

Benefits said to outweigh losses from area's swift thunderstorm

Replanting gets under way after hail, winds hit

Farmers yesterday afternoon started replanting their cotton which was hailed out Sunday night when a swift-moving thunderstorm accompanied by hail and high winds brought Garza County its first real moisture since March. County Agent Lewis Herron reported that despite the fact that 75 per cent of the already planted cotton will have to be replanted, the storm brought more overall benefits to the county than losses. Amounts of the rainfall varied, but many areas received two to two and one-half inches of moisture.

It came so hard with the high winds that much of it was lost in runoffs, however. Post itself received only .52 of an inch of moisture. The hail here wasn't heavy enough to cause roof or window damage.

Both rainfall and hail were spotted across the county. Grassburg received from two to six inches of rain, Close City, two inches; Graham, two to 2½ inches and Pleasant Valley a good rain with lighter moisture totals in the Justiceburg area.

County Agent Herron and local insurance agency offices reported the major hail damage belt extended from Post 8 to 12 miles west into the Grassland area with the width of the hail belt approximately six miles wide.

Mainly only irrigated cotton had been planted prior to the Sunday storm as dryland farmers were awaiting moisture before planting after two very dry months.

Other hail was reported in the Pleasant Valley area. Most of the irrigated cotton will have to be replanted, but some of the best fields were missed, according to reports received in Post Monday.

County Agent Herron said the monetary loss from the hail was not as important as the time loss.

He said there is still time to get all replanting done before June 15 which would allow ample growing time for a good crop, providing the area has a good fall "weather-wise."

He pointed out, however, that additional heavy rains might keep farmers from their fields for days and that is where the time factor becomes important.

He reported adequate sub-surface moisture for a cotton crop, but said additional rain is still needed both for cropland and pastureland. Ponds are low.

A dryland farmer in town yesterday was asked if the hail got his cotton crop. "Mine was still in the barn," he replied.

The hail and wind were strong enough to cause roof and window damage in the Graham community, even breaking out at least one picture window at Graham.

Herron said in some dryland cotton areas the rain came so fast and hard that it ran off before beds could be wet completely through.

"But we're in much better shape to plant dryland cotton now than before the rain," he added.

Only .01 of an inch of moisture was recorded here in April and but 25 of an inch during May up to Sunday night, Herron said.

Postings

By JIM CORNISH

This column today doffs its summer straw to the First Christian Church for their fine new church and educational plant for which this entire community can well be proud. The Christian church is inviting the public to any and all of a week-long series of services, beginning with the dedication service and open house at 3 p. m. Sunday. We urge everyone to turn out and see this beautiful new church, an inspiration to all of us.

Friday and Saturday bring back the Chamber of Commerce-sponsored Post Double Dollar Days with plenty of bargain buys for the shoppers of this community and trade area. Shop the $2 Day ads in today's Dispatch and be out in force tomorrow and Saturday for bargains which will save you many dollars.

Post's Double Dollar Days are just one example of new merchant cooperation here designed to make Post a better area shopping center. Other major projects are now in the "working out stage". They include a big new Howdy Day promotion—details to be announced; a Welcome Wagon book for the community's newcomers in which merchants will offer free get-acquainted gifts and, or discounts to newcomers to get them acquainted with Post's merchant family. A "flower box" promotion for merchants and a store-front improving project also are being worked out. In July, a public relations school for store owners, managers, and clerks is planned by the Retail Merchants Association with the all-out approval of the Chamber's busy retail committee.

Local merchants are working together as never before in years to improve Post as a trading center. Shopping at home is important to all of us, and the merchants are demonstrating that they are trying to do their share in making shopping at home in Post a more enjoyable and dollar-saving experience for the shoppers.

In this connection we'd like to call attention to the announcement, carried in the Piggly Wiggly ad last week and again this week that the "specials" carried in Piggly Wiggly's Dispatch ad are the same in Post as in Lubbock. This means (See POSTINGS, page 5)

Three juveniles of Lubbock and James Clifford Hudson, 17-year-old Lubbock youth, were booked Tuesday noon for the theft of $11.90 worth of bananas and peaches from in front of the Parrish Grocery and Market.

Deputy Sheriff Elton Corley, answering a call to Justiceburg late Tuesday morning, found three youths in an out-of-gas car eight miles southwest of Post on the highway.

In the back seat of the car was what was left of a stalk of bananas and a crate of peaches.

Checking with Lubbock wholesale produce houses on deliveries here that day, he found that Parrish had a crate of peaches and the bananas missing from an order left in front of the store before the store opened.

Deputy Corley said the boys then admitted taking the peaches and bananas when they came through Post early in the morning en route to Snyder. They ran out of gas south of Post on the return trip.

The juveniles were turned over yesterday to the Lubbock juvenile officer and Hudson was charged in county court here with theft under $20.

The club membership will be divided into two teams with Bob Meisch and Dr. John Carter the two team captains for the sale.

A canvass is planned in the business district during the day and through the residential areas beginning at 4 p. m.

All the many products sold—a price listing is contained in the broom sale ad on page 8 — are made by Texas blind and are sold by Lions clubs throughout the state.

Twenty-six per cent of the proceeds will remain with the local club to help finance local projects.

Election oddity: 286 for each candidate

Senatorial winner Tower and Blakley tie in Garza

One of those election oddities—a tie vote—resulted in Garza County in Saturday's senatorial runoff election when Republican John G. Tower of Wichita Falls and Conservative William A. Blakley of Dallas each received 286 votes.

It couldn't have been any closer in Garza County, but statewide, it also was a close race, with Tower ahead by more than 7,000 votes at the State Election Board's last official announcement. At that time, less than 10,000 votes remained to be counted, and even the staunchest Blakley supporters weren't hopeful of their candidate gaining more than 1,000 votes on the front-running Tower.

The 572 Garza County votes counted in the runoff election were 275 less than the 847 cast in the county April 4 when Tower and Blakley won their way into Saturday's runoff election.

In the April 4 election, with more than 70 candidates in the race, Tower carried Garza County with 183 votes. Blakley was fifth with 103 votes.

Tower's victory in the April 4 election was the first time a Republican ever had carried Garza County. He lacked only one vote of doing it again in Saturday's runoff election.

Tower will be sworn into office later this month—after all the returns are canvassed. As U. S. Senator, he will replace Blakley, who has been serving as interim Senator since Lyndon B. Johnson took office as Vice-President.

The Garza County vote, which will be canvassed by the commissioners' court at their regular monthly meeting June 12, was as follows:

"Please don't run that ad again." That was James Ammons' plea last Friday—the day after The Dispatch hit the street.

"What's wrong with it," he was asked.

"Nothing really," he grinned. "except our telephone has been ringing off the wall all day."

Ammons placed an ad for a baby sitter in his home.

By mid-afternoon Friday his wife had received 17 calls about the job, and hadn't had time to do much else all day.

Total cost for that kind of advertising results was 88 cents.

'Bonus' acreage ups Garza total

Garza County's total cotton allotment has been boosted by an additional 600 acres because of voluntary release and reappointment of cotton allotments elsewhere in the state.

Throughout the High Plains, this released acreage boost amounts to 23,543 acres.

Under a re-zoning law passed last year, additional acreage was transferred to the High Plains from other zones in the state. This additional acreage is acreage that farmers released to their county ASC offices. It was not requested or utilized in the particular county or zone and thus became available for release to farmers in other zones.

Farmers who had earlier applied for additional acres were the ones that received the "bonus" acreage. County ASC offices report no more additional acreage is available, since deadlines for farmers to re-form the released acres are now past additional cotton acreage past.

Special school starts Monday

The first day of summer school for non-English speaking students will be Monday, June 5, school officials have announced.

Classes will be held in the primary building, beginning at 8:30 a. m. and lasting until 11:30 a. m.

Children who will be six years of age on or before Sept. 1, 1961, and who do not speak English are eligible to attend.

Parents of non-English speaking children who have not already registered their child for this special summer school may do so on the first day Monday.

Mrs. Mary Ann Mallard will be the teacher of the class, and Miss Bonnie McMahon will be present for a part of the time.

Parents of all children eligible for this class are encouraged to take advantage of this opportunity to give their children a better chance in school achievement.

Tower victory seen as start

Victory of Republican John Tower in the senatorial runoff Saturday will mark the start of a long-needed two-party political system in Texas.

We hope so. Tower's triumph indicated wide and deep dissatisfaction with the way things have been bouncing along in this state under the Democratic banner.

Texas would be a whole lot better off with the two parties—and a choice.

Regardless of whether you are a Democrat or Republican, the principle that a political choice means better government is beyond argument.

If one party doesn't have the support of the people, there is a way to make a change. Democrats have long been talking about two parties and their wish that Republicans would leave their ranks.

Maybe they will. County Republican organizations have been springing up in several West Texas counties during the past year. Garza itself is right on the verge.

It isn't easy to get a political party organized, down to the all important grass roots, but once it has started to roll gains come much easier.

Tower's victory Saturday may be the nudge that will make the tremendous effort seem worthwhile. Republicans would have something upon which to try to build.

Of course a lot will depend upon Tower himself, a political unknown who fought his way through to the grand prize through a record-sized mass of Demo rivals.

If Tower proves himself to be a capable, young senator who can think straight, and talk straight, he will become the leader of a rising Republicanism in Texas.

