making progress, and we have no doubt that it is possible to obtain through a chamber of commerce, or similar body, there is no exception.

As the human family has adopted marriage and home as the best plan so far devised for the comfort and convenience of the race, so has the city adopted the chamber of commerce as the most dependable instrument so far invented for civic progress.

The Street Paving committee to assist city officials in getting property owners signed up met Tuesday afternoon and were handed their forms and information that they would need to accomplish the task assigned to them. At the request of the City Council, the board of directors appointed this committee whose membership consists of at least one person in almost every block that is proposed for paving.

New OPS regulations continue to come to the chamber of commerce office, the latest of these being a news release on the new orders covering beef. The new regulations will regulate the price of beef from cattle on the hoof to the steak and hamburger at the grocery.

Clay Potts, Master Barbecue, Feeds 1000 as Easily as Housewife Does Five

By SAUL FELDMAN AP Newsfeatures STILLWATER, Okla. — Clay Potts can feed 1,000 persons as easily as a housewife can feed her brood — and for a stove he needs nothing more than a hole in the ground.

Potts, whose name is synonymous with barbecue in Oklahoma, needs just 24 hours to turn out enough barbecue and trimmings for any number of hearty eaters.

The 57-year-old cook is director of short courses at Oklahoma A&M college. He arranges barbecues strictly as a hobby.

While Potts has pleased more than 500,000 persons with his barbecues the past 20 years, he reached the peak of the social scale last year. He handled a barbecue for Washington dignitaries. It was sponsored by Oklahoma Senator Robert S. Kerr and was an all-Oklahoma feed — even down to the onions.

His hobby started back in 1930 when he found that a full state of important speakers was not enough to hold a crowd at a college or extension division activity.

Potts decided food would do the trick and that barbecue was the answer. He set about studying all methods and a system for serving a large, hungry crowd quickly.

Potts reasoned that no matter how good it is, the meat won't taste right if serving is too slow. Thirty minutes is long enough for anyone to wait in a chow line.

Now he can serve 4,000 persons in 40 minutes — all with hot barbecue and the trimmings.

Potts decided the meat would taste better, too, if the folks know and like the waiters. So wherever he handles a barbecue, he makes sure all the prominent commerce officials, bankers and preachers help prepare and serve the meal.

He's the kind of executive who delegates authority but is always ready to take over in case something goes wrong.

There are two schools of thought on barbecue. One contends the meat should be cooked with the sauce. The other favors slowly cooking the meat in its own juices, then letting the hungry diner add the sauce. Potts favors the latter method.

He digs a trench and burns hard wood until there are 18 inches of coals. The meat is wrapped with parchment crinkle paper, then burlap and soaked in water to keep from catching fire. It is placed on the coals and the pit covered for seven hours.

When it is taken out and uncovered the meat is juicy, not rare but a light golden brown that makes you want to eat twice as much as you can hold.

Car Care Is Vital In Present Situation

TOLEDO, O. P. — Care for your car is vital today because the war crisis may make it difficult to get another. This is the opinion of Dean A. Walters, service manager for a motor manufacturer.

He suggests: 1. Frequent brake and wheel alignment tests; 2. frequent oil changes; 3. an undercoat on the car to prevent rust; 4. an engine, carburetor, air filter and electric system kept in adjustment; 5. wax on the body.

Fussy Customers Irk Old-Fashioned Barber

WINNIPEG, P. — Russ Lavers, 68, has been a barber for half a century and estimates he has done 324,000 haircuts.

He says that customers are "fussier nowadays." And he says "the men are just as vain as the women. Some are worse. Young fellows come in here asking for permanent waves, and lots of them have finger-waves."

Potts also has perfected his own barbecue sauce, which is mild but the perfect compliment to the meat.

To go along with the barbecue, Potts has improved on the Indian's method of roasting corn. He barbecues corn in the same pit that is used for the meat. It comes out tender and juicy after cooking in the coals for about half an hour.

Cows Carrying Brahman Blood Continue High In Production of Best Slaughter Calves

Cows carrying some Brahman blood continue to produce the best slaughter calves for Southeast Texas conditions in tests conducted by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

And it appears that the cow, rather than the bull, should carry the Brahman blood, L. C. Heron, local county agent, points out. This is indicated by the results of experiments conducted at the College Station and Lufkin field laboratories in 1950.

At Lufkin, crossbred Brahman-Hereford cows were bred to Hereford and Brahman bulls. Crossbred Brahman-Hereford calves carrying 7-8 hereford, 3-4 Hereford, 1-2 Hereford, and 3-8 Hereford blood were obtained from these matings.

