Plank Adopted by the Boys

(Copyright, W. N. S.)

O'Donnell is on the verge of one of the biggest building booms experienced in four years.

Contract was let Tuesday of this week for three new business houses to be erected on the north side of the square. Work is to begin Monday of next week and will be rushed with all possible speed with the hope of completing them by September 15th, before the fall rush is on.

Two of the buildings will be built by Mr. Hal Singleton, Sr., and will be 25x100 feet with 14 foot ceilings, each constructed of brick and tile, concrete floors and plastered throughout making them as near fire proof as is possible to build them.

The third building will be erected by W. Brinson adjoining the Singleton buildings on the east formerly occupied by J. G. McCarroll's Confectionery.

Contract was let to H. E. Lawler local contractor, and the cost of the three buildings will be between $16,000 and $18,000.

Nothing definite has been decided but it is rumored that three other brick business buildings will be erected in the vicinity near future...

Chevrolet Will Build More Than Million Cars During 1928

DETROIT, July 12.—Positive indication that the Chevrolet Motor Company in 1928 will again establish a new annual production record and go well beyond the million mark this year, was seen in an announcement here today by W. S. Knudsen, president, that output for the first six months of the year totaled 751,536 cars and trucks...

Responding to the greatest demand in its history, Chevrolet established new monthly production records every month this year. Like the five preceding months, June was the best sixth month in the history of the company with a total of 143,794 units...

Production in the first six months of the year exceeded the total output of the production of each preceding year.

Due to the steadily increasing popularity of the "Bigger and Better" car, production will continue at a high rate throughout the summer and fall.

One of the factors that made possible this record breaking production achievement was the opening of the mammoth assembly plant in Atlanta early this spring, providing Chevrolet with facilities for the production of 350 more units daily.

Chevrolet assembly plants throughout the country that contributed to the spectacular production achievement accomplished in the last six months include those at Flint, Mich., Tarrytown, N. Y., St. Louis, Mo., Buffalo, N. Y., Janesville, Wis., Atlanta, Ga., Oakland, Cal., and Norwood, O.

BOY SCOUTS TO MAKE INDIAN TOTEM POLES

One of the many interesting features of handicraft planned for the Boy Scouts at their Summer Camp at Post from July 30th to August 8th is the making of Indian Totem Poles. These weird symbols, which formed such a vital part in the history and religion of the North American Indian, will be of great interest to the boys.

An Indian Totem Pole is a series of grotesque figures representing the history of the individual, tribe, or some event of special importance. One of the poles at the Camp will give the story of the Post Camp in Indian Sign Language. It will show the heirs of the C. W. Post Estate have decided the Land to the Boy Scouts for the development of their camping program.

The Lesing Secret

By AD SCHUSTER (Copyright)

A MONTH ago Mortimer Lesing closed up his great house and departed for Europe where he had gone to circulate in Minion. The house set back from the street and surrounded by an iron fence was barred and boarded from the world. Where once had been the center of social life stood a bleak mansion.

Mortimer Lesing was the last of a notable family. It was he who lived in the great house to which came men of prominence. Minden was accustomed to seeing United States senators, even, drive up to the Lesing gate and the city gates.

At last it was rumored that Mortimer had died; that the ghost was in the great house. Then Phil Byram related an incident which brought the mystery out of the conversation of the few and made it town talk.

"I was walking near the place last night, real late," he said, "and was cutting across the street so I was hidden from the sidewalk by a row of trees. When I got so I could see the gate there was a man, a little fellow with a white beard. He was tugging at his neck and acting queer and then, then he disappeared."

"What?" "He seemed to sink out of sight and I planned to go to see him. I was dreaming. I know all the white-bearded men in Minden, but this was a stranger. Disappearing like that."

"I said before," Tom inches was not to be denied. "I heard noises in the house and I've heard them again. What do you say we go by tonight and listen?" He looked around the circle of Chess and Chess again.

"Not me," Phil Byram was nervous. "That little old man—I'll guess I'll wait until I reason him out."

"That night the members of the club with one exception, went to the Lesing house and, with their ears to the grating of the fence, listened for the noises. From somewhere in the big house came a rhythmic pounding. It stopped only for a moment and then came a tearing grinding sound.

"What, what are we going to do?" The group tightened for support awaiting the word of a leader and hoping it would counsel retreat. Dad Withers, striving to make his thin voice firm, plunged them into adventure.

"We'll go investigate. If it's a little man with white whiskers he can't hurt us. And if it's a ghost, they never do. Come on."

