'NEW LOOK' IN SHEETS, PILLOW CASES DUE SEPT. 1

Mill Plans Production Percalé Goods

Manufacture of percalé sheets and pillow cases at Postex Mills, Inc., will get under way around Sept. 1 as still another step in the mill's expansion program, R. J. (Rube) Jennings, president, said this week.

The percalé sheets and pillow cases will be in addition to the white and colored muslin products now being turned out at the mill.

Jennings said. Currently, the mill is producing around 10,000 dozen sheets and 8,000 dozen pillow cases a week. These figures, however, more or less represent the average, Jennings said, with production marks some weeks topping those amounts.

The mill's recent expansion program has made it possible to boost production considerably above present figures, but cloth has not been available in sufficient quantities to bring this about, the mill president said. Putting on of a large truck to haul colored cloth from the dye plant at Pepperell, Ala., and white cloth from Sherman will help boost production, he explained.

Jennings said the present labor force and equipment at the mill is sufficient to handle the new production of percalé goods next September.

The mill president left Monday afternoon for Greenville, S. C., in connection with plans for the stepped-up production and other mill business. He was to be gone about a week.

TRUCK SPEEDS MILL OPERATIONS—Now shuttling back and forth between the Pepperell, Ala., dye plant, Sherman, Tex., cloth mill and Postex Cotton Mill here is this huge diesel truck, carrying the name of the county and the local mill's products over wide area of the South. The truck service, by bringing more cloth from the Alabama and Sherman plants, has enabled the Post mill to step up its operations in its new expansion program.—(Staff Photo).

White River Board Preparing To Call Important Elections

Water contract and bond election dates are scheduled to be set at the June meeting of the White River Municipal Water District, Tom W. Bouchier, chairman of the board of directors, said here today.

Bouchier said calling of the two elections was discussed at the board's May meeting held here last Thursday. He said the directors are of the opinion that both elections can be held at the same time.

The purpose of the bond election will be to vote bonds for construction of the dam and other facilities and construction of pipe lines to the member cities of Post, Spur, Crosbyton and Ralls.

The water contract elections will be for the purpose of determining if citizens of each of the four cities wish to purchase the water to be provided by the proposed project.

Bouchier said it is believed that the elections will be called for early August.

The chairman also said that there has been no indication of any of the member cities dropping out of the district because of the engineers' increased cost estimate announced a few weeks ago.

The new estimate on cost of the lake, dam and other facilities is $3,484,800.

Directors said that the approximately one million dollar increase over the previous estimate is due to an increase in scope of the project, an increase in the costs of material and labor since the earlier estimate, and common errors in the earlier figures because many of them could be set only by guesswork.

The "increases in scope" which the engineer pointed out in his report to the directors included such items as:

1. 3,600 acres more land will be needed than at first estimated.
2. Twenty feet of sand must be removed from the river bed.

3. A three-to-one instead of a two-to-one slope must be made in the width of the dam at the base to withstand more flood water.

4. A projection of populations in the participating cities show a need for larger pipe lines.

Getting Out On The Limb

By EDDIE the editor

SUDDEN THOUGHT: Some men never change their opinion because it's been in the family for generations.

Some wise guy said, "The new cars of today look like two sharks getting ready to mate."

WHILE THE TV and radio stations are doing a good job of scaring the pants off people with their tornado alerts, I'd like to suggest that they make their tornado safety education campaigns a year-round deal.

I've observed that the usual pattern this tornado season is for the TV announcers to scare the day-lights out of us ordinary folks with a tornado alert and then spend three-fourths of the rest of the time telling us what to do if one strikes. You can't educate a person who is already panicked, so I'm suggesting here that they keep telling us what to do even after the tornado season is over.

Now don't misunderstand me... I am not criticizing TV and radio for their tornado alerts. Anything that will awaken us to the approach of a twister is a good thing, and I'd be one of the last to suggest that such alerts be dispensed with. I'm merely suggesting that the modus operandi be changed in such a manner that while we're trying to decide whose storm cellar to invite ourselves into we won't have to stop our mad rush to listen to the 10 or so cardinal points of tornado safety. It's like trying to lock the barn door after the horse is halfway out.

All joking aside, when it comes to panic, that's something none of us should allow ourselves to become. Cool heads are needed at such times. Here in Post, it might be well to remember that we've been very fortunate in escaping the brunt of the destructive tornadoes and windstorms which have buffeted the South Plains area this year and in previous years. Of course, there's a first time for everything, but let's fake stock of the situation:

I have lived in Post for forty years, and in all that time there has been only one death attributed to high winds. That unfortunate occurrence came in 1917 when an infant was killed in a high wind—not generally believed to be a tornado—which struck a Roy E. Fox tent show while the performance was in progress. The most extensive property damage occurred two years ago this June when a hard wind struck following an afternoon hail storm. Property losses ran into the thousands of dollars, and I'll admit that we were fortunate that no serious injuries or loss of life occurred. That time, too it appeared to be a severe windstorm instead of a tornado.

I might also add that during the forty years I've lived in this immediate section, loss of life and limb—to say nothing of property damage—from automobile accidents has been much greater than in some of the tornado disasters we've had on the South Plains.

It would be the height of folly to say that one can accurately predict where a tornado will strike after one forms, but some towns have more natural protection than others. Post, for instance, would appear to be better protected than towns and cities on the plains, where nature has thrown up no ramparts which might ward off a twister. That's a point in our favor, but I'll repeat that it is no assurance that a twister won't dip down here.

So I'll go along with those who say tornado alerts are musts. An ounce of prevention is always worth a pound of cure, except that in the case of tornadoes, there is no way to prevent them. The best thing to do is keep our heads when we are alerted, watch the skies and take every precaution possible. And, all that will be hard to do if we are in a state of panic.

In the meantime, let's hope the TV and radio stations keep scaring the hell out of us while the tornado season is on, but that they not forget to occasionally remind us what to do while we're sitting around waiting on the next alert... It'll do more good that way than it will to start telling us what to do while we're dashing hither and yon and bumping into each other.

THE WOMEN, bless 'em: There's something feminine about a tree. It does a strip tease in the fall, goes with bare limbs all winter, gets a new outfit every spring, and lives off the saps all summer.

"Some of it sounds better than the other, but music is the one language about which you can not say a mean thing."

A RESIDENT of the Lone Star State, I'm one of those who'll argue at the drop of a sombrero that there just ain't no limits in Texas. And when I run across stories like this, I know we're making headway in letting the world know that Texas never sits down long enough to take a back seat to any state, country or principality.

PARIS (AP)—The Paris newspaper Le Figaro, which has been enlightening its readers on the MODERN HIEROGLYPHICS...

Approximately 130 Post youngsters are about to graduate from grade and high school. Nationwide, the figure is about two million. In addition, approximately 800,000 will be receiving sheepskins from our colleges and universities. And thirty-million others, from kindergarten sprats to college juniors, will be moving up the scholastic scale.

