Survivors of Mr. Brandon are his widow, four sons Houston of Mira Roma, Calif, and Beacher, Curtis, and James of O'Donnell, five daughters, Mrs Ralph Kaiser of Whitwright, Mrs Tommy Heard of Phoenix, Ariz, Mrs. Byron Cabiness of Brownfield, Mrs. Jack Thompson of Phoenix and Mrs. Joe Rogers of here; also 29 grandchildren and two great grand children.

Rev. Jess Rains, conducted the services. Mr. Brandon had been a farmer in Lynn Co. for 25 years farming in the New Moore area. He and his family moved here a few years ago. EAGLES TO MEET MEADOW

Friday nite at 8 p m. the Eagles will face another strong adversary, the Meadow. The Meadow boys are not as heavy as the Littlefield Wildcats and the team hopes not as vicious. Coach Jeter and Coach Hatter are aware of their potential strength and have been grooming the Eagles with this in mind.

To the Index's opinion, we feel that a victory is due the Eagles. They proved that without reservation during the first quarter of the Littlefield game. The Eagles have no apologies nor alibi; they just don't play that kind of ball; they can win graciously and lose the same way. The Eagles are fast becoming a clicking team and should be at their best within the next two games. They need the O'Donnell's fans backing and interest and it should be given. We know they played their heart out during the first quarter of the Wildcat game and that they went down 53 to 0 fighting - overcome by manpower and weight; not by lack of trying, or spirit or lack of portmanship. Compare the Cat's line weight with S M U line. Shouldn't we as fans give as much in back the coaches and the boys? Following is Coach Jeter's account of scouting the Meadow team last week:

"O'Donnell Eagles are in for a tough game Friday. Meadow is one of the strongest class B teams in West Texas. They have a large following in perfect condition. They are hitting just as hard at the last of the game as at the first. One reason for their fine physical condition is due to their week's encampment at Ft. Stockton in August."

"Mr Conger and I scouted them last Thursday nite when they beat the Lubbock Pioneers 12 to 0. We were impressed with their single wing attack and the hard running of their backs. Robt. Wite, No. 40 is the best scat back I have seen this year. He plays tailback and does the passing. Lawrence Joplin no. 42, plays the wing back. He is a tall, lumbering type of runner that takes the ball on reverses and runs over you. He is also a good pass receiver. Jess pton, no. 41, is a power runner, playing the full back position. Norman Lockett, no. 56, right end, is a good receiver and plays a whale of a defensive game. In short they have a good ball club" Mr Jeter said.

OUR HEARTY THANKS...

We wish to take this opportunity of expressing our sincere thanks to the folks of this area for the fine response they extended to us at the time of our formal opening last Saturday; also the beautiful flowers from fellow business firms and friends. As we have said in the past, it is a privilege to be associated with the fine folks of this area.

MANSELL BROS.

South Plains weather in the autumn is like wine, or even suds... It's hard to get enough of it... the crisp days (cover in the morning)... the haze to the north... the gins rumbing and the merchant's cash registers rumbing almost as loud as the gins; strangers, brown, black (and some whites from Dime Box)... in short it's cotton harvest time and heaven help us when Jumbo stops smiling 'cause we need money for picking.

To date the 7 local gins are pulling past the 500 bale mark with cotton maturing rapidly. Some pickers are coming in each day... shopping around for the best deal. In June and July the laborer gets half of the crop for chopping. In the fall he gets the rest; it's better than renting or owning the land... and you miss Tom on the taxes. Incidentally... what we started to say... don't MISS THE FAIR

THE HI SCHOOL TATTLER...

Audry Locke has a new admirer; could it be Virginia Sanders?? On the other hand it might be Claudis Shaw!!!

Pat Durham and Geo. Ballard are getting pretty thick. Who did Millie Jackson, Tessie Autry and Virginia Sanders go with Tuesday nite? Could it have been some of the Grassland boys?

It seems that Wanda Todd really likes Bill Wolf of Gatsville. Why does Weldon set behind Winona all the time... we wonder. We also wonder who Carolyn Pierce likes in the freshman class? We think it's Winkle Edwards!!!

Who does Rutha Gillespie like in the 'th grade? Wetell... it's Marlon Inman.

Winona Anderson seems to get lonesome for Gerald Davis since she is in high school!!!

We hear that Billy's new girl friend is Patsy Mahurin. Just in case anyone is wondering why Elaine Hahn has that dreamy far-away look in her eyes every hour on the hour... the answer: Leroy Gass.

Freda Snell's new dream boat is James Vaughn. The reason for that starry-eyed look in Billy Cooms' eye is Theo. Fultz.

Who was Wanda Atkins seen with Sunday nite? Yes, it was Jerry Harper.

Billy Mahurin is reported to have been with Jerry Sunday evening. Dorothy Locke was with Glen Harp Wednesday evening.

We wonder why Elwanda Stalcup likes Tahoka boys instead of O'Donnell boys?

What's this we hear about Claudis Shaw having a crush on Jerry Harper??

Why is it that Bobbie Barnes and Kellas Davis can't get along? Wouldn't it be awful if the football boys had to be home by 9 p m. Bertha Cook thinks so.

FARM BUREAU HEAD TELLS OF FARM LABOR SUPPLY

The Chamber of Commerce and the Farm Bureau and ginners of Tahoka met jointly with the C G Miller Employment Agency for the purpose of securing additional hands for this year bountiful cotton crop which will be in full swing in 10 days or 2 weeks if the weather is favorable.

