G. I. SCHOOL SLATED FOR O'DONNELL

G. I. Agricultural and Distributive Education is a fact for Lynn County War Veterans. The school is under the supervision of the County School Superintendent, Lenore M. Tunnell, Coordinator and the County Board of Education consisting of J. K. Applewhite of Tahoka, B. M. Haynes of O'Donnell, W. W. Caswell of Draw, H. B. Crosby of Wilson and Fritz Speckman of New Home.

Some forty Lynn County veterans have received their eligibility certificates and are ready to start. School will begin October 1st. Cleveland Littlepage, a graduate of Texas Tech and holder of a Smith-Hughes certificate will teach the Agricultural school for the South half of the County. As the school grows teachers will be employed. Veterans living in Draw, Joe Bailey O'Donnell, New Moore, and Wells will attend the school in the south half of the county.

If you have not sent off your discharge, marriage certificate and the form you receive from your service officer, do so immediately if you plan to receive your $90 a month if married and $65 if single for attending school.

Each agricultural G. I. student must have his own farm or a rental agreement (written) with either his father or the land owner. A committee of four members will pass on the eligibility of each farm. Levi Gray and Don Turner will pass on the farms in the South Half of the County.

A class in distributive education for O'Donnell is being worked out for the veterans who are not farmers; more details will follow for this group.

Traveling Libraries Enrich Rural Community Life

How traveling libraries are bringing education and recreation to farm folks living in rural areas surrounding small towns is described in an article in nationally circulated Capper's Farmer. Five years ago an active county library didn't exist in the state. Now there are three—in Adams, Grant and Phelps counties. And in other states rural library service is also expanding.

Five years ago an active county library didn't exist in the state, according to Mrs. Alfred L. Anderson. Now there are three—in Adams, Grant and Phelps counties. And in other states rural library service is expanding.

In 1940, Phelps county got a bookmobile. The city library board and the librarian in Holdrege, the county seat, were co-operative, the Capper's Farmer article points out. Subsequently the joint Holdrege Carnegie-Phelps County Library was formed with headquarters in the city library building.

The bookmobile is a complete library built on a truck chassis. It serves more than half the county's population. It holds about 1,000 books and makes stops every two weeks at 39 stations. TREASURE OF THE SEA

BY George E. Walsh W.N.U. Release

THE STORY SO FAR:
The crew of a small sailing vessel in the Caribbean pick up Dick Jordan, a man who realizes that he is better off as a pirate than as a sailor. He joins a drifting schooner with only two people aboard, the deposed captain and his daughter, Rose. Tucu and his pirates capture the ship and take Dick and Rose. After a fruitless search for the "treasure" supposed to be on the schooner, Tucu goes to rescue Rose from two of the pirates. Rose tells Dick the treasure really exists. Next day they plan how to sail the schooner to land.

CHAPTER IX

A noise from the cabin interrupted, and Rose turned swiftly. "It's Father. He needs me."

Dick remained on the deck, watching the tantalizing object with new interest.

Rose suddenly came out of the cabin, and approached him in great agitation. Her eyes were glistening, and her whole face seemed aflame with some powerful emotion that transformed her into a radiant creature.

"Dick," she called eagerly before reaching his side. "Dick, it's happened—the miracle! I can hardly believe it, but—"

She stopped, trembling all over, her hands clasped in the attitude of prayer. He was by her side instantly, more startled by her happiness than by any fear that he had seen written there before.

"What is it, Rose?" he asked anxiously, catching one of her fluttering hands in both of his.

"It's Father," she breathed softly. "Is he—dead?"

The question came out before he had time to think—abruptly, and without premeditation.

"Dead!" she repeated, and then laughed softly. "Dead! No! He's just come to life. He's sane again. Dick. He knows me—remembers everything! He's—he's—"

The tears bubbled from her eyes and rolled down her cheeks; but they were the tears of joy and relief and not of fear or desperation. Dick held one hand and supported her trembling form with an arm.

"I'm silly!" she laughed hysterically, smiling through the tears. "But I can't help it! And I don't care! I can cry for happiness, can't I?"

He barely resisted the temptation to sweep her into his arms and kiss the pouting lips.

"Come," she added a moment later, clutching his arms. "Come and see the miracle."

In the cabin Dick found a much changed man lying on the bed where he had helped put him the night before. The feverish red had faded out of the face, and the eyes, inspecting him critically, were as sane as any man's. The blow of the Carib's bludgeon had restored to Captain Bedford his reason. Rose had partly prepared him for meeting Dick by explaining briefly the series of events that had taken place while his mind was under a cloud. He extended a hand suddenly, and said:

"I've saved my little girl's life, I understand. Then—then you can count on me as an everlasting friend."

"I don't know what Rose's been telling you, Captain, but I'll bet she never told you how she saved my life. Let me tell you."

The girl placed a hand before his lips, but he removed it, and went into details of their adventures that she had either omitted or slurred over. At the end, Captain Bedford sat up.

