SUNDAY SLEEPER

There is little justification for the habitual Sunday morning sleeper. Man's creation was such that it is necessary for him to gain his strength and encouragement for the battles of life from the influence of the church and the teachings of Jesus.

Jesus said that "Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God."

Comfortable bed on Sunday morning with radio, cigars and a newspaper, wonderful as they are, cannot tone up and sweeten a life like an hour of worship in the church of your choice. You need something luxuries cannot give.

There is a certain reassurance that comes from the toll of the church bell and singing of the choir. Be a worshiper in the pew every Sunday. You need the church. The church needs you. You'll find her doors ajar.

YOU IN THE CHURCH
THE CHURCH IN YOU

Character is a by-product of the church. It is here that young and old alike are showered with brotherhood and a stronger democracy for a better citizenship. Leadership is molding religious character. Station men today declare that the church alone can furnish the church of our choice on Sunday. "You in the Church and the Church in you"—form a combination for good.

GRASSLAND BAPTIST CHURCH (Union Church)

The early history of the Central (Grassland) Baptist Church reveals a list of names of people in that community who are active in church and community affairs of Garza County.

The church was organized on May 14, 1916 following preaching service at the school house by the Rev. J. G. Cole.

Those with church letters who attended the service presented them and organization got under way with B. W. Taylor officiating.

Charter members were Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Odom, Grace Odom, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Hart and Mrs. Scarborough (deceased), Rev. and Mrs. D. W. Reed and daughter, Ethel, and H. P. Burkhalter.

The Philadelphia Confession of Faith was read and adopted and the church was given the name of Grassland Baptist Church. B. W. Taylor served as acting moderator and J. G. Cole served as clerk.

On May 21 of the same year the church went into conference with Rev. Reed as moderator to discuss further organizational plans. E. N. Lummus, a regular ordained deacon received several new members—Mr. and Mrs. Lummus, Mrs. H. P. Burkhalter. The second Sunday in June was set for calling a pastor and was also decided upon as the regular meeting day.

H. P. Burkhalter was elected church clerk.

The first revival meeting was held by the Rev. S. R. Culpepper of the Baptist Seminary of Fort Worth. Additional members were Mr. and Mrs. Luther Ewell and Mr. and Mrs. O. Ross.

Rev. Reed was unanimously chosen for pastor. First delegates elected to attend the Brownfield Association conference were Rev. Reed, D. D. Odom, E. N. Lummus. Alternates were Mr. and Mrs. Ross and Luther Ewill.

The first candidates for baptism were Mabel Odom, R. Odom and Letha Berneately.

First Deacons of the church were D. D. Odom and H. Burkhalter. They were ordained in a service at the close of first revival meeting with Rev. J. G. Cole delivering the charge. B. W. Taylor, serving as moderator and Rev. S. R. Culpepper delivering the sermon.

There were 16 candidates for baptism at the close of the meeting.

The church in its beginning used nail kegs with board planks laid across them for seats. Other inconveniences were undergone until this fine group got started.

In 1922 the Grassland church consolidated with the Mollie church and became the Central Church. Today it is one of the most active small churches in the county.

FARM WOMEN SHOULD BE INFORMED ABOUT WILLS, TAXES, ETC.

The old idea that family legal matters are the concern only of the man of the house is being changed by thousands of farm women in home demonstration clubs. Regularly they're studying wills, taxes, deeds, contracts and other matters that have to do with family property.
Miss Jewell Hipp, Garza County home demonstration agent, points out that the homemaker comes into contact with the law every day . . . when she writes a check, signs a note, gets a receipt or even orders groceries, and there's nothing unladylike about learning legal matters that affect the family.

Miss Hipp says that there are a few things that every homemaker needs to know about legal matters. The up-to-date farm woman knows all insurance policies in the family, with benefits provided and names of companies. She keeps records on social security cards of family members and records progress in paying off family debts. She knows the numbers of all government bonds in order to make claim in case they are destroyed.
There are a lot of legal matters that the modern rural homemaker is making her business and doing a good job of it.

It was said 23 hundred years ago by the Greek, Xenophon, that "When agriculture flourishes, all other pursuits are in full vigor; but when the ground is forced to lie barren, other occupations are almost stopped, as well by land as by sea."

RHYMES of REASON

Amendment Can Help Tech Get Needed Money

Work on critically needed buildings at Texas Technological College can begin this fall if a proposed amendment to the state constitution, creating a special building fund is passed, college officials state.

As an example of Tech's needs, spokesmen pointed out that the college opened its doors in 1925 with only one section of the administration building completed. The structure still stands as it was then, although the faculty has increased 400 per cent, and now as many as nine persons share one of its offices designed for three.

In addition to a serious need for completion of the administration building, the college also needs a new gymnasium, home economics building, completion of the textile engineering building, a petroleum engineering building and others.