This is an impressive nationwide spectacle, this semi-annual heaving of the yeast of practically universal education. We are further impressed when we hear of the wide range of subjects in which youngsters of even tender years are now instructed, such matters as economics, psychology, music-appreciation, art and the "life adjustment" courses such as how to behave on a date or tune a radio or select phonograph records. But it's discouraging to learn from the Handwriting Foundation that thousands of these graduates can't write—so anyone else can read it!

Maj. Gen. Paul A. Disney, who is in charge of Army training at Fort Knox, Ky., is distressed at the shortcomings of the recruits sent to him from all over the nation. "These high school graduates can't spell, their English composition is bad and their handwriting is in the form of hieroglyphics," he told a Washington P-TA group visiting the camp recently. "Schools are teaching a lot of fancy things and not enough of the Three R's."

Business, like the Army, is having to teach high school graduates, boys and girls alike, "a lot of things they should have learned at home or in the public education system" before they are ready to handle a job. Even so, says the Foundation, business losses run into the millions every year because store clerks, who have made a sale, can't write the name and address of the purchaser so it can be delivered; because salesmen can't write the orders they sell so they can be correctly filled. And telephone companies are running schools for long distance operators to teach the girls how to write charge slips that the billing departments can make out.

In letting up on the Three R's, in curtailing or omitting such studies as algebra, geometry, physics, chemistry, foreign languages, even history, some school people are making life pretty easy for the kids while they're in school—and mighty tough when they get out.

And soon, through lack of qualified workers, this panty-waist education will have made it impossible to carry on the nation's economy or implement its defense.

of most of the boys. She'd sold all but three of her papers. Linda Gail isn't a regular member of our salesmen staff. She said she was substituting for her 10-year-old brother, Gary, who had the mumps. "And when you sold Gary's papers that other time, where was he then?" we asked. "Oh, that was one day when he had to go to the hospital," answered Linda Gail.

SUCH SISTERS ARE pretty good sickness insurance, aren't they, Gary?

THE CITY OF Crosbyton, only one year younger than the City of Post, is making plans to stage a three-day celebration of its 50th anniversary in June of 1958. Meanwhile, steering committee members of the Post celebration, scheduled for September, report plans are making headway for our Golden Jubilee celebration. Arrival in June of a representative from the producing company will see the pieces start falling in place even faster, the committeemen say.

Roger W. Babson Writes This Week:

Ideal Trust Fund Method Is To Leave Half Your Money In Trust, Other Half Outright

BABSON PARK, Mass.—I believe in Trust Funds, for both children and grandchildren. The ideal method is to leave one half of your money in trust, and one half outright. In the case of children or grandchildren, you save an inheritance tax by leaving the money in trust for them and providing that your wife will have a life interest in the income. There are three reasons for forming such trusts: (1) For the protection of your estate; (2) for the saving of inheritance taxes; and (3) to be sure your children and grandchildren get what you want them to have. All of this will be explained to you without charge by the trust officer of any bank.

What About Diversification? A trust officer will properly diversify your holdings as to securities. This is also true of any money you put into Mutual Funds. Such Trust Funds, however, do not provide for diversification of management. My appeal this week is that you have several Trust Funds, each in a different bank so as to get diversification of management, as well as diversification of securities.

Trust officers are supposed to protect you against inflation. To do this they buy either convertible bonds or common stocks. Buying common stocks today, however, may be rather risky. This especially applies to the "Blue Chips," which trust officers like to buy in order to protect their own reputations. This also applies to bankers and committees who are investing Pension Funds for corporations. Few of these trustees invest with the idea of making a profit for you or your heirs, but rather with the sole purpose of providing safety and protection against possible inflation.

Investing For Profit In previous weeks this column has shown how you can build $10,000 up to $1,000,000 in 25 years without borrowing any money or without buying anything on margin. This would be by investing in new industries before the brokers and the public woke up to their possibilities. To accomplish this I believe that the $10,000 should be divided into four Trust Funds of $2,500 each in order to get competition between the different Trustees. A bank does not wish to be bothered with such small Trust Funds. Hence, it will be practically impossible to get four banks to do this. This means that you must get four individuals to serve as Trustees.

These individuals should be young college instructors,—one in physics, one in chemistry, one in biology, and one in business administration. If you have a son or daughter who is in college, have him or her pick out four bright, forward-looking instructors to serve as such trustees. Otherwise, write the United Information Service, 4 Maiden Lane, New York City, which will help you. These individuals should be paid a good commission for their services, based on the results which they secure for you. This will make them more interested in serving you. Having a number of trustees will also create competition and rivalry between these four college instructors.

Importance Of Youth

I advise a selection of young college instructors, rather than older professors, because the older men are usually more interested in their own reputations and have more fear of making a mistake. The Trust Agreements will, however, provide that the Trustees will not be held responsible for any losses. It will be assumed that one or two of the four trustees will lose money; but your goal will be in the total result of the four. No one person can foresee in advance which of the four will "hit the jackpot." This is the principle upon which you must work if you expect to turn $10,000 into $1,000,000 in 25 years.

I am interested in having young people as Trustees for these "speculative" funds for another reason. Older men are constantly looking backward rather than forward. They want to see the audits of companies for previous years.

Bright Windows

Cold rain glistened on the stone walls of the great house and raced in copper gutters below the eaves. Tall trees swayed with the wind against the turbulent darkness that writhed with fog. Windows glowed faintly through expensive drapes. A short distance away light blazed from the windows of a laborer's home where the forms of small children moved quickly at play. But the night was hiding the homes behind an ebony screen and allowing only the light of windows to shine. # Toothpaste And Shave Cream Arouses Dozers On Senior Trip

By MRS. JACK BROWN

The thing we have been looking at and working toward for the last 12 years is over.

The Senior Trip has come and gone.

The trip was a howling success. No accidents and no one did anything to cause embarrassment to parents, school or town.

At 4:15 a.m. Wednesday in front of the high school there was considerable confusion selecting a bus that was transporting the most fried chicken. Next came the scramble to find an interested he or she who would share the chicken and bus ride.

I might add right here that we had wonderful bus drivers. It was rumored that they considered us tops. Tops of what, I don't know.

At 11 a.m. we arrived at Burnet for a trip into Longhorn Cavern. Some of you may not realize it, but some of our seniors are allergic to artificial light when in a cavern.

The tour was uneventful, but noisy. At 12:30 the last person had been accounted for and we were released from the cavern to journey on to Mission Valley Guest Ranch and the cold chicken before starvation overtook us.

Arriving at the guest ranch was quite exciting. More confusion, bag grabbing, etc. Everyone was anxious to take a dip in the beautiful swimming pool that was to be ours for the next two days.

Thursday at 7 a.m., some inconsiderate soul came to our doorstep ringing a bell (my ears still ring), only to announce that breakfast was being served.

An interesting highlight of the day was the Aquarene in San Marcos. The aquamaids were very generous in their light for those who wished to take pictures. These highly skilled performers produced aquatic shows that were unsurpassed in their beauty.