Mr Miller states he will be able to secure two or three thousand hands out of El Paso and San Antonio. These laborers will NOT be Mexican nationals but will be American mexicans. The Farm Bureau will be required to pay the $15 per hand, $10 of which he will get back when the hand has picked it out. The other $5 will go to Mr. Miller for his service. It will be about one week or 10 days before Mr. Miller will be here with the first load. The plans will be worked out later as just how these hands will be handled or processed from truck to farmer. Mr. Miller would like to have some kind of building to locate them until they can be distributed to the farmer.

Announcements...
All ex-students are requested to meet in Room 3 Monday nite at 8 p m for the purpose of planning entertainment for home coming day, Nov. 11th.

Mr. Conger was in Lubbock last week registering for graduate work.

Music was heard from the band ball yesterday from 3 to 4:45. It must have been a recording of Sousa. Seriously we think the band is progressing nicely.

The Seniors were represented the best in P T A Meeting Tuesday afternoon. The meeting was a great success; refreshments were served parents and teachers and all enjoyed the event.

Special attention to those students who have been messing up the typewriters such as locking the keys and releasing the paper release. You are asked not to do this as Miss Heath says it takes her first year students half the period to get them fixed so they can type. Please leave these machines alone.

SPORTS

Our sympathy to the Meadow Q. B. who got his leg broken Thursday nite in the game with Lubbock Pioneers. Mr. Conger and Mr. Jeter scouted the game. The game was 12 to 0 favoring Meadow; Mr. Jeter said Meadow had one of the best ball clubs he had ever seen. The Eagles will meet Meadow next Friday at Meadow.

The Post Juniors defeated the O'Donnell Juniors last Thursday 31 to 0. They played well, however considering their inexperience. Roger Doss received a shiner out of the game.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

U.S. Crops at Near-Record Peak; Lewis Hints at Coal Mine Strike; Steel Industry Resists Wage Hike

EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.

SUPERCILIOUS SWINE UNIMPRESSED BY GI—Nominated for honors as swinedom's most snooty member, this porker at Okayama, Japan, is entirely unimpressed as Pfc. Joe McClenon, Modesto, Calif., uses an aspirator to capture disease-bearing mosquitoes in a house at Okayama. The GI's not-to-be-happy look is probably inspired by the realization that a hog with such a supercilious appearance might quickly instill an inferiority complex in any human being who gazed too long.

U.S. CROPS: Near Record

Marshall plan countries, nations everywhere sharing in the largesse of Uncle Sam, would rejoice at the news that the 1949 U. S. crop forecast indicated a near-record volume. So rosy was the picture that experts held that this year's farm production would almost approximate 1948's record output.

REPORTING this, the U. S. department of agriculture said that if the crop did not top all records, it certainly would be second only to last year's figures. Since the growing season for most crops was practically over, there was little likelihood in any change in the crop forecast.

Corn, especially, was abundant, with this crop almost certain to result in some sort of controls on surpluses. The prediction for the corn crop was 3.5 billion bushels, only 3.5 per cent below last year's record, but 27 per cent above average. The new figure was only about 13 million bushels less than the forecast of a month ago.

It was believed that a corn crop of this size was virtually certain to lead the government to invoke production controls on the 1950 crop in a move to prevent accumulation of a burdensome surplus. As a consequence, corn from this year's crop is expected to move into government hands under price-support programs to join the more than 400 million bushels remaining there from the 1948 crop.

NO OFFICIAL decision on corn was likely, however, until after the October crop estimate.

The agriculture department's wheat crop estimate of nearly 1.25 billion bushels was virtually unchanged from a month previous. This would make it the fourth largest wheat crop on record. Also among the relatively large crops were rice, tree nuts, soybeans, grapes, cotton, flaxseed, sorghum grain, dried beans, sugar cane and cherries.

RELIGION: 15 Priests Held

Charging the church with using an underground communications network, the Communist government in Czechoslovakia arrested 15 priests in an effort, it said, to smash the organization.

THERE were indications that despite the arrests, the system was still working because it was needed by the church to maintain contact between its priests and their bishops.

As a point in proof of the continued operation of the system, it was pointed out that parish priests still are sending in declarations to the government that they would rather go to jail than obey a new church-control bill which the Communists proposed to enact.

PRIESTS who have been sending in these declarations say they will never accept appointment from anyone except their freely-acting church superiors.

The church has demanded that the government call off its war against the clergy if it wants to enter into any new negotiations for an agreement as to the role of church and state in the governmental setup.

PRESENT FARM AID DEFENDED

Aitken Claims Wheat, Cotton Props High

According to Senator Aitken (R., Vt.), present farm aid law provides for high price props for wheat and cotton and he declared that anyone who contends otherwise is guilty of misrepresentation. The senator was defending the flexible farm-support law he helped write in the preceding congress and which bears his name. Barring new farm-aid legislation, the Ait-

Relax, Fellows

All was serene, at least for the moment, between the American army and the American air force. The army apologized and thus ended a "battle" crisis growing out of the army's challenge of an air force claim that a mythical "enemy" armored force had been wiped out in war games in Germany.

The air force general in command, after the army blast at his claims, had threatened to pick up his planes and go home from the maneuvers.

Then the army admitted the air force was right, with the commanding general apologizing for the inability of his ground-forces umpire to assess properly the sudden strikes by the air force.

COAL: Lewis Sputters

In the North, trees were showing the first sparks of autumnal color. In the West snow already had fallen in one state. Fall was in the air and the crisp sharpness, the thinning sunlight all indicated the time was right.

And as is his wont, John L. Lewis knew it. The United Mine Workers' chief was threatening coal strike—and at a time when the threat would be most effective.

BUT AS USUAL, his threat was based apparently upon the highest ideals. There was no question of higher wages or shorter working hours. Instead, Lewis charged that southern coal operators had bled the union's welfare fund white by withholding payments.

