lection Saturday enters Upon enator's Race

With the windup of a political campaign that has received only a warm interest on the part of the voters up until the last few days, voters will march to the polls Saturday to select their choices for United States Senator, state governor, various state offices, district and county posts.

Interest of most voters, and around most of the arguments have been in place, centers on the race for United States Senator, with Senator Lee O'Daniel, James V. Allred, Dan Moody, all ex-governors, vying for the spotlight.

To a lesser degree, the governor's race has caused interest, with Gov. Stevenson and Hal Collins the center of the talk.

With statements and counter statements, the voters have been left in a state of bewilderment as to what constituted "mud-slinging." O'Daniel claimed he wasn't slinging mud, but he made sly remarks about his opponents and insinuated they were pals of crooks and racketeers, just "replying" to keep the record straight. He has not wished that the conduct of the war, the conduct of a senator from Texas should be in war's affairs be discussed during the campaign, but said only one issue was at stake — possible munism.

O'Daniel has made a more aggressive campaign than Moody, who, in the past, could "go to town" from a loud point. Moody, however, has conducted his campaign upon a calm fashion of issues and, perhaps, has led all along, a campaign that did attract attention for its very publicity from the other, more by appeals for votes.

Anyway, the voters will make their choice. And "mud-slinging" has been indulged in by all—if slighting remarks about opponents has been made.

Mrs. Guy Bradley and Mrs. Fred Anderson and Billy Bob were in Lubbock Wednesday.

J. L. Shoemaker Is Named Member Of War Fund Board

J. L. Shoemaker, cashier of the First National Bank here, has been named as a member of the sub-regional Victory Fund committee, so he was notified today by letter.

That the post is an important one in the nation's drive for victory is attested by the fact that only one person in a community is chosen, and all affairs pertaining to the fund drives will pass through his hands.

Shoemaker, an ex-serviceman, realizes that the job is both important and a hard one, but says he'll do his best.

FEW LYNN RACES SHOW OPPOSITION, BUT DAWSON HOTBED OF INTEREST

Only one county race, the sheriff's, has brought forth opposition to the incumbent in Lynn County, but over in Dawson the reverse is true.

Several races are waxing warm from the candidates' angle.

Voters in both counties are urged to go to the polls to vote — to exercise that privilege of an American. Carelessness in voting breeds carelessness in other matters and from that may come charges which will do away with the Revolutionary Father's dream.

Vote Saturday.

LOCAL BOY GIVEN LIEUT. RATING

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Tredway received word recently that their son, Lawrence, had been promoted to 2nd Lieut. in an Officers Training School at Camp Lee, Petersburg, Va., which closed July 15.

He was transferred to Amarillo and is in the Quartermaster Corps.

Lieut. Tredway expects to visit his parents here soon.

Church of Christ Plans Meetings

Plans for the holding of the gospel meeting which will begin at the Church of Christ August 7 are now being made, according to Minister Alvis Bryan, and hope is held that the meetings will prove to be among the most successful in the history of the church.

W. M. McFarland of Lubbock, widely known for his ability and his earnestness, has been selected to do the preaching.

"We believe ourselves fortunate in securing him for this work, and we believe everyone will likewise consider themselves fortunate in being able to hear him discuss simple gospel theme," so Mr. Bryan said Thursday, and he quoted: "We are determined not to know anything among you, save Jesus Christ and Him crucified."

An invitation has been extended to the public to make plans now to attend these meetings.

Wednesday—

We endeavor to worship according to the New Testament example and pattern, and also to do this from a heart of love and devotion to God. "It is not in man that walketh to direct his own steps." (Jer. 10:23). We must abide in the teachings of Christ and not go beyond them. "Whosoever goeth onward and abideth not in the teaching of Christ, hath not God." (2 Jno. 9). Many, however, are going beyond these teachings and practicing things in religious worship which Christ did not authorize. To this there is a serious penalty. (Rev. 22:18-19) and Solomon said, "Add thou not unto his words, lest he reprove thee, and thou be found a liar." (Prov. 30:6). We must worship God "in spirit and truth." (Jno. 4:23-24).

We invite you to attend all our services and worship God in the simplicity of New Testament instruction. The Sunday morning sermon will be: "The Unity of God's People." Alvis Bryan Minister.

Miss Corene Proctor is expected home the fore part of the week from Fort Worth where she has completed a beauty course.

Mrs. Marcus Neeley and baby and Claudia Dorsey of Lubbock visited here last week end.

ATTENDED BROTHER'S FUNERAL
Mr. and Mrs. William G. Forgy were in Chillicothe Tuesday.

They were called there by the sudden death of Mr. Forgy's brother, B. B. Forgy, who was editor and publisher of the Chillicothe Valley News.

Transfer Of OK Pupils Here Made

Trustees of the O. K. and O'Donnell School Districts Saturday signed a contract which calls for the transfer of the entire O. K. School from grade one through twelve to O'Donnell for one year.

This contract is made in accordance with the state contract law and in no way is or can lead to a consolidation, according to S. N. Norris, County Superintendent of Dawson.

This arrangement has been made bringing a considerable saving to the tax payers of the O. K. District and could be accepted by the O'Donnell Board only because it will be possible to provide instruction for both schools without the necessity of hiring any additional teachers, Norris also said.

The O. K. officials leased their bus body to O'Donnell and transportation will be supervised by O'Donnell for both districts.

FIRE HAPPENS VERY CONVENIENTLY FOR FIRE TRUCK—RIGHT UNDERNEATH

A fire, which was caused by trash burning, co-operated with the nation's effort in rubber saving here Monday. It started right near the city's fire truck and no "run" was necessary.

The blaze was quickly extinguished. Started by burning of trash, the fire caught the wagon of Milt Todd in its path, and then played pickaboo with the truck's premises.

ASK FOR YOUR VOTE FOR

JOHN ANDERSON

FOR COMMISSIONER

Lynn County

We have known him for many years, as perhaps you too have known him, and have always found him to be upright, honest in his dealings with everyone, whether they be wealthy or poor. He is a type of man who will do to "ride the river with" as we say in Texas. We ask for your vote, not because any of his opponents are not also good men, but because John Anderson will be found worthy and will not let our precinct and county falter doing its duty in these serious times.

This article, in no way, is meant as a reflection on any man in this same race, because as John Anderson has said, they are all honest, Christian men and he considers each of his opponents as a friend.

This is just a solicitation for your vote in behalf of John Anderson — without his knowledge, and in giving him consideration, we know you'll never regret your action.

Nazi Steamroller Pushes Soviets Back In Struggle for Control of Caucasus; Government Wheat Sells for 83 Cents; Wage Pattern Set by Ruling on Steel

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Coast Guardsman Jack Cullen, 21-year-old hero who confronted the Nazi saboteurs who landed on American soil from a submarine, is shown as he was congratulated by Vice Admiral Russel R. Waesche, commandant of the U. S. coast guard, for his devotion to duty and outstanding performance that led to the capture and trial of the spy ring. Cullen was advanced from seaman to coxswain in recognition of his service.

RUSSIA:

Nazi Steamroller

Adolf Hitler had demonstrated that the long delay before he launched his monster offensive against the Soviet Union had not been wasted and that despite terrific losses his tank forces had lost none of their striking power.

