Know Your Churches...

"SON of Man, whenever I doubt of life I think of Thee." So wrote George Matheson in his blindness. Whenever you and I doubt either God or man, we should do well to think of Jesus. His Cross is a symbol both of what God is and what we may become. The proud Roman at the foot of the cross was compelled to say, "This man was a Son of God."

JESUS was supremely a man of faith... knowing what was in both man and God he had great faith in both. We have faith in God largely because we must have Him; we are not sufficient unto ourselves. Faith can overcome the most miserable circumstances... overcome despair.

LIFE becomes a radiant thing for people of faith, since they see deeper into the secrets of life. The universe opens its heart to eyes of faith; closed doors swing ajar when faithful steps approach; loving spirits smile their welcome to trustworthy souls; latent powers blossom in the presence of fidelity; young children and wise old age give themselves with abandon to those who offer them confidence; God waits to shower His blessings on men who can be trusted. Of the Pilgrims of yesterday, guided by the Divine, it was said, "They were MEN OF FAITH AND VERY SURE OF GOD."

HACKBERRY BAPTIST CHURCH

The Hackberry folks attended a mission point in the community for eighteen months before a regular church was organized.

On August 21, 1921 the Rev. J. Pat Horton, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Post at that time, and Rev. J. E. Black at the request of Baptists in that vicinity, set a called meeting for the purpose of organizing a church. Of the seven charter members of the church only three are living. They are Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Jones and Mrs. Ed Denton. Other charter members were Mr. and Mrs. Will Rogers and Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Carnegie. To this number eight others affiliated themselves at the first night church meeting.

The church grew from an enrollment of seven to seventy in a period of two years and the influence of this group was felt throughout this section of the country. A church was built and paid for by 1924 and impressive dedication services were held.

Rev. D. W. Reed served as the first pastor and held the position until 1924. He has the distinction as being called back as pastor twice since holding that initial post. He served two years in 1930-32, and is now serving as pastor, having taken on duties there last September. Other pastors were Reverends Clinton, Agee and Rowe.

Even though the membership of the church has diminished as members have moved to other communities and to Post and Lubbock, the group still is one of the most faithful and active in Garza County.

Mr. Carnegie served the church as the first ordained deacon and Mary Ella Jones, now Mrs. Haywood Basinger, was the first pianist.

Timely Tips
 That will help you water your lawn more economically

Water for irrigation is cheap, but not if it is wasted. Follow suggestions below and you'll do a better job of watering your lawn and do it more economically.

USE A CANVAS SOIL SOAKER instead of a spray that throws water high into the air in a fine mist. Water from a soil soaker seeps slowly into the ground and none is wasted through evaporation. Grass roots grow deeper and the grass is better able to withstand hot weather.

WATER IN THE EVENING or early morning instead of during the heat of the day. The sun and hot daytime winds evaporate much of the water that should go into the soil, especially if a fine mist spray is used. Watering in the evening lessens this evaporation and prevents waste.

DO NOT WATER FASTER than soil can soak it up. Water that falls to the ground faster than soil can soak it up simply runs off and is wasted.
 Do not turn water on full force and do not leave sprinkler or soil soaker too long in one location.

Texas Highway Construction Leads Nation

Reviewing the activities of the Texas Highway Department now entering its 30th year as the state's road building agency, Commission Chairman John S. Redditt of Austin reported paved mileage on the state system had more than quadrupled since it was first accurately measured in 1929.

The endless struggle to build new roads as fast as traffic demand increased has showed the 1929 paved mileage of 8,961 up to 23,734 miles on July 1, with more being added every day.

"This still isn't enough," Redditt declared. "The blight of congestion and hazards to safety on many sections of these paved roads render them inadequate to handle the heavy traffic using them."

He expressed confidence that the Commission's recent expanded policy for building farm-to-market roads on a cooperative basis with counties, together with the current federal aid program would result in substantial improvements to the state's farm transportation problem.

The total investment in the state road network stood at $934,197,811.55 on July 1, Redditt announced. This includes all expenditures made under the supervision of the Texas Highway Department since it was created 30 years ago.

