WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS GOP Leaders Rap Demo Depression And Plan Bill to Meet Situation: Brannan Plan Held Farm Vote 'Bait'

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.

FARM VOTE:

Bait Is Set

Re is

There was more to the Brannan federal farm program than had met the eye. According to seasoned Washington observers, the plan would serve as a bait for the farm vote in the congressional races next year.

For instance, if administration leaders could extend wartime price support for another year, it would give voters a chance to pass on the controversial Brannan plan. Thus the plan could be dangled as a major issue when Democrats and Republicans began struggling for the important farm vote.

AT a midwestern Democratic conference, both Brannan, secretary of agriculture, and J. Howard McGrath, chairman of the national Democratic committee, made a plea for extension of the price support program as they began to plan for next year's tug-of-war with the GOP.

McGrath, making it plain that the Brannan plan has Mr. Truman's endorsement, said continuation of the present relatively high-price support program was to be preferred to the Aiken long-range farm law passed by the 80th Republican congress. Unless congress acts, Mc-Grath pointed out, the Aiken law will go into effect next year.

The Brannan plan is designed to support farm income at a "prosperity" level, but at the same time to provide consumers with lower prices for perishable foods-especially meat, dairy and poultry products-when there are surpluses. It would use government payments to assure desired farm cash returns

PRESENT laws direct the government to support prices of major products at not less than 90 per cent of parity.

CONJURER:

Name, Smile

Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., who inherited a name and a smile to conjure with and wasted little time in conjuring with them, has been duly sworn in as a member of the house of representatives.

The 34-year-old congressman from New York's 20th district, filling the seat left vacant by the death of Sol Bloom, ran as a candidate of the Four Freedoms and Liberal parties, although he will operate as a working Democrat in the legislative arena

The Yankee stadium was hird the other day for an anniversary party thrown for Mary Margaret McBride, famous radio star. More than 42,000 people attended. Thats more than half the rival Yankee baseball clubs draw. _._

It was a sensational affair and Miss McBride scored standing up. It wasn't necessary for her to slide, although it would have pleased the fans no end.

And if she had had to slide she could have done it. Mary (Happy) McBride has the baseball spirit. She can hit and field. No position is beyond her. If you take note of the countless commercials the lady has delivered for dinner-table edibles you have to admit nohody has been more versatile "behind the plate" over so long a period.

Mary is in her way a pitcher, to She has never had to be yanked of the mound in her career with the NBC club. Her greatest asset is her control. There is almost no wind up in her delivery. Smoothness maria her style.

The lady is a good all-around player, too. Shortstop taxes her, but every other position is ducksoup-and she will name the brand of duck soup and tell you where to

The striking thing about her Yankee Stadium workout was that she was the only player. It was her party and her game. She covered all positions and played an error. less game, if you overlook a couple of dropped eulogies for a prepared jelly.

Grace Noll Crowell IT of the noise and clamor of the town I have come down To this green pasture land where sheep Graze in the golden light, Where shadows creep As deliberately as they across the grass. The slow hours pass, And I am one with the rhythm and the rhyme Of this still land, this quiet time; Even my hurrying heart has stayed its pace Within this quiet place. Time is nothing here - the sun, the moon, Come neither late not soon; There is no change in the ways of sheep. Bares Mission

'Right Now'

"I regret," the senator from Maine said, "that we are now in a state of depression. It is not a thing of the future. It is right now.

After thus evoking the spirit of the 1930's, Sen. Owen Brewster announced blandly that senate Republicans shortly would sponsor a 50-million-dollar public-works and relief-planning program "to meet the growing Democratic depression.

THE BILL to be projected along these lines would not in itself provide funds for public works, but merely would finance the planning "shelf" of such works to be of a started when deemed advisable.

Sen. Robert Taft (R., Ohio), who also is in on the deal, said that what he had in mind was a bill that would establish the framework for federal grants to states if their relief cases should reach a certain percentage of their total population Said Taft: "What we Republicans want to avoid is the creation of another WPA like Harry Hopkins ran.'

