Little Community of Myriad Memories Is Receiving Complete Revival.

BROOKINGS, ORE .- From boom to boom is the surprising life story of this little community.

On September 9, 1942, the press wires flashed the first aerial bombing of continental United States -near Brookings, where a small plane, presumably Japanese, had dropped an incendiary bomb, trying to start a forest fire, said the United Press.

Brookings was a sorry, dilapidated little settlement then - a ghost of the fabulous northwest lumber exploitation era, now undergoing rebirth in a postwar lum-ber boom.

Probably no town in the Pacific northwest is receiving such a thorough going over as this community of myriad memories.

From that day some 20 odd years ago when the huge sprawling sawmill of the giant California and Oregon Lumber company collapsed and the workmen walked away without even stopping the machinery or hauling the fires from under the boilers, to just recently, Brookings lay dormant, molding and meditating on its colorful past.

Town is Reborn.

Today those who stayed on and shuffled through the ruins of a lost empire, together with a surge of new blood, are wiping out the last remnants of bygone days and resurrecting the dead.

Where once stood the mill, lifeblood of the community, where once spread the miles of railroad track, the many wood camps, are now springing roads and new buildings. Home sites have been staked out, city streets planned and rock foundations already laid. Severat miles of new sewer and water service mains are being put under-ground from stockpiles of surplus war materials. Poles, crossarms, wire and pole line furniture sufficient for 300 miles of new and renewed electric service construction are accumulating.

Already one sawmill and one planer are in operation as the race for lumber from the many thousands of acres of new and old growth fir begins again.

An influx of new residents has created a housing problem comparable to that is other parts of the country. The ostmistress reports current s' tage of 250 rental boxes. A full-grown newspaper, the weekly Brookings - Harbor Pilot, has been born. Desirable business property along the proposed downwn district is changing hands at figures that indicate even the most seasoned businessman believes the city is a venture worth investing in.

Point to Resources.

There is a dentist here now and a second doctor has hung out his shingle. An addition to the consolidated school is being mulled over Navigational improvements at the mouth of the Chetco river, where once the lumber schooners loaded their cargoes, are under consideration and fishermen are watching for developments with interest.

What brought about this startling metamorphosis probably was a revived activity in the lumber industry. But natives of the area be lieve they can present a sustained economy that will keep the community growing for years to come. They point to their sheep, dairy cattle, beef, pork and lumber as reliable, negotiable resources. They are prone to bring out the mild coastal climate that makes the country a delightful year-around place for the outdoor lover. Also not to be overlooked, the oldtimer will tell you, is the flourishing and highly lucrative floral trade that specializes in azaleas and rhododen-

There is no doubt the transformation to this thriving, forward-looking community from the brushland that 20 years ago used to be leased at 50 cents per acre per year is little short of miraculous.

No Ban on Radar Sales. State Department Says

WASHINGTON. - The state department said recently that there is no legal ban on the sale by American firms to foreign nations of electronic materials which the army and navy have removed from the secret

This category, it explained, covers all materials supplied to the Al-lies under lend-lease, including about 90 per cent of this country's radar equipment.

The statement was issued as a judiciary subcommittee prepared for a hearing on a bill to ban the sale of radar or electronic equipment abroad.

Interior Dept. Creates An Oil and Gas Division

Even Greater Sacrifices May Be Called For.

WASHINGTON. - Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson forwarned Americans that food shortages may continue into 1948, and that they would be called upon for greater sacrifices to help stem. the march of starvation across the Anderson sketched the nation's food outlook in an extemporaneous address before the Rotary club in Washington.

He did not indicate the nature of the further sacrifices, but asserted that they would be necessary 'in the near future.

Presumably, Americans will have to get along with even less grain and fats and vegetable oils, since these products are needed most to combat famine abroad. In the coming months, U. S. consump-tion of fats and oils will be 20 per cent less than it has been. The percentage of supplies in domestic channels may be smaller, the secindicated, if famine demands continue to grow.

Anderson, discussing the length of the food shortage, said many products would be scarce the rest of 1946 and through next year. He added that it is possible some short-ages will extend into 1948.

The secretary emphasized the continued deficit in U. S. shipments of wheat, cereals, meat and fats to famine areas, but expressed confidence that commitments for the period ending June 30 will be ful-

Anderson blamed black market competition with the government for the shortage of meat and lard for export, and said a new slaughter system is intended to increase the flow of animals into plants supplying the government.

Cost of Wars Tops Wealth Since 1776

CHAMPAIGN, ILL. - America's wars have cost more than all the wealth the country has piled up since the Declaration of Independence, according to the bureau of economic and business research of the University of Wars have cost the United States 414 billion dollars. All the farms, homes, factories, stores and other property of the United dollars, the report said.

Proteins Held New Key To Stomach Ulcer Cure

CHICAGO. - A new treatment stomach ulcers is reported by Dr. William W. Bolton of the bureau of health education of the American Medical association.

Stomach ulcers afflict an esti-mated 5 per cent of the population, or some 61/2 million persons, according to Dr. Bolton.

Although the medical profession awaits further study before passing final judgment on the new treatment, Dr. Bolton said: "It appears to have significant possibilities."
It consists of administering protein preparations. They may taken through the mouth or injected into a vein.

"Following the start of this treatment," he writes in Hygeia magazine, "ulcers disappeared as though by magic."

Ordinarily, he writes, effective treatment is based on recognizing that mild, soothing food with frequent feeding serves to keep the stomach partially filled, and that it is necessary to neutralize the excess acidity usually present in ulcer

Dr. Bolton gives this picture of the typical ulcer sufferer: he is thin, inclined to limited activity, nervous, rather short-tempered and easily up set. He is never a robust eater and is choosy in his diet.

The causes of ulcer are many,

Conscience Stings, Pays Dollar Fine After Year

BUTLER, PA. — A comely young woman stepped up before Magis-trate George P. Mellinger in traffic court and said she had no ticket but wanted to pay a fine.
Explaining she had received a ticket for overtime parking a year ago, the woman said:

"I told you that the meter registered 25 minutes when I left it and you excused me. For a year now, that lie has been on my conscience because there was just five minutes left. I want to pay my dollar."

Magistrate Mellinger accepted it.

sion, told the senate labor committee Rorem urged that "existing professional and community sponsored programs" be made a part of the national health program.

HOOVER AND REPORTERS

WASHINGTON. - When Herbert Hoover staged a press conference after his talk with President Truman and Secretary of Agriculture Anderson, newsmen immediately asked what President Truman had told him.

The former chief executive-who had as rough a time with the press as any United States President in this century-replied with deep feel-

"There ought to be a law," he said, "against anyone re-peating what the President has said to him."

Hoover also refused to answer any questions about administration measures to meet the European emergency, and would not give any opinion when asked if U. S. rationing might be necessary.