The Chess and Chesser club climbed the fence and made its way to the house. The sounds grew louder. They came from the basement. Then it was that Dad Withers, braving the supernatural, tore the boards from the window and revealed to the startled crowd of them all, Mortimer Lesing working over a carpenter's bench.

"Now that you are so close to it," Mortimer spoke politely, "you may as well climb through the window."

"Nice shop, isn't it," he said a little later and it was evident he was enjoying the disfigurement of his guests. Suddenly he changed and a look of relief came to his face.

"Gentlemen, you have known me as the proud and wealthy citizen. You don't know I started life as a carpenter and you did not know that the pretense and the strain of this life that has been mine was often unwellcome. No, no one was to blame. I had my time, but I thought, I have thought for a long time, that a vacation, a chance to putter in the shop and to be let alone would be welcome. Now you know."

Lessing drew a false beard from the fable drawer. "I heard Phil Byram approach just in time and was putting this on as he came up. Then I crawled under the fence and hid."

Again Dad Withers spoke to end an embarrassing silence, and it was with inspiration.

"I have some cabinet work I would like done. Mr. Lesing," he said, "and I'm wondering if you could do it."

WELLS HONORS WITH BRIDGE PARTY

Home of Mrs. E. T. never more charming than on Friday when she entertained her friends with a bridge party, honoring her cousin, Mrs. B. L. Lowden, and Mrs. B. L. Lowden, who was placed on the program after other decorations.

The last guest to enter was presented to the honoree, and after the game, and enjoying these diversions, Mrs. B. L. Lowden, who was placed on the program after other decorations.

MISSSES PALMER AND ROGERS ENTERTAIN WITH PICNIC

(Too Late for Last Issue)
Those most charming hostesses, Misses Erna D. Palmer and Alta Rodgers were never better represented than when they entertained with a moonlight picnic Saturday, June 31, honoring Miss Dorothy Duncan of Plainview.

Clever invitations cut in the shape of a quarter moon bore on one side this jingle:
"You'll meet with us and no honor
The gleam of the glorious moonlight
And enjoy the sentimental thrills
Of this old fashioned night!"

Irma D. and Alta.
At the Palmer Home.
R. S. V. P.
On the other side, "Charges for Moonshine," and the name of some edible were written on the rim of the moon helped fill out the menu.

The laughing, chattering, crowd met at 6:30 and a short time later they piled into cars and drove out to the first open section on the Fakhoka road where the ideal picnic picnic of sandwiches, potato chips, pickles, fruit cake, and ice cream cones was devoured. After a liberal portion of the eats had been consumed by each guest, such old games as "Drop the Handkerchief," "Three Dees" and a Round Table story were much enjoyed. The games were more enjoyed because the boys had to fix a flat and because they knew another freezer of cream was waiting. Those present were Miss Dorothy Duncan, Mary Wilder, Christine Milwee, Leta and Alta Rodgers, Mildred Poe of Hamlin, Irma D. Palmer, Messrs Eugene Wilder, J. V. Shook, David Chandler, Harold Ellis and Harvey Line.

The group was chaperoned by Mrs. Marvin Tull.

LEAGUE CELEBRATES FOURTH WITH PICNIC

The Epworth League acted as the League from O'Donnell and Seminole on the picnic at Canyon. Each guest brought chicken, bread, potato chips, etc. The chicken while the other eats spread and the hungry crowd filled time to return. The hosts served lemonade and refreshment. After the hiking and climbing a crowd till time to return. The longest distance and largest percentage of members having driven forty five having seven members on the cup this time. Members entertain the group at a picnic meeting, but the date has been decided.

WRIGHT CELEBRATES 3RD BIRTHDAY

Younger set still coming from front. Little Miss E. Wright celebrated her third birthday, July 6, with a party given by her mother, Mrs. Wright, each wearing happy faces, and carrying a tissue wrapped package. Numerous, one might almost say so, in their wishes for birthday, and the lovely one seemed to enjoy it fully.

The packages had been examined highly exciting games. Wright, assisted by Mesdames Gantt, Jack Ash and served delicious ice cake to the following: Mrs. Katherine, Wanda and Mrs. Maxine and Aline Marshall, Mary Joe and Helen Lawrence and Edwin C. Lambert, Willie and Ed.

Human Beings Are That

By EDGAR T. MONFORT

"YOU certainly have a wonderful little daughter, Macbreath. Look like a dapper, but isn't. Nice and sweet. Sort of old-fashioned in her manner toward men. That's what I call a fine girl."

Macbreath flicked the ashes from his cigar and looked out at the lovely golf course that stretched away from in front of the Westview Golf and Country club and slipped off into the trees in the distance.