That doesn't promise any ringing changes overnight. It might take 20 more years of GOP progress to get any kind of a party bloc into the state legislature, where it is so badly needed today to crystallize the issues on solving the state's menacing and mounting financial problems.

A two-party system is needed for the well being of Texas and all Texans, including the good Democrats.—JC.

The state's highway problem

The fact that the Garza County commissioners' court has contracted for appraisal of right-of-way along U. S. Highway 84 from the top of the sprock to the Lubbock County line indicates that something is going to be done one of these days about the widening of the highway from where the present divided road stops, a few miles north of town, on up to the county line.

That, incidentally, is also an indication that Garza County, along with other counties in the state, is going to cooperate with the Texas Highway Department in doing something about horse-and-buggy highways in the space age.

During National Highway Week recently State Highway Engineer D. C. Greer called the occasion "not a week of appreciation, but of challenge."

"Highway Week is not to brag on what we have done," Greer said, "but to focus attention on the immense highway problems that now confront us."

Foremost among Texas highway problems, he said, is the fact that more than one-third of the total state-maintained highway mileage in Texas is obsolete, or about to become so. This is Texas' 25,000-mile network of U. S. and state-numbered highways. The system has been almost totally antiquated," Greer said, by an enormous increase in traffic.

This system of "trunk" highways, two of which serve Post and Garza County, is literally the lifeline of the development of Texas. These highways serve more than a thousand Texas cities and towns. Many were built in the early days and are now out of date and completely inadequate for the 18 billion vehicle miles traveled on them in a year.

The problem is compounded by lack of money. The trunk highway system is not only obsolete, but underfinanced, so that Texas is getting farther behind each year. The trunk system is in effect a highway stepchild — it is caught in a squeeze on the highway dollar, between demands for matching fund so that Texas can participate in Federal-aid programs, and demands for funds for year-to-year maintenance of the state's vast highway network.

The obsolescence of our trunk highway system will continue and will rapidly increase, warns Highway Engineer Greer, "in the point where we may strangle in our own traffic if we are unable to make desperately needed improvements." —CD.

Worthwhile summer courses

The 1960-61 school term has ended and no regular summer term is to be held here, but two special summer courses are scheduled that should prove of great value to the school system, as well as to the entire community.

Next week will mark the beginning of a summer school for non-English speaking students and also of a driver's training course for 14-year-old students who will be taking driver's training for the first time.

The problem of non-English speaking first grade students has long existed here, and the special course is designed to help overcome the problem. It is, in part, an outgrowth of a program inaugurated by the schools here to overcome the drop-out problem, which has been especially prevalent among students of Spanish-

American descent. It stands to reason that if a youngster begins school with the ability to communicate with his teachers and with his classmates, he is much more likely to overcome most of the problems that have resulted in so many drop-outs.

In the other special course, that of driver's training, there is no doubt that it will prove beneficial to the students and to the over-all community traffic safety problem.

In Mrs. Mary Ann Mallard, who will teach the class of non-English speaking students, and Miss Bonnie McMahon, who will be present for a part of the time, the course has two well qualified teachers. The same is true in the driver's training course, where N. R. "Jiggs" King will be the instructor.—CD

Good lesson in government

Post's American Legion Post, James C. Cole No. 290, is due a rousing vote of thanks for helping out on an American Legion Junior baseball team and for sponsoring the attendance of a Post High School student at the Texas Boys State in Austin.

Leslie Acker, one of Post High School's most outstanding students, will attend Texas Boys State June 4-19 under the sponsorship of the American Legion post here.

It is the first time in a long time, if not the first time, that the local Legion Post has sponsored a boy's attendance at the affair.

Nationwide, the Legion is sponsoring 40 separate Boys States this summer, plus a Boys Nation, consisting of two outstanding youths from each of the Boys States, who will study the operation of the federal government in much the same manner as the Boys State delegates participate in training in state government.

At the 1961 Texas Boys State, Leslie will participate in the organization of political parties, campaigns, elections, and the enactment and enforcement of their own laws within the mythical 51st state.

"Boys State is one of the finest youth training programs sponsored by the American Legion," said Neal Clary, commander of the post here. "The youths learn not only the functions of the government but also the role that a good citizen must play to discharge his citizenship responsibility. They learn-by-doing how a good government depends upon the active interest of every citizen.—CD.

Always spiritually uplifting

Post's already imposing number of architecturally attractive church buildings has been added to by the completion of the new First Christian Church building in the 800 block on West 12th Street.

Dedication of the new church building is to be held Sunday afternoon, followed by a reception and open house. The church's new pastor, the Rev. Bernard Ramsey, and the congregation invite the general public to attend the dedication and the open house immediately following.

What our contemporaries are saying

When a man says a thing can't be done it only means that he doesn't know how to do it.—James Roberts in The Andrews County News.

If you go out seeking trouble you usually find it. Freedom Riders, trying to make Alabama people like a distasteful situation, rubbed the raw place and there was bloodshed. The old man, giving advice about the kind of people in the community to the newcomer, you recall, said the kind you are looking for is the kind you will find.—The Floyd County Hesperian.

THURSDAY to THURSDAY

By CHARLES DIDWAY

The 572 VOTES cast by Garza countians in Saturday's senatorial runoff election were evenly split between John G. Tower and William A. Blakley, and no telling how long it will be before something like that happens again.

One of the first persons I talked to about the election late Saturday night was a man who said he was for Blakley, but that he didn't go vote. Right there, I thought, is a good example of the importance of one vote. If that man had voted, Garza County would have stayed in the Democratic fold. Ten minutes later, I talked to another man who said he didn't get around to voting, but that if he had he would have cast his ballot for Tower. If both these men had voted, the race still would have been tied in this county, but no telling what the final result would have been—rot only in Garza County, but throughout Texas—if ALL the people who had a vote coming had cast it.

I WAS AN interested onlooker the other day when a couple of fellows from Dreyer Music Company dropped into a place to change some of the records in the music box. Seeing an opportunity to pick up an item for this column, I asked them if they had a way of telling which records were played the most. They did have, and the No. 1 tune on that particular box was "The Window Up Above", which I'll have to admit I didn't recognize by the title. No. 2 was "On the Wings of a Dove"; No. 3, "One Step Ahead of My Past" and No. 4, "Don't Worry." I don't know how those four tunes shaped up with that week's Billboard Magazine ratings, but the music men assured me they were the top four in that particular place.

Sort of on the same subject, Mrs. C. K. Pierce of 112 East 12th tells me that one of the city sanitation department employees brightens up the day out in her neighborhood by singing as he goes about his work. She said she missed hearing him sing one week and learned that he was on another "run," but that he is back now and once again brightening up the day with his singing.

AFTER A COUPLE of rather harrowing experiences, I've learned that when the wife and I go anywhere it'll pay us to come back the same way we went unless we want to get lost—and who does? A couple of Sundays ago, we went to San Angelo after a carload of our youngest son's belongings a few days before his first year of college ended. As we pulled away from the dormitory, he asked us how we came in and when we told him, he said he knew of a much better way out—a short-cut, he called it. We took it, and what might have been a short-cut for him and most other people, turned out to be the long way around for us. We've never figured out for sure where we made a wrong turn, but it was somewhere along the line, and we spent nearly an hour jogging back and forth and asking directions before we finally found our highway.

Then, last Thursday night—and as many times as we've been there, we're still a little shame-faced about this—we visited our oldest son and his wife in Lubbock. This son, trying to be just as helpful as the other one, told us he knew of a better route to get back to the Post highway than the one we came out on. Forgetting for the moment what had happened in San Angelo, we again took the "short-cut", made another wrong turn and came out the Tahoka highway instead of the Post highway. Instead of cutting back to the Post highway on one of the farm roads from the Tahoka highway, we just came on home through Tahoka. Since neither of us ever had been through Woodrow before, we didn't consider the night entirely lost.

WHEN WE GO to Dallas to visit our daughter a little later on this summer, we're sort of hoping she doesn't try to help us as much as our sons did.

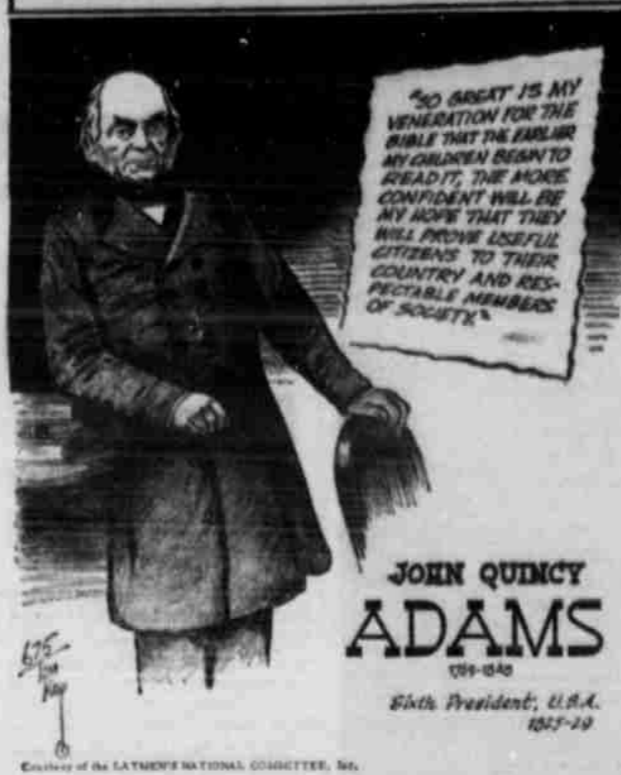

The man up the street says a conscientious husband is one who tells his wife everything he did that he suspects she's already found out.

