A WARTIME FOOD CONSERVATION HINT:

Your Food Will Stay Fresher

Your grocer and butcher refrigerate milk and meats until you buy them, but once they leave the store refrigerator, these perishable foods begin to lose the cold which protects them from spoiling.

The next time you buy perishable foods, or when milk is delivered to your home, shorten, if you can, the time it takes to get these foods into your electric refrigerator. Minutes saved will add hours to the time milk and other foods will keep.

Don't waste electricity just because it isn't rationed. Use what you need, but need what you use.

TEXAS ELECTRIC SERVICE COMPANY

Washington, D. C. BITTER DEFERMENT FIGHT

The backstage fight over who is to direct the deferment of essential war workers is approaching white heat. It is being waged between certain of the biggest war chiefs in Washington, having developed into a row between the army-navy, WPB boss Donald Nelson, his vice chairman Charley Wilson, and Paul McNutt.

Only the White House will be able to straighten out the tangle.

Trouble began when Undersecretary of War Patterson and the army proposed that the question of industrial draft deferments be placed in the hands of the Production Executive committee of which WPB Vice Chairman Charley Wilson is chief. The army-navy, which started out by trying to cut Wilson's throat, now loves him, but continues to hate Donald Nelson. So their recommendation of Wilson to handle draft deferments was a slap at Nelson.

Nelson immediately slapped back. He and War Manpower Commissioner Paul McNutt went to the White House and told the President that industrial deferments were the job of the War Manpower commissioner. In fact, McNutt hinted that, if the President didn't consider the War Manpower commission competent to handle the question, he could get another Manpower Commis-

Donald Nelson backed him up. Since this meant taking the deferment job away from Nelson's own War Production board, it was a direct slap at Charley Wilson. Nelson even went further and indicated that Wilson and the Production Executive committee were controlled by the army.

More Civilian Goods?

This row over essential warworker deferments also has brought to light another important inside debate over reconversion for civilian production. Chief battlers in this row are Nelson and Wilson, with the army-navy rooting for Wilson.

Wilson would like to begin production of 200,000 automobiles soon, but Nelson flatly opposes. Aside from autos, however, Wilson does not favor getting back into too much civilian production any time soon. To study the problem, he appointed a committee to formulate a policy on reconversion-which brought no enthusiasm at all from his nominal boss, D. Nelson, who disbanded the committee.

Nelson's cancellation, in turn, roused the ire of General Lucius Clay, General Somervell's chief production man, and Clay is now threatening to appoint an army-navy committee to study reconversion and make Wilson its head. Behind this Nelson-Wilson row over reconversion is the basic conflict between big business and little business. Big business doesn't want any reconversion until it is finished with its war orders and, at present, it is chock-a-block with war orders. On the other hand, little business, which didn't get so many war orders, would like to begin right now making alarm clocks, electric irons, bicycles and a lot of small stuff which the public needs. Big business, however, doesn't want little business to get a head start. In this row, Nelson sides with little business. His friends also claim that Wilson favors the big business viewpoint and wants to wait until the war is over, so everybody can line up at the starter's tape and get an equal start. The army sides with Wilson and big business for fear the second front may take more production than we realize.

Those are the issues. Meanwhile, some insiders, especially the army, are out again to get Nelson's scalp,

ARMY FURLOUGHS

Young Congressman Henry ("Scoop") Jackson of Washington has just been mustered out of the army to go back to congress. One of his first acts after getting into civilian clothes was to call on Lieutenant General McNair, head of army ground forces, and effect a major change in handling men about

He told McNair that one big gripe of the boys was that they often got no chance to visit their homes before being shipped abroad. All men were given seven-day furloughs regardless of where they lived even if their homes were on the West Coast and they were in camp on the East Coast.

So the army has now agreed to the following:

1. No man will be sent overseas without getting a ten-day furlough. 2. This furlough provides that he will actually get ten days at home, plus time to travel from his base and back.

DAME MAY WHITTY'S like a spring tonic. She should be "taken" regularly three times a day by all the women in the world. If by so doing they could capture even a part of her vitality and great courage it would be more than worth their while to make a textbook of

A definite threat to Hollywood's glamour girls ever since she arrived, the gay little actress, who has chalked up some 70-odd years of living, is the center of attraction wherever she goes. Her background deals not only with folk of the stage and screen but with brilliant political figures as well. Some day it will be told in a book written by her daughter, the well known stage director and Shakespearean authority, Margaret Webster, who is carrying on the family tradition as established by her actress mother and actor father, Ben Webster.

Dame May has brushed shoulders and opinions with newsworthy headliners, from princes to presidents, for the past decades. Her "political career," if you can call it that, dates back to a London party given by Mabel Terry, niece of the famous stage star Ellen Terry. Women's suffrage was just beginning to take form, and the conversation began drifting toward the suffragets.

Goodness Gracious!

"How," went the general trend of talk, "could women lose their selfrespect to such an extent? Where was their pride? Of what were they thinking?

It was at this point that Dame May Whitty began to think, deeply and sanely. The more she thought the more she agreed with the movement. Suddenly she found herself defending the group.

"Why, I actually think you are a suffraget," Mabel Terry remarked with surprise.