"Emily's proved a theory I've always had," Macbreath said after a moment. "I'm certain in my own mind that fathers make the best mothers. It's the women who make flappers of their daughters. Now, I've raised her since she was ten, I've brought her up to be a man's sort of girl, taught her to obey me in everything, always to consider my wishes, but I've been careful to let her see my reasons for doing things; why I think my opinion best. Now, most girls choose their own boy friends, go with whom they please, but that isn't Emily. I know exactly whom she's going to marry. Of course, it may be years from now. I hope it will be, but he's a fine fellow, has money and position and all the qualities a husband should have. No crazy running off with the chauffeur or some little counter jumper in my family—just because he happens to wear his clothes wonderfully or look like a 'movie' actor. . . . She got interested in a fellow when she was off at school, Jim Atworth. It was pretty serious and he came down to see me, but I knew it would never do. The boy's a fine, clean fellow, but he has nothing and probably never will have, not much social position, either, I imagine. I talked to her about it, but she was perfectly reasonable, gave him up without a word and has been running around with a dozen others since."

"It certainly is wonderful to have a girl like that," said Montgomery slowly. "Now, my Margaret almost snatched her fingers in my face if I try to tell her anything; in fact, I'm honestly afraid of her. She says her life's her own and she'll live it to suit herself and those who don't like it can damn it. . . . And pecking parties, good Lord!"

"That's another thing Emily never does," said Macbreath with satisfaction. "We got confidential the other night on the porch and she told me that she never had kissed a man in her life."

Macbreath looked at his watch and went to his car. Montgomery left also for a bit of golf. The little group had scattered.

As the high-powered imported machine rurred along the boulevard that was flanked by magnificent lawns and shrubbery Macbreath's mind was still on his daughter, Emily. He was proud of her, but more especially of himself, for having made such a good job of her upbringing. She was on a par with the other experiences of his life, he reflected; he had finally controlled everything with which he had become concerned.

Emily met him at the door and after giving him a daughterly peck on the cheek danced over to the orthopedic and put on a jazz record.

"That's a hot song, isn't it, daddy? She laughed, tossing her silken tresses in a dainty and languidly turning the pages of a "movie" magazine. "What'd you old fogies talk about out at the club last afternoon? I bet it was about women."

"It was about you," said Macbreath, remembering the conversation with returning pride and satisfaction. "Well, that was an innocent enough topic," she confessed, "but what did you say about me?"

"Nothing of much interest. . . . I guess I'd better go up and get ready for dinner."

After dinner Macbreath went back to his club and bridge. Emily had a theater date, she explained, so she would not be lonely.

When Macbreath returned late that evening the house was all in darkness. Emily was already in bed, he decided. He went straight to his room and prepared for the night. As he threw back the covers of his bed his eye struck a note pinned to his pillow and quickly taking it to the light he read:

"Darling Dad:
"Don't think I don't love you because I just dote on my precious old foggy dad, but by the time you read this Jimmy Atworth and I will be married and speeding away on our honeymoon. I know you didn't approve of him but I did—so we just decided to take the plunge. There was no use in arguing or trying to reason it out with you because you never change your mind, so I'm doing like I've always had to do; say yes, dad, then go and do as I please.
"I love you heaps and bushels, and Jimmy and I'll be over to see you soon."
"Devotedly,
"EMILY."

When Macbreath had finished reading the note he dropped into a chair and held his head while his world of illusion tumbled down around his ears. After a long, long time he got up and crawled into bed.

"Oh, well," he said to his pillow with a wry smile, "human beings will be human, but I bet they rag me to death at the club tomorrow."

IT ISN'T YOUR TOWN—IT'S YOURS

If you want to live in the kind of a town,

Like the kind of a town you like, You needn't slip your clothes in a grip

And start on a long, long hike. You only find what you left behind.

There's nothing that is really new,

It's a knock at yourself when you knock at your town,

It isn't your town, it's you. Real towns are not made by men that are afraid,

Lest somebody else gets ahead, When everybody works and nobody shirks,

You can raise a town from the dead And if while you make your personal stake

Your neighbor can make one too, Your town will be what you want to see,

It isn't your town—it's you! —Given By J. E. McClung at Tuesday's Luncheon.

COLORADO'S "ICE CREAM" OIL WELL ATTRACTS CROWDS

On the north McCallum dome, Jackson county, Colorado, is an oil well whose output is 120 degrees Fahrenheit below zero. Its derrick floor is 8,240 feet above sea level. The oil is straw colored, and so clear that a person looking down into a 500-barrel tank may count the rivets on its walls. No visitor fails to note the jacket of ice which incases the fittings at the well head and covers all pipes leading therefrom and the whole upper part of the nearby separator tank. The light yellowish oil gives a creamy tinge hence the name.

