White River Water Bonds Are 'Must'

Let no reader misunderstand our position. The Dispatch is 100 per cent in favor of the $4,000,000 bond issue for the White River Municipal Water District.

Post's entire future is tied up in the successful solution of its serious water supply problem. The White River plan will cost lots of money, but it promises to be worth every penny over the years.

What the residents of Post, Spur, Ralls and Crosbyton will vote on August 17 will be a plan to provide enough water for not just for next year, or for the next five, but for the next 30 years or more.

West Texas' future is all tied up with the water supply problem and water for West Texas towns is never going to be cheap. To speak plainly the cost, in constructing charges and interest rates, is still going up.

Post citizens need to speak plainly and think clearly about their future and water. The water project is going to cost real money. Let's understand that from the beginning. But instead of worrying unduly about this cost, let's consider our future without such a water supply. There isn't much. There is no real choice to make.

If the water bonds are voted in August, it will be at least two and one-half years and more probably three, before such a water supply can be collected and pumped into town.

A $4,000,000 bond issue is big money for the four towns. Bonding men told the district directors last week that a bond issue of this size simply can't be sold to private investors on the present bond market.

The bond men and the district directors are hopeful that Uncle Sam through the FHA will step in and loan the money on the bonds which can't be sold in the open market. There is no guarantee of this. It is possible that in the end the four towns might have to sit and wait on the state water program to develop. That would mean a costly delay, probably until mid-1958.

To put the facts on the table, a lot of ifs, ands, and buts remain before the water plan can be financed. But nothing can be done until the people step up to the polls and approve the necessary bond issue.

Then the directors and the bond people can go to work on the financial problem.

It is usually always darkest before the dawn. It is possible that some sort of aid program may develop and the district could qualify for it. But one of the items of qualification would be the approval of the voters of any necessary bond issue.

From every angle, the next logical step is to vote the bonds. That is no full answer, it is merely the next step.

Between now and August 17, The Dispatch in its news columns will attempt to give complete coverage to all details of the district water problem. It will be an unbiased presentation. This newspaper will offer its editorial support only in the editorial columns where such endorsements belong.

The water problem belongs to us all. We all must do our share to solve it. If each eligible voter will study the proposition thoroughly, discuss the problem freely with his friends and neighbors, and go to the polls and vote August 17, he will have done his part. Such thorough community cooperation will be required to assure victory for the water bonds.—J.C.

'Cloud Busting' Is New Possibility

From Washington comes the word of one Texas senator that science is on the trail of the tornado.

Senator Ralph Yarborough reports that Vincent J. Schaefer, director of research of the Minutep Foundation, Inc., of Scenectady, N.Y., recently told a special senate sub-committee that it may be possible to change atmospheric conditions which produce tornadoes.

Schaefer is a pioneer researcher into the means of modifying weather by cloud seeding and other scientific techniques.

The Texas senator says that fundamental research into tornado-spawning conditions is now being carried out by the U.S. Weather Bureau's severe local storm warning center at Kansas City. He added with emphasis that breaking up of severe storm-producing conditions is still a "good many tomorrows away" and not yet an absolute probability.

The gist of the testimony before the sub-committee is that the pioneer weather researcher is "optimistic" over the possibilities.

Mr. Schaefer's cloud seeding could not produce rain without clouds. It remains to be seen how a "cloud busting" plan can be proven effective—because if it works nothing happens.

The average West Texan will eye the scientist's fight against the weather with considerable skepticism, but we can at least hope that somehow he succeeds.

If he does and Uncle Sam takes over the weather controls, politicians some day may be running on their weather records instead of their voting records.—J.C.

'Operation High Weeds' Comes Next

Last in the high weeds. That description fits many of Post's residential areas now that steady rains have sent weeds sprouting out of control to remarkable heights on the dozens of vacant lots around town.

A cooperative city plan for the city to machine down the weeds and charge the lot owners for doing so would be a mighty profitable plan for all concerned.

The weeds are not just an eyesore in the Golden Jubilee year. They are a breeding place for flies, mosquitoes, and what have you. They need to be cut down as quickly as possible.

Weed cutting on most of the lots by hand operation is virtually out of the question. Machine equipment is the only real solution and the property owner generally doesn't have the equipment to do the job.

Another point about the weedy lots is that many of them are owned by people not now living here and these people are not on the ground so to speak to see what needs to be done—and take care of it.

With the recent cleanup campaign a highly successful one from the organizational standpoint, the next big phase of the cleanup should be Operation High Weeds.—J.C.

4-H Donations Are Real Bargains

The Garza county 4-Hers need $1,500 in donations. The money will be worth $3,000 to them and the community.

That's the "bargain" side of the 4-H drive to boost the 4-H building fund from $3,500, its current status, to $5,000.

The county dads have voted to match the 4-H fund dollar for dollar to help the youngsters build a 4-H building here.

The 30 by 45 foot steel and block constructed building would be located in the northeast corner of City Park, according to present plans.

The 4-Hers won't keep the building in use all of the time of course, although they will put it to many worthwhile uses. This will make the building available when needed for other community uses. So the donated dollars of citizens will not only go to help the 4-H boys and girls but also to add another useful building to the community as well.

Anyway you look at it, the money donated will be well spent. Donations may be left with either Miss Pearce, county home demonstration agent, or County Farm Agent Lewis C. Heron, or with any member of the building committee.—J.C.

New Areas, Depths Are Yielding Oil

Garza County has such a tremendous stake in the petroleum industry that remarks made by an outstanding Texas oil man in a recent address are of timely local interest.

The substance of the address was that oil is becoming increasingly hard to find; but that, because of advances in technology, we are in no danger of running out of oil. The liquid gold is being produced in areas and at depths which were undreamed of in years past. Garza County oil people and observers know that this very fact is increasing our oil activity and production.

But the technological advances, and the manpower to put them into effect, cost great sums of money. Records show that oil industry wages, tubular goods and other equipment and services have increased from 15 to 35 per cent since 1953... so there seems to be full justification for the recent small advance in crude oil. Without legitimate profits, the oil industry, major and independent, cannot afford to continue drilling and exploratory activity at its present major scale.

And where, we might ask, would Garza County be, economy-wise, without this type of future-looking activity?

There is justification, too, for the 27½ per cent depletion allowance given oil producers.