"I believe I am," answered Dame

This marked a turning point in her life. From that moment she began coupling her make-believe life on the stage with the real business of fighting for a cause. She doesn't regret this decision, either. She feels woman's suffrage was prompted by courage and idealism and quotes H. W. Nevinson, who said, "It was the greatest spiritual movement I ever

Having a Man Around

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

ERHAPS there are a lot of wives like me," says a letter from Carol Jay in Germantown. "Or rather, like the wife I was for eleven years for I am divorced now. Fred and I were happy for a while; it gives me a sharp heartache now to remember our joy in our first little home and our new baby. Fred took almost as much care of David as I did; we used to take him off on picnics, come home weary and happy and all freshened up, put the baby to bed, and have a couple of friends come in for a pick-up supper and two rubbers of bridge. In those years we made quite a few little business trips together; I loved the trains and the hotels. Fred's free time was always like a holiday, and getting back to little Davy's welcome the best of all.

"About four years ago something began to go wrong. Fred was away often in the evening. I resented it. My mother was living with us. He liked her and she liked him, but I knew she felt that I spoiled him. We got into wordy spats; I couldn't telephone him in the old way and 'All clear?' because Mother say would then smile good-naturedly and say 'There you go again buckling under.'

Friction Allowed to Pile Up.

"But that wasn't all, of course. We seemed to suffer from complete lack of sympathy. Little things began to jar on us terribly; we pulled apart. Whatever Fred wanted to do seemed to be the exact thing I didn't want to do; whether it was asking this acquaintance or that to the house, using money for this purpose or that, keeping some secret or making some remark.

"My mother was living with a widowed sister at this time, and when quite suddenly Fred and I agreed to a divorce, David and I went there. David is now eight, he adores his father - I want him to. But his outbursts of affection and admiration for his father sometimes come at awkward moments, and my sister and mother exchange scornful glances that sooner or later he'll understand. So I intend to get into quarters of my own as soon as possible. But even that presents difficulties. Fred wants David. "Fred has married again, a nice enough woman ten years older than he who has two little girls: David loves to go there. Naturally things aren't as pleasant here, for my sister's boys are only five and three, and the older cousin teases them. If I lose Fred's check for David's support I will have to take a paying job; my alimony is only $1,200

"If I had it to do over again I'd stick with Fred. He has his faults, God knows, but so have I. To have David happy, to have these financial and family difficulties settled, to have the taken-for-granted approval of my friends instead of their gentlycritical doubtfulness, would make the pin-pricks of our old disputes seem childish nonsense. "But more than that. I like to have a man around. I like his racket in the hall when he gets home at night. I like him to pay my restau-

DIVORCE SEQUEL

The woman over whose letter Miss Norris weaves this column has found a great number of answers to divorce and, as in a great number of the cases where man and wife split, her discoveries have been made-after the estrangement.

And it's usually a pretty bitter sequel to those women who find themselves placed in a similar role. The realization of not knowing "when they were well off" torments them and brings them sharp recriminations over the slight frictions that caused them to part. And there are the children. The divorcee suddenly finds that it was good having a man around. Not only for herself but for the children. And she also finds now that the connubial knot has been untied, that having had one around at one time is not a guarantee that she will acquire another quite as handily.

Yes; if she had it to do over again, she would stick to hubby and the children. She knows now that despite the difficulty of marriage that it has its advantages. That for a divorced woman to make it alone in the world is not always a bed of roses and that lonesomeness is a dreadful heart-for money, kid?' I like to fuss over him when he feels sick, and have him fuss over me when I do. I like sharing David, buying presents for both my men at Christmas, planning surprises and trips. A little loneliness as a wife is better than total loneliness as an unattached female. A faulty human man, 27 per cent selfishness, is better than no man at all.

As an aftermath she discovers that it was good to have had a man around.

Married Woman Better Off.

"The married woman, whatever her difficulties, has a definite advantage. The divorced woman is cut and humiliated in a thousand ways nobody suspects. 'There were faults on both sides,' society says kindly, even if the husband beat her, starved her, and threw her into the street. 'I'll get a nice man for you, honey,' says the hostess, with some infatuated married lad of 20 in mind, who will talk all evening about his wife, now in the hospital having a baby.

"Worst of all," concludes this letter, "is the little loyal David, with his anxious, 'When's Dad coming home?' Am I to tell him that Daddy is a cruel stupid failure, or to shut up about Dad?" So the woman who wrote this letter would perhaps give other wives contemplating divorce the advice I always do; the advice "Punch" gave in a single monosyllable to the young man about to be married: "Don't." That was merely in joke; we are in earnest. Nine times out of ten a woman divorces for imaginary or easily curable trou-

Then she finds out what real trouble IS.

Consumers Paying Debts

There are increasing signs that American consumers are paying their debts. Latest figures show that the total consumer credit outstanding at the end of 1941 has been marked by the sharp decline of 51 per cent. The greatest portion of this drop is accounted for by the shrinkage in installment credit.

The shrinkage is said to indicate that a large postwar market will open for autos, refrigerators, furni-ture and household equipment frequently sold on the installment plan.