"I reckon now," he said, "I'm all cured. That little girl o' mine's just like—just like her mother."

"Then her mother must have been a wonder," smiled Dick.

"She was!" was the solemn report.

"Over there," replied Rose, pointing.

Until then none of them had glanced in the direction of the puzzling object that had caused them so much debate, but when their eyes focused on it now they gave a little start. Captain Bedford grunted and recovered his voice first.

"Ye call that a ship!" he snorted. "Great Jehosaphat, ain't ye got eyes! That's land! An island!"

It was an island—rising abruptly from the sea—not one of your coral-encrusted, palm-fringed islands of the tropics, but of rock-butressed headland that caught the breaking surf and hurled it back shattered into foam. Perhaps a mile or two in width, and fifty feet high, it offered a safe asylum for shipwrecked sailors in the stormiest weather, could a safe landing be effected.

"We're drifting straight toward the island," Dick remarked. "In a couple of hours we'll reach it. Any danger of being wrecked on those rocks?"

"If we could work around to the other side o' the island," muttered the skipper, "we'd be safer."

After much awkward and difficult maneuvering, they brought the ship to safety in a sheltered cove.

Captain Bedford was anxious to begin making repairs so the Betty could sail out of her prison at the earliest possible time. "We can't reckon on more'n a week of fine weather," he said. "An' we got about all we can do to get off afore that."

Dick's curiosity to land on the island and survey the scene from the top of the cliffs was greater than any fear of future disaster. "I'm going ashore," he announced.

"What fur?" growled the skipper. "Ye won't see anythin' but water an' an island, an' ye can see them here."

"The island may be inhabited on the other side."

Captain Bedford snorted. "Ye expect to find a hotel an' a ship waitin' to take ye home?"

Dick shook his head and laughed. "No, but I'm curious to climb up there and get a look. I won't be gone long."

When he was near the summit, he increased his pace, eager to get a glimpse over the top.

"Great Jehosaphat, ain't you got eyes! That's land! An island!"

The island was long and narrow, with the opposite side disappearing in the sea gradually, a fine sandy beach fringing half of it in the shape of a crescent horseshoe. The descent from the rocks to the beach was sharp and abrupt. One could make it in a brisk run or walk.

Dick took this all in swiftly like the flash of a cinematograph. The sea came to a sharp halt on an object in the cove formed by the crescent beach. With a quick intake of the breath, he exploded:

"The lugger! Tucu's crew's on the island!"

The lugger was anchored near the beach where she had probably ridden out the storm in perfect safety. Tucu had known of the island and its protecting cove. The sails were flapping idly in the breeze, stretched for drying in the warm sun. The deck was deserted. There was no sign of any one aboard.

Dick Makes Another Dismaying Discovery

But this was easily accounted for by the presence of two boats drawn up on the sands. The crew was all ashore. Dick could see them in scattered groups. A sudden fear that they had discovered the Betty on the opposite side of the island, and were preparing to attack her from the land side, made him wary and watchful. He ducked a little lower to avoid any possible detection.

Then his eyes took in other features of the beach. Some distance back from the water where the rocks broke through the sand, another group of seamen were huddled together. They were standing in an attitude of watchfulness and waiting. One of their number was advancing to confer with the Caribs.

Dick gazed in puzzled surprise and stupefied amazement. These others were white men—seamen, shipwrecks! He could make that out without difficulty. It flashed through his mind they had been wrecked on the island, and were bargaining with Tucu to take them off.

There were seven in all, counting their leader who was parleying with the Caribs. Dick frowned for no other reason than that something in their appearance, or in their leader's attitude, reminded him of the past and for a long time he was silent and thoughtful, striving to recall a fleeting memory that disturbed him.

Then with a little grunt, he sat up, shaded his eyes with both hands, and crouched as motionless as a tiger stalking his prey. His breath came in short, labored gasps.

"Hen Pettigrew!" his lips murmured finally.

The explanation of the group of white men on the beach was all comprehensible. One of the boats of the City of Bahia had landed on the island or been wrecked there.

The discovery was not pleasant to Dick. His recognition of the man who had pursued him half around a continent, shadowing him as persistently as a bulldog, and finally capturing him in a small, out of the way corner of the earth, gave him a distinct shock. With a quiver, he recalled Hen's parting words:

"If we meet again—on shore—I'll pinch you. It's my duty."

He glanced back of him. The schooner was resting quietly in its protecting prison, rising and falling lazily. On the deck Captain Bedford was busy making repairs to the sails and rigging, preparing for escape before another storm came. Dick stood alone at the bow, and as Dick looked she waved to him.

He groaned and waved back to her. Then violent words sprang to his lips. "Damn Hen! He shan't take me! I'll kill him first! It isn't fair! I've paid—paid enough for another's crime! I'll die fighting for freedom! Damn it, I'll jump into the sea first!"

Rose was still waving to him, cupping her hands occasionally as if shouting words of encouragement. He listened, but the distance was too far to catch her voice.