ONE OF MY column-helpers has turned in this to help me wind up this week's effort.

How to Live 100 Years. Be moderate in your use of monoxide gas. Don't antagonize women. Don't stoop to think about marriage once you're married. Keep your radio turned low between two and four A. M. Don't read the funny paper while crossing city streets. Don't stand up in roller coasters. Drive with both hands and eyes, and your brain. Be sure they're mushrooms. Have plenty of water under the diving board. Give an Irish bricklayer his way. Never try to guess the location of a locomotive by its whistle. Make certain her husband is out of town.

Here are two more that I thought up myself: Don't get elected president of Mexico. Don't go down to a coal mine.

From 1954 to 1959, the number of turkeys produced declined, but the number of turkeys produced rose. Hatchings for the first part of this year indicate this trend may continue, says F. Z. By BOYCE HOUSE

Many Americans, who go abroad, come back with criticism of the ways of the inhabitants of the countries they visited. Just because they do something different from the way we do does not necessarily prove that they are backward, unprogressive, unenlightened.

For example in France (I understand) they eat four times a day and in Germany, five. (Not all of the repasts are full-fledged meals). Why should we consider that our three-meal-a-day procedure is sacred? (In fact, we have conceded that by adopting the twice-a-day so-called "coffee break" which often includes two biscuits with gravy and a couple of link sausages.)

In France (I believe) they speak of 13 o'clock and so on to 24 o'clock—which eliminates the confusion that a. m. and p. m. can sometimes cause.

In Latin American countries, they take a nap after the noon meal; and live longer.

Why, a friend of mine came back from the British Isles a good many years ago and when I asked what he thought about the English people, replied, "They drive on the left-hand side of the street—so that tells you."

He thought that it was almost blasphemous not to drive on the right-hand side.

Since then, our cities have put in one-way streets and we drive on the left side, right side and all over the street. What would he say that makes us?

Will Rogers said, after he had observed the dress and had heard the loud comments of numerous tourists, "The best Americans are the ones who stay at home." Of course, he was only kidding and so am I.

When I studied American history, we were taught that Andrew Jackson's forces fought behind cotton bales in the battle of New Orleans. (Incidentally, in New Orleans they call the battle Chalmette.)

In reading a few years ago about the battle, I learned that the cotton-bale idea wasn't such a good one—that the British bullets set the cotton on fire and so much smoke resulted that the marksmanship of the Tennessee and Kentucky riflemen was interfered with to such an extent that they had to change position. But no doubt each succeeding generation will have imprinted on their minds, in the seventh grade, to go through life, the picture of the Americans fighting behind the barricade of cotton bales.

When William Jennings Bryan began to write his "Memoirs," he set down the fact that he knew nothing of his ancestors, further back than three generations — his great-grandfathers.

May 22-31, 1861 PLAN FOR SOUTH

Good for you, Horace. The people of the South will not object to this arrangement, but will themselves divide up their land into nice little homesteads of six feet by two "due east and west" and every New York soldier who comes this way will be welcome to a lot. Come down, Horace, and take an interest; this is a fine opening—title good—no taxes to pay—free soil, just what you've always admired.

P. S. Come soon, Horace, before the lots are all taken. Bring James Gordon and Abraham along with you.—The Columbia Democrat.

Orders have been received from the Navy Department at Washington, by the officers of the various United States vessels, that all persons found sailing under Jefferson Davis' letters of marque and reprisal, be treated as pirates. That the confumacious be immediately hung from the yard-arms and the crew and more penitent officers be placed in irons to await their trials as ocean brigands.—Montgomery Mail.

THE OX AND THE BULL

The Yankee abolitionists, with characteristic inconsistency, impudence, and insincerity, are making a great hullabaloo over the act of the Southern government authorizing letters of marque and reprisal, as though it was not a legitimate and customary mode of warfare.

They roll their pious eyeballs in holy horror and declare the act as piracy; but like all their assumed philanthropy it is only a hollow pretense. With these Roundheads it has always been a true aphorism that "circumstances alter cases."

The North has the commerce and the South the privateers. That is the trouble—our bull is going their ox.—Indianola Courier.

LETTER TO EDITOR

Dear Editor:

The enterprising publications of the Galveston News propose to republish that part of "Gilhan's Manual," referring to the Infantry drill and the school of the soldier. I would suggest to them the importance of the bugle signals pertaining thereto. Gilhan's "Sounds for the Infantry," but there are no signals given for the skirmishers for "right wheel," "left wheel," "commence firing," "cease firing." Also a signal for the whole (that is for all troops present upon any occasion) ought to be given.

In addition to this, every Regiment and Company ought to adopt a signal to signify such Regiment or Company.

As a general thing, our signals are too long, but our Companies ought to by all means practice skirmishing, and other field drill, by the sound of the bugle. It will not do for them to consider themselves complete and ready for a campaign without this. A Private.—Weekly Telegraph, Houston.

In the present troubles of our country, England is disposed to move carefully, wishing France to

PULLET MANAGEMENT
For all practical purposes, managing pullets on the range differs very little from confinement management, says Joe Wakefield of the Poultry Science Department at Texas A&M College. A group of pullets that have been well managed in the brooder house should do equally well when turned onto the range. Close supervision is needed, however, until the birds become adjusted to their new environment.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"
 By C. WILSON HARDER

With one of the heaviest majorities on record on any issue, the nation's independent businessmen, voting through the National Federation of Independent Business, have expressed opposition to the proposal that the President of the United States be given the power to change the income tax rates. The vote against this proposal was 83%.

There has been considerable discussion along the Potomac of permitting C. W. Harder the president, at times where there is a slowdown in business activity, to reduce or even suspend, for a period, the income tax deduction on paychecks.

While at first blush this may sound like a logical way to meet an economic emergency, such a plan has many dangers. But probably foremost in the minds of the nation's independent businessmen when they considered this measure was a deep reluctance to transfer any more power from Congress to executive branch of federal government.

The businessmen have already seen the widespread destruction of vast areas of American business and employment when Congress relinquished control over tariffs to permit the State Dept. to sabotage the protective tariff system. They have seen the Federal Reserve Board play ducks and drakes with supply and cost of credit, and they have seen National Labor Relations Board play hob with everything.

But undoubtedly the greatest reason was the awareness that there is no simple nostrum to solve the present problems. Vast issues cannot be solved by half vast measures.

The problem of today and at least for the next decade is to provide more jobs. More jobs depend on more employers. To achieve more employers, there must be new business enterprises. For new enterprises there must be more risk capital.

Today, there is only half risk capital available, because the government takes no risk. Let a new business start, and if it doesn't make it, the starters of that business have taken all the risk. But let it make some money while still in its infancy, and the tax man is right at the door for his cut, whether or not the founding business needs these earnings to continue.

Thus, it would perhaps be nice at times for Joe to feel he could afford an extra beer on his way home, or for his wife to feel she could buy a new washing machine. But that is not going to encourage somebody to risk money in setting up a new brewery, or washing machine company, which would provide more jobs. Presumably, this could help an already existing brewery or factory, but the problem is not alone that of keeping present employing units healthy but also to promote new job creating enterprises.

Thus, the tax problem of today is not one of adding hasty emergency provisions to an already jerry built structure, but rather it is a problem of reforming the tax system so more people will be encouraged to risk money in new ventures to provide more jobs.

Santa Fe announces new shipping plan, fruits, vegetables

A completely new service for Santa Fe shippers of fresh fruits and vegetables from California and Arizona points was announced today by Ernest S. Marsh, Santa Fe Railway president, Chicago.

The new plan will involve the shipping of perishable commodities in 40 foot refrigerator trailers loaded on flat cars from California and Arizona to locations in Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Colorado, and Missouri.

This new operation will augment the existing service using regular ice cooled refrigerator cars and mechanical temperature controlled cars, Marsh said.

"Two trailers transported on one flat car affords increased capacity over regular refrigerator cars," Marsh pointed out. "This will allow us greater competitive flexibility by providing our shippers with door-to-door service coupled with economical rail transportation."

"We also anticipate that we will establish pick up and delivery rates on certain commodities to California and Arizona points from the areas to be served in the new operation," Marsh added.

Church dedication Sunday

through a vestibule to the left of the wrought-iron courtyard gate. The sanctuary, which will seat approximately 200, has exposed laminated wooden beams and custom-made furniture, especially designed for the new church.

At the front of the sanctuary are two pulpits, the choir section, a huge wall-cross, and high up and to the left of the pastor's pulpit are three narrow stained glass windows. These stained glass windows, as well as larger ones in the church's exterior wall, are imported.

The flat-roof building has approximately 8,200 square feet of floor space. Besides the sanctuary, it includes a fellowship hall, classrooms, women's parlor, pastor's study and built-in kitchen.

The new parsonage, just east of the church, has 1,500 square feet of floor space, and is of blending architecture.

One of the many features of the new church building is a fiberglass baptistry.

The fellowship hall has exposed rough-sawed beams and indirect lighting. Different shades and eye-tones have been used in the painting of the walls and ceilings of the various classrooms and other departments.

Storage cabinets line the hallway leading from the sanctuary to the other departments of the building.

Among the many architectural features is the sloping sanctuary ceiling, which slopes downward from the all-glass wall opening onto the courtyard. The courtyard has a covered walk, and there is a drive-in entrance on the west side of the building. This area is being paved for automobile parking and will accommodate some fifty cars.