For the mighty thrusts which started originally in the Kursk and Kharkov areas had steadily gained in weight and momentum, forcing their way through the Don basin. The attack developed three spearheads aimed to split the armies of Marshal Timoshenko in the Ukraine and those of Marshal Zhukov in the Moscow area. The northern objective was Voronezh on the Moscow-Rostov railway; the central thrust was aimed at Kubyshev; and the southern had Stalingrad as its goal.

Moscow made no effort to minimize the danger of a broad breakthrough. For once holding a line from Rostov to Stalingrad, the Nazis would be in position to swing southward to Astrakhan on the Caspian sea and into the Caucasus itself, where waited their supreme prize—the fabulous oil pools of Tiflis and Baku. Moreover, such a move would pave the way for a junction by Nazi Marshal Von Bock with the armies of Japan poised on the borders of India far to the east and those of Field Marshal Rommel, on the shores of the Mediterranean.

EGYPT:

Collision of Tanks

Air-borne from Crete came Rommel's long-awaited reinforcements. Tough and battle-seasoned were they and expert at storming defenses such as the British were manning against them in Egypt's crucial El Alamein sector.

Tricky Marshal Rommel employed a battle device that had won for him on many a previous occasion—that of beginning his attack at dusk when the sun was in his opponents' eyes. Bringing up heavy tank reinforcements, both sides battered each other in battles on which the fate of Alexandria and Suez depended.

The Nazis' immediate goal was a desert coastal ridge five miles west of El Alamein which the British had won from him days before. In the fiercely contested struggle, the RAF was actively engaged, with fighter bombers and light bombers scoring many direct hits on tanks and ranging far to the rear to harass Rommel's thinned-out supply and communication lines.

DRAFT:

'War Effort'

"Contributing to the war effort" will be an important factor in determining the draft status of married as well as single men.

In defining what constitutes "contributing to the war effort," selective service headquarters outlined 34 different types of jobs which would place a man in that category and thus delay his induction. Draft officials emphasized that the supply of single men of all classes would have to be exhausted first.

Trends were clarified in the revised policies announced by Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of selective service. While reiterating that "bona fide family relationships will be protected as long as possible," General Hershey instructed local draft boards that when the time comes for calling men with dependents to service, those who are not contributing to the war effort should be called first. Last class to be inducted would be married men with children who are contributing to the war effort.

RUSSIA:

WAGES:

Raise for Steelmen

In a decision regarded as a yardstick for future wage disputes, the War Labor board laid down the principle that workers were entitled to a 15 per cent increase, based on higher living costs between January, 1941, and May, 1942.

The ruling was made when the board approved a daily wage increase of 44 cents for workers employed by the so-called "Little Steel" companies: Bethlehem, Republic, Inland and Youngstown Sheet and Tube. Directly affected were 157,000 men. Indirectly the decision was expected to affect more than a million workers, including 600,000 throughout the steel industry generally and 400,000 automobile plant workers.

The CIO United Steel Workers originally had asked for a $1 a day increase. The WLB voted the compromise wage increase 8 to 4, the labor members dissenting.

SURPLUS WHEAT:

To Sell at 83c

News bulletins had carried the bare announcement that the house of representatives had concurred with a senate proposal to convert government owned surplus wheat into United Nations war needs by feeding it to livestock to produce meat, milk and eggs.

But back of that announcement was the story of the breakup of a six-months' legislative log-jam, a victory for the administration's anti-inflation program and acknowledgement by the farm bloc that it must accept less than a parity rate for the sale of this grain.

Twice before the house had voted to bar the sale of surplus wheat unless it was made at the full parity price of $1.35 a bushel. Now it agreed to go along with the senate and allow the sale of 125,000,000 bushels of government-owned wheat at 85 per cent of the parity price of corn—or about 83 cents a bushel—for feeding cattle and hogs. The house also agreed that any amount of government-owned grain might be sold below parity prices for the manufacture of alcohol for rubber or munitions.

MIDWAY SAGA:

Better Than Expected

When a naval communique released the first official detailed account of the Battle of Midway, the steadily growing conviction that the United States had won a victory of major importance was confirmed.

The communique revealed for the first time that Japan had sent an armada of 80 ships to assault Midway as a prelude to the conquest of Hawaii.

Final score of the battle was 20 Jap ships sunk or damaged, including four aircraft carriers sunk and three battleships hit; 275 planes destroyed, and 4,300 men killed or drowned. American losses included the destroyer Hammann sunk, the aircraft carrier Yorktown put out of action and 307 officers and enlisted men lost.

SUBMARINES:

Menace Grows

Official acknowledgement that something drastic must be done to counteract the Axis unrelenting submarine attacks on United Nations shipping was seen in Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox's announcement that a convoy system had been set up in the Caribbean area and would be established in the Gulf of Mexico.

Coastwise convoys, however, would have to get along without the help of destroyers, it was indicated.

CHINA FRONT:

Doolittle Sequel

Ever since the attack on Tokyo by Brig. Gen. James H. Doolittle and his squadron of American bombers, Japanese objectives in China have been the seizure of areas from which United States bombers might strike again.

Thus when Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's battered armies acknowledged the loss of Wenchow and Julian, seaports in southern Chekiang province, after steady withdrawals from strategic points in the Kiangsi-Fukien-Chekiang area, another air threat to Tokyo had been removed.

Bravely, however, a Chinese official spokesman pledged that with increasing air support from the United States, the Chinese army would intensify its counterattacks and would immobilize more Japanese troops in China than ever before.

Elaborating on China's view of the war and her role of tying up large numbers of Japanese, the spokesman said both Germany and Japan were "now making desperate bids, as they must score certain successes this summer in order to sustain a long war against the United Nations."

'FIGHTING FRENCH':

U. S. Encourages

More effective co-operation between the followers of Gen. Charles De Gaulle and the governments of the United Nations were forecast as a result of several steps which coincided with the celebration of Bastille day.

First of all, the De Gaullist movement acquired a new name—"Fighting France" instead of "Free France." At the same time the French National committee became an administrative central body.

To symbolize the new relationship the United States announced the appointment of Admiral Harold R. Stark, commander of U. S. naval forces in Europe, and Brig. Gen. Charles L. Bolte, chief of staff of the army's European headquarters, as military representatives to General De Gaulle's headquarters in London.

This step did not affect United States relations with Vichy, already badly strained by Pierre Laval's refusal to accede to President Roosevelt's request that French naval vessels interned at Alexandria, Egypt, be removed from the danger of Axis capture.

SECOND FRONT:

Dress Rehearsal?

From London came two significant reports indicating that plans for the long-heralded Anglo-American second front in Europe were going steadily forward. Just when such a front would be possible, however, no military observer would hazard a guess.

Described as a "prelude to what may be major military operations on the European coast," powerful American and Canadian forces plus

From where I sit...

by Joe Marsh

You ought to meet my friend, Will Dudley. I suppose Will must be seventy-eight or nine... but you'd never know it. He's tall and lean and hard as a hickory. And although the only formal education he ever had was a few winters in the old red schoolhouse, I think that he's the wisest man I know in many ways.

For one thing, Will taught me the value of what he calls "Just a-settin'!"

Come upon Will in the evening, when his hard day's work is done, and you'll find him "just a-settin'" in a rocker on his porch. In one hand he'll have his old briar pipe and in the other, a tall cool glass of beer.