"It has been a good investment," he said. "I doubt if any other similar expenditure of public funds has done so much good for as many people."

The chairman paid tribute to the thousands of employees who had built the organization into one of the top road building agencies of the nation. "Of the 7,663 employees on the payroll today, 2,278 have been with us for 10 years or more, while 100 have served the department 25 years or more. Only one has completed 30 years of service, but two others are approaching the 30 year mark."

"This organization has made it possible for Texas to maintain its place at the top among states of the nation in carrying out a vast postwar construction program. Today work is progressing on contracts in excess of $77,000,000, a volume that has never before been reached in the department's history."

Across the Tracks

By H. H. H.

The recent completion of the farm-to-market pavement extending toward Falls meets highways 84 and 289 immediately in front of our station to form a four-way intersection; and we've already witnessed enough near-mishaps on said intersection to give us a permanent case of goose pimples. We've frequently seen as many as three automobiles approaching from as many different directions—all racing hell-bent-for-election to see who crosses the intersection first. Although none of these races have as yet resulted in a tie—we confidently expect one to any day now—and the ensuing smash-up should really be a lollapalooza.

We've toyed with the idea of digging us a foxhole for just such emergencies; and, when we observe such a crisis approaching, we shall dive into it and stay until the debris and dust have settled back to earth; after which we shall amble out and—good Samaritan that we are—assist in gathering up all stray arms, legs, heads, et cetera, that clutter up the roadway.

No fooling—this corner is in dire need of some sort of traffic control. Perhaps warning signs would be adequate, or possibly a caution light; but we honestly believe that, unless some precautionary measures are taken, the forfeit will be someday paid in human life.

Sincerely,
HANS HUDMAN

The locals added a run in the sixth inning and 4 in the seventh, but the Oilers did better and piled up 3 more runs in the seventh and 2 in the eighth.

Durrett-Presson Betrothal Is Announced At Afternoon Party

BY MRS. W. R. GRAEBER

Winged Cupid chose a perfect setting in the beautiful home of the J. R. Durrett last Thursday afternoon, from 4:30 until 6 o'clock, to highlight one of mid-summer's most delightful social occasions in the guise of a "sweet-heart" tea to announce the plighted troth of Miss Maxine Durrett and Kent Presson of Washington, D. C., and their approaching marriage to be solemnized at the altar of the First Methodist Church in an impressive double ring ceremony Saturday evening, August 2.

The moment the magic front door swung open by the deft touch of Mesdames T. L. Jones and N. W. Stone to greet the first guests, it was obvious that His Royal Majesty, the God of Marriage, had visited this home and left in his train every tangible evidence that nuptial festivities were in the offing.

In this gay mood, the guests were received by Mrs. Durrett whose inimitable poise and charm were enhanced by a clinging gown of delicate pink with graceful folds of cascade drapery; the bride-elect who was a vision of loveliness in a shimmering creation of soft rose beige; Mrs. W. F. Presson, mother of the bridegroom-to-be, in a flowing robe of becoming rose, and Mrs. W. R. Graeber, the bridegroom-elect's aunt, who wore a turquoise blue and silver gown.

Sweetheart Music Offered
Throughout the receiving hours, soft strains of pre-nuptial music were played by Mrs. T. L. Jones and Misses Mary Margaret Duckworth and Zora Ann Outlaw at the grand piano, while Mrs. Alton Carr, Mrs. Ralph Welch and Miss Hazel Cash sang vocal numbers in keeping with the sweetheart theme.

The guests were conducted on a tour of enchantment by various members of the house party, who wore gowns of lovely pastel shades and pink and white corsages.

Mesdames L. A. Presson, R. M. Thomas and James Minor played the roles of guides in the spacious living room, and their first stop was before the mantel that had been converted into a veritable shrine. In the center of its verdant drapery reposed a huge sweetheart of white satin ruffled with filmy net entwined with pink ribbon and clusters of tiny pink rosebuds, and written there-

Two Miscellaneous Showers Are Given In Honor Of Bride-Elect

Miss Skeeter Smith, Post teacher who will be married at 8:30 o'clock tonight to Mason Justice at the First Methodist Church, was complimented at two lovely miscellaneous showers this week.

