Selectees Leave For Army Service

TAHOKA, Feb. 5 (Special) — Six of the seven selectees who had been called to appear in Tahoka for entrainment to the Army camps Monday morning reported and were sent to Fort Sill. They were: Edward Louis Brosch of Wilson, William Monroe Wallace Jr. of Lakeview, Garland Clyde Shepperd, O. L. Harris, Sam Michael Abraham, and Charles Raymond Waddell, all of O'Donnell.

The seventh man who was scheduled to appear was Ike Lawler Barnes of O'Donnell, and he had gone to Dallas on the preceding Saturday and joined the Marines. Jimmy Shook, an employee in the office of Deen Nowlin, volunteered for service and was accepted. He left for Fort Sill Tuesday. Jimmy had tried to volunteer twice before but had failed to pass the physical examination each time. Jimmy is fine clerical help and it is believed that he will be assigned to some clerical position in the army.

Clayton Lawrence, son of C. A. Lawrence who for several years had been secretary of the AAA committee here, volunteered for service and left Lubbock for Fort Sill Wednesday afternoon. Clayton is married and for the past cotton ginning season he had been manager of the Petty gin. He was accompanied by Tom Draper, who had also volunteered for service.

About thirty men appeared here Monday for physical examination by the local physician. Those who passed the local examination will appear in Lubbock for further examination next Wednesday.

Mrs. J. E. Garland of Lamesa spent the week end visiting in the Noble home.

Eagle Coach To Enter Air Corps

Ray DeBusk, coach of the Eagle football squad for the last two years, and a former football and track star, will be inducted into Uncle Sam's armed services by February 26, so he announced this week.

DeBusk is to enter the air corps as a flying cadet. Effort is now being made to secure a teacher in DeBusk's place.

O. E. S. OFFICERS TO MEET — All officers of the Order of Eastern Star will meet at the Hall Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The meeting is considered an urgent one, and all should be present.

Chris Hafer and W. G. Forgy were business visitors in Lubbock Friday.

A one-day free cooking demonstration will be held here on Friday, February 27 for the benefit of the women of this area under the joint sponsorship of the Press and business firms of O'Donnell. The cooperation of the West Texas Gas company will also be had to assure a successful demonstration.

Miss Mary Alice Crosson, home service director of the West Texas Gas company, is to be in charge of the cooking demonstration. Miss Crosson is considered one of the outstanding home service directors of the southwest, and will bring to O'Donnell women a wealth of valuable labor-saving, money-saving ideas and aids.

The demonstration will be marked for its differences from the usual type of "cooking school." Miss Crosson does not endorse any certain flour, sugar, spice, drink or shortening, and those attending will not be asked to enumerate information as to the types of stoves, refrigerators, cars, egg beaters or lamps they may use—names only will be asked for in order that the valuable gifts may be presented.

Miss Crosson readily admits, and sincerely believes, that many women of the O'Donnell area are better cooks than she. However, she also believes she will be able to point out many shortcuts which will prove valuable to any woman doing her own cooking and baking, and from this angle she will hold the demonstration.

Free gifts are to be awarded during the demonstration. All food prepared by Miss Crosson will be given away.

An open invitation is extended to all women of this area to attend the free cooking demonstration in O'Donnell on February 27 at 2:30 p. m. And all are urged by the cooperating concerns to mark the day on their calendars and make no other dates.

A. M. Tredway, 95, Died Thursday

A. M. Tredway, 95, a prominent citizen of Lynn county for almost twenty years and of this section of the state for 37 years, died at the home of his son, W. A. Tredway, in O'Donnell, at fifteen minutes after midnight Thursday morning.

Death was due largely to old age but an attack of the flu was the immediate cause.

Funeral services are to be conducted in the Church of Christ in O'Donnell at 2:00 o'clock this (Friday) afternoon followed by burial in the Tahoka Cemetery beside the grave of his life companion, who died here in 1929.

Mr. Tredway was a resident of Tahoka for about ten years, but he had resided with his son in O'Donnell since 1932. He had many friends here, some of whom will attend funeral services in O'Donnell this afternoon.

Born in Maury county, Tennessee, on September 11, 1846, Mr. Tredway had seen much history made. Even Tennessee was still a pioneer state when he was born. He grew up under the shadows of the gathering storm known in history as the Civil War, and was a boy fifteen years old when that tragic conflict broke upon the nation. He became a soldier of the Confederacy.

Following the War, he was married in the county and state of his birth to Miss Amanda Jones, and there they continued to live until 1886, when they yielded to the lure of the West and came to Hunt county, Texas. Fifteen years later, Mr. Tredway and family left the Hunt county home and came to Rannels county, settling at or near Ballinger. Three years later, 1904, they moved again, stopping this time in Borden county.

In 1922, they came from Borden county on up to Tahoka; at least, Mr. and Mrs. Tredway and two of the sons, Tom and Porter, came here. Two other sons, W. A. and E. J., located along about the same time at O'Donnell.