"Wholesome, appetizing beer," says Will, "is standard equipment for proper settin'! Puts a feller in an easy-goin' peaceful mood."

You see, Will holds the theory that in our present mixed-up world, a man needs a quiet hour every day. An hour in which to sit down quietly and restore his strength and courage.

Will thinks, and I agree with him, that a man ought to forget all his own and the world's worries during that hour-of-peace. And Will feels that a glass of fragrant mellow beer helps most to bring you quiet relaxation.

Show me the man who sits down quietly at an evening with his glass of beer and I'll show you a man who is wise in the ways of living. Such men, like Will Dudley, live to a ripe old age, unembittered by the troubles of the world. They seem to remain, all their lives, sweet-natured and kindly.

Time has a way of rendering accurate judgments on the value of the things men use and enjoy in the world. And Time... thousands of years of it... has handed down the verdict that beer is a pleasant and worthy companion for all men of good will.

Recipes Given For Fruit Canning

About sugar! Cane and beet sugar are equally good in sweetening fruit for home canning. Brown sugar is not recommended for this purpose, as it may contain spoilage bacteria or other impurities.

The small amount of sugar ordinarily used is not a necessity to keep canned fruit from spoiling. The sugar serves to help hold a fruit's flavor and color. Fruits for diabetic diets are commonly canned without sugar. If there is abundant fruit that might go to waste for want of sugar on hand, some may be canned without sugar, and sweetened later to taste when the fruit is opened, using sugar from the family's current ration.

About juice! Fruits naturally contain a great deal of water, and the most economical way of using sugar canning allowance is to add a small amount of sugar directly to the fruit. This is preferable to covering the fruits with a thin sugar-and-water sirup, which means canning extra water. Canning in juice adds to natural fruit flavor. Wartime canned fruits thus prepared may not look as attractive as products which many homemakers are accustomed to pack, but have better fruit flavor and food value.

Why pack hot? Packing fruit hot into containers has several advantages. The precooking draws out juice for covering fruits when packed. Precooking shrinks the fruits, so that more generous amounts may be filled into jars. Precooking cuts down the time that packed fruits need to be processed in the water bath.

Fruits in Their Own Juice

Juicy fruits! To draw out juices of fruits such as berries, cherries, plums, ripe peaches and pears, sweeten the fruits slightly then heat slowly just to boiling point. To avoid scorching, stir from time to time, or set the pan in hot water and cover the pan and place in moderate oven. If juicy fruits are cut or sliced, they will probably form enough juice in this process for a covering liquid when packed.

If juicy fruits are to be canned whole or in halves, some added liquid may be needed. Fruit juice may be used here instead of the usual sirup. For this, set aside the riper fruits at the start. Crush these and heat to boiling point and extract juice. Heat the firmer fruits in this juice.

Pack the hot fruits quickly into jars or cans. Cover with boiling hot juice and process as usual for a hot pack.

Crushed fruit canned! For short-cakes, frozen desserts, puddings, and pies, crush or make sauce of fruit. Sweeten slightly and heat before packing into jars.

Less juicy fruits! Apples and some kinds of peaches and pears may not yield enough juice of their own for canning liquid. To make the most possible juice, slice or cut them and add a little sugar before preheating. Preheat as for juicy fruits, adding water if necessary to prevent sticking. Fill into jars and cover with the hot sirup. Process as for a hot pack.

Fruits in Sirup

If fruits are to be canned in sirup, allow up to 1/2 cup of sugar to make sirup for a quart jar of fruit. Prepare sirup in advance, to be ready when needed.

Sugar and water proportions: For thin sirup use 4 to 5 cups of sugar to 1 gallon (4 quarts) of water; for moderately thin sirup, 8 cups of sugar to 1 gallon of water.

To make a sirup, boil sugar and water about 5 minutes. Remove any scum.

With honey: Sugar may be saved in canning by replacing up to half the sugar called for by an equal quantity of honey. For a thin sirup, use 2 1/2 cups of sugar and 2 1/2 cups of honey to 1 gallon of water.

With corn sirup: Corn sirup may replace up to 1-3 of the sugar called for in canning. For a thin sirup, use 3 1-3 cups of sugar and 1 2-3 cups of corn sirup.

Raw fruit may be packed into the jars and the hot sirup poured over it. Process as for a cold pack. A better pack is obtained if the fruit is precooked in the sirup, then packed into the jar and covered with the hot sirup. Process as for a hot pack.

To The Voters of Dawson County:

Due to the fact that we have been busy trying to do the work of our office as I promised you I would do when I ran before, I have been unable to see all of you and solicit your support... As previously stated, I certainly would appreciate your support in the coming election... Also, I again wish to call your attention that I am running for re-election as Sheriff on my own merits and record and not on any of the faults of any or all of my opponents...

So far we have been pretty successful in ridding our county of thieves and other law violators, thereby making it possible for you to leave your property with some feeling of security...

We cannot catch all the law violators, but I do promise that we will do every thing in our power to catch each and every one of them, big and little alike... So far, regardless of other things said about me in this race, I have never yet been called a "Quitter."

My platform is the same it has always been... HONESTY, FAIRNESS, and a lot of SERVICE.

If you approve of what I have done, and tried to do, and what you know I will continue to do, please vote for me for your Sheriff.

NEW IDEAS For Home-makers

BY RUTH WYETH SPEARS

GIVE an old wicker chair a smart cover of gay chintz and it will be ready to start a new life. The chintz for this chair has a quaint pattern of strawberries with green leaves and the skirt with its trim box pleated corners is plain green. The cover is removable with a zipper opening down the center back and long stitches with heavy thread through the cover and the wicker are used here and there to hold it neatly in place.

The padding for the inside of the back lends both style and comfort. The cotton batting is fitted and cut on the chair. It is then used for a pattern to cut a slightly larger muslin foundation and the chintz, as shown at the upper left. These three layers are then basted and stitched together to make the puffed ridges for this part of the cover. Plain seams are used to stitch the pieces of the cover together.

NOTE: Mrs. Spears' booklet No. 7 gives complete directions for making the ottoman shown in this sketch. Also more than 30 other fascinating homemaking projects, each with working drawings. If you have never made slip covers you will want Book 1, as it shows the beginner exactly how to cut, fit and sew them. Send your order to:

AN APPEAL TO DAWSON COUNTY VOTERS BY—

Ike Houston

Candidate for Sheriff, Dawson County

I do not say that all people who oppose bootlegging will support me, but I am certain a man who is the father of seven boys and two girls, that is as well known to be radically opposed to bootlegging and gambling as I am, cannot expect a single vote from a bootlegger or his sympathizers.

If you want to vote for a man who hates such things as those mentioned above, and these political machines that come out and say how you must campaign and then tell you how to run the office, then please vote for me as Sheriff of Dawson County.

Respectfully,

can secure a commission in the Navy without a college education. The time required to receive one's wings and commission is from 10 to 11 months. Flyers receive the most expensive training that can be given—it costs the government from $20,000 to $30,000 to train each pilot; you are given an education that could not be bought from any college. Also during this training you receive your clothes, lodging and meals in addition to medical care and $10,000 insurance free in addition to your pay to which an additional half month's pay is added when you begin flying. Training—You will be sent to the Navy's Pre-flight training school at Athens, Georgia, for three months physical hardening and ground school work. This 3 months training is divided into the following phases:

seamanship, ground school instruction, and physical fitness. The new physical fitness program that the Navy has set up is the finest in the world and is headed by some of the outstanding coaches in the country. Many of these coaches are from Texas—several from the Panhandle section of Texas.