That allowance is a credit against federal income taxes, and it exists because oil wells wear out and must be replaced. The Texas oil man who made the recent speech (referred to in the first paragraph) put it this way:

"The depletion provision is not a special tax exemption. It recognizes that when a producer sets out to discover new oil fields, the law of averages shows only one well will be found out of nine attempts. Manufacturing plants have a different set of amortization regulations. Such enterprises obtain every unit they purchase. They do not have to reach in a grab bag and hope they will be lucky enough to find a new machine after paying for nine."

The trouble seems to be, nation-wide, that the oil industry has not been as adept at selling its problems to the American public as it has been at finding and producing oil. When it sharpens up this phase of business—and that means your business and our business—there will be a change in the present antagonistic attitude toward the oil industry that is found in many sections of the United States. In modern parlance, this means getting the facts to the public through better public relations.—C.D.

THURSDAY to THURSDAY

By CHARLES DIDWAY
THIS IS A peculiar sort of a column. We're writing it just before leaving on a week's vacation, but it won't appear in print until after we have returned.

And if we keep sitting here like this—unable to think of something to put in it—it'll not only be a peculiar column, but it'll also be the shortest one on record.

THE REASON we've run out of "soap" is that we've just finished writing the column that appeared in last week's paper, which came out while we were gone. Confused? Brother, you're not the only one!

It has been our observation that owners of lost eyeglasses are about as hard to find as the proverbial needle in the haystack. During recent weeks, we've had two people call in about finding lost glasses. They were Mrs. W. H. Presson, who'd found what she believed to be a child's pair, and Mrs. T. C. Polk, who'd found a pair which she said appeared to have belonged to an elderly person.

ALL OF WHICH gives us a good chance to "plug" The Dispatch's classified advertising columns. They'll help finders and losers as well as buyers and sellers, landlords and renters.

Some of these scandal magazines are so bad the parakeet resents having the bottom of its cage lined with them.

WOULD ONE OF those experts who claim they understand the younger generation explain how the teen-age son can take the girl next door to a movie six blocks away, bring her straight home and put 43 miles on the speedometer in the process?

Since gaur, which is strictly a hot weather crop, has a number of backers in Garza County—John Lott, just to name you one—it won't be merely killing column space to remind farmers that the gaur planting season continues to July 15.

IT WILL ALSO be of interest because the bountiful rains have resulted in unfavorable conditions for the timely planting of spring and early summer crops and many farmers are running far behind schedule compared to the normal plan of operations.

Guar, a soil-conditioning summer legume, can be planted through June and the forepart of July as a combination soil-improving and cash crop offering substantial returns to the grower.

GUAR THRIVES when moisture is available for growth. The 1957 summer season promises excellent performance for guar and apparent assurance of crop production, even on lands following winter

Seed is in plentiful supply from wholesale seed houses and available through retail seed dealers. Plant guar like milo or hegarl, but at only five to six pounds per acre, and cultivate to keep fields clean. It harvests readily with standard combines.

"DUE TO NERVOUS tensions brought on by world conditions, many persons are afflicted with an inhibition of the pseudodiz protoplasmic prolongation of the neurospangium," says a psychiatrist whose mother must have been frightened by an unabridged dictionary.

Baritones still sing that they love life, but as prices keep going up it's getting to be an awfully expensive romance.

I just can't resist passing along this tid-bit found in The Andrews County News: "Rains are wonderful—and especially in West Texas. We suppose you heard about the farmer out at Lenora who drowned while going to the mail box to get his drouth relief check."

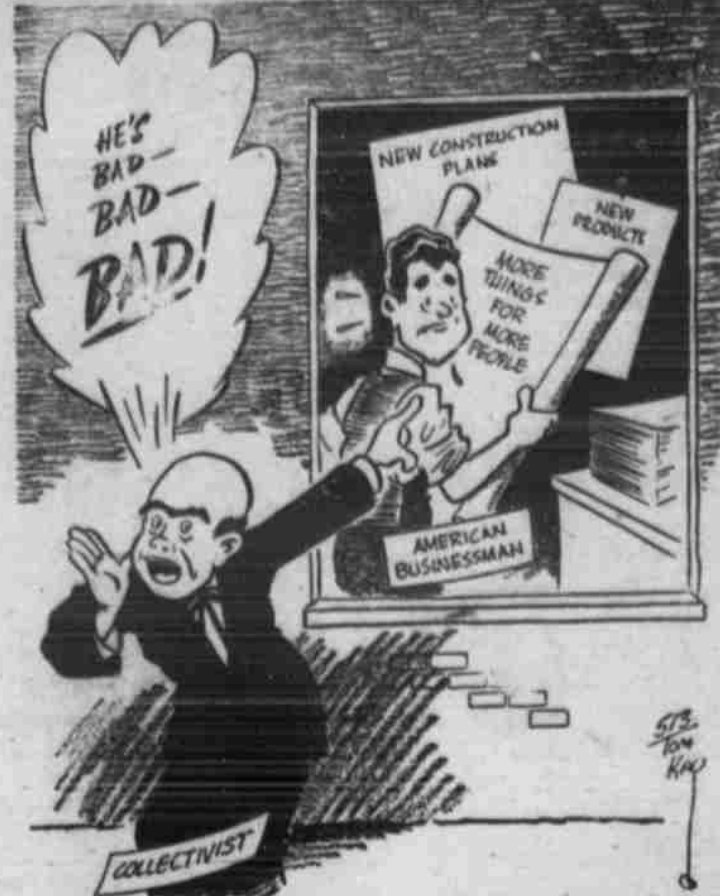

HERE'S something we've been carrying around in our billfold for a long time, neither practicing nor preaching, but it's always worth looking at to remind us of our shortcomings:

Bicarbonate, Mr. President?

Something's got to be done about the president's tummyache. Too many problems are being created. Major stocks dropped as much as eight points, which is bad for General Motors, and what's bad for General Motors is bad for the country. Too, we haven't been sleeping well lately, and the sand is beginning to blow. Farmers are late in planting, and unless the president's ailment is corrected, there is a possibility of an early frost this fall, and General Motors will be in even worse shape, etc., etc. Things seem to fall apart when the president's stomach gets upset. Our printer, Bill Lane, is quitting next week to peddle a famous GM product, and what's good for Bill is good for General Motors, etc., etc. We dropped dirt in the job ink the same day the president came down, and these weeds are taking us in for sure. You see why it's urgent to bicarbonate Mr. Eisenhower's stomach. It's killing us. "It Sez Here," from The Ralls Banner.