INSULATING ROOF

Last fall one of my correspondents insulated his roof. His firstep was to line the under side the roof between the rafters witter paper, and then to put in for inches of rock wool. Before the winter was over, he found that the inches of rock wool. rock wool was dripping with moi ture. He asks how this can be pre vented. He seemed to think the the rock wool had the property absorbing moisture; but this is no the case. The trouble came from the penetration of water vapor the house air. Passing through the rock wool the water vapor came in contact with the tar paper, which of course, was chilled by the roofin boards. Condensation took place and as the water that formed coul not pass through, it was absorbe by the rock wool. He could preven this by protecting the rock wool wit something through which the wate vapor could not pass. For this h could use hard and glossy tar paper nailed to the exposed edges of the rafters. There would then be ne condensation, for this layer of ta paper would be protected against outside temperature by the thick ness of the rock wool. As a matte of fact, pads of rock wool and sim lar materials can be had enclose in envelopes of tar paper. Had m correspondent protected his rod with these instead of the loose rod wool that he used, his trouble woul have been avoided.

Stained Ceiling

Question: After the last heav chimney showed brown stains. Where do the stains come from?

Answer: The stains may be caused by leakage through the flash ings where the chimney passe through the roof. If the flashing prove to be in poor condition, yo can close the leaks with a heav coat of plastic roofing cement. An other possible reason for the leak may be a failure of the mortar be tween the chimney bricks. If so, the bricks could be repointed.

STARCH FOR WALLS

Question: I want to paint my Ings an off-white. Then I would like to starch each year and wash of How would I go about it in detail Answer: The formula is as fol lows: Soften the lumps of a cup of laundry starch with cool water an ring until the starch is cooked and stiff. After cooling, add cold water to make a thin liquid, stir in on quart of buttermilk, and strain through cheese-cloth. Apply with whitewash brush. Brush marks car be taken out by patting with a shor bristle brush before the starch dries

Damp House Air

Question: We began building out house last September, and had to move in December 1. Some furniture was put in the attic and the rest in the rest in the basement until the main floor rooms were ready about Christ mas time. Many of the roofing boards are mildewed and also books furniture, and household things that stand on the north side of the attic. Who is to blame; the contractor of the roofer? Have the roofing board been weakened by the mold? Answer: No one is to blame, ex cept yourselves for having move into the house before the concret and plaster had dried out. With your heater going, water from these parts should be drying out very rapidly. But even so, the house air may not be thoroughly dry until some time next winter. I greatly doubt if the mildewing has gone far enough to damage the roofing hoards Paint for Fireplace Question: We have an all-brick fireplace in our living room that I should like to paint. What kind of paint should I use? Answer: You can use a cemen base paint, which is intended for masonry. It is a powder to be mixed with with water, and it can be had in colors as well as in white. Ask for it at a mason material yard. I am presuming the brick never has been

Army Gains in War on Disease

Medical Corps Rever's How Medicine Is Waging Great Battle.

WASHINGTON .- The progress of war medicine and the conquest of communicable diseases, once believed inescapable by armies in the field, is graphically portrayed in a table released here by the army medical corps and public health authorities, says the Detroit News.

The causes of death from disease, in order of their importance, are listed for the Civil war, the Spanish-American war excluding the Philippines insurrection, the same conflict including the insurrection, World War I and the present struggle insofar as vital statistics for 1942 contribute to the subject.

The most startling fact presented is that only two diseases of the Civil war list, pulmonary tuberculosis and pneumonia, have appeared in the column dedicated to the present war. Instead, four of the remaining six places have been taken by the chronic type of diseases which, it is assumed, might have remained in a latent stage but for the exposure and strain of combat conditions. The four include diseases of the heart and coronary arteries, cancer, liver diseases and kidney disorders.

Dysentery Beaten.

During the Civil war, diarrhea and dysentery, due to intestinal infection and generally attributed to contaminated food or water, was the chief cause of death from disease. In the Spanish war, it fell to third place and during the Philippine trouble rose again to second. Thereafter it ceased to appear among the first eight death causes.

Typhoid was in second place during the Civil war, rose to first place in the next two struggles and thereafter disappered from the list.

Pneumonia has had a varied career, being in third place during the Civil war, in fifth place in the Spanish war, fourth in the Philippine campaign and second in both World War I and the present war.

Malaria figured in fourth place in the Civil war, rose to second place in the Spanish war, dropped to third place in the Philippines and thereafter failed to make the first eight causes of disease deaths. The use of quinine and its derivatives both as preventitive and curative agents, is given credit for the conquest of malaria.

Yellow fever was in fourth place during the War of 1898, dropped to seventh place during the pacification of the islands and has since disappeared.

Vaccination Helps.

Smallpox appeared as the sixth cause for deaths from disease during the Civil war. It seems to have disappeared from the first eight causes during the Spanish war, reappeared in sixth place during the Philippine campaign and now is of too rare occurrence to list as a major cause of death. Vaccination, preparatory to enlistment or induction, is given credit for this tri-

Pulmonary tuberculosis stood in seventh place during the Civil war, rose to fifth place in the Philippines, thence to fourth place in World War I and in 1942 has been reduced to sixth place.

Meningitis, absent in the Civil war list of major causes of death, was in seventh place in the Spanish war, in eighth place in the Philippines, rose to fifth place in World War I and remains at that point today.

Influenza is listed for the first time, and as the primary cause of death from diseases in World War I statistics. It does not figure in the 1942 list of eight killers.