Suddenly the fit of angry passion deserted him, leaving him limp and weak. He groaned aloud: "She will know! Hen will tell her! I can't escape it!"

Her name sprang to his lips, and with a cry of anguish he dropped his head on the hard rocks. The inevitable fate that had pursued him was closing about him, and he was glad now that he hadn't spoken to her. He shivered at the thought. At least he had saved her that humiliation.

When he glanced up again his mind was calmer and his white face, drawn and strained, had less of the rebellious lines in it. The men on the beach were still parleying. Dick wondered what sort of bargain they could make with Tucu. The old pirate would demand all he could get and take it. Tucu was like Hen—inexorable and greedy.

While he looked the parley suddenly terminated, and Captain Tucu, who had been conversing with Hen, turned on his heels to walk back to his waiting Caribs; but half way there he wheeled so swiftly that Hen was taken off his guard. There was a puff of smoke, and a sharp report. Hen Pettigrew staggered back and nearly fell, reeling as if suddenly bereft of all powers of locomotion.

At the same instant a group of Caribs, led by Black Burley, started forward on the run, firing as they came. Dick saw Pettigrew reel again, and this time pitch head first into the sand. The Caribs rushed past him, filling the air with their shots.

Dick waited to hear the returning volley from the white seamen, as the Caribs advanced, dodging from side to side, but no response came from them. Tucu had armed every one of his crew but they were poor shots.

The attacking party was within a stone's throw of the breastwork, and still the white men held their fire. Ten feet nearer, and the sailors rose as one man. Dick held his breath, expecting a withering volley from them; but instead a shower of rocks and stones filled the air.

Two of the Caribs went down, and a third stumbled and halted. The others dropped to the beach to escape the flying missiles, and the attack was temporarily checked.

"Why don't they shoot now?" growled Dick. "They could get them if—"

He stopped and drew a deep breath as the unpleasant explanation forced itself sharply upon his mind. The seamen from the wrecked steamer carried no firearms, or if they had taken them away with them, as Hen must have taken his, the salt water had rendered them useless. They were unarmed, except for the stones, while the Caribs were plentifully supplied with guns.

Dick's hand reached for his own pistol, and then dropped limply to his side. Captain Tucu had disarmed him when he was made a prisoner, and Dick hadn't found any substitute weapons. Were there more firearms aboard the Betty? Probably not; Captain Tucu had robbed the schooner of every weapon he could lay his hands on.

With a groan at his impotence, he turned back to the beach. The Caribs were attacking again.

Stones Poor Weapons Against Guns

"They're waiting until the Caribs are nearer," Dick mused joyfully. "I wish—a little regretfully—"Hen was there. Hen's a dead shot."

Nearer and nearer came the Caribs to the entrenched fortress of the seamen. Dick noticed for the first time they were protected by a rampart of rocks they had gathered for a breastwork.

"Hen's work," he chuckled. "Hen's shrewd in a fight. Didn't trust old Tucu."

This black wool suit with an almond-colored jacket from Joseph Halpert's collection shows the Chinese influence in the collar. The suit has new fall sleeves gathered slightly at the shoulders. The waistline is slit at the flaps.

IF YOU'RE considering the purchase of a coat for this season, you'll soon realize that the outlay for the coat represents the largest single outlay for one item in the clothes budget.

Contrary to what people think, a coat is no harder to make at home than a dress. Working with woolen material is a pleasure provided they are not too heavy to run through the machine easily, and you will have a real sense of accomplishment if you can make your own coat.

Before you select the material, choose a pattern. Look them over closely as coats may be very similar in style, but some are harder to make than others. Select the pattern with easy construction. After the pattern has been chosen, follow the guide for material so you will have an appropriate fabric for the style. A dressy coat style will not look good in a plaid, etc.

Just a word about the size to choose. If you wear a size 14 dress, then that is your coat size. Pattern makers always try on the finished garment with a dress, so you needn't worry that it will be too tight when worn with a dress.

If you want a coat to wear with your suits, select a loose, sporty type, one with full sleeves and full back, so that it will fit well over a suit which is naturally more bulky than a sheer dress.

Tips Given for Easy Sewing

A large table is one of the best assets which a home seamstress can have. Select a table without cracks or bucking as it will enable you to lay the fabric smooth, and simplify cutting.

If you have a dress form, this, too, will make fitting easier. Have a good pair of sharp shears (this is especially important when cutting on wool, as the fabric offers less resistance than cottons, rayons or combinations of those two), and a full length mirror right in the room where you sew.

You, who have an old coat no longer wearable, may find that the lining or interlining in that coat is still in good condition. Having this already made, with only a little fitting necessary to place it in the new coat, will save lots of time and work. Remove the lining carefully and hang aside until ready to use. Be sure to brush off any stray threads.

Adjust the pattern to yourself before cutting out the coat as this will save many hours of fitting and re-cutting and sewing. Make sure the sleeves and length of the coat are proper for you.

