PRORATION AND THE LEGISLATURE

Since July 14, members of the legislature have been hearing about the biggest surprise came when As did Governor Sterling, legislators hear from officials of the Humble Oil Company that proration is the one expedient that will save the Texas petroleum industry. From an independent oil operator who lives in Houston, they learned that proration is the weapon wherewith Standard Oil interests seek to control the world's supply of oil without buying and paying for it. This particular witness corroborated his testimony by reading from a London magazine an account of a meeting between American and European oil company heads at which the proration scheme is said to have been hatched. From other large and well-known independent operators the legislators got telegrams warning against the "false step of proration." Probably the biggest surprise came when Underwood Nazro, executive of the Gulf Companies in Texas, told legislators they should have known from the beginning that they couldn't legislate the law of supply and demand out of existence with proration or any other economic makeshift. Nazro's message was conveyed by Harry Sinclair in a telegraphed communication.

Things stand now, after the state has spent more than a hundred thousand dollars of money it did not have (it was operating on a deficiency basis when the special session was called), just where they stood before the legislature met. Nobody has explained why lubricating oils dropped not a cent and gasoline very little while crude oil was a drug upon the market at ten and fifteen cents the barrel. Perhaps our legislators didn't think to ask these questions while they had the chief executives of the big Texas oil companies on the stand.

One constructive bill has been offered the legislature, however, and if it passes it may justify all of the money we spent in entertaining for another month these members of the 42nd legislature. This bill would make unlawful the manipulation of prices by large oil companies for the manifest purpose of spanking local, independent competition. Most of us have noticed and grieved that gasoline refined in Houston could be selling there at fourteen cents the gallon, and still be shipped to Austin and dispensed at ten cents. Of course this anomalous situation was created only when the big fellows had troublesome competition in Austin. Under the provisions of this constructive bill, they still may reduce gasoline to ten cents in Austin for the purpose of making it hard for that local operator; but they'd have to reduce prices proportionately in every other point in the state. It is doubtful that they could stand that long over so wide a territory for the reward of putting out of business a local competitor in just one town or city; it is doubtful that they would attempt it. For that reason this bill—if it passes and is sustained by the courts—may be a legal opportunity for small people back upon the statute books.

Manwhile the facts are, of course, that with all its tremendous oil production and its greater potentialities, Texas isn't big enough to control a national and international petroleum problem by issuing mandates to a legislative body sitting at Austin. After we have paid the obligation incurred in the present indulgence of folly, let's sit back and let Congress of the United States or the League of Nations pay the bills. It is their problem, anyway.

The cotton mills at Post, Texas, are running on full time schedule for the first time in two years, employing 200 people with an annual payroll of $250,000.

Big Spring, Texas, is to have a combination city auditorium, city hall and fire station to cost $200,000.00.

$60,000.00 railroad depot is being erected by the Ft. Worth & Santa Fe Railway Company at Littlefield, giving the city the best depot on the Slaton division of the railroad.

LOOKING FOR THINGS

Did you ever stop to think how much time we waste every day looking for things which have been mislaid? We misplace a letter or document and spend half an hour looking for it. Often several minutes are consumed in searching for a hat or pair of suspenders. Some frequently forget where they have parked the car.

This waste of time through lack of care in putting things in their proper places was called to our attention by a very timely article in a newspaper which has just come to our desk. It is such a fine article, so full of good common sense and practical advice, that we shall clip it out for our scrap-book at once. Now where in the Dickens did we put those scissors?

ROBOT PILOTS WARSHIP

Perhaps the most amazing performance of a radio-controlled ship seen so far was that of the United States destroyer Stoddert, off San Diego, Calif., recently, when according to a press dispatch, "everything from whistle to rudder was operated by radio from the bridge of the control ship Perry which followed in its wake."

One maneuver directed from the control vessel by radio was a 180-degree turn, caused by pressing certain keys on the bridge of the Perry. The Stoddert, without a single man on board, turned entirely around without slackening speed. The speed was changed at will, searchlights were operated, the whistle was blown, and other interesting stunts were performed in obedience to the radio impulse sent from the Perry.

In warfare a ship equipped with this radio apparatus might be used to run enemy vessels or carry torpedoes to be automatically released among them, and play havoc generally.

The pity is that so many of the most remarkable inventions of man are capable of use only for purposes of destruction.

TY COBB STANDS FIRST

Picking the greatest figures in various lines of activity is a mild but often interesting sport, and a jury of twelve old timers recently indulged in the pastime of selecting the outstanding baseball players of history.

An average of the ratings given by the individual jurors lists the heroes of the diamond in this order: Ty Cobb, Hans Wagner, Babe Ruth, Nap Lajoie, Eddie Collins, Willie Keeler, Al Simmons and Tris Speaker.