In the vestibule is a memorial stand, in which will be placed the names of the church's charter members.

An extensive landscaping program is planned at the church and would already have been underway if there had been sufficient moisture. The new building was designed by G. Allen Heidbreder of Houston. Manhattan Construction Company of Texas was general contractor, with Ronnie Bouchier as project supervisor.

Sub-contractors were: Bud Sampson Company of Lubbock, mechanical, including heating and air-conditioning; Ed Merritt of Lubbock, painting; Paul Graham of Lubbock, floor covering; William Howell of Snyder, electrical, and Texas Roofing Company of Lubbock, roofing.

Lightning rods money savers

covered building without adequate grounding is not protected against lightning. W. S. Allen, extension agricultural engineer, says that proper grounding of such buildings, especially metal roofed structures, will prevent many fires.

Lightning protection is very inexpensive and easy to provide, Allen continues. All buildings with metal roofs or sides can be protected by grounding the roof at all four corners. This can be done by flattening the end of a piece of 1/2 or 3/4 inch galvanized iron or steel pipe and bending it so that it may be attached by bolts to the drip edge of the roof. For support, galvanized steel screw hooks should be placed on the side of the building and bent shut over the pipe.

After the pipe has been firmly attached to the roof, it may then be attached by galvanized wire and bent shut over the pipe, driven eight to ten feet into the ground. This ground pipe should be placed as close as possible to the building's foundation, Allen explains.

These lightning rods may not be as fancy as those of grandpa's day, but they serve the same purpose of property protection and fire prevention. Their installation could save you a great deal of money by preventing lightning damage, Allen concludes.

DICKENS VISITOR

Post men attend Weimhold rites

E. A. (Eddie) Warren and Charles Didway were in Levelland Sunday to attend the funeral of Forrest Weimhold, publisher of the Levelland Sun News, who died suddenly Friday morning.

Weimhold, who was 46, had lived in Levelland since 1939. In addition to his newspaper publishing and commercial printing enterprises, he established Levelland's radio station, which he owned until its sale about a year ago.

He was active in all community affairs and had been especially active in newspaper associations. At the time of his death, he was vice president of the Texas Press Association and was due to become its president at the annual convention in Dallas later this month.

Weimhold and his wife, Ruth, who survives, were longtime friends of Warren and his wife, Pauline, and had visited in their home here on numerous occasions. Didway is a former employe of Weimhold's newspaper at Levelland and was managing editor when it became a daily newspaper in 1952.

Besides his wife, Weimhold is also survived by his mother and a sister, both of Vega.

JUNE DAIRY MONTH
June is Dairy Month. This year's observance takes on added significance, says A. M. Meekma, extension dairy specialist, for a 25th birthday is to be celebrated. June is the month when milk production reaches a peak and the industry makes its greatest effort to tell the story and promote the use of its products. Meekma says Texans are happy to have a part in this nationwide tribute to the dairy industry.

Better quality cotton is goal of area producers

LUBBOCK — Consistency in production of better quality cotton is one of the long-range goals of cotton producers on the Texas High Plains and proof that this is underway and that progress is being made is evident in the 1960 cotton Quality Survey recently released by the Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. Cotton on the High Plains in 1960 showed an average grade of Middling Minus in the white cotton, and a full Middling grade in the Light Spotted cotton. These two grades account for about 86 per cent of the 1960 crop, George W. Pfeiffenberger, executive vice president, explained. The remaining 18 per cent of the 1960 crop did include some 7 per cent spotted cotton and wastes totaled 4 1/2 per cent, and all others such as grays, tinges and light grays totaled 2 1/2 per cent.

AVERAGE STAPLE length of the 1960 crop on the High Plains was 30.7 thirty-seconds inch with more than half of the crop, 52 per cent, measuring 31-32-inch or longer.

The micronaire average of the 1960 crop was 3.7 with 2-3 of the crop testing 3.5 or better. Pressley fiber strength averaged 77,000 pounds per square inch with 2-3 of the crop testing above 75,000 pounds.

In 1959 on the High Plains white cotton averaged only Strict Low Middling plus in grade and Light Spots averaged Middling. In that year 61 per cent of the cotton was graded as White cotton and about 34 per cent Light Spotted. Average staple length in 1959 was 30.3 thirty-seconds inch with about 45 per cent measuring 31-32-inch or longer. Micronaire was only 3.4 with about 45 per cent above 3.5 and Pressley fiber strength average was 75,000 pounds with about 47 per cent 75,000 and above.

IN 1958, THE all-time record high in production on the High Plains when 2,025,000 bales were produced. White cotton that year averaged Strict Low Middling in grade and Light Spots averaged Middling. A whopping 71 per cent of the crop that year was White cotton and about 26 per cent Light Spots and 2 1/2 Full Spots. Average staple length was 30.9 thirty-seconds inch with some 63 per cent measuring 31-32 inch and longer. Micronaire average that year was 4.0 with 81 per cent 3.5 or above and Pressley fiber strength was 74,600 pounds with about 47 per cent testing 75,000 and above.

Statistics from the Area Farm Management Specialist John Seibert of the Texas Extension Service, show that High Plains farmers had a yield of about 430 pounds of lint off of cotton in 1960 which produced an approximate net return per acre of some $40.13 for an approximate cost to produce a pound of lint of 18.7 cents.

The 1960 cotton crop was produced off of 2,152,245 harvested acres for a total yield of approximately 1,942,787 bales in the 23 member counties of the High Plains.

Prospects continue to look as good in 1961 since additional acreage is available and farmers will have 2,442,627 allotted acres available for planting. At present planting operations are from 80 to 85 per cent complete.

Travel Workshop Council prescribes Vitamin 'A' for tourist advertising

AUSTIN—Vitamin "A" for "advertising" was prescribed today for the ailing Texas tourist industry by the newly organized Texas Travel Workshop Council.

Secretary of State Frank Lake, on behalf of Governor Daniel, welcomed the group at its first meeting. Lake extended congratulations to the group on behalf of Governor Daniel for their interest in developing and promoting Texas' tourist industry. The Council is made up of a cross-section of men and women working in the tourist industry—representing tourist associations, oil companies, chambers of commerce, automobile clubs, restaurants, and special attractions.

Keynote speaker, Senator Bruce Reagan of Corpus Christi, presented evidence of the declining Texas tourist industry in his talk on "Texas Needs a State Advertising Program." Reagan is originator of Senate Bill 152 authorizing spending of state funds to advertise Texas. He told the group $300,000 in state funds for tourist advertising was the remedy, and if voted approval, would bring a tourist return of millions of dollars.

"WE CANNOT afford to ignore this important source of money. If Texas want these additional tourist dollars pumped into all phases of our economy, they must act now," Reagan stated. "The fate of the Texas advertising budget rests in the hands of the ten members of the Free Conference Committee of the Legislature. If you believe in tourist advertising, then let your wishes be known through your elected representatives or senator."

Reagan told the travel workshop that Texas is fading from the tourist market, as people here and for the states that advertise.

For three straight years Texas has had a decrease in number of visitors. Ten million tourists visited the state in 1958; last year 8.6 million.

Tom H. Taylor, Director of Travel Division of the Texas Highway Department, stressed the point that local groups can push state tourism without losing local color and identity.

"Media advertising is the invitation to come to Texas. Once the tourist is within the borders of the state, he finds the personalities of certain cities and tourist attractions especially appealing to his own special interests. Here is the strong local tie-in with an overall state advertising program. The state advertising program brings him into the showroom. Then the local salesman takes over," Taylor said.

DR. JOHN STOCKTON, Director of the Bureau of Business Research, the University of Texas, was main speaker at the afternoon session. He outlined the importance of a tourist survey—local, area and statewide.

The travel and tourist industry picture in Texas received close attention from all parts of the state, including panel members Bill Henderson, Director of Tourism, City of San Antonio; Jack Lacey, Manager of the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce; Bob Conwell, Director of the Coastal Bend Tourist Association; and Fred Pool, Executive Vice-President of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce. Tom Perkins, Austin Chamber of Commerce, was moderator.

Representatives were on hand from the Texas State Parks Board, Valley Chamber of Commerce, Deep East Texas Development Association, Highland Lakes Tourist Association, and various other tourist-minded groups throughout the state.

Biologists plan publication of white bass study

AUSTIN—Publication of white bass (sanders) information following a four-year study on Lake Texoma, now is being prepared by the Inland Fisheries Division of the Game and Fish Commission. This study was begun in 1954 by Edd Bonn, Lake Texoma biologist. It now is being coordinated by Ken Jurgens, assistant director.

Many interesting phases in the life of this prolific species will be covered in the published report, which will be used by biologists. The study was made on the basis of 3,254 tagged fish in the lake. Of that number, 348 later were taken by fishermen and the tags returned.

Studies on these indicated distance traveled by the fish, their growth, etc. The maximum distance traveled by the tagged fish was 200 miles.

Lake Texoma long has been one of the white bass hotspots of the nation. The creel limit in Texas is 25 per cent. On the Oklahoma side there is no limit.

Baccalaureate and commencement exercises held at Lincoln School

By SCHOOL REPORTER
Wednesday morning, May 17, we were honored to have the Rev. Ed Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, address the faculty and student body in assembly. His subject was "Using Your Talent," which was greatly enjoyed by all.