If voters ratify the amendment at the August 23 special election, the fund thus created would be divided over a 30-year period according to enrollment among Tech and other state educational institutions except the University of Texas and Texas A&M. Through a bonding process, the sum allotted to each college would be awarded in three installments, one every ten years, with the first to be made available immediately after passage of the amendment.

According to present property valuations and relative enrollments, Tech would receive $7,425,000 over the 30-year period for building purposes. The entire program is to be financed without increasing taxes, college officials state, explaining that the amendment proposes to reduce the maximum property tax levy from 35 to 30 cents per $100 valuation and to assign to the building fund a five-cent portion of the presently authorized seven-cent per $100 valuation property tax for Confederate pension purposes.

In about two weeks Mr. Connell's sister, Mrs. Bruce Young of Fort Worth, and Blanche's son, Giles Dalby, who is now in Costa Rica, will join the family here and the entire group will leave for Colorado on a two-month vacation. Carl B. Adams of Fort Worth was a weekend guest in the Connell home.

Air Search And Rescue Service Available Here

An emergency air search and rescue service for fliers lost or forced down within this area is now being conducted by the Army Air Rescue Service operating from Biggs Field, El Paso. Assistance will be given whether planes in trouble are civilian or military, and the unit is also authorized to transport by air anyone injured in ground accidents when other transportation is not available.

All persons who have knowledge of an airplane crash or emergency landing in this vicinity are urged to place a collect long-distance telephone call to the Army Air Rescue Service, El Paso, Texas, telephone—East 3181, Extension 3991.

The area covered by the Biggs Field unit includes more than 468,000 square miles and takes in Texas, Southeastern New Mexico, and the Southern portion of Oklahoma. A force of 32 officers and enlisted men is constantly standing by on a 24-hour alert basis to respond to calls for assistance.

Among the emergency equipment carried by rescue planes is a medical "bomb" which was developed by the Biggs Field Air Rescue Service for parachute delivery to injured men when landings of rescue planes cannot be made immediately. This contains blood plasma morphine, splints, antiseptics and other medical supplies of an emergency nature. When required, medical officers who are especially trained for rescue work, jump by parachute to give first aid treatment to downed fliers.

Since the Air Rescue Service unit was activated at Biggs Field in September of 1946, its men and planes have spent more than 900 hours in the air searching for lost aviators. A total of 13 missing aircraft have been located during this period.

The service has recently been expanded and authorized to go to the aid of civilians as well as military aircraft which encounters difficulties in flight. Prompt reporting of aircraft accidents by witnesses is of great assistance in rescue operation.

Rep. Ed Gossett Offends More Than Five Million New Yorkers

Representative Ed Gossett, formerly of Garza County, hurt the feeling of some five million New Yorkers, according to the following article clipped from a New York City newspaper:

Several million New Yorkers may be surprised to learn that, on the authority of Representative Ed Gossett of Texas, their city "isn't an English-speaking place." Representative Gossett expressed his opinion recently at a hearing of a House judiciary subcommittee.

The subcommittee was considering a bill to permit immigration of 400,000 homeless Europeans when the Texas Democrat interposed:

"Isn't this supposed to be an Anglo-Saxon country; that is, English-speaking? I am not referring to New York City—that isn't an English-speaking place."

New Yorkers, and experts on New Yorkese, were retorting to Representative Gossett before the statement had been set in type for the Congressional Record. They upheld the New York patois, disparaged Representative Gossett's knowledge of the subject, made individual comparisons with the Texan drawl, and produced some interesting statistics about New York's population.

Discussed At City Hall

Mayor O'Dwyer discussed the matter at a City Hall meeting with publishers and editors of fourteen foreign-language dailies. The Mayor said Texans were "great citizens," but added that he felt that Representative Gossett had some things to learn about friendliness.

"Sometimes," the Mayor said, "unthinking people use the fact that the city is composed of all races and creeds to express their displeasure of our city. There was a time in the Representative's state when English was not the native language." If, in the development of a city, state or nation, people came to seek a home, wiser and friendlier people than the Congressman from Texas made it possible for them to come.

Pete McGuinness, sage of Brooklyn's Greenpoint section, was less controlled in his retort.

"If this guy Gossett, or whatever his name is, is the kind of people they have in Texas," said Mr. McGuinness, "then they ought to give Texas back to Mexico. English-speaking, he says! Why, I remember back in 1924, when I was at the Democratic convention in Madison Square Garden, when those Texans started to talk you couldn't tell if they were making a speech or singing a song."

Bronx Folk Offended

The Bronx reaction, voiced by its Borough President James J. Lyons, was that "in New York we speak American, which every one understands, but some Texans speak a language no one understands."

Another defender of New Yorkese was Dr. James F. Bender, director of Human Relations and an authority on speech in this country. New York City, he declared, "has some of the best speech in the country." And then he turned to Brooklynese.