The best slaughter calves produced at Lufkin were 3-4 Herefords out of 1-2 Brahman-Hereford cows by a Hereford bull. Calves mothered by either 1-2 Brahman-Hereford or 3-4 Hereford-1-4 Brahman cows and sired by a Hereford bull had better carcass grades than calves sired by a Brahman bull and out of either Hereford or 3-4 Hereford-1-4 Brahman cows.

Use of a Hereford bull on the crossbred cows gave better beef conformation and higher carcass grades. The 7-8 Hereford-1-8 Brahman calves out of 3-4 Hereford-1-4 Brahman cows and by a Hereford bull had better beef conformation and carcass grades than the 3-8 Hereford-5-8 Brahman calves resulting from the use of the Brahman bull.

Greater weight for age was obtained for the calves out of the crossbred cows and sired by the Hereford bull. Calves out of the Hereford cows were heavier at two weeks of age, but the calves from the crossbred cows gained faster after they were two weeks old. Gains were higher, after two weeks, for the 3-4, 7-8, 3-8, and 1-2 Hereford calves, in that order.

At the Brazos River Valley laboratory, College Station, Brahman cross heifers and grade Hereford heifers were bred to Angus bulls. These heifers were the results of breeding Brahman and Hereford bulls to "native" cows, some of which had a high per cent of Hereford blood.

Calves from the Brahman cross cows were heavier for their age, had a higher dressing percentage, produced higher grade carcasses and sold for $8.21 more per head than the calves from the grade Hereford cows.

At an average age of 240 days, calves from the Brahman cross cows weighed an average of 465 pounds. Their average dressing percentage, on warm carcass and slaughter weight basis, was 57.8 per cent. The calves from he grade Hereford cows averaged 444 pounds at 235 days of age and dressed 55.3 per cent.

Experiment Station beef cattle specialists point out that the Brahman cross cows apparently were better mothers during the summer for their late calves were heavier and had higher carcass grades than the late calves of the grade Hereford cows.

The results of these two experiments follow the same general pattern of other tests conducted in slaughter calf production in the last few years, states Heron.

A good procedure in breeding for the production of slaughter calves in southern areas, he says, is to cross plain or native cows with Brahman bulls. Cows from this cross produce good slaughter calves when bred to Short-horn, Angus, or Hereford bulls.

Calicut Cobra Makes Love to Native Woman

MADRAS, P. — Natives of nearby Calicut give a romantic twist to the tale of the cobra and the lady.

The story tells of daily visits by the six-foot reptile to the house of a villager named Narayanan. The snake faithfully follows Narayan's wife, Narayani, wherever she goes.

Narayani went from fright at first to her current attitude of respectful resignation. Popular belief runs that the snake is making love to the woman. It does not hesitate to slither into her bedroom, darting off only on the entrance of another human.

New Yorker Takes Paternity Leave

NEW YORK, P. — Maternity leave for employees is a routine benefit these days. But recently a large New York concern gave an employe a week's paternity leave.

The man applied formally for leave, explaining that he and his wife were adopting a baby girl. He wanted to travel to the mid-west and bring the new baby home, he said, while his wife remained behind preparing their other child for the new arrival.

Mrs. Vernon Ray, county health nurse, was checking on small-pox vaccinations at Garnolia, Southland and other county schools Tuesday.

It's Not the Initial Cost that Counts

NEW DELHI, P. — For Americans — about a third of American money — you can get one child in the local kid market. Officers have seen the recovery of 18 kidnapped children and the arrest of gang members.

BRIDE PRICE RAISED

KHARTOUM, Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, P. — The bride price raised from 20 to 50 pounds worth about $10, at the chiefs meeting of Zande in the southern Sudan. The chiefs also agreed the price now paid in full by the prospective husband before the marriage comes legal.