On Wednesday afternoon Mrs. Ott Nance, Mrs. Elton Nance and Mrs. Winnie Tuffing were hostesses at Justiceburg in the home of Mrs. Ott Nance.

Punch and cake were served from a lace-covered table, decorated with pink and white gladioli. The same color scheme was carried out in the flowers throughout the entertaining rooms, and in the confections served.

Mrs. Fred Meek, childhood friend of the bride-elect, assisted by Mrs. J. D. Mitchell of Snyder, presided at the refreshment table. Mrs. L. C. Kline of Fort Worth, registered the guests in the bride's book as they arrived.

Appropriate piano music was played during the tea hour by Mrs. Carol Moore, lifelong friend of the Smith family.

On Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. Jessie Voss, Mrs. N. W. Stone, Mrs. Nola Brister and Mrs. Harold Voss entertained at the home of Mrs. Jessie Voss.

Fifty guests were present for a most enjoyable afternoon of informal conversation and visiting.

The tea table was covered with a lace cloth and centered with a miniature bride and bridegroom surrounded by ivy. The table also was decorated with four tall, white tapers and a punch bowl surrounded by sweet peas and baby's breath. The floral decorations throughout the house were arranged by Mrs. Ira Lee Duckworth. Decorations on the buffet included two tall white tapers.

Mrs. Fred Meeks of Plainview poured the lime punch and Mrs. Monte Staniforth served the white cakes.

The wedding date was announced on the white and green napkins printed with the date and Mason, June 24.

Mrs. B. McNabb of Popesville, sister of the bridegroom-elect, presided at the bride's book at a table which was centered with a on in letters of gold "Maxine and Kent, August 2." The arrangement was flanked with tall white tapers with bows of the same gossamer net and pink ribbon.

From thence, the trail led to the dining room, a bower of cool, refreshing beauty, where breathing became the inhaling of perfume.

The table was covered with the sheerest white organdy with a full gathered flounce of net that touched the floor and was draped with tufts of pink ribbon caught with pink rosebuds. This was over a mat of white silk which the bridegroom-to-be acquired in France during the war.

Scene Is Fantastic
Gracing the center was a sweetheart cake on a mirror reflector. The billowy white icing was topped with pink rosebuds. Towering behind the centerpiece was a row of graduated electric candles, the soft, yellow glow from which transformed the trays of pink and white mints into glimmering phantasies.

Presiding at the punch bowl of bubbling orange nectar and the miniature white cakes topped with pink were Mrs. Doyle Justice of Lubbock and Mrs. Glenn Kahler. Assisting them in serving were Miss Lois Baldrige of Clovis, N. M., Miss Lucille Collier, Mrs. Jesse Barnes, and Mrs. Hub Haire of Southland.

The path from the dining room led to the master bedroom where Mrs. Ernest Griffith of Lubbock and Mrs. Shelly Camp presided over the beautiful bride's book. It was bound handsomely in gorgeous white leather, gold embossed and every page had been hand-tinted elaborately by the bridegroom-elect's mother.

Thus the happy tour ended and, voicing the 150 friends who registered in the language of the poet, the occasion truly was "a thing of beauty and a joy forever."

A series of parties honoring Miss Durrett got underway this week with a breakfast given yesterday morning by Mrs. A. C. Surman and daughter, Mrs. Doyle Justice of Lubbock, and Mrs. Glenn Kahler at the Surman home.

Fourteen hostesses will entertain tomorrow afternoon in honor of the bride-elect at the home of Mrs. J. E. Parker.

On Saturday, Mrs. Ernest Griffith of Lubbock will entertain here as a courtesy to Miss Durrett.

Here is one of the new Ford tractors that are rolling off the production lines of Ford's Highland Park plant at the rate of 44 a day. Features include an improved hydraulic system for implement control and four forward speeds. With the new line of Dearborn farm equipment, the Ford tractor is marketed nationally by Dearborn Motors Corporation. Michigan Farmerette Gloria Carlson tries out one of the new models at the Dearborn Motors' experiment farm at Clarkston, Mich.