"Brooklynese," Dr. Bender asserted, "is no upstart. It has a fine tradition going back to the early Dutch burghers. Furthermore, despite its age, Brooklynese is still virile and is spreading."

With scientific caution Maria Leach, American-English editor of the New College Standard Dictionary, declared that "more New Yorkers speak English than any other language."

For the benefit of visiting members of Congress, the 1940 census figures show that more than 3,000,000 New Yorkers are native-born Americans. As of the same year the total population of Texas was about $6,500,000.

LUBBOCK BOYS CLUB TO GET ESTIMATED $25,000

Lubbock's Boys Club is an estimated $25,000 richer as a result of the Madison Square Garden rodeo, starring Gene Autry, sponsored in Lubbock last week by the American Business Club.

The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal said that on Saturday night, more than 8,000 persons braved a chilling wind to see the final show, boosting gate receipts to a total of approximately $56,500. Of this amount, about $17,000 will remain after expenses and taxes, officials said, with another $8,000 to be netted from concessions and programs.

Texas Wheat Is Worry To Farm Labor Program

Over 100 million bushels of Texas wheat . . . most of it ready for harvest now . . . is providing a tough test for the farm labor program of the Texas A and M College Extension Service.

Since the Extension farm labor program began in 1944, farm labor officials have handled the routing of a steadily increasing number of combines needed to harvest Texas wheat. This year, J. B. Kidd of Plainview assistant state farm labor supervisor in charge of combine movement, estimates at least 3,000 combines will be on the road, following the harvest from county to county. About 4,000 more will operate only in their home counties.

Routing of these thousands of combines is handled primarily through Kidd's office in Plainview. County agricultural agents in the wheat section of Texas and adjoining wheat counties of New Mexico wire him daily reports on combine needs, excess combines available, status of harvest, and other information. From that information, Kidd is able to see to it that combines are on the spot when they are needed and that those needing work get it. As the harvest is completed, many of the combines, including those from 20 other states and Canada which had come into Texas, move northward and follow the harvest all the way into Canada.

Kidd believes the supply of combines will be sufficient to harvest most of the crop, estimated at 112,000,000 bushels by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, but the squeeze will be tight when the Pamhandle harvest gets underway. Trucks attached to combines will find plenty of work, and some auxiliary trucks will be needed, but he emphasized that more trucks are expected than can be placed.

WHERE ARE POSTWAR DREAM HOMES? MISS HIPP GIVES ANSWER

A lot of people who planned way back during the war to buy one of those modern, streamlined homes may be asking the question, "where is the postwar dream house that was going to be sold as soon as building materials weren't tied up in the production of war equipment?"

It is true that most of the homes being built now look much the same as those built back in 1941. And the answer, says Miss Jewell Hipp, Garza County home demonstration agent, lies in the high cost of labor, material and land. Manufacturers, architects and designers over the country say that many people are crying for extremely modern features when they buy or build houses. They can't have them, because they are not being turned out in quantity, and if they were, they would be too expensive for most people. Economists say that a six-room frame house that could be built in 1941 for $6,000 now will cost about $12,000 . . . and that's without all the fancy developments.

Nothing has changed about the homes that are being built today except the cost, which has about doubled. Many false hopes have been stirred up concerning the post war home. The present cost of just a plain, frame house seems to be plenty to worry about without looking for new developments that will boost costs still more.

Bert Childers was saying, it's funny how so many of our wartime habits stick with us.

Bert likes plenty of butter on his bread, but even now he can't get over spreading it like it was scarce as hen's teeth. And as a war-worker, Bert used to stick to a temperate glass of beer on time off; and he still holds fast to beer and moderation.

Same way with Bert's wife. She not only has no trouble saving used fats, and waste paper. She's learned from wartime necessity to save every single thing that might possibly be used again.

From where I sit, it's mighty good that so many of these common-sense habits like thrift and moderation have stayed with us. Because they belong in America—along with tolerance, and mutual respect for one another's rights. They're habits that have helped to make this country strong and neighborly and free.

Three Paving Projects Will Benefit Garza

The Lynn County News in Tahoka last week published a Notice for Bids to be opened and contracts let on June 24 for the paving by the State Highway Commission of the short stretch of road running from state highway No. 380 at the Central Baptist Church south through Grassland to a connection with the Lynn County farm-to-market road recently constructed at a point a short distance from Grassland. The project will embrace a mileage of 2.3 miles of road.

Included in the same contract will be the three small stretches of highway in Garza County, one from Pleasant Valley west to the Lubbock-Post highway, about 1 mile; one from Close City south to the Post-Tahoka highway, about two miles, and one south from the Post-Tahoka highway to Graham, about two miles.

This construction will link up Grassland with both Tahoka and Post by state-paved highways.