Friday and Saturday were spent sight-seeing in San Antonio and Corpus Christi.

We were glad everyone was so agreeable. Anytime we decided to do anything, we never had more than 53 different opinions on the matter. After much effort on the part of Burl McCoy we would get the seniors in two and sometimes three bunches—divide chaperones and be on our way.

A Senior Trip is a very educational thing; some of the things we learned were:

That the women sponsors had some photographs made while in San Antonio. Who can verify this?

That Jim Brewer has an abundance of charm for all of the strange girls and a tremendous ability to be in all of the pictures.

That Lexa, Kenneth, Howard and Gary can paddle and rattle down the San Antonio River.

That it wasn't at all funny when Leslie got thrown in the pool.

That it was a little funnier when Allan was pushed in.

That by the time Gary was thrown in it was hilarious.

That Sue Maxey and Bachie Morris have agreed to represent the senior class in the rodeo, but they have to keep their horses separated—they fight.

That people thought the South had risen again when the buses approached with Confederate flags waving.

An interesting highlight of the trip was the deep-sea fishing expedition where the boys spent most of their time with their heads hanging over the rail instead of fishing. Among the catch was a stingray.

We couldn't figure out why it was when anyone went to sleep on this trip they were rudely awakened by an ear full of shaving cream or a mouth full of toothpaste.

We also don't know why Noel required more sleep than anyone else.

Who would be interested in challenging yours truly and Mrs. Morris to a miniature golf game? It's hard to believe that on the first attempt we each won free games. In view of this, we are considering turning pro.

Anyone having flowers to press should take them to Allan Louise, she can do it while you wait.

B. A. Ford reminded us of a wealthy playboy relaxing on the beach.

We had fun!

We slipped back into Post very quietly about 8:30 Sunday night—all dirty, half dead, half roasted and all unrecognizable.

Babson Says—

These audits are more like autopsies. They are useful in helping a person to save his money; but are of very little use in helping him make a fortune by investing in new industries. Youth looks forward; youth is willing to take a chance; and youth is the hope of America, especially as to new developments and new industries. I would also like to see one of these Trustees a young woman. The President of the well-known investment house, A. M. Kiddor & Co., is a woman. In fact, the majority of our nation's stockholders are women.

Investing For Profits

This is especially important for people in high income brackets who are compelled to pay a tax of 50% or more on general income but would need to pay only 25% on profits from securities. Furthermore, I am not advising that all your Trust Funds be of a speculative nature specializing in new industries. If, however, you plan to leave $50,000 to some grandchild in trust, I certainly advise that $10,000 of this be left with four forward-looking trustees, leaving the remaining $40,000 in a Trust Fund with a bank, to be operated in the usual orthodox manner.

FORT STOCKTON GUESTS

Wynelle, Larry and Annette Mills spent May 11, Annette's birthday, and May 12, Mother's Day, in Fort Stockton with their mother and grandmother, Mrs. Mildred Fitzgerald. While there they attended the annual Pecos County Sheriff Posse Rodeo and en route, they visited friends in Andrews, Tex.

Fertilizer Tonnage Sold In Fall Of '56 Up Over Last Year

Total fertilizer tonnage sold during the fall of 1956 was five per cent higher than 1955 figures and about 23 per cent below the 1950 total, reports State Chemist J. F. Fudge.

Although there were significant decreases in tonnages of fertilizers sold, Fudge says the concentration was such that tonnage of primary components used during this period was greater than ever before. Sales of mixed goods were about four per cent over 1955, and one-third greater than 1950. Fudge also points out that while 1956 sales of materials were only 52 per cent as great as 1950, they were five per cent over sales made in 1955.

For the first time, sales of 10-20-10 were significantly greater than 5-10-5. Sales of 5-10-5 were 17 per cent lower than a year ago, but 10-20-10 sales were 39 per cent higher, Fudge says. Seventy-five per cent of the total mixed goods tonnage sold and primary components used during the fall of 1956 were goods of 1-2-1 ratio with an average composition of 8-16-8.

Superphosphate sales were down approximately 7,500 tons and rock phosphate was down about 1,000 tons. However, Fudge says, the tonnage of materials supplying both nitrogen and available phosphoric acid was much greater during 1956 than any previous year.

Mixed goods accounted for 83 per cent of the total tonnage sold in East Texas and about 40 per cent of the Gulf Coast and North Central totals, but constituted less than four per cent of West Texas sales. East Texas used 53 per cent of the nitrogen, available phosphoric acid, and potash in mixed goods while West Texas used 82 per cent of the total tonnage of anhydrous ammonia.

Average composition for the state was about 25-13-0. Fudge says this is significantly higher than a year ago and markedly different from the 4-20-0 average of 1950. The complete report is available from the Agricultural Information Office at College Station. Ask for PR 1924.

LESLIE NICHOLS

On Nov. 1, 1938, (the day after Halloween) Mr. and Mrs. Lester Nichols welcomed into the world a new baby daughter. That was me, Leslie Anita Nichols. If I were asked to finish my life story very briefly, I could say: Born in Post, started to school in Post, and graduated (I hope) from Post High School. However, there is a little more to my life story than that.

My first few years, I lived in peaceful happiness. Then, at the tender age of five, I began to want to go to school. I watched the happy school kids file by my house every morning and afternoon and longed to be one of them. The next year, I got my wish. One morning my mother got me up extra early, dressed me in my very best, and took me to the Post Grade School. There, along with about 45 other eager kids, I began the first step on the ladder of education. At first, I was a very confused little girl. I just couldn't understand why I wasn't allowed to run around the room, talk, or go outside any time I wanted to. In time however, at the gentle insistence of my teachers, I caught on to the routine of school life.

My first few school years passed slowly and tiresomely. They were spent trying to learn to add, subtract, read, and spell. For the life of me I couldn't understand what good it would do me to be able to add two and two, or to spell cat and rat. I still can't understand it. Later, in addition to adding, spelling, and reading, they added geography, social studies, and harder English, which only made school harder for me.

When I reached the sixth grade level, we were moved to the beautiful new Post Grade School. Here we spent the last part of our sixth year and the first half of our seventh year before being moved to the high school building, due to crowded conditions. Our feelings at this development were of great importance, until we got over here. Then our feelings of self-importance were deflated. We were ignored, shoved aside, trampled underfoot, and generally mauled by the upper-classmen. We soon learned that the best place for us was in one of the two rooms which the seventh grade occupied.

By the time we were eighth graders, we were thoroughly accustomed to the ways of high school and better able to fit in than we had been the year before, though we were still the youngest class in the building. We looked forward to "next" year, when we would no longer be the bottom niche in the high school. That year, I was elected secretary of the class, received my first annual, and began to think that maybe school was worth going to after all. My eighth grade graduation was the most impressive event of my life, to this time.