Mrs. Tredway died in 1929, after the couple had lived together as husband and wife for sixty years or more. One of the sons, Porter Tredway, it will be remembered, was killed in an automobile accident on the Highway between O'Donnell and Tahoka in 1934. Only the three sons, W. A., T. G., and E. J. Tredway, survive; all now residents of O'Donnell. Also surviving are twelve grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Mr. Tredway has been a devoted member of the Church of Christ since early manhood. He was a man of sterling character and genial disposition, beloved by all who knew him. He made life a little more pleasant for every individual with whom he came in contact, and the world must be a little better because Mr. Tredway lived in it for almost a century. Many friends bow their heads in sorrow today because of his passing.

T. E. L. CLASS — Mrs. Ora Blocker will be hostess Wednesday, February 11th, for a social for T. E. L. Class members for the monthly social.

Mrs. Charles Hoffman and Helen Jean and Miss Mary Louise Singleton, Mrs. William G. Forgy and Cynthia were in Lubbock Wednesday.

2962 Poll Taxes Are Paid Here

TAHOKA, Feb. 5 (Special) — A final check-up showed that 2,962 poll tax receipts were issued in this county prior to February 1, according to Tax Collector R. P. Weathers.

Mr. Weathers estimates that there are between 600 and 700 persons in the county over 60 years of age, who are not required to pay a poll tax, and that there are around 3,500 qualified voters in the county.

Two years ago, however, 3,338 poll taxes were paid in the county, which was reported at the time to be a record-breaking number.

Many Lynn county men were away this year in the armed forces of the nation, and that accounts, no doubt, for much of the reduction.

It may be, furthermore, that there are not as many people in the county now as there were two years ago, but this is not probable if the soldiers and sailors now absent from the county be taken into the count.

It is entirely probable that on account of the overshadowing importance of the war and the consequent lack of interest in politics, many persons in the county neglected this year to pay their poll taxes.

The comparatively few who did not pay may wish they had done so before the summer primary elections are over. For there may be some hot political campaigns yet this year.

Beans To Be Fed Losing Rotarians

A program centered around China will be the offering at the next Tuesday noon meeting of the Rotary club, and is a cog in a nation-wide endeavor by Rotary International.

Tuesday is also "bean day" for the losers in an attendance contest which has run for several weeks. The "odds" captained by Levi Noble are to be fed on beans, corn-bread and water, while B. J. Boyd's winning "evens" are to be fed off the fat of the land.

Scant interest in writing this article can be manifested by this writer due to the fact he's an "odd," but he's never liked chicken anyway.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

By Edward C. Wayne

Japanese Lose Heavily at Macassar When Dutch and U. S. Forces Unite; Compromise Price Control Passes; Additional Food Rationing Forecast

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

There was no sightseeing for these Axis evacuees from South America as they went through the Panama Canal Zone to the United States. Part of the group of 111 persons, including seven German and seven Italian diplomats, are pictured disembarking from the special train which carried them across the isthmus. Uncle Sam took no chances of any Axis sightseeing, which would have been possible had the passage been made by boat.

MACASSAR: First Victory

Americans had hailed the Battle of Macassar straits as the first definite American victory over the Japanese, worked out in conjunction with the indomitable Dutch.

The action amounted to the virtual trapping of a large Jap convoy in the straits, probably heading for a frontal assault on Java or Sumatra, and its virtual decimation with heavy losses in men and ships for the Nippon forces.

The fight lasted several days, and a number of Japanese warships were engaged by light American naval vessels including destroyers and submarines, and by considerable forces of airplanes.

One of the earliest ships sent to the bottom in the engagement was a Jap aircraft carrier, and if she was not sunk she was immobilized by a direct torpedo hit, and that meant she was useless as a carrier.

This meant instant air supremacy for the American-Dutch forces, and they went to work without mercy. One vessel after another was destroyed and as others were damaged to keep their convoy intact by slowing their pace to that of the slowest vessel, they were hopelessly trapped. It apparently took more than six days for the Japs to negotiate the less than 500-mile journey through the straits, and the toll was upward of 31 vessels.

The engagement showed several things—that strong air reinforcements had arrived from the United States into the area; that they were being deployed effectively to prevent a further southward Japanese invasion of the East Indies; that American naval units, once at grips with the Japs, could give a good account of themselves; that the early toll of two ships a day could easily be enlarged to a deadly amount of shipping, an amount which the Japanese could not lose and continue their pace in the South Pacific.

PRICES: Bill Passed

The passage of the compromise price control bill, setting ceilings on 74 commodities, brought to a head a situation which now was in the hands of the government, namely inflation of commodity prices.

From this point on it would be a criminal offense to sell anything above the ceiling price.