Without trying to guess how much

don't you?"

during the campaign so he ran on the Four Freedoms ticket. In so doing he scored a popular upset over the regular (Tammany) Democrat, a Republican and an American Labor candidate.

The third son of the late President took the oath from Acting Speaker John W. McCormack (D. Mass.), while his mother beamed happily from the gallery.

During his first day on the job Roosevelt:

CHATTED briefly with President Truman; denied a rumor that he might run for mayor of New York; allowed that he hoped congress would repeal the Taft-Hartley labor law, enact Mr. Truman's civil rights program and put through a national housing act.

It all looked like a reasonable beginning for another Roosevelt political career

HOUSING:

Action Seen

Indications were that despite opposition from many quarters, the administration's big new housing bill would get out of committee and go to the house floor for action.

THE RULES committee, which twice last year killed similar legislation, had refused to clear the current bill. But Rep. A. J. Sabath (D., Ill.) was predicting the committee would act to clear the measure Sabath was on fairly safe ground, for under the new house "antibottleneck" procedure adopted in the multibillion - dollar January, housing bill could be put to a house vote over the rules committee's objections.

THE housing program, one of President Truman's major campaign promises, was approved by the senate April 21 on a 57 to 13 vote. It then bogged down in the house.

The bill calls for a vast program of slum clearance, low-rent housing and farm housing aids.

relief spending might be necessary under such a plan, Senator Brewster opined that would "depend upon just how bad this Democratic depression gets."

Whether this "relief bill" proposal is sincere or whether it is a cynical attempt to discredit the administration in the face of the coming 1950 elections, only time would tell

TRUMAN:

Drops Curb Bill

There was one thing about President Truman-he was beginning to develop the ability to recognize a hint when he saw it. There have been times when the President seemed to suffer from an ability to do that, but now it's different.

The President, obviously with an understanding ear to the ground, has decided he won't press congress to give him standby war powers.

THAT'S not only wise of the President, it's good strategy, particularly since it would have been impossible for the administration to convince the 81st congress that any such powers are needed.

However, there was an official reason advanced for the change in objectives. One authority described the revision of plan as a "quiet demilitarization" of the national security resources board on White House orders. In other words, the emphasis would be away from keeping the people agitated and alerted for possible future war.

THE war powers bill would have provided a detailed mobilization act covering priority and seizure powers, controls over prices, manpower; production and transportation. It would, if enacted, go into effect automatically on the declaration of war emergency by congress.

Mr. Truman was said to have decided it would be inappropriate to try to get such a law passed in peacetime.

The young couple smiled politely but with a lack of enthusiasm. Neither of them felt equal to the task of getting up and following on young Arthur Forbes' heels.

The dining salon was located beneath the forward deck: Mr. Gill's table was at the extreme end, near that section where the vessel's bow began to narrow. He had hardly seated himself when he saw that young Arthur Forbes was placed two tables away and slightly behind. There was a plate of food on the table before the youth, but it was untouched. Like one in a trance Mr. Forbes was sitting with eyes widened greatly beyond their normal size, checks as pale as death.

After a time Mr. Gill saw that the youth at the other table was staring toward a port-hole. and his grin broadened. The port-hole was located far forward, and with each dip of the vessel one could see the entire slope of a wave, from trough to crest. Then for a space there would be nothing but open sky. It provided a sensation similar to riding on a roller coaster.

Mr. Gill knew that as long as young Forbes continued to stare through the port-hole his seasickness would steadily grow worse. And he chuckled at the thought.

After a while Mr. Gill found it was easier to stare straight ahead than to sit half-turned in his chair in order to watch young Forbes, who, after all, wasn't the most The opportunity to paint Paulette pleasing sight in the world. of some 15 per cent from the appropriation for European recovery administration funds runs something like this: The administration has been told by the department of commerce and the committee economic advisors to the President that the national income in 1950 will be definitely lower than nowsome say 18 billion dollars lower than 1949. But some Democratic leaders declare that the budgets for domestic appropriations have been squeezed until there is little water left in them, so it will be impossible to slash domestic expenditures which, after all, amount to a very small percentage of the total overall federal budget. The story is that these leaders say that it will be politically more advantageous to pass the domestic appropriation measures as is than to cut them in the election year of 1950.