My freshman and sophomore years were rather uneventful. These were the years when our class had no money worries whatsoever. My sophomore year I was elected Halloween princess, and served as a "French waiter" at the junior-senior banquet.

Now the years were really beginning to fly. I just couldn't believe that I was getting into the upper-classman bracket. My junior and senior years proved to be the hardest two years of all, as far as work was concerned.

When we became juniors, our money troubles really began. We had to give the seniors a banquet at our expense. Though we insisted that a hobo party with hot dogs and Cokes as refreshments would be sufficient, our sponsors thought we should give them something nicer. Therefore, we set about earning enough money to pay for it. Our main money making project was the junior play entitled, "Cracked Nuts." I portrayed an old maid, which suited me exactly. The year was climaxed by the junior-senior banquet, prom and midnight movie.

At last, our senior year has become a reality. For 11 long years we had looked up to the seniors and wondered what it was like to be a "high and mighty" senior. Now we know. Eleven years of waiting has paid off. The Baptist banquet, the Methodist breakfast, the junior-senior banquet, and especially the senior trip have come and gone like a dream. We had looked forward to and anticipated these events for many years, now all we have left are memories. Most of the memories I have of the senior trip are getting up in the mornings at unearthly hours, getting on a bus, and riding most of the day. But all memories I have of the trip are pleasant, even getting thrown in the swimming pool. This year, the senior play was entitled "The Hoosier Schoolmaster." In this play I was a gripy old woman; this part also suited me. I was also an officer in the Spanish Club and the pep squad.

Though I look forward to graduation, I wonder what I will do. After all, school has taken up two-thirds of my life.

REXENE WELCH

On Monday, Oct. 9, 1938, Mr. and Mrs. Rex Welch welcomed the arrival of a 7 lb., 3 oz. baby girl. They named her Mabel Rexene. That was I, I was born on our Lazy S Ranch and lived there for nine years. I now live in the Barnum Springs community and have never lived where the sand doesn't blow.

According to my baby book, my first words were "mama" and "daddy". According to Mother and Daddy, I've added one word in my 18 years, "money".

At the age of five, I was sent to Grassburr School in the hopes of beginning the climb toward getting my education. Being strong willed and very temperamental, I decided school was not the place for me. I sat it out for three days and cried all three days, all day long. This system worked beautifully and I was taken out for a year. At the age of six, having grown up considerably, I was eager for school to begin. I went to Grassburr for two years and then to Cross Roads my third year. At the end of that year, I discovered that we were moving and I would have to go to school in Post. I panicked! We moved to Barnum Springs without too much difficulty from me and I entered the fourth grade in Post. After finally getting over being afraid, I loved going to school in town. I met some kids that year that have remained my friends all through school and I hope always will. In my fifth year, I was elected Halloween Queen. My sixth year passed with the usual happenings of a sixth grader, whatever they are. In my seventh year, I was elected Halloween Queen of Post Grade School. Also in this year, we started to high school at mid-term! Boy, if that wasn't slaughter. By the time our eighth year rolled around, we were beginning to get the feel of high school—blisters, bruises, and being laughed at whenever anyone paid any attention to us. At the end of our eighth year, we graduated and thought that now someone would think we knew something but we found out that we were only "freshmen" and a freshman is the dumbest thing ever.

Our freshman year we all struggled together and fought off the sophomores who were about the only ones who bothered with us. Then came our sophomore year and we got to fight the "little ole freshmen". Those two years I'll remember as having the most fun ever because our class didn't have to worry about making money to pay for anything. All we had to do was have fun and we did. In those two years, I joined the pep squad, and FHA, and was elected class reporter in my freshman year.

Next came the junior year with all its money problems. This year we had to work and work to get enough money to give the ole seniors a banquet. After all our hard work, we finally gave them one that I think they enjoyed and I know we did. We got our junior pins, necklaces, and bracelets, and ordered our "senior rings." This year I was elected reporter of the FHA, still in the pep squad, ushered at the junior play, and joined the office staff where I began having dreams of becoming a secretary.

With a bang and a crash we became SENIORS! This year we really began to pinch our pennies and tried more ways to stretch our treasury. We were given our Baptist banquet, our Methodist breakfast, and our junior-senior banquet which we had all been waiting for so anxiously. Now that they're over it doesn't seem possible that they could have come in such a hurry and disappeared quicker. I'll always remember getting ready for our long awaited senior trip and the trouble I had trying to get everything packed. We found out that there were so many things that we carried we didn't need and so much we left home that we could have used. We took off with a roar at about 4:45 Wednesday morning and came home with a bang at about 8:10 Sunday night. Our trip was loads of fun but it seemed so short and was over with before we knew it, just like our senior year. Everything has been flying by and there's nothing we can do to stop it. One thing that I'll never forget for sure is that I finished my practice set in bookkeeping before we left on our trip. I don't know who was surprised more, Mrs. Fleming or me. My senior year I was on the Paper Staff, reporter in Commercial Club, secretary of the FHA, on the office staff, in the pep squad, and business manager of the senior play, "The Hoosier Schoolmaster."

My plans for the future are no more decided now than they were five years ago, but I am very interested in college and a "certain" boy.

ANDY SCHMIDT

The sun rose as usual and started its long, tedious climb in the sky, but before the sun had set, my mother has been blessed with the arrival of a bouncing baby boy. As I understand, this came as no surprise to my family, for it seems that Mother had been anticipating my arrival. It is a matter of record that a boy later named Andy Lee Schmidt was born at 10:39 a.m. on the day of Feb. 14, 1939, at McKain Hospital in Gladewater, Tex. If my memory does not deceive me, the weight of that fine healthy boy at birth was 7 lbs. and 6 ozs.

Three days later, having grown tired of the smell of alcohol and anesthetics, I decided to go home. My older brothers and my older sister (I now have three older brothers, an older sister and a younger sister) at first gave me special attention, but after a short while things settled back to normal. By experimenting I soon found that the only way to get attention was to do something drastic, such as fall off the bed or play with scissors; even these sometimes failed.

When I was 96 months old, my family finally began to learn to understand me. Two months later they still could not understand me too well, so I had to get up and show them what I meant. After that I found it easy to express myself.

My memory seems to be hazy until the age of five when Mother enrolled me in kindergarten. This was quite a shock to the teacher, but we learned to get along fairly well. Kindergarten was my school for a year. Then came the real thing! The first year of school passed without incident, and the second grade came along. The second grade came very near to being my last grade of school. Because during the second grade year my brother John and one of his friends decided to walk on the crustated part of an oil pit and did so. Mistakenly (my first mistake) I thought that they had walked across the middle of the pit. Feeling that anything they could do I could do, I started across the oil pit. My journey was interrupted slightly when my feet began—slowly at first and then with great speed—to sink. John and his friend turned just in time to see my belt buckle go out of sight. By the time they each had a grip on my arms, the thick, sticky oil had practically engulfed me. At the last moment—my shoulders had not yet gone under—the rescue was completed. What did my brother get for his rescuing efforts? A whipping! I'm glad that it never happened again, for my brother still says that he would not have gotten a whipping if he hadn't pulled me from the oil.