Lewis did not mention the word "strike," but he said a continuation of the default in payments might cause "reactions deterrent to the constructive progress of the industry."

However, everybody on the sidelines in Washington construed that statement to hold a strike threat. The National Coal association advised its members that Lewis' language was a "direct threat" and added:

"No mention is made of the fact that there is no contract and no agreement to pay. . . ."

STEEL: 4th Round Unsure

Unless the situation changed drastically, there would be no fourth-round wage increase for the nation's steelworkers. Almost on the eve of the strike call, the CIO-United Steelworkers union gave up its fight for a wage hike, and called off the strike.

THE million-member union accepted both President Truman's recommendation for an extension of the strike truce and recommendations of a presidential fact-finding board aimed at solving the steel-wage dispute.

Philip Murray, union boss, told the President in a telegram that he gave up the wage increase demand "with profound regret," but agreed to the board's recommendations "in the interest of concluding a prompt settlement."

Six of the nation's major steel producers accepted the truce extension request, but no company had given an answer on the board's formula.

ken law would become effective next January 1.

He said he thought the law requires that in 1950 support of wheat and cotton prices be at 83 to 90 per cent of parity. He called this a "far cry from the misrepresentation of those who tell wheat and cotton growers that they will get only 60 per cent under the 1948 act."

WOMAN'S WORLD

Right Pattern Use Helps You Fashion-Wise

By Erta Haley

IF YOU'RE hard to fit, if you want to be fashionably dressed and if you want to save money on clothes, the best thing to do is to make friends with paper patterns. Though your material may cost $7, it's easy enough to make it into a dress worth three times that amount with the proper styling and workmanship.

Like buying a dress, selecting the proper pattern and material which goes with it, the case requires some study. However, the study is fascinating since you are the subject, and the grade you make is a ticket to the group who knows how to dress.

You'll have to study not only the patterns themselves, but also fashion trends and your own personality and figure problems. To do the best job, select a pattern whose style will do something for you, just as certain dresses will bring out or mask figures.

Dresses for teen-agers may appeal to many of the older women, but it must be remembered that the charm lies in their youthfulness. They would appear ludicrous on a woman, who may still be a size 14, but is three times past the age.

Dramatic dresses and suits look fine if you're the type, but if you aren't, why not choose something more appropriate like a simple tailored style or a softly feminine one?

Let's suppose that you have studied to the point where you can choose the proper style. The next important error not to make is Select patterns for your type . . . the selection of the improper fabric for the pattern.

Maybe you have a soft, flowered print which you have in mind to use for a dress. If you've chosen a tailored type of pattern, however, that soft material won't form the nice, sharp edges, pleats or other tailored lines required and the dress will not be successful.

Softly draped dresses cannot be made from stiff materials that simply will not drape and which are meant for the tailored type of clothes.

With the fabric picture so much improved over the past several years, there should be little difficulty in selecting or obtaining the one you need and want, as well as all the colors you could desire. The main thing is to put suitable pattern and the right fabric together.

THE READER'S COURTROOM Trouble Comes in Packages

By Will Bernard, LL.B.

Is It Negligence To Carry Packages that Obstruct Your View?

A housewife bought several bulky articles in a market, and then began to leave. Her packages partly blocked her view, so she stepped along as carefully as she could. But

Just as she was going out the door, she unwittingly put her foot down on a leaf of cabbage. Up went the foot—down went the woman! Injured, she sued the store for not keeping the floors safe. At the trial, the company argued that she herself was negligent for carrying packages that interfered with her vision. But the court brushed aside that argument and granted the woman's claim. The judge figured that a person needn't be as careful in a market as on a street corner!

Fire swept a small brick building, leaving only a few walls still standing. A few days later an inquisitive youngster, armed with a stick, began poking around in the ruins. Suddenly one wall collapsed right near the boy. He escaped with only minor injuries, but nevertheless brought a damage suit against the owner of the building. However, the court turned down his petition. The judge said that, since the owner had not invited the youngster onto the premises, the boy had to take it.

Dotted Velvetecorn

Polka dots are importantly featured for fall by Carolyn Schnurer in this youthful fashion. She selects black polka dots on mustard colored velvetecorn for a snug-fitting jacket trimmed with a velvet collar and matching skirt.

Choose Patterns To Fit Needs

You wouldn't think of going into a store and buying an evening gown or fancy dress for which you had no use, simply because it looked so nice, would you? A lot of women, when turned loose with patterns and ideas that they can be made less expensively than ready-made clothes, feel they can make up all sorts of clothing, use or no use.

Before selecting a pattern stop to consider whether the garment has a place in your wardrobe. Don't consider just the pattern, but how it will be used, as well as how it fits your own individual needs. Fancy blouses may be beautiful things, but if you're going to wear them in a business office, wouldn't it be more fitting to choose something tailored?

If you're choosing dresses for wear around the house, select something that is comfortable as well as pretty, in addition to something you won't have to be forever laundering, ironing and mending.

Many women will try a pattern and give up in discouragement before they finish. Why? The pattern may look deceptively simple but carries a lot of fine detailing that the inexperienced just simply can't cope with. If you're not certain of how you can determine these things, consult the clerk or take along a friend who knows about patterns.

One reason why patterns have become so popular is that many women have found their use a perfect solution to the fitting problem. The size you need in a dress is the size you will need in the pattern, but the best way to decide the size is to take measurements and then compare them with those given for the pattern.

KATHLEEN NORRIS

No, Chastity Is Not Obsolete

IT IS DISTINCTLY disheartening to find, prominently featured in a current magazine, an article by no less an authority than Doctor David Mace of Drew university, provocatively entitled "Is Chastity Outmoded?"