Speaking of Weeds

Weeds are growing so fast we can almost hear their joints popping. Some of them look like giant trees growing in a forest. When we say forest we mean so thick it would not be too surprising to see a jungle beast emerge at any time. To rid the premises of this behemoth weed family it will require the wielding of an ax or the pulling strength of a stump puller.

Obnoxious as weeds have been to home-owners in all the years past, at this stage of the game, and under what circumstances the weeds obtained their growth, this year they are a welcome sight. Had there not been the visit of frequent and heavy rainfall since April to the present, there wouldn't have been any weeds. We can put up with their luxuriant growth knowing what brought it on. Small Town People

The other day we were reading a sports column by Jimmy Cannon, writing from New York and it praised small town people. We were very much interested in the opinion expressed and agree most heartily.

Cannon noted that some fraudulently sophisticated city slickers lived under the assumption that small town people were to be ridiculed. We have always believed, as Cannon does, apparently, that small town people are the backbone of this country.

It is in the average small town, or city, and in the rural areas, that the real strength of the country lies. Of course, the cities have bright lights, many modern conveniences and other new fads, gadgets and entertainments that small-town life may not have.

On the other hand, the advent of the automobile, television and modern conveniences powered by electricity have made it possible for those living in small towns and in rural areas to have many of the things which formerly were available only in the cities, and to enjoy the many benefits of non-city life as well.

As to the people themselves, we say that most small town people, or rural folk, have a sort of dignity of simplicity which is both wholesome and refreshing, and which is one of the characteristic traits of the typical American. The city slicker is not smarter than he is, merely slicker. The Lamb County Leader.

Grassburr District is Consolidated

The Grassburr school district, containing some 73 square miles and a county property evaluation of approximately $240,000, has been consolidated into the Post Consolidated Independent school district.

County Superintendent Dean A. Robinson this week announced the consolidation action taken by the county board of education recently.

Robinson explained that Texas law provides that any school district which goes for two years without holding school becomes "dormant" and the county board is required to consolidate it with another district.

The Grassburr district, located 17 miles northeast of Post, has not held school for the last two school years.

The Twin Cities Chorus, of St. Paul-Minneapolis, recently asked if anyone would donate a piano. They were given an upright weighing 1,100 pounds. The donor confessed he couldn't fit the piano through the front door of his new home.

Vaccinations Of Local Dogs Urged

A very large percentage of the town's dogs have been vaccinated, but there are still a few who have not been. Miss Kate Lowrie, city secretary, asks that all dogs be vaccinated. A dog must be vaccinated and have tags before he can be licensed.

Many of the dogs have been vaccinated but haven't been licensed. These dogs are subject to pickup by the city dog catcher until they are licensed. A state law requires a dog in a city to be vaccinated, tagged, and licensed.

Governor Names Safety Sunday

AUSTIN—Governor Price Daniel has declared next Sunday as Safety Sunday throughout Texas and with the Texas Traffic Safety Council is petitioning ministerial alliances, individual ministers of all faiths, Sunday school teachers, church groups and youth workers to devote special emphasis to traffic safety next Sunday.

The objective of Safety Sunday is to cut down the terrific toll of death and injuries on Texas highways for the Fourth of July holiday next Thursday.

Last year, 12 persons were killed and more than 300 injured on Texas highways on the Fourth of July.

The idea of Safety Sunday originated with the Rio Grande Valley ministers and civic leaders as a method to encourage churches and Sunday schools of all denominations to help reduce the traffic slaughter.

Water Bond Vote To Be Aug. 17

Authorization of the $4,000,000 would not mean that the full $4,000,000 would necessarily be spent, the directors emphasized in their discussion. That much would be available, if needed.

Freese said his cost estimates for the project would "stand through this year and include steel price increases expected next month."

The engineer said he thought land cost figures used in his estimate were "okay."

Freese explained that a major income item for the water district until such time as full capacity is needed by the four cities might be selling water to oil companies in the Post area for "repressuring" of oil wells.

Pointing out that the proposed water project calls for construction of facilities capable of handling foreseen needs for the four towns 30 years in the future, Freese said that for many years a large water surplus would be available for outside sale.

He estimated that a million gallons of water daily could be profitably sold to the oil firms in the Post area on a contract basis which would provide that the oil companies would be cut off when and if the four towns needed the surplus water themselves.

The engineer said Post would have the pipeline capacity as now planned to sell oil firms here that amount of water and still take care of all local water needs. He predicted that such a surplus of water would exist until 1980 and then it would have to be cut in half.

Figuring at a 25 cents per thousand gallon rate minus a rebate on the cost of pipeline construction from the district pipelines to the oil firms' operational sites, Freese estimated the district would receive a profit of $64,000 annually by selling a million gallons a day to oil firms.

In answer to a question from Tom Bouchier, chairman of the board, Freese said the sale of the water to the oil companies would reduce the overall cost of the proposed water project from 55 cents per thousand gallons to water users, if no property tax is figured, down to 37 cents per thousand.

Freese said other water districts which build facilities for future community needs profitably sell surplus waters in the early years to help pay the cost of the project.

The engineer said he had checked with most of the eight or nine major oil companies operating in the Post area prior to the meeting and had found a strong likelihood that contracts could be made to sell the million gallons of water a day. The oil firms would pay the cost of the pipelines to their sites and then receive a small rebate on their water-purchases until this pipeline cost was paid out.

One company told Freese it is planning some new wells and would possibly need 5,000 barrels of water daily within five miles of Post. Another said there was a strong possibility it could use from 10,000 to 15,000 barrels of water daily for water flooding operations in about two years. Other firms expressed real interest.

Freese plans to follow up on the proposed sale of water to oil firms and see if commitments for guaranteed contracts could be given prior to the August bond election thus giving voters a good idea of how much such a plan would reduce cost of the water project to them.

Vinyard, the expert on water district financing brought to the meeting by Ransom Galloway of Lubbock, fiscal agent for the five bonding companies, told the directors that the engineer's proposition to sell surplus water to oil companies "certainly interests us", especially if guaranteed contracts from such firms for water can be secured. He said this would help sale of the water district bonds.