After school was dismissed for the summer before my third grade year, we moved out West. We had CANYON (Spl.)—Dr. Willis M. Tate, president of Southern Methodist University, will speak at commencement exercises May 26 when 260 students will be candidates for degrees at West Texas State College.

A big parade will proceed through the downtown section of Big Spring at 4 p. m. June 12. Sheriff's posse and other riding groups of the area have been invited to ride in the parade, after which they will be honored with a barbecue at the City Park.

Last year farmers saved more than $15,000,000 in their fight against weeds by using these three practices, and the savings in 1957 can be much greater because of improved moisture conditions. He says county agents reported that 43,918 rotary hoes were used in 145 counties; that post-emergence oiling with five gallons of naphtha at a cost of about one dollar an acre was carried out on small cotton on 20,285 acres in 53 counties and spot oiling was used to control Johnson grass on 89,491 acres in 133 counties. Johnson grass, he adds, can be controlled faster, easier, cheaper than by any other method and can be eradicated in one season at a saving of five dollars an acre, with spot oiling.

The rotary hoe, he says, is a triple purpose implement. It controls weeds and grass in small cotton; cultivates and can be used to break crusts and thus insure a stand or can be turned around and used to firm seed beds. It should be operated at high speed. A four section hoe can weed up to 100 acres a day depending on the rate of travel.

Seedling cotton is highly resistant to post-emergence oils but injury will result after the bark begins to form. Elliott says to apply the naphtha oil with tractor mounted shoes, using two fan-type nozzles, one on either side of the row and staggered and kept at least five inches from the cotton. Three applications made at 7 to 10 day intervals can be used provided the cotton plants have not begun to form true bark.

For best results with lateral oiling, he says the seed bed should be smooth. The first application should be made when the weeds are in the seedling stage or up to three inches high but not until grass appears. The spray shoes should be calibrated and carefully adjusted on a smooth surface and checked regularly after the operation begins. When oiling and cultivating at the same time, cultivate shallow and in wet weather lighten the tractor by removing unnecessary weight and get into the field before the weeds get too large. For detailed information on these practices Elliott suggests a visit with the local county agent.

BRAVE WORDS

That's my daughter Ellen standing up there in her cap and gown. Valedictorian of her class! I'd be a strange mother if I didn't feel a lump in my throat, and a tremendous surge of pride.

It just doesn't seem possible that my Ellen is grown-up. Like any mother, I have visions of a tiny baby ... a little girl in pigtailed ... a child, beginning school.

And now here she is, speaking about the future that she and her classmates envision ... the things that they are going to try to do ... their hopes and dreams.

They are brave words, all of them ... brave dreams. And like all parents, I pray that most of them will come true. But I know that in times of failure, my Ellen will have an added strength because of her Faith, and her devotion to the Church.

How glad, how thankful, I am for that!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

POSTEX MILLS

By A. LEE WARD

Well, the production in our sewing room went over the production mark again last week. The pillow case hemmers and the sheet hemmers did not have to work Saturday. Beginning in the third quarter of this year we are anticipating producing some percale sheeting. This will be in addition to what production we have now on all our muslin production.

We would like to express our appreciation to all our folks in the sewing room for the good attendance last week. We had fewer people out from work last week than any other week we have records on. Better attendance makes for more efficient operation, lower costs, and insures all of us a more secure job.

A. Lee Ward Sr. has membership cards on sale now in his office, for the Post Little League and Pony League baseball. The price of the cards are $1. Please get your cards immediately, because the sale of these cards is the only revenue that the baseball boys will have to operate on starting this season.

Mr. and Mrs. Spence Bevers attended church in Justiceburg Sunday.

Mrs. Lala Pennington and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Short and Mike visited relatives and friends in Spur Sunday.

Dalton Copple preached the Sunday morning service in Estelline in place of the regular pastor who was ill.

Dalton Copple has left the employment of the Postex Sewing Room to enroll in Hardin-Simmons University to continue his education in the ministry. Dalton has been employed here for about a year and we all feel that his leaving was a great loss to Postex Mills.

Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Parrish visited Mr. and Mrs. Luke Thompson and family in Amarillo Sunday. The Thompson family were in the Silverton tornado.

Miss Cora Baker spent the weekend in Slaton with relatives. She attended her niece's graduation exercises Saturday night.

Miss Mozelle Edwards and Mrs. Whistler Alford were in Sweetwater Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Ben Howell and children and Mrs. Wilson D. Williams and Quay were shopping in Lubbock Thursday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Nelson and Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Redman and Clifford spent the weekend in El Paso visiting Pvt. and Mrs. Eugene Redman and Tommy.

We were expecting a car of colored cloth from Pepperell, Ala., Monday morning, but so far we have not had any definite word as to the whereabouts of the car. The railroad people have not been able to find it as yet. They say it was on one of the trains that was diverted because of the floods last weekend. This means that the fitted sheet hemmers are going to run out of anything to sew on unless the car is found quickly.

PUT TO PRACTICAL USE—Pure water is distributed in a typical scene duplicated many times in the flood-ravaged areas of eastern Kentucky, Virginia and West Virginia. To meet the recent flood situation which had cut off 10,000 families from drinking water supplies, four dairy firms put their eight plants to work preparing 60,000 gallons of safe water in cardboard milk cartons and milk tank trucks. It was the first time the Federal Civil Defense Administration's plan for emergency water distribution had been put in practical use in a disaster.

June 10, at the board's next regular meeting, was set as the time for the trustees to hear a report from the Lubbock architectural firm of Atchison & Atkinson on proposed building improvements at the high school.

Board members Buster Moreland, Bobby Pierce and Robert Cato were named to a committee to find a site for the Garmolia school building, which is to be moved to Post and used as a colored school.

Little League—

(Continued From Front Page) hurlers, was charged with the loss. In addition to his over-the-fence home run, Shumate collected two doubles to pace the winners' batting attack. Shortstop Pat Cornell, with three for four, led the Tiger hitters.

In the second game, the Dodgers led, 5-1, at the end of the top half of the third inning, but the Yankees scored eight runs in the bottom half of the frame, then choked off two Dodger rallies to register the win.

Ken Rankin, who relieved starter David Perez with only one out in the first inning, was the winning pitcher for manager J. P. Parnell's Yankees. Jesse Morales, the second of three Dodger pitchers, was charged with the loss. The Dodgers, managed by Punk Peel, were league champions last season.

In scoring their victory, the Yankees collected only five hits, but wildness on the part of the Dodger chunkers kept Yanks on bases for most of the time. The losers got nine hits, with left fielder Dennis Huntley connecting for a single and a triple.

Oscar Garner was the plate umpire, with Julius Stelzer and Roy Gilmore working the bases.

Horse Entries—

(Continued From Front Page) rounds won a total of $489.30—$244.65 in each go-round. Saturday night's cash prizes were: $83.88, first; $62.91, second; $41.94, third, and $20.87, fourth.