Baccalaureate services at the Lincoln Elementary School were held at 3 p. m. Sunday, May 21, in the school gymnasium. Deacon Jesse Brewer offered the invocation. Mrs. Pennie presented the simply that every special offered in Piggly Wiggly's in Lubbock is available right here in your Post store. What's more price specials by Piggly Wiggly's competitors in Lubbock on the food front, as carried on television, will be met right here at your Post Piggly Wiggly store.

That should put to rest the old saw that food prices are lower in Lubbock than in Post, a claim which has lured some Post folks up the highway to Lubbock to buy their groceries. All Post food stores are very competitive with their specials, and a reader has only to sit down with his Dispatch and his Lubbock paper on Thursday nights to see for himself that this is true. The added saving of shopping in Post for the local shopper is that the cost of driving to the big city is roughly $8 per trip—and more—figuring your auto operating costs at 10 cents a mile, a fairly representative standard these days.

Rev. S. L. Williams, pastor of Pleasant Home Baptist Church, delivered the baccalaureate

On Monday evening, May 22, 8 o'clock, the graduation exercises were held in the gymnasium. Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Lewis of The Flower Shop gave gifts to the graduates and Mrs. Pennie.

The Woman's Culture Club sent a book to the school in honor of Robert Lawrence Beau, who excelled his schooling in outside reading. Robert Lawrence was also valedictorian of the Teacher Association presented to each member of the graduation program were: Deacon Connor, who offered the invocation; Mrs. Pennie, who presented the speaker and served as one of the ceremonies; the Rev. G. Howell, pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church, who delivered the address; Matt L. Reese, who presented the diplomas, and Lewis, president of the P.T.A., told the audience about the P-T-A that were to be presented by P-T-A.

We were indeed happy to see Mrs. Florene Paul (formerly Irene Harris) and children in our city a few days. Mrs. Paul graduated from high school and is now married and living in San Francisco, Calif. Frances Marie Johnson, her sister, who is a salutatorian of her class at Lubbock '61, will accompany her back to San Francisco and junior high school this fall.

Legion Junior team to open league play here Friday

Beat Tahoka and Denver City in non-loop games

Post's American Legion Junior baseball team, winner of its first two starts, will open league play here at 8 o'clock Friday night against Stalon. The game will be played on the Babe Ruth League diamond.

The Post nine, which has defeated Tahoka and Denver City in non-league games, will play the Lubbock Auto team at Lubbock Tuesday night, June 6, and will play the same team here in a return game Friday night, June 9.

The Post team, coached by Bud Grant and A. L. North, defeated Denver City, 4 to 0, here Monday night, and last Friday night won at Tahoka, 3 to 0, also in a game played here.

Leslie Acker and John Valdez pitched for Post against Denver City, yielding four hits in the six-inning contest.

The Post team managed only one strike out, one of them a solo home run by John Valdez in the fifth inning. Post had gone ahead, 1-0, in the third frame on walks issued by Noel Landreth and Valdez, and sacrifice by Hernandez, which scored Landreth.

After Valdez' homer in the fifth, Post scored two more in the sixth on walks to Sepeda and Acker and singles by Landreth and Hernandez.

Pat Hubbard, the starting Denver City pitcher, was charged with the loss, while Post's starter, Acker, received credit for the win.

Against Tahoka Friday night, David Lee was the starting pitcher for Post and picked up the win. Lesches Avant and North played their entire squad of 21 men, with David Nichols, Acker and John Valdez also seeing mound duty.

Brav was the starter and loser at Tahoka.

Post got a total of four hits against three for the losers.

Dodgers, Red Sox rolling in Post's Little League

The Little League's Red Sox ran their scoring total to 33 runs in two games Saturday night when they slammed the Corvairs, 16 to 0. In their opener last Thursday night, the Red Sox whipped the Tigers, 17 to 5.

In Saturday night's second game, the Dodgers shut out the Yankees, 5 to 0, to keep pace with the Red Sox as league leaders.

The Sox shelled starting pitcher Billy Cates for 10 runs in the first inning. Steel came on in relief, holding the Red Sox pretty well in check until the fifth inning, when they broke loose for five more tallies.

Meanwhile, Sox pitchers Johnny Jones and Long were combining to hold the Corvairs to one hit, a first inning single by Jackie Huff.

Collazo and Heaton homered for the winners. Collazo's fifth inning homer coming as a grand slammer—the second of the young season at Little League Park.

Cubs win third straight game

The Cubs continued to roll last Thursday night by scoring a 14 to 4 victory over the Indians, while the Braves were taking the measure of the White Sox, 15 to 7, in Babe Ruth League games.

Third baseman Butch Cross' three hits in four at-bats helped power the Cubs to their third win of the season.

Charles Landreth was the starting pitcher for the Cubs, but J. C. Demming came on in relief to earn the victory. Bobby Dean was charged with the loss.

In their win over the White Sox, the Braves built up a 10-run lead before the White Sox scored three in the top of the fourth.

David Perez was the winning pitcher, getting help from Chunky Johnson after three innings.

GRAHAM—At a meeting here commemorating the founding of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association 84 years ago, Dolph Briscoe Jr., president of that Association said, "We cattlemen will continue to fight any type of government subsidy, price supports or production controls of the cattle industry." He also told his audience, composed mainly of beef cattle producers in that area, "It has been a real fight through the years to stay out of these government programs and it will be a continual fight; but I pledge to you the full resources of this Association to continue and to win this fight."

His remarks met with approval from all of those present and there was no question but what these grass root cattlemen were in perfect accord with the TSCRA to keep their industry out of any government program which would seek to regulate their business.

Cash grand slam against Athletics second of career
A grand slam homer by Norm Cash powered the Detroit Tigers to a 5-3 victory over the Kansas City Athletics in the first game of a holiday doubleheader Tuesday.

Coming in the eighth inning off Bud Daley, third Kansas City pitcher to work in the inning, Cash's homer pulled the Tigers from behind.

The circuit smash, which was the second grand slam of Cash's career, was off the facing of the upper deck in right field.

The blow increased by four Cash's runs-batted-in for the season, enabling him to gain on league leader Jim Gentile of the Baltimore Orioles.

The former Justiceburg and Post boy is second in American League batting, topped only by Harmon Killebrew of the Minnesota Twins. Kansas City won the second game of the Memorial Day doubleheader, in which Cash went hitless in two official at-bats.

The games opened a home stand for the Detroit team, which through Tuesday's games was leading the American League by two and one-half games.

Quail cover food is helping hold birds for Morton farm
AUSTIN — Cover and food for blue quail in North Texas is being provided on the farm of Joe B. Nicewarner of Morton, who has planned a real wildlife project on his land.

His work is described in an article in the current issue of Texas Game and Fish magazine. Edward E. Thomas, a U. S. Department of Agriculture worker, tells of the improvements made on Nicewarner's farm, located in predominantly clean-tilled, irrigated farm land.

Nicewarner enjoys hunting quail himself and has attempted to provide cover and food as nearly like a virgin area as possible.

He hauls in truckloads of tree limbs. They were placed cross on a stack of posts to provide brush covers. They give protection from both snow and predators.

Livestock is excluded from the area. Weed seed are planted to provide for ample food. Old tires are split to provide water catchers.

He recommends other landowners take similar steps to provide both cover and feed for birds.

Unbeaten Cubs, White Sox win Memorial Day games

The Cubs took over undisputed possession of the Babe Ruth League lead Tuesday night by defeating the Braves, 11 to 8, in the first of two Memorial Day games.

In the other game, cut to four innings by the lateness of the hour and the one-sided score, the White Sox clobbered the winless Indians, 17 to 0.

After taking a 4-0 lead through three and one-half innings, the undefeated Cubs had to pull all stops to win over the Braves. The score was knotted at 6-6 going into the top of the seventh, but timely hits by Louis Ayala and Danny Odom, three bases on balls and a flock of errors allowed the Cubs to score five runs and take an 11-6 lead.

The Braves fought back in the bottom of the seventh, with Alvin Harper, the first batter, smashing one of pitcher Filemon Vargas' offerings over the fence for the second Babe Ruth League homer of the season. That cut the Cub lead to 11-7, but the losers managed only one more run, with J. C. Demming relieving Vargas to put

In the air-tight Westerner-Yankee game, the Westerners won when Joe Reno scored in the bottom of the seventh to break a 7-7 tie.

Richard Scott homered for the Yankees in the fourth with no one on. The Westerners' big inning was the fourth, in which they chased six runs across the plate.

Jerry Sullivan was the winning pitcher, and Jackson was tagged with the loss.

The Red Sox got off to a four-run lead in the first in their lopsided victory over the Tigers.

Johnny Jones was the winning pitcher and Larry Jones was the loser.

AUSTIN—Don't kill the alligators! This is the advice of E. A. Walker, director of wildlife restoration of the Game and Fish Commission.

"This time of the year, when many people get onto the lakes and streams of Southeast Texas, they have the privilege of seeing one or more alligators," Walker said. "There is a tendency to shoot them on sight. In other areas, night hunters take alligators and sell their hides. There are even instances where alligators are killed and left to rot at the water's edge."

Walker admits there are a few times when the alligators may catch a small pig or dog that gets too close to the water. On the other hand, they also destroy a great many nutria, turtles and rough fish in the lakes and streams.

"Many counties of the state now have closed season on the 'gators,'" Walker said. "These animals serve a very useful purpose in the balance of nature, particularly in the swamps. If we can stop the ruthless slaughter we can have them around for a long time. Otherwise they soon may be killed off entirely."