Vinyard said he would oppose a suggestion that only the water supply lake be built at present and the water pipelines added later. He explained that such a "lake plan only" would make the bonds extremely difficult to market. He termed such "a pretty expensive fishing hole."

He emphasized the bonds would be more saleable by completing the project in its entirety and thus providing tax and water revenue necessary to retire the bonds.

The water financing expert said the government agency, FHHA, which might buy $1,500,000 "junior bonds" look at the bonding proposition differently than do private investors. Its principal considerations, he said, are (1) whether a real need exists, (2) is it feasible, and (3) is there some chance of paying it off.

In answer to questions from the directors as to probable interest costs, Vinyard said "as of today"—and the market can change overnight—he thought the district could market $2,500,000 of its bonds to private investors for "five per cent or close to it." He said the government's rate on the "junior bonds" would be "not over five per cent and maybe a little lower." He explained the government doesn't place so much emphasis upon the borrower's ability to repay.

As for the future of interest rates, Vinyard could see "no relief in sight." He said it is the general consensus of opinion that interest rates on bonds will "go higher before leveling off."

In discussing the water project, it was pointed out that the district could lose its White River water rights if it did not move toward a bond election. Ralls is the only one of the four towns involved which doesn't have a pressing water need.

Bouchier declared he thought

"we ought to go ahead and submit the bond proposition to the people." He said it is always possible that some form of aid might develop in the future if the district had authorized financing and that the bond money would not have to be spent to the full amount unless needed.

"We could never get any assistance until we're in the position to receive it," he emphasized.

Dr. A. C. Surman, another board member from Post, asked for comment said: "With me it's not a question of what it costs, but can you get it. I always say if the people who live in West Texas can't be enthusiastic they ought to move away."

Several of the directors expressed concern over what they said was a "mistake" in originally estimating the cost of the water district project at $2,500,000 before the Oct. 27, 1956, confirmation election which carried by a 30 to one majority.

"We know better now," one said. "That was a mistake and let's admit it."

Actually the only mistake made then was in not explaining that the $2,500,000 was nothing more than an educated guess as no engineering surveys had been made at that time to help determine actual cost. Also since the $2,500,000 cost estimate was made, interest have costs jumped and plans have been made to anticipate the needs of the community for 30 years in advance.

If the surplus water can be sold oil companies the originally estimated cost of water will remain about the same, despite the increase in total cost.

The directors went into a 40-minute executive session in which they voted to call the bond election Aug. 17.

At the same time, they voted to name L. A. Wicks of Ralls as the board's attorney and appointed a publicity committee with Dr. Dale R. Rhoades of Crosbyton, a board member, as chairman.

Other members of the committee named were Jim Dendard of Ralls, Cary Lodal of Crosbyton, James Minor of Post, and Reese McNeill of Spur.

The equalization board of the water district reported that it has made good progress in two meetings to date toward working out plans for the equalization of property in the four towns and would meet again July 11.

The recreational committee chairman with a laugh told the directors as far as his committee is concerned "we're still underground." The people want water, not fishing and boating right now, he explained.

Also attending last Thursday's meeting from Post were Walter Duckworth, a member of the equalization board, Powell Shytle, a member of the land committee, and Jim Cornish Dispatch publisher.

THE ROSCOE, SNYDER AND PACIFIC

Texas Tech To Preserve Details Of Area's Fascinating Railroad

Texas Tech has been chosen to preserve details of one of history's most fascinating railroads—a 30-mile line linking two rail giants whose tracks stretch from coast to coast.

The midget corporation is the Roscoe, Snyder and Pacific Railroad and the minute books of the operation are being microfilmed for preservation in Tech's Southwest Collection.

Tech Associate Archivist Roy Sylvan Dunn said the acquisition is another instance of growing cooperation between a business and a college research center to preserve invaluable records.

Traffic from the east on the Santa Fe Railroad runs as far as Snyder. The tiny line then transports freight 30 miles to Roscoe to make connection with the Texas and Pacific Railroad for any journey farther west. The reverse is true of westbound traffic.

According to Roscoe-Snyder officials, 85 per cent of all traffic on the line is of this "bridge" type. The other 15 per cent is local. Officials also claim a substantial saving in time is effected on east-west and west-east traffic by using the short line's services. A car of freight is handled in the average time of one hour and 52 minutes.

The obvious question which enters the minds of most persons is, "But wouldn't it be more to the advantage of the two big rail companies to by-pass the little Roscoe-Snyder line and build a junction point?"

"No," according to Santa Fe and Texas-Pacific officials, "We stand to lose more than we could gain."

It seems the stature and prestige of the Roscoe-Snyder railway has grown so since its inception in 1906, that the big companies can't afford to be without the service.

The Roscoe-Snyder line employs between 18 and 20 solicitors in such key cities as Chicago; Pittsburgh, Pa.; Memphis, Tenn.; Oakland, Calif.; Los Angeles, Birmingham, Ala.; Washington, D.C.; Dallas and Houston. These solicitors, whose job it is to sell the services of the little 30-mile line, are pillars in their communities and form a public relations network so engrained that by-passing the little line would do more harm than good.

Reportedly, Santa Fe and Texas-Pacific officials find efficient services offered by the little line to their liking, also.

Many west coast shippers insist that when shipping onions, grapes, and certain other perishable items to Cuba through New Orleans, the Roscoe-Snyder line is safer and faster, and as much as eight hours in time alone can be saved in moving freight from west to east.

For in-and-out traffic on the Roscoe-Snyder line, Dallas and Houston have become the top ranking cities in Texas, and Los Angeles the number one point in the United States.

Citizens in the two Texas towns take as much pride in the line's operation as if it were a complete trans-continental railroad. The road was founded and chartered in 1906. The first train ran between the two cities in 1908. Company offices have always been operated by Roscoe citizens. This "homegrown" talent has proved very satisfactory.

The company also has its shops in Roscoe, and boasts some of the finest equipment in use today. Chief stockholders are the Wootens, Don Wooten, president and general manager, lives in Abilene. Several of the original workers are still with the line.

In recent efforts to get records of West Texas businesses, Tech has acquired the entire ranching-business records of the old Matador Land and Cattle Co. This newest acquisition furthers still this record-gathering process.