ARMY DENTISTS

At long last Maj. Gen. Norman Kirk, who has the reputation for hoarding more medical manpower than any other surgeon general in history, has decided to let a few more doctors slip through his fin-gers and go back to civilian prac-

He has decreed that all medical corps officers who have served 30 months as of May I can be released from the army before June 30. However, this does not apply to army dentists, who are now getting to be the forgotten men of the U. S.

For some strange reason best known to General Kirk, general service doctors can get out of the army after 30 months, but a dentist must remain in 39 months. And today there are hundreds of patriotic dentists who gave up good practices to join the army, now marking time at army posts, unable to get discharged. get discharged.

Furthermore, the brass hats have permitted the discharge of many younger dentists, while older men have to stay on. Many of the young-sters, educated at army expense, have been declared "essential to civilian practice" and discharged, while older men with families to support, can't get out. This means that younger dentists get their civil-ian practice firmly established before older men can even begin to look for scarce office space.

HOW TO HANDLE LEWIS

Towering Gov. Bob Kerr of Okla-homa, who packs close to 250 pounds and a droll wit, tells this story about chat with a "prominent Republican" during a recent visit to Wash-

"Why doesn't Truman do someplained the GOP-er, "instead of sitting around on his hands while Lewis ties up production in the entire country'

'Lewis is a tough man to handle," said Kerr. "What would you sug-gest that the President do?" I could give him plenty of ideas if I had the chance.

"Okay," said Kerr. "I'm go ing to give you the chance. I'm a close friend of Harry Truman. In fact, I am going to see him tomorrow morning. And I hap-pen to know that right now, more than anything in the world, he wants the answer to this coal strike. So you just sit down and write out the solution and I'll give it to him the first thing in the morning." The discussion ended right there.

RAIL BITTERNESS

For a long time, bad blood had existed between the trainmen-engineer brotherhoods and the other three-conductors, switchmen firemen. It has been somewhat like the CIO-AFL row, but the bitterness deepened after the Roosevelt

Whitney, at the time, sent a let-ter to all his trainmen excoriating the other brotherhoods for refusing to arbitrate-a letter which doesn't put him in such a good light today. ong other things, he made up a little poem which read:

"Three blind mice-hear how they talk!

They all refuse to arbitrate— They're gambling with their country's fate— Though the hour is getting For the three blind mice."

"Were they afraid to trust the President?" Whitney asked his fellow trainmen in the round-robin letter. "Or is it possible that they (the other three brotherhoods) were playing organization politics in the hope that they may strengthen their numerical and financial condition?"

bathroom, and had more fun than we ever had."

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

COME women know what they want. Others only know what they don't want.

The difference is that between happiness and unhappiness, failure and success. The negative attitude destroys. The positive attitude always constructs.

The woman who only knows what she doesn't want talks to you somewhat like this:

"Yes, my dear, we unlucky Bak ers are still in the same dreadful apartment-I dislike that school intensely, but I'm keeping the children there, and there's no use mov-Harry's worried about bills ing. Harry's worried about bills and he says we've got to economize if we expect to find a better place, but you simply can't these days. No he's still with Miller and Miller dreadful—they pay the lowest sal-aries in town, but there's no help for it. It's bills—we seem haunted by bills. I hate them as much as anyone, but what can you do?"

This woman hates everything in her life; her house, her clothes, her meals, dishwashing and ironing and bedmaking—and she does nothing about it. Presently she begins to blame her husband for the whole thing; she convinces herself that she never really loved him, and honestly feels that any change would can't stand things the way they are any longer. So another home goes on the rocks simply because mother and wife takes the negative instead of the positive attitude.

Cure Is in Your Heart.

If you happen to be one of the women who doesn't want anything she has, but at the same time hasn't formed any definite picture of what she does want, the cure for you lies entirely in your own heart and mind. This is one of the miracles of life, and it is a pity not to take advantage of it.

In other words, stop thinking of what you don't want, and begin to think of what you do. It sounds simple, but it takes some courage, some imagination, some consistency to

Once you get started, everything is smooth sailing. Your husband becomes not an obstruction and an enemy, but a partner. The things you dislike in your life become only so many upgrades to be passed on the road. When you get to the top of the slope, you get a finer view.

"We have pulled ourselves up by our own bootstraps," says a man's letter, which reached me this week. "Everything was going wrong with Tess and me, when she wrote you. Your so-much-older-advice sounded rather romantic and impracticable, at first, but we tried it. You said first to look the money question squarely the eye; this was hard. I wasted in my way and Tess hated any supervision of her expenditures. But we faced it, decided where we could cut, and took our two boys, then aged 7 and 9, into our councils. My salary was $300 a month, with no rent to pay. Our bills totaled $2,400. It scared us, and we decided that Tess should take part-time work un-til they were paid. This ended the divorce idea we'd both been entertaining in a half-hearted sort of way. The boys' spending money came down with a rush; we paid off all but $200 in bills in six months and began to buy government bonds. We taiked of nothing but a small

Many women are dissatisfied with their lot. There are always some problems that are hard to solve, some difficulties that seem almost unbearable at times. As Miss Norris points out, most women know what they don't want, but few know clearly exactly what they do want. The difference in attitude can make all the difference between kappiness and misery.

A NEW ATTITUDE

Two letters quoted in today's article bring this out. The first is from a woman who is complaining about everything . . the apartment, the children's school, her husband's salary . . and worst of all, the perpetual flood of bills.

The other letter is from a man whose wife had asked Miss Norris for advice some time ago. This couple was drifting toward divorce. They were just tired of the friction occasioned by life in a crowded apartment, and by the expenses that seemed always greater than they had expected. They decided to try the plan Miss Norris outlined. After a feu months they were out of debt. A little while later they were able to pay down on a little place in the country. Working in the garden and repairing the cottage gave them an objective and an country place, cost around $6,000 and one day we found it shabby, unlived in for years, rather remote, but priced at $2,400. We jumped at it, did painting, carpentering, gardening, built walls and paths, window-boxes and a bathroom, and had more fun than we've ever had in our That was two years ago; we're out of debt now, the new busline runs by our corner, we've been offered $11,000 for our property and wouldn't dream of selling.

Everything Rosy Now.

"My salary is now $400 and Tess and the boys sell sandwiches and mugs of coffee for 25 cents all day Saturday and Sunday to passersby, down under the trees at the gate. Last season they put more than $900 in the bank, and the boys' college expenses are safe.

"We were a negative, unsatisfied, crowded family in a five-room flat, four years ago, a family that knew what it didn't want, but had no idea what it did.