A good rule to follow is to pin before basting and fit before sewing. Once basted the coat will look on you as it would when the final sewing is completed. How much better it is to make alterations without having to rip out fine machine stitching!

Do Detail Sewing As in Dress

Are you surprised to learn that sleeves in a coat are put in much the same way as in a dress? Well, they are. Insert the padding before you fit in the sleeves, then attach them at the shoulder. Any gathering should come at the top of the shoulder rather than underneath.

Then making a dress.

When you fit the coat for sleeves, see that they hang straight, and look to the coat closing to see

Bits and Pieces

If you make cretonne slipcovers, save all the odd bits of material and use them for making shopping bags, sewing bags, shoe bags and clothespin holders.

Make water-resistant aprons from old oilcloth. They are handy when washing dishes.

Old dagnask tablecloths are excellent when dyed and recut into dirndl skirts. They can also be used for attractive but simple place mats or extra napkins.

Worn-out pillow cases are very good for covering clothes that are put away for storage. It prevents dust from accumulating on the shoulders of garments where they're most susceptible.

Fashion Forecast

Colors that continue to be seen as definite possibilities for the season are grays and off-whites. These are often accented with muted white or rich, bright jewel tones.

Everything about the fall costume has the slim look except sleeves, which are definitely full. Sleeves will drape and balloon. The melon and leg of mutton sleeves are very popular.

Slim waistlines and dropped hemlines are high fashion news, as is skirt draping. With short sleeves and sleeveless dresses, the gloves worn are short length ones.

You'll remember World War I when you look at some of the new skirts. There are slim tubular ones and others with the draped panier so popular then, and incidentally, now.

On Record

"Freedom is more honest than government and so much more productive." This proverb might be added appropriately and soon to the ever-growing lexicon of "immortal words." It came from the lips of Ralph W. Gwinn of Bronnville, N. Y., toward the end of a speech he made in Congress, last April 16. The address was a review of 40 centuries of price fixing by governments.

Down through the ages, Rep. Gwinn traced the dismal trail of political price pegging from King Hammurabi of Babylon, who died 2,242 years before Christ, to our own Chester Bowles. Each successive effort went to pot. The oldest pile of wreckage, marking a turn where some self-confident ruler locked his economic steering wheel, was in ancient Babylon.

And Many Others
Babylon was not the last nor the worst. Another notable catastrophe took place about 900 years later as a result of the wage and price freezing provisions of the Hittite Code. Popular pressure in Asia Minor influenced this case, but served to prove how even the ancient rulers ran afoul of their resentment against their impractical tinkering with freedom of private enterprise.

France's egoistic Philip IV took prices in hand and created a painful scarcity of bread and clothing six centuries before Hitler. Three or more English kings took turns at issuing edicts against natural laws, no less silly than Canute's ordering the tides not to come in. Without fail, price control systems have finally created scarcity instead of improving production.

The Emperor's OPA
The congressman's most colorful example was Rome. About 300 years before the birth of Christ, Emperor Diocletian set up a sort of OPA for the whole Roman Empire. Propaganda went out first, in an effort to sell the public on the idea that rulers were much smarter than mere people. After the edict, came a record-breaking swarm of ministers and magistrates to enforce prices.

Did the emperor make his prices hold? He did not! He fixed a death penalty on people who bought or sold above the ceiling but Diocletian had his little undercover problems like all the others who went in for governmental price manipulation. Not many "offenders" were executed. Magistrates took bribes, prices rose anyhow and overflowed into black markets without number.

Taxes Climbed Higher
An interesting sidelight on the Roman affair was that all kinds of building stopped, arts and sciences fell into decay to such an extent that people almost forgot about excellence. They fashioned and used makeshifts exclusively. Good craftsmen went jobless, big business men went bankrupt and hungry. And Rome fell.

But before the final collapse, before the tramp of armed aliens is heard in the streets, rulers, who have ruined the wealth of their country and the prosperity of their subjects, run out of money themselves. A hungry and angry people chased Diocletian out of Rome but his evil work was done. Taxes were devastating until Rome was a ruin. History has not one price-fixing plan fit to copy, here or anywhere.

More than $3 million worth of automobiles are owned by the State government -- and the expense of operating this tremendous fleet of cars is just about equal to the entire cost of running the State government when Pat M. Neff was Governor.

One of the most impressive sights of Texas: the ancient oaks, hung with moss, in Columbus. Some of these huge trees are said to be 600 years old; they were casting a shade and furnishing a haven for birds a century and half before Columbus set sail. One stands in awe before such antiquity as he realizes the fleetness of human life.

LOCAL FARMER GROWS PEAS

D. J. Jones, who owns a section of land out four miles west of O'Donnell and who has not been too long from East Texas, where much attention is paid to the growing of blackeyed peas, has a "patch" of some 30 acres planted to the life-giving legumes this year.