All men in the Naval Aviation are potential officers and are treated as such. In case a student washes out of aviation at any time he is returned to his civilian status unless he desires to try for some other branch of the Navy.

Process of Enlistment—Come to the Navy Recruiting station, Lubbock, where you will be given your preliminary physical and mental tests before being sent to Dallas for final check and enlistment. Bring with you a birth certificate which has the seal of the county clerk or deputy; a high school transcript, from the high school which you graduated, showing your grades and when you graduated; three letters of recommendation, written on paper with a letterhead; written consent of your parents (if you are not 21 years of age) for you to join the Naval Air Corps; your picture which should be a front view of approximately 2 1/2 by 2 1/2 inches and a resume of your occupational and military experience of at least 50 words in your own handwriting. This resume should be dated and signed with your full name.

Hurry up and join the Texas Plainmen so you can go with fellows from your own section of the state to the University of Georgia Pre-flight School on August 17th.

LOUIS B. REED

for RE-ELECTION

DISTRICT JUDGE

106th Judicial District

Judge Reed has served this district faithfully and well for six years. It will be remembered that he was appointed by the Governor, confirmed by the Senate, upon the death of our beloved Judge McGuire and then was elected. He is recognized as being honest, conscientious, fair and impartial and as having given his best efforts and attention to this office. He has inaugurated many reforms, the most important of which is that of the policy of continuous terms of court. Formerly each county had only two terms per year lasting from one to five weeks. Only during that specified term could legal business ordinarily be transacted. This resulted in numerous delays working hardships upon litigants. It was expensive to the state and to the various counties. The present plan provides that district court is in session or may be in session for the transaction of legal business all the time, thus enabling the court business to be handled with promptness and dispatch.

The counties are saved heavy expense in jury service since jurors are called only when needed. It has practically put an end to the old practice of continuancy or postponements because as cases are continued or postponed, they may be called within a short time.

It is noticed that practically the only opposition circulated about Judge Reed is that he is in the military service. Judge Reed was a soldier in World War One and was commissioned before the end of the war. Upon leaving the army in 1919, he joined the Officers Reserve Corps and kept up with his army work through study and taking training on the field in summers. At the outbreak of this war, he was called into service on January 12 and is now stationed at Fort Sill, Oklahoma.

Many other judges of the state and nation have done as he has. Other state and federal officers as members of the Reserve Corps are now in military service. Laws were passed long ago and have been confirmed in the highest courts making specific provision for reserve officers to be in military service without vacating office.

Your attention is called again to the fact that Judge Reed is receiving no salary as Judge. He receives only his military salary. The salary is being paid to Judge J. E. Garland. The state is saving the expense account in Judge Reed's absence because only the salary is paid to the special judge, thus, the charge of the opposition that Judge Reed holds two remunerative positions is refuted.

Insinuations have been expressed orally and in print that his military training is inimicable to fitness for court duty. Our reply is, "The Army of the United States exercises every effort to make men fit for any duty by increasing their general knowledge and ability to perform official duties with undue loss of time and to develop ideals of public service to the highest possible degree. The army training in manners and gentlemanly conduct is unequalled in exactness and thoroughness by any other agency."

Lt. Col. Reed has been an apt student of military subjects. He has acquired skills and techniques and a gentlemanly demeanor as is indicated by his rise in rank and it is manifestly unfair to infer or to insinuate that honorable military service unfits one in the common niceties of human relationships.

Some argue that Judge Reed is away on indefinite leave. He is away by virtue of having been called to active service following the opening of the war. His friends' position is that the legally constituted authorities for selecting one to serve as district judge, namely, the respective Bar of the counties of this judicial district, can be depended upon to select a competent judge while he is away. In fact, they have selected Judge J. E. Garland, a jurist of extraordinary ability, who is an ex-soldier himself, who has a son at Pearl Harbor, and who is as patriotic as any living man.

Judge Reed, by military regulation and by virtue of his work, cannot campaign for office. He cannot be both there and here. His campaign must of necessity be conducted by friends. He appreciates beyond expression the many kind words which have been spoken and the efforts put forth in his behalf while he is away devoting his entire time and attention, all his energy, and life if necessary, that our armed forces may be successful.

(2) Submitted an old age pension Constitutional amendment to the Legislature in 1935.
(3) Made speeches asking the people to vote for it during the summer of 1935.
(4) After people had voted the amendment, he called special session of the Legislature to put the amendment into effect.
(5) Signed first old age pension bill in Texas history November 19, 1935.
(6) Called three special sessions of the Legislature in efforts to raise sufficient funds.
(7) Was always opposed by the same special interests who are now supporting O'Daniel in this race.
(8) Additional funds finally provided, effective November 1, 1936.
(9) 114 500 on pension rolls as his term ended.

- (1) Made no speeches for adoption 1934.
(2) Did not vote for it (had no poll tax).
(3) Never appeared before any of the special sessions of the Legislature asking them to raise funds for pensions.
(4) Ran for Governor in 1938 glibly promising $30 per month.
(5) Got in fight with the Legislature in 1939 over transaction tax and SBE 12, a pet sales tax measure and hence, did not raise any money.
(6) Told the Legislature to submit a better plan; they did; he went on the radio against it.
(7) Lowered pension payments $6.00 per person per month in 1939 to every person in Texas on the rolls so that the big banks could be paid off.
(8) Refused to call a special session to raise money to make it up.
(9) Was re-elected, still promising $30.
(10) In 1941, opposed the omnibus tax bill to raise taxes. He said "the law stinks." (The Legislature passed it anyhow).
(11) He signed the bill, but said that he had to hold his nose while he did it.

NOTE: All the pension money ever paid to the old folks in Texas was raised by laws passed during Governor Allred's administration; or by laws passed by the Legislature during O'Daniel's administration, but in spite of his OPPOSITION to them.

A LOOK AT THE BOOK
By DR. BOB JONES, JR.
PRESIDENT OF BOB JONES COLLEGE

God never asks a man to give up something without giving him something better in return. God called upon Abraham to leave his country and his kindred and his father's house. God asked this man of prominence and of wealth to turn his back on the friends of his childhood and the home of his youth and follow Him without knowing where he was to be led, and by faith Abraham obeyed and "went out, not knowing whither he went" (Hebrews 11:8). Because he was willing to give up the fellowship of the moon worshippers of Ur, he enjoyed the companionship of God. Because he was willing to leave the land of his parents, God gave to him for himself and for his children the land of promise. Because he thought more of doing the will of God than abiding in ease in Ur, he became the father of the faithful, the one from whose seed Messiah came. Abraham was blessed in his obedience and became a blessing to others as he obeyed.

The man who chooses to do the will of God and who obeys the command of the Lord is always blessed himself and is always a blessing to others. He becomes

To The Voters Of Dawson County:

Until this war is won and we can return home feeling that peace and our American liberties and ways of living are secure, I thank God for the privilege of giving all my time, energy and thought to making the best soldier within my power. Until such a victory is won I would rather hold my place as a common "foot" soldier than to hold the highest civil office in the land.