The White Sox scored six runs in the first inning in their runaway win over the Indians. Five walks given up by pitcher Jesse Morales, a single by Collazo and a double by Benny Owen, who was up for the second time in the inning, accounted for the six tallies.

The Thrill That Comes Once in a Lifetime A WESTERN CLASSIC

By VERN SANFORD

Texas is a great state for hunters seeking lesser scaup and for fishermen angling for channel bass, spotted weakfish and cobia.

If you're an outdoorsman and these names don't ring a familiar bell don't be alarmed. They are not new species introduced to the state. They are species that have been here for a long, long time. You know them well—but by other names.

Actually you know them by their sectional names rather than their common proper names.

The lesser scaup is the bluegill; the channel bass is the redfish; the spotted weakfish is the speckled trout; and the cobia is the ling.

For many, many years there has been considerable confusion over the common names of fish, birds and animals. With Texas' population growing, that confusion has spread into the Lone Star State because many of the folks now residing here came from other sections of the nation.

All fish, birds and animals have scientific names. But few people can pronounce these Latin names, much less remember them.

Scientific names are chosen according to the international rules of scientific nomenclature and a scientific name can be applied to only one fish, bird or animal.

In a scientific name, the first name is the genus and the second name of the species. At times there will be a third name which indicates a sub-species.

We won't go into the scientific names applied to our wildlife, but let's consider the proper names—and sectional names or nicknames applied to some of our birds and fish.

Let's first consider some of the freshwater fish common to the state. Listed below are the proper common names of fish, followed by the sectional names or nicknames.

LARGEMOUTH BASS—Black bass, bigmouth, bronze-black, southern trout, green trout and linesides.

WHITE BASS—Sand bass, silver bass, striped bass, striper, sandy and barfish.

BLUEGILL—Blue bream, blue-mouth, sunfish, bream, copperhead bream and dollardee.

WHITE CRAPPIE—This fish has more sectional names than any other fish. Just a few include: bride perch, bachelor, campbellite, papermouth, sac-a-lait, lamplighter, chinquapin perch and goggle eye.

Saltwater fish common to Texas have their share of nicknames. Here are a few:

CHANNEL BASS—Redfish, red drum, bronzeback and spot-tail.

SPOTTED WEAKFISH—Speckled trout, speck, spotted squeteague.

saltwater trout and yellowmouth trout.

COBIA—Ling, lemonfish, sergeant fish, lingcod and buoy-tender.

Now let's try the same thing with some of the waterfowl that winter in our state:

CANADA GOOSE—Honker, Canadian honker, ringneck goose, white neck, northern goose and winter goose.

SNOW GOOSE—White brant, wavy, and galup goose. It should be pointed out here that the true brant doesn't come to Texas. It is found strictly on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts and then in very limited areas. Any true brant that comes into Texas is a non-conformist.

PINTAIL—Sprig spike-duck, spike-tail duck, gooseneck duck and whistling duck.

MALLARD—Greenhead, northern mallard, winter mallard and puddler.

LESSER SCAUP—Bluebill, raft duck, blackie and blackheads.

RUDDY DUCK—This duck has 23 nicknames. Just a few include: masked duck, robber duck, fantail duck, blackcap, blackjack, ruddy and spiketail.

It sounds odd that the ruddy duck should be called "fantail" and "spiketail." But here's why. When the duck is flying, the tail does look like a spike. At rest on the water the duck spreads its tail like a fan.

Some time ago the Outdoor Writers Assn. of America compiled a list of American sports fish, using one name only to designate each species. Although OWAA released the list several years ago, most writers continue to use the most common name used in their respective areas.

So it looks like we'll have to live in a world where many names will be applied to the same fish, bird or animal—regardless of how confusing it might be.

Just because a fellow calls a fish by a name other than the one you apply to it, don't take the guy for a foreigner or a dunderhead.

It just might so happen that he knows more about the fish than you do, even if he does refer to it by a different name.

Hog producers should pay attention to details which insure the health of their swine herd instead of depending upon a "wonder drug" when illness strikes. Dr. C. M. Patterson, extension veterinarian, says an effective health program is much better than a reliance on drugs. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, he says.

Electric project proving popular in 4-H clubs throughout nation

CHICAGO—A little over 200 years ago Ben Franklin tied a key to his kite string and got one of the most important shocks in history. And about 80 years ago another enterprising American soldered a couple of wires together under glass and illuminated buildings and streets.

Others since have added many inventions and refinements to the electrical industry until today virtually every house, store, factory, farm and school in the state depends largely on electrical energy.

With widespread use came a need for better understanding the fundamentals of heat, light, power and communications. One such need has been fulfilled for Texas youth through a state-wide 4-H electric program supervised by the Cooperative Extension Service, Texas A&M College, and sponsored by Westinghouse Educational Foundation.

This year with the help of volunteer 4-H leaders, county Extension agents and other qualified individuals, nearly 6,000 boys and girls are participating in an electric project.

Projects range from simple cord repair jobs to building complicated electronic units. And like their illustrious forefathers, the 4-H'ers strive to increase knowledge and application of electricity.

Incentive awards include college scholarships, educational trips and honor medals. The county having the best rated electric program in the state receives a recognition plaque.

Besides the immediate advantages of this modern program, many 4-H'ers find it an avenue to a future career, says the National 4-H Service Committee, which distributes six $400 Westinghouse scholarships each year to college students.

Driver licensing bill praised by Governor

AUSTIN—Gov. Price Daniel today praised the action of the Texas House of Representatives in passing the driver's licensing bill. "It is the first major breakthrough in years in major traffic legislation," the Governor said. The bill was authored by State Rep. Bob Johnson of Dallas and Pete Snelson of Midland. State Rep. Alonzo Jamison of Denton, chairman of the House Highway and Roads Committee which approved the bill, was also chairman of the Texas Legislative Council's study committee which, in 1958, recommended revision and modernization of the 20-year-old driver's license law.

Governor Daniel said: "I am proud of the House leadership and its responsibility in moving this vital legislation to a final decision by such an overwhelming approving vote—128 to 16. This legislation modernizes the old law by clarifying numerous provisions which have been given so many varying interpretations by various courts that its effectiveness was seriously impaired. If the Senate gives its approval, it will plug many of the legal loopholes by which thousands of Texas drivers have been arrogantly disobeying the driver's license laws and then escaping justice in our courts by various legal maneuverings based on the ineffectiveness of the law itself.

"THE ONLY PEOPLE we are after are those drivers whose own records prove that they cannot or will not obey the laws and who show no regard for other drivers and citizens," the Governor continued.

"This is the first major breakthrough in recent years in modern traffic safety legislation for Texas, and I sincerely hope the Senate will find it possible to speed House Bill 652 through to final passage. The records of past Legislatures, during the past 25 years, show that when the Legislature takes positive, decisive action on traffic legislation, the number of traffic deaths drop sharply within the next two years. I am confident that final passage of the new driver's licensing law will bring about a similar effect in the two years to come when the Senate approves the measure."

Governor Daniel said the measure had the combined support and backing of the Governor's Highway Safety Commission, the Texas Safety Association, many citizens' and civic organizations and "thousands of ordinary citizens who have written my office in the past four years to plead and demand that we take the necessary steps to handle lawless drivers on Texas highways."

March of Dimes Expands Aid for Victims Of Crippling Birth Defects, Arthritis, Polio

Victims of crippling birth defects and rheumatoid arthritis, among the largest groups of the medically underprivileged in the nation, can soon look for help virtually at their doorsteps, thanks to the March of Dimes.

The National Foundation, supported by March of Dimes funds, has broadened its horizons to give direct aid to children under the age of 19 suffering from all types of birth defects. Aid was previously limited to children with open spine, open skull and water on the brain.

The voluntary health organization has also authorized its 3,100 chapters throughout the United States to use available funds to establish a network of Special Treatment Centers and Evaluation Clinics for birth defects and arthritis. Assistance to polio victims will be continued.

The National Foundation's experience with polio treatment and rehabilitation centers as well as pilot projects conducted in birth defects and arthritis has proved the value of bringing together teams of experts to deal with medical, economic and social problems of chronically disabled patients and their families.

Under the newly expanded program, National Foundation chapters will finance Special March of Dimes-supported Special Treatment and Clinical Study Centers offering comprehensive care to victims of birth defects, arthritis and polio are expanding throughout U. S.

Treatment Centers at major hospitals in several large cities. These will operate full time and provide treatment for both in- and outpatients through teams of specialists in the medical and allied professions.

For areas isolated from large medical centers, chapters will develop birth defects and arthritis Evaluation Clinics to offer outpatient care only, through periodic clinics with visiting medical specialists.

Cases that require more extensive care or hospitalization may be referred through Evaluation Clinics to Special Treatment Centers.

On the national level, March of Dimes funds will continue to support and expand Clinical Study Centers which provide exemplary total care for birth defects, arthritis and polio victims and also conduct research in those diseases.

As the number of centers of all three types increases, there will be an increase in knowledge and improvement of treatment facilities and techniques to bring closer to reality the control of chronic crippling diseases.

In conducting its vastly expanded patient aid program, The National Foundation will emphasize aid in areas of unmet needs. It will not duplicate assistance already being provided by other agencies.

Blind student graduating at Wayland

PLAINVIEW—If blindness has been a handicap for Tommy Martinez, first blind student to be graduated from Wayland Baptist College, other qualities such as determination and a personality that has won him the admiration of his classmates have far outweighed it in the final reckoning.