"We were still crowded, in debt, worried, unsympathetic, when we sat down to face the situation and begin to say 'we do,' instead of 'we don't.' Now we are independent, strong, our boys normal happy youngsters, and my wife and I more united than we were when we were bride and groom. We've lately been joined by a young lady who takes it for granted that we think her more precious than the Koh-i-noor diamond, and she is right."

This is a true letter, and the fact is true, too. Change from thinking what you don't want to thinking what you do want, and watch your life shape into a similar miracle.

Women Barred From Colleges

American colleges and universi-ties, in giving priority to returning veterans and civilian men, are bar-ring tens of thousands of women from higher education.

Speakers, representing 200 institutions, urge colleges to provide facilities for women as well as for veterans. Refreshing Drinks

For a simple meal at home, for that brief stop in the afternoon when

PRIENDS AT BETHANY

LESSON TEXT—Mark 14:3-9; Luke 10: 8-42; John 11:1-3. MEMORY SELECTION — Let us love one another: for love is of God.—I John

Friendship comes to those who are friendly. That response of heart to heart, which opens up the deep wells of mutual devotion, is one of life's richest experiences.

There is too little true friendship in the world because men and women have not learned of the Lord Jesus what it means to be a real

There are mutual privileges and correspondingly mutual responsibili-ties in friendship. There are sorrows to share as well as joys, and there are times when there must be the outpouring of sacrificial de-

"There's not a friend like the lowly Jesus, no, not one!" is not just the sentiment of a hymn writer. There is no friend like the Lord. He, therefore, merits our fullest de-

There are three incidents in our lesson, all of which took place in Bethany, the little village near Jeru-salem where our Lord had found real friends. He went there to rest, to pray, and to find companionship. These incidents reveal that

1. Love Gives All in Sacrificial Deretien (Mark 14:3-9).

A rather shocking thing took place in the home of Simon. Jesus, his distinguished guest, was at dinner with the disciples, when a woman walked in unannounced and anointed his head with costly spikenard ointment. The disciples were surprised, and led by the betrayer. Judas, who had his hands on and in the money bags, they protested such awful waste.

Think of it, the value of this cipt.

Think of it—the value of this ointment was 300 pence, the equivalent (we are told) of 500 days of work. That means in our day it would be worth from three to five thousand dollars.

She should have stopped to think!
Some lesser gift would have shown her love, and this rich gift could have been used for the poor!
Thus reasons the cool, calculating church member; but the believer with his heart full of love for the Master, gives without stint.
The Lord benered her gift, and ac-

The Lord honored her gift, and accepted it as the anointing of his body for his coming death. He reminded them that they would always have the poor to care for, and he would soon be gone. Love which never overflows in the abandonment of sacrifice for the one beloved is a cold and distant thing; in fact, one wonders if it really should be dignified by calling

For the adult crowd, there are an entirely different set of beverages which are certain to delight. Both of these it love at all.

The Lord is looking for followers who are willing to give themselves freely and gladly for him, pouring out the lovely fragrance of a life fully yielded to him.

II. Love Shares the Fellowship of Joy (Luke 10:38-42).

Add chocolate to coffee in top of double boiler and place over a low flame, stirring until chocolate is melted and blended. Add sugar to salt and boil 4 minutes, stirring constantly. Place over boiling water. Add milk gradually, stirring constantly. Heat, then beat with rotary beater until frothy. Cool. Pour over cracked ice and top with whipped cream.

Jey (Luke 10:38-42).

The little home of Mary, Martha and Lazarus in Bethany was lighted up by that intangible but delightful glow which comes with a friend who honors one's home by his or her presence.

He had often been in this home. Here he found relaxation and comfort. Here he gave of himself in fellowship and blessing.

But there was a shadow over this visit. Martha, eager to have a good dinner, was "cumbered" in heart and soon became critical of Mary because she sat at Jesus' feet.

Do not assume that Mary had not done her share of the work. She had, but she "also sat at Jesus' feet." In other words, she knew when the time had come to quit fussing and to get some real fellowship out of the joy of having Jesus in the home.

out of the joy of having Jesus in the home.

We who love and serve the Lord need to watch lest we become so "cumbered with much serving" that we lose out spiritually. We can become so busy with church work, holding offices in religious organizations. Add coffee, spices and salt to milk and heat in double boiler until scalded. Strain and return to double boiler. Add chocolate and heat until it melts. Mix sugar and flour and add gradually to chocolate and cook and stir until thickened. Then cook tions, yes, even with preaching and teaching, that we do not have time for personal fellowship with the Lord.

III. Love Bears the Burden of Sor-row (John 11:1-3).

rew (John 11:1-3).

The very home where joy was the portion one day, became the house of sickness, death and sorrow on another day. Life is like that—we may all expect that tragedy, sickness and trouble will come.

What then? Well, you will find that some of your professed friends will disappear. They are fairweather companions. They have no taste for storms. Real friends will stand by, and what a treasure they prove to be!

But here again, the best friend of all is Jesus. When Lazarus was sick, "his sisters sent unto him." Send for Jesus in the hour of need! Oh, it is true that he did not come until Lazarus was dead, but he had a good reason for that, and in due time he came. Boil corn syrup and water together for 3 minutes. Remove tips from mint and crush stalks into the hot syrup. Add tips and let stand for 30 minutes. Strain. Add lemon juice and grapefruit juice. Chill thoroughly. Pour over ice in tall glasses and just before serving add gingerale. Garnish with additional mint and whole strawberries, if desired.

Saddles

Casper, Wyo., boasts a saddle maker who has been at the business for forty years in that city. He knows his trade, a fact not hard to prove. You see there are a great many people in his state who know a good saddle when they see one and a saddle maker has to be good to stay in business long in Wyo-Not many days ago 1 dropped into his shop and got intro-

I was a prospective customer. We need a couple of good saddles at the Harding College stable and had shopped close to home with no success. To my astonishment the Casper saddler was no better able to supply our needs than those in Memphis or Little Rock. He was able, however, to give me some facts I had not learned before from any of the saddle stores visited Saddletrees Scarce. A good saddle is built on a wooden frame called a tree, much as a shoe is built on a wooden last, except that the tree is built into the saddle and becomes a permanent part of it. Saddletrees are made by men of a highly specialized craft. Trees have to be shaped right, no bulkier and no heavier than strength and design require.

Men able to do such things with wood are by no means common. During the war Uncle Sam needed skillful saddletree men in the construction of gliders. "The government employed most of them at about $160 a week," the saddler declared. Good saddles not being made any more, might have sky-rocketed in price but the Office of Price Administration fixed a ceiling to stop it. Stocks of new saddles soon were bought up by users at ceiling prices.