Post Teacher Studies Under Scholarship

Herman F. Raphael, Junior High School coach and teacher of social studies at Post, is enrolled this summer in a North Texas State College course at Denton designed to prepare teachers of driver education.

He is one of 10 graduate students who were awarded scholarships for the course from a $3,000 grant to NTSC by the Allstate Foundation. Other scholarships will be awarded in the second summer term.

TV Class For Teachers Planned

AUSTIN — The Texas Education Agency has chosen Dr. Arthur H. Moehlman, a University of Texas professor with broad teaching experience, to conduct 1957-58 television classes for public school teachers in its experimental "Teacher Recruitment and Education by Television" project.

The University has given Dr. Moehlman a leave of absence for the second summer term and the 1957-58 long session, allowing him to "star" in the TV series over a 16-station National Broadcasting Company hookup, originating at WBAP-TV, Fort Worth. His statewide "class" will include college graduates who lack full teacher certification but who are approved by TEA to teach next year under emergency permits.

The television course for the first time is open to selected liberal arts seniors enrolled in any Texas college or university. Persons holding at least a bachelor's degree continue to be eligible when accepted for enrollment by a Texas college or university. Each person may enroll at the college of his choice.

The Ford Foundation's Fund for the Advancement of Education is financing the experiment, which may help relieve Texas' critical teacher shortage. The Texas Project in Teacher Recruitment and Education by Television, launched last year, received an additional $84,320 grant from the Fund for 1957-58.

"TODOS BIENVENIDOS"
(Church located on Northeast side of town on Spur highway)

The Church may not have its name blazoned across every front page, but it is big news just the same.

From infancy to old age, the Church offers many things to each and every individual.

The Church introduces human beings to God.

The Church develops man's spiritual life through experiences of worship.

The Church emphasizes the beautiful through its architecture, its services, whether ritualistic or informal, its music.

The Church develops leaders through its many activities.

The Church broadens man's outlook through its work of sending the gospel to those in far-away places.

The Church exemplifies the brotherhood of man through the welcome it extends to all who believe.

Last, and most important of all, the Church offers salvation and the assurance of eternal life for every believer.

Big news—the Church! Can you afford to miss it?

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

450 Towns Not Previously Shown Are Listed On New Highway Map Of Texas

AUSTIN, (Spl.) — The official highway travel map of Texas, completely redrawn to include 450 towns not shown in previous years, has just been released by the Texas Highway Department, D. C. Greer, State Highway Engineer, announced today. These maps are being dispatched as rapidly as possible to fill a backlog of thousands of requests, and new requests are pouring in daily, Greer said.

One inch for inch, the map—which is possibly one of the most widely known travelogues of the state—gives more travel guidance about the largest state in the Union than any comparable printed matter of such handy size. A new cartographic system employed to produce the 1957 map made possible the addition of thirty per cent more information. Multi-lane highways, farm-to-market highways and state and federal highways are indicated. Key altitudes also are noted, and roadside parks as well as state parks are indicated. The new map contains more detailed information than its predecessors.

All streams and public lakes of major size are shown, and cities with a population of fifty thousand or more are mapped as a city inset. Color photographs on the back side of the map picture Texas' recreational, industrial and landscape attractions. A running account of Texas history and the state's natural resources, climate, size, recreational facilities and industries are included in the back-side information.

Greer estimated that approximately one-half of the map requests each year come from prospective out-of-state tourists. "Maps are available free," the State Highway Engineer commented, "and they may be secured either by writing direct to the Texas Highway Department, Austin, or to any of the departments district offices or to the Travel Information Bureaus maintained by the state."

Last Rites Are Held For William T. Rhea

Funeral services for William T. Rhea, 91, who died Monday in Garza Memorial Hospital, were conducted at 3 p.m. Tuesday at the Central Baptist Church, west of Post. The Rev. Buford Patton officiated, and interment was in the Grassland Cemetery under direction of Hudman Funeral Home.

Mrs. Frank Thomas sang "When They Ring Them Golden Bells" and led the choir in "Shall We Gather at the River?" and "In the Sweet Bye and Bye."

Marvin Troy Nash Buried At Dennis

Last rites for Marvin Troy Nash, 61, who died last Thursday at his home near Post, were conducted at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the Methodist Church in Dennis, near Weatherford.

A chapel service was conducted at 3 p.m. Friday at Mason Funeral Home before the body was taken to Dennis. The Rev. W. L. Porterfield, pastor of the First Methodist Church, officiated at the rites here.

Mr. Nash, who was born at Wortham, had resided in the Post vicinity for 12 years.

He is survived by his wife; two sons, D. B. and Truett Nash of Weatherford; two brothers, Granville Nash of Bluffdale and Porter Nash of Dennis, and three sisters, Mmes. Paul Barnett and Dwight Hitt of Fort Worth and Lois Mitchell of Dennis.

Five Gilts And Boar Presented Club Boys

Sears Foundation swine have been presented six Garza County 4-H Club boys in a continuation of the Foundation program, County Agent Lewis C. Herron said Wednesday.

Billy Bland of Route 1 received the Foundation boar, and the gilts went to Trent Smith and Glen Kiesel of Route 1, Ronnie Howell and David Ingram of Route 2 and Jimmy Neff of Post.

The animals will be shown at the annual Garza County Fair in September. The boar and the first place gilt will be exhibited later in the month at the annual district Sears Foundation Swine Show in Lubbock.

In the rotating program, each of the boys receiving gifts returns a pig from the first litter to the Foundation for awards to other club boys.

Lions Broom Sale Resumed Tuesday

Members of the Post Lions Club took another "stab" Tuesday toward completion of their off-delayed broom sale, but still have "a long way to go" to complete it, according to one of the members.

"By stretching it out over the next week or two, we ought to be able to complete it," said a spokesman for the club.

Reports on Tuesday's broom sale activities took up most of the time at the club's regular weekly dinner meeting Tuesday evening.

Originally scheduled for early spring, the sale has been postponed twice—both times because of inclement weather.

Part of the proceeds driven from sale of brooms, mops and other household items is retained by the club for its youth welfare work. The rest goes to the Lighthouse for the Blind, which furnishes the appliances.