The purse was $300 and entrance fees paid by owners of the 14 horses totaled $420, making a total of $720. Payment of $21 to the National Cutting Horse Association, which sanctioned the contest, left $699 for the go-rounds and finals winners.

S. E. Camp was secretary for the contest.

75,000 GAIN IN ONE YEAR'S TIME

Texas Farm Population Steadily Increasing, 1956 Report Shows

The big "drouth" in Texas farm numbers appears to be broken. Latest estimates indicate a 1956 increase of 15,000 farm residents over 1955 figures and a jump of 30,000 since 1954.

Yet, Texas' 1,156,000 farm residents last year comprised only 13.2 per cent of the state's total population and 5.2 per cent of the nation's farm people, according to a state-wide survey conducted jointly by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and the USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service. Rural Sociologist R. L. Skrabanek says the continuing trend of farm numbers to become a smaller proportion of the state's total is due primarily to extremely rapid urban population gains. Things have changed since the "good old days," Skrabanek points out, modern emphasis centers around increased production instead of increased population per unit. In 1930, for instance, more than 40 per cent of the state's citizens lived on farms and ranches, but today's agriculture must depend on new techniques and increased efficiency to meet constantly growing demands for better food and fiber. The individual farmer is, therefore, more and more in the welfare of his country concludes.

Texas' farm population steadily for 21 years since 1934 to initiate a gradual climb still in effect. Males leaving farms to 10 to 24-year age group considerably more females do males. For years has released value to turn the crop and industry, while releasing lower farmers to at less cost. The culture depends on improvement of breeders, and machine improved education, conducted conservation. Farms are getting. The state average is ed at more than above 1950's average and more than do 1930 farms. Fewer containing more acre. There is less than on each of Texas today.

Selected Grasses Being Tested Here On Courthouse Lawn Plot

Greatly improved native grasses developed by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station are now being tested in Garza County and elsewhere throughout the state.

Twenty-nine different varieties of 11 grasses are being tested here on a demonstration plot on the southwest corner of the courthouse lawn, according to County Agent Lewis C. Herron.

"Seeding these selected grasses in combinations," Herron said, "may be a practical substitute for the long-sought 'miracle' grass needed for restoring low-producing, drought-stricken ranges."

In the past, many promising grasses have failed to withstand the ravages of drought satisfactorily or to respond properly under necessary range management practices. The agent said stock farmers not only need drought resistant pastures, but also must have grasses capable of setting good seed, producing plenty of leaves, and establishing themselves quickly.

Herron says the improved native varieties will probably lend themselves to more economical seeding and land preparation than grasses introduced in the past.

Four years of breeding and selection has produced a sideoats grama, a blue grama and a hairy grama—all with runners like buffalograss. Over 200 varieties of sideoats grama are now being tested, one of which can set plenty of good quality seed and hold it long enough for a single combining operation. Another variety produces a higher than average ratio of leaves to stems, and another promises plenty of green forage for March and April.

The test here includes plantings of old reliables such as the grama grasses, cane bluestem, green spangletop, switchgrass and plains bristlegass. The county agent says these tests may provide means for revegetating old fields and denuded rangelands. Ranchmen may now entertain hopes for adapted native grasses which will stand up to heavy stocking, wind and dust.

The varieties being tested here and the places from where the seed came are as follows:

Sideoats Grama (eight varieties) from Marathon, Tex., Davis Mountains, Big Bend National Park, Woodward, Okla., Vaughn, N. M., Uvalde, Tex., Odessa, Tex., and Garza County.

Blue Grama (two varieties) from Marfa, Tex., and Garza County.

Giant Sandbur from Crystal City, Tex.

Cane Bluestem (two varieties) from Marfa, Tex., and Paducah, Tex.

Sand Bluestem (two varieties) from Plains, Tex., and Garza County.

Caucasian Bluestem from New Mexico.

Switchgrass (four varieties) from Blackwell, Okla., Caddo, Okla., Garza County.

Green Spangletop (three varieties) from Marfa, Tex., Sonora, Tex., and Marathon, Tex.

Plains Bristlegass (four varieties) from Lubbock, Garza County, Chihuahua, Mexico, and Durango, Mexico.

Arizona Cottontop (two varieties) from Crystal City and Garza County.

Post Antelope Band Members Are To Attend Tech Band Workshop

Members of the Post Antelope band will attend the annual Texas Tech band workshop June 10-28, Director Robert Meisch has announced.

Three or more bands will be open to accommodate students at various levels of advancement. Special instructions on all wind instruments will be available. Percussion and baton twirling instruction are available to those interested, and pre-college theory and arranging classes will be taught.

Among outstanding clinicians being brought in as guest conductors and instructors are Dr. A. A. Harding, formerly conductor of bands at the University of Illinois; Mark H. Hindsley, present conductor of bands at Illinois, and Roger Wagner, conductor of the famed Roger Wagner Chorale. The college will also hold chorus and orchestra workshops beginning on June 3. The choral workshop runs through June 9, the orchestra workshop through June 14.

The choral workshop will stress strong programs for both high school students and church choir directors. Offerings will include repertoire, tone production, rhythmic precision, small group lessons in voice, and classes in theory.

The orchestra clinic will be under the baton of guest conductor William Harrod of the Lubbock Symphony Orchestra. He will be joined by college and public school conductors. Courses will be offered in theory, appreciation, chamber music, techniques in playing and conducting, in addition to sectional and full orchestra rehearsals. Training will be geared to students from the 7th grade through high school.

Clothing Workshops To Begin On May 27

Miss Jessie Pearce, home demonstration agent, has announced that the annual summer series of workshops will be held to teach the 4-H girls clothing construction.

The agent will hold three meetings, one every day, May 27-29, to train adult leaders and help them plan their workshops. Each leader will work with three to five girls, teaching them construction according to their age and ability.

The nine and ten-year-old girls will make simple aprons and then progress to gathered skirts, blouses and simple dresses.

Miss Pearce will hold two workshops for the older girls, teaching them advanced dressmaking. These workshops will be June 24-28 and July 8-12.

The results of the summer's work will be seen when each girl models her garment at a dress revue on Aug. 5. In this revue the girls will be graded on construction, personal grooming, the accessories worn and the written record.

CROP Enables State Farmers To Share Harvest With Needy

Texas farmers in forty key agricultural areas continue to share their harvests with the world's needy through the Christian Rural Overseas Program.

Texas CROP has received requests for 500 bales of cotton. Local committees will seek contributions of cotton in West and Central Texas, El Paso County, the Corpus Christi area, and the Pecos and Rio Grande Valleys.

CROP has already purchased 50 bales of cotton this year for shipment to Austria and refugee rehabilitation and eventual use by Reformed Church institutions in Hungary. Texas CROP and Mid-South CROP shared costs of this purchase.