But the War Is Over Now the glider business is slack. Wonders have been done with gliders and they are not being forgot-ten, but fewer are being built. Unemployed saddletree men wou like to start building saddletrees hike to start building saddletrees again—there's quite a demand. Living costs have built up, however, and they think they ought to have $120 a week. That's $6,000 a year and 25% under their defense-plant scale of pay. scale of pay.

Saddle manufacturers, like the one in Casper, want trees because -no trees, no saddles. They are willing to pay tree builders $120 a week and wouldn't kick a bit if saddles might be sold at prices they would easily bring. I guess there are thousands of customers besides me who are ready to pay more for a saddle than it would have cost in the months immediately before the

Ceiling Lingers On

"If today I engaged a good tree paid him $120 a week in return or his best services and most competent work, and then sold the total product at ceiling prices, it would pay about three-fourths of the wages of the man who made the tree." Obviously it is out of bal-ance. Craftsmen, manufacturers, dealers and users are all waiting or ceilings to lift.
The saddle business is not large when you contrast it to automobil and railroads, but it is no isolated case. Many small business men are smothering for sales that are tied up by O.P.A. Small plants, employing less than 1,000 men, provide jobs for 78% of industrial workride jobs for 18% of industrial work-ers. Carried too far, this price pol-icy can bring panic and poverty. Liquidating some war-year bureaus would help balance the national budget and help clear the way for new and much needed production.

Henry Ford, at 82 years of age, helped farmers at Tecumseh, Mich. plant and harvest wheat crops.

Nothing at all is said about his coming to claim the rancho he thinks he has won!" Seconds of silence followed

"Dios!" whispered Doane. "It was my first job under Sam Flick. That's why I remember so well. I came down to Rancho Hermanos with the coroner. They told us the old man was some cholo horsethief. No name for him. I even congratu-lated La Rue on his marksmanship." Monte shrugged. "So it would

Monte studied him for a long while behind the wisps of blue cigarette smoke. The gray-green eyes showed no emotion. Finally Monte smiled slightly.

"My frien'," he said, "I thought that I would come to like you in the end."

Sheriff Sam Flick of San Loreto was in a funk. Railroad officials were pressing him on one hand; Star La Rue on the other. There were fifty rumors, and one single fact. The fact was that five horsemen had turned north from the point of the train robbery at Sand Wells and hit for the desert recesses of San Loreto county. Flick knew that they might have ridden five. or fifty miles north, and also that they then had the quarters of the compass to choose from.

Eight days had passed since the night of the hold-up at Sand Wells, and the ninth dawned with equal lack of promise. The sheriff had been back from his own trip to Sand down in this country. Usually he loses at the cards. But always he comes back, waiting for that some-Wells for some forty-eight hours, returning by way of Maxmilla City. If he now took a posse into the des-ert he knew it faced failure; if he didn't, he failed before he began, with corresponding criticism. Flick's one hope was Doane.

Better than eight days now since Doane had left for the scene. Noth ing had been heard from him. Nothing was known, except that he had ridden promptly north on the sup-posed trail of the fugitives. Doane was the very backbone of Flick's law enforcement, and in his secret heart Flick recognized the fact. It added to his helplessness. Day by day he had confidently expected Doane's return. In Sand Wells, he had confidently expected to see his deputy ride into the horizon at every deputy ride into the horizon at every turn. Such delay had meant just one thing to the sheriff at first: Doane had hit a hot trail, too hot to drop, hanging on alone. Doane might do a thing like that. Knowing his deputy, the only thing Flick didn't expect was utter failure.

The sheriff sat over his office desk -brooding, sweating, irritable. The hour was mid-morning, the ninth

Cheerful Curtains for Kitchen Are Made from Chintz Goods

By Ertta Haley

A RE your kitchen curtains weary after year-long use? Is the material too heavy to be suitable for warrier days ahead?

If you have either of these problems and cannot find a nice materials.

rial for curtains, perhaps you have an old chintz bedspread or drapery material tucked away in an old trunk in the attic. This is ideal for sewing gay attractive framing for kitchen

A single-sized bedspread will usually yield at least two pair of one or two piece curtains for kitchen windows. Yes, this includes ruffle from the same material, too.
Of course, if you prefer to make the curtains look just a little bit more tailored, then you might consider trimming the edges with a contrasting colored piping, particularly if the pattern of the material is well-covered with a floral design.

Your best pattern for kitchen windows is to cut a tissue paper fac-simile of the curtains you now use. I am assuming they are the cor-rect length and fit properly. The important thing in windows is to have sufficient fullness so the cur-tains do not look skimpy.

If your home, and particularly the kitchen is done in a very early American motif or is strictly modern, you might forego some of the fullness for an effect of simplicity or good tailoring. Then you will plan to clothe the windows differently: avoid the ruffle, settle for bric-a-brae or a contrasting band around the edge, and let the curtain fall in soft folds rather than in a gathered ef-

Correct Measurements For Curtains

Curtains are generally measured from the rod to the sill. If you do not have curtains that fit well, it is well to make the measurement and see that you have ample fullness and length.

If you are using a piece of old material as suggested, and it has allow the two inches per yard of shrinkage as is done in new mate-rial, but you will have to make al-lowances for the following: bottom hem, which is two inches plus a nem, which is two inches plus a one-quarter inch turn; top heading which is one and one-half inches and casing which is one inch plus one-quarter inch for turning.

If you are making sash curtains—two piece or half curtains, as they are sometimes called-measure from the center rod to the bottom of the sill for the lower half. For the upper half, measure from the top rod to one and one-half to two inches below the center rod. If desired, the two parts may be in different materials and colors.

Procedure Given for Making Curtains

It is very important to have all edges absolutely straight before starting to sew on the curtains, as sew some kitchen curtains.

they hang within plain sight of everyone and can give a slightly askew appearance to the room if they are lopsided. Straighten the ends of the fabric by tearing or pulling a thread. Measure from this end and if necessary straighten the fabric. Watch this closely when working with a printed fabric.

Some women prefer leaving the selvage on the curtain to save sewing a side, but it is advisable to cut it off and finish the material. The selvage edge may shrink and give the curtains, and naturally the room, a rather bizarre appearance. If the selvage is removed, make a hem on the fabric. If plain stitching is not desired for the hem, the material may be hemstitched or derned with col-ored stitches, featherstitched or even bound in harmonizing or contrasting colors.

Casings at the top of the curtain usually depend upon the size of the rod. This may require from one and one-half to two inches. If you are worried about shrinkage, place a tuck across the curtain one the inches. tuck across the curtain on the in-side below the casing. Use a long stitch on the machine for this or baste in place.

