Rain Endangers Crop

Harvest Needs Dry Weather

An unlikely event in West Texas—farmers are wishing for sunny weather. A cold fall rain which set in Saturday has accounted for 2.8 inches of rain up to Tuesday noon and 4 inches to date for October, according to Benny Moore, local weather recorder. The total for the year stands at 21.73 inches and the annual average for here is 18 inches.

Farmers are sweating out the approaching frost. The average date is Nov. 4th. The wet fall combined with the late crop has caused many sappy bolls to be in danger of rotting if a freeze hits before they are dry.

Open cotton is being spotted by the rain and fog. Grain is in danger of falling over due to the moisture. A month of dry weather is the greatest need now.

An estimated 7500 bales have been ginned here to date and about 4500 bales in the area gins. The crop is estimated at 1-4th over and the grain crop at 20 percent over.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Jarrell and Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Rodgers of Vista, Calif. Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Holland of Houston, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Malone of Quitman, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. AT WORKSHOP James Reed attended a Farm Electrification workshop for vocational ag. teachers at the Big Spring H. School Ag. building Monday from 3 until 8 p. m.

THIS WEEK IN AUSTIN By Preston Smith Some said we shouldn't—others said we should—and some said Texas couldn't afford a special session—but here we are.

There has been some unhappiness on the part of many lawmakers since we got here, too, because a special session was called.

Among the more outspoken legislators were those opposed to the special session. House Speaker Waggoner Carr of Lubbock went on record early against calling a special session because of the cost involved. Personally I feel that this special session is very important and very necessary.

Texas has got to have a stricter lobby control bill, one of the reasons the Governor gives for calling the special session. Unless some stricter lobby controls are devised, Texas, and all its people, could lose a hundred times more money than this special session will cost.

In his opening speech to the Legislature Monday, the Governor also called for action on the water program left unfinished at the last session. He also called for the establishment of a commission to study ways to improve law enforcement.

The big difference in this special session and the regular sessions is that during a special session, the Legislature considers only what the Governor gives them to work on. It is not that way during the regular session, so, the Governor, by calling a special session has placed our work before the Legislature which cannot be held here more than 30 days.

EAGLES BOW TO SUNDOWN 34 TO 6 Sundown took their district 5 A conference opener Friday nite at their home field over the O'Donnell Eagles 34 to 6 to remain undefeated.

The Roughnecks scored in every quarter. O'Donnell scored early in the second quarter on a fine 80 yard run by HB Jerry Gass.

FIRST LINE OF DEFENSE

Austin — Your general state of health can be a first line of defense against illness, particularly now that the season of infectious diseases is here. Resistance to complications of colds, flu and other illnesses is influenced by how you eat, sleep, exercise and relax before you get sick.

Food means different things to different people but the net effect is the same — food not only supplies energy to the human machine but also provides materials to renew body tissue. Good nutrition is large ly a matter of getting enough of the right foods. And since this is true, it is a good idea to take a look at your eating habits. Your regular diet should be built around:

A daily serving of meat or fish, about four eggs a week, some cheese, at least two glasses of milk daily, two daily servings of raw or lightly cooked green or yellow vegetables, two servings of fruit, and some potatoes, bread, or other grain products. Desserts, candy, and beverages such as soft drinks and coffee are not essentials — but they are sometimes pleasant additions.

Other items in your diet can be extensive or as limited as you wish provided you watch for the "spoon in mouth diseases" leading to overweight.

FIRST LINE OF DEFENSE

Austin — Your general state of health can be a first line of defense against illness, particularly now that the season of infectious diseases is here. Resistance to complications of colds, flu and other illnesses is influenced by how you eat, sleep, exercise and relax before you get sick.

Food means different things to different people but the net effect is the same — food not only supplies energy to the human machine but also provides materials to renew body tissue. Good nutrition is large ly a matter of getting enough of the right foods. And since this is true, it is a good idea to take a look at your eating habits. Your regular diet should be built around:

A daily serving of meat or fish, about four eggs a week, some cheese, at least two glasses of milk daily, two daily servings of raw or lightly cooked green or yellow vegetables, two servings of fruit, and some potatoes, bread, or other grain products. Desserts, candy, and beverages such as soft drinks and coffee are not essentials but they are sometimes pleasant additions.

Other items in your diet can be extensive or as limited as you wish provided you watch for the "spoon in mouth diseases" leading to overweight.