Graduating in the usual four years with no extra summer work, Tommy has made a remarkable record at Wayland for any student, handicapped or not. While taking a normal course load each semester, Tommy has also been active as a member of Volunteer Mission Band and a representative of his class to the student governing council. He has also served on the court of his dormitory. Last year Tommy's popularity was further proved by his selection as junior class favorite.

One of the activities which kept Tommy most busy was his participation in mission work, both during school semesters and summer vacation. He has made regular visits with the Mission Band on Friday nights to mission points around Plainview, and served as Young People's leader in Training Union and a Sunday School teacher in the Finney Baptist Church near Plainview. For two summers he worked under the auspices of the Baptist General Convention of New Mexico as a youth counselor.

Tommy, however, gives a lot of credit for his accomplishments to his classmates at Wayland. "My friends and classmates have always been thoughtful in helping me get around on campus," says Tommy, who can nevertheless go almost anywhere on the 80-acre campus unaided. "Many others have been wonderful in sacrificing their time to read to me and to fill me in on class notes that I might have missed."

Impressed by Tommy's independence and determination, students at Wayland have twice banded together in all-campus efforts to provide special needs for the blind college student. Spearheaded by Jim DeWese, student from Midland, Mich., a campaign to raise funds for a tape recorder to help Tommy in his studies began in 1958. Assisting in the directing of the funds were Martin W. Landers, assistant professor of speech at Wayland, and Mrs. E. D. Sansing, dormitory mother at McDonald Hall where Tommy lives.

Publicity concerning the students' efforts to "help Tommy help himself" aroused interest in West Texas, New Mexico and Michigan, and once the tape recorder was purchased the students set about to raise another fund to purchase a Braille typewriter. Just a year later Tommy was the proud owner of both study aids, thanks to student as well as off-campus contributions.

Tommy, who claims Raton, N. M., as home, was graduated from the Visually Handicapped School of Alamogordo, N. M. The First Baptist Church of Alamogordo continually lends Tommy support by helping pick up the tab for his education at Wayland.

It has been a little more than 19 years since five-year-old Tommy Martinez was seriously burned on his face, arms and parts of his body by an exploding can of hot eye. More than 18 operations have been performed since that day in May, 1942, and though the operations have given Tommy some relief from pain, they cannot help his eyesight. But Tommy has never let his blindness stand in his way, and his future seems bright to him.

"Even in high school I was eager to participate in as many activities as possible," Tommy says. "Now that I have fulfilled one ambition—to go to college—I hope to do further study at Golden Gate Seminary in California."

State Capital NEWS

AUSTIN—Final week of the Legislature's 57th regular session was the most—with minor bills tumbling out in an avalanche and major bills tied up in conference committee.

Under now-or-never pressure, lawmakers searched desperately for compromises, but found their differences deep and hard to bridge. Small loan regulation—stickiest of many sticky problems—boggled down in the Senate State Affairs Committee. It was an issue on which feelings seemed to run deeper and divisions deeper as time went on.

But many other bills "made it" appeared to have, by receiving final passage in both houses as the session drew to a close. Among them were bills that would:

Outlaw selling liquor by the drink for the "front" of a private club and provide for licensing and regulation of bona fide private clubs by the State Liquor Control Board.

Pay members of the State Board of Insurance annual salaries, not to exceed $20,000, instead of the present $50 for each working day. Salaries were pegged at $16,000 in the appropriations bill.

Regulate importation of milk from other states. Result here did not make milk producers happy. It would allow milk to be imported into Texas if an inspector from the producing state certified its purity. Texas producers sought a bill requiring certification by a Texas inspector.

Make an emergency allocation of $3,000 to the Department of Corrections, hard hit financially by power failures on prison farms.

MEMBERS OF the Legislature constitutionally entitled to receive $400 a month salaries dating back to Nov. 25, 1960, according to an attorney general's opinion.

But whether to accept this money is a question of another sort. Nov. 25 was the effective date of a constitutional amendment authorizing $4,800 a year salaries for legislators. Amendment was not put into effect until the Legislature met Jan. 10 and voted a salary appropriation.

House had its payroll start Jan. 10. Senate's started Jan. 10. Two House members have since refunded to the state $116 each, an amount covering the period from Jan. 1-10 when the Legislature wasn't in session.

Most members have indicated, ruling or no ruling, they have no intention of trying to get pay dating back to Nov. 25—when some weren't even in office.

MAMMOTH University of Houston will become the 20th member of the state-supported college system in September, 1963, if Governor Daniel signs the bill passed by both houses.

Bill was hard fought by those who felt the state already has more state colleges than it can take care of. It was filibustered for a month in the Senate and had to pass the House twice. It made it through the last round in the House with a bit of help from Speaker James Turman—who held up announcing the vote until enough members had changed their minds to put the bill through.

IN THE Waning days of the Legislature, Governor Daniel made a strong plea for highway safety legislation.

Reduction of traffic deaths has been a cause for which the governor has worked unstintingly during all his years as chief executive.

Texas, he reminded the Legislature, has lost 4,707 lives to traffic accidents in the past two years. Had all these deaths occurred in a single disaster, said the governor, the Legislature would be swift to take emergency action.

Daniel asked for passage of bills to revise the drivers' license law, provide for driver education, allow chemical tests to determine drunkenness, set up a system of traffic courts and increase number and salaries of state highway patrolmen.

TWO BILLS TO give extra help to persons on the state welfare rolls have received final passage from both House and Senate.

One, already signed by the governor, would increase by $1,800,000 a year the amount that may be paid out by the state to the aged and blind. This puts the annual spending up to the $47,000,000 ceiling.

Another provides for medical care up to $12 a month for those on old age assistance. Payment would be made directly to the "vendors"—i. e., doctors, hospitals, nursing homes.

Senate backed off from a proposed constitutional amendment that would have completely removed the $47,000,000 a year ceiling on state welfare payments. It amended it to provide for a $3,000,000 a year increase. This measure, if approved by the House, will have to be voted on by the people.

OBJECTIONS OF theater operators allegedly caused a House-passed bill aimed at obscene literature to be sidetracked in Senate committee.

Rep. Tom James of Dallas, sponsor, protested, declaring the bill wouldn't "touch" commercial movie houses. He said it was aimed at distributors of filthy books, magazines, pictures and records.

ALSO UP TO the people in 1962 elections will be a decision on whether to let the state sell off— to non-veterans, if necessary—land forfeited under the veterans land program.

It is in the form of a proposed constitutional amendment which passed finally in both houses. In some cases the state has had to re-possess land because of failure of the vet buyers to keep up payments. Much of the re-possessed land was involved in the "block deals" that caused the "land scandals." Sponsors of the proposal say it will make it easier for the state to "move" this land and get its money back.

PEOPLE WILL be called on to vote in November, 1962, on a proposed constitutional amendment that would guarantee "trial de novo" on appeals from administrative board decisions.

Many will not understand it, but those affected feel strongly about the issue.

Trial de novo means trial anew. This means that anyone dissatisfied with a decision of a state board—such as the State Water Board, Insurance Board or Railroad Commission—could appeal to the courts and have the whole case heard over again from the start with the court's deciding how it should be settled.

Present practice has been to have judicial review of administrative decisions under the "substantial evidence" rule. In effect, the court looks the matter over to see if the board had "substantial evidence" for ruling as it did.

BRIG. GEN. James E. Taylor, former state senator and House member, has been appointed state adjutant general to succeed Maj. Gen. K. L. Berry.

Taylor's appointment by Governor Daniel was followed by swift Senate confirmation. This was done in a wind-up session in which the Senate approved all the governor's pending appointments.

Taylor is formerly of Kerens where he was a newspaper publisher. He served with the 36th Division during World War II.

General Berry, who will retire as a lieutenant general on July 1, had served as adjutant general 14 years.

IN THE FINAL days of the session, these bills were among those apparently too bogged down to get final passage:

1. A new graduated tax on gas by Rep. Bob Eckhardt of Houston. House killed the bill which aimed at putting a progressively higher tax on those holding long-term contracts for gas at low prices.

2. A bill setting limitations and regulations on annexation by cities, by Sen. Grady Hazlewood of Amarillo. Senate apparently gave the bill a death sentence by refusing to take it up.

3. "Little Hoover Commission" bill, which would have set up a commission to study ways to economize in government, introduced by Sen. Bill Patman of Ganado. Senate refused to take it up, also.

4. Allowing 10-to-2 jury verdicts in civil cases, by Sen. Martin Dies Jr. of Lufkin. Senate refused to take it up.

5. Provision of more pay for a longer period for unemployed workers, by Rep. Tony Koriotti. Bill was passed on second reading, then it was found the increases would cost employers a much-higher-than-planned $17,000,000 a year. Last-minute compromises were sought.

New 3<sup>3</sup>/<sub>4</sub>% interest on U.S. Savings Bonds

The Treasury explains why the new ones you buy and the ones you own now are better than ever

- Q How does the new 3 3/4% interest rate benefit me?
A With Series E Bonds, the rate jumps $18.75 into $25.00 four-year, monthly faster than the old rate. Your savings increase faster, because your Bonds mature in just 7 years, 9 months.
- Q With the new interest rate, should I cash in my old Bonds and buy new ones?
A No. The automatic 1 1/2% increase makes it unnecessary—and in almost every case it is to your advantage to retain your present Bonds.
- Q How safe are U.S. Savings Bonds?
A Savings Bonds are an absolutely riskless way to save. The United States Government guarantees the cash value of your Bonds will not drop, that it can only grow.
- Q What if my Bonds should be lost, stolen or destroyed?
A You can't lose. Every Bond purchased is recorded by the Treasury. If anything happens to your Bonds they are replaced—free.
- Q How do I help strengthen America's peace power when I buy U.S. Savings Bonds?
A Peace costs money—money for military strength and for science. And money saved by individuals helps keep our economy sound.

