Diplomacy

What the Jews of Israel lacked in armed strength to resist Arab attacks against their new state they had made up in shrewd diplomacy. It was just possible that the decisive blow of the Palestine war was struck when Israel, foreseeing military defeat, agreed to order its army to cease fire on all Palestine fronts if the Arabs would do the

That development, which took place as the battle for Jerusalem entered its sixth day in an unholy atmosphere of rattling guns, bursting shell and violent death, made the most favorable impression possible in the United Nations.

Thus having the onus of prolonging the Palestine fighting shifted suddenly to their shoulders alone, the Arabs were put on the spot in the U. N. and in world public opin-

It was a clever diplomatic maneuver on the part of the Jews but, at least at the outset of this new line of circumstances, the Arabs were having none of it. They reiterated their determination to wrest all Palestine from control of the

Actually, all the Jews had done was to issue a surprise cease fire order in compliance with a U. N. security council request that the fighting be brought to a halt. Neither the security council nor anyone else had expected the request to be observed.

But that put it up to the Arabs who, faced with a deadline set by the U. N., were having trouble deciding whether or not to cease fire.

If they stopped fighting now they would have done so without attaining their prime objective - the revoking of Israel's claim to sovereign statehood. If they continued the war beyond the deadline they would be laying themselves open to possible security council sanctions of the economic variety.

SECURITY:

Desperate Plight President Truman came up with another sound plank to reinforce his campaign platform when he demanded that congress overhaul and broaden the social security pro-

To relieve the "desperate" plight of the aged and needy in this inflationary period he called for a 50 per cent increase in old age insurance benefits and asked that 20 million more persons be protected.

He offered a five point program and said he wanted quick action on it. For three years, the President pointed out with some irritation, similar requests on his part have been shunted aside. This time he was asking:

1. A 50 per cent increase "at least" in old age and survivors' insurance benefits; allowing pensioners to earn up to $40 a month instead of $15 without losing benefits; raising of the tax rate from 1 per cent to 11/2 per cent next January 1.

2. Extension of coverage to farm and domestic workers, the self-employed and others not now

3. Broadening of unemployment insurance to cover employees of small firms (having fewer than eight workers), federal employees and others.

4 Disability insurance to protect workers from loss of earnings caused by sickness and injuries.

5. Increased federal benefits to match state aid for dependent children, the needy, aged and blind.

Whatever his motives in presenting the problem of inadequate social security benefits again at this time, Mr. Truman did have a good, even a noble, point.

"People whose sole income is from social security payments have just about reached the breaking point. Alf of them face a desperate struggle in trying to procure bare necessities at present prices.

Both President Truman and the aged and needy were hoping fervently that congress would be able to squeeze social security legislation into the crowded docket it had prepared for the month, preceding

As for congress itself, it was on the fence again.

ECONOMICS: Wage-Price

While prices continue to climb steadily, wage increases are beginning to show signs of levelling off. says the latest department of commerce report on inflation.

Possibility of a business recession, and with it the prospect for lower prices, vanished like mist in the sun after the foreign aid and military preparedness programs began to take shape in March, the department survey revealed.

This photograph of the west end of John L. Lewis going east out of a door is perhaps symbolic of trouble to come in the nation's soft coal mines. First conference between the United Mine Workers and the coal producers on the miners' 1948 contract ended in frustration when Lewis walked out after refusing to seat a representative of the Southern Coal Producers association at the par-

NO CONFERENCE:

Lewis Again

It was all typically Lewisian. "I make the observation that there is now no conference," quoth John L., chief of the soft coal miners, as he walked grandly out on the first meeting to negotiate a new contract between the coal operators and the United Mine

UMW's present contract expires

Lewis broke up the discussion on 1948 wage agreements when he objected to seating Joseph E. Moody, president of the Southern Coal Producers association, at the conference and was outvoted by the operators.

He was not against Moody personally. Officially, his union's position was that the 14 regional organizations which comprise the Southern association must bargain in 14 separate groups, rather than delegate bargaining authority to the all-inclusive association.

According to Lewis' accepted pattern of operation, his balk at the Southern Coal Producers was the opening tactical stroke in his 1948 campaign for an improved miners' contract.