A shipment of 75 bales of contributed cotton from West Texas is now being readied for shipment in Houston. It will be used in church-administered self-help projects in Korea, Japan, Taiwan, and Hong Kong.

Grain sorghums will be solicited by CROP committees in Central and West Texas and the Coastal Bend area. In most instances, milo will be sold in order to purchase other grains, to distribute surplus food, or to share in transportation costs. Occasional shipments of milo seed are made for self-help projects.

A minimum of ten carloads of rice is expected from the Texas Gulf Coast area. Contributed rice will be exported by CROP to various hunger areas of the world. Shipments of seed rice are also made.

Panhandle communities are conducting the first CROP canvass of the year, assembling a carload of canners and cutters in Amarillo. The animals will be shipped to Fort Worth for conversion into canned meat, and then exported to refugee centers in Austria and the Near East.

Texas CROP is also resuming the shipment of livestock for self-help projects.

In late April, a shipment of 30 milk goats (Nubians) will be made to El Salvador. CROP is providing basic dairy herds for three pioneer colonies in the Central American country. The animals will be air expressed and have been purchased by churches in Plainview and Austin, and state labor organizations. Heifer Project, Inc., is handling shipping details. The milk goat project was approved by the Texas CROP Committee upon the recommendation of Dr. Daniel Russell of Texas A&M College, who visited the rural communities in El Salvador last summer.

Later this year, CROP will ship 100 guinea keets to the Pan-American University in Tegucigalpa, Honduras. The introduction of this new strain of poultry will help raise living standards in rural areas.

Texas youth support the Christian Rural Overseas Program in many ways. Last Halloween, they collected more than $55,000 which was used to distribute surplus food. The Texas CROP Committee has given its approval to continuation of this project.

This spring, young people in a number of communities will conduct "Clean-up Days" for CROP. They will gather used clothing and shoes for overseas shipment. They will sell collected newspapers and other items and forward funds to CROP. Others will wash cars and store windows or mow lawns for a day and add these proceeds to their total contribution for overseas shipments of food.

CROP is a community program given impetus by interested volunteers.

The state staff consists of a director, a supervisor for West Texas, and an office secretary. These are: John Gillies, the Rev. Ellis Todd, and Mrs. Carol Anguish, respectively. This staff is assisted by volunteer district supervisors who act in a liaison capacity between the state office and assigned counties or areas.

Supervisors for 1957 are as follows: Brazoria County, the Rev. Phinas Washer, Alvin; Central Texas, the Rev. Jewel Johnson, Coupland; Corpus Christi area, the Rev. C. J. Freudenberg, Orange Grove; Eagle Lake area, the Rev. C. E. Marshall, Eagle Lake; Harris County, the Rev. S. M. Inman, Houston; North Central Texas, Mr. Donald Richter, Le Roy; Panhandle, the Rev. David Hamblin, Sunray; Rio Grande Valley, Mr. George Tucker, Los Fresnos; Trans-Pecos area, the Rev. Phil Baker, Balmorhea; Upper Rice area, the Rev. Elwood Brown, Liberty; West Texas, the Rev. Ellis Todd, Plainview; and Wichita Falls area, the Rev. Charles Morris, Seymour. Supervisors are being secured for the Brazos River Basin El Paso County, the Lower Rice area, and North Texas.

CROP boards are organized by church, civic, and agricultural leaders in each county or area. This board determines its own goal and plan. The ultimate aim is to canvass the surrounding rural community in order that farmers may literally share their blessings.

CROP is affiliated with the Texas Council of Churches and is governed by representatives of twelve Protestant denominations and nine organizations. These organizations are: American Rice Growers Cooperative Association, Southwestern Peanut Grower's Association, Agricultural Extension Service, Texas Council AFL and CIO, Texas Farmers Union, Texas Home Demonstration Association, Texas State Grange, Texas United Christian Youth movement, and the United Church Women of Texas. Commissioner of Agriculture John White is honorary chairman; The Rev. R. Scott Copeland, an Episcopal minister of Richmond, Tex., is chairman. CROP is the food-and-fiber program of Church World Service and sends aid to more than 25 countries. All shipments are distributed through church agencies.

VA Questions And Answers

Q. My World War II permanent GI insurance lapsed, and VA automatically continued it in force under extended term insurance. I want to reinstate my permanent policy. Will I have to take a physical examination?

A. If you reinstate within five years prior to the date the extended insurance would expire, you will not need a medical examination or any medical evidence of good health. If you reinstate after that time limit, you will be required to take an examination.

Q. Is a "six-month enlistee" eligible for VA hospitalization after he leaves military service?

A. He would be eligible if he was discharged under other than dishonorable conditions for a line-of-duty disability, or is receiving compensation for a service-connected disability.

Q. I served in World War II, was discharged and went under the World War II GI Bill. I served again during the Korean conflict. Would I be eligible for more schooling under the Korean GI Bill, and if so, how much?

A. You may be eligible for training under the Korean GI Bill. To determine how much, subtract the amount of World War II GI schooling you've had from 48 months. You will be entitled to the difference, so long as it does not exceed 36 months of Korean GI training.

Q. I have a Korean GI term insurance policy for nondisabled veterans. Could I convert it to a permanent plan?

A. No. The law prohibits the conversion of your type of Korean GI term insurance to permanent plans. Only those issued to Korean veterans based on service-connected disabilities may be converted.

June 3 Marks Start Of Rural Mail Box Inspection Program

The Annual Rural Mail Box Improvement Program will be observed this year for a two-week period beginning June 3, Postmaster Harold Voss has announced.

Rural mail boxes which are improperly erected or in unserviceable condition retard delivery of mail and expose it to the weather. The Post Office Department wishes to encourage rural patrons to provide suitable receptacles, erected and maintained for easy and safe accessibility, presenting a neat appearance, and affording protection to the mail.

Names of box owners should be inscribed on the side visible to the carrier, and boxes and supports should be kept painted. Rural mail boxes must be located on the right side of the road in the direction of travel of the carriers in all cases where traffic conditions are such that it would be dangerous for the carriers to drive to the left in order to serve the boxes, or where their doing so would constitute a violation of state or local traffic laws and regulations.

Voss said patrons will be notified on POD Form 4056 of unsatisfactory conditions requiring attention.

"In the past years on the Annual Mail Box Improvement Program, we have had good cooperation from patrons in painting, repairing and adjusting the height of boxes, and I'm sure we will again this year," said the postmaster in announcing the dates for this year's inspection.

Safety Bulletin Warns Against Trusting Other Drivers, Pedestrians

"Never trust the other driver!" In these words, a bulletin of the Texas Safety Association, warned Texans to be on their driving-guard against the unpredictable behavior of pedestrians and other drivers.

"It isn't enough to obey the law and mind your own business," the bulletin reads. "You have a moral responsibility to prevent an accident if you can—even if the other fellow is at fault."

A few of the other-fellow's more common blunders were listed as being:

Failure to heed a stop sign or sneaking across on the "Yellow-light."

Making a turn from the wrong traffic lane.