However when victory and peace is ours, I am anxious to return home and desire to continue to serve you as county judge. In the meantime I feel that the duties of the office are being well attended to by Judge Townsend who is not capable of military service.

I base my request for the customary second term upon my record the 15 months I served before my voluntary induction into the army, and pledge you to profit by my experience in the army as well as in the county judge's office in rendering the best service possible if you give me the second term. Under the conditions this is my only available means of making my request for your vote and influence. Thanks for your past favors.

Sincerely,

W. H. May Wins Scrap Iron Prize

TAHOKA, July 23 — (Special) — With the contribution of 16,300 pounds of scrap iron to the Lynn County drive for this metal which closed recently, Walter H. May of Wilson won the prize of a $25.00 War Bond offered by Jack Applewhite of this city to the individual or firm bringing in the largest amount of the metal.

Mr. May is one of the pioneers of this county, farms many acres of land which he owns and on which he lives a few miles north of New Lynn, and uses up-to-date machinery in his farming operations. Naturally much junk iron has accumulated on his farms during the years. So, when he finished gathering it up for Uncle Sam's use recently, he found that his scrap-iron junk pile contained more than eight tons of metal. That's enough to make several Japs sorry that they ever made that assault on Pearl Harbor.

Most of Texas reservoir capacity is in the lakes which have been constructed during recent years with federal loans and grants.

Texas largest natural lake is Lake Caddo, lying partly in Marion and Harrison Counties in Texas, and partly in Caddo Parish, La. It is 20 miles long and 16 miles wide.

More than 400 sawmills were operating in East Texas in 1940, according to the Texas Forest Service. Eleven of the sawmills produced hardwood lumber, the rest cut pine.

SADDLE and RIDE By ERNEST HAYCOX

THE STORY SO FAR: Clay Morgan has decided to play a lone hand against Ben Herendeen, a rancher bent on running the cattle country his own way. The two men have been enemies for years, having first fought over Clay's wife, Lila, who died hating him and believing she should have married Herendeen...

Now continue with the story.

CHAPTER X

On the same day Morgan returned from Sage City, Charley Hillhouse had pulled into Three Pines and reported his failure to Herendeen. Both of them had been thoroughly certain of success and now Herendeen sat in astonished silence...

"If we'd kept that damned notice down another twenty-four hours—" Herendeen said. "He was at the dance Friday night. He couldn't see it. That's why Harry Jump came to town in such a lather. What'd he pay?"

"Eleven thousand." "Why didn't you keep on?" said Herendeen, irritably. "Why didn't you know him under? My God, Charley, I send you two hundred miles for something we had to have, and you buckle up."

"You set the limit," pointed out Hillhouse. "I went to the limit and that's all I could do." "You should have figured the limit didn't mean a thing against Morgan."

Hillhouse defended himself with blunt warmth. "I'm no mind reader. I can't guess what's in your head, Ben. When you lay out something for me to do, either give me free rein or else be damned sure how you tell me to do it. He threw the cigarette away. 'Well, we've lost it.'"

"Charley," said Herendeen, "the country ain't big enough for both Morgan and me." "So it's fight," said Hillhouse, and let the long silence fall while he soberly considered the answer. He sighed a little and at last shrugged his shoulders. "Been a long time coming."

Herendeen said: "Stay clear of it, Charley, if you feel like that." Hillhouse shook his head. "No," he mused, "a man can't be half of one thing and half of another. He'd be a mighty poor man. I'll do what I got to do. If it means I lift a gun against Clay Morgan I'll do it—and God take pity on me for it."

He gave Herendeen a searching glance. "But don't make no mistakes about Clay. When you call his hand you better be ready to go right on with it. What do I say to him when he asks me to move those cows?"

"Let him worry about that." Hillhouse didn't like the answer and was on the point of saying as much when Herendeen broke in. "Right now we've got Hack Breathitt to find. Take out three-four men and beat up the country around Dell Lake."

Hillhouse hadn't heard about that. He said, "Whut's he done?" When Herendeen told him, he considered it over a long interval. Afterwards his shoulders rose and fell, expressively shaking away a good many memories. "I guess the wild bunch finally got him. Been teeterin' on the edge of crookedness a long while. Well, I'll find him."

Long as he had known Charley Hillhouse, it astonished Herendeen now that his foreman should so calmly accept the dismal chore of hunting down a man who had been one of his deep friends. Long after Hillhouse had lined out across the flats, Herendeen puzzled it around his head. As for himself, Herendeen had no scruples to explain away. He was a cattleman protecting his range by whatever means necessary, with an ambition to extend that range by whatever means necessary. A man in this land had rights if he was big enough to hold them; if he wasn't big enough then he had no rights. This was Herendeen's philosophy entirely.

But Hillhouse had in his long cool head a strange standard of right and wrong; and a zeal as passionate as that of a fanatic. This kind of man could do terrible things and feel terrible emotions. He was, Herendeen thought, like a fellow packing a stick of dynamite in his pocket—uncomfortable at times to have around.

"Next time you go over to Morgan's, don't bother to come back."

This was the extent of Herendeen's thoughts on the matter. Turning to his horse, he lined out through the Haycreek Hills, reaching Crowfoot at suppertime. He stopped here for his meal and later made a little talk on the porch with Gurd and Catherine.

"Charley pulled out this afternoon to round up a few men and scout the west side of the Moguls. We're after Breathitt. I've got Bones McGee up on the high trail, near Ketchell's."

Gurd said, "Believe I'll go sit in with Charley. Where you going?" "Toward Freeport." Gurd said: "Better be careful. That's a tough district."

Herendeen let out a huge laugh as he went to his horse. "Gurd," he said, "I never saw the man I was afraid of or the piece of brush I couldn't ride through." Late fall's twilight began to deepen around the yard; it turned the porch gray. From his horse Herendeen watched Catherine, who had said nothing at all. These shadows quenched the shining of her copper-red hair. But she was strong and shapely, the roundness of her upper body having its effect on him. Her face was a pale oval against the dark background; her eyes were very black. When she stirred, arms slowly rising behind her head and changing the shape of her silhouette, Herendeen had his moment's intense desire to get down from the horse.

Had Gurd not been there he would have done so. He only said, "See you later," and fell into the Freeport road, never forgetting how she had looked.

As soon as he had gone Catherine said to her brother: "You don't mean that, Gurd. Stay out of it. Hack has done nothing to us."

Gurd walked down the steps. "Never mind. We've got to stick together." She said: "Do you realize it is Clay's friend you're trying to kill?" "Then he had better pick better friends."

"You've changed," she said. "What's happened?" He came back up the steps and stopped before her. "Sure, I've changed." His voice was monotonous and odd. "Morgan had his chance to stick with us and didn't do it. Then let him go to the devil. He's not my friend now."

"Listen," she said, "you'd better understand me. There will never be a rider of the Crowfoot outfit sent after Hack, or used to run errands for Herendeen."

He said, "Who's running this outfit?" "You are, as long as you stick to business. What's the matter with you lately?" He seized her arm then, his face drawing near enough for her to see distrust on it.

"Next time you go over to Morgan's, don't bother to come back."

She pulled free of his arm and hit him across the face with her hand. She said, "You're a small little boy, Gurd. Why don't you try to be a man?" He shouted, "We'll see!" and jumped off the porch. A moment later he raced out of the yard, bound over the Haycreek Hills toward the west flank of the Moguls.