Following that, he could sit back and present the UMW wage de-mands in his own good time. Then, if the coal operators did not accede, he could call the annual

Lewis knew his position was good. The UMW's recent pension walkout had left the nation's coal reserves seriously depleted. By the time June 30 rolled around soft coal stocks would not yet have been built up to the point where industry could stand a long strike. Barring unforeseen circumstances, it looked like this would develop into another injunction

The union still is under an 80 day court injunction prohibiting renewal of the pension strike; but the court might rule that another walkout would be a brand new In that case a new injunction might have to be sought by the government under Taft-Hartley procedure.

HARVEST:

European

Europe may look forward to posibly its best year since the war if food production prospects continue to be as favorable as they are right now.

U. S. agriculture department said that the continent will produce a larger part of its food needs this year than it did last year and that the crop outlook was good over most of Europe and the Soviet Union early in May.

Prospects indicate a considerably larger crop of bread grains - wheat and rye-than last year's desperately small one. A severe winter killed most of Europe's winter wheat and rye last year.

European production of bread grains may surpass 1.8 billion bushels, which was the size of the 1946 crop, largest since the war. Production last year dropped to about 1.5 billion bushels, compared with a 2.3 billion average before the

Long Voyage

Previous flight range records paled into insignificance when an air force B-36 superbomber flew an unprecedented 8,000 miles nonstop with a dummy bomb load of about five tons. It was aloft for a day and a half.

The B-36 returned to the ground with about 1,200 gallons of gasoline remaining in its tanks, enough to keep it aloft another two or three hours if necessary.

DAIRYING:

To a Crisis

While the U. S. dairy industry was busy promoting its 12th annual June Dairy Month for the purpose of selling more milk, butter, cheese and ice cream it also was taking a long, critical look behind the scenes and not liking what it

Industry analysis had spotted what appeared to be a dangerous trend. In its simplest form the trend could be defined as an inexorable increase in the U.S. popu-

At the root of the problem was a stubbornly entrenched economic condition whose factors were the war, widespread hunger abroad and domestic inflation.

Continuing high prices for beef and veal have been instrumental in sending many dairy cows or potential dairy cows to the slaughter house. Too many American dairy farmers have discovered how they could reduce their herds drastically, put more land into moneymaking grain crops, realize a greater profit and still have more leisure time.

Adding those conditions to the fact that during the past few years the nation has experienced about a 45 per cent increase in its birth rate, the dairy industry came up with a grim conclusion: If these circumstances continue at the present rate; and there is every likelihood that they will, by 1952 the U. S. will be approaching the critical point at which it no longer will be able to produce enough milk to satisfy its own needs.

That, according to some prognosticators, might mean strict rationing in a land which hitherto had literally flowed with milk and

Biggest Switch

Billboard advertising will reach a new spectacular extreme on Chicago's Lake Shore drive this July when the switch is thrown to turn on the lights of the world's largest sign - 114 feet high and 210 feet wide. A mile and a half of neon tubing, illuminating letters 38 to 58 feet high, will flash the name of a spirited product which a certain distillery wants everybody to switch to.

POLITICS:

The Race

In Oregon, where the last presidential primary of this campaign year was held in an atmosphere of political hoopla, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York was voted more likely to succeed than Harold Stassen.

Whether he would or not remained an open question, but it was certain that his political complexion had taken on a more sanguine hue as a result of the Oregon balloting.

Stassen, who had won spectacular primary victories in Wisconsin and Nebraska over Taft and Dewey, his chief rivals for the GOP nomination, and then had received a borderline setback at the hands of Taft forces in Ohio, at last had suffered a clear-cut defeat.

Oregon wasn't going to do Stassen any good. Having had to buck organized Republican opposition all the way along, he apparently had estimated that his best chance of procuring the nomination lay in building up sufficient prestige and momentum during the primary campaigns to stampede the June 21 convention.

However, he still will go to the national convention with at least 200 delegates pledged to support him on the first ballot. So, for that matter, will Dewey. A total of 548 convention votes is required

WASHINGTON .- The nation, and particularly the nation's capital, where we are highly national and international-conscious, is suffering as never before from the result of memories, good and bad. The Roosevelt epoch produced a rash of reminiscences—200 books about FDR, 32 of them just since his death.

I may say the "fine" is the natural exaggeration of a proud parent who didn't know what he

At any rate, if diary-keeping is mind me that the good young days used against me. I have two outs were no better than those pad o -hardly anything, even of mild in- ones insofar as my habits and conterest, is or will be recorded on the duct were concerned, for an honest faded pages of my journals, and secondly, because I write such a vile hand that I can decipher only a few lines here and there myself.

