CLASS DINNER SUNDAY

It has been the custom here for the past six years, members of the class, their sponsor, and the superintendent of the school were Sunday at a one o'clock dinner. Immediately after the close of the service, this year's picnic was held in the home of Mr. W. H. Veazy.

Long tables were arranged at each end of the living room, and the latter one was placed in the front of the fireplace. Class blue and gold were carried on cards, while each table was decorated with bouquets of roses and an immense basket of snaps and popples, a gift to the class by Mrs. C. E. Ray and Bill Brew.

Exclamations of admiration were heard from the other classes and those who were present at intervals and occasional tables.

Members themselves were beautiful in class mates filed to their seats. McAfee said grace, after which the bountiful repast was served. Menus of baked chicken and green beans, new potatoes, cold rolls, and lead tea, with dessert of ice cream, food squares.

Tables, baked to order for the were iced in gold, with the 32 in blue, further carrying the class colors.

P. Bowlin, class mother, presided at the honor table with McAfee, class sponsor, superintendent, Miss Frances, president of the class, Monroe secretary-treasurer, and Holbrook student of the class.

Annual program had been arranged and senior dignity was thrown on to the guests looked for their own amusement. This was one of the most successful events of this school year, though high spirits were evidenced by thought that this was the last event of the year for the entire class would attend.

Presided by Mmes. Campbell, Bowlin, a number of the class were to Flying W swimming dip late in the afternoon, and were scattered to various other parts.

POSTAL WORKERS ELECT W. L. UNDERWOOD PRESIDENT IN CONVENTION HERE MONDAY

More than 100 postal workers, carriers, clerks, rural carriers and postmasters attended the annual meeting here Monday. It was decided to meet at Littlefield on Labor Day. Twenty-five towns had representatives present and Floydada had the largest representation. There were 18 delegates from Floydada, 16 from Tahoka and less from Littlefield, Post, Lubbock, Brownfield, Petersburg, O'Donnell, Slaton, Snyder, Shallowater, Muleshoe, Ackerly, Seminole, Gall, Frisco, McAadoo, Kalls, Lamesa, Wilson, Spur, Meadow, Fluvanna, Albany and Lou.

In the election which closed the program, Mr. W. L. Underwood, rural mail carrier at Post, defeated John R. Green, Lubbock superintendent of mails, after the latter had declined to serve on account of press of other postal service duties. The two men received the same number of votes and the president, Miss Ruth Courtney, cast the deciding vote. J. E. Branen, postmaster at Littlefield, was named vice-president over W. E. Sudarth, rural carrier at Tahoka, and Miss Courtney, the retiring president, was elected secretary-treasurer by acclamation.

On the request of rural carriers that another date than Memorial Day be chosen, the association session of the long time until next year it was decided to meet the first Monday in next September at Littlefield, and the Floydada string band which rendered several numbers here was asked by the delegation and the association to come to that city in the fall.

The scheduled program was carried out with only a few changes. L. B. Reed welcomed the visitors in behalf of the city and postmaster J. D. Dyer for the local force and C. E. Martin of Petersburg, responded in place of H. J. Kendrick of Lubbock. Music was led by Mr. Green and the invocation by Rev. H. P. Cooper.

Judge Carl Rountree made the principal address telling of the present tax and economic situation and emphasized the need of economy. Mr. Rountree presented a few suggestions on how the state legislature, of which he has been a member, could revamp the present system and reduce operating expenses to a large degree.

Lunch was served at the noon hour in the basement of the Methodist church with W. A. Wilson, presiding. Singing was led by Brother Bill Wallace and music was furnished by a double male quartet under the direction of W. K. Crawley, "Postmaster of Gall I'lls under the cap."

At the afternoon session the Ladies Glee club gave a program of songs and W. E. Sudarth talked briefly and then asked J. C. Nichols of Tahoka to talk on "Service."

The carriers adourned after election for a separate session. A round table discussion of cooperation and service was led by Mr. Branen and Mr. Green.

Ennis Curtis made a business trip to Lubbock Monday morning.

BONUS FIGHT NOT OVER

If World War veterans have lost their fight for full payment of adjusted compensation, certificates they do not know it. Although strong pressure has been brought to bear to block passage of the Patman bill, the veterans have not given up the fight. If anything, they are more determined than ever that the government shall discharge its obligations to those whose patriotism and willingness to sacrifice their all in a moment of world distress is unquestioned. The rank and file of the ex-soldiers, many of whom have neither money, food nor shelter, are a little too determined, leaders fear. They feel that unless payment is forthcoming soon they may resort to extremes not compatible to orderly government.

Congressman Wright Patman, mindful that there is still a possibility of securing passage of his measure before Congress adjourns, is exhausting every means to secure a vote on the bill. And the veterans are encouraging and supporting him as strongly today as they were three months ago. They realize that if the bonus is paid it will be necessary to get into politics, and to employ political devices in furtherance of their cause. This they are doing—and in a large way.

Unanimous endorsement of the veterans' efforts by the state convention of Democrats recently was brought about largely through the efforts of a veterans' political organization.

"It was a signal victory the veterans won when the convention put the influence of the Democracy of Texas behind them in their fight for the bonus," the Houston Post, most persistent champion of the ex-soldiers' fight for bonus payment among the larger dailies, commented. "The convention's action was also a splendid vindication of the course of Congressman Wright Patman of Texas, who has been leading the fight in Congress for adjusted compensation payment. The resolution adopted by the convention is the answer of Texas Democracy to the charge that Patman and veterans favoring bonus payments are unpatriotic."

Despite Wall Street propaganda and Treasury Department innuendoes, the belief held by many that two billions of dollars cash suddenly thrown into business channels would stimulate industry and aid materially in the country's economic recovery has not been dissipated. The bonus fight is not won. Neither is it lost, the veterans say.