If you have decided upon ruffles for your curtains, then measure one of the long sides and the bottom and make the ruffle two and one-half times this length. Use long stitches on the machine first, then gather to fit the curtain, the ruffle going to the inside of the curtain and at the bottom. If you have tiebacks for the curtains, here again, use two and one-half times the length of the tie for making the ruf-

For placing the ruffle on the curtain stitch in place and finish with a french seam. For the tie backs, however, tuck the ruffle in-between the material (tiebacks are made of a wide piece of material folded) and stitch once or twice on the edge, depending upon the fabric.

Furnishings

Women who are handy with the needle can do a lot toward mak-ing the home attractive and liva-ble. Slipcovers and draperies, well matched and with an eye to good taste, can bring together a room if it contains many odd pieces of furniture.

For dark rooms, consider the lighter fabrics to add cheer to the room. For bright rooms, you may use darker colors.

If you live near an industrial section, choose fabrics that launder easily so that you can keep clean and still be kind to your cleaning budget. It is worthwhile to buy good fabrics with good finishes for covering muchused chairs, etc.

When selecting binding and draperies for chairs and sofas. make sure that the material is far better to hunt than try to mend or re-dye the binding after the first cleaning.

Lion Tamer Has 538 Stitches Where Big Cats Clawed and Bit

By AL JEDLICKA

There is no doubt that the lion reigns as the king of beasts, says Terrell Jacobs of Barnes Brothers circus, which opened its summer swing in the Chicago stadium. On the question Jacobs, who has broken over 500 beasts in 26 years, is even led to philosophize a little.

The modern circus dates from the

for exploitation.

The lion is king, says Jacobs, be-cause the Creator made him to be out with cats over two years of age king by supplying him with a great mane underneath his neck which prevents other beasts from ripping his jugular vein while he claws them to pieces.

Expert that he is, Jacobs has had his close calls in the cage and he can show 538 stitches on his body to prove it. Where the scarred flesh depressed, that's where he was bitten, and where it's jagged, that's where he was clawed.

No less than 54 wounds were inflicted up in Minneapolis, Minn., where a leopard, frightened by the collapse of a wall of the arena. leaped from its stand and mauled Jacobs around before it was driven off. On another occasion, one lion came at him in Peru, Ind., and three others joined in to clamber atop of him before one cat came to his rescue and snapped at his attackers.

No, it wasn't any case of lovalty," he adds. "The rescuer just saw a good chance to rip into some of the others it didn't like.

Cats Are Not Loyal.

Cracking his whip and firing his 38 revolver, Jacobs enters the huge circular cage to get the roaring and snarling cats to climb up onto their stands and sit, and then clamber down to lie down in a cluster before him. While shaggy "Sammy" walks a tight-rope and rolls a barrel led to his employment as an ap-"Sheba" rises on her to him. haunches to follow Jacobs in a ponderous waltz.

Born to the circus, the stocky, muscular Jacobs is the coolest person in the house when he steps into the cage. Precisely because of the danger which confronts him with each performance and the prime importance of headwork in handling beasts, he must remain cool to assure his own safety. Young Ones Easily Injured.

When it comes to taming lions and tigers, headwork plays the chief role, Jacobs says. By studying the antics of a cat, a trainer can obtain a knowledge of his peculiarities and then strive to counteract them. For instance, when Jacobs first sought to teach a lion to roll a barrel to him, the cat would slide off the sloping end and upset it. Failing to get the animal to push the barrel ahead, Jacobs then fastened an angle iron flange around the center to cut into the dirt and hold it straight. In that way, the lion was taught to keep an even course.

In training lions, Jacobs starts

June Again Set for National Dairy Week in United States

With production and distribution of milk at the highest levels in history, "Dairy Month" is celebrating its tenth anniversary through the month of June. Again the dairy industry calls attention of the public to the vital part played by milk and dairy products in America.

In the beginning, however, the observance was neither a "month" nor was it June. In 1937 the dairy industry promoted a national milk week for November 14 to 20 in an effort to sell more milk and ice cream. Everyone was urged to purchase an extra quart of milk on Friday of that week. It was not until 1939 that dairymen, fountain operators and others decided to pron dairy products one month of the year. June was selected because it is the time of year when milk production is the greatest.

Milk cows were first brought to America in 1611 for the Jamestown colony. In 1624 a few cows arrived for the Plymouth colony. The first regular shipment of milk by rail was inaugurated in 1841, from Orange county to New York City.

Pasteur experiments were started in 1856, and since that time the dairy industry has made rapid progress. The milk bottle was not invented by Dr. Hervey D. Thatcher of Potsdam, N. Y., until 1884.

Fluid milk was not included in the army diet until 1933, but during World War II the use of milk and dairy products by the armed forces was a must.

BERKELEY, CALIF. - In the western part of the United States, the average young woman is 5 feet, 3¼ inches tall and weighs 127 ounds, while the average male is 5 feet, 8% inches in height and weighs 153½ pounds.

These averages were gathered in a measurement survey by Dr. Theo-dore D. McCown, University of California anthropologist, for the committee on prosthetic devices of the National Research council. The study was made to obtain average arm and leg measurements, and the standard statistics obtained will be used in the improvement of artificial limbs.

The 1,000 young women measured were college students and WAVES. Men measured included 800 soldiers and sailors, 700 college students, and 300 males from the general population. Greater differ-ences were found among the college students than among the soldiers and sailors. College students were about one inch taller and two and one-quarter pounds heavier than military personnel.

Good Lighting Adds to Comfortable Living

G to cheerful and comfortable living but also provides a cheap form of accident prevention, writes Myrtle Fahsbender, director of Capper's Farmer, a magazine of national circulation

"To say 'home is what the abc's ows in the room. of good lighting help to make it' is to take considerable liberty with a very tender expression," she points out in the magazine read by 1,250,-000 farm families. "But it's paraphrased with real sincerity. For unless a home is cheerful and comfortable by night, as well as during daylight, it has sacrificed some of the livability good lighting can give. Good light can bring an almost sun-light quality of illumination to after-rative effect.

OOD home lighting not only adds | dark eye tasks. It can make or man the beauty of a home.

Among the basic principles for good lighting are: 1-A carefully thought-out-over-all plan for the job; home lighting for Westinghouse in Capper's Farmer, a magazine of national circulation.

It Was Tried

Soon after V-E Day, Col. Edward D. Churchill, surgical consultant of the Allied Mediterranean forces, toured six German military hospital areas and reported his findings. The report is most significant in the light of efforts to make medicine the servant of politics in America. Comments on the report are here reprinted by permission of COL-LIERS, the National Weekly.