My mother should have most of the blame for my bad handwriting. just as she is to blame for the fact that I can write at all. She was herself a writer and, unique as it was in those good old days, she possessed a typewriter, a stubby little affair, affectionately known as "the Blick."

Of course it was quite improper to expose a child of pre-school age to a typewriter. It was not my mother's fault. Back in the '90s, some of us weren't vaccinated for anything but smallpox. I was too young to understand that at the time, and since typewriters were as rare as porcelain bathtubs in a city of 20,000, who could guess their evil influence? I suppose I oughtn't to accuse my parents because I became thoroughly inured to the use of the typewriter long before I could balance a pencil, and this fact did my handwriting no good.

At that time what was called "Spencerian" still was taught in the schools of New York state, but very few mastered it even without the curlicues and shading of earlier days. And just as I was getting so I could make the wobbly "M's" and the terrible "q's", along came a new Pharoah to my scholastic Egypt and introduced the "vertical system." That was probably where my uneducation really began. I unlearned the Spencerian all right, but I was never able to go vertical.

Nothing Important Is Ever Entered

But to get back to diary-keeping, at least my diary-keeping. The illegibility of the entries in my diaries isn't really as important as the unimportance of their contents.

Let me illustrate from one with a worn leather cover which I have at hand. It is dated 1914, a good year for a diary, but a bad diary for the world. The record of war days should have been chronicled dramatically as the beginning of the end of an epoch, an epoch which breathed its last in the midst of another war. But did my record do that? Let's look at June 29, 1914. WAS ASSASSINATED AT SARAJE. VO?" We do not. We find this:

29. Lundi S. Pierre, S. Paul Bought Berlitz

Rustem Bey (The book was purchased in Paris, where the year's record began. The entry was made in Washington.)

While the ancient throne of Hapsburg was receiving the blood bath that was to sweep a half dozen rulers into oblivion I was buying a Berlitz textbook for the purpose of studying some foreign language -I have no idea which one except that it was one I never learned. Rustem Bey, I remember was the Turkish ambassador whom I had to

In all justice, it may not be entirely the fault of my diary-making that I didn't record the assassination of the archduke, Nobody in America took the tragedy very seriously. At that time few Americans expected much else from Europe's royal families but assassinations or less respectable peccadillos.

I ought to have known better than that since I had been helping cover the French foreign office for the two years preceding. But I had been drenched with war talk over there and had shaken it off when I returned. Europe almost immediately shrank into a dreamy domain of picture-book memory with no connection whatever with my work-a-day world. Later on, to be sure, there is evidence that I, on second thought, felt I hadn't done my diary justice insofar as Ferdinand was concerned. But I always was feeling that way about my diary and never doing anything about it. This, as I said, keeps my diaries from having the slighest value other than to exude a somewhat conscious-stricken odor and rediary certainly has to be well edited to conceal one's true character. You note in its pages some high resolve or noble undertaking which was more important to you at the moment of recording than the opening of the Panama canal or the result of a presidential election. I a short year you read it over and are utterly unable to recall the slightest thing about the events chronicled. Sometimes my old diaries, even though they record no event of great historical significance, sound quite timely. For example on October 3, 1914: "Not much doing. I don't seem to be able to save my money."

. . . October 8: "The Belgian secretary appears, we consume quantities of beer and tells me his life story-a bore, but business. (just the weary routine of the hard-working reporter)

Fortunately my space is running out. Nothing is more interesting to write or read about than onese Nothing is less interesting to anyone else. But I wish to prove my point namely, that no matter how impo tant diary-keeping may have been for the Churchills, the Marco Polos or the Plutarchs, and perhaps therefore as harmful as important, mine was neither.

And I marvel that any newsman, press or radio, who Eves in the midst of alarms, who "was there' when most things hap pened and told all in breathless detail via the copy-desk or microphone to millions of wide-eyed readers or listeners would ever think of writing it down after ward. Note for instance a recent diary entry for June 5, 1947, which a brittle clipping of even date declares not only vibrantly but with perfect inexactitude "may go down in history as the day of the beginning of the real peace after Work War II." (Lest you have forgotte that was the day Secretary of State George C. Marshall proposed Harvard university a new approx to European rehabilitation which later became the Marshall plan. then E.R.P. and finally the eco nomic cooperation administration.)