The gas in the mixture is 80 per cent carbon dioxide with a small part of helium present also. The efficiency of the carbon dioxide of one way is being sought to save the 30,000,000 cubic feet being wasted each day, far more than enough to supply all the soda fountains and other users of carbon dioxide in the United States.

Friday, July thirteenth, will be the last Jinx Day of the year.

For some reason, Friday, the thirteenth, has been regarded as a particularly unlucky day. The superstition has hung on where many have been forgotten. Not so long ago there were hundreds of superstitions, as the masses more generally educated all were implicitly believed. Now will there are fewer superstitious and fewer persons take any stock in those that are left.

TROPHY TO SCOUT TROOP FOR RECORD

Mr. W. G. McMillan, chairman of the camping committee, of the Boy Scouts of the South Plains, is offering a Camping Trophy to be awarded to the Boy Scout troop of the South Plains making the best record at the Summer Camp at Post, July 30th to August 8th. Leadership, attendance, advancement, and general participation in the camping program will be the basis for the awarding of the trophy. A point system, carrying in to effect the above qualifications, will be used in rating the troops.

The Camping Trophy is in the form of a silver cup standing 28 inches high. The cover of the cup is surmounted by the figure of an Indian Chief, about 6 inches tall, in full relief. This cup is one of the best of its kind to be offered in the Southwest. The cup is to be competed for annually, becoming the permanent possession of the winning if three times. The troop that is fortunate enough to win this cup will have a trophy they will proud to display to the home folks. The purpose of offering this trophy is to create a greater interest in the outdoor activities and the camping program of the Boy Scouts. According to Mr. McMillan, the boys who enter competition for this trophy will come back from camp more thoroughly trained and better equipped to render service to their community. The physical, mental and spiritual development of a boy under the influence of a good camp cannot be estimated. It is expected that a large per cent of the scouts of the South Plains will take advantage of the summer training camp program.

Jack Veazey came home from Roton to be with homefolks for a few days. He says that if beginning at the bottom is a sign of future success he and Henry Ford will soon have a corner on the money market.

Chevrolet Will Build More Than Million Cars During 1928

DETROIT, July 12.—Positive indication that the Chevrolet Motor Company in 1928 will again establish a new annual production record and go well beyond the million mark this year, was seen in an announcement here today by W. S. Knudsen, president, that output for the first six months of the year totalled 751,607 cars and trucks, as compared with 697,749 for the corresponding period of 1927.

In addition to the 751,536 cars and trucks built since the first of the year, 32,719 of the "Bigger and Better" models that have since won nationwide acclaim, were built in December, bringing the total number of the present model up to July 1st to 784,355. ... Production in the first six months of the year exceeded the total output for the year 1926 and nearly doubled the production of each preceding year.

Due to the steadily increasing popularity of the "Bigger and Better" car, production will continue at a high rate throughout the summer and fall. Mr. Knudsen announced schedules set for July, August and September call for more than 100,000 units each month, indicating that Chevrolet will reach the million mark before October first. ... One of the factors that made possible this record breaking production achievement was the opening of the mammoth assembly plant in Atlanta early this spring, providing Chevrolet with facilities for the production of 350 more units daily.

a lovely condiment set, was presented to Mrs. Burlean. Assisted by Mrs. Burley Brewer, the hostess served delicious imperial salad, angel food squares and punch to the following guests: Mesdames J. Mrs. Ben Moore has just received word Monday that 1300 acres of wheat owned by her father, H. C. Baldrige, of Clovis, N. M., had been declared a total loss due to hail. ... The Lamesa Epworth League acted as host to the League from O'Donnell, McCarty and Seminole on the Fourth and entertained with a picnic at Rock Canyon.

Announcing--- THE OPENING Of Our New Shoe Department

Is drudgery a habit? Experts declare it is. For generations housewives were virtual slaves to the economic duties of the household. ... Labor saving devices were received with skepticism for a long time, and even today some women cannot feel satisfied that a job is completed unless they have experienced genuine physical labor in its fulfillment. ... Experiments have proved this. And have shown this unusual situation to be a carry over from our ancestors who had nothing but personal manual labor with which to perform household drudgery. ... Electric service has changed all this. Efficient appliances of today designed for almost every household need, economically operated by constant, unlimited electric energy leave no legitimate economic reason why the average electrified American home should not be equipped to banish drudgery. ... Electricity contributes magnanimously to higher living standards. It has become the foundation upon which present and future progress is based. Invest in it.