Much of the Jones place is of a very sandy soil type and is difficult to handle in the growing of any sort of crop. But Mr. Jones seems to have made a go of it. He reports that peas have a way of coming right on up thru sand much better than does cotton or feedstuff. As we passed the farm last week, a large cattle truck was being loaded as pickers were busy filling their cotton sacks with peas. Some 20,000 pounds were transported by truck to an Oklahoma cannery. Jones said he was well pleased with the prices being paid by the canneries. Canneries will doubtless soon be established in this immediate area since there is hardly a limit to the amount of peas and kindred products which can be put on the market here even during dry years.

German U boats sunk 33 ships in the Gulf of Mexico in 1942 and 43. First Texas settlers found Indian rubber trees growing wild along Colorado river near Austin.

Turn Back

Three easy steps will degrade a self-governing people to the level of dictatorship; (1) to planned economy (2) to government control.

America has already taken the first step. War pushed central planning upon us, and people who like it are trying to make it permanent. It can be made to stick, the nation will be ready for the second step--government management.

Disregarding all fancy and impractical theories, history proves that private enterprise made America the world's most powerful nation and gave us all the most comfortable lives that common people ever lived. Our only wise course is to turn back to free enterprise, but first we must get shed of planned economy. It is going to demand a series of strenuous treatments, for it is well advanced.

It Is No Dream
Disaster for the only remaining prosperous people on earth can not be avoided by any magic method like suddenly waking out of a bad dream. Things we have learned about what took personal liberty from the Germans, the Russians and the French, and more recently from the British, may seem like nightmares but they are very real and painful. Here in America we have a chance.

It is a hack illustration but very useful: When you want to get rid of darkness, you turn on light. When you want to get rid of ignorance, you admit truth. Incompetent scatter when they hear intelligent competition approaching. The first move against politics in business is to take the handcuffs off business itself. Set private enterprise free and it will protect itself.

Let Money Work
Laws made to take the profit out of war are now taking the pay out of work. Laws have rolled profits in some businesses so thin that there is nothing left to make but a loss. Ill-advised taxes on some commodities are so large that a fair price will not cover them. Industrial relations are so needled with politics that declining volume already is endangering jobs and wages.

People who are saving money are obliged often to let it lie idle in banks because there is no reasonably secure place to put it to work. Some invest in government bonds but the earnings of bonds come not from taxes and serve not at all to put men to work and increase the national wealth. When private investors are afraid to trust enterprise, government management is at the door.

The Need of Today
Getting the United States out of its present entanglements with state socialism is one thing, keeping it out is another. For the long-range good of this nation, and of the world that looks to us for leadership, a ceaseless campaign of education is needed. The present need is to cut restraints on production and set American business on its feet again; by three measures:
(1) Change the tax structure to permit profits to operators and dividends to investors. (2) Balance the federal budget now, in prosperous times when, if ever, high taxes can be paid. (3) Improve industrial relations. In the long run, workers get paid in proportion to what they produce; and high wages fairly earned, comprise the foundation of American prosperity.

To The People of Lynn County:

It is nearing the six weeks mark since the first primary was over. During this time the voters have been showered with so many thanks and handshakes until their hands and backs were sore and numb.

I sincerely hope the people have recuperated sufficiently to withstand another appreciative note from a defeated candidate and also to express why I appreciated so much the support I received.

First -- They took in consideration all facts they knew and had learned before going to the polls.

Second -- They exercised a fairness in their own minds and were not interested in vote swapping.

Third -- My supporters were not interested by "Pow-wows" instigated by "Political Pads" in some of our larger communities.

I want every one to know that I am as proud of each vote as I would have been had I won my campaign for County Clerk.

I GIVE YOU TEXAS

By Boyce House

One of the most eloquent speeches in the history of American politics was the speech of James A. Garfield nominating John Sherman for President. An excerpt follows:
I have witnessed the extraordinary scenes of this convention with deep solicitude. Nothing touches my heart more quickly than a tribute of honor to a great and noble character; but as I sat in my seat and witnessed this demonstration, this assemblage seemed to me a human ocean in tempest.
I have seen the sea lashed into fury and tossed into spray, and its grandeur moves the soul of the dull est man; but I remember that it is not the billows, but the calm level of the sea from which all heights and depths are measured. When the storm has passed and the hour of calm settles on the ocean, when the sunlight bathes its peaceful surface, then the astronomer and surveyor take the level from which they measure all terrestrial heights and depths.
Gentlemen of the convention, your present temper may not mark the healthful pulse of our people. When your enthusiasm has passed, when the emotions of this hour have subsided, we shall find below

The storm and passion, that calm level of public opinion from which the thoughts of a mighty people are to be measured and by which final action may be determined.

Not here in this brilliant circle where fifteen thousand men and women are gathered is the destiny of the Republic to be decreed for the next four years. Not here, where I see the enthusiastic faces of 756 delegates waiting to cast their lots into the urn and determine the choice of the Republic, but by 4 millions of Republican firesides where the thoughtful voters are seated, with the calm thoughts inspired by love of home and country with the history of the past, the hopes of the future, and reverence for the great men who have adorned and blessed our nation in days gone by, burning in their hearts --- there God prepares the verdict which will determine the wisdom of our work tonight. Not in Chicago, in the heat of June, but at the ballot boxes of the Republic, in the quiet of November, after the silence of deliberate judgement, will this question be settled.