Note my diary for that date: "A meeting of the Association of Radio News Analysis. Kalter born to dinner."

Let Children Have Many Happy Returns! (See Recipes Below)

FEW EVENTS WILL MATCH the pleasure that a real birthday party can give to your youngster. The gatety imparted by a few favors, crepe paper decorations, a house full of little friends and a cake all his own, these are the things a child will remember so pleasantly for a beating. Add milk; mix well and long time.

Birthday party menus depend mainly upon the age of the children. in egg whites. Bake in an un-Very simple food is the order of the day for children of three or four; and for children of five or six, the food is only slightly more elaborate. Children from 8 to 10 and older may have things such as lamb chops or hamburgers for the main dish. but it's still important to plan to serve only familiar foods for little guests.

Ice cream and cake are essentials at a birthday party no matter what the age group. For the younger children, however, serve only plain ice cream such as vanilla, and a there will be no digestive upsets.

THE MENU AND RECIPES I've planned will give you a clue as to the best way to plan these particular party foods.

Birthday Party Menu (For Youngsters 3 to 4) Cream of Tomato Soup

Goldenrod Eggs Carrot Sticks or Curls Peanut Butter-Jelly Sandwiches Vanilla Ice Cream Sponge Cake with good idea to have them boned when Milk Orange Icing Goldenrod eggs are a nutritious dish whether the party is for lunch or dinner time. Eggs prepared this way are just a bit more partified than creamed eggs.

Goldenrod Eggs

(Serves 6 to 8) 2 tablespoons butter or substitute

3 tablespoons flour

2 cups milk 1/2 teaspoon salt

6 hard-cooked eggs Parsley

6 toast wedges

Melt the butter, blend in flour, then add milk slowly and stir in seasonings. Cook until thickened. Cut whites of eggs into tiny slivers and add to the white sauce. Pour creamed mixture over toast wedges and top with hard-cooked yolks pressed through a sieve. Garnish with parsley.

The sandwiches may be omitted when the eggs are served, but if desired, they may be made into "fingers" and also served. If the soup is served, they may be placed on the plate along with it.

A cake that will do the job nicely for the younger generation is this one made with hot milk, eggs and only a little shortening. It may be frosted prettily with a confectioners' icing, moistened with orange juice and flavored with grated orange rind. Flute it through a pastry rosette tube and don't forget to write happy birthday across it and use candles.

Healthy Plants Needed To Assure Good Crop ' Sturdy Growth Hinges On Well-Fertilized Soil

Healthy plants, like healthy hu-mans, are better fitted to fight off insect and disease attacks than are undernourished ones. Enemies have a tougher time getting under the guard of well fed plants. Such plants have stronger root systems and hardier, better developed growth above ground. They can stand on their "feet" and defend themselves.

Whether your crops are well fed or undernourished depends on the condition of your soil. If your soil is loose, mellow, high in organic matter, of good tilth and carries plenty of plant food, it can give your crops a body-building diet. If your soil is worn down by overcropping and failure to put back plant nutrients and organic matter, it cannot support healthy, sturdy crop growth.

Any farmer can build his soil's fertility and crop producing ability by good management methods. He can get bigger crop yields per acre through use of fertilizer carrying nitrogen, phosphate and potash as needed. He can build soil structure by growing deep-rooted legumes such as alfalfa or sweet clover in the rotation. Roots of the legumes will open tight soil and let air and water in. Plowed under, the legumes will add to the soil's organic matter supply. Crops following in the rotation will have more "elbow room" to seek water and nutrients deep down in the soil. The organic matter supply can be further increased by returning manure and crop aftermath to the soil.

Dutch Oven Gas Range

Cooks superbly by usual methods, or automatically, while you're away.

As a conventional range, it's the very last word in modern efficiency, cooking speed, convenience and gas economy. See, for example, its heat-focusing Spiral-Flame burners.

And Its automatic oven-control gives you new kitchenfreedom-extra leisure-besides the mouth-melting deliciousness of famous Duten beautiful in the extra-large oven, set the control, and lorger meal in the extra-large oven, set the control, and lorger it till serving time. Gas turns off automatically at the control in till serving time, and cooking continues on retained heat.

