

LAST WEEK OF "NUMBER PLEASE?"

Switchboard operators, shown above, begin their final week of handling local phone calls Thursday as the conversion to modern dial is scheduled for late next Wednesday night. At that time, Post's phone patrons will begin dialing seven digit numbers automatically to place their calls and the girls above will receive termination pay and start looking for new jobs.

Dial phone conversion to come next Wednesday

Time will be close to midnight

General Telephone Company is working full steam ahead for its Wednesday, Nov. 30, "D-Day" for customers in Post, Wayne King, district manager for General, said today.

On that day, sometime between 10 p. m. and midnight, the cut-over from the present common battery operation to the modern dial system will take place. This time has been chosen, King said, because that is the period of least traffic over the telephone circuits.

Meantime, work is progressing at the company's new plant. The intricate task of tying-in hundreds of circuits is going into its final stage.

"By the completion of the cut-over, the 1631 telephones in Post will be converted to America's most modern telephone system, the automatic dial operation," he said.

Voting methods need changing

The recent presidential election turned the spotlight on some Texas voting habits which need changing.

One example: voters in Lubbock are up in arms now about the same objections The Dispatch has raised for a couple of years—secrecy of the ballot. Another example: checks have shown that an alarming percentage of Texans "spoiled" their vote for either Jack Kennedy or Dick Nixon by not scratching enough on their scratch ballots. It is safe to say that probably 25,000 or more Texans went to the polls for the general election but didn't get to have their choices counted because they had failed to mark out one of the minor parties.

Let's look at the first example—secrecy of the ballot.

In the first place, everybody deserves privacy when he or she marks his ballot. Post has some new voting booths at City Hall for those elections, but there were none in any of the voting places in the county for the general election. Neither were there in Lubbock, where voters were jostled around while trying to "scratch" their ballots. In Lubbock they want either curtained booths or voting machines. The machines are expensive in initial cost, but save considerable election costs through the years because the long hours of ballot counting is eliminated. Voting booths don't cost so much.

The strange thing about all this is that the law guarantees the voter some ballot privacy. In other words, the current status just "ain't legal."

Some gain — but some loss too

In just another week, Post and its immediate telephone area will hear the voice of the operator no more. The cutover to dial phones is near.

Most phone patrons are happily awaiting the change. They think it will mean quicker service. They are always impatient when they pick up the phone and wait to hear a voice ask, "Number, please?"

But automation won't be all gain. When the switchboard voices are gone, a lot will be missing, too.

Telephone operators here, as in all towns, have saved lives with their prompt aid in times of some dire emergency.

When somebody shouts excitedly into the receiver, "Get me a doctor," the operator knows what to do and does it, helping the excited one select the physician desired by name, asking if an ambulance or other assistance is needed, and then getting busy and tracking down the doctor.

That's one kind of telephone service we will give up next week when the cutover comes. Whom we get on the other end of our phone lines then will be strictly up to us. With dial phones we'll be "on our own."

Our switchboard operators have done a good job, often in a difficult situation. Post's manually operated switchboard is an ancient one in which the spark of life and hope has been kept alive. It isn't the easiest on which to work.

It was only reasonable that General Telephone waited until the time when a change to dial phones could be initiated here before making major equipment improvements—because such equipment costs are exceedingly heavy.

The time is almost here to tell our telephone operators goodbye and to thank them for the fine service they have rendered us down through the years.

Something will be missing next Thursday. There will be no cheery "Number, please?" The services a lot of us simply "took for granted" will no longer be available. We'll be on our own in a more automatic and "progressive" world.—JC

On scientific feasting

The Pilgrim homemaker boiled and toiled for days to prepare for the first Thanksgiving dinner in 1621. But, thanks to methods of food preservation she never dreamed of, her modern sister can put a similar feast on the table in a matter of hours.

Thanks to the World Book Encyclopedia, today's Thanksgiving editorial offers you a bird's eye view of the historical development of the Thanksgiving food preparation process.

It was almost 200 years after Governor William Bradford decreed a day of thanksgiving that canning was invented. A candymaker named Nicolas Appert published the report of his invention in 1810, after collecting the prize of 12,000 francs that the French government had offered for a method of preserving food for its troops.

Now the housewife can simply open a can of mince-meat, pumpkin, or cranberry sauce—or any of the other foods that bring the yearly retail value of canned foods to approximately $4.5 billion.

Or, she can roast a frozen turkey and open a package of frozen corn, part of the $2 billion worth of frozen food that is produced annually. The Pilgrims probably kept some foods on ice, but it was the mechanical refrigeration developed in the late 1800's and the quick-freezing process of Clarence Birdseye, developed in the 1920's that made freezing an important means of food preservation.

In Thanksgiving dinners yet to come, the housewife may serve a freeze-dried turkey, one that has been quick-frozen and the moisture removed. Freeze-drying was used in the days of the Pilgrims, but only for preserving biological specimens in the laboratory. Just a few decades ago, scientists began to apply this method to food. A shipment of freeze-dried food currently is nourishing Sir Edmund Hillary's scientific expedition to the Himalayas.

Recently scientists have been experimenting with irradiation as a method of preserving food. If further experiments are successful, guess what? Tomorrow's turkey dinner may be chock full of gamma rays.—JC

Another Chest reminder

Garza's Community Chest drive is far from over. It's reached that all-important cleanup stage.

This is the time when drive workers find out whether the big effort is to be crowned with success, or whether the goal is going to be missed.

That's why for the third week in a row The Dispatch is giving some of its editorial space to reminding every reader to do YOUR share in making the drive for nine participating organizations a successful one.

This is organized giving. One drive to do the work of nine.

Remember, if you've been missed and have not been contacted, take the initiative. Stop in at the bank and leave your Chest contribution with one of the officers. All of them are working hard to make the Chest succeed, just as are so many business and professional folks around town.

Remember, too, to give generously. A quarterly or monthly deferred payment plan with pledge only now is available to you if you would prefer to spread your payments through the year.

So many are giving and helping this year. But it can't be a real success unless everyone does his or her share. If you haven't had the opportunity yet, take it now.—JC

What our contemporaries are saying

We heard a rather good explanation of the state line beer situation the other day. Fellow says the proprietor gets the money, Oklahoma gets the tax, the Texas Highway Department gets the beer cans and Perryton gets the drunks.—Harold Hudson in Ochiltree County Herald.

Girls need more beauty than brains because men can see better than think.—James Roberts in The Andrews County News.