Nicodemus' Reign Had Ended

By HELEN GRAY

"I WISH," said Lotta coolly, "that the old kindly return my white rooster."

An indignant face, very red, topped with a battered straw hat, came up on the other side of the high hedge.

"What white rooster?" he inquired. Lotta waved a suburban hand toward the next-door chicken house.

"He's standing on the roof now—there, he has crossed" as a thin reedy squawk split the Sabbath stillness.

"Ah—true enough, the beast doesn't belong here at all—how did it get in side?"

"I don't know," said Lotta patiently. "What he does come back, I shall lock him up."

"That's fine," returned Dick Palne, cheerfully grinning at her; "he's a fearful pest you know."

"He's a dear, old-fashioned Lotta, who had petted Nicodemus, the white cockerel from the very day of his heartless mother had repudiated it."

"Too dear to me!" gritted Mr. Palne. "He's scratched up all our flower beds—after we sold our own chickens so as to have some flowers—"

"You are growing very crabbed and nagging, Dicky. You are going to be disagreeable old man," said Lotta.

Dicky glowered at his late fiancée. "Possibly I may not live to be an old man," he said stiffly.

Lotta smiled. "I will come and plant posies on your grassy mound, Mr. Palne."

"That will be a privilege reserved for my widow," he tossed over his shoulder as he stalked away across the lawn.

His widow! Lotta had not thought of that possibility. To leave a widow Dicky must first marry—and for him to marry and bring a wife home to the darling house next door where they had planned to live—it was an intolerable thought!

Nicodemus, the miserable white cockerel, had been the cause of all the trouble. He, the war-foot of the chicken tribe, would never stay inside the chicken runs.

Whenever he chose he sallied triumphantly over the ten-foot wire fence and dodged under the hedge into Dicky's yard. He always went there as soon as Dicky had left for choice flowers.

Lotta thought of all these things and gave the white cockerel a vicious little shake. How under the sun did the cockerel manage to fly so high?

He must have had an eagle for an ancestor, she thought dolefully, or else he had a motor inside of him like an airplane. She opened the door of the chicken run, found an empty coop and looked Nicodemus in diamine eye.

"There," she sighed. "You have made trouble enough in the last four weeks."

"You mad at Nicodemus?" asked her little brother, Tom.

"He is so wild, Tommy," evaded Lotta. "Give him to me," begged Tom.

"He would be as much of a pest as ever—but you can have him if you only don't let him fly over into Mr. Palne's garden."

"Mr. Palne? You mean Dicky? Tom was round-eyed.

"Of course," said Lotta shortly as she went into the house and Tom saw she had been crying.

"It's that old Nicodemus bird," said the little boy. "He's made a lot of trouble and he oughter be sacrificed—like those people cook told me about. I think I'll talk to cook some more about it."

Cook, who had watched the love-rid of Lotta Ames and Dick Palne, out to see it shattered by a quarrel which began over Nicodemus, the bad white cockerel, listened gravely to Tommy's story. "I'll help you out, Lotta," Tommy said, "only you aren't exactly as I say. Tomorrow's your birthday, you know."

"And I'm to have a party?"

"And you're to ask Mr. Palne at the very last minute so he can't refuse?" "I'll cry if he refuses—he likes me," said Tommy. "He wouldn't disappoint a little boy he liked."

And he didn't, but Tommy had really shed tears on his seventh birthday to drag Dick Palne from his white-fanned repose in a hammock to play with small balls and lassies at a birthday party.

STOCK LAW PROCLAMATION

On this the 5th day of July, 1928, it appearing to me, as County Judge of Lynn County, Texas, that Commissioners Precinct No. 3 of Lynn County, Texas, described and bounded as follows:

Beginning at the Southwest corner of Lynn County and running thence East about 18 miles with the South boundary line of Lynn County, to the East boundary line of Survey No. 63, Block 8, Certificate No. 672, for the Southeast corner of this precinct;

Thence North about 6 miles with section lines to the Southwest corner of Survey No. 17, Block 8, Certificate No. 649, for a corner of this precinct;

Thence West three miles on section lines to the Southwest corner of Survey No. 20, Block 8, Certificate No. 650, for an ell corner of this precinct;

Thence North about Eight miles with section lines to the Southeast corner of Survey No. 567, Certificate No. 526, H. E. & W. T. Ry. Co. grantee, for a corner of this precinct;

Thence West One mile with the South boundary line of said Survey No. 567 to the Southwest corner thereof for an ell corner of this precinct;

Thence North One mile with the west boundary line of said Survey No. 567 to the Northwest corner thereof for the Northwest corner of this precinct;

Thence West about Fifteen miles to the west boundary line of Lynn County for the Northwest corner of this precinct;