Appendicitis as a cause of death among the armed forces appears in sixth place during World War I and in eighth place in 1942.

Disease of the heart and of the coronary arteries tops the list for the present conflict and may reflect the effect of the modern blitz-type of movement on latent but longstanding disease.

Resources of the World Are Tapped to Aid Allies

WASHINGTON .- Leo T. Crowley, foreign economic administrator, said that his office had tapped virtually all known world resources except those under Axis control in search of strategic commodities and that the FEA purchase program totaled $809,000,000 in 1943.

Expediting missions have been sent to Latin America, Africa, India, China, Australia and the Pacific islands, he revealed, and products purchased range from quartz crystals used in military radio communication, mahogany for the hulls of PT boats and fiber for navy cordage to such substances as pyrethrum-used to discourage malarial mosquitoesand rotenone, an insecticide.

100,000 Cats Snatched For Food in Budapest

LISBON.-The Munich newspaper Muenchner Neueste Nachrichten, reporting a fantastic black market in cat meat in Budapest said that "catnapers" had stolen more than 100,-000 household pets in recent months.

Crop Report Falls Short of Goal Set

Review of Farm Production Is Gloomy Picture.

WASHINGTON-A review of the entire farm production picture, particularly government labor, price and machinery policies, appeared likely as the Agriculture department issued a melancholy report on prospective food plantings.

The report, based on a survey of representative farmers, indicated that plantings of such crops as soybeans, peanuts, flaxseed, dry beans and peas, sugar beets, potatoes and sweet potatoes, will be considerably short of goals set by the war food administration.

Prospects for livestock feed, on the other hand, appear relatively favorable.

While the overall acreage may reach 374,000,000 acres - 6,000,000 short of the goals-compared with 361,000,000 last year, the indicated crop pattern is at variance with that urged by the food administration. The government had placed greater emphasis on direct food crops particularly those rich in vegetable proteins. The indicated plantings continue to stress livestock feeds the raw material for meats, poultry and dairy products, all of which are sources of animal proteins.

The food administration's program emphasized vegetable protein crops because they are the cheapest source of this food element, in terms of manpower, time and acreage. While such feeds as corn and oats for livestock may require less labor than soybeans and dry beans, the latter are ready to eat when harvested.

Mounting farmer concern over shortages of labor and farm machinery was said by the department to be holding down crop expansion. Uncertainties over draft status of deferred farm workers were said to be particularly disturbing.

Use 3 Parachutes to Cut

Landing Speed of Bomber WASHINGTON .- Three billowing parachutes served as substitutes for brakes on the shell-riddled army bomber that was the first American plane to land on the fighter strip on Tarawa, in the Gilbert Islands.

The war department reported that the brakes had been destroyed in a battle with Japanese planes, and First Lieut. Charles F. Pratte of Warren, R. I., ordered his crew to fasten three parachutes to the plane to cut the speed sufficiently to make the emergency landing safe. He estimated that the plane's landing speed of approximately 140 miles an hour was reduced 30 to 40 miles an hour by the parachutes, which were opened as the plane touched the run-

Other members of the crew, one of them injured, included Lieut. Joseph H. Burke of Jersey City; Tech. Sergts. William H. Mashaw of Lyons Falls, N. Y., and John Slaw-sky of Jersey City; Sergts. William J. Farrell of Little Falls, N. Y., and Arthur T. Maloney of South Orange, N. J., and Private Joseph R. Hyfon, 134 West 91st street, New York city.

153,061 Airplanes Are Put Out in Three Years

WASHINGTON. - The United States produced 153,061 planes, of which 105,126 were combat types, in the three years ending with 1943. Charles E. Wilson, executive vice chairman of the War Production board, reported.

Production of a new scout plane that will "revolutionize" scouting from battleships and cruisers will be started soon at the Columbus, Ohio, plant of the Curtiss-Wright Aviation corporation, Representative Maas (Rep., Minn.) said.

The plant is also experimenting on a combination dive and torpedo bomber that is expected to be an improvement on the Helldiver, considered by many to be the best dive bomber in existence, he said.

The correspondent went to his typewriter and wrote: 'Lieutenant So-and-so, Navy Corsair pilot, today shot down his third enemy plane.

Blouses of Mexican Influence Are Such Gay Little Flatterers!

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

regard to clothes is to "make your own." It is easy to sew and if you plan your costumes so that with the aid of accessories and interchangeable parts they may be made to play a many-purpose role, you'll find that a very few things can go very far. A good suit especially, plus a collection of really attractive blouses, can take you anywhere in "style.

Blouses are tremendously important this year and they dress a suit up or down according to occasion. So start sewing today. There's a whole world of innovation and fashion news you can sew into each blouse. You are limited only by your imagination, which requires practically no outlay-just planning and doing with a will.

Of course, the first step is to choose your material. Cottons are a fine bet this year. Select your cottons carefully, eyelet embroidery for one, organdy for another and a good substantial and gaily colorful print-ed linen for a third. Each one of these will tub perfectly and you can see by the models pictured how pretty-pretty they will look.

The next big essential in making your own blouses is to get a smart easy-to-follow pattern. The same pattern has been used for each of the three beguiling blouses pictured, which is a good idea for the girl who does her own sewing. Using versatile materials will differentiate their appearance.