The senate vote had been at a higher ratio than the house, 65 to 14. President Roosevelt had been expected to name Leon Henderson to the post of price administrator, set up in the bill.

Henderson had been doing what he could along this line from his OPACS office, and had been placed in the War Production board under Nelson.

All Henderson's previous work, wherever it did not conflict with the ceilings in the bill, immediately was validated, and became the law of the land, just as though congress itself had announced the ceilings.

Maximum penalties were one year in prison and a $5,000 fine for willful violations of the law.

A fight had been expected against Henderson on the grounds that the former administrator had been close to the President, who himself had been chief critic of the bill.

U-BOATS: Active in Atlantic

A constant succession of sinkings of American and allied vessels in the north Atlantic, many of them close to the coastline, had revealed that U-boat activity was being pressed to the utmost.

The U. S. navy reports from the eastern ocean had been that their efforts were being redoubled, and that certain successes had been scored. The policy of not announcing U-boat sinkings was being followed, however.

LUZON: MacArthur's Fight

Though MacArthur's men were admittedly in a desperate position, it had become evident that he was getting at least some reinforcement, as his latest communiques had told of American "fighter planes," and also of the work of PT boat squadrons in Subic bay and at other points, probably near Corregidor.

But it had not been believed that MacArthur's army had any airplanes left, therefore his report that Curtis P-40 fighters had downed a number of Jap bombers led many to think that they might have been flown in there from a distant base.

How many of the Japanese estimated Luzon army of 300,000 was able to get at MacArthur's men in their tiny front on Bataan peninsula was a problem, as many of them naturally would have to be holding the rear and supply lines against constant harassment of guerrilla bands of Filipinos.

RATIONING: To Increase

Additional rationing was deemed a certainty, with the placing of sugar on a pound-a-week basis.

In fact, it was known that those who controlled the priorities were frowning even on some of the civilian defense activities.

Among these were the "indiscriminate knitting of sweaters," which was said to have a bearing on a possible shortage of wool.

Another was the selling of commodities in tin cans when they could be otherwise packaged or sold in bulk. Among the list was baking powder, beer, biscuits, candy, confectionery, cereals and flour, chocolate and cocoa, coffee, dog food, petroleum products, spices and condiments and tobacco.

Shipbuilders were being asked so to design their ships that they could use steel of the type milled for automobiles—somewhat narrower plates.

Leon Henderson would be in charge of retail rationing, and James S. Knowlson in charge of that which occurred in industrial quarters, it was announced.

RUSSIANS: Find Going Tougher

As the Russians announced that the "last live German" had been removed from Moscow province, and that the invaders in the Rzhnev area were trapped and doomed, and as they swarmed ever closer to Smolensk, they reported that the Nazi resistance was growing stiffer.

This, the Red high command said, was to be expected, but they drew much cheer from the fact that one victory was following another still, and that the general tactical campaign was shaping up well.

One expert in Red tactics said much credit was being given to a new Russian system of putting fairly heavy artillery into the front line with the infantry.

This, he pointed out, was a bold procedure, but one which the Germans, with nothing heavier than trench mortars in the front line, were finding it difficult to combat.

The Russians have 46 mm. guns and some 76s in the front lines, and though they are not so mobile, they are even being handled by manpower when horses cannot be found to draw them.

These guns fire at point-blank range, and were given much credit in winning the battle of Mozhaik, a heavily fortified point.

The death toll is terrific in warfare at 40 below zero. Correspondents at the front state that wounded die within 10 or 15 minutes unless kept immediately warm, as their wounds instantly freeze.

The Russians, however, being adept at life under such conditions are reportedly suffering much less than the ill-equipped and prepared Germans.

Rubber—Goodspeed

From the alkaline deserts of the West, America can harvest half a billion pounds of natural rubber to offset the Jap grab at Indies, claims Dr. T. Harper Goodspeed, University of California scientist. He is shown here with "rabbit bush," the new rubber plant, which may reach life-saving status in this war.

MERS URGED TO GET MACHINERY IN SHAPE

Every piece of old farm machinery used and used this year will be more guns in the hands of the enemy forces, Vernon C. Willhoit, county USDA War Relocation Administration, said this week.

"We deliver our Food-For-Free program by using the equipment we have on hand instead of buying machinery, we'll be releasing that much material for guns, tanks, planes, and ships with which the Japs," Willhoit said.

Utilizing the tremendous responsibility of food in total war, OPM has secured as much material as possible for repair parts and new machinery several months ago.

"We might be able to buy extra and new machinery later and we might not. Any way you look at it, this year is the wrong time to take chances," the chairman said.

A farmer who repairs an old machine, instead of buying a new one, he might in normal times, is a two-fold aid to the fighting by releasing essential material for war use, and insuring production of food for the war effort, he said.

"We can't sit around two-thirds of the winter and expect to get all farm machinery in top-notch shape overnight," the chairman said in pointing out all equipment should be checked and repair parts ordered immediately.

duction of food for the war effort, he said.