Thence South with the west boundary line of Lynn County, about Fifteen miles to the place of beginning, and known as the O'Donnell Stock Law District, was, on the 9th day of April, 1928, designated by the Commissioners Court of Lynn County, Texas as a subdivision of Lynn County, Texas, for the purpose of determining by an election to be held therein, whether or not horses, mules, jacks, jennets and cattle should be permitted to run at large therein; and that said Commissioners Court did, thereafter on the same date, order that an election, be held in said stock law district on the 26th day of May, 1928, for the purpose of determining whether or not horses, mules, jacks, jennets and cattle should be permitted to run at large within said stock law district of Lynn County; that due and legal notice of said election was given as required by law; that said election was legally held on the 26th day of May, 1928; that the returns of said election were opened; canvassed and counted on the 11th day of June, 1928, and the result of said election declared; and that said election resulted in favor of the Stock Law within said O'Donnell Stock Law District.

Now, therefore, by authority vested in me by law, I, C. H. Cain, County Judge in and for Lynn County, Texas, do hereby declare and proclaim that the election held in O'Donnell Stock Law District, above described, on the 26th day of May, 1928, resulted in favor of the Stock Law, and that at any time after thirty days from this date it shall be unlawful for any person to permit horses, mules, jacks, jennets and cattle to run at large within said stock law district heretofore described, as provided by Title 121, Chapter Six, of the Revised Civil Statutes of Texas, 1925.

It looks tricky, but it really is not hard when you know how. This cake is one of the many novel baked things which Mrs. Longworthey is demonstrating.

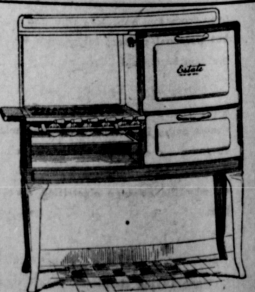

Everything You Want in a Gas Range

Estate Gas Ranges are beautiful appliances—up to the minute in every detail of construction and design—but more modern in fact for they have many features you will not find in any other range. Regardless of whether you intend to buy a gas range or not we want you to see the wonderful range with the "fresh air oven" in action and see the perfect results obtained.

You are advised to live in fresh air—and sleep in fresh air—why not do your baking in fresh air? The Estate is only range with a fresh air oven.

We urge you to take advantage of this unusual opportunity. Demonstration All Day—Formal Program 2:30 P. M.

ARCH NOTES

The Christian Sunday School is going on as usual, despite hot weather and the absence of many members.

International Sunday School lesson has the subject "How Saul Became a Christian." Lesson material will be found in Acts 9:1-19, 22:6-16; Corinthians 15:8.

Prayer meeting is proving to be a blessing and inspiration. Attendance is steadily increasing and spirituality is growing stronger at each meeting. Those who do not attend prayer meeting elsewhere are cordially invited to come and be with us.

The Epworth League enjoyed a most interesting lesson Sunday on "China's Challenge to America," with Miss Sue Gates leader. Misses Rebecca Schooler, Era Harris, and Christine M'Brue made interesting talks. A piano duet by Misses Sue and Mary Joe Gates was much appreciated.

Mrs. J. P. Bowlin, who had been elected zone leader, stated that after longer more mature deliberation she was unable to accept the honor. After considerable discussion Mrs. J. W. Campbell was selected to finish out the term. The next meeting will be held at Tahoka some time in September.

Zone meeting of Women's Missionary Society held at the Methodist Church Wednesday was well attended though few local officers were present. Several inspiring talks were received, dramatic and humorous readings, special music, a playlet rendered by our Young Ladies M. S. were all much enjoyed. A lovely picnic lunch of fried chicken, sandwiches, assorted vegetables and salads, pies, cake and tea was spread at the church. The huge packer of Purity-ice cream brought by Mrs. Surface of Lamesa was a great addition to the menu.

Reports from Mrs. Gordon King, nee Miss Edna House, seem to indicate that she finds the holy bonds of matrimony not unpleasant. She says: "Gordon does the housework, cooking and dishwashing. I do the eating, sleeping and going. She no longer has a double chin because she has stretched it away trying to see the tops of the pines.

Friends of Miss Lois Light who has been in the hospital at Lubbock for six weeks recovering from injuries sustained in a runaway, will be glad to know that she is slowly but steadily improving. It is thought that she may be able to come home in about three weeks. Only an unbending determination to live and the strength of an infirmity. Power could have brought her through this ordeal.