The $5 to $12 a day the braeser makes pulling cotton in this country is equivalent to more than $100 a day in Mexico, and is permitting many Mexicans to raise their standard of living in their land. On the one hand, our United States government is spending billions in gifts to help nations around the world. On the other hand, our government, as a result of pressure from labor leaders, is trying to do away with the braeser program that, in a measure, is worth much more to these people than the government hand-outs in the name of some "foreign aid" program.—Frank Hill in The Lynn County News.

TURKEY BUYING FEVER

Thanksgiving and Christmas are almost here, and turkey buying fever is beginning to rise. F. Z. Beahm, extension poultry marketing specialist, suggests to shoppers that they look for a quality bird. Birds which are marked with the USDA inspection tag for wholesomeness and grade label can be purchased with confidence. A bird with a broad breast, deep body and of medium length with thick drumsticks and bulging thighs will give the highest ratio of meat to bone and the most edible meat for each dollar spent. Finish is also an important factor to consider.

She just buys... of course, uses nothing but the most expensive, whether it's automobiles or appliances. (What else can a woman of her social position do?) She's not concerned with the phenomenal savings in operating costs of a Gas Dryer. Twenty-five dollars a year? Well, my dear Cavendish!

Money means nothing to her. No kids to keep up with... belongs to no clubs or organizations... doesn't have to fit her hours to any particular schedule. She's not impressed with the faster performance of a Gas Dryer provides precious minutes to the harried homemaker with an over-crowded schedule.

MRS. WHELMA HARDTACK

She can't convince HER that the clean, live steam in a Gas Dryer is completely isolated from the clothes... that National Fire Underwriters statistics prove Gas near the bottom of the list as an accident cause... that the low temperature, high air flow principle of Gas Drying is completely safe for even the delicatest of fabrics. in the water until the last moment, he has only the resistance which the water provides, unless he can dive among brush and rocks.

An acrobatic fish can fling a hook easily, while one that is in the water has only the possibility of diving deep and becoming entangled in brush or rocks, and then pulling himself free.

WORK THE AREA

Work an area thoroughly before moving your boat to another location.

Many fishermen recommend that casts be made short at first, then a little longer, then distant. Suggested procedure is to cast along the bank and around the boat from the left to right, so that all the area is covered before moving to a new location.

Reason given for making a short cast first is that if you hook a fish, you will not disturb those beyond that catch. Then you have an opportunity to cast farther out and retrieve more fish.

One tip from a top-water angler—when the fish misses your lure (and you, of course, miss your fish) let the lure rest right where it is for a few moments. Then jerk it slightly so as to give it a "live" effect.

Try that two or three times, then reel in, light a cigaret and wait for four or five minutes before casting again. Then lay the lure right back in the exact spot where you had it before. There is a good chance that the bass is, by that time, back in his lair and ready to try again.

Another question: If you land a lunker and seem to get no follow-up strikes, move around to the other side of the spot and try it from there. Very likely you'll find another big one lurking nearby.

Many fishermen feel that a bright, sunny day is the best day to fish.

Not so with one angler. He contends that he had much rather fish when the sky is cloudy, and the sun's rays do not fall directly upon the water. That's when he likes to work around stumps, logs, brush piles, or fallen trees—especially if they are in from two to six feet of water.

BEST COVER

Ordinarily, he says, stumps, logs, brush piles, and windfalls will outproduce any other kind of bass cover five to one.

Another angler says that you should fish on the shady side of any lake or stream—which means working one side in the early morning and the other side in the late evening.

Midday is regarded by many as the poorest time to fish.

One angler who heads for the lake at least once a week reports that he never has any success fishing unless there is a ripple on the water.

Also he has discovered that the clarity of the water must be such that he can see his hand at least eighteen inches under the surface. Otherwise, it is his contention that the bass cannot see his favorite lure—a top-water spinner—even though the popping sound does attract their attention.

We repeat—every fisherman has some good ideas. How about sending us a few of your own—care of this newspaper?

Crippled children's program receives Albert Lasker award

Pioneering a program of medical care which has vitally helped four and a quarter million handicapped children in the past 23 years has earned the Crippled Children's Program of the federal Children's Bureau a 1960 Albert Lasker Award.

The awards are made annually for "breakthroughs in medical research and advances in public health programs directly benefiting millions of human beings throughout the world" by the American Public Health Association.

This year's presentations were made by the Association and the Albert and Mary Lasker Foundation in New York last October.

The Crippled Children's Program, mainly administered by individual states, emphasizes high quality care and is widely approved by physicians, hospitals and local communities throughout Texas and the United States.

Each year the demand for these services has increased, with the rate per 10,000 children served doubling in 22 years.

In Texas the total cases per year has risen an average of 14.3 per cent per year from 4,532 cases in 1956 until 1959 with a record total of 6,473 cases.

Under the law, basically, any child under 21 years of age and unable to pay is eligible provided he may be cured or his condition corrected so that he may be returned to a future of productive adulthood.

Children cared for under Texas' crippled children's program suffer a variety of conditions needing corrective treatment, devices, hospitalization or a corrective operation for certain conditions.

A breakdown of classes of cases shows most children under the program, administered by the Division of Crippled Children's Services of the State Health Department, need orthopedic services according to 1959 figures.

They are: congenital malformations—1,832; other disease handicapping conditions—874; diseases of bones and joints—878; cerebral palsy—732; and poliomyelitis after-effects—730.

Plastic repair of cleft palate and harelip—574—and burns—364—also account for a large portion in addition to other conditions including congenital heart lesions making up 339 registered cases in 1959.

DAIRYMAN'S COURSE

Texas A&M College's annual Dairyman's Short Course will be held Dec. 1 and 2. Headquarters will be in the Memorial Student Center and an outstanding program featuring discussions of vital interest to the dairy industry has been planned. Arch Meekma, extension dairy specialist, suggests that early room reservations be in order.

BALANCE IN SOIL

A balance in the soil of lime and fertilizer can add greatly to the economical production of crops on East Texas and Coast Prairie farms, says W. F. Bennett, extension soil chemist. He adds that about 75 per cent of the soils in East Texas and a third of the Coast Prairie soils need limestone. A soil test will show where and how much lime and other plant foods are needed.

Leave room in your plans for thankful prayer

Now—Thanksgiving is just beginning

Or it should be... even for those Americans who will approach this Thanksgiving thinking there's "nothing particular to be thankful for."

Nothing—except all the things that are taken for granted. The perfect baby that was born. The summer in the sun... the snug, safe winter... the happy routine of a family growing up together.

Look at the faces around you. Look at the close, friendly world that you're an important part of. Can you still say there's nothing to be thankful for today?

Thanks can be said this Thanksgiving for many things in many different ways. The important thing is not to forget—amid the happy traditions of the day—why Thanksgiving really began. Give your thanks by a few words, a few thoughts, by spending a few moments in prayer with others who celebrate the full, true meaning of Thanksgiving. Join your neighbors in thanks at your Church or Synagogue...

