Clean-Up Drive Is A Success

As is self-evident to all, the Clean-Up week was a huge success last week. The town looks far better after having an estimated 75 truck loads of trash hauled to the dump grounds.

Especially successful was the half holiday of last Thursday when the business houses closed and the town pitched in to clean vacant lots and other needed projects. At 6 p. m. a delicious barbecue dinner was served to more than one hundred persons. The City furnished all the trimmings for the dinner with individuals taking the meat.

John Ellis was chairman of the drive assisted by Mayor Jimmy Hash, J. T. Middleton, sr., who furnished a number of trucks and harnes, and Harvey Line of City Council, and Mrs. Bill Davis and Mrs. Carr Spraberry assisted in coordinating the drive. It is impossible to name the many who did exceptional work but Mr. Ellis said that co-operation was perfect.

Another Drive May 21st To catch up on loose ends another half day will be used next Thursday week, May 21st, Mr. Ellis said Monday. He will supply details to the public in next week's paper.

For the next two issues you will have a guest editor in the person of Sirm Miller who hails from Stamford. Mr. Miller is an all-around newsman and printer of a quarterly experience in the graphic arts industry. Your Ed. knows that the folks of this area will extend him the same help and thoughtfulness in the following two weeks as has been extended to us.

Together with the wife and kids, plan to take a sojourn in the swampy Root Country and fish down on the Yegua under the mangish moss. As near as we can calculate, it has been over 8 years since we have been away from the salt mines. Mother will do the re-writing chore, but it will be appreciated if the public would assist her in as far as possible by supplying her with reports of parties.

JUNIOR-SENIOR BANQUET

The Junior Class of O'Donnell High School and their supporters are hosts to the graduating class and the high school faculty at one of the most colorful events of the school year, the junior-senior banquet held in the school cafeteria Tuesday, May 5 at 8:00 P. M.

The entire banquet including the decorations, menu and program, carried out a rainbow theme, taking the guests on an imaginary journey from a lovely garden with wishing well where rambling red roses covered a white picket fence and tulips blossomed in bright array to a land somewhere over the rainbow where dreams are said to come true.

The tables were laid with rainbows and lighted by candlelight. The place favors were miniature pots of gold filled with candy mints representing gold nuggets. The menu consisted of liquid sunshine, rainbow bits, bullion, beery clouds, gumbears, weeping willow, pom-poms, gold dust, raindrops, prospectors joy and refreshing breeze.

King Rain - Nolan Porterfield acted as master of ceremonies in the following program:

Next, take a good long look at its distinctive styling and its luxurious color-matched interiors.
Consider, also, Pontiac's reputation for unsurpassed dependability, long-range economy and high resale value.
Finally, compare its low price—so low, in fact, that if you can afford any new car you can afford a Pontiac. Why not come in and see for yourself?

This and other simple measures add longer life and better service to appliances.

Protect Electric Cords

Do you have an electric cord to disconnect? Don't pull it out of the socket by gripping the cord. Hold the plug and pull. Should the plug stick, and they sometimes do, if the cord has been plugged in for any length of time, rock the plug gently from side to side, pulling gently as you do so.

Electric cords to your irons can amount to a great deal of money if you're careless about them. Not only can you pull the cord loose from the plug, but the cord frays because of its use.

Remove the cord from the iron by gripping the plug rather than the socket, just as in the case of a cord attached to a wall outlet.

A cup hook, a piece of cord and a plumb weight can be attached to the wall where you iron to hold the ironing cord out of the way while you iron. This will still give free play when you iron the cord at different locations on the ironing board.

Overloading Appliances

One of the major appliances to be overloaded frequently is the washing machine. Either weigh the load or check in some receptacle like a basket so that you can avoid making the machine work too hard. The manufacturer usually gives specifications as to the weight the machines does efficiently.

You can overload the refrigerator with ice if you don't defrost regularly. This may, of course, vary with the season. When the frost becomes a quarter of an inch thick, it's time to defrost!

Always wipe spilled foods or grease from the gasket or rubber seal around the door. Keep your fingers off the rubber when you open the door so it does not become sticky.

WOMAN'S WORLD

Add Life, Sparkle To Old Clothing With Simple Tricks

SLENDER budgets are the fashion these days, and few can put in a whole new wardrobe twice yearly. You've undoubtedly learned many new tricks on giving new life to old clothes, and here are others which have been tried successfully.

Looking over the suit from last year or probably the year before? If it's been worn a great deal, the skirt is shiny while the jacket is still good!

Here's what you can do: open all the seams very carefully, reverse the material and sew all back together again. It will be almost like new. The jacket could probably use new shoulder padding and buttons, and a new blouse will add that fresh sparkle so essential to suits.

Converting Clothes

Almost every household has some worn and frayed slacks, but fortunately the fraying is at the legs. This can be cut off to give some popular pedal pushers which are knee length, or they may be made like the fashionable toreador pants, knee-length, but lacing in place of cuffing or fitting as is done with pedal pushers.

Slacks might also be cut down and fitted to give a girl, or boy, a pair of shorts. Lighter colors and denims can be cuffed with a contrasting plaid for extra interest. The trimming might be made from an old plaid shirt or remnant.

Use Men's Shirts

Sleeves and collars on men's shirts wear out, but the front remains in good condition. Plan to use it! Much of the back of the shirt can be used for tiny tot's panties, but the lady of the house can have a good looking dicky from the shirt front for her suit. This is especially true when the front has some tucking.

Sleeveless blouses from good quality cottons such as are used in men's shirts are also another excellent idea. Many of these can be cut down without a pattern if you're handy. Otherwise, they're very simple to make from a pattern.

Employ Decorative Tricks

Some clothes need little extra than new trimming to revitalize them. Contrasting bands of material might be used for decoration on skirts. It can also be used to lengthen the skirt or to add some room to a too-tight skirt.