Mrs. Matlock and children who have been visiting her father, Mr. J. P. Aylor, returned to their home in Houston last Thursday. They were accompanied by Miss Kitty Aylor who will make her home with her sister for some time. Kitty will be missed by a large circle of friends for her sweet disposition and charming manners endeared her to all with whom she came in contact. We wish for her every happiness in her new environment.

Miss Estelle Echols visited Josie Seely Friday evening.

Miss Fern Fritz and her cousin, Miss Erma Montgomery visited Miss Josie Seely Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Haymes spent the week end in Levelland.

E. M. Willer made a business trip to Levelland yesterday returning the same day.

Misses-Bulah Estes and Nannie Belle Smith spent the week end with their parents. Both young ladies are making excellent records in their school work at Lubbock.

The many friends of Miss Josie Seely are pleased to learn she is rapidly improving after having her tonsils removed at the Lubbock Sanitarium last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Gibson of Ft. Chadbourne, have recently come to O'Donnell to make their home. Mrs. Gibson is the eldest sister of Mrs. J. W. Gates. We are very glad to welcome these splendid people to our community and hope they will feel justified in the move.

Mrs. W. L. Gardenhire and daughter, Miss Beatrice went to the mountains of New Mexico. Miss Beatrice will probably remain there several weeks in an effort to build up her strength. Mr. Gardenhire will return when he has seen that she is comfortably and pleasantly situated.

Miss Tommie Sorrels has been offered the position of Director of Physical Education at Baylor University, Waco. We understand that that she has accepted. We congratulate both Miss Sorrels and the University. It is unusual for so young a person to hold such a responsible position, but Miss Tommie is fully capable of doing so. We wish her all success.

Down to a Dog Trot

BUT—
still in high

YOU'LL be surprised at the power your motor develops when you run on Conoco Ethyl Gasoline. Throttle down to a dog trot—even on a hill—and you glide smoothly along—without a jerk, without a knock, without a shift.

Of course, Conoco Ethyl is the fuel for high compression motors. In fact, Ethyl fluid made high compression motors commercially possible. But Conoco Ethyl gets the best from any motor—and it's most economical because it eliminates all the engine wear and tear caused by knocking when ordinary gasoline is used.

Drive to the Conoco Ethyl pump for extra knockless miles.

NEW GIN BEING BUILT IN TREADWAY SECTION

Treadway is to have a new gin, according to information given out by John Kosurek while in town Saturday. Mr. Kosurek stated work had already begun Friday of last week and expected to be finished in time for the handling of this season's cotton crop.

The new plant is being built by a Mr. Smith and it's located one half mile north of Treadway. Prospects for a bumper cotton crop in the Treadway community were never brighter than at present and Mr. Smith will no doubt enjoy a splendid open season when the ginning season opens this fall.

CARLISLE DRY GOODS CO.
HOLDING INVENTORY

One young wife in our community believes in opening the door the first time Opportunity knocks. Recently she has felt the urge for a built-in cabinet, but her husband, a canny
business man, has been trying to starve watters off for awhile. But several days ago he had occasion to use her Hoosier cabinet in his business, so he sent the dray up to "borrow it," and do you know he said when relating the circumstance, "before that cabinet was in the store she had a carpenter up there figuring on a built in cabinet. I'm not going to borrow anything else from her. No telling what she'd do next."

NEW PIANO TO BE INSTALLED
IN NEW SCHOOL BUILDING

A Galbraith baby grand piano
has been brought down to be inspected by a committee from the Parent Teachers Association, and if it meets with their approval will be installed in the High School auditorium. The company is making a very attractive price and generous terms.

The writer had the pleasure of seeing the instrument and playing a few chords on it. It is a beautiful thing with a clear, mellow tone. It would add much to the appearance of our auditorium. However, the committee had not passed final judgment at last reports.

This is a busy week at Carlisle's Store, where everybody is engaged in taking inventory preparatory to ordering and reordering new Fall goods

METHODIST PARSONAGE TO HAVE GAS STOVE

If anyone should wonder at the smile irradiating the faces of Rev.
and Mrs. J. T. Weems, the reason is this: A new Estate gas range has been installed in the parsonage. The Women's Missionary Society in general and the parsonage committee in particular take this method of publicly acknowledging the generosity of Singleton Brothers and extending deepest thanks and appreciation to those gentlemen for the special price and their personal donations.
It was indeed kind, and every time
Bro. Weems eats a nice brown biscuit he'll call down the blessings upon them. Other dealers made good offers for which the Methodist folks are highly appreciative.