Disheartening, because it seems to me dishonest to so title an article that, after flirting about suggestively among alternatives to adolescent and youthful chastity, Doctor Mace comes down to the old code, comes down rigidly and idealistically; sex, he decides, must be lifted to a high level, must wait for maturity and marriage, and be sublimated into true mate-love, the highest happiness man and woman can know.

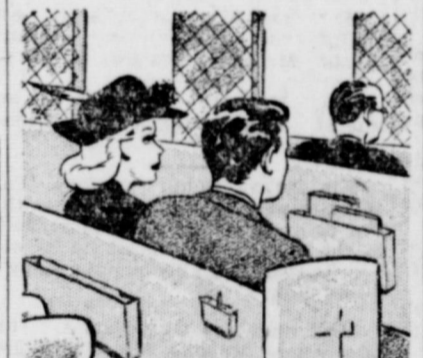

We've been patiently preaching that, we mothers, teachers, guides, so that, in the end, we have no quarrel with Doctor Mace. But we certainly can feel small respect for the man who indicates in his title that chastity is debatable and is careful to remind young and impressionable readers that there are several schools of thought on the subject.

Religious Scruples

He eliminates those of us whose religious scruples keep us pure. He also eliminates from his analysis—for despite the high moral tone he develops, it is an analysis—those who consider chastity highly inconvenient and whose policy is to do as they like.

This leaves, he says, "the extremely large third group that lies between." Those who "try to add up the arguments on both sides."

Doctor Mace states that the traditional viewpoint is that unchastity is undesirable because of its effects on the individual, in terms of disease, unwanted children and the damage it may do to the community, making family life and society unstable.

... religious scruples keep us pure . . .

On the other hand, he admits there is the argument that "to suppress sex desires makes people frustrated and bottled up. To express them leads to growth and enlargement of the personality." Later, "while in the past full sexual freedom was impractical because of the danger of venereal disease and illegitimacy, medical science has now changed all that.

"Any intelligent youth," says the doctor in the next sentence, "will tell you that the doctors have got V. D. licked." And later again, "the man at least can take measures to protect himself. For the woman, safeguards are not so easily available." But if protective measures fail, both social diseases can be cured, he observes.

Choice Of Three

Immunity, however, cannot be guaranteed. "The boy and girl who come together sexually, must face the possibility of pregnancy. If it occurs," says the doctor ungrammatically, "they have three alternatives, a forced marriage, an abortion or an illegitimate child."

He admits these are negative arguments for chastity. But he feels that the future may see them weakened, or even entirely neutralized. "Someday," he says, "venereal disease may be stamped out and a completely reliable contraceptive put at everyone's disposal. Will chastity be outmoded then?"

Doctor Mace goes on to a "critical question." At what point is it appropriate for a young couple to have sexual relations when their intention is to marry? As soon as they know they are serious in intention to marry, or not in they actually are wed?

Be Smart!

Feathers, but no fuss, just smart, smooth-flowing simplicity instead! These are the earmark of the new fashion picture for Fall. Sketched here is the very personification of the spirit from a current collection. The trim is a veritable saucer of black velvet, highlighted by a velvet ribbon of emerald green. White coq feathers arranged on a flowing line add the newest touch of all.

On this point, says the doctor, there is a strong difference of opinion. How can they know that they are sexually well matched when they test out this side of their relationship in advance?

And anxious to be fair to the argument, he cites the case of a man who could not decide between two women whom he regarded as possible wives. It may be satisfactory to the doctor for them to "test" for compatibility.

Nothing is said of the degradation of the women who submit to his "process," of the insidious stupidity of the man experiments or of the insult offered all decent women who read this article.

But in the end, after some confused floundering, Doctor Mace comes gravely and decorously to the conclusion that "the waning trend of expert opinion today toward regarding sexual harmony as a function of good personal interaction."

This is a scientific way of saying they are humans.

He also says poetically that "given love and sexual normality, sex is the servant of love, and may be made to do its bidding." If that means anything.

The article ends upon an idealistic note. "What we need," says Doctor Mace, "is a new ideal of chastity, as a discipline gladly accepted so that human love can be kept warm and tender and unsoiled."

This is a new ideal to you, Doctor? But you do a great many good mothers and fathers and teachers injustice if you call it new.

Berlin Brownies Take Odd Jobs

Work to Get Funds To Attend School

BERLIN.—Would you like handsome young man to take care of a wallflower at your birthday party? Or a girl for baby-sitting?

Just call the Brownies (Heinze maenchen) of West Berlin. For 36 cents an hour, they'll tackle any odd job anybody wants done.

The Brownies are a tradition of the city of Cologne. Hundreds of years ago, the story goes, the helpful little spirits made life a pleasure for the people. They did all the work while the city folk went to sleep. Then a curious shoemaker's wife, who wanted to see what the Brownies looked like, frightened them away.

They never appeared again—until 1949. Right now there are about 460 "Brownies" officially registered in Berlin—students who have to earn extra money so they can attend West Berlin's free university.

Chief Brownie (Oberheinzemann) Ulrich Heckert, 24, a student of medicine, started the enterprise. With money he had collected from public-spirited citizens, he launched an extensive advertising campaign to let Berliners know the Brownies had come back.

The Brownies had 1,400 work hours in the first month. Four months later they had 4,200. But that still wasn't enough. At best they averaged about 10 hours a month a student and a net income, after deductions for administrative expenses, of nine West marks ($2.70). Nevertheless, Chief Brownie Heckert says he is quite happy about the increasing number of orders for student services. His fiancée, Ingeborg Jancke, 23, is a photographer by training, is the Brownies' office secretary.