New Ford Tractor Features Four Forward Speeds and Other Units

M. K. Bingham, manager, and Earl Rogers, partner of the Garza Tractor and Implement Co., dealer for Ford tractors, recently attended a one-day sales conference of Ford tractor dealers of Texas, at which the new Ford tractor was introduced, in Dallas. The new Ford tractor features an improved hydraulic system permitting operation of tractor and implement as a single unit with automatic hydraulic control of the equipment, Mr. Bingham said. Other major improvements include an automotive-type steering gear, a fourth forward speed to give a wider range of working speeds, a new drawbar height control mechanism, combination running boards and step-plates, a seat that can be tilted back, and a hinged radiator grill for easy cleaning of the radiator core.

While major improvements have been made in the tractor itself, farm implements now in use with Ford tractors will operate with the new model 8N Ford tractor, Mr. Bingham pointed out.

Meritt D. Hill of Dearborn, Mich., general sales manager, Dearborn Motors Corporation, the national marketing organization for Ford tractors, told the dealers that production of the new tractor was going forward at the Highland Park plant of the Ford Motor Company and that approximately 50,000 units would be marketed the latter part of 1947.

RESEARCHERS IN POLIO ADVISE AGAINST CHILLS

Sudden chilling, such as plunging into cold water on a very hot day should be avoided.

This is the advice of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, which has been supplying its Garza County Chapter with a series of precautions for the polio danger months, June through September.

Scientific research financed by March of Dimes funds has shown that when laboratory animals exposed to the polio virus were suddenly chilled twice as many developed acute and paralyzing attacks of the disease as did a control group which had been protected from sudden temperature changes.

ROGER W. BABSON WRITES THIS WEEK:

No Medium Seen For High Wages and Depression

Gloucester, Mass.—I am down here to my old home town which has been tied up by strikes of the Fish Handlers. Everyone has been arguing about the rights and responsibilities of the other fellow. Discussion, usually leads to a fair conclusion; but I hate to see people get mad, especially while engaged in a great celebration of St. Peter and Christ's Teachings that Love For One Another is the only answer.

This strike, like others, has included a demand for more money. There are various ways to get more money, namely through hourly pay holidays, more overtime pay, etc. In my talks everywhere, however, I find that the basic struggle now is over the question whether the Union or the Owners are to run the business. The strikers take me around to the stores, and show me the increased retail prices and I cannot help being sympathetic with them for wanting more money. Besides, these people, as a rule, have several to feed and clothe; while and other stockholders usually have only small families. But when it comes to letting them dictate business policies, I am for the owners.

Request Is Unreasonable
The employers, ten years ago, paid these Fish Handlers 60 cents per hour. Now they are perfectly willing to pay practically double this or $1.15 per hour; but they cannot afford to pay $1.30 per hour. In many instances, two or three members of the family are working which gives an excellent family income to the Fish Handlers. The employers insist, and I am sure they are right, that if further pay raises are granted, the retail price of fish must be increased. As the retail price of fish since 1940 has already doubled in most stores, they question whether people will eat so much fish if prices are further increased. We all know that when barbers raise the price of haircuts, their customers go a few days longer between haircuts and the barbers are no better off in the end.

Something About Fish
There are two large Fish Unions here. One is made up of the Fishermen who go on the high seas and catch the fish. They do not receive ordinary wages, but rather a share of the catch. Conditions vary with different ports, but usually about 40 per cent of the catch goes to the vessel owners, and about 60 per cent is divided amongst the crew and skipper with a special extra bonus to the skipper which bonus comes out of the owners. Some expenses are paid by the crew and other expenses by the owners. Thus, the Fishermen are really on a "piece-work" basis. Moreover, it is hard work and they are subject to 24 hour call.

When fish comes to the wharf, it is sold through public auction so as to be fair to both the fishermen and the boat owners. After it has been purchased, the vessel delivers it to the firm which is to cut off the heads, skin it and fillet it. This work is done by the Fish Handlers, the ones who have been on a strike. They stand in long rows by benches and the fish come to them on belts. They work very quickly and with much care so as to get out all the bones. They prepare it for market.