YOU SAVE MORE THAN MONEY WITH U.S. SAVINGS BONDS

This young lady is really perplexed. Mother told her not to climb chairs and not to throw things, especially dishes. Along came a nice photographer and he not only encouraged her to climb up on the stool but to throw dishes into the air. What was more astonishing the melamine dishes didn't break. (She didn't know they weren't supposed to.) Now she wonders why what was good enough for the photographer isn't good enough for mother.

Fort Worth to host Southwest's first National Appaloosa Show

Fort Worth—The Southwest will host its first National Appaloosa Horse Show here June 15-18.

Commonly called "Spotted Horses," the best of the nation's oldest breed will move into Fort Worth's Will Rogers Coliseum for the 14th National Show, with the hopes of making this the most out- standing event in the breed's colorful history.

Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Louisiana breeders are going "all out" this year. These states have experienced tremendous growth in Appaloosas recently, and now have the chance to turn out in full dress to compete with the nation's best.

Judging is to get under way Saturday, June 17, and be conclud- ed Sunday evening. However, Thursday and Friday will be full days.

A cutting horse clinic is schedul- ed for Thursday at 1 p. m.; a reg- istered Appaloosa sale Friday at 1 p. m.; a meeting of the board of directors is planned, and the gen- eral membership meeting is slated for Friday evening. Breeders from as far away as Canada, New York, Washington and Florida will be on hand.

The Texas Appaloosa Horse Club will host the show.

About your health

The greatest public health campaign since Teddy Roosevelt's day is underway across the nation and Texas. This time the enemy is polio instead of "Yellow Jack."

If the same relentless attack is pursued in the eradication of polio, it too may become almost a memory as yellow fever became in a few short years following Dr. Walter Reed's discovery that mosquitoes were the carriers of disease "Yellow Jack."

Vaccination is the key to complete victory over the crippling effects of paralytic poliomyelitis. The Salk vaccine has proven overwhelmingly effective as a preventive against the disease.

With the advent of the Salk vaccine, the incidence of paralytic polio has steadily declined in Texas from 818 cases in 1955 to a recent low last year of 118.

So far during 1961, paralytic polio cases are running slightly below last year's figures. At the end of the first 18 weeks six cases of polio compared to nine cases during the same period last year and 92 cases in 1955.

However, the fact of the matter is that there is still a huge reservoir of unprotected persons who could fall victim to the disease if a severe outbreak should occur.

Especially vulnerable are preschool and children. Records show, most polio cases strike children under five years of age.

Also, unprotected young adults—especially parents of young children—are oftentimes stricken. The intensive anti-polio campaign is directed towards "babies and breadwinners."

This slogan is the title of a pamphlet outlining procedures to follow in local campaigns. Step-by-step plans for conducting successful vaccination programs are outlined. Program procedures are performed by local authorities. Program advice is available from the State Health Department's Communicable Disease Division in Austin. (A weekly feature from Public Health Education Division, Texas State Department of Health.)

Vet's Forum

Q. I know of an employee of a Federal nonmilitary agency who became ill overseas and was rushed back to the U. S. and into a VA hospital. He is not a veteran. How can he receive VA care?

A. As a beneficiary of the Federal agency, on request of this agency to the VA. About 93 per cent of the VA hospital patient load is made up of nonveterans for whom the VA receives reimbursement. Included are military personnel on active duty and Federal employees injured or disabled in the course of their employment.

Q. Will the VA accept a court order declaring presumptive death after a seven year unexplained absence of a veteran?

A. Not usually. However, the specific facts should be presented to the nearest VA office for an individual ruling.

Q. Is Confederate service the same as Union service for the purpose of VA benefits for dependents?

A. Yes, widows and helpless children of Confederate veterans have been eligible for pension payments since July 1, 1958.

Q. My foster son was killed in service recently. We raised him since he was a baby. Am I entitled to benefits? I have no income.

A. Yes, get in touch immediately with your nearest VA office.

EXAM IS OVER

Nothing quite compares with the exhilaration of that final day at high school.

The drudgery of note-taking, the monotony of assignments and recitation, the tedium of term papers, the nights of cramming, the toiling tension of exam week... it's all behind them.

And ahead... graduation... the prom... college... a job.

But as an earnest parent, pause to take stock of your son's spiritual maturity. Has the soul's growth kept pace with the mind's?

The firmness of the bond between the Home and the Church holds the answer. Strengthen that bond every Sunday. In a world that constantly tests the faith of men... the last exam is not over.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Post student in Germany writes about school work

Editor's Note: Andy Schmidt, of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Schmidt, is attending Tubingen University in Germany, after three years of study at Southern Methodist University. In recent letters, Andy has told of beginning school work, and some of his experiences. The following articles contain excerpts from the letters.

The advantage of the German universities is that in most courses—except for laboratory work—you don't have written work or tests. You just have to learn everything before you attempt either your preparatory test or final. This way if you have a lot to do during the semester, or get behind, you can study and learn on your own during the vacations, as most German students do.

We have the entire week of May 21-27 free and I am considering taking a student trip to Berlin. The transportation and meals for one week costs 50 D. M., or $12.50.

Not bad, huh?

I AM VERY well-pleased with school thus far. For one thing, I wanted to take some science courses—physics, etc.—and here I will be required to know this material. Second, most lectures have a complementary laboratory or practice session. This is very similar to graduate work in the States. Third, I am pretty excited about my teachers. I had a talk with the head of the psychology department. We discussed my situation and goals and he advised me which courses to take. He also said I should use my time not only in studying and learning from books, but that I should attend various lectures, operas, dances and concerts and should spend time with my fellow students in order to become acquainted with the way of life here.

Despite my "inspiration", German is still the language of the lectures and is pretty hard, especially in fields which are almost totally new to me—physics and physiology, for example. Some of the terms used are Latin, and the English words are almost the same.

I RECEIVED some literature from the Mental Health Institute in Bethesda, Md., concerning opportunities in the mental health field. I can't see far enough and am not familiar enough with the field to know exactly what phase I will go into, but I am pretty well sold on psychology.

Last night I joined a gymnastics class. Athletics here are a part of the school, but voluntary. During the last three or four years I have become convinced that gymnastics is basic to all other sports. In gymnastics a person learns to control and use his own body—timing, speed, endurance, grace—and these things are essential in other sports.

I've met a lot of students during the last week and a half—Germans and Americans. There are supposed to be about 95 Americans here. Of about 10 or 12 whom I have met, all except two have at least a B. A.; that is a requirement for most foreign scholarships.

I AM PAYING what amounts to about $19 for my room and use of the kitchen. Most students pay from $10 to $26. This deal is really good, because the housewife and her 17-year-old daughter speak good English and help me with my German—the girl especially. She makes me explain all sorts of things to her so I will increase my vocabulary and fluency in speaking. I also will start learning French (on my own) within a few days, and the daughter has volunteered to help me with that, too.

In my room I have a very nice short-wave radio on which I can hear stations from all over Europe. The Radio Moscow program is the biggest bunch of propaganda I have ever heard. It is in English. I can also watch TV anytime I want. I watch the news and sports programs and once in a while something else when I am tired of concentrating.

Rain beneficial, but wind, hail damaging

By MRS. O. H. HOOVER

The Vacation Bible School begins June 5 at the Nazarene Church of Grassland. All children are invited to attend.

Mrs. W. G. McCleskey and grandchildren visited in the home of Mrs. C. C. Jones Friday afternoon. Other guests were Mrs. E. M. Walker, Mrs. C. B. King and Mrs. C. M. Greer.

Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Davis returned over the weekend after being with her father, who is seriously ill. They will attend their daughter, Dixie Lee's graduation from Texas Christian College Monday, and return to Timpson to be with Mrs. Davis' father.

REV. CLIFFORD Mayo, a former pastor of the Grassland Methodist Church, preached Sunday at the Post Church of the Nazarene. Rev. Mayo is an evangelist.

Mrs. Lucille Walker visited her brother, J. W. Inklebarger, at the Tahoka hospital Saturday morning. Other visitors included his aunt, Mrs. O. H. Hoover.

An average daily attendance at the Central Baptist Church Vacation Bible School numbered 50. The school closed Friday night with a special program.

Rev. and Mrs. S. M. Bean visited in the community Friday en route to Abilene to attend graduation exercises for their daughter, Harriet, from McMurry College. Mrs. Bean visited in the W. P. Thomas home and Rev. Bean visited at the church with the pastor, H. A. Watkins, and Gus Porterfield who were working on the sanctuary.

Mrs. C. O. McCleskey was in Lubbock recently with her daughter-in-law to take two-year-old Kurt McCleskey to a dental specialist.

MR. AND Mrs. Roy Lemond and Jerri moved into their new home last week.

Mrs. E. B. Gregg took her two grandsons to their home in Plainview Thursday after they had spent several days here while their father, Gene Nunn, was hospitalized for rheumatism in his muscles.