"Each student is paid 1.2 West marks (36 cents) an hour," she explained, "no matter what kind of work he does. The student keeps 95 pfennigs and 25 pfennigs go into the funds from which we pay the advertising, office rent, telephone bills, accident insurance and so on."

YANKS, CIGARETTES, BUMS AND BEER... Oils Skid, Garters Fall, Cathartics Fail ... FIGHT TO FINISH IN BIG LEAGUES

By H. I. PHILLIPS

MR. TWITCHELL ANALYZES
LOOK FOR the most exciting race in years in both baseball big leagues," declared Elmer Twitchell, eminent sports fan, pinnoche player and antique nutpick collector, today. "If you wish my analysis, based largely on getting the games by radio and television, here it is. Beer, cigarettes, the Yanks, motor oils, Dem Bums and various breakfast foods will fight it out to the finish in both leagues, and any one of them can win.

"It has been a very good race so far, with the American league a little faster with the clear-cut commercials, but with the National league clearly outclassing it with the more informal testimonials to popular products. I don't recall a baseball race when the appeals to radio fans to hurry to the icebox for a cold drink were done with such spirit and form.

"In both major leagues the boys who bat out the commercials were in there trying at all times and they rarely failed to come through in the pinches. The game, it seems to me, is much faster than it used to be. When I was a boy, a game would go on all afternoon with no reference to a cigar, a lubricant or a drink. The emphasis seemed to be on garters and cathartics all via the old-fashioned billboards. Advertising as a handmaiden of the national game was minimized. You could take it or leave it.

"What do you think of the Athletics?" we asked.
"I would have to know more about the product they sponsor," replied Mr. Twitchell.
FATHER AND SON
Q.—Popper, what is a British dollar crisis?
A.—The British dollar crisis? Ahem. Well, er, it is a crisis over dollars. The British have trouble buying things with the American dollar.
Q.—Like mommer does?
A.—Yes, in a way. Haven't you any home work to do?
Q.—But, popper, isn't a dollar a dollar in England just as much as in this country?
A.—No, my son. I think the Willis boy is outside calling for you.
Q.—Answer my question first popper.
A.—Well, er, the dollar is an American unit. The British use pounds.
Q.—Pounds of what?
A.—A pound is their unit of money. An Englishman never asks "Lend me 10 dollars." He asks "Lend me 10 pounds."
Q.—If we say we haven't any pounds and offer him dollars will he refuse to take the money?
A.—Don't be fantastic. Of course he takes the money, but he won't spend it in dollars.
Q.—Then what good are dollars to him?
A.—The kids are playing ball across the street. Don't you need fresh air?
Q.—Popper, what is a sterling area?
A.—It is an area where sterling is the monetary base. Various countries use different kinds of money but it is converted into sterling, and where's your catcher's mitt?
Q.—Is the dollar worth more than the other kinds of money, popper?
A.—It is worth so much more that the British can't afford to use it to buy things until next September. Now beat it.

Today in a Troubled Hour
TODAY in a troubled hour I doubted God,
And then was ashamed,
For there came a voice through the darkness, calling to me,
That clearly named
Those far-off times when I had cried aloud
In my pain and grief,
Reminding me that unfaithfully God's hand
Had brought relief;
Bidding me wait and hope, bidding me trust
Until I could see
That he who had never failed, still will not fail...
It comforted me
As a mother comforts her ailing child, and my faith
That had been so small
Suddenly grew as the young corn grew in the sun:
Straight and tall.
GRACE NOLL CROWELL

"Today from the opening cry of 'Play Ball' the contest tingles with sales talks. They are not only using the livelier ball but livelier jingles and selling arguments.
"For years I took my baseball without having my sales resistance knocked over the fence, but today it happens to me in every inning.
"Hitting, pitching and base running have improved tremendously in baseball. So have enunciation and merchandising. The twirling is much better. The announcer throws the commercial with terrific speed but also has a change of pace.
"They say that whoever is ahead July 4 will finish as the pennant winners. The Dodgers and a couple of breweries were out front on that date this year in one league and the Yanks and tobacco away out ahead in the American. I look for no great change.
"The final result may be influenced somewhat by mishaps. One of the top announcers in the American league has developed calcification of the vocal delivery and may be out a few weeks. And two announcers in the National are out with lame tonsils."

Star Dust

BROWN-HAIRED, blue-eyed Marta Toren was discovered by a film writer at the Royal Dramatic Academy in Stockholm, where Greta Garbo and Ingrid Bergman also studied. The writer tested her, and as soon as Universal-International executives saw the test they signed her. "Sword in the Desert," her fourth picture, in which she appears with Dana Andrews and Stephen McNally, makes her a full fledged star. She studied ballet till she was 13, wanted to become an actress when she finished high school, but her father persuaded her to become a secretary instead. Three years of that, then she broke away, and dramatic school came next.

"Sword in the Desert" is the first Hollywood film to deal with the smuggling of settlers past the British blockade in Palestine. Full of action, it moves rapidly, gives film-goers plenty of excitement for their money.
"Cavalcade of America," back on the air Monday nights on NBC, will once again have top stars in top vehicles. It not only brings the stories of great personages to its mikes, but also those of little known people who have contributed significantly to the American way of life. Such stars as Irene Dunne, Raymond Massey, Charles Boyer and Dorothy McGuire appear on it.

Lloyd Bridges says you can't overestimate what luck does for a movie career. "It took me 12 solid years of struggling in Hollywood before I got my first decent break in 'Home of the Brave.' Then Eagle-Lion gave me the lead in 'Trapped.' Since it was finished I've been offered dozens of other breaks." Modest Mr. Bridges says nothing about what his talent has contributed.