You'll especially like the way the super-insulated oven keeps your kitchen cool . . . the ease of cleaning, with the top and burner bowls all one piece of stain-resisting porcelain enamel . . . the new kind of Sizzle-Serve Broiler ... and the Dutch Cooker Well, which cooks a whole meal with only a tiny flame burning two-thirds of the time,

Remember, only the Maytag Dutch Oven Gas Range automatically turns off the gas and keeps right on cooking. Be sure to see this range of tomorrow!

Indians Had Rubber Balls When Columbus landed on the island of Santo Domingo on his first voyage he found the young Indians playing with balls made of elastic resin. He took samples of this resin back to Ferdinand and Isabella and it became known in the Spanish language as caucho. Joseph Priestle*, the famous discoverer of oxygen, saw a small ball of this elastic gum in 1770. He found that when it was rubbed over pencil writings it eliminated them, so he called it rubber.

Build This Set of Lawn Furniture Yourself.

If in need of lawn furniture, build it yourself and save money. Full Size patterns are available that simplify building the matching chairs and settee illustrated above.

A smaller size chair, suitable for children two to eight years of age, can also be constructed from a pattern. Youngsters will be happy to join the family circle if they have a chair they can call their own. Nothing seems to be quite so important to the young ones as having things "just like Dad's".

Impulse to Zion

Arnold Toynbee, British historian, types the Jews as a fossilized remnant of an extinct civilization.

He meant that because of their single-minded, faultless devotion to the religion of Moses and their strict adherence to ancestral customs, the Jews, descending through history as a compact group, have retained most of the original characteristics which marked them when first they emerged as part of the Syriac civilization thousands of years before Christ.

They are recognized today as being in but not of the societies in which they appear on every portion of the globe. They almost invariably form a minority group, and as such they have been targets for endless persecu-

Socially, world Jewry has been of two minds concerning the most desirable end it could achieve for itself. Those two conflicting trains of thought are represented by the "zionists" and the "dispersionists."

The dispersionists have advocated that Jews should mingle freely with whatever people they have chosen to live among and gradualy be assimilated by that people. Zionists, of course, favor establishment of a national homeland - an indestructible ideal ever since Moses led the exodus to Canaan.

Since the war, with Nazi attempts to obliterate German Jews completely and subsequent displacement of millions of European Jews, zionism has been given a tremendous impetus.

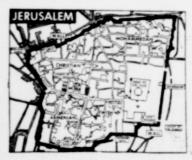

That impulse to Zion has been distilled into what the world has come to know as the "Palestine problem." More recently it crystallized even further in the actual establishment of a Jewish state - called Israel - in Palestine, ancient homeland of the pre-Christian era Jews.

ISRAEL: In Palestine

Events moved with the swiftness of time itself in the Holy Land. Ritualizing the expiration of Great Britain's 30-year mandate rule over Palestine, Sir Alan Cunningham, British high commissioner, hauled down his personal flag ture events, turn out to be incalcuin Jerusalem and flew to Haifa where he boarded a cruiser.

It was shelled from the east by Trans-Jordan's Arab Legion and bombed and machine-gunned from the air by Arab planes.

Haganah, the principal Jewish fighting force, rushed troops, seasoned by months of guerilla warfare to all fronts and the fighting settled down to the pattern with which every adult in the world has become familiar.

During the initial furor, Israel's provisional council of state managed to find time to elect Dr. Chaim Weizmann, a scientist and elder statesman of zionism, first difficult position. If the Russian president of the nation. Most momentous news connected

There is a "crisis" developing in H., head of a committee of fire promilitary aviation, says Cmdr. Lynn S. Beals, Jr., navy doctor, because it is not yet known how to keep human beings healthy when they fly faster than sound.

FARM PLAN: Truman's

To shore up his sinking political prestige in his campaign for renomination, President Truman proposed to congress a four-point farm program which he claimed is "essential" to a productive, prosperous agriculture in the U. S.

Burden of his message were these recommendations: A permanent system of "flexible price supports for agricultural commodities. "Full support to the continuance and expansion of our program of soil conservation.' Legislation by congress to "continue and strengthen programs to assure adequate consumption of agricultural products." "We need to consider other means for assisting farmers to meet their special problems. For example, we must support and protect farm cooperatives. We must continue to work toward a sound system of crop insurance. There was nothing very startling about the proposals, and they carried the unmistakable ring of a campaign year bid for the farmers' favorable attention

ITALY: Vox Pop

Luigi Einaudi, 74, a banker, is to be president of the Italian republic for the next seven years.