Failure to signal a turn, or giving the wrong signal.

Stopping suddenly (of course this won't bother you if you're not too close).

Trying to pass on a curve, hill or other no-passing zone.

Traffic-weaving or double-parking.

Drivers were also warned to watch for pedestrians who are foolish enough to jay-walk, get out of a vehicle on the street side, walk along the road at night and wearing dark clothing, or, for children playing near the street.

Tomatoes May Fill Need For Diverted Acreage Plantings

West Texas farmers "backed to the wall" by acreage controls and low grain sorghum prices are scanning the list of vegetable crops in a search for some profitable use of diverted acreage. Tomatoes may fill the bill if growers can economically produce the necessary quality for moving into central states' markets.

A 1956 study conducted by Texas A&M's Department of Agricultural Economics and Sociology revealed that farmers in Bailey, Farmer, Deaf Smith, Castro, Lamb, Hale, Lubbock and Floyd counties produced 348 bushels of tomatoes an acre. Production and marketing costs averaged $188 an acre.

Chief competitor for West Texas tomatoes in the central states area will be California, long-time producer of high-quality vegetables. West Texas growers must realize the importance of management practices such as padding and covering for transporting tomatoes in containers, and the advantage of a good grading system if they expect to enter serious competition for any major market.

Unlike most West Texas crops, tomato prices fluctuate widely. Agricultural economists cannot give a complete set of reasons for the annual price variations, but partially explain them. Variations in Texas and competing area production of tomatoes as well as variations in the national disposable income are cited as important influences concerning these price differences.

For complete details of this study write to the Agricultural Information Office at College Station. Ask for PR 1925.

Commissioner of Agriculture

A constant change is under way in modern agricultural marketing.

For example, the retailer has lost the important role he once played in marketing farm products. Today's consumer no longer buys merely what the retailer offers.

The merchandise itself is the salesman.

In other words, the boss of agricultural marketing today is the consumer.

The Texas Department of Agriculture is proud of the role it plays in marketing the work it does on the consumer level. Inspections, grading of commodities, testing of weights and measures, are but a few of the services TDA renders for consumer benefit.

Marketing changes in recent years — caused by "Boss" consumer—have created greater competition among producers and their products. And this competition for the consumer's dollar has improved efficiencies and cut costs.

Farmers have many responsibilities, in this "super market" era of commodity promotion. They must be constantly alert to the demands of "Boss" consumer. And to meet the growing competition, they must produce better products at lower production costs.

The Texas Department of Agriculture—like the farmer—has gone through a transition period marked by a changed agriculture. Its operations are now geared to keeping open the channels of trade within and without the state. It has become chiefly an agricultural law enforcing agency with primarily administrative and regulatory duties. And its work concentrates heavily on the consumer, through the TDA Marketing Division.

LETTERS To The EDITOR

State Senate, Austin, Tex.

Dear Editor: Yesterday the Senate passed SJR 1, authorizing a constitutional amendment by which the State would be empowered to invest up to $100,000,000 over a period of years in the purchase of water storage space, in flood control reservoirs to be built by the federal government and state agencies.

The Senate adopted this resolution 29 to 1 (and the absent member would have voted for it had he not been ill)—an overwhelming majority. It has now gone to the House, where I have asked House leaders to give it immediate action.

This proposal is the second major part of our plan to solve Texas' water problem. The first, already passed by both Houses, would create a revolving fund of $200,000,000 from which political sub-divisions could obtain loans for building or enlarging dams and reservoirs for water storage.

It is vital that this second part be passed also. We can't solve Texas' water problem with half-way measures. Both of these proposals would give Texas a great deal more water in time of drouth, and also would help prevent the flooding that has cost Texas millions upon millions of dollars in recent weeks.

You, as a citizen and editor, have been interested in efforts to solve Texas' water problem. With your help, the Legislature has advanced the water measures up to the present point.

But we have this one remaining hurdle, and the people of Texas need your help again. I urge you to do everything in your power to prevail on the House to pass this second major piece of legislation. The Legislature is close to adjournment, and time is short. Your prompt action is needed, or again Texas may be "too little and too late" in attacking its most serious problem—the water situation.

George Parkhouse, Chairman Senate Water Resources Committee

County Base Maps Show Water Level

In most sections of Texas farmers right now are more concerned about excessive moisture than about the need for irrigation. But, says Extension Agricultural Engineer R. V. Thurmond, conditions can change in a hurry and supplemental irrigation may be needed before the summer is out.

It is a good idea, points out the irrigation engineer, for farmers to keep abreast of what is happening to the state's underground water supplies. One of the principal sources for this information is the Texas Board of Water Engineers with headquarters in Austin. Thurmond says the Board has just released valuable information on the water levels in observation wells in 20 counties in the Southern High Plains area of Texas.

The information is presented on base maps for each county. The observation wells all carry a number which is shown at its approximate location on the county map. Thus, a farmer can quickly locate his farm and at a glance see what has happened to the water level for his immediate area the past two years.

The studies are made in cooperation with the U. S. Geological Survey and cover observation wells in all sections of the state. The water level decline maps for the 20 Southern High Plains counties are carried in Bulletin 5705, and it may be obtained by writing to the Texas Board of Water Engineers, Austin, Tex.

Ross Morrow, formerly of Post, will receive a degree in electrical engineering from the University of Texas June 1.

Champs Named In 7 Events At Final Rodeo Performance

Champions in seven major events were named Saturday night following the finals of the 18th annual Post Stampede Rodeo.

For the first time in several years, rain and wet grounds forced postponement of a performance, the Friday night show being held at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon instead of the scheduled time.

Threatening weather cut attendance at this year's event, with the consensus being that the rodeo took a financial "beating." Rodeo officials said it will be a few days before an exact accounting can be rendered.

Considerably less than 2,000 attended each of the first two shows, with attendance dropping even lower at the Saturday matinee performance, but picking up considerably for the concluding show.

Winners in the various events were as follows:

Santa Fe and Electronics

New electronic methods keep constant check on all freight cars moving over Santa Fe rails

Electronic wonders are contributing to present railroading on the Santa Fe.

Freight car locating, for instance. With our Ball service, we can "put the finger" any time any one of many thousands of freight cars moving over the 13,150 miles of Santa Fe rails any day.

Information on these cars is recorded on cards which are fed into electronic machines. These "electronic brains" process the cards as fast as 40 per minute—and tell us within a few seconds where every car is, what it contains, where it is going.

This information is immediately available for customers. Shippers of produce may take advantage of any changing market conditions and get their shipments while en route to other points where markets may be more favorable.

With this advice, consignees know in advance time of arrival of their shipments. This facilitates their plans for delivery of shipments or scheduling of production.

This method of locating freight cars is only one of many electronic tools now employed by Santa Fe. Some of the others are microwave, two-radio, and supersonic rail detectors.

Something new in the science of railroading is always objective on the Santa Fe—the railroad is always on the move toward a better way.