What Consumers Want
From letters coming to me from all parts of the country, it is evident that consumers want fish; also that if the price should be reduced, they would buy much more fish. Hence, they wish the Fish Handlers would agree to piecework and be willing to be paid according to what they produce as are the Fishermen who catch the fish. The slow workers might then get only 85 cents per hour; while the fast workers might get $1.50 an hour. This would be fair to all people and especially to the consumers who read this column.

Every wage worker should remember that if his group alone could raise wages with only the price of his product going up, this would be fine. But the workers in all other groups are sure to follow, causing the prices of everything to go up more and more would be better off in the end. Hence, we must finally choose between piecework on a fair basis, or else wait for depression and unemployment to bring us to our senses. I see no halfway answer. Only as we all unite to increase production and lower prices will we have more in food, clothing and shelter. This applies to every industry and every city.

Agriculture, with more workers than any other industry, had a death rate last year of 54 per 100,000 workers, compared to the all-industry rate of only 31.

THE WOMEN... God love 'em:

There's nothing like letting a woman feel her superiority now and again. The man who is always wise at home is a fool. —Morley Roberts.

Have you noticed everybody is in a better humor lately? And they are more civil minded, more industry-minded, more agriculture-minded and more generally cooperative than at any time since I can remember.

I first began thinking about this while Charlie Williams and his helpers were painting the streets for diagonal parking. I saw how hard they were working and felt a bit of admiration for the City Hall crew who thought it up, but I was afraid they were wasting their time. I didn't think you could teach an old dog new tricks.

I couldn't imagine anything but the hodge-podge of helter-skelter, over-crowded parking that Post has known on Saturday and special trade days since the days of the model T's.

But I was the only one who was wasting my time. The time it takes to ponder on these things is either time wasted or gained and it turned out I should have been thinking about something else, something constructive instead of destructive.

From the day that the first diagonal parking rules were painted, Post began to look neater and more trim. Now that the job is completed, I have noticed on the past several Saturday afternoons—and last Friday when EVERYBODY was in town for the Post Truck and Tractor Company opening—that motorists were knocking themselves out trying to park inside the marked lines. Their cooperation makes all the difference in the world in the appearance one gets of Post. Go take a look, up and down Main, if you haven't already noticed this. You will also notice that now you can find a place to park.

The amazing thing to me, however, was that people would cooperate in this parking project without any coercion or law or attempted enforcement. The City set the pattern and it was such a welcome move that everybody is abiding by it.

I almost believe we could count on the people of Post to do something about vaccinating and getting tags for their dogs now. In fact, I believe we are ready for almost anything constructive.

This is a fortunate thing, because we do not have the financial revenue for law enforcement officers which most health of the ation, when it has been is why I like own.

When all those Chicago International Harvester executives were here, they were amazed at the splendid cooperation shown by the merchants of Post. The sincere congratulatory ads in the Post Dispatch were most pleasing to them, but their eyes popped out all over again when the big party started and they saw Dowe's fellow Rotarians with cook aprons on and their sleeves rolled up serving food to some two thousand guests.

Some of these men had to close their own places of business in order to help in this manner and

Editor's Note—The author of this column spent part of the war years as an overseas employee of the U. S. Government. By EVELYN BOYD

On the heels of the Senate vote in favor of a bill providing $1,048,266,136 for federal farm programs for the current fiscal year, comes the final report, in a series of three carried in this column, on Congressman Eugene Worley's plea before the House, which later slashed the program as requested by President Truman and promoted by Texas Congressman George Mahon and Worley.

The Senate, however, upped the amount in a compromise measure which will insure—to a somewhat modified degree—the continued agricultural progress for which Worley made a plea in the following statement:

Now that's a long story about agricultural progress and prosperity. It's a story this was certainly a concession considering the number of people—all prospective customers—who were in town that day.