Prettiness itself is stressed in the pattern of simplicity selected for this trio of blouses. Throughout the entire style program simplicity is the big idea this spring. You see this demonstrated especially in the new blouses that feature naive lowcut necklines and quaint little puffed sleeves that definitely portray simplicity design. It adds to the lure of the blouses pictured that they are so a la Mexicana in their pictur-

The first of these blouse "lovelies" (pictured to the left) is made of a gay Mexican printed linen. It has one of the new adjustable drawstring necklines. Tied close to your throat it is simply perfect to wear right now with your spring suit. Later on the neckline can go more decollette. Worn with the popular dirndl skirt you'll love it. Wear it for sports or dress as the mood moves you.

A big play is being made on fine white sheers sweetly fashioned with myriads of frivolous little ruffles, beautified with exquisite handwork. Centered in the group is a lovely blouse of sheerest white organdy. The pert little ruffles go definitely South American in that they take on gay colored embroidery accents. This model has the fashionable deep U-neckline that can be drawn high w for out and out flattery. A dream of a blouse in spanking white eyelet embroidery is shown to the right. Wear it with a short skirt in the day-either a color - bright dirndl or a slim wrap-around crepe skirt. It makes good also as an evening blouse worn with a floorlength skirt. A self ruffle around the neck and "little girl" puffed sleeves are your guarantee that this charming eyelet model, so definitely speaking "simplicity design," will make you look your most winsome. A huge Mexican straw hat worn with this blouse will stress the pictur-

Poplin Plaid Suit

Town-wear cottons are quite the rage this season. Not only are they made up stunningly, but women are taking great care to see that the washables are of the everfast type that tubs perfectly.

There's style distinction in the tailoring of this chic costume, with special emphasis on the nicely detailed bracelet sleeves and the buttons. Note the extreme tilt of the smart little chapeau. It brings you the latest news as to how we will be wearing our little berets and pill-boxes and wee sailors this spring and summer-tilted way to one side!

Florals Are Motif of New Border Prints

When it comes to the new border prints only seeing is believing how really beautiful they are. We have in mind the piques and crepes and old-fashioned long cloth weaves that are usually white or a pastel monotone with enormous spaced florals perhaps only one, two or three to the yard. The full-blown rose is a favorite motif and they look exactly as if they had been hand-painted on the fabric background. They won't fade away, ease your mind about that, for the creators of everfast materials have kept thoughtfully before them that modern washables must be both sun-proof and suds-proof to satisfy the demands of the fabricwise women of today. You will be wanting a dress of the everfast border-print gingham which has the "something different" look about it which every woman covets. In these ginghams stripes and checks are woven all of a piece with a wide border banding separating the new

Matching Hat and Purse

Sets in Black Velveteen

Quilted black velveteen purses may be matched to black valveteen or feathered hats. And big rectangles of black broadcloth with mock tortoise shell trim prove just the ingredient that will make your black and brown accessories blend together into an ensemble.

If you want to be original, consider a small melon muff of velveteen for gala wear, or a big important looking style with a front of ermine tails. More unusual than these are the new round feather muffs, which are completely covered by soft, smooth, beige and brown duck feathers.

PAUL WINS RECOGNITION FOR GENTILE CHRISTIANS

LESSON TEXT: Acts 15:23b-29; Galatians 2:1, 2, 9, 10, 20, 21.

GOLDEN TEXT: Being therefore justified by faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ.—Romans 5:1.

Problems and differences of opinion need not be harmful if they are properly met and honestly settled. In the church at Antioch a question had arisen which had to be answered, authoritatively, and once for all.

The early converts of the church were naturally from among the Jews, and they carried with them into their new-found faith the traditions of their religion. Some of them did not recognize that the salvation they had in Christ was entirely by grace apart from any works of the law. They not only felt that they must observe the law, but insisted that the Gentile believers must also fulfill the Jewish rite of circumcision. This promptly raised the question whether Christ alone could save, or if men were saved by grace plus works.

To settle this matter, Paul and Barnabas went up to the church at Jerusalem, and there a great council discussed it freely, and came to a decision which was then transmitted by letter and a committee. We find-

I. Fundamental Principle Established-Salvation by Grace (Acts 15: 23b-29).

The believers at Antioch were to abstain from those things which would hinder their spiritual progress and harm their testimony. That was important and right, but it must not be allowed to confuse them regarding the basis of their salvation. They were not saved by works, no, not even by the most commendable. Salvation is by grace, through faith, not of works, lest any man should boast (Eph. 2:8, 9). That principle, which is absolutely foundational in all Christian thinking, was established then, and is valid and blessedly true for all time.

Is it not strange, then, that all through the church's history there has been a determined effort on the part of some in the church to add something to God's redeeming grace as a ground for salvation? One would think that all the peoples of the world would rejoice in such a gloriously simple and altogether divine redemption.

It is well worth our attention to observe how the matter was hanen to the teachers of error in verse 24. It is no light matter to trouble and mislead the souls of men, by injecting our worldly wisdom or our opinions, when we should be teaching the truth of God's Word.

Note that there was fine courtesy in sending the message to the church at Antioch by messengers who were men of distinction and great spiritual courage. It was not a case of abruptly telling this new church what to do, and end it there, but of using this trying situation as a means of drawing the churches together in fellowship and mutual

II. Sound Practice Observed-Walking by Faith (Gal. 2:1, 2, 9, 10, 20, 21).

The life of grace is not just something to be written or talked about, or to glory in, although it is all of these. It is to show forth in the daily walk of the Christian.