'As we all know, American doctors' care of wounded in this war has been and continues phenomenal as regards its record-breaking percentages of cures and its development of new techniques and remedies. There was considerable expectation that the German doctors . . . would have some pretty phe-nomenal achievements of their own to report . . . but Colonel Churchill did not find them. A Generation Behind

"His over-all conclusion . . . was that German handling of wounded American procedure. Going into details, he reported that German army dectors as a rule just casually passed up badly wounded men on the assumption that they were going to die anyway, whereas our doctors fight to the last gasp for every wounded man's life, and frequently win. . . . "As for professional pride in pulling off near-miracles of cure or amelioration, such pride just was not is the bulk of German military physicians and surgeons. . . They were victims of apathy and lack of ambition which would enrage a typical American doctor. This is a sad backslide from Germany's proud position as world leader in medicine and surgery in the pre-Hitler days. How Did It Happen? "Are there any lessons in it for us? It began to happen soon after Hitler saddled his brand of totalitarianism on Germany. It seems reasonable to conclude that it happened because Hitler saddled Nazi totalitarianism on Germany. . . In Nazi philosophy, your race and poli-tics matter far more than your brains and talents. You might be a brilliant physician or surgeon or research scientist, but if you were a Jew or an anti-

Nazi of any description, you had to get out of Germany if you could, go to a concentration camp if you couldn't get out. Thus Hitler and his crew decimated German science. Their masterrace convictions, too, led logically to . . the use, in some concentration camps, of humans of "inferior" breed as guinea pigs for . . . laboratory experiment Medicine vs. Politics "Ruled by the politicians and browbeaten by Nazi gangsters, German medicine (on the strength of Colonel Churchill's findings, at any rate) withered and, in due time, the German armed forces paid, in . . . bigger death totals than they need have suffered." Here is the sound conclusion reached by Collier's, a conclusion in which America's best doctors concur: "The lesson in the German ex-"The lesson in the German experience seems clear enough. . . . There is no substitute for a free, bold and inquisitive medical profession or for generously financed and expertly staffed medical research, carried on year-in and year-out. It is devotedly to be hoped that the lesson of the German medical collapse will not be lost on us."

1948 Long Way Off, but Taft Looms as GOP Hope

It's a great time to lean back in a chair in the Senate office building or thereabouts, open another bottle of White Rock, light another seegar, and burble on about what's going to happen come November, and, still more intriguing, to prognosticate on presidential possibilities.

It's fun for the newcomers because it's so easy for them to preing right now, just what will happen then. It's still more fun for the old timers because they know that the voters who may not love you in the autumn often seem very palsy in the spring-and vice versa.

Since there isn't much use in spec-ulating on who the Democratic presidential nominee will be, it's more interesting to talk about Republican

Perhaps that is why, along about the middle of May, the heavy backers of Bob Taft began to be heard from. Up until then, most of the talk in the couloirs was how Bricker was the No. 1 boy, and how Stassen mustn't even be mentioned above a whisper. Even Stassen's own men decided it was better for the young man from Minnesota to keep his head down so he wouldn't attract any lightning until he had found out whether his forums were more potent than the against-em's.

Now it's getting to be more serious fun to talk about Taft. Taft wants to be President. He has wanted to be President behas wanted to be President before. He is pretty much master of the Republican organization, but even if he weren't.
Bricker, his present friend and rival, is more "beatable," despite the good impression he made on his speaking tour before the last convention . . .
what with the leftist look in so many veterans' even.

Bricker has a staunch and solid conservative following. But it is a little too solidly conservative. Taft fact, his political garden has never produced even a pale and lonely pink. On the other hand, his supporters prudently can point to many a constructively liberal measure which has had his blessing.

Only the other day, I was talking with an ardent administration of ficial who has been battling for a measure badly battered by conserv atives of both political stripes. I asked him if he could expect to retrieve in the senate a certain pro-vision in his legislation, lost in the

"Oh, yes," he answered, "Bob Taft will go along on that."

And Taft has a good liberal record on such mass-appeal measures

The Republicans don't have to deal with the old-line bosses to the extent that the Democrats do and in two of the larger cities where the Republican machine is vital—Philadelphia and Cincinnati— everything would be jake so far as Taft is concerned. He, himself, is kingpin in his home state organization... and Mr. Pew, who makes the Republican wheels go round in Pennsylvania, wanted Taft in '40 and '44. It is to be presumed he'll feel the same be presumed he'll feel the same

This doesn't eliminate other brilliant possibilities, including Messrs. Stassen and Vandenberg, both of whose political futures may be molded by international develop-

Mr. Vandenberg has done a lot of the molding himself. This could work both ways. On the one hand, the energy and devotion with which Mr. Vandenberg has applied him-self to foreign affairs, and the pow-erful influence he has exerted, have greatly increased his silhouette on Mr. Vandenberg has applied him-self to foreign affairs, and the pow-

Times change, almost kaleidoscop-ically, these days. The presidential candidate of tomorrow may turn out to be (if you'll excuse my Irish) a dark horse of an entirely different

Recently President Truman Recently President Truman was called upon to comment on the work of the distinguished columnist, Walter Lippmann. Lippmann expounded the somewhat startling theme—with even more startling trimmings—that Britain and Russia were pursuing a foreign policy based on the possibility, if not the probability of war, with each side hoping to enlist eventual German support.

In fact, Mr. Lippmann even discovered an invisible German army in the British zone. (I don't mean that literally, for I understand that he did not visit the British zone in his ur of investigation.)

The President's comment was that hindsight was better than fore-sight, but as far as a hidden army was concerned, he never heard of it . . . and didn't think it existed.

The same day, Mr. Truman was asked to comment on the statement of another distinguished correspond-ent, Harold Callender, Paris cor-respondent for the New York Times. Mr. Callender had reported a sharp reversal of American foreign policy toward Russia. The President slapped that down, too, saying that he knew of no change . . . and he made the policy.

In the case of Walter Lipp-mann, I believe that he is voic-ing what many of us who have followed recently international gatherings and who have been in Europe since the war, agree upon: namely, that the states-men of the major European powers have fallen into the old pattern ... having their diplo pattern . . . basing their diplo macy on the thesis that war is more or less inevitable, insteac of the new pattern where the objective is to prevent war rather than prepare for it.

Another theme of Lippmann's which is not held by him alone, to which this writer certainly agrees, is that the problem of the proper

THE NAVY'S BUREAUS

WASHINGTON.—If Secretary of the Navy James Forrestal wants to head off the army-navy merger, he might do some merging in his own department. As it is, some of his reserve officers are about ready to believe the army is right.

Perhaps because the navy is suffering from admiralitis (too many admirals), Forrestal has set up a special duplicating public relations co-ordinator. This bureau does exactly what another bureau also does. Chief difference between them is that one is on the first floor (deck in the navy), the other on the third floor) one is commanded by a vice admiral, the other by a rear admiral; finally, the rear admiral takes a few hours to do a job while the vice admiral sometimes takes a few days.

Hitherto, navy public relations have been handled by efficient young Rear Adm. "Min" Miller, one of the up-and-coming youngsters in the navy. If you need a speaker for a naval rally, want to stage an air show, or have a ship visit your city. Miller usually has been able to arrange it in a few hours.