The Fiction ★ 'HELPLESS' ANNE ★ By Richard H. Wilkinson

THROUGH the opening in the trees above the woods road Langford could see the dull glow against the sky. It was growing brighter by the minute, and now the smell of smoke was strong. In his ears there was the distant and ominous roar of crackling flames.
He stumbled forward, his breath a sobbing gasp in his throat, his face white and drawn from the strain of running. It seemed that he had run a thousand miles, though he knew it was not more than eight. Eight at the most. That meant there were still three to go before he reached the river. Then he'd have to swim across and make another mile up the slope to his cabin. By then it might be too late. By then the fire might have swept down on the little log structure and destroyed it, and what it contained, Anne and little Bobby. He closed his eyes to shut out the picture.
After a while he stood up and went on. The glow against the sky was brighter, bright red and orange and yellow. Against it he could see billowing smoke clouds and occasional showers of sparks. That meant the flames had reached the ridge behind the cabin. In another moment they would be sweeping down the slope toward his clearing.
His spirits sank. He choked as the smoke grew thicker and the air suffocating. Above him he heard the wail of a rising wind, and above the wind there was the increasing roar of the fire. Anne wouldn't understand until it was too late. She was helpless about such things.
It couldn't be much more than a mile, he told himself. He called on his last ounce of energy and fought ahead.
Suddenly a wild hope beat in his heart. He looked up and there at his very feet was water! The river! He had come faster than he thought. But abruptly the hope died. Looking across he stared into a solid sheet of flame and smoke belching sparks. The entire slope of the hill, which was between the river and his cabin, was afire.
Groaning, he sank to his knees. Before him the river hissed and steamed as flying fragments fell into it. Its black depths mirrored the licking tongues of flame with terrible beauty.
Watching with horrible fascination, Langford's heart suddenly gave a bound. He leaped to his feet and plunged into the water, shouting. Fifty feet from shore a dark silhouette had come into the path of orange reflection, wabbling crazily but moving steadily toward the shore. Atop it, was a huddled bundle of something, that moved and propelled the silhouette forward with awkward, clumsy strokes.

LANGFORD WADED to his arm-pits and then started to swim. He called again and a voice answered him, telling him to go back. But he didn't. And presently the silhouette ranged alongside and Anne's frightened eyes were looking into his own.
"Bobby?" he gasped.
"He's here, under the blankets. And I saved the hens too, and a lot of our personal things."
Langford helped push the improvised raft ashore. But it wasn't until Anne had alighted and he had carried Bobby to safety that he discovered the raft was the hen-coop he'd made for Anne's chickens. Four or five boards were laid across its top and lashed together with part of the wire.

"It was the only thing I could carry," Anne was saying. "I took the boards from the fence. The chickens are all in the bur-lap bag, and our things are sunk in a box on the other side of the river."
Langford stared at her and for no accountable reason he began to laugh. It was a curious sound, not wholly rational. But the incongruity of it was justified, for it had occurred to him what a stupid fool he'd been to think Anne helpless.

Implement Company Marks Anniversary

Famed Manure Spreader First Built in 1889

The story of American free enterprise is graphically illustrated by two buildings at the Coldwater, Ohio, plant of the New Idea Division, AVCO manufacturing corporation, which this year is celebrating its golden anniversary.

One of these buildings (actually a series of connected buildings) covers over 15 acres and houses 705,000 square feet of manufacturing facilities. Newly expanded, it boasts one of the most modern foundries in the nation and a full complement of equally modern production machines and processes. It is the plant in which New Idea produces its specialized line of farm implements and equipment.

August Reutschilling, who has been with the company 47 years, stands nostalgically at the forge in the "museum"—a replica of the original plant, and it is the same forge at which he worked in his early days with the company.

Across the street is a small, wooden frame building occupying just 1440 square feet of space. In it are an old forge and several simple machines of the kind used for manufacturing in the early 1900's. This is an almost exact replica of the modest structure in which Joseph Oppenheim first began building his now famous manure spreader in 1889 in the nearby village of Maria Stein, Ohio. The communities for miles around Coldwater, and sales personnel throughout the nation, know it as the "museum."

Large letters painted on the front wall identify the building as "New Idea Spreader Works-1889." Inside are the four rooms in which Oppenheim and six helpers fashioned the first one of the most important and most widely used implements ever devised by the farm implement industry.

The first room as you enter was the "forge and machine room," containing a forge, hand shear, hand punch press, hand threading machine, small high speed drill, benches and water tank for cooling a gasoline engine.

Lift-Type Device Used on Tractor

Will Aid Materially In Easing Farm Chores

To help with those odd chores about the farm that so often are time-wasting and back-breaking, Pittsburgh forgings company of Corapolis, Pa., has developed a lift-type utility carrier for use on tractors.

The Pittsburgh carry-lift is attached in a few seconds to tractors through the regular implement suspension points. Made of alloy spring steel and structural steel, it will handle loads as heavy as 700 pounds.

An important feature of this new unit is its quick conversion from a platform lift to a fork lift, making it universal in the types of loads it can both lift and carry. It can be used as a platform lift either with or without a back panel, and pockets are provided for standard 2"x4" stakes. The frame is punched to provide easy securing of loads and for the addition of a wooden platform.

The farm carry-lift is attached in seconds through the regular tractor implement suspension points. Heavy containers can be tipped and rolled onto the platform without lifting. The tractor engine raises the carry-lift.

Used as a fork lift, the utility carrier works like a small hay buck, and thus can pick up bulky material without the lift having to be loaded by hand. Heavier loads can be handled in this way by using skid-pallets. Its capacity for light, bulky loads can be extended materially by putting 2"x4" fork extensions into the brackets provided.