And when they were told that Bill's friends from Southland came down here and spent a whole day or more digging and building a barbecue pit and cooking all that good meat and that Jack Burress of Piggly-Wiggly had taken time out to personally supervise the cooking of the beans and that Cloyd Curb had left his own brand new restaurant to come down and supervise the making and serving of coffee, they could hardly believe it.

They all said this was the best of the three International Harvester agency openings they had attended in this area last week and that it just couldn't have been any better.

And they attributed this success to the cooperative attitude of the people of Post and of Garza County. "They just don't have this spirit in a city," they said enviously.

I can understand their amazement all right, and I also know the reasons for all this cooperation.

For one thing, Dowe Mayfield and Bill Basinger deserve every bouquet that was handed them on Friday. Had they not deserved this fine ovation, only a handful of their closest cronies and a few people who hope to get their business or to get favors in the way of preference in new farm equipment would have been there.

And it's the same way with the city. The gang up at the City Hall is trying to do something. The people of Post know it and instinctively are offering their sincere cooperation in matters of proper parking and other projects.

All of Garza County now seems to be trying to do something constructive. It is most reassuring to me to know that I have my business and life work in a progressive, cooperative small town, the best place in the world to live in trying times like these.

that should be of great interest to our Republican colleagues because it's the picture of the sound, healthy agricultural situation which they, as members of the dominant party, are inheriting as we begin this year 1947. Will they keep it that way during their tenure of office? It can't be done by trusting to luck and ignoring the farmer's problems as they have done many times in the past.

There are many problems to be decided about the future—such problems as making full use of the farmers' remarkable increase in productive capacity. Inevitably, there must be readjustment from a wartime to a peacetime production pattern. In times past, the inability to change pace, to shift gears has been agriculture's biggest handicap. In the last 14 years, however, farmers have learned much about the necessity for making production fit demand—something that industry has long recognized. They have built up the machinery to make that adjustment through the legislative programs and particularly through the national production goals.

Thus, during the war the goals helped farmers produce the tremendous quantities of meat, milk, wheat, corn, cotton, eggs, and other strategic foods that a fighting nation requires. Now with the return of peace the goals are helping agriculture emphasize such production as is most needed.

To make the goal mechanism work, there obviously must be unified action. There must be leadership. In the case of depressed markets, there must be income protection. All these requirements can be provided only by a continuation of full-fledged cooperation between farmers and Government.

The conservation job is well underway, but there still is a big job ahead. The task of applying the basic soil and water saving measures will take years and—in the interests of the whole American people—there must be no slackening of the work.

And then there is the problem of regaining adequate foreign trade in farm commodities. By means of the World Bank and various international agreements, the Government is endeavoring to help agriculture build up international commerce. The Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations is another phase of the world-wide effort to make Agriculture strong and prosperous.

The whole marketing picture needs to be examined and in some ways revamped. The recent Democratic Congress took a big step in this direction with the Agricultural Research and Marketing Act, authorizing widespread research to discover new uses for farm products, new markets for old products, new methods in making distribution of farm commodities not only more efficient but also more profitable.

But the most fundamental factor in the maintenance of a prosperous and healthy agriculture is the continuance of a full employment, full production economy.

This is the most elementary economics. The income of 25 million farm people must come primarily from the spending of the 115 million city, town, and village people. In a full

What Our Contemporaries Are Saying:

NICE APPEARING TOWNS—Three things that contribute enormously to give a town a fine appearance to visitors are grassy and well kept lawns, plenty of trees, and home grounds well planted with shrubs. A lawn that is mowed often and regularly so that it has a smooth and velvety appearance is a very fine feature.

Shade trees give dignity and beauty, and a nice selection of shrubs helps to complete the picture. If there are flowers, these add a special touch of beauty. Such efforts to beautify a home place indicate that its possessors love their home, that they have a keen interest in it, and are willing to spend considerable time or money in keeping it up to a high standard.—Haskell Free Press.