The clay dust of the road was a ghostly glowing ribbon unrolling between the shadowy timber banks, and as Herendeen traveled he made a perfect target for the rustlers and the fugitives and dispossessed nesters who made camp in the lost hideouts of this section. They hated all cattlemen. He knew this perfectly well and watched the black margins of the road with a sharper attention than usual, but it never occurred to him to turn back. In this man was a belief, strong as a shield of steel, that no bullet would ever reach him. This belief completely governed Ben Herendeen's life.

The road, rising from the timber, reached a small burn on which the black and gray snags of once living timber showed a stripped gaunt pattern against the swelling moonlight. Entering this barren spot Ben Herendeen caught the smell of dust, and at once squared his heavy body on the saddle, meanwhile dropping a hand to the butt of his gun. Over by the far margin of the burn he saw a horseman drift into the pearly, diffused light and halt by the road. Herendeen let his horse singlefoot forward and so came upon the waiting snags. Then he slowed down. The man said: "Ben?" Herendeen hauled in. "Nothing wrong with your eyes, Pete." Pete Borders chuckled. "How could a man miss? You throw a shape big as the side of a barn."

Herendeen said: "Late for you. Or maybe a little early." Pete Borders said in his easy, amused way: "Just enjoyin' a pretty night."

"I want to talk to you." "Fire away. I guess we have done some talkin' before." Herendeen said: "I wouldn't trust you out of sight, Pete, and if I ever caught you with one of my cows I'd hang you higher than a kite."

"Ain't ever caught me, Ben." "Remember what I'd do if I did," retorted Herendeen. "Do you steal in' in other places and we'll get along. I propose to run every hay-wire rider out of this country in short order but if you stay clear of me nothin' going to trouble you at all. I can use a fellow like you once in a while." He thought about it, letting the silence settle gently between them. Then he said: "Go up to Government Valley and work over Morgan's stuff. He's too short-handed to watch that end of his range."

"Ben," said Borders indulgently, "you sure make me ashamed for bein' a piker. You're a bigger crook than I ever thought of bein'."

"You grind your coffee in one mill and I'll grind mine in another," said Herendeen, taking no offense. "I can make it hard for you, or I can let you alone. Just work along like I said."

"Sure," said Borders. "But keep your riders away from that district at night so I won't be bumpin' into 'em. I got to cross your range."

Morgan stood with his back to the stove, gently rubbing his hands along the seat of his pants. Kern Case, grave and unmoved, murmured: "Evenin', Ben."

For the moment nothing else was said. Herendeen ignored Case, studying Morgan with his round half-eyes half-shut. He filled the doorway with his heavy legs and high, huge shoulders.

Morgan brought his hands forward, reaching for his tobacco to make up a cigarette. This was the length of the silence. When he struck a match and cupped it to his face he stared over the rim of his fingers, reading Herendeen with a steady interest. The man had swung into the room quickly, as though to surprise somebody; and he stood now with his thoughts pretty much on his face, his glance rummaging all the dark corners of the room. Morgan thought he knew the answer to that. Herendeen had expected to find Breathitt here.

Herendeen abruptly crossed the room, his weight squealing against the worn floorboards, and walked to a rear door. He turned the door's knob gently, he kicked the door open.

Kern Case's voice echoed his dislike. "Get out of there, Ben. That's my room."

Herendeen was in it, moving around slowly; he came out again. Somewhere above them a board snapped, throwing Herendeen's head instantly upward. Herendeen stared at the ceiling and back at Morgan.

"If you're here, he's here." Herendeen stared at Morgan, his lips pressed together. He was faintly smiling, hard and certain and slowly keyed-up by his temper. "He's here," he grunted. He walked on to the front door. He put his back to Morgan, watching the street.

Morgan said: "Keep your eyes open, Ben." Herendeen didn't turn. He said: "I see nothin' to be afraid of, Clay. As far as you're concerned, I never did." He stepped to the porch and wheeled around, looking upward at the second-story windows of the store. He held the hard-creased smile on his lips; he teetered on the balls of his feet and drew his gun. He fired at the window, breaking the glass, and walked into the doorway again, swinging around to watch the street.

HOUSING PROJECTS

WASHINGTON.—I spent one morning visiting low cost housing projects in and around Washington. Some of the people who were moved, because of the fact that the navy yard had to be enlarged, are in a trailer camp nearby.

On the whole, the arrangements are good. I was surprised at how wonderfully the women manage in such small quarters. In one trailer three grown people and three children were housed, and yet everything was as clean and neat as possible. The camp is divided into two units. Each has a utility building where laundry can be done, and showers and sanitary toilets.

I did not see any of the new demountable houses which are to house so many defense workers. Property owners have in many cases objected strongly to having these houses go up in their neighborhood for fear of lowering the values. But since these houses are demountable and are to be sold at the end of the emergency and taken somewhere else, I do not feel the danger is very great.

The other sites I visited are all under the direction of the Army Dwelling authority. I came away with a great sense of pride in the effort which people make to improve their living conditions just as soon as they have anything with which to work.

JAPANESE IN U. S.

The first Congregational church in Berkeley, Calif., has taken a great interest in the American-born Japanese who have had to move further inland. The following story was sent to me by them: "Arriving in Tanforan with only the clothes he wore, Bill Kockiyama, 21, last week received a $2,000 inheritance from a former stage and screen actress, for whom his father had worked for the past 20 years. Kockiyama came from New York city in 1940 to attend the University of California. At Tanforan he is a mess hall worker. After deducting income taxes I purchased $1,900 in war bonds in order to do my part in the war effort," Kockiyama stated. Eventually he hopes to use the money invested to continue his education."

CHILDREN'S HEARING

In my mail has come a letter from Dr. Morkovin, who is director of the hearing clinic of the University of Southern California. He writes that there are some three million hard-of-hearing children in this country, whose loss of hearing is discovered far too late for complete cure. This is largely due to the fact that mothers do not realize that complications which develop hearing often arise after measles, whooping cough, infantile paralysis and other children's diseases.

Public opinion is indifferent to the fact that the hearing handicap may be a great deterrent to the development of the child. Therefore there are no state or federal agencies which care especially for hard-of-hearing children and they are not included in the benefits of the Crippled Children act. If we know how much could be done, there would be a weight of public opinion in favor of watching for any signs of impaired hearing in small children.

THE FORTY PLUS

I find that I am not the only person who is concerned about employment of older people. There is an organization called "The Forty Plus," which has branches in many of the big cities. It originated, I think, in Boston. But the most recent letter I have had comes to me from Pittsburgh, Pa.

The president, Mr. George Sheridan, writes: "The club was originally formed with the idea of relieving a situation then thought to have been brought about by the depression and with the hope in mind that as conditions improved, the situation would automatically take care of itself and that men with the ability of our members would find no difficulty in securing positions."

"To a certain extent this has been true, and we feel we have had good success, having placed 571 men since our organization was formed in Pittsburgh in July, 1939, to the present time; but we are still meeting with and endeavoring to overcome, a prejudice to hiring men over 40 years of age. We are trying to correct an impression on the part of many employers that the ability and capacity for work of men over that age is less than that of younger men."

WAR TIME SCHEDULES

NEW YORK CITY.—One day I came up by plane to New York city. I was interested to find that between Washington and New York city there were a number of empty seats, so I think the young man was right who urged me to give up traveling by plane.