But, on the other hand, a realistic group in the house and senate, cognizant of the imminent drop in national income, declare that a cut in federal expenditures is absolutely essential if a tax increase is to be avoided, and it should be avoided.

So, although the administration is not going to consent publicly, the slashes in ECA funds will be permitted to go through on the theory that lower prices in the offing may make up for some of the cuts and that there will be less reverberations from the electorate than if domestic appropriations were pared.

With Senate Majority Leader Scott Lucas committed to keeping congress in session until the "mapoints in President Truman's jor' legislative program "are dis-posed of," the makings of a fullscaled row are shaping up.

Already the administration has shelved some of its "must" bills in order to get to the Taft-Hartley repeal measure, an admittedly redhot subject. Congressional leaders agreed it would be three weeks before this issue came to a showdown. That would mean the labor question might not be settled until around July 1. With a majority of legislators already on record as favoring adjournment early in August, Senator Lucas may find his hands full in keeping the lawmakers beyond that time, despite the status of the President's revised "must" program at that time.

An obvious indication of the powder-keg potentials in congress is the administration's willingness to put aside consideration of the North tlantic pact in the senate. so the $1,530,942.52 was the figure that Mr. DeKwickrich estimated as his fortune. He had come by it through many years of industrious labor and now was enjoying the fruits of his uphill struggle. He and his wife traveled all over the world and stayed at the finest hotels. There was always one thing he insisted upon at those hotels and that was a swimming pool. His wife was an excellent swimmer and enjoyed her morning dip.

One morning a lackey rushed up to Mr. DeKwickrich to inform him that his wife had had an accident in the pool and had nearly drowned.

"They are applying artificial respiration now," the attendant assured him, "and the doctor thinks she will come around all right."

Mr. DeKwickrich seemed somewhat put out.

"You run back there," he said, "and tell them I can afford the real thing. Artificial respiration. indeed!"

"Why don't you have a few inches cut off the bottom of that thing?" asked the man whose friend was using a walking stick too long to be used comfortably.

"That wouldn't help," said the friend. "It's this end that's too high."

His view on the suggestion that Presidents retire into senatorial memberships were reported in an interview. It answers one question not included in the exhaustive report by the commission on organization of the executive branch of the government, which Mr. Hoover "I don't think it would do any harm," the former President said. "I think it would do good. I don't want to go there at my time of life, but I think, as an addition to the efficiencies of the government, it would be greatly worth-while for the future. Any former President carries a lot of seasoned experience which would aid the legislative side. It would be a good thing to do." "Could that be done with our Constitution?" he was asked.

"I understand that it could be done by statutory law," Mr. Hoover went on, "provided the former President had no vote. He could have the privilege of debate, office assistants and a salary." In questions and answers devoted to the Hoover commission's report, Mr. Hoover said that the program worked out by some 200 prominent private individuals on eventual savings of about $4,000,and might touch $5,000,000,000.

At the same time, he stated tralization of control in the Presi-labor bill could have the right-ofway. In law-making assemblages where the administration has the whip-hand, delays such as that on major questions are not necessary. If the votes are there, then the measures proposed can be passed. Where there is uncertainty and one side or the other must make the best of a bad deal, compromise is the only way.

My old friend Hassil E. Schenck, tall, raw-boned and virile, president of the Indiana Farm Bureau Federation and a member of the AFBF executive committee has said a truism. In a luncheon speech here recently he told his audience: 'Normalcy as this country knew it 10, 15, and 20 years ago is not only a present-day impossibility, but it would be catastrophic and we wouldn't want it if we could have it. America has no alternative but to go forward to a new normal.