But now, Vice Adm. Arthur S. But now, Vice Adm. Artists of Carpender, newly appointed co-ordinator of public relations, sits in naval splendor with a staff of five senior officers. a large force of junior officers, and a small army of WAVES and enlisted men.

THE BALKY SWISS

Insiders say that Switzerland, the little nation which posed as the benign and friendly neutral, is now displaying the same tactics as the Capone gang in hanging on to Nazi

The secret negotiations now going on in Washington to recover Nazi gold from Switzerland have been carefully guarded, but it has leaked out that Switzerland's policy is to keep all the gold which the Germans stole from France, Denmark, Belgium and other occupied countries and sent to Switzerland for safe-

Like the Capone gang, the Swiss won't return this looted gold to France, Denmark, Bel-gium and other countries from which it was stolen.

Despite all this, some treasury officials urge a lenient policy toward the Swiss. It happens that they have $1,500,000,000 of assets now frozen in this country including $500,000,000 in gold, and the French are preparing to clap a lien on these assets. Some treasury officials, however, are opposed.

Not so, however, sage Secre-tary of the Treasury Fred Vinson, who remembers all the Swiss collaboration with the Nazis during the war.

"Down in my state," drawled the Kentuckian, "when you bet on the wrong horse, you pay off. The Swiss bet on the wrong

VETERANS COME SECOND

Young GOP Rep. James G. Ful-ton of Pennsylvania, a Pacific war vet., did some vigorous protesting about the way veterans are being "stood up" on surplus war goods when he called at the White House.

"Veterans are just not getting an even break in the present setup," he told the President. The Pennsylvania congressman also gave Truman some inside slants on RFC purchases of aban-doned property which would war-rant congressional scrutiny. He re-ported that no effort is being made to sell army and navy equipment piled helter-skelter in and around a Pennsylvania glue factory pur-chased by the RFC in May, 1945, for use as a surplus property depot.

RED ARMY WITHDRAWS

The inscrutable Russians have a way of refusing to do something when asked, and then going ahead and doing it when not asked. For instance, Secretary of State James Byrnes has been hammering at the Russians to reduce their troops in the Balkans, Austria and Hungary.

Among other things he has warned that the United States won't send food into these countries while tremendous Russian armies are living off the land, in effect taking away food we send in.

Foreign Commissar Vyacheslay Molotov, however, has turned a deaf ear to Byrnes' plea. He has been just as stubborn on this as about most things.

But here is the payoff. U. S. representatives in Vienna have wired the state department that the Red army has started a large scale withdrawal from Austria. There is no explanation, and state department officials are mystified as to the reason.

UNDER THE DOME

Democratic National Committee Chairman Bob Hannegan tried to submit his resignation to President Truman last week-end, but was turned down cold. Hannegan's wife turned down cold. Hannegan's wife and doctor are both urging him to resign. However, the President told Hannegan he could not be spared, at least until after the November elections. . . Dutch Villagers Adopt U.S. Graves

Continuous Care Is Pledged, It Is Announced.

DEVAULT, PA. - Margraten, a village in the Netherlands, is adopting for continuous care graves of American soldiers buried in the United States military cemetery there, according to Postmistress Isabel Favinger.

When she received official word of her son's death she wrote the war department asking where he had been buried. Told his grave was in the Margraten cemetery, she wrote the burgomaster of Margraten. The Rev. John Heuschen, head of the grave regularly, place flowers there and correspond regularly with Buddy's next of kin. The teacher hoped to have "the first tulip bulbs" on young Favinger's grave for Easter, Mrs. Favinger said she wrote. The postmistress from the little Pennsylvania community said Father Heuschen now was busy with a great action throughout the Netherlands in favor of the adopt-tion of graves" of American soldiers by Dutch families. He has asked her aid, she said, writing that "most of the home addresses of the fallen eroes are unknown to us.

Father Heuschen wants the nearest of kin of all buried in the Margraten cemetery to send him their names and addresses and the locations of the graves of the dead sol-diers, Mrs. Favinger reports. She says he'll send each a certificate of adoption and assurance Dutch flowers will grow on American graves.

American Girl Adopts French Orphan Baby

She found, however, that Hol-land's laws do not permit a war orphan to leave the country. Then she met a French woman who told of an adoption society in the south of France. There she found Patrick and fell in love with him.

Atom Aid to Cooperation

Compton Says Brotherhood Is Necessary to Survival In This New Age.

NEW YORK. - The development of atomic energy has accelerated "certain human trends" toward in creased co-operation, education in understanding others and seeking of common objectives for all mankind Dr. Arthur H. Compton, atomic physicist and co-chairman of the national conference of Christian and Jews declared here.

Dr. Compton stressed the impor-tance of recognizing these trends and adjusting to them, adding that "brotherhood is a necessary con-comitant to survival in the atomic age." He spoke at a luncheon held in the Hotel Biltmore for the cab inet and executive committee of the Sees Wide Use of Atom.

No nation can afford to be with out atomic energy, since it will probably eventually become an ex-tremely cheap source of power, Dr. Compton asserted. Already atomic energy in controlled form has been used to produce plutonium "10,59 times more efficiently than any electrical method devised before." Noting possibilities for medical and scientific research through the artificial radiation of matter, Dr. Compton said that every important nation must, for its economic de-velopment and welfare, exploit atomic energy on a controlled bass.

"As we consider then the needs of the atomic world, it is clear that our need is that of co-operation," he declared. "A society that is be coming more and more con-plex needs specialists, and those specialists have to work together. That is the direction in which modern society is evolving."

Defines Objectives. In such a society the develop-ment of antagonism has as a con-lary the development of "trajo weaknesses," he held. Therefore, he added, the second trend toward learning to live together involves learning to understand one anoth and leads directly to the third tree the discovery of united objects toward which all mankind can work In wartime these objectives were obvious, he said, but in peacetime they are harder to find. He define them as objectives that will enable the individual to contribute must of ficiently to the common weifs with the most important being elim nation of war. "You cannot have freedom union you know what the values are the you want, and unless you know how to work effectively to secur them," he said. "That is the tail

TRAINING FOR SERVICE

LESSON TEXT - Mark 6-7-13: Luke MEMORY SELECTION - And he that taketh not his cross, and followeth after is not worthy of me. - Matthew 10:38. Workers for God, and with God! Such is the high privilege of the men and women who respond to his call and who go out to witness for him. On the one side, we have a world desperately in need of the gospel, perhaps more so than any generation in history. On the other hand, we have the gospel of the saving grace of God in Christ Jesus, the only solution to the problems of mankind, the perfect answer to man's

How shall these two be brought together? By sending out witnesses to tell the glad tidings of redemption and peace. Where shall we find these witnesses? In the church, for only the believer in Christ is qualifled to tell others of his saving

Our lesson, in telling of the Lord's calling and sending forth laborers into his harvest field, gives us much helpful instruction regarding serv-ice for the Lord. We learn that L. God Provides for His Workers

Jesus sent out his twelve disciples two by two, thus providing every worker with fellowship and help in hours of discouragement and trial. This also served to keep a man in balance so that he would not become self-willed and proud of his own achievements. It was a wise provision. Perhaps the church should have observed it with more care, and thus have saved some good workers from going astray.