I wasn't actually told I could have a seat until an hour before the plane left. However, I didn't have anything so vital to do for an hour after reaching New York city and a little uncertainty didn't matter.

We Can All Be EXPERT BUYERS

In bringing us buying information, as to prices that are being asked for what we intend to buy, and as to the quality we can expect, the advertising columns of this newspaper perform a worth while service which saves us many dollars a year. It is a good habit to form, the habit of consulting the advertisements every time we make a purchase, though we have already decided just what we want and where we are going to buy it. It gives us the most priceless feeling in the world: the feeling of being adequately prepared. When we go into a store, prepared beforehand with knowledge of what is offered and at what price, we go as an expert buyer, filled with self-confidence. It is a pleasant feeling to have, the feeling of adequacy. Most of the unhappiness in the world can be traced to a lack of this feeling. This advertising shows another of its manifold facets—shows itself as an aid towards making all our business relationships more secure and pleasant.

Old Age Pensions Are Paid In Full

AUSTIN, July 16 — State Auditor C. H. Cavness reported today, after his current examination of the records, that in his opinion all taxes collected for the Old Age Assistance Fund have been properly handled by the State Comptroller and State Treasurer and that every individual old age assistance applicant who has been duly certified by the State Department of Public Welfare has been paid in full the entire amount to which he is legally entitled to date. The State Auditor pointed out that under the present Federal law, with which the State must conform, all monthly payments to each individual are fixed by the Department of Public Welfare after investigation of each case to determine actual individual need. He said that the amount of the cash balance that may be on hand cannot legally be used to increase the size of the checks — that any excess cash over the amount necessary to pay the ones on the roll can be used only to increase the number, and that the total cash balance after the July 1942 checks had been written was only $15,813.96. Cavness also stated that 176,413 Old Age Assistance checks were is-ued for July 1942, or an average of $19.86 per check. In July 1941 checks were issued to 144,359 old people — average $18.54. This is an increase in 12 months of 32,054 checks and $1.32 in their average monthly amount. Since January 1941 the lowest average check was $11.47 in May 1941 and July 1942 was the highest, the average having increased somewhat every month since June 1941.

SON BOB: It's Conoco Nth motor oil and the ad tells how the six engines were run to destruction in a Certified Death Valley Test. Conoco Nth made twice the mileage averaged by the five other big-name oils.

Admirals may be admirable, but that isn't where the word comes from. It comes from an old Arabic word "amir-al" meaning "commander of." Prepare for Winter With Delicious Canned Fruit
(See Recipes Below.)

Fruit Canning

Plan now to put up those fruits from the market or your victory garden while you can still capture their garden-freshness and summer sweetness. This year's canning will require more careful planning than ever before, for waste in the fruit itself, canning jars, rubbers or sugar is highly undesirable.

Chart your plans before embarking on the canning program. Consider first how much sugar you will have available, with the five pounds per person allotment for people who are canning. Plan this amount so it will do for the jams, jellies, preserves, and sugar syrups for fruit canning.

If possible, can in the early morning hours when you are rested and your mind free from too many other thoughts. You will then be able to follow recipes more carefully, to work with more energy and spirit. The day before you will, if you are the bright and alert homemaker, have gathered together your jars, washed them, bought necessary supplies of rubbers and covers and other equipment.

Bring out the preserving kettles and pressure cookers, too. See that they are well scoured, that you have the racks, petcocks, pressure gauge, and steam-tight cover on the pressure cooker well in order.

A hot water bath is best for processing fruits because they are acid. They can safely at high temperatures, and texture, flavor and color are best. Oven canning is good also. For the hot water bath, use a large wash boiler or vessel with tight fitting cover. Fit this with a rack at least 1/2 inch from the bottom. Fill the rack with enough water to cover jars at least one inch over the top. Count the processing time as soon as water surrounding the jars begins to boil. There should be free circulation of water around jars.

For oven canning, set the temperature at 250 degrees. Set jars on a rack in the cold oven, however. Start counting time when oven is switched or turned on. Do not allow the temperature ever to exceed 250 degrees as this causes liquid to boil away and evaporate.

In placing your jars in the oven, allow for free circulation of heat between them. Do not allow the jars to touch each other, as this will often cause breakage, and do not allow them to come in contact with the sides of the oven.

If liquid evaporates during the processing in the oven, do not fill the jars after you take them out. Some evaporation does not affect successful canning of the fruit.

The Sugar Question.
Fruit may be canned successfully without sugar or sugar syrup with water or fruit juice used in its place. Sugar, however, does mellow and ripen the fruit, giving it a better flavor. You might try making your fruit syrups for fruit canning less sweet than usual if you are short on sugar.

Honey may be used in place of sugar in making the sweet syrup, but the fruit will be somewhat more dark than if sugar is used and the fruit flavor will be intensified. Use honey for each cup of sugar in the substitution.

Lynn Says:

How many jars are you putting up of the fruits? Here's a guide to help you pick out jars:
Cherries: 9 baskets yield 2 pints pitted, 7 pints, if whole.
Peaches: 2 1/4 pounds (small basket) yields 1 quart.
Plums: 1 14-pound basket yields 25 pints.
Strawberries: 1 crate yields 26 pints, if canned whole; 31 (7 1/2-ounce) glasses of jam.

White corn syrup is another acceptable substitute, but since it is less sweet than sugar, substitute 1 1/2 cups of corn syrup for 1 cup of sugar.

Syrups to Use.
Thin syrups (No. 1) are used for small, soft fruits such as cherries and berries. Make the syrup by using three parts of water to one part of sugar.

Medium syrup (No. 2) does best by sour berries, acid fruits as cherries and rhubarb, and peaches. Boil two parts of water with one part of sugar.

Heavy syrup (No. 3) is prescribed for the large, sour fruits in which you desire extra sweetness. Measure one part water to one part sugar and bring to a boil.

Apples or Pears. (Hot Pack)

Wash, pare, core uniform-sized apples and cut to desired sizes. (If fruit is to stand long enough to discolor, drop into water which has been slightly salted, until ready to use.) Drain from brine. Boil 3 to 5 minutes in a medium syrup and pack into clean jars, filling with syrup to 1/2 inch of the top. Put on cap, screw band tight, process in hot water bath 25 minutes, or in the oven (at 250 degrees) 75 minutes. If using a pressure cooker, process at 5 pounds for 10 minutes.

Apples or Pears. (Open Kettle)

Select uniform fruit, wash, pare and core. Cut into halves or slices. Drop into boiling No. 1 syrup, and boil for 20 minutes. Pack into clean, hot, sterilized jars and seal tight.

Peaches. (Open Kettle)

Select firm, ripe peaches. Peel or dip peaches in hot water, then in cold and slip off peel. Leave whole or cut in halves or slices. Boil 20 minutes in No. 2 or 3 syrup, and pack in clean, hot, sterilized jars. Seal tightly.

Peaches. (Hot Pack)

Prepare as above, removing peel and pits. Precook for 3 minutes, then pack into clean jars, add syrup to within 1/2 inch of the top. Put on top, screw on firmly, and process in a hot water bath for 20 minutes, or in the pressure cooker for 10 minutes at 5 pounds, or in the oven (250 degrees) for 68 minutes.