Lifting of heavy containers like milk cans, drums and barrels is eliminated by the carry-lift because these can be tipped and rolled onto the platform which practically rests on the ground. Small buildings, range shelters, and feeders can be easily and quickly moved by tipping slightly and running the forks beneath them. Heavy bags of seed grain can be taken to the field with a minimum of lifting, and field feeding is made both quicker and easier.

Harvest Your Cotton this TIME- and MONEY- SAVING way

JOHN DEERE No.15 Two-Row Cotton Harvester

You'll make short work of harvesting cotton . . . slash expenses to a fraction of hand-pulling costs when you own a John Deere No. 15 Two-Row Cotton Harvester.

The John Deere does an excellent job of harvesting any cotton that is suitable for mechanical snapping. Stripping two 40-inch rows at a time after defoliation, the John Deere does a once-over job, saving more cotton than the average hand-puller. Harvested at the same time, cotton pulled with the No. 15 grades as high as that picked by hand.

Be sure to stop in soon and let us tell you more about this time- and money-saving two-row cotton harvester.

Narrow Poultry Houses Give Way to New Style

D. D. Moyer, extension poultry specialist at Ohio State university, says the narrow type poultry house 15 to 20 feet deep is giving away to houses 30 to 40 feet in depth, built long enough to house 500 and more birds.

Moyer cites a number of advantages in the new style housing. Wall space is cut down, heat loss reduced, cleaning is easier and it is less trouble to move equipment.

Preventing Rust
To prevent the tub of your washing machine from rusting, pour a cupful of soda chips or soap powder over the bottom of it when the day's washing is done. This helps to discourage rust, but the soap isn't wasted. When the next wash day comes, just pour hot water over the soap for a new batch of suds.

Candles
If a candle is a little too small for the holder, you can make it firm by dipping the holder—provided it's metal—into piping hot water for a few minutes to get it hot before inserting the candle.

Trimming Wicks
In trimming the wick of an oil lamp or oil heater, the handiest thing to use is a single-edge razor blade. With oil heater wicks, saw straight across, and use the metal clips in the wick as a guide.

Deviled Swiss Puffs Make Delightful Sandwich (See Recipe Below)

Luncheon Ideas

DO YOU FEEL that your head is brimming full of question marks instead of good ideas when it comes time to think of something for luncheon?

Then tack the ideas given in today's column somewhere where they'll be sure to remind you of something guaranteed to be successful. Some of these recipes are for simple family fare while others are sheer elegant eating, suitable for guests, for a special Sunday night supper.

With a well rounded luncheon dish, you need only a big vegetable or fruit salad, chilled to icy crispness, to make the main course complete. Your dessert might be pie, cake, ice cream, or simply fruit and cookies.

Keep your pantry shelves well supplied with staples, as well as such items as dried beef, deviled ham, noodles, evaporated milk, rice and condensed soups so that you can whip together these recipes without trips to the store at the last minute. In this way you'll be well prepared to meet family meal problems as well as those which arise when guests drop in.

This deviled swiss puff is truly new and different, easy to prepare and fun to eat. When made in the individual casserole skillets as shown in the picture, it will be a real success at a ladies' luncheon. Savory deviled ham is used in the recipe, but you might also try liver sausage or another favorite meat spread.

The cheese mixture may be prepared, except for the baking powder, a day in advance of use, in case you are rushed for time in meal preparation. Remove the mixture from the refrigerator an hour before using so that it will be soft for easy spreading. Add the baking powder just before using.

Deviled Swiss Cheese Puff (Serves 4)
 1/2 cup evaporated milk
 1 tablespoon flour
 1 tablespoon water
 1 egg, slightly beaten
 1 cup grated Swiss cheese (pressed)
 1/4 teaspoon onion juice
 Dash of tabasco sauce
 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
 6 tablespoons deviled ham
 2 tablespoons evaporated milk
 4 slices tomato
 4 slices bread

Heat the 1/2 cup evaporated milk in top part of double boiler. Mix flour with water. Stir into milk and cook until thickened, about five minutes. Add the beaten egg, cheese and seasonings and continue cooking until cheese is melted and the mixture thick and creamy. Set aside to cool. Blend ham with two tablespoons of evaporated milk. Spread the slices of bread with the ham mixture, then top each with a slice of tomato. Blend baking powder into cooled cheese mixture. Spread the cheese mixture thickly on each sandwich. Place sandwiches in individual shallow casseroles or in a shallow baking pan. Place under broiler. Using moderate heat, broil until cheese is

LYNN SAYS:
 Making Cooking Easy In These Simple Ways

Use the pastry blender for mashing eggs for egg salad or sandwich mixtures. It works easily to make the eggs coarse or fine, as you like.

Get the full taste from green peppers for a salad or any other dish, by grating or shredding them, instead of chopping.

Add a few banana flakes to hot or cold cereal just before serving. They add delicious flavor.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

International Uniform Sunday School, Leawood

SCRIPTURE: Isaiah 6.
 DEVOTIONAL READING: Hosea 14.

What is a Call of God?

Lesson for October 2, 1949

IF YOU knew exactly what God wanted you to do, would you do it? Of course you would. The trouble is: How does any one know what God's will is? For example, a young man is thinking about his life's work; what shall he choose? Most young men would do what they were sure God called them to do, but what is a call?

Dr. Foreman

The story of Isaiah throws some light on this problem. (We are beginning this week a three month's study of the great prophets Isaiah and Jeremiah.) True, he lived some 2700 years ago, and half way to the other side of the world; but human nature has not changed in 2700 years.