He was elected at a joint session of both houses of parliament on the fourth ballot after the Communists, who had Einaudi's first task as president of the republic was to designate a premier and instruct him to form cabinet. There was no doubt that he would name Alcide de Gasperi, premier of the provisional government, to continue in that capacity on a permanent basis.

DISPLACED: Bill Pending

Although the desperate problem of Europe's displaced persons has not been attracting much headline attention lately, congress has been busy working out legislation to admit quotas of DPs into the U. S. Latest report was that an informal poll showed that a majority of the senate would vote for a bill to admit 200,000 displaced persons into this country during the next

The actual bill being considered by the senate judiciary committee sets the figure at 100,000 DP immigrants for the next two years, but several senators have introduced amendments to raise that total to 200,000 and to remove some restrictions imposed by the committee.

One senate source said the poll indicated that at least 55 senators were ready to vote for the less restrictive version. The house judiciary committee already has approved a similar measure to admit 200,000 DPs in the next two years.

ATOM RACE: Official

Governments of the world never have been farther from outlawing the use of atomic weapons. In fact, the atomic armament race is just settling down to a long, straightaway dash.

It is a contest involving astronomical costs, with horrible disaster if not ultimate destruction possibly lurking just beyond the horizon.

So far the U.S. is well in the lead, as indicated by the recent announcement of the development and successful testing of three new atomic weapons which are said to supersede the original atom bombs in destructive power.

The United Nations atomic energy commission made the race official when, after two years of fruitless effort to work out some kind of international atomic control, it finally voted to suspend negotia-

Other developments followed swiftly to prove that the U.S. is deadly serious about developing a powerful and diversified atomic arsenal

David E. Lilienthal, chairman of the atomic energy commission, reported that the "present stage of the commission's tests of atomic weapons is concluded."

President Truman then authorthe commission to take "steps . . . at once for further development based on information gained from the tests."

What Russia was doing about atomic weapons remained pretty much of a mystery, at least as far as the American public was concerned. It was an accepted fact that the Russians knew how to make an atom bomb. Whether they had the industrial facilities to do so still remained a matter of considerable conjecture.

President Talks-Everyone Wants to Get in on the Act

By BAUKHAGE News Analyst and Commentator

WASHINGTON .- The colonel was talking to the general. It was obvious that the general was as bored as his secretary looked, her interrupted dictation on her crossed knees, which she uncrossed

The colonel was the army's No. 1 specialist on the super-gadget which was about to revolutionize warfare, as the colonel could (and would, if he got a chance) tell you. The colonel knew the history of the gadget's development from its crude semi - gismo stage when, primitive as was, it caused entire re-organization of the actics of the knights under the great, first King of the Germans. He could trace its evolution down through the days of delicate interplay when it broke up the Empire of Charlemagne, and on down to the fall of Stalingrad.

as the general's eyes wandered.

The colonel had brought the general about up to the third Punic war and the secretary was wiggling. The general himself had begun to fumble with form 2A-3064-B29. The colonel realized that he was rapidly losing his audience. So he raised his voice so that file clerks in the next office stopped filing (their fingernails) and looked

"By the way, General," he remarked confidentially, "Did you know that I'm writing the President's next speech? The one he delivers to the Inter-Planetary association?" The general's secretary perked up . . . the general raised an eyebrow . . . the colonel smiled . . At about the same hour, over in the Metropolitan club, a very dapper young man from the division of the Far, Near and Middle East and expert in economic-ethicpathology, was sipping a thin scotch-and-soda which his chief had just ordered. His chief was

"By the way, Chief," he said in a whisper so loud that even the waiters stopped looking respectful and listened: "I'm writing the President's next speech at the Inter-Planetary association's confer-

In four other places, four other young experts were telling their bosses the same thing. All were perfectly honest, all were believed, and in 20 minutes or so, stenographers, clerks, messengers, waiters and cab drivers were pointing out "the guy who writes the President's speeches.

All this has been going on, I suppose, in world capitals since before somebody else thought he had codified the code of Hammurabi.