SHE LOVED A SPY

by SYLVIA TAYLOR

THE STORY SO FAR: Joan Leland, secretary to Arthur Mulford, San Francisco importer, is amazed and angry when he discharges her and refuses any explanation. Her sister Sybil, with whom she shares an apartment, loses her beautiful position the same day. Joan accepts a position in a night club, as suggested by handsome Karl Miller, who offers her a high salary in advance and the unusual hours as the reason. She obtains a job for Sybil and makes plans to Joan, who is fascinated. Paul Sherman, her manager, interrupts them. He later invites Joan to dinner. Joan meets Karl's partner, Eric Strom. Both Paul and Eric seek to make dates with Joan. On one Sunday when Karl, Eric and Joan were dining, Karl is called to the telephone. He then asks Joan to come to the office for some dictation. She writes a short letter and Karl suggests she come in a taxi. While she is waiting, he shows up in his car. She tells him she had forgotten her purse. How to continue with the story.

CHAPTER V

"I'll get it for you," Paul offered. "And let Karl know you're taking home? Oh no! I'll go myself." "I wondered why everything seemed to interfere with her romance with Karl. Both Paul and Eric seemed bent on making trouble. But she could not be rude to Karl. After all, Karl seemed to love her."

The door of the club was unlocked and she slipped in and hurried down the corridor. Afterwards she wondered what instinct prompted her to go for a moment as she stood in her hand on the doorknob of Karl Miller's office. The hall was dark, save for the crack of light from the door. An open window showed her led to a fire escape, where the rain fell noisily on the balcony. Perhaps her hesitation was due to the fear that Karl would be angry with her. Perhaps a uneasy feeling that he might over Paul was taking her home. Joan paused and her heart was beating heavily.

It seemed a long time but in reality it was only a few seconds that she stood there listening to Eric Miller's voice. "Ja, Karl! Bitte!" "Karl's reply was harsh, 'Nein, Karl! Es ist verboten.' "Joan did not understand but instinctively her hand drew back from the door. This was a private conversation. Karl would not want her to hear.

But her nervous gesture had made a small sound, which Karl Miller's caught immediately. He threw open the door with a violent gesture. "Joan! What are you doing?" "I forgot my purse," she faltered, looking Eric Strom's sardonic eyes at her.

Karl's relieved smile reassured her. "Of course! Here it is." "Joan made a hasty exit, closing the door quickly behind her, but as she walked down the dark hall she sized that she was shivering.

"What's the matter?" Paul demanded as Joan got in the car. "You're as white as a ghost." "Nothing!" But the girl's hands clasped nervously. "Let's go home. Please!" "Joan tried to tell herself that nothing was wrong. Just because Karl and Eric Strom had been speaking their native tongue was no cause for alarm. But she found herself talking to Paul, 'Do you speak German?'"

"So that's it! You overheard it!" "You haven't answered my question." "And I am not going to," Paul said firmly as he stopped the car in front of her apartment building. "Do you mind if I come in for a minute?"

Joan was not very gracious about it. She was tired and confused. The thing she wanted was to be left to listen to Paul's subtle insinuations against Karl Paul, however, settled himself comfortably in the car, lit a cigarette and said, "Joan, why don't you quit working at the club?"

"I stood before him, green eyes narrowed with anger, her head high. "I don't think it's any of your business what I do or where I work. I have anything against Karl Miller, why don't you come out and say so? Why shouldn't I work for him?"

"She threw her hat on the table and smoothed her hair in front of the mirror over the fireplace. Paul saw and touched her arm. "I'm sorry, Joan! I guess I used the wrong approach. I suppose from your point of view I'm meddling here I have no right to."

Their eyes met in the mirror. His face was unsmiling, the brown eyes serious. "You don't seem like the type of girl to be working for Karl Miller. You don't belong at the club elite!" "I'm sick of hearing everyone say that. I'm old enough to know what I'm doing. I don't need advice from anyone."

"You are a very stubborn woman," Paul laughed. "The room was cheerful in the firelight. The polished brass shone and a large blue bowl of chrysanthemums lent a gay note to the somber furnishings. "Do you live here alone?" "With my sister Sybil."

"Please!" Joan cried, exasperated. "Is there any good reason why I shouldn't work for Karl?"

"And she doesn't approve of your working for Karl, either?"

"Please!" Joan cried, exasperated. "Is there any good reason why I shouldn't work for Karl? Do you know something against him?"

Paul stared into the fire but he was silent.

"Then you don't know anything?" Joan continued.

Paul tossed his cigarette into the flames. "Okay, Joan. You win. I can't say any more. But remember this. Watch your step! Will you?"

"Thanks for the advice." "It's for your own good," Paul Sherman said, picking up his hat. "How about that date tomorrow night?"

Joan smiled faintly. "Don't you ever give up? I told you—I couldn't go."