From Man about Town To Man of God

ISAIAH was a young man about town, in the small but wealthy city of Jerusalem, about 700 years before Christ. He was a personal friend of all the important people, a man of good education, with wide horizons of interest, of independent means, eloquent, polished, the sort of man who makes a good career diplomat.

He tells in some detail the story of how he came to be a prophet. The story is in Isaiah 6. Perhaps if we had been there with a camera and a wire recorder we might have been able to photograph the seraphim and take down their cries, just as Isaiah saw and heard them.

What we do know is that that experience changed Isaiah's life. Up to that time (on his own showing) he had been a "man of unclean lips;" from that time on he began to be a spokesman for the Lord. Let us try to say what the story of that life-changing vision, that call, means in terms of our own experience.

The Flame of God

FIRST there was the overwhelming sense of God's reality and power and holy majesty. No one can ever experience a call who does not take God seriously.

A God "afar off," a God who is only a problem, an idea, a hypothesis, never called any one. God alone can make himself real to man; and only a man with a real sense of a living God is going to hear his call.

Next came Isaiah's realization of his own unworthiness and sin. A man who feels equal to a great task is probably not equal to it. "Them as knows nawthin' fears nawthin'," as the Irish say. A man who feels good enough to serve God, just as he is, is not good enough. A man without a sense of sin is too full of it.

Then comes the burning coal from the altar; Isaiah feels that his guilt is gone. No one can fully do God's will with an unforgiven heart. Isaiah was not sinless at one stroke, of course, yet it is possible to turn from all known sin; it is possible to devote one's loyalty to God; and this Isaiah did.

It was only then that he heard the call: Whom shall I send? In modern and less picturesque language, Isaiah was conscious of a need he had not felt before—that is, of God's need, of his people's need.

What those needs were will come out in later studies. The point is that young Isaiah, who hitherto had lived only for himself, now saw the need of the city and the people among whom he lived.

"Here Am I; Send Me."

THEN comes the last stage—Isaiah's willing offer of himself. His great talent was the ability to use language. He could make words march and sing as few men of any race have done. But up to that time, it seems, his gift of eloquence had been used chiefly in telling dirty stories.

Now he has repented, and been forgiven, and he says to God: Use me. His voice, his knowledge, his eloquence, which he had been using against God (or at best, only for Isaiah) he was now to use for God and man.

So there is a call: A sense of God, near and commanding and holy; repentance; forgiveness; a sense of need; willingness to devote all one's gifts to fill that need.

FIRST AID to the AILING HOUSE

by Roger C. Whitman

QUESTION: Our wallpaper is coming loose above our radiator. We papered three years ago this spring. We took all the old paper off and then gave the walls a good coat of glue sizing. Could you suggest something we could use that will not loosen the paper? (We have vapor heat.)

ANSWER: As you say the paper loosened above the radiator, but evidently did not loosen anywhere else, I make the guess that the heat was in the radiator at the time of papering, and the heat dried out the glue size too quickly so that the paper did not make a good bond. If you are planning to repaper, make sure that the radiator is cold at the time you paper that part of the room.

QUESTION: Our dining-room furniture has white spots on the legs, probably caused by striking the legs with shoes. Is there some way I can touch them up? I do not want to refinish the entire piece unless I have to.

ANSWER: I suppose the pieces are made of a white wood, such as maple, and the varnish has been scuffed off. I believe you will find it more satisfactory to do a good job rather than touch up the pieces with preparations for hiding the damage. However, perhaps you would rather do it this way. If so, ask your hardware dealer for one or two of the new products made for concealing scratches and other blemishes on furniture or ask at a furniture store.

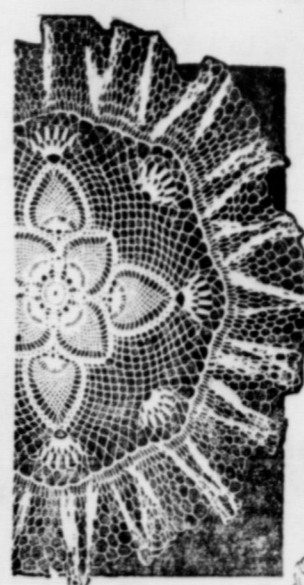

QUESTION: There is a corner crack in our bedroom wall and the ceiling has cracks. We have used a preparation for fixing cracks, but after a severe winter the cracks show up again. Is there any other material besides paper that would be pretty and not crack down at the corners? Our room is finished in calcimine. Would that have to be removed if covered with another material?

ANSWER: A corner crack needs a somewhat different treatment from a crack in the straight wall. The plaster should be removed down to the lath on each side of the corner for a distance of 4 to 6 inches. Then a metal corner lath is nailed in place and that part of the wall then is replastered. If you cannot get corner lath, you may be able to get metal lath in strips 8 to 12 inches wide. Bend the strips at right angles to fit the corner and fasten in place. It would be advisable to have a plasterer do the job for you. The ceiling crack can be "undercut" to make it wider at the lath than at the surface. The plaster crumbs should be cleaned out and the groove wet with water. It then can be filled with patching plaster almost to the top and allowed to dry. It will shrink a trifle in drying. It then should be filled to the surface and smoothed level with the surrounding plaster surface.

Hide Signs of Wealth

In every Bantu language there is a word to describe the action of a man who, owning a considerable herd of cattle, plants them out among his poorer relatives and neighbors so that he will not appear too prosperous. Everybody knows that they are his, and just how many he has, but he must avoid any appearance of ostentation. Similarly, it is not considered advisable to own too good a house or lands that are too well cultivated. Fear of exciting the envy of the chief is one of the motives that govern this attitude of mind, which always has been a powerful brake to the progress of Bantu agriculture in South Africa.