Apparently the fellows who have been shouting "Down with Socialism, Fascism, Communism and Capitalism" are now down with rheumatism.

The Force that Holds Up the Rainbow Natural Bridge..
OIL PLATES Your Engine!

ONE of America's wonders is the tremendous Rainbow Natural Bridge in Utah. Weighing millions of tons, it's held up by the mighty forces of attraction that exist between molecules of stone.

By ceaseless study of the molecular attraction between liquids and solids, Conoco engineers are able to bring motorists new and better oils. For example, under laws of molecular attraction, a special ingredient in Conoco Nth motor oil is attracted to working surfaces of your engine. So strong is this attraction that cylinder walls and other parts are OIL-PLATED.

Because molecular attraction holds Conoco OIL-PLATING up where it belongs

... prevents it from all draining down to the crankcase, even overnight ... you get these benefits:

- added protection when your engine starts up
- added protection from corrosive action
- added protection from wear that leads to fouling sludge and carbon
- added smooth, silent miles

That's why to OIL-PLATE now ... at Your Conoco Mileage Merchant's. Look for the red triangle. Continental Oil Co.

Veterans who re-enter active military service or naval service are still eligible for many benefits of the servicemen's readjustment act (GI bill) where these are not incompatible with service, the Veterans Administration said this week.

Benefits they can have while still on active duty are:

1. Education or training with tuition fees and supplies paid by the government.
2. Guaranteed loan to buy a home and in some circumstances even a loan to buy a farm or business.
3. Disability pension.
4. VA hospitalization and medical treatment as this care will be received from the Army or Navy.

VA pointed out that a veteran's active service credit will continue to accrue after a veteran re-enters the service so that when he is ultimately released, he may become eligible for some of the benefits now denied to him.

Stressing the fact that the law specifies such benefits shall be available to any person who served on active duty for 90 days or more since September 16, 1940 and who subsequently was released under conditions other than dishonorable, VA pointed out that re-enlistment in the army in no way voids this eligibility.

Uncle Sam Says

I doff my hat to labor, Labor Day, not only for doing a grand job for our country in time of war but for its good sense in continuing to invest part of its earnings in U. S. Savings Bonds. Millions of my nieces and nephews discovered that ownership of U. S. Savings Bonds is an easy, effective, profitable way to save for their future. Savings Bonds are as American as Labor Day itself. Be in step with today's parades of payroll savers.

STOP

and think it over! . . .

A new school term is about to begin. Hundreds of thousands of eager eyed little boys and girls, soon will be overflowing sidewalks and darting thoughtlessly out into traffic . . . It is not because they want to complicate your driving problems. It is only because their youthful exuberance sometimes makes them forget the dangers that lurk in our streets . . .

Let every motorist in this city make a pledge to be on the alert from now on . . . to assume some share of the responsibility for keeping our youngsters from being hurt.

HIGH LAND FOR THE LUCKY... Enclosed in the dark sector in the center of this location map are the 7,527 acres to be awarded to veterans of World War II...

In These United States

First Public Farm Lands Opened to War Veterans

By WNU Features

SACRAMENTO, CALIF.—Marking the first opportunity for ex-G.I.s to realize the dream of a self-sufficient outdoor life for which they dreamed in their lonely wartime vigils...

More than 15,000 veterans are expected to apply for the 86 farm units to be awarded this year. Located near the California-Oregon border at an elevation of 4,100 feet...

Post Regulations

Qualifications for entrymen and an explanation of the method of selection to be followed in awarding the lands are contained in a public notice posted in the Klamath Falls, Ore., post office...

Copies of the public notice and application forms are being mailed to all veterans requesting them. Veterans interested in the lands who have not contacted the bureau may secure full details by writing to the superintendent, bureau of reclamation, at Klamath Falls...

Establish Deadline

All applications returned to Klamath Falls by September 15 will be considered as having been filed simultaneously, it was announced. Because of the large number of applications expected, bureau officials report that it is doubtful if any lands will be left for consideration of applications received after that date.

The procedure to be followed in selecting the entrymen includes a local examining board, a public drawing and the right of disqualified applicants to appeal decisions of the board.

Qualifications for applicants, as set forth in bureau regulations, include citizenship, character, farm experience, minimum of $2,000 capital and physical condition permitting manual labor involved in farm operation. No minimum age is set but regulations require service of at least 90 days in the armed forces, together with an honorable discharge.

Good Children Cost Less, Survey Shows

INDIANAPOLIS, IND.—It costs less to keep a good child than a bad one, according to figures cited at the Central States parole conference in the Hoosier capital. Reports indicated Indianapolis pays 7 cents to keep a child out of trouble and 75 dollars to care for a child in trouble.