Leading dealers have featured demonstrations of gas stoves which have been well attended. Mansell Brothers holding theirs last week and Singleton Brothers following with one this week. Many homes have already been equipped with modern convenience, and others are only waiting till Fall. When the remaining families see the greater comfort and efficiency of gas appliances they will follow suit. Just imagine you Pa's, when cold weather comes you can roll over and build the fire without getting out of bed, and then not bring in coal or carry out ashes, all winter long. And you Mas can cook without having the burner run up and ruin everything in the house and not have to sweep everytime the fire is built up.

COUNTY TAX RATE LOWERED MONDAY

We have often heard it said that taxes were never lowered. We know that is a mistake. At a meeting of the County Commissioners of Lynn on Monday of this week, it was decided to lower the tax rate of Lynn County.

The new rate was set at 74 cents, four cents under last year's rate. Not did the people of Lynn County will rejoice over the action of the commissioners court. The Commissioners Court of Lynn County have been operated very economically during the past year which enabled them to lower the tax rate this year.

Miss Fern Fritz and her cousin,
Miss Erna Montgomery visited Miss Josie Seely Friday evening.

IMPORTANT QUESTIONS WILL BE DISCUSSED AT RANCHMEN MEET

COLLEGE STATION, July 9.—
Questions affecting the cattle, sheep and goat industry of Texas will be discussed by outstanding experts at the fourth annual Ranchman's Roundup to be held at the Ranch Experiment Station at Sonora of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, A. & M. College of Texas, August 14-15. Between 3,000 and 3,500 cattlemen, sheep and goat raisers and others interested in the livestock business are expected to attend, according to A. B. Connor, director of the Experiment Station. The attendance last year reached nearly 3,000.

In addition to the talks and discussions particularly for men, there will be a session for women in the afternoon of the opening day and a sheep and goat judging contest will be held for boys the afternoon of August 15.
A real western barbecue dinner, smacing of the old days of the range, will be held at noon on both days of the round-up. Entertainment feature for the afternoon of the opening day will be polo game between riders who know how to handle the hardy mounts required for that strenuous pastime.

A number of brief talks will be given at the opening session August 14, with W. H. Dameron, superintendent of the Sonora Station presiding. A.
B. Connor, director of the Experiment Station, will deliver address of welcome, while Judge Alex Collins,
San Angelo, will deliver the response.
Other speakers include T. A. Kincaid,
Sheep and Goat Raisers' Association
of Texas, Ozona, R. M. Kleberg, president, Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers' Association, Corpus Christi; Dr. O. Walton, president
A. & M. College of Texas; Roscoe Runge, Mason; Dayton Moses, attorney for the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers' Association; Fort Worth; Homer D. Wade, manager of West Texas Chamber of Commerce, Stamford.

Numerous other speakers will appear on the two day program, among them being: James Callahan, Menard;
J. M. O'Daniel, secretary-treasurer
Wool Growers Central Storage Company, San Angelo; O. B. Martin, director Extension Service, A. & M.
College, O. L. Carpenter, herdsmen
of the Sonora station.

Bess Edwards, assistant home
state demonstration agent, Extension Service, and Miss Mamie Grimes, textile and clothing specialist, Experiment Station, will address the women's session.

Miss Estelle Echols visited Josie
Seely Friday evening.

PALMER & TULL BUYS NEW INTERNATIONAL

Palmer & Tull Implement Company believe in keeping pace with the ward march of progress and have purchased a new eight-speed International truck to be used in the future so that they will be able to serve their customers in the most efficient manner. Mr. Tull stated the firm had purchased the agency for this truck.

CROP PROSPECTS OVER TEXAS DOUBT

DALLAS, July 12.—Prospects for the cotton crop in Texas, according to indications of reports coming from the Department of Public Health and the Southland Life Insurance Company, appear to depend to a great extent on the developments of the next few weeks. Hot, calm and dry conditions in all likelihood will produce a poor crop. Cool, windy and stormy conditions may produce a near normal crop.

One of the surprising things about the crop situation as far as concerned is the fact that the questionably will be a better grains of all sorts than was believed possible. Several in the late report the best in several years with others crops above normal and some
at least fair.

The map of this month's has the peculiar aspect of appearing as good as conditions are because of the fact that the fields has been retarded weather. A few dry days would greatly improve the appearance of the map. A number of the West Texas counties
above normal, still others
Texas the same and the Valley is looking forward to especially good season, depending on prices.

Despite the fact most of the hot dry weather there spotted sections where rain is general, business is low and farmers are optimistic and are a good season.

Friends of Miss Lois Lee has been in the hospital at for six weeks recovering from suffered in a runaway, will be able to know that she is slowly improving. It is thought may be able to come home in three weeks. Only an immediate termination to live and the
of an infinite Power could

Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Hayes
the week end in Levelland.