They were not to be cumbered with extra equipment, nor be concerned about their daily sustenance. The Lord would provide through the hospitality and generosity of his

Note that the expected hospitality was not to be allowed to hinder their work (cf. v. 10 with Luke 10:7). Many a preacher or evangelist has ruined a series of meetings by letting social life hinder prayer, soul-winning, or preparation for preach-II. God Gives Power to His Workers (Mark 6:7, 11-13). He gave them authority over evil spirits, so that they could drive them out. He gave them power to heal; he gave them power to preach effectively.

The man who goes forth to speak for the Lord does not have to muster up his own puny powers or depend on the weak arm of some human helper. His resources are infinite and omnipotent. He speaks for the Almighty God. He has a message with saving power.

All too often the servants of the Lord are apologetic and hesitant in their ministry. They mistake weakness for meekness, and in their de sire not to assert themselves, they fail to speak a ringing "Thus saith the Lord.

We need a revival of authoritative preaching, of that holy boldness which was not afraid to rebuke sin and any unwillingness to do the Lord's will (v. 11). We need a new emphasis on repentance (v. 12). III. God Calls Helpers for His

Workers (Luke 10: 1, 2). After the twelve were sent out, he called and commissioned the seventy. That blessed process has gone on ever since. How blessed it is that even in our day of unbelief and sin, hundreds of young men and women are going out to all the mission fields of the world to work with elder and experienced mission-

Perhaps these words will be read by some young man or woman who has felt the promptings of the Spirit of God to go into his service. Step out by faith just now, and begin to prepare yourself for God's service. If the writer of these notes can be of help to you, do not hesitate to write to him. God is looking for more workers.

Do not overlook the important admonition in verse 2. The Lord is waiting for his people to pray for laborers for fields which stand white and ready for harvest.

IV. God Requires Self-Denial of His Workers (Luke 14:25-27).

The mighty works and the powerful words of Jesus made it impossible for people to ignore him. Mul-titudes followed him, but he, knowing the fickleness of the human heart, faced them with the real demands of discipleship.

The Lord was never concerned with mere numbers. He wanted followers whose hearts were right. The church has broken down its testimony in the world by its frantic defor more members, great crowds, targe church buildings, at the expense of compromise of tes-

The requirement of the Lord is unmistakable. A man or woman who is to serve him must put him first. No worldly ambition or earthly friendship, no, not even the ten-der love of farcily, can come be-tween the Lord and his servant. He is either Lord of all, or he is not

You Eat Well When You Roast With Care

Flavorful Meats

There's not much choice of meat the markets today, but if you are fortunate enough to get any at all, consider yourself supremely lucky. Just in case you've forgotten some of the fine points in prepar-ine meat, I'm going to review some of the rules of od cooking today. For years, we've been telling you about cooking meats at low temperatures. Rationing and the meat scarcity have probably shown you more dramatically than anything else how important low temperature cooking is to getting the most of the meat. There's less shrinkage and more juicy meat to your credit if you'll keep the oven at 325 to 350 degrees Fahrenheit when roasting.

Another point to bear in mind is that no browning is necessary before roasting cuts of meat. Don't worry about their not browningthey will get well browned even moderate temperature.

If you are pot roasting, that is cooking meat with moisture and seasonings, you'll want to brown the meat after it's dredged with flour, but this is because the meat is cooked covered with liquid.

Here are some recipes for all types of meats which you may be able to find at least once a week Cook and season carefully so that you will really be able to enjoy the meat to the fullest. Barbecued Lamb Breast.

The Country Editor

It is fitting, we feel, upon the resignation of C. H. Doak from the Council, due to his health, to join with follows the council of the counc with folks of the town in expressing our thanks for his long service to the town. As Will Rogers once so wisely said. "I never met a man I didn't like". We can say amen to this of Mr. Doak. Oft times the writter has been in political expressition to er has been in political opposition to Mr. Doak and others, but at no time was this opposition related to personalities.

Coming on the Council in the dark days of the Depression, he found the City obligated for a vast sum, some $119,000, we believe. Using his keen business judgement in company with others on the Council, he worked the debt down to less than $34,000 of today with NO INCREASE IN TAXES NOR IN VALUATION. That was VALUATION. That was a pretty big job and well executed.

With sincerity we say "Thanks" from O'Donnell for some 12 years of service.

One of the most powerful loves is that of parent for child This af-fection is so prounounced in the animal world as to be classified as

It was especially fitting that the community, in company with our Legion saw fit to honor our heroic sons of World War II in a Memorial Service Sunday nite. The program including the music, the prayers, and the thoughts of the evening's speaker, Mr. Vickers of Lubbock, were especially suitable for the occasion

Reading the Honor Roll, we were deeply moved to see the heavy toll in lives that loved ones in this area paid for the Victory Many of the names included the once little cot-ton-headed boys who played ball in the lot next door -- since grown up to give and die that our mode of life may continue. Other names tacluded lads more recently moved to this area. Truly --- and we know our veterans agree, the heroes were the lads who waved farewell from the bus station --- and murched off veterans agree, the heroes were into eternity. Also, no less heroes were those who returned home wounded, many to always carry their injuries.

Yes, the Service did us good and caused us to redidicate our talents to a lasting, far-reaching peace that our Savior taught in His sermon on the Mount.

Shortly after the City Election chicken-brained clipped a "thought for today" from a daily paper and addressed it to the writer --- unidentified. clipping was NOT uncomplimentary but of course it, was the intentio of the sender to be insulting. Quite by accident we discovered the sendby comparison of the typing or he envelope

We mention the above only be cause lately another fellow citizen recived a pasted clipping on a post card. There again the thought in the clipping was not insulting but it does get under one's skin to

The postal department does not permit poison pen letters and if such grows to be a habit hereabout we would advise those interested to deliver same to Mac Noble for for-warding to the SBI. At hest it is childish to write unidentified let-

We oft wonder how international relations can graduate from mass bloodshed in solving probims when individuals can not solve their differences in man to man talk across the Council table. How many of our problems would evaporate if we had the guts to talk out a problem ----- for verily there is seidom a discussion but has two possible view-points.