Main item in the city's program to keep children out of trouble is an athletic program in which 75,000 Indianapolis youngsters have participated thus far this year. Cost has been approximately 7 cents a child.

A delinquent child who is turned over to the juvenile aid division for care costs the taxpayers $75 to cover expense of administration, investigation and disposition.

Sailors Keep Test Imprint on Chest

HONOLULU, H. I.—Style trends in tattooing keep abreast of the times. With each new arrival of the "Operation Crossroads" fleet, local tattoo parlors are thronged with sailors seeking a full color reproduction of the atomic bomb cloud. Most of the sailors want the tattoo on the chest.

The aerial test is out in front so far but the underwater blast is catching up rapidly.

ARMY BLUE MAKES DEBUT... The army's new peacetime blue uniforms are displayed for the first time preliminary to a nationwide tour on which the uniforms will be exhibited at army posts.

Not Publicity Stunt, Publicity Man Insists

KANSAS CITY, MO.—Hurt feelings, arising from persistent razzing of his friends, represented the most severe injury incurred by Richard S. Haggman, publicity director of the Kansas City chamber of commerce, when he walked through the glass panel of his office door. A piece of falling glass, which barely nicked his right hand, was the only other injury.

Haggman denied emphatically that the whole thing was a publicity stunt, explaining that he never closes the door and that he turned into his office without noticing that the wind had blown the door shut.

An office clerk, who was in Haggman's office cleaning up broken glass from another office door which had blown shut a few minutes before, shattering the glass, shook his head resignedly when the second pane crashed, and started cleaning up the mess.

New Timetable

Streamlined 'Modern' Year Sought in World Calendar

WASHINGTON.—The old horse-and-buggy timetable by which Americans trustingly counted the shopping days until Christmas and sweated out the due dates of their promissory notes isn't sufficiently jet-propelled for this atomic age, four congressmen insisted, in introducing bills for adoption of a fixed, perpetual world calendar.

The proposed calendar would divide the year into four quarters of 91 days each, the first month in each quarter having 31 days and the succeeding two months 30 days each. The 365th day would be a world holiday and in leap year the 366th day also would be a holiday. The year-end world holiday, according to Senator Murray of Montana, one of the sponsors, would be dedicated to international peace and friendship.

"This modernization provides a calendar the same each year perpetually, equalizes the quarters and fixes holidays so they fall on the same day and date each year," Murray said.

Fourteen nations already have endorsed the proposed world calendar. These include China, traditionally polite to foreign innovations and six Latin-American countries, where siestas need no calendar guide. Norway, Greece, Estonia, Hungary, Spain, Turkey and even Afghanistan also have joined the movement.

In addition to providing future youngsters with a new birthday, February 30, and a year-end holiday, proponents maintain that the new system would facilitate accounting and make statistics more readily comparable. They failed to mention that it also would help a man keep his wedding anniversary straight.

Vet Stowaway Seeking Work in Europe Held

BAD NAUHEIM, GERMANY.—Discouraged by conditions in the United States when he went in search of a job, Ralph K. Betz, 26, of Willoughby, Ohio, army veteran of 42 months' service, went back to Germany in search of a job, but instead found himself detained in the city jail here facing possible deportation charges.

Betz, who served in the European theater and was wounded in France, was bitter about being detained and wryly remarked: "When Europeans sneak into the American zone illegally, they set up a camp for them but an American they throw in jail."

No Charges Filed

Army headquarters at Frankfurt said no charges had been filed against the former soldier. An army officer said he was arrested after failing to report twice daily to the provost marshal, as directed when the investigation began.

After his arrest, Betz claimed that military officials have known his story ever since he arrived here last May in quest of a job. He admits that he came into Germany without a passport or military orders by the simple expedient of stowing away on a troopship.

"So many G.I.s couldn't find jobs at home and with prices so high you couldn't live on your salary if you got a job," Betz said.

Small Utah Town Reverses Common Movie Procedure

BLUE SPRING, UTAH.—Aspiring movie actors of this community do not go to Hollywood to get before the camera. Hollywood brings its camera and comes to Blue Spring!

Recently more than 175 men, women and children from Blue Spring, Panguitch and other towns were employed as extras and bit players in the film "Bob, Son of Battle" being filmed here.

Entire families deserted their household and farm chores for the glamorous work of the cinema. Four generations of one family worked in the picture. Myron Proctor, 77; his daughter, Mrs. Eva Tebbs; her daughter, Mrs. Shirley Horne, and her small daughter, Kay, were all competing for camera angles in the production.

Director Louis B. King praised the scenic attractions of this area which provided the background for the film.

Daughter Files Claim For $250,000 Damages

PORTLAND, ORE.—Charging that she was committed to the state mental hospital to prevent her sharing in a million-dollar estate, Miss Agnes McBride filed suit in circuit court for $250,000 damages against her mother.

The daughter declared that her mother inherited the bulk of an estate estimated in excess of one million dollars upon the death of her husband in January, 1945.