Plums. (Hot Pack)

Use the same method and time as for peaches, except do not peel the fruit, merely prick the skins.

Berries. (Cold Pack)
(Except strawberries and cranberries)

Wash, stem and pack berries. Pack into clean jars and add No. 2 or 3 syrup. Put on cap, screw tightly. Process in hot water bath 20 minutes or in pressure cooker 8 minutes at 5 pounds or in the oven at 250 degrees for 68 minutes.

Cherries. (Cold Pack)

Wash, stem and pit cherries, if desired. Pack into well cleaned jars, fill with No. 2 or 3 syrup depending on the sweetness desired. Put on cap and fasten tightly. Process 20 minutes in a hot water bath, 10 minutes in the pressure cooker at 5 pounds, or 68 minutes in a 250-degree oven.

NOAH: GOD'S COVENANT WITH MANKIND

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 9:1-16.
GOLDEN TEXT—I will remember my covenant.—Genesis 9:15.

God does not forget. He keeps His promises now just as He did in the days of Noah. Since our lesson of last Sunday, a long period of time had elapsed. Generation after generation had come and gone, and all the while man grew more and more wicked. Finally, God saw that He must put an end to the corruption of the human race, saving just one righteous family, that of Noah, with which to begin anew.

He warned Noah of the judgment of the flood, and he in turn doubtless warned others, but finally the day came when God shut him in the ark and poured forth the waters of judgment upon the then inhabited earth. But the same God who shut Noah in (Gen. 7:1), in due time called him out (Gen. 8:15, 16).

Noah had obeyed God, and He now rewarded him. The man who had borne the ridicule was now honored by Him. The experience of Noah brings before us—

God's Three Gifts to a Believing Man:

I. Power (vv. 1-4).

Man is the "lord of creation," not because he has brought about its subjection, but because God gave him that power. It was first given to Adam (Gen. 1:26), and it is renewed here, with the additional promise of the animal as food. This was not to be, however, after the manner of wild beasts (v. 4).

No man ever lost anything by obeying the commands of God, even though appearances may seem to so indicate. The ridicule of those who called Noah foolish for obeying God, had now been silenced by the judgment of the flood, and he stood forth vindicated, empowered by God, with authority over the whole earth.

Faith is still the victory. Men who put their hopes in the kings and empires of this earth have seen them "rise and wane," and even unbelievers are beginning to talk about the necessity of a spiritual anchorage for the souls of men. It is found only in Christ, but in Him is found both peace and power for victorious living.

But we see a second gift of God—

II. Protection (vv. 5-7).

Human life is not as cheap as men would have us think. Their estimate based on greed and lust for power makes man but a unit in a machine designed to build up political power. The blood of those who are not profitable to such an enterprise, is shed in utter callousness.

Those who do such things, need to read the words of God, "Whoso sheddeth man's blood, by man shall his blood be shed: for in the image of God made he man" (v. 6). What a tremendous bill some men will have to pay when they stand before the seat of judgment of our God. Even the animals who kill men are to be slain (v. 5). How much greater shall be the condemnation of the man who violates God's command.

But we see a third gift of God, designed to remove a deep fear from his heart, namely God's—

III. Promise (vv. 8-16).

God made a covenant with Noah and with his descendants and every living creature (vv. 9, 10). This is the third of God's eight covenants with man, beginning with the one to Adam in the Garden of Eden (Gen. 1:28), and closing with the new covenant (Heb. 8:8).

This was a promise of God's grace that there should be no more judgment by flood, and as a sign He chose the rainbow, which, appearing in the very time when rain should fall, would reassure men that a new flood was not coming upon them. What a beautiful symbol!

"I will remember," said God, and He has not forgotten. Though thousands of years have passed, there has never since been such a cataclysm of judgment. How unspeakably precious it is to recall that God has not forgotten a single one of us; that He remembers every promise He has ever made; that He keeps every covenant. And on the contrary, how disturbing it must be to the unbeliever to realize that God has not forgotten his sin and unbelief, nor the judgment which is sure to come.

The story of Noah should stimulate our faith, causing us to trust God, to obey His every command, and to look to Him for His power in our lives. His protection over us, His promise of grace to all who believe.

Faithful in Small Things

Duty, be it in a small matter or a great, is duty still, the command of Heaven, the eldest voice of God; and it is only they who are faithful in a few things who will be faithful over many things. Only they who do their duty in everyday matters will fulfill them on great occasions.—Charles Kingsley.

PATTERNS SEWING CIRCLE

WHAT a practical idea there is in this cunning small outfit for little girls! Off with the jacket and you have a cunning play dress without sleeves—so that it permits rollicking freedom and plenty of healthy sun tan. It is a dress which your daughter can wear in comfort for hours of back-yard play, beach games and farm life!

The jacket which dramatically transforms the princess frock into a smart street outfit is just waist length, has tiny short sleeves and a simple square neck. You'll like the effect if you apply to the skirt two bands of the material you use in the jacket. Band the panties, too, to complete the cheerful ensemble. Pattern No. 1607-B gives you complete instructions for making each of the three pieces.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1607-B is designed for sizes 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6 years. Size 3 years dress requires 1 1/2 yards of 35- or 39-inch material, bolero plus bands for dress and panties, 3/4 yard and panties, 3/4 yard.

New Dirndl.

A SLICK new long torso frock with a swish skirt—and just shoulder ruffles for sleeves—is ideal for summer wear. You can have sleeves, if you want them, and a bright row of braid to bring attention to the flattering low-cut neckline—as you can see in our Ravel the thread from an old silk stocking and use it for catching and mending runners in other hose. It is stronger and less noticeable than darning thread.

Flower pots can be made from buckets or cans. Paint them, paste on magazine pictures in color and then shellac.

To keep coat buttons from tearing out, sew a smaller button on the under side, running the thread through both.

To keep fish from breaking when cooking, put the pieces in hot fat with skin side uppermost and allow them to brown before turning.

When stewing dried fruits, the addition of a small amount of lemon rind will give a better flavor.

Shake your turkish towels vigorously before hanging up to dry. This removes wrinkles and raises the nap.

If you cannot get candleholders for the birthday cake, decorate top with marshmallows and stick a candle into each one.

Put your kitchen table on casters. You then can roll it where you want it and save yourself many steps.

Clean your oil mops in hot water to which has been added washing powder, with a little ammonia.

Find the Scrap to Eliminate the Jap

J. Fuller Pep

By JERRY LINK

Nothing much gets by Old Judge Wiggins! "Fuller," he says to me, "just about the only thing that can keep on growing without nourishment is some folks' conceit."

And speakin' o' nourishment reminds me that you got to get all your vitamins. That's why I keep tellin' folks about KELLOGG'S PEP. 'Course PEP hasn't all the vitamins. But it's extra-rich in the two most likely to be short in ordinary meals—vitamins B and D. And PEP's a jim-dandy tastin' cereal, too. Why not try it tomorrow?

A delicious cereal that supplies per serving (1 oz.) the full minimum daily need of vitamin D; 1/4 the daily need of vitamin B.

I respectfully solicit your support in the election Saturday and if elected I shall again try to show my appreciation by rendering you the best service of which I am capable.

On account of my duties and of the necessity to conserve tires in compliance with the request of our Government, I have not been able to make a house-to-house canvass this year and have not seen all of you, but I want you to know that I will appreciate your vote and influence just the same.