Seven of the twelve judges picked Ty Cobb as the greatest baseball player of all time, while most of the others gave him second place. The opinion of Cobb's admirers was well expressed by Connie Mack, one of the judges, who said:

"Picking the greatest player that ever lived is easy, I think. I pick Ty Cobb. He was a good fielder, the greatest base runner in the game's history, the fastest thinker, and the most consistent hitter. How can you name anyone else?"

THIS AND THAT

Nice word, this. In a temporary economic slump, but things are happening in a big way—some amusing, some confusing.

We almost had Al Capone in a notion to go to jail for a while, but he backed down in the last minute and says he can't make it until September—or maybe Christmas. He's probably waiting for the "crops" to be harvested.

"Alfalfa Bill", Oklahoma's eccentric governor, continues his war against the high cost of living. He's going to put the state into the coffin manufacturing business, because he believes that if the cost of living is bound to be high, the cost of dying ought to be low. If successful, his plan will be an added stimulant for something or somebody.

The depression isn't making much headway toward a return to prosperity. President Hoover fights doggedly to keep wages up, but the Bureau of Labor Statistics says he's not having much luck.

In Texas the legislature moves swiftly to the end of its 30-day period for legislative action against oil waste. Developments so far have been satisfactory. We had never expected any more than what we have received by way of legislative help for oil troubles to date. The people conducted by both branches of the legislature has taken up more of its allotted time. The investigation has ended and the people have found: That the solons received $10 a day for 30 days, whether they are there or not—so long as they attend the sessions for one day. (Which would seem to call for special effort to money conservation.)

That there were more solons absent during the inquiry than were present and listening to the proceedings, and that those who were there slept peacefully through it all, showing little life unless some legislator asked questions of a scandalous nature.

That the state pays for all the stamps, pencils and paper they can use; pays all the telephone bills; so long as the solon doesn't call his wife by name; says for three or more newspapers for each solon, and the reht on a private mail box. And the people have about that if any proration will have to be done by prairie and not by legislative

PLAINVIEW

Written by "THE GOSSIP CAT"

Practically all of the farmers in this neighborhood are up with their work and are spending their leisure hours in various ways. Some are visiting, some attending the revivals at Berry Flat and Mesquite, others are just doing in the shade, but it seems a cat who expects to keep up with the Plain View happenings can find no time to loiter.

Several from here attended the Plateau Singing Convention at Draw Sunday, and all report that the singing was "simply sublime." Mr. and Mrs. Tilman Rogers entertained a large group of friends from this, Berry Flat, Mesquite and Gail communities with an ice cream supper and musical at their home Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham have relatives from Oklahoma City visiting with them this week. Lance Suits and son, Tom, of Lubbock visited his uncle, H. W. Suits of this community Friday. Mrs. Eliot Harris and girls, Mozelle, Opal Mae and Olene, together with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Hook Brandon, of near O'Connell, visited Tuesday for Fannin county where they will visit with relatives and friends.

Misses Edith and Bessie Heard spent Sunday with Misses Alma and Gladys Berry. Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Collins, who have made their home here since March, moved away last week. Mr. and Mrs. Tilman Rogers left Sunday for Big Spring, where Mrs. Rogers will visit with her mother for awhile. Mr. Rogers will spend time with relatives at Gail.

Mr. Tommy Heard spent Sunday night with his last parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Brandon near O'Donnell. Mrs. Heard is staying with her parents during the illness of her sister, Esta Lee.

Mrs. George Fletcher and little George L. spent Friday night with Mrs. Harding Isaac. We are sorry to report the loss of another good milk cow in this community from eating green feed stuff. The cow belonged to Mr. Trewreck. Miss Bessie Heard lost her saddle horse last week; cause of death unknown.

It looked as if we would get rain Sunday night and Monday, but we are just glad that those who did need it most received it. We hope however that the weather man has not moved his parasol from off O'Donnell over the Plainview farmers.

Miss Maggie Summers of Berry Flat spent Monday night and Tuesday with Miss Alma Berry.

WOMEN IN POLITICS

To those who deride the advent of women in politics and official life the dismissal of Mrs. Jean Hortense Norris from her position as New York's first woman magistrate will appear as an additional argument for their prejudice against officeholding by the fair sex.

Justices of the state Supreme Court, before whom Judge Norris was tried, unanimously ordered her removed from office, finding her guilty of altering court records to cover up her unfairness to helpless women "framed" for moral offenses; of owning stock in a bonding company operating in her court; of disregarding the constitutional rights of defendants, and of selling her official name to advertise a commercial product.

All of these offenses came to light after she has served as magistrate nearly 12 years, besides enjoying an enviable national reputation as a leader in many political and social movements.

As a general proposition, however, Mrs. Norris's fall from grace proves nothing for or against the participation of women in public affairs. It merely demonstrates anew what every student of human nature knew already—that probity is not an exclusive attribute of either sex, but mastery in the hearts and minds of men and women alike.