Parade Of Graduates

Seeing all the graduates parading around so proudly in caps and gowns and broad smiles, brings home anew that old adage about tempus fugit and reminds us oldsters again that the sands of time continue their inexorable exit from the hour-glasses of our lives.—"Twilight Zone" in The Hamilton Herald-News.

(Continued From Front Page) gree on this scholarship if he maintains a satisfactory average of high grades. The scholarship by the big soap firm is for a chemistry major, which is just what Kenneth is planning to study. The youth was graduated from Post High School this spring as salutatorian of his class. He was a finalist in the national merit scholarship examinations. Kenneth was kept on pins and needles for three weeks before receiving word of the scholarship. It seems that three weeks ago he received a notice from Tulane of his admission as a student but the scholarship notice didn't arrive until three weeks later.

All next week Ralph Welch is having a grand opening event for his Welch's Texaco Service station, 515 N. Broadway. He is planning to give away 100 gallons of gasoline and five lubrication jobs to those who drive into his station during the week. This isn't Ralph's first service station, by the way, although most Post folks think of Ralph as a telephone repair man, a job he's had here for 10 or 11 years. Ralph operated a service station at Sterling City, Tex., some 30 years ago. He took over his Texaco station here from E. E. Gandy May 1.

Harold Lucas is leaving Caprock Chevrolet this weekend after many years of fine service with the local auto agency. He isn't announcing his plans until next week's Dispatch, but he says he intends to stay in Post—and stay in business.

John Lott brought his new Caprock Chevrolet sales manager, Claud Collier, Jr., in yesterday to introduce him. Collier is taking over the position held by Lucas. Collier is a pleasant fellow from Atoka, Okla., who explains he's been in the Chevrolet business "since I was nine years old." His dad owns the Chevrolet agency in Atoka. Claud is house hunting and will bring his wife, Virginia, and daughter, Kathryn, to Post as soon as he can find them a home. Claud arrived in Post Monday. We're convinced he's going to like Post and Post is going to like him.

A couple of business improvements to report this week. Maxine's (Durrett) Shop has a new modern glass front all completed. Over at Bob Collier's drug business was all but suspended yesterday to permit installation of a new fiberglass ceiling.

Tax Information Sought By District

The City of Post this week is mailing questionnaires for property re-evaluation for use in connection with the proposed White River lake and dam.

These inquiries are being mailed residents of each of the four cities in the White River Municipal Water District—Post, Spur, Crosbyton and Ralls.

Walter Duckworth, who is the Post member on the district's tax equalization board, said that following the survey, the information compiled in each city will be compared, in order to arrive at an equalization of taxes in the district.

Those receiving the forms are requested to fill them in and mail or take them to the City Hall here.

Approximately 300 of the forms had been mailed up to Wednesday. Duckworth estimates that "between six and seven hundred" of the questionnaires will be mailed in Post.

Bumper Year Seen For Texas Cotton

AUSTIN (Spl.) — "The most promising spring moisture situation in a number of years," together with "spectacular irrigated production," could lead to a bumper year for Texas cotton in 1957, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research says.

Planting for this year's crop is completed in the Lower Rio Grande Valley and well under way in the Coastal Bend, South Central and Trans-Pecos areas. Substantially all of Texas' cotton acreage will be under cultivation by the end of June.

Acreage allotments for the state are 7,563,000, slightly above the 1956 allotment of 7,420,000 acres. In 1956, participation in the Soil Bank was heavy and only 6,225,000 of these acres were harvested. (Abandonment also contributed to the decrease, the Bureau points out.)

manager, are the only "veterans" left in that business.

Plenty of July sales are coming up and Franleigh Fashions leads off with that firm's big mid-summer clearance.

Norman Morgan, the photographer, is going to give away $300 worth of fine cameras and oil colored portraits in a new Morgan studio promotion. The prizes will be awarded on the Tower Theatre stage at the close of the contest. First prize is a 35mm Ansco camera complete with leather carrying case, flash gun, and traveler case.

The Correct Choice Of Wedding Dress Is Important Decision

With weddings becoming more numerous this time of the year, we have the answers for the brides-elect concerning the wedding gown.

The wedding outfit is the most important one a girl will ever select. It's a good idea to make sure that it's becoming and in good taste even though you may be carried away by an unusual style. So many young girls marry early during the figure-fault period that care must be exercised in choosing the dress. Tall girls may look gawky rather than willowy during the teen years. Short girls may look pudgy rather than curvesome.

These figure problems may be helped with the right wedding dress, however.

Tall girls may wear ruffles and very full skirts. Height gives her the right to wear many kinds of fabrics—imported swiss organdy, silk orgazine, tulle, lace, taffeta, satin, silk peau doe sou, silk shantung.

Chubby girls may choose from a number of fabrics such as youthful swiss organdy that may help minimize her size. Lace, tulle and taffeta are Juene Fille fabrics that are usually a success on chubby types. Satin is not always flattering, but no matter what fabric is selected, final choice depends on the style.

Style is important if there is a figure problem. Heavy girls should look for long lines such as a princess style or one with a long panel down the front to give a long line. Ballerina length dresses are good for informal weddings, floor length for afternoon weddings, long formal gowns with trains for formal weddings. The dress may be white, off-white, blush, ivory or ice-blue.

The veil should be in keeping with the dress. Choose a shoulder length and elbow length for the short dress. The headpiece could be a crown, cap or of imported orange blossoms. If real lace is available, it is very beautiful with a plain silk dress. Headpieces may be made of the same material as the dress.

A single strand of pearls with small pearl button earrings are the most popular accessories for bridal wear. Rhinestones, gold, silver or other types of jewelry should not be worn.

Merrymakers Meet Tuesday

The Merrymakers Club met with Mrs. G. N. Leggett Tuesday afternoon with nine members and one guest, Mrs. H. B. Conner, of Graham present.

The afternoon was spent visiting and gift day was observed. The members exchanged gifts and those having birthdays or anniversaries the past three months were remembered.

Refreshments of party sandwiches, lemon pie, mints, nuts and cold drinks were served to the following members: Mmes. Wren Cross, Bonnie Adamson, Alice Parsons, Dave Sims, Arthur Floyd, Lottie Peel, H. F. Wheatley, J.F. Storie, and H. B. Conner.

The next meeting will be July 9, with Mrs. Alice Parsons.