Australian trip told and shown

Lee Ward, Postex Cotton Mills superintendent, showed colored slides and told of his recent jet plane trip to Australia before Post Rotarians in City Hall Tuesday noon.

Thanksgiving comes on Thursdays for most people—but to Rotarians it comes on Tuesday. The club enjoyed a big turkey dinner with dressing, cranberries, pumpkin pie and all the trimmings.

Ward, who went to Australia to give technical advice on setting up sheeting operations at a British-owned mill similar to the Postex operation here, said he had the opportunity to go kangaroo hunting one afternoon. They have three months open season on kangaroos.

He saw one kangaroo, but before he could grab either camera or gun it had taken three jumps and was out of sight.

Public housing sites sought

The Post Housing Authority met Monday afternoon in the Community Room of the First National Bank and discussed location of 28 public housing units to be built in Post.

Fourteen will be for Latin American families, eight for Negro families, and six for white families. These groupings were determined by a survey earlier this year of sub-standard homes in Post and local housing needs.

The housing authority decided to meet with the City Council at its December meeting to discuss the probable time required before city sewers are extended into the Lincoln school area in the northeast part of town.

Housing units cannot be located away from sewer lines.

Members of the housing authority are Irby G. Metcalf Jr., chairman; Lee Ward, Chant Lee, Arnold Parrish and Jim Cornish.

I said, "You got more style and comfort in Jarmans"

The man is absolutely right! Jarmans offer more style per dollar, more comfort per foot — and that means greater value. For proof, come in and try the distinctive new "Casablanca" shown here. It traces its slim smartness to a continental original but the soft and flexible comfort is directly due to Jarmans' scientific new "Pillow-Flex" construction.

It's the Law in TEXAS

BANKRUPTCY

In bygone days when a man got himself hopelessly into debt, the courts would jail him until he paid. Or, as in our colonial days a man became an "indentured" servant, and would come to America to work off his debt.

Neither jail nor servitude proved practical. A man in jail could not earn anything to pay his debts. It was drastic—something like the Siberian salt mines—to send a man to serve for years across the seas.

Through hard luck, illness, easy credit, impulse buying, or shifts in world affairs, men and women may find themselves hopelessly in debt.

Our bankruptcy laws aim to permit an honest but unlucky or weak debtor to turn over a new leaf. They allow him to file a voluntary petition in bankruptcy. He accounts for all of his property and turns it over for his creditors' benefit. The court sets up machinery to get as much of their money back as possible.

The court then adjudges the man a bankrupt. This means, with some exceptions, that the court will discharge him of his debts. Any income he gets after that time cannot be reached in court to pay his old debts.

Debtors may try to gain in ways not intended by the bankruptcy laws. If so, creditors may object. Besides, the courts may deal drastically with such debtors under our criminal laws.

Under the bankruptcy laws, a man is not required to surrender to his creditors certain items. In this State they usually include the family stove, refrigerator, radio, wearing apparel, working tools of one's trade and certain other items which vary with each individual case.

Even though items may be exempt from the creditors in bankruptcy, however, if they were purchased under a conditional sales contract, the unpaid seller may nevertheless repossess such goods despite a bankruptcy; so, too, the holder of a chattel mortgage on such goods may require them to be turned over to him.

Now that son has turned the car back to father and returned to college, the old man can't decide whether to have it overhauled or to trade it in on a new one.

A friend is one who knocks before entering but never after leaving.

A homemaker completing these twenty home preparedness points can now qualify for this color window seal by signing a similar list and taking it to the local civil defense directory.

Danny and Tess took part in the Thanksgiving tableau at school last week, and they did a good job. As I looked at them, I thought of the real Pilgrim children and that first Thanksgiving.

Our forefathers weren't inoculated against childhood illnesses. They didn't have miracle drugs and warm clothes. They certainly didn't have more than they could eat. They faced incredible hardships, with no bright toys for special rewards, no candy bars. But they knelt down in the cold with their parents and gave thanks to God just for being alive.

Can we do less today? Can we possibly do less, this Thanksgiving, than go to Church and humbly give thanks to our Creator for His wonderful gift of life?

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH.

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Travel brochure is released by state

The release of a full-page travel brochure on Texas was announced by the Texas Highway Department.

Greer, State Highway engineer, said the new brochure is designed for free distribution to attract out-of-state tourists to the state.

First of its kind ever published in Texas, it is intended to be a showcase of Texas' historic, recreational, and scenic attractions.

Described as the colorful brochure which covers the entire state geographically, as "another step in the travel promotion program conducted by the Highway Department."

The next step in this program is the submission of a media advertising budget to the Texas Legislature, which meets in January. The Highway Department will work with the concurrence of the Texas Development Board, appropriation of $300,000 for the next two years to advertise tourist attractions of the state.

"The media advertising program," Greer said, "is a necessity to halt the appalling downward trend of the Texas tourist industry. The amount we will ask for media advertising ($300,000 a year) is the minimum required to shore up the rapid decline in tourist revenue which Texas now faces."

Greer reviewed the progress made in establishing a tourist promotion program in Texas. He noted that in the past Texas had been unable to compete for tourists by advertising because it was prohibited by the State Constitution. A constitutional amendment was approved by popular vote in 1958 allowing the advertisement of the state's tourist resources.

The Texas Legislature in 1959 set up the legal machinery authorizing state media advertising and delegating the responsibility for this program to the Texas Highway Department. Senate Bill 152 stated that funds for media advertising must come from the General Fund, but no money was made available in 1959 for this purpose. (Highway Department funds were used to pay publishing costs of the new travel brochure and for other collateral phases of the travel promotion program including publication of the Texas Official Highway Travel Map and operation of the Highway Tourist Bureaus)

Greer expressed confidence that funds for state advertising would be made available by the coming session of the Legislature. "I feel that since the people of Texas made their wishes known by voting favorably on the constitutional amendment authorizing state advertising, the Legislature will follow this mandate from the people by providing adequate funds for an effective media advertising program," Greer said.

Texas has fallen "twenty years behind the times" in advertising its tourist attractions, said Tom H. Taylor, Director of the Travel and Information Division of the Highway Department. He pointed out that revenue from the tourist trade had fallen to a low of $431 million in 1959, a drop of $100 million in only two years. This rapid drop, he said, is attributable to the advertising campaigns of other states competing for tourists.

Noting that tourists currently pay some $17 million annually in direct state taxes, Taylor said an effective media advertising program could increase tourist revenue brought to Texas and lighten to some extent the state's heavy tax load.