TO SWEETEN CANTALOUPES—Old Tack in the Amarillo News Globe has been writing for the past two weeks about how to make an old cantaloupe taste better than a Rocky Ford, when it is at its prime. If you are a fancier of cantaloupe and his discovery works then the information should be worth a small fortune. I have a weakness for cantaloupe and have thrown away many a gurdy tasting cantaloupe in my time while my wife moaned and groused about how much I had paid for them.

Old Tack says that he has tried the suggestion he made and that it really works. When you buy a 45-cent cantaloupe, if you can find one that cheap, and it turns out very uninteresting to your palate, sprinkle some sugar on it and put it in the refrigerator over night. According to Tack, the next morning it will be as sweet as any cantaloupe could be.—Slaton Slaton.

IS ZONING SATISFACTORY?—Last August the City Council passed an ordinance dividing the City into 12 zones, prescribing kind of buildings, uses, sizes, etc. For sometime before its passage, the proposition was widely advertised in local papers. Several "open hearings" were announced, but few attended. The public, being a typical public, paid it no mind. We seldom know or care employment economy where the wage level is so high, much of our new-found agricultural productivity can and will be absorbed.

This great nation is capable of producing enough food to provide its people with a good diet. The importance of good diet to national health and strength is a fact we cannot afford to ignore. It remains for all of us to make sure that the American people have the means of purchasing the food which farmers are so capable of producing.

We have made great progress toward the goals of security, opportunity, and prosperity. Whatever lies beyond the veil that hides the future from our eyes, this much at least is assured: Never in all American history has agriculture been so well prepared to adjust its operations to demand. Never has it been better able to plan a wise use of the land to provide continuous, abundant, profitable production for the needs of the whole people.

Nothing is more fundamental than to keep agriculture, the backbone of the nation's economy, straight and strong. But today American Agriculture is at the Crossroads. It can continue strong and healthy or it can sink into the shabby doldrums of the early '30s. The legislative responsibility of the Majority Party cannot be alibied or escaped.

And so ends Congressman Worley's speech which, was not in vain despite the House's refusal to listen. Next week we will voice local reaction to the agriculture appropriations bill as passed by the Senate.

what is brewing until it happens. Well, its happening now. They are becoming torrid zones. Much criticism and friction is being heard. Several lawsuits are in the making, growing out of rigid restrictions. Many of these complaints are not without merit. Hence a move is on to repeal, or modify the zoning law.

It is claimed the code is hindering building and keeping people out of town.

Among the various reasons assigned by national authorities for the housing breakdowns is local restrictive codes.

We hear no criticism of reasonable restrictions, protecting the public from needless fire hazards, unsanitary or obnoxious or offensive uses, or occupancy, even to unsightly structures, but to hinder the towns growth with hundreds of homeless knocking at our gates, presents a problem, that should no longer go unnoticed.—The Terry County Herald.

Amateur wiring or overloading of electrical equipment is a big cause of disastrous fires on Texas farms.

Chicken Feed

"Folding Money" NOW

Poultry raising in our area has come a long way since Mother kept a few chickens for egg money and Sunday dinners.

Today there's a lot of good "folding money" in scientific poultry raising. It's not "chicken feed" any more, for more folks than ever before are making big money in the poultry business in the Panhandle-Plains-Pecos Valley Area.

We have so much confidence in the poultry industry—and all other industries we serve, that we are investing 35 million dollars in a building program. This expansion program in our territory will bring more dependable electric service to industry and farms and better living—electrically—to everyone.

Problems of Range Management Of Interest To County Agents

Scientific adult education, combined with financial assistance from Uncle Sam, has put the farmer in big business and he is there to stay, at least as long as the United States is supporting the world.

Now comes ranching as a science.

Some 15 years ago, range management edged into the picture as a specific science but in a small way. Only Idaho Nebraska and California experimented with it until three years ago when a number of other states—impressed with strides made by scientific farmers—began offering the range course in their agricultural schools.

It was not until last year that Texas A. and M. College, the only school so far in the state to offer the course, began teaching range management as a separate course. Fourteen students were enrolled. Now it is estimated that the range management department will enroll more 1947-48 graduate students than any other department in the college. Garza County Agricultural Agent D. F. Eaton said last week on his return from a range school which the A. & M. Extension Service offered 26 West Texas county agents.