Paul in Galatians 2 tells of his experience in Jerusalem, of his meeting and discussion with the brethren. It was all of vital importance to him and to the cause of Christ, but it is not the record of an academic argument, or the vaunting of a personal victory which he

He rises to the high point of Christian experience, the realization of the fact that a believer has died to self. He is crucified with Christand yet he lives.

Yes, he lives in a newness of life which is not his own, but Christ living in him. There is the secret of real Christian living-a complete acceptance of all that Christ is, in and for the believer.

This truth is at once deeply spiritual and completely practical. Again we say, it is not something about which one theorizes. It is an actuality-something which Christians can and do live out in daily experience. It is "the life which I now live" of which Paul speaks, and that is by "the faith of the Son of God," who loved us and gave Himself for us.

To fail to receive and appropriate this grace by seeking to be made righteous through the deeds of the law is to deny the need of the death of Christ, in fact, to make it a vain thing.

Some may feel that all this is too deeply theological for them, but it really is not, for God does not expect us to explain it, but only to accept it. This is His work, and it is indeed wonderful in our sight (Ps. 139:6), but not too wonderful to receive by faith, to rest and rejoice in, and to declare to others.

THE STORY THUS FAR: Lieut. Col. Frank Kurtz, Flying Fortress pilot, tells of that fatal day when the Japs struck in the Philippines. Eight of his men were killed fleeing for shelter and Old 99 was demolished before it could get off the ground. After escaping to Australia, what is left of the squadron flies to Java, where they go out on missions over the Philippines. On one of these missions one of the motors of Kurtz' Fort is hit and they begin to lose altitude. They stay with it, however, make the bomb run and try to make Malang Field on Java, but change their minds, turn back. The boys are wrought up at a U. S. magazine which publishes a complete diagram of the E model Fortress. CHAPTER XI

"'Pilot to Radio,' calls Captain Skiles over the interphones. "'Radio answering Pilot. Go ahead,' answers Sergeant Boudria. "'Get the emergency rations out,' says Skiles, 'and the jungle kits, and set them by the door.' "Take-off was at 3:30 in the morning," said the Gunner. "We'd

"They'd given us up at Belem, but when they heard us circling up in the fog they went down the field in a truck, throwing out lighted flare pots to mark the runway. Our gas was so low that before the ship was parked the No. 1 engine cut out.

"Next morning we were off for Natal, and landed there at one o'clock. We were gassing up and the crew chief was supervising the loading-the natives rolling out the steel drums, and the crew chief unscrewing their tops to hurry it upwhen he happened to stick his finger into one that seemed a little heavy and, by George, it was full of water! The barrel looked like any other barrel, the native looked like any other native. Of course it was sabotage, but what could you do! Brazil wasn't in the war yet. Somebody hoped that one drum of water would have brought us down with sputtering motors out in the Atlantic.

"We took off for Freetown, Africa, at ten o'clock. It was an elevenhour flight. We stayed with the British there and got along with them fine. It was a fighter station. They gave us a nice feed and all the warm beer we could drinkit was New Year's Eve.

"Then we started across Africa, and finally sighted the Nile, and I ate dinner at the British sergeants' mess at Khartoum.

"When we got to Iraq," said the Gunner, "we began to smell the war. The British there told us not long ago the natives, led by Nazis, had revolted, and two thousand rebels had tried to take the field away from the little garrison. All the British had on it was one plane, so old it looked like a box kite cruised about seventy miles per

"So they'd taken an empty gas drum, loaded it up with brace chains, rivets, and bolts, and in the middle put a hell of a lot of sticks of dynamite and a fuse. It was so big it would hardly go into the door of the plane.

"Then they flew over the rebel army, and when they had figured the best place to drop it, they lit the fuse. But when they tried to roll it out, it got stuck in the door of the plane. The British said they were quite worried for a bit while that fuse burned on.

"Finally they jammed it through the door and on out, but it exploded about fifty feet off the ground. They said it killed about fifty rebels.

"A couple of hops later we were in Bangalore, in India, where there was a Welsh regiment stationed. "Then we flew on down to Palembang, Sumatra, and crossed the equator in a hell of a snowstorm at 12,000 feet, with snow packing in between our engines.

"There we first saw the Dutch. Compared with the English, they seemed more rugged. But we liked them, even though they give you a loaf of bread, a hunk of baloney, and a cup of tea and call that breakfast, lunch, or dinner."

"On the seventeenth of January we had reached Java," continued the Gunner, "and were looking down on their rice paddies in a drizzle which washed everything a vivid green. Then we flew over Surabaya and up between those two conical mountains that guard the pass into Malang Field.

"Then we went down to barracks to meet the 19th. Well, there'd been quite a change. As a bunch they looked nervous and hollow-eyed, compared to the way we'd remembered them back in the States. Looked like a few of them had been drinking quite a bit off duty, maybe trying to forget what they'd been through. You had to stop and remember that those poor guys had been fighting a defensive war with

"They'd look enviously across the field at the tail guns of the new E's we'd arrived in. No doubt it was a lot better combat plane. 'Yeah-auh,' they'd admit, 'but wait till a Jap gets on your tail and then see what happens.' They all looked so tired I wondered what I'd look like after a while.