They stood at the door measuring each other with their eyes—Paul's, a mask that told her nothing, Joan's challenging him, defying him to speak one word against Karl Miller.

"I won't bother you any more then," Paul said quietly. "Good night."

In the bedroom, Sybil was propped up in her bed, wearing a blue satin bed jacket, reading a magazine. "Was that Karl?"

"No, Paul Sherman, giving me some good advice about working at the club. He doesn't think I'm the type, whatever that means."

She slipped into her warm bathrobe and sat down on the edge of her sister's bed. "I met Karl's partner, Eric Strom, tonight. He tried to make a date with me, too. It's a shame the way everyone tries to double-cross Karl."

"How in the world did you happen to come home with Paul?"

Joan explained, but did not mention what she had overheard when she went back to get her purse. Before she could finish the telephone rang.

Karl Miller's voice came forcefully over the wire. "Joan? You are home safely?"

"Yes. I've been home for some time." She smiled, picturing Karl on the other end of the line. How sweet that he could be so concerned!

"I just wanted to be sure that you were all right. Good night, darling."

It was the first time that he had called her "darling." Her pulse leaped at the unfamiliar endearment.

"We will not work tomorrow," Karl informed her. "We shall have dinner together alone."

Joan went back to the bedroom with shining eyes to tell Sybil. "Then you won't meet Paul?"

"Of course not! I wouldn't anyway."

Joan had not considered the possibility that Karl Miller might take her to dinner at the same place Paul suggested but as they walked into the lobby of the hotel Paul had mentioned, Joan saw him coming out of the bar. He nodded pleasantly as he passed them and Joan breathed a sigh of relief. Their meal was almost finished when Joan saw Paul again. He was sitting alone at a corner table directly behind Karl. When they left, Joan, looking over her shoulder, saw Paul behind them. Was he deliberately following her? Was this his idea of a joke? But Joan did not tell Karl. He might have discharged Paul and she did not want him to lose his job on her account.

Karl drove swiftly along the Embarcadero. "Have you ever been on a freighter?" he asked the girl at his side. "Like to see one?"

"I'd love it," she answered. "Sweet thing!" He reached for her hand.

They stopped at Pier 27. Joan could see the hulk of a small ship looming out of the mist. Karl took her arm as they walked through a large storeroom, out into the foggy night, and up the swaying gangplank of the freighter.

Only Sybil was able to shatter her peace by saying, "If Karl is really in love with you, why doesn't he ask you to marry him?"

"He probably will," Joan said stubbornly. "In time. After all, we haven't known each other very long."

Karl not once had mentioned marriage. "You still don't trust Karl, do you?" Joan asked as the girls washed the supper dishes.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

A BUSY SABBATH IN CAPERNAUM

LESSON TEXT—Mark 1:21-34. GOLDEN TEXT—I was in the Spirit on the Lord's day.—Revelation 1:10.

The Sabbath of the Jew and the Lord's Day (Sunday) of the Christian were both intended to be days of rest. The ordinary activities of life were to cease and one was to be free to worship and to rest. The manner in which a man uses this God-given day of rest is a remarkably accurate indicator of his spiritual condition.

We have before us the account of a very busy Sabbath day which our Lord spent in Capernaum, the city in which most of His mighty works were done, but which ignored Him and His teaching to its own destruction (see Matt. 11:23, 24). As we look at our Lord's activity on that day we learn what we may do with our Sundays to make them bear fruit for eternity. We find Him in three places.

I. In the Church (vv. 21-28).

The Sabbath day found our Lord with His people in the synagogue, their place of worship. The service of worship was probably formal and lacking in spiritual vitality, but none-the-less He was there. What have we to say if we miss the opportunity for fellowship and service which church attendance brings us?

Observe that because He was there He (as a distinguished religious teacher) was called upon to teach the people. He taught them in the serene consciousness of His divine authority, and the people were delighted and astonished at His message. We may not serve exactly as He did, but if we present ourselves in God's house on His day we will find the way opening for us to share in the worship.

Jesus not only spoke, but He performed a miracle. Certain it is that we could not do what He did, but we can be ready to give ourselves in service as well as in worship, or in speaking. There is much work to be done in the church, and God's people should be ready and willing to do it.

II. In the Home (vv. 29-31).

From the synagogue Christ went into the home. How appropriate! We too should go from the church to the home, always bringing with us the strength and blessing of the worship service.

The daughter of a great preacher and Bible teacher said the thing she most loved in her father was that he did not give out the "cream" of his Christianity in his meetings and bring home the "skim milk." Too often we fail to bring into the home the power and beauty of the service in the church. We who have been very sweet and spiritual in the church should not come home to be sour and crabbed.

Jesus brought a blessing into Peter's home, miraculously healing his mother-in-law of a great fever, setting her free to serve. Here again we cannot do what He did, but we can, in His name, bring power and blessing into our homes.