"The tourist in Texas is good for everybody," Taylor declared. "The money he brings into our state is new income, earned elsewhere but left here in our communities to be passed around among all regardless of trade or profession."

Explaining the contents of the new travel brochure, he said it depicts all parts of the state in illustrations and color pictures. Topics covered include:

Texas' romantic and tumultuous history and examples of Texas folklore and legend.

Recreational opportunities for the vacationer, ranging from hunting and fishing to water sports on Texas lakes and on the Gulf Coast, camping, picnicking, and horseback riding in State Parks.

Safety information including highway speed limits and explanation of highway regulatory signs, information on fishing and hunting license requirements for vacationers, and an outline of house-trailer regulations.

The back cover shows an example of the free travel information services offered to travelers by the seven Tourist Bureaus operated by the Highway Department at key entry points scattered around the state's borders.

Taylor said that due to the anticipated large demand for the new travel brochure, the Highway Department will be unable to furnish it in quantity. However, requests for quantities of the brochure can be referred to the publisher and purchases made at the same price at which the brochures are available to the Highway Department, he added.

Congressmen to give answers

FORT WORTH — A West Texas Congressional Forum will be staged here Dec. 2, jointly sponsored by the West Texas and the Fort Worth Chambers of Commerce.

Six U. S. Congressmen from West Texas will face the public in the ballroom of the Texas Hotel, answering questions from 2 p. m. until 5 p. m. Former Congressman Ed Gossett, now general counsel for Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., will serve as moderator.

Similar forums have been presented in previous years with attendance ranging up to 1,000 persons. Portable microphones in the audience relay questions to the congressional panel.

"We expect the greatest interest and the largest attendance for this Forum than ever before," E. H. Danner of San Angelo reports.

"Well-publicized platforms and issues during the recent general election, some uncertainty about possible trends in the new Congress, and aspects of the promised 'new frontier' program should inspire lots of questions."

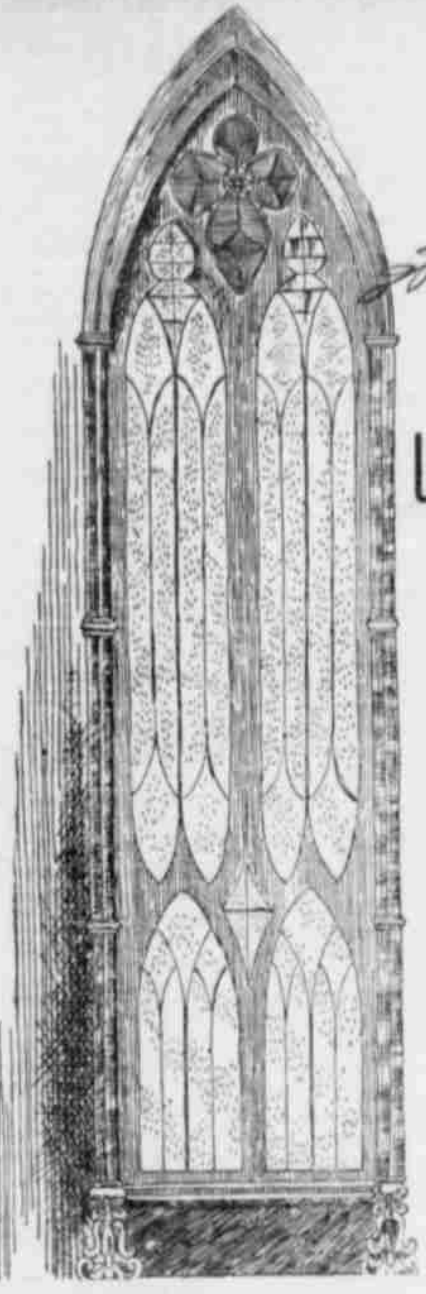

Danner is chairman of the WTCC's National Affairs Committee which is arranging the program.

The public is welcome, Danner said.

Congressmen who will participate are W. R. Poage of Waco, Jim Wright of Fort Worth, Omar Burleson of Anson, Frank Icard of Wichita Falls, George Mahon of Lubbock and Walter Rogers of Pampa.

FARM, RANCH RECORDS

Extra income can result from well kept farm or ranch business records. C. H. Bates, extension farm management specialist, points out that good records can often help farmers and ranchmen make the right management decisions. Too, he adds, records are very important come tax paying time. Local county extension agents can supply information and publications on record keeping.

White River—

plans, specifications and cost estimates. That is the date for the directors next meeting, but they indicated they would postpone that regular December meeting a few days if necessary so that plans and cost estimates can be gone over at that session.

The White River board at its November session, held in the council room here, also approved a resolution to authorize application for amendment of the White River district's state water permit to provide for (1) moving the dam site approximately 3,500 feet downstream from the original dam site authorized in the permit, and (2) providing for impoundment of an additional 5,072 acre feet of water by the White River dam.

(Engineers as reported last month had found the original dam site as not suitable due to probable loss of water under the dam. Directors also decided in October to raise the height of the dam slightly to secure the additional 5,072 acre feet of water.)

It was indicated at the November meeting of the board that land easements for the water pipelines from the dam site to the four member cities of the district probably can be sought soon.

The board's attorney and the engineering firm now is working up an easement form. When the form is finally approved, probably in December, easements for the pipeline can be sought from property owners by members of the district's land committee.

The directors last Thursday also voted to pay $2,000 as agreed upon down payment to the firm of Mason, Johnston and Associates of Dallas, the consulting foundation engineering firm, for necessary core drilling at the original and second dam sites.

This payment took most of the district's presently available funds so the four member cities will be asked by letter for new assessments for the district's treasury.

Mrs. Lee Walker of Meadow, owner of the ranch land at the dam site, together with Fred Findley and her attorney, Robert Howard of Lubbock, met with the White River directors to explain their request of $1,200 damage payment for the ranchland from the core drilling at the second dam site, over and above the agreed upon cost per core hole shot.

A committee of the board had inspected the dam site prior to last Thursday's board meeting to determine what they believe the actual damage by vehicle and bulldozer use on the ranch was worth.

After some discussion, directors authorized his land committee to negotiate a reasonable settlement with Mrs. Walker.

Building permits here now total $941,989

Two building permits this week, one for a new $12,900 move-in home, boosted Post's total construction for the year to $941,989.

The new home permit went to V. M. Stone for a 1,788 square foot residence of frame construction, composition roof, and brick veneer to be located in the 100 block on South Avenue 5.

A permit for $654.36 was taken out by Mrs. Will Cravy, 112 North Avenue L for a fence and tool shed.

13 cases on court docket

Thirteen criminal cases are listed on the county court docket for hearing when County Judge J. E. Parker begins jury trials at 10 a. m. Monday.