Hassil Schenck has been boss of the Indiana Farm Bureau almost as far back as I can remember, back to the days of Bill Settle, who was Indiana Farm Bureau president and later became president of the national organization.

Adjournment Row?

The administration leaders still declare they will pass a Taft-Hartley labor law repeal. Labor's political problem for 1950 is two-fold, and it is determined to beat those who have opposed Taft-Hartley repeal.

First it must hold the spectacular gains it made in 1948 and second, it might win at least 15 additional seats in the house and seven more seats in the senate. Actually labor's program is non-partisan, but realistically it is one of electing more Democrats from the North and West and different Democrats from the South. In the senate 34 will be elected in 1950.

Economy Talked

In the meantime congress continues to talk economy and to vote for increased appropriations. The biggest money fight was over the army civil functions bill. The Hoover commission had charged colossal waste of money by army engineers. When appropriations for army civil functions came up Sen. Paul Douglas of Illinois asked for a 40 per cent cut. Republicans tried for a 5 or 10 per cent slash but they were defeated.

The all-around usefulness of the John Deere Tool-Bar Cultivator makes it a cultivator that soon proves its worth on every farm.

Equipped with broad, flat, sub-surface sweeps, it's all set to do a good job of sub-surface tilling, under-cutting surface growth and killing weeds, yet scarcely disturbing erosion-controlling surface trash.

With the double-coil spring teeth and shovels, the John Deere becomes a heavy-duty field cultivator for many jobs. Add beams and lister bottoms and it becomes a lister for blank listing. With the planting attachment, it lists up to four rows. With the disk gang attachment, the John Deere is ideal for throw-ing up beds for melons, tomatoes and other. such crops.

When you consider its broad usefulness, its quality construction, and other outstanding features, you'll agree—the John Deere is a cultivator you can't afford to be without. See us for complete details the next

Casey has known enough team grief to sink two or three managers. But he has never shown any sign of losing faith in a club that has been the best in the league so far.

Yankees Sans DiMaggio

A day or two ago, I ran across smart minor leaguer from other days. We began talking about the Yankees without DiMaggio.

"This reminds me," he said, "of something that happened when I was playing ball. We had finished the season before in fourth place. But at the start of the next season we lost our only star. He had a broken leg and was out. So all the papers plastered us down in last place.

"So we got together. We talked things over. We finally decided that even though this lost player was good, he wasn't the entire club. We decided to go out and prove it. We fought and hustled harder it. than we ever did before. We moved into first place. The papers all said we wouldn't be there longnot with our star missing. That made us hustle all the harder. I can tell you this-if we'd had our star, we wouldn't here finished third. As it was, we won the pennant.'

The old ballplayer continued to ramble on. "There's a good chance the Yankee ball club, subconsciously anyway, had gotten tired of hearing that Joe DiMaggio was the entire ball club. After all, there were Raschi, Porterfield, Byrne, Reynolds and others-there were Kayhoski and Phillips at first-there were Coleman, Stirnweiss, Rizutto, Brown and Johnson.

If you're planning to celebrate Independence Day at home, use some of these simple suggestions for meals. The colors and other suggestions are in keeping with the theme of the day, but the food is kept simple by day-before preparation, and by very easy lastminute undertaking.

Weather permitting, serve supper outdoors, and save getting formal about the service as is usually the custom in the dining room. You may use colorful paper plates and napkins, too, thus eliminating much of the dish washing that always comes after eating.

"There was and is a fellow named Tommy Henrich-close to DiMaggio in everything-there were Lindell, and Berra, Woodling and Bauer-not even a Cobb or a Ruth could have been the entire ball club with all these fellows on hand. Most of them are first-class ball players. They must have felt the inside urge to show they could also play some baseball.

"Here's another thing. As good as Joe DiMaggio and Tommy Henrich together are-they were not as important as the pitchers. Connie Mack once told me that the pitchers were 70 per cent of any ball club. With or without DiMaggio, the Yankees had a fine pitching staff."