What really happens is this: The President calls in one of his more literary secretaries - all of them are literate, but not all literary (some-those whose duties are conversing with politicians, don't have to be too literate). The President says to the literary one:

"Bill, in this speech I have to write for the Inter-Planetary conference, I'm going to mention the super-gadget, and I want to touch on the current economic and social situation in Beluria, also there are some erosion statistics I need, and some data on the problems which arose as a result of the Whiskey Rebellion '

"Okeh, Chief," says the literary secretary, and on his way back to his office, he begins classifying, according to departments, the people he thinks may have the facts or the people who will know who knows somebody who has the facts. He either phones or dictates a brief memo to these people, requesting not more than one page from each on the subjects indicated.

Highly-pleased young and old men, on receipt of the memo or phone call, begin leafing through their research libraries and dictating to their secretaries. In two days, a number of large packages are delivered to the White House via special messengers. The literary secretary curses and sets to work boiling down a 24-page thesis on the progression of tau-mute from the Sanskrit et elia to a sentence and a half which he has his stenographer type into the rough draft of the speech which the President has dictated and sent to him for the purpose.

Franklin Roosevelt became angered because columnists persisted "revealing" which confidential adviser wrote the last speech he delivered, whatever it was, that he once showed us the actual draft of a speech he had dictated and written, and re-written as was his custom. In fact, the last-minute revising of Roosevelt's interlined manuscripts often went on while newshounds growled in the outer office and mimeographers stood by to handle the finally-okayed sheets

President Truman got a little peeved recently over the same line of columnar chatter and began to "let it be known" that he could write himself. Of course, all presidents get advice, counsel, assistance and inspiration from many men of many minds. Of course, there are humanitarians and grammarians, stylists and Carlyle-ists, lexicographers and geographers, economists and agronomists, Russians, Prussians and Persians upon whom he can call if the need arises.

And somehow or other, each and all, if they but contribute one jot or tittle to the sacred paper, think they wrote the whole - or at least the stenographer who had to take down all the stuff hopefully offered for possible presidential use thinks so, and tells her friends about it confidentially.

The problem of presidential speeches is much to the fore these days for this reason: President Truman and his advisers, despite the rebel yells, the wails of the defeatists, the triumphant roar of the elephant and the ominous hoofbeats of the polls as they Gallup downhill, still believe he has a fighting chance to return in November to the White House, and he intends to fight for it. The President is going on a speaking tour of the West - of course, it isn't a campaign, that would be undignified and immedest before the convention has asked. He will speak under no "political sponsorship." But he will speak and he is going to ad lib, as we say in the trade. Even if we hadn't had our ears conditioned for 12 long years by the golden voice that breathed over the firesides, the unoratorical oratory of Harry Truman when he reads a speech, be it ever so humble, never would be mistaken for the vox humana or the angels' chorus.

But when Harry Truman getsup and talks, he's very human, very sensible, and not altogether unpersuasive. So from now on, he's going to speak extemporaneously, no matter how much preparation it takes. He showed what he could do without notes or manuscript (and without learning by rote) when he addressed the newspaper publishers and the Gridiron club in April, and again in May when he talked off-the-cuff to the national conference on family life in Washington. And since such speeches aren't written, nobody can say he wrote them for him.

'Will to Peace' Finds Expression

Next month a "national conference for the prevention of World War III' will be held on the campus of Grinnell college in Iowa.

The purpose is to present a "definite, concrete working plan to prevent a third world war; methods which can be presented to the two national political conventions at Philadelphia."

The roster of speakers will include representatives of many of the organizations now working for a single sovereign, world organiza-

Meanwhile Winston Churchill is hammering steadily at his purpose of building a United States of Europe. Although the Attlee government has not approved the idea, the prime minister himself has spoken words of encouragement regarding the formation of a real federalization of the western union.

Attlee even went so far as to say that Britain was willing to sacrifice her sovereignty in part to bring it about, although he qualified the promise by saying the time was not yet ripe for such a step. But Churchill wants to strike

He received considerable support from the unofficial gathering in the Hague - a forum, they called it-composed of representatives of the Marshall plan countries, plus exiled leaders. Churchill's proposals and the Grinnell conference are both part of the tremendous "will to peace" that currently is finding expression.

Perhaps eventually we will learn that great lesson of history - to yield the sovereignty that causes wars to the kind of sovereignty that allows not only the other freedoms to the individual but which, also will give him freedom from the FEAR of war. Just as the federalization of the separate colonies made the citizen of the state of New York free from the fear of war with the state of Pennsylvania -a situation possible because both recognize a higher sovereignty the United States government.