"Off We Go" AVIATION NOTES

MOUNTAIN FLYING

Some time you may want to fly the Rocky mountains. In that case, there are a few things to remember. First of all, air is a liquid. It follows the contour of the land over which it is blowing (or flowing). Most of the winds in the Rocky mountains are westerlies, blowing toward the east. As they cross the Rockies, they naturally tumble down the eastern slopes and there are great "falls of air."

"Never fly where you can't turn around," is the advice of Eddie Drapela, veteran mountain flyer of Grand Junction, Colo., intrepid veteran who knows what he is talking about. He often flies small planes 14,000 feet high — and carries passengers. What Eddie means is: Don't fly through a canyon between walls that won't let you turn around.

Other advice to flyers in the Rockies—or other mountainous region — includes such fundamentals as checking the winds aloft over your take-off point. If those winds aloft are over 25 miles an hour, keep your fingers crossed because you may encounter turbulence over the mountains that will flick your plane 1,000 feet up or down in a minute's time.

"Get plenty of altitude and keep it," is another bit of Wilson advice to the novice mountain flyer. Also, don't overload your plane. And be sure you have a plane with a high rate of climb. A CAB report shows that the lives of five Colorado residents were claimed in two mountain crashes because the pilots failed to heed the placarded CAB loading weights of their planes. Clouds, storms, wind and temperature are all hazards in mountain flying. The best thing to do is to talk it over with an experienced mountain pilot before you try it yourself in a light plane.

World-famous Yellowstone park once again has been linked to the nation's airline network. Western Air lines has started two flights daily to the West Yellowstone airport, resuming service suspended in 1941 as a wartime measure.

LICK OLD PROBLEMS

Windshield-icing and interior fogging — two of the highest problems to face flyers since Kittyhawk — have been licked. A new glass-coating technique for plate glass, laminated safety glass and multiple glazed units in aircraft windshields has been announced by Pittsburgh Plate Glass company. The development follows years of research in the field. The new technique utilizes a permanent transparent coating, which conducts electricity from metal bus bars around the edge of the glass. It also adds to the strength of the glass.

AIR ROUTE SET

Pan-American Grace Airways, Inc., will provide direct daily service between the United States and Buenos Aires as soon as CAB approval is received. Flights will commence at Miami and go via Colombia, Ecuador, Peru, Bolivia, Chile and Argentina.

NEW AIR ROUTE

Opening of regular commercial air service between Lima, Peru, and New York by the Tampa, New Orleans and Tampico air lines is expected in the near future. A survey flight between the two points recently was completed by Capt. Hugh Wells, pilot, and Patrick Byrnes, co-pilot, who were flying a 32-passenger, 4-engine Sikorsky flying boat. They covered 3,900 miles in mapping the new route. The flight was believed to be a record hop for a flying boat.

CHANGES ANNOUNCED AT REX THEATRE

Mrs. Clarissa Weems of Borger has accepted a position as projectionist with the Rex Theatre. Mrs. Weems was formerly associated with the Griffith Amusement Co. and she is considered one of the best operators in west Texas. Her knowledge of operating furthers the Rex policy of assuring your safety.

Hervey Gardenhire, who for the past twelve years, has handled the projection of the Rex moves up to General manager and he will be on duty at the lobby. He has asked the Index to say that he appreciates the loyalty of his patrons for being so considerate of all mishaps during his recent illness.

Mr. Gardenhire said that there would be a few changes in the Rex policy, notably, the practice of allowing persons to enter the Theatre for the purpose of conversation will be discontinued. This adds to too much confusion and noise which in the past has brought much criticism. He asks the cooperation of the public to help in this manner and not ask to go in only in the case of securing a doctor or in the case of illness.

GOOD HYGENE URGED FOR CHILDREN

Discussing the food requirements of a child enjoying maximum health, Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, has stressed the importance of a well rounded diet and stated that a healthy and well nourished child enjoys life and does well in school because he is physically fit.

Dr. Cox stated further that when a child is in good health, his appetite is good, elimination is regular and sleep is sound and untroubled, all of which contributes to his progress in school.

A child's appearance can usually help parents to judge the state of his nutrition. A well nourished child has good skin color and there is a moderate padding of fat over the bones and muscles of the arms, legs. Muscles are well developed and strong. Teeth are good and the gums are firm and light pink.

Hard to please appetite or a tired feeling after a little exertion indicates possible malnutrition or the beginning of an illness, and the child should be seen by the family physician.

Required as a diet for the preschool child an dthose of school age Dr. Cox listed milk, fruit, vegetables, eggs, meats, fish or cheese, cereal and bread and added that cod liver oil and other vitamin preparations may be useful in winter and early spring, but they should always be prescribed by the family physician.

SAFETY HINTS

Carelessness, the predominating cause of accidents, is teaming up with the mass movement of school going youngsters to reap a red harvest that would make a cemetery of little graves, side by side, more than a mile long -- a parade of the injured the same length. Accidents of all kinds made human wastage of 883 Texas school age children last year.