III. In the City (vv. 32-34).

From the home the ministry of Jesus reached out to the entire city. As the strict laws forbidding travel on the Jewish Sabbath were set aside by the coming of sundown, not only the city but the entire countryside brought their sick and needy to Him.

The scene staggers the imagination as one attempts to conceive of this coming together of troubled humanity for the Master's touch. Mark tells us that He healed many; Matthew, that He healed all, and Luke, the physician, is emphatic in saying that He healed every one of them.

We may learn from this incident that our Christian faith, which has been developed and strengthened by our time of worship and service in the church, should not only reflect itself in the home, but should reach out into the life of the community in which we live. The primary interest of the Christian in his city or the place of his residence should be spiritual, a desire to bring to bear upon the people of the community the power of the gospel.

There is, however, a secondary responsibility which is of much importance and that is the extending of Christian influence into every phase of school, social, political, and business life. It is said that when D. L. Moody came into a barber shop the entire course of the conversation changed. The Christian should have an influence on problems of social welfare, the work of the public schools, the proper conduct of business in the community, and every upon its personal life. It is said that if every Christian in America would vote according to his professed convictions we could put the saloons out of business in a single election. Why not do it?

DO YOU like to sew? Then here is a grand new pattern to try your talents on—an apron which is as simple to make as ABC! Pattern No. 1518-B shows two, an apron which is different, slenderizing, unusually becoming and as efficient as a modern kitchen! The shoulder straps continue as side panels and end as good sized, properly placed pockets—and the side panels are so shaped that they give a wonderfully slenderizing effect right where you want it most—at the waistline!

Side sashes hold the apron firm across the front, tie smartly in back. The straps stay up because they are fastened directly in back and the wide side pieces give your dress full protection.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1518-B is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20; 40, 42, and 44. Corresponding bust measurements 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 16 (34) requires 2 yards 35-inch material, 5 yards trimming—pie-rac or bias fold. Send your order to:

Scrap Metal Is Vital To Defense

Collection and sale of scrap iron and steel is only one of the many ways Lynn county farmers can help lick the Japs, the Nazis, and the Fascists, according to Vernon Willhoit, chairman of the Lynn county USDA war board.

Growing needs of a nation at war serve to intensify demands for steel and scrap iron to feed the hungry mouths of arms factories, the defense board chairman said.

Urgent appeal is also made to the public to gather up steel and scrap and carry it to nearest dealers for use in charging the nation's steel furnaces. A list of dealers for the county are on file in the local AAA office and may be consulted any time, he said.

"We're not asking that you give your scrap to your country. We're asking that you sell it at prevailing prices for immediate defense use," Willhoit said in explaining that financial returns cannot be expected to be large but results will be of untold value to farmers in their whole victory effort.

Willhoit explained that prices for scrap vary in different sections since dealers deduct costs of transporting scrap from shipping point to mill, as well as preparation charges.

"It's just another way of saying that we're at our posts on the farm front," the chairman said. "We're in his war to win, and each of us will have to do his part to get the job done."

Caution Urged To Preserve Tires

Lynn county farmers believe that prevention of tire trouble is as important as its cure, according to Vernon C. Willhoit, chairman county

USDA War Board.

Farmers throughout the county already are exerting caution to see that foreign matter is kept from tread, that tires are free of grease and oil, rims straightened, stored equipment is jacked up to relieve pressure, tires are shadowed from excess sunlight, and that cracked tires are painted and plugged, the board chairman said.

"Certificates for new tires may be issued for tractors, farm implements, and trucks used to haul farm products directly to market," Willhoit said but explained they could not be obtained for transporting farm products to ultimate consumers. He also added that tires could not be purchased if the rationing board had already issued certificates comprising the monthly total.

"This simply means that everybody else," Willhoit said.

Recapping, retreading, canning tires on automobile implements are other measures farmers may follow. Venting tire trouble. Simultaneous air pressure adds to life of tractors and farm equipment. Periodic checks for proper should be made, the chairman said.

RURAL PEOPLE AND RATIONING

Recently I attended a dinner given by Dr. Louise Stanley of the bureau of home economics in the department of agriculture for the members of the conference on extension services. This conference is a yearly event and people come to it from many states. This year some of them came from Wyoming and many midwestern states. Miss McGeachy of the British embassy spoke on some of the problems confronting rural women in England. I asked her to tell about her plan for rationing clothes, since I was sure that these were the people who would really be able to appreciate the ingenuity which turns candlewick bedspreads into fashionable evening coats.

Of course, their objective in rationing clothes was to put more workers into defense industries and fewer into producing consumer goods, and to preserve certain materials for vital war needs. We may find ourselves doing the same thing. Miss McGeachy's remark, that it was only a hardship on people who had no margin of supplies in their homes, reminded me of something said by an Englishwoman, who came to see me a few days ago. Extra coupons, she said, were given to people who were bombed out or lost all their possessions in a fire.