Cotton Acres—

(Continued From Front Page) the cotton acreage remeasured, he may deposit a fee of $9 per farm to pay the expense of remeasuring the acreage. If the remeasurement reduces the cotton acreage sufficiently to bring the acreage within the farm allotment, the fee will be refunded.

The office manager said operators who wish to destroy cotton to effect compliance on overplanted farms may call at the county office and deposit a fee of $2 per farm plus $2 for each plot over one plot, and the acreage destroyed will be measured.

"Regulations provide," said Mrs. Brister, "that only two over-planted notices may be mailed to each farm. If the farm cotton acreage is in excess of the allotment after the second measurement, the farm will be considered over-planted and a penalty will be due on the over-planted acreage."

Hearings Are Under Way On PCG-Backed Cotton Proposal

LUBBOCK (Spl.)—Four bills pertaining to increased farm income and expanded markets for cotton have been introduced recently in Congress. Of primary interest to South Plains cotton producers is the bill introduced by Cong. Paul C. Jones (D. Mo.).

It is the bill that the Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., was instrumental in developing at meetings held last month in Memphis, Tenn., with other groups of the American Cotton-Producer Associates.

Cong. Thomas Abernathy (D. Miss.), co-authored the bill in the House, and Sen. Stuart Symington (D. Mo.), is to introduce the bill in the Senate.

Hearings on the bill are to begin Friday in the House. George W. Pfeiffenberger, Lubbock, executive vice president; Wilmer Smith, New Home, vice president, and W. L. Edelman, Friona, member, will represent the Plains Cotton Growers at these hearings.

The PCG-backed bill calls for five main points:

1. Establishment of national marketing quota of not less than estimated consumption, plus exports.

2. A "domestic percentage" shall be determined by dividing the domestic consumption and exports into the domestic consumption. This percentage shall be applied to each farm to obtain the domestic allotment.

3. Level of price support at 95 per cent of average world price as estimated by Secretary of Agriculture.

4. Equalization payments on domestic portion of crop to be made by the first buyer (who would be reimbursed by CCC) in amount equal to difference between average spot market price or support level, whichever is higher, and 90 per cent of parity, but, if funds are not available for carrying out this provision, price support would be set in accordance with present variable formula.

5. Producer would be eligible for participation in the Soil Bank only if he reduced acreage below 1937 allotment.

Pfeiffenberger, in explaining the bill, said that it is the general consensus that the national marketing quota would be estimated approximately 9 million bales domestic and 5 million bales export.

In point 2 the domestic percentage is figured by assuming the domestic estimate to be 9 million bales and the export to be 5 million, total 14 million. The domestic percentage would then be 9-14.

Each farmer's allotment would be divided into the domestic allotment of 9-14 of his total and the export allotment would be the remainder.

For example, if a farm had 140 acres total allotment, there would be 90 acres for domestic and 50 acres for export, he explained.

Point 3 mentions the level of price support. This would be 5 per cent below the world estimated price which is believed to be about 27 or 27 1/2 per pound. This would make the loan at about 26 cents. It is believed this loan will help hold up the world price and also put a floor under the cost to the government, Pfeiffenberger said.

Point 4 concerning equalization payments was explained: "In the original bill it was proposed that the government make direct subsidy payments to the farmer. This was not satisfactory to all groups working on the bill and it was decided that in order to avoid limitations as much as possible the subsidy payments would be made to the buyer, who will in turn make them to the farmer or producer." Pfeiffenberger said the PCG does not agree with the wording of the bill that adjustments in the subsidy itself are necessary for various qualities and locations, because this would be taken care of by the differences in the market price. He added representatives will oppose this item in preliminary meetings in Washington.

The last point of the bill, concerning the Soil Bank, was included to take care of commitments of the government on the Soil Bank. It means that anyone participating in increase of acreage would not be permitted to enter the Soil Bank. On the other hand, if he so elected farmers could go into the Soil Bank but would not participate in additional acreage through this plan, Pfeiffenberger concluded.

Garza Farmers May Get FHA Loans For Farm Home Work

Eligible farm owners in Garza County may borrow from the Farmers Home Administration to build or repair farm houses and other essential farm buildings, Joseph E. Box, the agency's county supervisor serving local farm families, said today.

He said the farm housing loans were made available under legislation for the 1936-37 fiscal year. A total of $50,000,000 has been provided for these loans.

Interest on the loans will be 4 percent per year on the unpaid principal. Repayments will be scheduled over periods up to 33 years.

A housing loan will be secured by a mortgage on the borrower's farm.

The agency expects applicants to obtain the building plans and specifications for the improvements to be financed with the loans. To help the borrower obtain construction that meets generally accepted standards of soundness, the Farmers Home Administration will review the plans and inspect the construction as it progresses.

The local Farmers Home Administration county committee will determine whether or not an applicant is eligible for a housing loan. To be eligible, an applicant must be the owner of a farm, be unable to obtain suitable credit for dwellings and other buildings from lenders, and have enough income from the farm and other sources to meet family living and farm operating expenses and repay his debts.

Farm housing loans are made under the authority of Title V of the Housing Act of 1949, as amended.

Further information on the loans may be obtained at the county office of the Farmers Home Administration located in the Hamilton Building in Post on Wednesday of each week.

$6,764 In Bond Sales For May

T. R. Greenfield, chairman of the Garza County Savings Bonds Committee, reports that Savings Bonds sales in this county were $6,764 during the month of May. Sales during the first five months of 1937 were $47,429 or 34.1% of our year's goal.

Sales in Texas were $13,840,433 during May which was an increase of $260,000 over the month of April. The State of Texas has now reached 37.6 per cent of its 1937 goal.

"I feel that if every citizen of Garza County will buy an extra bond during the remainder of 1937 our county will reach its goal. There is no safer investment than U.S. Savings Bonds since both the principal and interest are fully guaranteed by our government. Savings Bonds now earn 3 1/2% interest compounded semi-annually when held to maturity, and they now mature in eight years and eleven months," Chairman Greenfield concluded.

PLATE COLLECTION—Mrs. Nell Connell McCrary and her granddaughter, Pam McCrary, are looking at some of the interesting items in Mrs. McCrary's plate collection at her home at 915 West Main. During the last 35 years, Mrs. McCrary has collected more than 400 plates from all sections of the globe. At the right on the top shelf is a portrait plate of William Shakespeare, which came from the bard's home, Stratford-on-Avon, England.—(Staff Photo).