"We found out they were sending us out on a raid the very next morning-which should show how badly they needed us—so after we came back I went out to check again on

"We needed the new boys bad-ly," said Frank. "We'd got word trouble was on the way. You see the American Navy's PBY's—big flying boats-had come out of Ma- | Zeros are sitting under a cloud when nila, and now were operating off we come by. Four of them go in for Java, from the big Dutch naval tail attacks and are shot into conbase at Surabaya, but mostly from fetti, so the fifth is smart-he goes coastal coves and the wide mouths home with the news. But for a of rivers. Patrol Wing 10 they were while there it was a tail-gunner's called, and a swell gang they were. heaven." Of course we thought it was God-

"You never forget your first battle awful stuff they were flying-those mission," said the Bombardier, "only I of course had a bomb-sight clumsy twin-engined boats with the angle on the whole picture.

"Just before we took off Major Robinson called all pilots, bombaron reconnaissance they'd picked up diers, radiomen, and navigators into the hangar room for a critique. He had a new idea.

"My plane is to be in his flight. When we make our pass over the target, my navigator is to watch Robinson's bomb doors, and when Robinson's bombs appear, then he releases four of mine, I meanwhile sighting the target. Then the planes behind me release when I do. In this way we'll make a wide pattern, and get away from the target faster than by making a double run.

"We have clear weather, climbing for our altitude through a few scattered clouds, and thirty minutes away from the target we reach 30,-000 feet and then level off, following the Borneo shore line of Macassar Strait. We're all at battle stations, I fiddling with my bomb sight. Presently we hear the top turret gunner over the interphone.

"'Planes!' he's calling. 'Formation of planes, right rear, high!' They were coming down at us from 32,000 or 33,000 feet, but from the navigator's compartment I couldn't see them yet.

"Then they peeled off for the attack, concentrating on Robinson's plane. I could hear the gunners calling these plays over the inter-phones—couldn't see the Zeros myself yet, but I could see their tracers going into the tail of Robinson's plane. Then we turned in on our bomb run, and I'd catch glimpses of the Zeros as they overshot Robinson, some of them coming fifty feet from his plane.

"But I'm busy on my bombing run. I've picked my first live target, a row of three transports, broadside to our line of flight. Everything else seems to be going smoothly. I can hear Charlie Britt on the top turret guns, hammering away at Zeros, and I cuss him a little because it shakes my bomb sight.
"Now we're on the run, coming in on the target, and I've set my drift in the sight, plus our true altitude and true air speed, so I can put those cross hairs on the target.

"Now the pilot and I switch our earphones over to command, so we can listen to any orders Major Robinson wants to give from his lead plane, while the copilot stays on the interphones, so he can pick up what our gunners are doing. And in a minute I hear it. Major Robinson is calling.

"'Robinson to Flight. I've been badly hit in the tail-having trouble holding the nose of my plane down. I'm turning the formation.'

"We had been coming in straight at the coast of Borneo. Now, turning, we go down the coast, the Zeros swarming around us like flies around a hunk of rotten meat.

"The first one I really saw came up from beneath us. I'd known he was there, because tracers had been coming up from under the ship's belly past my face, as if someone down under there was throwing up hatfuls of live, smoking coals.

"As he pulls up out from beneath us and banks away, I get in a couple of good bursts at him with the little .30-caliber machine gun we V's, each flight picking its ship, and have down there in the nose. I couldn't really see if I'd hit him or not. Then:

" 'Robinson to Skiles. Go ahead.' "'Skiles answering Robinson," says our pilot.

comes over the interphones. "'Robinson answering."

"'Do you want to make another pass at the target?' asks Skiles. " 'Yes, Skiles, take the formation over the target again.' "We make our turn, the rest following, and head back.

"Just then a Zero dives down on the formation from behind, going between me and the plane on our right wing-about a hundred feet away-and then it levels off out in front of me. I happened to have the gun in the right-hand socket of the nose, so I can really lay it on him with my little .30-caliber sewing machine. It's taking plenty of stitches, but I can see my tracers slapping into his wing, close to where it joins his fuselage. He wobbles, goes into a dive. He is well out in front with plenty of forward speed. so it's almost like watching a bomb leaving my plane, which I can follow all the way down. This doesn't hap-pen often. Usually I shoot at them, they go on back behind, and the wing gunners confirm whether I really got them or not. But now; "Robinson to Flight. Use as your target that heavy cruiser moving

Various Kinds of Scallops for Your Cupboards and Over the Windows

SCALLOPS are in fashion. Big scallops, little scallops, pointed or round scallops; deep or shallow, convex or concave; also cut-out curves and scrolls—they are used for cornices over windows in bedroom, bath, kitchen, dining room, dinette and living room. They are used also to frame or to partly frame cupboards.

You can have all the scallops you want even in these times.

They may be cut out of any thin wood or, if that is not available, composition board may be used. It is easy to cut simple scallop designs by hand with a coping saw.

NOTE: Mrs. Spears has made a pat-tern with 10 basic scallop and scroll de-signs with illustrated directions for combining them in many different ways for windows and cupboards of all sizes. Other suggestions for using scallops for home decoration are also included. Ask for pattern No. 207 and enclose 15 cents.