Course Was Jam-Packed
The school opened at Sonora June 30 for one week, then the group went to San Angelo for field work on July 9 and 10, to Fort Stockton July 11 and 12, Alpine and Marfa, July 13 and Fort Davis, July 14.

"It was a stiff course in which all the agents were deeply interested," Eaton said. "The only diversion we had during the two weeks was a sightseeing trip to the McDonald Observatory at Fort Davis." Classes were conducted seven days a week.

During the first week of the course, theories on range management and range problems were discussed, then on the field trips to a number of large West Texas ranches, the students compared the various range management practices as they are being applied by leading producers of cattle and sheep. After each day in the field, the agents spent an evening working on their notebooks.

The course, which was introduced to county agents for the first time by the Extension Service in cooperation with the Range and Forestry Department of Texas A. & M. College, is good for three credits in either undergraduate or graduate work.

Directing the agents on the tour and in charge of the theory and laboratory work were Dr. Vernon A. Young, head of the A. & M. Range and Forestry Department, and Dr. Omer E. Sperry, a professor in the department.

To Combat Deterioration
Purpose of the course was to train county agents in better range management practices that can be applied successfully by ranchmen in their respective counties.

Dr. Young explained that it is a known fact that ranges have been going down hill for some time and that there has been a bad invasion of undesirable brush species and undesirable weeds on former high production grass ranges.

In an effort to combat the deteriorating range, the course was offered and the agents attending volunteered for further study. Each of six districts in West Texas was represented by selected county agents. District two representatives were Eaton and W. T. Barfield of Lamesa.

The group found that ranchmen who have properly grazed their pasture lands with proper numbers of livestock were producing more calves and more meat than ranchmen who overstocked.

The agents studied identification of grasses, gathered specimens from the field for examination and worked out certain principles of management as applied in the field.

The theory course at Sonora include lectures on livestock diseases and poisonous plants, veterinary practices, range conservation and other subjects.

Must Add Organic Matter
Among other things, it was pointed out that the key to range management is to retain the moisture that falls in the soil for the developing of vegetation and a plant cover that will add organic matter to the soil. This is necessary for the maintenance and increase of forage plants.

The soil is a storehouse of plant food. When the stores are exhausted, plant growth is retarded. From 20 to 40 per cent of the residue must be left for soil protection.

Among the ranches visited during the field trips were: That of Clayton Puckett of Fort Stockton, first vice president of the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers Association; the famous E. L. Ranch in Pecos County; the ranch of L. T. (Crit) Clark, near Water Valley; several ranches in Sutton County, among them those of Bryan Hunt, president of the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers Association, and Joseph VanderStrucken.

HITCHHIKER PROTECTED BY NEW TRAFFIC CODE TO BE EFFECTIVE SOON

Contrary to inaccurate reports, the new chapter traffic code does not prohibit one from hitchhiking. George Carney, managing director of the Texas Safety Association, has announced in Austin.

The code, which goes into effect September 5, was supported by the Texas Safety Association and its statewide cooperating groups in the recent session of the legislature, as a safety measure.

The two-line subsection of the traffic code pertaining to hitchhikers reads: "no person shall stand in a roadway for the purpose of soliciting a ride from the driver of any vehicle."

A roadway is defined in the bill as "that portion of the highway improved, designed or ordinarily used for vehicular travel..."

The bill defines a highway as "the entire width between the boundary lines of every way maintained when any part thereof is open to the use of the public for purposes of vehicular travel."

Clarke emphasized that the bill does not forbid any person to stand on the shoulder of the road for the purpose of soliciting a ride from a driver.

He said that it is a prevalent practice in the state for hitchhikers to stand on the concrete or corrugated surface of the road and that this action constitutes a definite hazard to the hitchhiker, as well as to traffic.

Penalties for violation of the act range from $1 to $200.

Department of Agriculture agronomists are saying that the record wheat crop in Texas and the United States this year is due in part to new varieties of wheat which were planted. In the past 10 years, 30 improved varieties of wheat have been distributed to American farmers.