Outstanding Plate Collection Is Owned By Post Resident

By BARBARA WHEATLEY

A plate from the Galvez Hotel, 35 years ago, was the inspiration for Mrs. I. N. McCrary's interesting hobby of collecting plates. Of her more than 400, she prizes her historical set most highly. Among the reasons for the beauty of antique plates is the color used during the different periods. In the last several years, the formula for the blue used in some of the china has been lost.

Mrs. McCrary's collection has come from all over the world. Most of the plates were given to her as a gift for some special occasion or when friends would remember her on their visits to different countries. Among her collection from other countries one will find a cup and saucer from Italy; a set of portrait dinnerware from Canada; a number of small plates from Germany that her son sent her when he was in the service there; a plate from Egypt which features a desert scene with a sphinx in the background; a dozen plates with pictures of the buildings that were bombed in England; a tea set which pictures different characters of Dickens' novels and a plate with all of his characters on it; a plate with a picture of Admiral Dewey during the Spanish-American War, made in Liverpool; a plate of the coronation, with Queen Elizabeth's picture on it, which was sent from England.

Mrs. McCrary possesses a gold plate with an untitled picture in the center. This beautiful plate is set in a shadow frame of antique blue velvet and framed with solid gold. This plate is the most valuable one she has as far as monetary value is concerned. One of her most interesting pieces is a loving cup from the table of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth, which was obtained for her in Canada.

A Chinese washerman gave her mother an old Chinese bowl filled with lilies. Mrs. McCrary has since tried to purchase more of these bowls and has found they are priceless. Another quite valuable piece is an heirloom belonging to her husband's grandmother; it is Lustre china.

Many of Mrs. McCrary's plates are over 100 years old. A very interesting item is the bottom of a bread basket of Marie Antoinette china. Even though very few portraits of Rembrandt exist, in her home you will find a copy of a painting he did of himself while looking in a mirror. A very rare piece of Beehive china pictures angels by Millet. An old plate, made in 1885, of a bishop in Manchester is also on display in her china cabinet. Another very old, very fine piece of china she has is called Meisen.

Mrs. McCrary owns some actual plates from historical buildings across the United States. President McKinley's nephew, who is a very good friend of the Post woman, presented her with a piece of his uncle's dinnerware from the White House. It pictures President McKinley in the center. Another impressive item is a plate from Monticello, President Jefferson's home. Mrs. McCrary is quite fortunate in having a piece of china from William Shakespeare's home in Stratford-on-Avon, England.

Some very old china, Mason's Ironstone, which hasn't been made in over 100 years, is displayed in the form of a half-dozen plates. If you don't remember Pike's Peak in 1903, you'll find it perfectly pictured on a plate in Mrs. McCrary's home. Of interest to high school graduates would be a set of plates, each picturing a different college

Area Man Charged With Cattle Theft

Following recovery recently of one of the animals, there's still one cow missing of four which tumbled out of a truck 16 miles east of Post last March during a sandstorm.

Sheriff Carl Rains said a charge of cattle theft was filed against Harold Seawright of Lubbock following recovery of the third cow. The first two were recovered earlier—one at Slaton and one at Southland.

Seawright made bond of $1,000 on the charge, which was filed in district court here.

ROGER BABSON'S AUTHENTIC STATEMENT

Texas Cattle May Be Fattened At Home—Thanks To Gibberellins

NEW BOSTON, N.H. — For several years a member of my organization has been attending the annual Chemurgic Conferences in the Central West. These meetings are to help farmers market their crops for industrial purposes and not merely for food. People will always be able to spend money on food, shelter, and luxuries, but a rich person can eat no more than a poor person and probably not as much. However, the percentage of fruits and green vegetables consumed increases considerably more than the demand for wheat, corn, potatoes, and other staples. Progress along chemurgic lines will increase the value of much farm property.

Atomic wonders may revolutionize farming. There is much discussion in newspapers today about the dangers of "fall-out" after the explosion of a hydrogen bomb. It is feared that these "fall-outs" may result in the birth of babies with two heads or with some other deformity. This would be very unfortunate for people, and might also affect cattle and fowl; but atomic farming may be a worthwhile new development in the case of agricultural products.

The spraying of fruit and other trees to kill destructive insects may be entirely changed. Instead of being sprayed as at present, they will be sprayed with electrical rays. This will enable the birds to come back again. These birds will soon kill off insects and enable the chemurgic cycle to progress as God intended.

Some years ago the Japanese noticed that plants which adjoined a plant with a certain fungus had a remarkable growth. This was found amongst the rice plants especially. Later this fungus was reduced to an acid and used in the ratio of 0.1 to 10 parts per million parts of solution (usually potassium salts and water). Exhibitions are reported where you can almost see the plant grow from hour to hour. The sprays are fairly cheap and—although not yet passed by the Food and Drug Administration—yet they may revolutionize fertilizers. Instead of mixing chemicals with the soil, the seeds, sprouts, and leaves of the plant are sprayed.

Experiments show that this spraying results in taller forest trees, better yields for pulpwood, and improved fiber crops, such as cotton. Gibberellins also lengthen the stems of flowers, hasten development of transplants, and reduce the work of farmers and gardeners.

Gibberellins make grass greener in pastures. In Florida, where ten acres are now needed to pasture cattle, only three acres may be needed with the use of Gibberellins. Texas cattle may be fattened in their native pastures instead of being sent to Kansas or other Central States for fattening. It is rumored that Gibberellins may reduce the price of the best steaks to one half their present price. In fact, the entire price structure of cattle, hogs, and other grass-fed animals may be revolutionized.

But this is not all that the Gibberellins can do. They may make the raising of fruit, corn, and other products which are subject to frosts a safer business by extending the growing season.

Although these developments discussed above may hold down the price of farm products, they could easily increase the price of farm land. Don't be too quick to sell your farm land. This especially applies to small farms near cities where the land could be divided up for residential properties.

Also, remember that the new highway systems to be built by the government may elongate cities. That is, instead of a city being 5 miles square as the average city is today, it will be one-half mile wide on each side of the new highway and 10 miles long. This should greatly improve the price of certain unprofitable farm land. Besides, you will mention: Cerium, Erbium, Europium, Promethium, Samarium, Thulium, Ytterbium.