SOLDIER'S DREAM When you think of cashing in your war bonds think of this story that has been going the rounds in army newspapers and is pretty popular with the soldiers:

A GI had been planning to cash in his war bonds and make a trip back to this country. He changed his mind, however, because of a dream he had one night.

It seems that he was in a foxhole picking off Japs in large and satisfying quantities. Suddenly a sergeant tapped him on the shoulder and grabbed his rifte from

"What's the idea, Sarge?"

"The guy who lent us the money for this rifle wants it back," the sergeant said.

The News should not take Old Tack too seriously, especially during political seasons. Pappy, you know is from Kansas So was Doc Brinkley, and Sockless Jerry Simpson. What matters it if 70 per cent is agin it if the other 130 per cent are fer it? Lots of times 'moulders of public opinyun' afc gang aglee. Remember way back when Texas went for Hoover by sixteen thousand majority? Is it possible that this Panhandle assortment of 70 per cent are hankering for another Hoover cataclysm? We are not so hot for the 4th term biz, but since the democratic party has about run out of soap for presidential timber, we'd do well not to swap hosses in the middle of the stream. Old Tack is a daisy, but we still wonder if he ever recalls that Literary Digest poll. And the millions of hungry, unemployed, during the Hoover administration. Whassa matter with those Panhandle publishers-have they got two chickens in their dinner pots? Mayor's Proclamation

Aiding and co-operating in making O'Donnell a cleaner city, I hereby proclaim and designate the First week in May, 1944--May 1 to 6 inclusive, as CLEAN UP WEEK in this city.

Business concerns, residents and citizens are cordially asked to lend all assistance in this civic undertaking.

On FRIDAY, May 5, the City of O'Donnell will have trucks or wagons to haul away trash. You are asked to have your trash in containers or sacks, and placed in a convenient spot on the alley line where it will be accessible for loading. One day only-Friday--will be used. There will be no cost for hauling trash on this day. The city will defray this expense. Those failing to co-operate on this date, will have to pay for their trash hauling, individually.

Let us all co-operate in this Clean Up Week campaign.

Keep to Simplicity In Foods, Serving For Good Hostessing

Create this spring tonic by using salmon and asparagus in a custard when eggs are plentiful. Bake in ramekins set in a pan of water, using a moderate oven so that the texture of the custard will be perfect.

Hospitality is unrationed even in wartime. Food restrictions curb the serving of elaborate meals, but homemakers still want their friends over for a pleasant chat over luncheon or to "try out something new" in the way of a recipe. Simplicity is the keynote of good entertaining. It doesn't do to try out complicated recipes or menu patterns just to make an impression. Dress-Up! Domestic nerbs will dress many a stew and pot-pie into a dish fit for kings. Try a dash of thyme, marjoram and sage, but remember, just a dash!

Meat loaves become party-ish if topped with catsup. Meat pies take on color if topped with green pepper rings before serving.

Muffins and rolls made in small-size muffin tins give distinction to dinners and luncheons. Pieces of leftover fruit atop muffins and breads are colorful.

Vegetables are gay if served in buttercups. Trim crusts off bread slices, press them in muffin cups and toast to a golden brown. Very pretty!

Give these beauty-aids to salads and garnishes: carrot curls are made by slicing carrots thin-ly lengthwise with a carrot cutter and winding the slice around finger. Let crisp in cold water. Peel cucumber thinly, and run prongs of fork down the length of the cucumber. Slice thinly.

Be a Hostess!

Not just in name but in deed! As a hostess, see that your guests are comfortable, not just in food you feed them but in the conversation channels into which you guide them; in the introductions by which you open up new worlds and friends to them; in the games which they play; in everything, be gracious, smiling and unruffled. continued from first page) tax legislation through his organization, inasmuch as the American Automobile Association is the only active representative for the motorist in the Legislature, both state and national, taking a stand in the interest of the automobile owner.

Mr. Douglas has been particularly active in safety education and driver training through the schools of his territory, and through his efforts, safety education was installed in the school curriculum.

Mr. Douglas stated that he was vitally interested in the district and was not dependent on the remuneration through the office. "I shall spare no effort in presenting legislation which will be beneficial to the district."

Mr. Douglas added that he will not be able to see every one because of the gasoline and tire rationing. However, he will do his best to make a campaign for the office.

Mr. Douglas said that his concern for public interests is not confined to any one county or locality. As a legislator, he intends to visit David Thompson entertained the sen- and thoroughly study the needs of ior class with an enjoyable party at his each county in the district, re home Wednesday evening. peatedly.

Are you protecting the soil your boy is fighting for?

Whether he thinks about it or not, your boy is fighting for the soil of America--your soil.

In the urgency of our greater need for foods, fats and fibres, it is important to remember that your fertile acres will produce more for you and for him when he returns, if their productiveness is not lost through lack of soil protection.

The Ford-Ferguson Tractor and Ferguson Implements are designed to put soil protecting methods into operation, at new low costs and without any decrease in current production.

You will find this modern equipment especially suited to terracing, contour farming, strip cropping and effective control of water supply and soil erosion.

More tractors and more implements will be available than during the past season. Why not talk it over with us?