Of the thirteen on the docket, eight face liquor law violations, most of them transportation or possession.

One, L. C. Frazier, has seven such cases set for trial—sort of cleaning up a long backlog of liquor charges against her.

Another, Lee Richards, has three liquor violations pending against him for the session.

Other liquor law violation cases to be heard include those against Fannie Daugherty, Gerald Gonzales, Solomon Buntun, Robert Jones, Ruben L. Williams, and Eugene Shepherd.

Other listed on the docket for trial are James Robert Johnson, driving while intoxicated; Billy G. Adkins, carrying pistol; G. V. Fulton and H. Bruce Bryan, game law violations; and Daws Jackson, aggravated assault.

Seven digits—

The user thereby doesn't have to redial for the second number. King said the 2LSN system is being replaced as rapidly as possible in order that all number combinations appearing on the telephone dial can be utilized. The old 2LSN system required a prefix such as CHerry or TWilight; however, because no words in the English language begin with the letter combination WX or WY or JK or JI, then no telephone numbers beginning with 93 or 55 could be assigned; thereby limiting number assignments.

"As the number of customers being assigned 2LSN telephone numbers increased, the necessity for using all possible number combinations on the dial increased—in other words, in some areas we are running out of possible letter prefixes," the district manager said.

As a result of this realization, a study was undertaken in Wichita Falls, Texas, to determine whether assigning seven digit telephone numbers proved satisfactory to customers and operators. Conclusion of the extensive study was that the ANC plan not only was satisfactory, but even eliminated some previous dialing errors resulting from confusion between the numeral 1 and the letter I and numeral zero and the letter O.

Dial phones—

He also requested that customers in Post give their friends and business associates out of town their new numbers, as this will permit a much more rapid completion of incoming long distance calls.

The actual switch-over itself will take only a few minutes to complete. All telephones already are wired to both the old system and the new one, new connections broken only by long plastic strips. When the change-over is made, the plastic strips will be removed, permitting the new equipment to take over.

New dial phone books were distributed over the weekend and this week to all Post area phone users.

The new book is a combination book for Post, Tahoka, and Wilston.

The yellow pages, thereby, carry a business listing for all three communities.

It is located 1,980 feet from south and east lines of Section 3, Block 2, GH&H Survey.

Shell also announced plans this week to drill the No. 1 J. R. Davis in the Koonman (Spraberry) field, 15 miles south of Post. It will be a rotary test to 8,655 feet.

"We want to make it as easy as possible for everyone to give all they can," Acker concluded.

Texans to Iowa tour

Sixty-six West Texans will be home next week, and another 22 will be on their way to Iowa for a tour being sponsored by the Agriculture and Livestock Committee of the West Texas State Board of Commerce. Dr. W. L. Lubbock, chairman of the committee and former director of the School of Agricultural Technology at Lubbock, is the tour director.

There is no reason why West Texas should not become the livestock center of the nation," Dr. Lubbock asserts. "We have grain and cottonseed meal and a far more moderate climate than the six farms to be visited in Iowa. The Roswell Garcon Rapids, made famous by the visit of Dictator Khrushchev, and the research facilities of Iowa State University will be included in the tour.

Insurance plan is saving safe drivers $2 hundred million year

DALLAS—Safe Texas drivers are saving an estimated $20,000,000 a year on their insurance as a direct result of the Texas Safe Driving Insurance Plan, according to Paul A. Dow, manager, Southwestern Dept., Hartford Fire Insurance Co., and chairman, regional advisory committee, Insurance Information Institute.

Examination of Insurance Board figures show that more than 1,200,000 Texas vehicles are insured at rates 20 per cent below those charged before the Plan became effective on Jan. 1, 1960.

"For many years the cost of traffic accidents caused by chronically careless motorists has adversely affected the rates charged conservative and skilful drivers. The Texas Safe Driving Insurance Plan has changed all of this and now the vast majority of Texas motorists are saving 20 per cent on their insurance. The careless drivers are paying more and this is as it should be," Dow stated.

The Texas Safe Driving Insurance Plan charges motorists from 20 to 100 per cent extra for poor driving records with a 20 per cent reduction given drivers with clean three year driving records.

"With more than 70 per cent of Texas motorists qualifying for 20 per cent reduction and with the additional motorists who are paying regular rates the total amount of money paid to insurance companies by Texas motorists should remain the same under the Safe Driving Plan. This plan is designed to merely redistribute the cost of insurance with the careless drivers paying more and the careful motorists saving money.

"The plan has been subject to loud criticism but I believe that the criticism comes, primarily, from the small percentage of Texas drivers who, because of their record, are required to pay more for their insurance. I cannot conceive of the safe drivers complaining for they are now able to buy their insurance for less," Dow concluded.

You oyster eaters are protected by the Texas Health Department

A stupendous total of 45 million individual Texas - grown oysters were sold on the retail market last year. More than 90 per cent of them passed through plants on which the Texas State Department of Health had put its stamp of approval covering plant sanitation.

Take a look at the calendar. There's an "R" in every month between now and April, and you know what that's supposed to mean. Its the oyster season again. More millions of the succulent shellfish are destined for harvest in the next six months from the many reefs in inland bay waters of Texas.

Last year's harvest was put up in 154,000 one-gallon cans, with about 300 medium sized oysters per can. A very high percentage of them were consumed right here at home.

Since oysters are often eaten raw, it stands to reason they would be capable of carrying disease. In the past they did, of course, but today to nowhere near the extent they would if it were not for a little-known program of plant certification and water pollution investigations conducted by the Texas State Department of Health.

The certification program was started back in 1937. It is voluntary, in that there is no law certification. But in order to sell their oysters in cities which have local shellfish ordinances, plants must be certified by the state health agency. Most major Texas cities have such ordinances.

Certificates of approval are renewable each year. Plants first undergo a rigid inspection by a sharp-eyed sanitation specialist, and rechecks are made monthly thereafter.

The Department approved operations in 42 plants last year, and 30 plants have earned certification to date during the current season.

Open season on oyster harvest in public waters is set by the Game and Fish Commission, generally running from September through April with local variations. But anyone can lease a plot of bay bottom from the State, establish an oyster farm and harvest the year 'round—the only provision being that oysters will grow.

Incidentally, State Health Department shellfish experts say there's nothing to this "R" month business. It's just that oysters grow faster in winter, and all winter months have R's.

Hunting interest boosted in Texas

AUSTIN—Interest in public hunts in Texas has shown a definite increase, according to H. D. Dodgen, executive secretary of the Game and Fish Commission.