However, even with extra coupons they could not hope to supply themselves with an adequate amount of clothing. One pair of shoes, two dresses, three pairs of stockings, and one set of underclothes is all the usual coupon will buy for about a year. Men are worse off, because their clothes are sold according to weight and weigh more than women's.

I always feel that rural people are better prepared to meet these adjustments than urban people, because in cities it is easier to buy and very little thought is given to making up new materials or making over old garments at home, a practice which still prevails in many country families.

LATIN-AMERICAN FAIR

In New York city one evening, I went to a very charming dinner, given before the opening of Macy's Latin-American fair. Even during the dinner, the stage was set, for we were delightfully entertained with music and dancing, performed by artists from our neighboring republics.

At the fair, I could not help but be impressed by the architecture of the buildings and the charming arrangements of flowers and merchandise. There will be music and dancing and food served during this exhibition. You can buy groceries, fruits, and handwork as they come from these neighbors of ours. Their designs and skills are also adapted to modern needs. Some of the leather work and rugs, and much of the glass and pottery, make you want to furnish a house at once.

After I left the fair, I stopped for a minute at a weekly dance given by Miss Anne Morgan's committee at the Henry Hudson hotel. Here, a crowd of boys in uniform, belonging to both services, were having a good time with some very charming girls.

On my arrival, they released some balloons from the balconies and I was told the boys and girls caught these. In two of them, lucky numbers were found, which entitled a boy and girl to a prize. I presented these prizes, but the boy who found the lucky number for the girl's prize, had lost his girl, so we had to send him scurrying, box in hand, to find her in the crowd.

CIVILIAN DEFENSE ACTIVITY

I reached my office next morning at nine o'clock and was sorry to bid good-bye to Miss Eloise Davison, who has been assistant director of civilian defense, in charge of group activities, under Mayor LaGuardia. The New York Herald-Tribune lent her for a part-time job, which took up all her time. She feels she must return to her job in New York city. Miss Davison hopes to be able to help civilian defense, however, by working in New York city on some special assignments for the mayor.

That morning was spent largely with Dean James Landis at OCD, though I saw two or three members of the staff. The entire afternoon was taken up with appointments of various kinds. Mayor Cain of Tacoma, Wash., lunched with me and I was happy to see him again. I remembered how much impressed I was by the way in which he was taking hold of his job in the hectic week after the attack on Pearl Harbor.

CIVILIAN DEFENSE RADIO BROADCAST

On one afternoon, I talked on a local radio station with Mr. John Kelly, head of our physical fitness program; Dr. Dearing, of our OCD medical group; and Dr. Gwynn, head of the District of Columbia Medical association, who has inaugurated this series of broadcasts. He tries to interest the general public in keeping itself well and in doing the things which will be a help to the medical profes-

New York Heartbeat

Sallies in Our Alley: The strict new parking regulations inspired this one. Jimmy Dorsey's drummer came late for rehearsals—with the excuse that he got a summons for passing a traffic light. "Well," said Dorsey, "that's a poor excuse. Why didn't you stop for it?" "What!" exclaimed the drummer, "and take a chance on getting a parking ticket?" The other night several scribes were wondering about a green-with-envy collyerist's war record. "He was with Herbert Hoover's Food Commission," explained a vet. "Yeh," said another, as the crowd rocked with laughter, "he was the only casualty—when a chocolate cream puff exploded in his face."

Carole Lombard, one of the stars of the 48 stars will always be proud of, died in active service selling defense bonds. Actors and actresses, directors, producers, cameramen, electricians and members from all the allied theatrical professions, have enlisted in some branch of the service. Giving their energy, time and money to playing benefits, buying tickets for them and entertaining Soldiers, Sailors, Marines and the Coast Guard, etc.

And it was only a few months ago when some Senators tried to stain the movie industry by alleging it was un-American!

One thing we are sure of. There must have been a wreath sent by the Army to Carole—inscribed with the highest compliment the Army can give a woman. To wit: "She was a Gentleman!"

There's a Hollywood couple who want to get a divorce, but they can't agree on who gets custody of the spare tire.

Notes of an Innocent Bystander

The Wireless: Sec. Knox's release to the newscasters, that it was stupid to bank on a crash in Germany, was good advice. Nobody is going to whip Hitler but his enemies, he reminded. Berlin wants us to imagine it is in trouble and uncover our chins. Just the same, it was nice to read in Anne O'Hare McCormick's Times spot that foreign broadcasts are reaching the ears of stay-at-home Heinies. Joe Louis at least got a laugh out of licking Buddy Baer. He told Eddie Cantor why he donated his share of the gate to the Navy. "When I go overseas," said Private Joe, "I want a boat under me." "The Court of Missing Heirs" is hunting for a 79-year-old man to give him $2,700. "What fun can a man that old have with $2,700?" queried a listener. "What fun can a man that old have?" corrected a blue-penciler. Every week radio is full of shows helping this and that worthy cause. The theatrical profession should be proud of its contributions. Actors are always first and anxious to help, although they were the first to suffer when the government started cutting relief expenses. Remember?