Biological Warfare Employing Grave Disease Is Unlikely, Scientists Say

By BEN PRICE
AP Newsfeatures
 ATLANTA. — If scare writers were your nerves a little raw, this business of biological warfare, perhaps this will produce some slight consolation. One of the nation's top experts on the subject, Alexander D. Langmuir, has been regarded as baseless two of the theories of the gloomy guses of the pen. It is most unlikely that biological warfare, says Langmuir, would employ any new, laboratory-bred, "super virulent" disease.

so far that defenses are imperative. Defenses are impossible you say? Langmuir concedes the problem is a tough one; that every field, food factory and dairy would become a defense project in need of guarding. A partial answer would be widespread inoculations against diseases for which remedies have been developed. Another factor would be early detection of diseases loosed in air borne attacks. It isn't generally known, but the Communicable Disease Center (CDC) recently developed a portable pollen counting gadget. This device also picks up whatever else happens to be in the air. Thus, it is conceivable that the U. S. in time could have a network, similar to a radar network, to help guard against a surprise attack. CDC officials generally are mum on the subject, but one of their big worries is "the false rumor with some foundation in fact which could precipitate an international crisis." Long Island extends 118 miles east - north-east from the mouth of the Hudson River in New York. The ancients believed the topaz would relieve insanity, asthma, insomnia and anger and would cool boiling water.

Livestock Premium List Of State Fair Raised To Record High For '51 Show

The 1951 State Fair of Texas October 6-21, will offer $83,074 in livestock premiums — $10,365 more than last year and the highest in the history of the 66-year-old exposition.

Ray W. Wilson, manager of the fair's livestock department, said the 1951 premium list will be mailed this week to 7500 livestock breeders and exhibitors throughout the nation, and to all county agents and vocational agriculture teachers in Texas.

Topping the list of shows featuring 26 breeds of cattle, swine, horses, sheep and Angora goats will be the Pan-American National Hereford show, Oct. 6-11. Premiums of $25,000 are offered for this show alone, the highest the fair has ever posted for any one show.

Total beef cattle premiums are $34,650, an increase of $12,300 over last year. Arrayed with the Herefords will be top Aberdeen-Angus, Brahma and Shorthorn cattle. All beef cattle shows run Oct. 6-11.

Dairy cattle premiums total $15,450. Guernsey, Holstein-Friesian, Jersey and Milking Shorthorn cattle will be shown Oct. 12-19.

The junior livestock show Oct. 15-20 will offer premiums totaling $14,945, an increase of $3,695 over 1950. There will be classes for dairy cattle, steers, pigs and sheep.

Premiums for the nine breeds of swine to be shown total $9,152 and prizes for the six breeds of sheep that will be on display come to $2,977. Angora goat premiums amount to $850. Swine, sheep and goats will be shown Oct. 6-14.

Dates and premiums for the horse show will be announced later, Wilson said.

Of the $83,000 in premiums being offered at the 1951 fair, the State Fair of Texas will contribute $64,791 and national and state purebred livestock associations will contribute $18,283. This is an increase of $7392 over premium money given by breed associations last year, Wilson said. This indicates a growing recognition of the fair's vast audience and its leadership in promoting better livestock, he pointed out.

OPS Regulations Are Available Yet At CofC Office

The chamber of commerce still has on hand supplies of the regulations affecting the business men of Post and Garza county, James Hestand, manager says.

News has been received, but no copies of the regulation, regarding the new orders covering beef. As stated in the news release the order will regulate the price of beef from cattle on the hoof to the steak and hamburger at the grocery. The statement from OPS says:

"The regulations are designed to check advancing prices of live cattle and bring them in line with wholesale and retail prices, thus restoring an operating margin for those slaughterers and retailers who have experienced a price squeeze in the last few weeks because of uncontrolled cattle prices."

Officials reminded again that most businesses were covered by the general ceiling price regulations, or "freeze" and until they comply with the tailored regulations removing them from the freeze, they remain under it and are required to comply with it.

Witnesses Take Salt Before Testifying

ROSEBERRY, Anglo-Egyptian, said you don't take the testimony of witnesses here with a grain of salt. The witnesses in this strange quirk developed at a court inquiry called this Blue Nile province.

The Falubud tribesmen, who came near here, refused to take a regular oath, saying they would do their own form. The witnesses ceremoniously placed some grains of salt on their tongues followed by red pepper, a piece of charcoal and a grain of wheat carefully chewed, then spit the rest out the nearest window.

They offered no explanation, but said it was now impossible for them to tell a lie.

Leonard Short Is Fourth Scout in SP Council To Win God and Country Award

Leonard Short, who recently received his God and Country boy scout award, is the first boy in Post to be so honored and the fourth in the whole South Plains council.

Some of the 10 second class requirements are the same. They include regular church attendance, regular Bible reading and personal prayer, systematic giving to the church, bringing a new member to Sunday school, naming the books of the Old Testament, leading in prayer at home or in the troop, knowledge of Christian symbolism, knowledge of the history, personalities and activities of the scout's own church or denomination, 25 additional hours of assigned personal service to the church and show evidence of Christian character.

First class standards are regular church attendance, systematic giving to the church, under-