Last year 13,899 persons made applications for permits to hunt on one of the wildlife management areas of the Game Commission. There were 1,700 permits issued. This year there were 16,727 applications and 2,438 permits issued.

Drawings were held in the Commission office in Austin recently, and names were drawn for the hunts. They have been authorized to remove surplus animals from the management areas.

The greatest number of applications came for the Kerr area, where 5,418 hunters sought a permit to kill 321 deer; the next largest number came for the Black Gap area in the Big Bend.

Persons whose names were drawn for these hunts have received notice setting up their dates for the hunts.

High school algebra teacher gives students extra help after hours

By Gloria Peoples and Martha Goode
Mr. Pollard is giving aid to his Algebra I and II students who need help in passing his course and those who need to make up tests each week. Every Wednesday after school he gives his time to helping the students to understand algebra. He stays as long as the students need him if the time is within a reasonable limit. His first session proved quite successful. Most of the students were doing make-up tests and this extra time is helping them considerably. The students aren't complaining about staying after school, because they know it is for their own benefit.

Wednesday's class got off to a good start. Some of the students bought cokes from the machine in the teacher's lounge and after they had drunk them, they were refreshed and ready to start.

Some of the notables attending Wednesday's class were mostly students who had been absent and needed to make up a considerable amount of lessons. Harold Wayne Mason and Dean Johnston, who both spent some time in the hospital, Elaine Wheatley, Gloria Peoples, Jimmy Ivie, Lee Williams, Sharon Moore, and a few others were among the students attending the first session.

Turkey study for Thanksgiving

By Mary Lois Jones
Six weeks tests are over and now we are going to rest two or three days over the Thanksgiving holidays. Our assignment for the holidays is to make a detailed study of the anatomy of a turkey, and to find the ratio of white meat to dark meat. One question of prime importance is: How much turkey can the human body consume? Some biology students may find the cure for a stomach ache. Well, anyway happy holidays.

Of course this class isn't composed of just failing students, but some of the "A" students intend to get in a little extra work. We feel quite sure that this extra class work will benefit not only the students, but their grades as well.

Glenn Polk is making chest

By Charles Gordon
Glenn Polk is working on a six-drawer Mr. and Mrs. chest. It is constructed of corina wood. It measures five feet by three feet. The chest is a continuance of a bedroom suite he started last year in shop I.

Last week Homer Carter started work on a cedar chest constructed of red knotty cedar.

Manuel Magallanes is working on a solid mahogany corner shelf. It measures about ten inches by three feet.

Last week Mr. Hopkins presented us with a brand new electric sander. It is more powerful and an all around better machine than the old one we have been using.

With the new sander, sanding is a lot easier.

Connie says don't rush boyfriend

By Janene Haynie and Danny Jones
Dear Connie:
I have a problem. My boy friend and I have been going steady for four years now, and he hasn't even held my hand. What should I do, Connie? I'm beginning to think he doesn't love me!
Neglected Hands

haven't actually gone with this boy long enough. If I were you I wouldn't rush things — it could lead to trouble.

Connie

Dear Neglected Hands:
I don't understand you—what's your hurry? The problem is, you

I'm 12 years of age and my mother won't let me go out on dates! The boy I want to go with is only 19. Do you think she's being old-fashioned? I do hope you publish this letter for the benefit of all those who are in my terrible position.

Ready-to-date

Lincoln cagers ready for opener

Mr. Reese's girls' and boys' cage teams are getting ready for their first game of the season with Spur Tuesday night. However, Mr. Reese isn't expecting too much of his girls at present because many of them are beginner players.

I think your mother should reconsider; you might even suggest that she get psychiatric help. Any mother in these modern times, who won't let her 12 year old daughter go out with a 19 year old boy certainly needs some kind of help.

State team is well pleased

Schools are high in inspection

A two-man team from the accreditation department of the Texas Education Agency made a day-long inspection of Post Independent School District schools last Thursday and were very complimentary of progress shown in the last year.

Supt. R. T. Smith reported that R. E. Harris and Walter Labi, who comprised the inspection team, were very pleased at the schools' efforts to correct all major deficiencies listed in the 1959 inspection.

A written report will be submitted to the school trustees and Supt. Smith at a later date. Deficiencies noted last year, all of which have been corrected, included no in-service training program, no guidance program, no course of study for the various subjects taught, lack of coordination among courses and buildings, and inadequate classroom facilities.

Switchboard Operators!

—For so many years of loyal and helpful service to all of us in Post

Progress isn't all gain. When the cutover comes to dial phones next week, this community will lose your services. These services at all hours of the day and night include some things we've always taken for granted—but can't any more. With dials, we won't be able to pick up the receiver in an emergency and say simply: "Get a doctor quick." You won't be at that switchboard to help. Your quick thinking has saved some lives here in Post down through the years. The extra service you've rendered by knowing where to find people, or whom to contact when we didn't know ourselves, won't be available with dials. We realize you always did your best with the equipment you had. We realize that equipment gave you lots more trouble than it did us.

Thanks for serving your community so well.

THANKSGIVING

We'd like to take this means to pause a moment in our busy working life—when some days we seem to run in circles and still don't accomplish what we started—to give "Thanks to God for our many blessings." There are so many things to be thankful for that to list them would look like your child's Christmas list to Santa Claus.

We'd like to say a special "Thank You" to our customers and friends. You have given us the opportunity to serve you through your illnesses and with your health needs, and have trusted our ability as a pharmacist to fill your family's prescriptions, and have asked our counsel when we could be of aid. This, too, is a sacred trust and we will try to continue to serve you in the best possible manner that we can serve.

I personally would also like to say "Thanks" to my employes. I am indebted to those who have worked hard and long hours in trying to make our store a place that you, our customers, like to come to.

Last, but not least, I'd like to say "Thanks" to the churches and pastors of our community, who help us so many times in our trials and tribulations.

We hope you have the best Thanksgiving ever.

Doe cagers win 3 out of 5 and sportsmanship trophy

Don Watkins' Post Does defeated twice by Forsan in the first round of the all-tournament double elimination tournament. The Post Does bowled to Forsan in a first rounder Thursday night.

They won three in a row, Imperial 48-21 Thursday, Oklahoma 54-40 Friday morning, Klondike 38-36 Friday afternoon. The schedule sent them against Forsan again in the second rounder Thursday night.

Post Forsan won 42-28, went on to finish third in the tournament on Monday with a 54-45 win over Stanton.

A good, veteran team made it two in a row by defeating Forsan, 53-40. The Post Does' best game in the tournament was their 54-40 victory over Oklahoma. Janith Short was the top scorer for both teams with 27 points on 10 pins and on charity toss.

Post Does beat Forsan girls, 44-31

Post Does, girls high school team, made it two in a row by defeating Forsan 44-31 on Thursday night.