Instead of sewing shoulder pads into dresses, attach them with small snaps. Sew top half of map to shoulder seams, lower half on pads. Snap out at laundry or cleaning time: one pair will do for several dresses and blouses, too.

An ordinary alarm clock may be used to indicate when cakes should come out of the oven, and time other household tasks.

A little butter or cooking oil added to the water when cooking sweet potatoes will eliminate the "ring around the pan".

When unsetting the table, stack dishes orderly in place to be washed so that they will not have to be moved or restacked before washing.

Always remove colored clothes from washline as soon as they are dry: sunlight, a natural bleach, is hard on colors.

Colorless nail polish makes a good substitute for glue.

Custom Work on Farms Two reasons account, in large measure, for the heavy comand for custom work with farm machinery during the past few years. In the first place, the amount of machinery available on most farms simply is not sufficient to meet the demand resulting from the shortages of labor and increased purchasing power in the hands of farmers. Secondly, numerous farms are now and always have been too small to make effective and economical utilization of many types of farm equipment The only way the operator of a small farm can have economical access to certain types of machinery is either to hire a custom operator to do the work for him, or, if he elects to own the machines himself, to do sufficient custom work for others to provide for economical utilization of his machin-

SCRIPTURE: Esther, DEVOTIONAL READING: Psalms 44:1-8

Esther's Zeal For Her People Lesson for June 13, 1948

GEORGE MEREDITH has a line that runs like this, "God's rarest blessing is, after all, a good woman." In this study of Esther, think of her primarily as a courageous woman most people do, I But back of her courage was a solid goodness, else she would never have been able to say, "And if I perish, I per-One must read

you may wish to the Book of Esther, of course, to have any grasp of this great story. It requires but a few minutes, and every reader will be richly rewarded. I have a lawyer friend, a prodigious reader, who tells me that once each month for the past 50 years, he has read the Book of Esther.

A QUEEN WHO WAS BRAVE D ANIEL, we agreed, was a brave person; but not more brave than Esther. There is a verse in Hebrews 13:6 that serves admirably to interpret this first stage of Esther's manifest courage, Lord is my helper.'

We go to the palace in Shushan, where reigned Ahasuerus. His kingdom stretched from India even unto Ethiopia. His queen, Vashti, refused to come before him when he had made a feast. As a result of this refusal, the king ordered young maidens brought before him that he might chose a new queen. There was in the court a Jew, Mordecai, who had been brought there from Jerusalem. He had in his care the daughter of his uncle, a beautiful maiden, named Esther. Mordecai saw here a great opportunity and he brought her before the king. She was chosen. This brief sketch accounts for her position.

HER PEOPLE HAMAN, who was next to the king in authority, discovering that Mordecai was a Jew and was not worshipping as Haman had commanded, caused a decree to be issued which would put to death all the Jews in the kingdom. Mordecai, learning of this decree, sent word secretly to Esther, urging her to intercede on behalf of her people to the king.

Here is the heart of the story. Space does not permit a detailed recital. It is sufficient to say that Esther, though still in her early twenties, managed this delicate situation with such skill that the gallows which Haman had built for Mordecai turned out to be the instrument of death for Haman and his sons. Instead of the Jews being slaughtered, those who had planned the death of all the Jews lay dead.

ESTHER RISKED ALL AND

WON ALL F EVER there was a perfect il-I lustration of staking one's all on one great moment, Esther provides such illustration. "Who knoweth whether thou art not come to the kingdom for such a time as this?" said Mordecai as he bolstered her

It is such a challenge as young people may be facing today. Obviously, the moment now confronting us calls for great faith and great sacrifice if this world is to be saved from utter destruction. It may be that this situation calls for hitherto unknown tactics. And let us pray God there is somewhere an Esther.

THE MESSAGE OF ESTHER

W HICH leads me to suggest that racial hatred was never more bitter than at this moment. Unless the winds of God blow, unless some mighty manifestation of divine intervention is granted, the world will break up on the rocks of prejudice and selfishness and ambition and all the forms and fashions of sin.

"God moves in a mysterious way, his wonders to perform." Let us pray that we may early witness some mighty stroke of his mercy and deliverance, ere the night let