The Story Tellers: H. Hoover played target for the book reviewers' arrows. He made a book out of his recent Satevepost pieces, called "America's First Crusade," ignoring Pearl Harbor. The Stuff was penned in 1934-35 when the Roosevelt trouncing was smarting acutely. The critics were stunned to discover that the Pacific battles apparently hadn't budged his opinions. There is a timely article in Collier's called "Don't Believe a Word of It." It tells how the glibbie are needled into disunity tricks by shooting off their mouths on planted slanders against our defense. I.A.R. Wylie spreads a nifty tale across the pages of Liberty. It concerns people who believe that "it's better to have a broken neck than a bowed one."

The Front Pages: The most cheering war story of the week told about the Chinese victory at Changsha. The Chinese teased the foe into a trap by feigning weakness, then turned and ruined them. The Chinese press has grounds for squawking. China doesn't think Japan should be undersold. What does it matter what part of the world the Axis is trounced in, it inquires, objecting to Germany taking the first beating. "From the Land of Silent People," a war book by Robert St. John, is getting big handclaps. He was an AP staffer in Yugoslavia when the wolves came, and it's all in the book. Edward Doherty, once of the dailies, now a Liberty writer, recalls his reporting days beguilingly in "Gal and Honey."

The Big Parade: The Girl From Stockholm going into the Stanley Theater to see "The Girl From Leningrad"—Greta Garbo. Mrs. FDR, who originated the slogan, "Let's Grind Down the Axis"—but is too modest to accept credit for it. Merle Oberon, being introduced by that monicker and corrected by that monicker Mrs. Alexander Korda. The D. Topingers (S. Henie) at all the sinful places—hoping to run into (but hard!) the collyerists who had them dividing.

Pomp and Ceremony Nearly Floored Schwab

At a meeting of the British Iron and Steel Institute, Charles M. Schwab was presented with the Bessemer medal. It was a solemn affair, marked by much formality. Before introducing each speaker, the toastmaster intoned: "Mr. President, your Excellencies, my noble Lords and gentlemen—"

The guest of honor was accustomed to American business methods, but not to such ceremony. When called upon to speak, Mr. Schwab repeated: "Mr. President, your Excellencies, my noble Lords and gentlemen—" Then mopping his brow, he exclaimed: "Whew, I'm glad that's over. Back home I would just say, 'Well, boys—'"

SCHOOL DISTRICT TAXPAYERS

Co-operate With Your Board To Save Unnecessary Expenses During These Emergency Times

Assessment of Taxes is now due to begin—and each taxpayer will SAVE the district many dollars by calling at the school office in O'Donnell and rendering their property instead of having the collector cover several hundred miles in an effort to see everyone—sometimes having to make the trips twice or even more times.

This will cost you nothing, but it will save YOUR school district uncounted dollars which are vitally needed elsewhere—and when these dollars are expended for collector's trips, they must be taken from projects or funds which need them very much.

Won't You be Patriotic to Your Own School District by Calling at the Office when you can, and Render Your Property for Taxation.

And Persuade Your Neighbors to Do Likewise!

THANK YOU!

ADVERTISING AGGRESSIVELY URGED DURING WAR

Dallas, Feb. 4.—Advertisers must keep up an aggressive, sane program of advertising during the war in order that America may produce one hundred billion dollars income annually and finance the war as well as fight it, Stanley Campbell, president Dallas Advertising League, told the league Tuesday at the Hotel Adolphus.

He spoke in the place of I. S. Randall, president of the New York Advertising Club, whose grounded plane kept him from reaching Dallas in time to address the league.

"We must go back to the fundamentals in advertising and not try to be cute," he said. "There is no need now to try to play on the emotions of people which are already strained to the breaking point. Advertising should be sane and calm."

Campbell said the American system of advertising was an aid to free enterprise and kept up mass production methods used in the United States to make it great.

"Advertising at this point has the greatest audience in history," he said. "Everyone is reading news, opinions, stories and wanting to be entertained during these trying times. It is an ideal time to advertise."

"In order to give full co-operation to the nation's war effort, the public must continue to fight the military enemy abroad and the economic and social enemies at home."

"It is the duty of advertising to handle all civilian defense advertising and stories and to carry on an educational campaign against the enemies of advertising."

"America has been afraid of the tears and sweat up to now," he said, "but never of blood. During this war, we'll find both tears, sweat and blood to achieve the final victory."

Tahoka Rotary Club is sponsoring an address here on Wednesday night, Feb. 18, by a speaker of international reputation on the subject, "Our Neighbors in the Pacific."