Ramsey led the scoring, 13 free throws and three for 19 points, while Janith Short scored six fielders and 18 points. Anne Morrison tallied seven.

Post Does led all the way, 10-0 at the end of the half, 20-15 at the end of the third quarter. Ramsey finished it out with a 10-0 run in the fourth quarter. Ramsey tallied a victory, Marianne Jones scored in this one point. Barbara Craig tallied seven.

Against Forsan in the first game the scoring was evenly divided for Post with Short tallying 8, Ruthell Martin and Peggy Ramsey 7 each, Nita Wilson 5, and Anne Morris 4.

In the one-sided 48-21 victory over Imperial, Nita Wilson led the scoring with 20 points on eight fielders and four free throws with 15.

Janith Short right behind with 18. In the 39 to 36 triumph over Klondike, Short again was the top scorer with 23 points to eight each for Anne Morris and Nita Wilson.

Anne Morris took scoring honors with 15 in the second defeat by Forsan Saturday. Nita Wilson tallied 8, Janith Short 5, and Marianne Jones 2 in that one.

Antelopes win cage opener

Coach Richard Souter's high school Antelopes opened their winter cage season at Ralls Friday night by rallying in the second half for a 38 to 35 triumph over the Ralls Jackrabbits.

The boys' B team grabbed the preliminary 26-25.
Ralls jumped into the lead in the headline attraction picking up a 14-11 first quarter advantage and holding a 23-20 intermission lead.

But the Antelopes came on in the third to grab a narrow 30-29 advantage in the third and then moved on to a close triumph.
Benny Schlehuber led the local scoring with five baskets for 10 points, but was closely followed by Bobby Beard with 9, Dwayne Capps with 8 and Leslie Acker with 7. Jimmy Minor scored 2 and Donnie Hays and Tommy Boucher 1 each.

Coach Souter reported his club couldn't hit the basket and looked a little rough, but showed good spirit and hustle.
Harold Wayne Mason, a junior, and Jimmy Minor, a senior, were elected co-captains of the team for the season just before the game. Neither was in the starting lineup, however.
Souter said Minor played a good game and as of Tuesday was running with the first team.
Clarence Ivie poured in 21 points in the B team victory in the preliminary and Freshman Jackie Fluitt tallied ten more.

I Give You Texas . .

BY BOYCE HOUSE

Back in the 1940's, I met a man who was reputed to be one of Texas' richest. He was an oil man and went in for raising and racing thoroughbreds.

His ranch was a showplace with graveled roads, concrete crossings over streams and a fence high enough to keep the deer in and the hunters out. His home was a modest place as far as architecture went, although very attractive within, but the barn was a huge place with, I was told $30,000 worth of copper in the gutters and pipes; and no doubt the cost of the other features was in proportion.

The second time I saw him, he was seated in his box at the New Orleans track where some of his entries—including an Irish horse for which he had reputedly paid $70,000, were racing. He didn't rise, but put out a hand which I pumped up and down and a smile like a glint of sunshine on a rocky Vermont hill lighted up his face.

Hunting season in full swing

AUSTIN—The Texas hunting season now is in full swing with practically all species available to the gun, according to H. D. Dodgen, executive secretary of the Game and Fish Commission.

Deer and turkey seasons opened in most areas Nov. 16. Duck season previously had opened Nov. 11. Goose season also is in progress in all the Trans-Pecos counties, and in several others in the state. Quail season will open in the Possum Kingdom area Nov. 24, and in the remainder of the state Dec. 1.

Although the dove season in the North Zone area reports a bountiful supply, but with deer and turkey seasons open, most of the shooters are turning to the larger game.

Although hunters report seeing many ducks and geese, warm weather has been a barrier to successful hunting in many areas.

tures for a moment. A mutual acquaintance said afterward, "You've made a hit with him."

"I have?" was my doubtful reply. "His manner didn't seem to me to be very warm."
"Oh," the other responded, "that was very cordial for him."
After thinking about it, I decided that a man with millions of dollars has to hold others at arms-length to keep them from "getting to him"; and what a lonely life a man must lead when he can not know whether an individual who seems happy to see him is interested in him for himself or for what he hopes to get out of him.

And all his millions could not save him when he drove his automobile into the path of an on-rushing train.

I once made a mistake (in fact I've made several)—which resulted in my missing a big news story. One Sunday afternoon before reporting for work on the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, I was driving around town and decided to motor to Grapevine, 20 miles away, but looked up at a clock and saw I had only a few minutes before time to go to work. When I came in, the city editor said, "You're ahead of time."

I looked at the clock on the wall and saw it was a full hour before I was supposed to be there. I had mis-read the first clock and would have had time to make the Grapevine drive.

And if I had done so, I would have been right on top of a sensational crime as I learned when, in a little while, the telephone rang and the city editor was advised that, on a side road near the highway to Grapevine, two State highway patrolmen had been shot to death.

The slayers, it turned out, were Clyde Barrow and Bonnie Parker. So, because I mis-read the time by an hour, I failed to be in the vicinity when the crime was committed—and so missed covering the story as practically an eyewitness.

On the other hand, had I been out there, Clyde and Bonnie, as they fled, might have added a third name to the list of victims.

State Capital NEWS

AUSTIN—Added to the list of lively topics for the next Legislature is the carving out of a new Congressional district.

Final figures in the national census show Texas entitled to a 23rd congressman. State's population rose 24.2 per cent—to 9,579,877—making it the sixth most populous state in the nation.

Even though population increase accounts for Texas' getting another representative to Congress, population will not be the sole consideration when lawmakers decide where to put the new district.

Population of Texas districts ranges widely, from about 227,000 to 614,000. It is highly unlikely that the legislature will undertake to rearrange the districts statewide so as to even out the differences. This would inconvenience too many incumbent congressmen, taking from their districts counties where they are popular and adding counties where they are unpopular.

Nor is it expected that Dallas County, the state's most populous district, with 614,000, will get the extra congressman. Dallas now sends Texas' only Republican to Washington, and a Democratic legislature likely will not want to create an opportunity for another GOP'er to be elected.

Texas' biggest congressional district—and the nation's biggest—area-wise, is the 16th, stretching all the way from Ozona to El Paso. But if El Paso, the only metropolitan area, were taken out, what was left would be short on population for a district.

After the 1950 census, the Legislature ducked for awhile the question of what to do with the extra congressman by having him serve "at large" (the whole state). Later Harris County (Houston) was given the extra congressman.

OIL FLOW UPPEd
Texas Railroad Commission has set the December oil allowable at 2,819,379 barrels a day on a nine-day producing pattern.

For the past seven months the state has been limited to eight producing days.

Independent producers, most of whom have been strong for holding production to eight days in previous months, recommended nine for December.

Earlier, TIPRO (Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners) had asked the Commission to consider whether the sharp cut-back in Texas production during the past two years actually had improved the supply situation or enabled other producing areas to grab some of Texas' share of the market.

"CONTROVERSIAL" BOOKS
In the enormous and often touchy job of adopting textbooks for public schools, the State Board of Education rejected one and accepted two of three books against which protests had been raised.

Board asked the publishers of the history text, "Texas and our Spanish Southwest," to correct errors before it reconsiders the book in January. Two other books criticized by J. Evetts Haley and a committee known as Texans for America were accepted by the board.

These are "Language for Daily Use" for grades 7 and 8 and "The Stockmen's Handbook". Haley's committee said the language book was based on too limited a vocabulary and the stockmen's book was too welfare state-ish in its discussion of farm issues.

Seven books opposed by Texans for America already had been eliminated by a teacher-composed advisory committee which screens textbook offerings before they are considered by the Board of Education.

LOCAL HELP TO AGED, ILL
A plan that would divide part of the responsibilities for care of the aged and mentally ill, between state and local government, may be proposed in the next Legislature.

It would take a constitutional amendment approved by the people to put the plan into effect.

Legislative Budget Board has tentatively approved a recommendation whereby the state would split the cost of such programs as out-patient care for mental patients and nursing home care for elderly patients.

It is felt that this approach might be more economical and effective for some patients. Nearly-recovered mental patients, for example, could be released from bed space at expensive state institutions and get treatment as needed from a nearby clinic.

RULING RE-AFFIRMED
Court of Criminal Appeals refused to reconsider its 2-to-1 decision that former Insurance Commissioner J. Byron Saunders could not be convicted for perjury as a result of testimony before a legislative committee.

But it did not make the opinion final. Travis County District Attorney Les Procter is filing a second motion for re-hearing in hopes of keeping the issue alive until after the first of the year.

At that time one of the members holding in Saunders' favor, Judge Lloyd Davidson, goes out of office. If incoming Judge W. T. McDonald took the other side, the scales would be tilted and Saunders' conviction upheld.

OUT-OF-STATE TAX DENIED
Texas cannot collect a tax on the premiums of an insurance policy sold to a company in Texas by an out-of-state firm not licensed to do business in Texas.

Third Court of Civil Appeals ruled that this would conflict with U. S. Supreme Court decisions now in effect. A Texas law requires purchasers of insurance from companies not licensed in Texas to pay a tax equal to 3 per cent of the premiums. This is higher than the tax on companies licensed in the state.

Appeals Court suggested hope-

"Thanks for our many blessings"

The Pilgrims over 300 years ago began our traditional American Thanksgivings by preparing a huge feast for both themselves and their Indian friends. Before eating, they prayerfully gave thanks to God for their first harvest.

Today, we have so much more than the Pilgrims to be thankful for—a good way of life, a great free nation, a robust community, and good friends and neighbors.

Brown Brothers, Et Al

Without all these experiences his youth is incomplete!

A well-rounded person is one who grows to know all sides of life.

You wouldn't think of depriving your children of the countless uses of science . . . or of the beauty and pleasure in great art and literature . . . or of the healthy fun of play.

Then don't deprive them of the experience of religious training from which so many even richer and more valuable experiences result. Whatever your belief, give your children a chance to find the strength for broadening their lives through Faith,

Barrett pointed out that three accidents have occurred in a short time in the west part of the city, one of them a fatal one. City officials have attempted for years to get the state highway department's permission to put up stop signs on the highway, which would have been the simple method to end a bad situation. Failing in this, they decided recently that the radar unit was the only answer. No favoritism will be shown. Local residents caught in the radar net will be fined just the same as any other speeding motorists, city officials warned.

Research shows proper fertilization essential to high production yields

Proper fertilization is necessary for efficient use of irrigation water, research by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Substation No. 8 in Lubbock reveals.

Crosbyton buys own radar unit

CROSBYTON—The city of Crosbyton in an effort to prevent more serious accidents along highway 82 in Crosbyton.

Speed limit signs will be erected at each city limits on the highway warning all motorists to slow to city speeds.

"We do not want to give Crosbyton the reputation of being a speed trap," Norton Barrett, city secretary said in announcing the purchase of the radar and the plans for its use.

Barrett pointed out that three accidents have occurred in a short time in the west part of the city, one of them a fatal one.

City officials have attempted for years to get the state highway department's permission to put up stop signs on the highway, which would have been the simple method to end a bad situation. Failing in this, they decided recently that the radar unit was the only answer.

Harvey Walker, assistant agronomist, above, exhibits results of studies in the influence of fertilizer on root development of cotton plants.

These plants were grown under hot house conditions in a sandy soil from the Brownfield area. The plant on the left received no fertilizer, while the one on the right was treated with the equivalent of 240 pounds of nitrogen, 200 pounds of phosphate and 200 pounds of potash per acre. "This rate of application was much heavier than normal recommendations and was for experimental purposes only," Walker explained. The fertilizer was applied in bands about 6 inches below and 10 inches to each side of the seed level.

While plant leaves, with the aid of sunlight, perform the vital function of processing plant food, a sturdy root system is essential to obtain sufficient raw materials—water and plant nutrients—from the soil. The role of fertilizer in root development is evident from this test, as the above photo illustrates.

In other tests with grain sorghums, greater returns per acre-inch of irrigation water were obtained when the crop was properly fertilized. In 10 different fertilizer trials, yields varied although the same amount of irrigation water was applied in each case. An increase of 76 pounds of grain for each acre-inch of water was obtained with proper fertilization. "The important conclusion to be drawn from this fact is that soil fertility must be balanced in order for growing plants to efficiently utilize water applied," Walker said.

Many questions on the use of commercial fertilizers are still to be answered, according to Charles E. Fisher, superintendent of Substation No. 8. "Facilities at the Texas Agricultural Extension Service's soil testing laboratory here in Lubbock will permit us to increase our research efforts," Fisher said.

"Two of the biggest highway menaces are drivers under 25 going over 65 and drivers over 65 going under 25," L. S. McCandless.

Cowboys referred to a heavy rain of cloudburst as a "goose drowner."

Shell completes deep wildcat on Slaughter

It is located 660 feet from north and east lines of Section 3, Block 30, B&B survey.

The No. 5-B W. V. Roy is producing 96.58 barrels of oil daily with 35 per cent water from perforations at 2,557-61 in the Glorieta. It is located 660 feet from south line and 330 feet from west line of section 191, block 5, H&GN survey.
