Mrs J. S. (Arah) Fritz, 79 year old resident of O'Donnell, buried Saturday afternoon in local ceme ery. Minister Glenn Bishop officiated at the which followed services in O'Donnell Church of Christ.

Mrs Fritz, a native of San Saba county, died in the home of her daughter, Mrs O R Davis at Ho Springs, N. M. She had lived there for the past 16 months, having liv Mrs V R McVickers of Plain- 1871 Mrs Fritz moved to O'Donnell about 40 years ago.

Surviving relatives include daughter and two sons. Bert and Calvin, both of here, two brothers Grover Montgomery of Sweetwat-er and Bud Montgomery of Dub lin and one sister, Mrs Ruby Sanders of Swee water

Pallbearers were Julian Pirtle Roy Everett, Ervy Booth, Gardenhire, S. F. Johnson and J C

Born Nov. 1, 1871, Mrs Fritz was the daughter of Mr and Mrs J C J C Montgomery, Nolan county's first sheriff. On Dec. 30th, 1888 she was wed to John S Fritz at Sweet water. The young couple lived there until they moved to Elk, N where Mr. Fritz ranched and Mrs Fritz taught school. They moved to Gail in 1900 and while there Mr Fritz took part in the now famous Borden Co. land rush which saw small ranchers file on public lands then being run by big ranching interes s. In 1921 Mr and Mrs Fritz and family moved to O'Connell where they owned and operated the Corner Drug. He sold the firm four years later building the fill ing station now owned and operat ed by a son, Calvin. Mr. Fritz pre ceeded his wife in death in 19b3. She was also preceeded in death by a son, Otie, in 1896. She had been a faithful member of the Church of Christ since a young Church of Christ since a young girl of 15. Mrs Fritz was highly respected and loved by all knew this splendid pioneer lady.

Premature Pasturing May Ruin New Alfalfa Stand

A little premature pasturing can ruin what is now a fine stand of new alfalfa, Michigan State college extension authorities report. Seedings with spring grain crops have brought good stands.

But with good growth, some farmers may be eager to use the crop for pasture late this fall. This, the crops authority says, will weaken the plants so they may be killed during the winter.

Casserole Cookery Helps Cut Down Soaring Food Bills

WHEN THE FOOD budget evades all your efforts to keep within its necessary limits, then it's time to start fixing those nourishing, appe-tite-satisfying casseroles. There's a good bit of eating in a fine casserole, and you can frequently use leftover meats and vegetables in them rather than wasting them.

Even when saving money is no object, there are many people who like the home-like atmosphere of having a casserole dinner. Plan them as well, cook them as carefully as a roast, and your family will enjoy them as much as the Sunday dinner with chicken or a

Produce Clean Eggs For Larger Profits Buyers Will Pay Top Prices for Clean Eggs

Produce clean eggs. Thousands of dollars are lost by poultry raisers every year due to dirty eggs and the resulting deterioration takes place before they are marketed. The prevention of dirty eggs will not only increase the flockowner's income but will build a better market

Dirty eggs offer a poor appearance, they cannot be stored suc-cessfully and it takes time and money to clean them. Consequently, buyers are willing to pay more for clean eggs which means more profit to the flockowner.

Eggs should be gathered at least three times a day in wire baskets and stored in clean, cool, moist place.

The production of clean eggs and handling them to maintain quality is not difficult. Deep, dry litter, good ventilation and nests well littered with shaving, excelsior, straw, or other nesting material, will keep the birds from getting dirt and stains on the eggs from their feet. Always keep hens in the house on wet, muddy days. Immediately after gathering, eggs should be stored in the cleanest, coolest and most moist place on the farm. A cellar with a temperature of 45 to 60 degrees is very good.

Peace Talks Proposed by Stassen; U. N. Forces Cross 38th Parallel; High Prices Weaken Defense Plan

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's newspaper,)

Harold E. Stassen, president of University of Pennsylvania as he announced contents of a message he sent to Soviet Generalissimo Joseph Stalin proposing that they confer and urging Russia to "stop the drift to war." Stassen's message was delivered to the Soviet embassy and a copy to the state department.

STASSEN:

A Just World Peace

Harold E. Stassen, president of the University of Pennsylvania and twice an aspirant for the Republican presidential nomination, stepped in where angels fear to

The former Minnesota governor wrote a letter to Premier Stalin suggesting that they confer on steps that need be taken to achieve "a just world peace."

Stassen was quick to point out that his letter was written without consultation either with President Truman or the state department; that is, Stassen had written to Stalin in his private capacity and the letter had no official inspiration.

Stassen declared that, if his bid was successful, he would have "four or five of this country's top citizen leaders" accompany him to Moscow for the conference.

There is a possibility that Stalin might accept Stassen's proposal. In fact, some quarters believe the Russians will jump at the chance, if for nothing else, at least for the opportunity to pound out the old propaganda line that the Soviet is anxious for world peace.

There is little possibility, ever, that anything constructive will come of such a meeting. Whatever Stalin and Stassen's delegation might agree upon would have no official standing and in all probability would not coincide with American foreign policy.

As could be expected, Stassen's gesture produced political over-tones immediately. One Democratic spokesman pointed out that the initiative of any such project properly belongs with the state depart-

RISING COSTS: Cut 750 Jet Fighters

The howl of the housewife that prices have climbed beyond any reasonable or sensible level was taken up by the air force which reported between April and September increases weakened the force's purchasing power by an equivalent of 750 F-86 jet fighter planes.

The cost increases in essential materials, John McCone, under-secretary for air, told the house armed services subcommittee would run about $315 million.

The under-secretary cited many examples. Among the increases were crude rubber, 128.9 per cent; aluminum, 2.9 per cent; copper, 23.6 per cent; tin 32.9 per cent; plus signs of accompanying wage rises as another basic factor in cost estimation.

It all boils down to the fact which the housewife has long known: prices are climbing by leaps and bounds. If the increases were hurting the armed service then perhaps something would be done to relieve the pinch on the general public.

Rep. Carl Vinson, member of the armed services committee, was blunt about the situation:

"Let's not kid ourselves. Congress has a choice of seeing these programs cut (4,428 new aircraft by 1952), or coming up with additional appropriations to meet these

The United Nations gave Gen.

But the delay in giving that approval may cost the U.N. forces in manpower and material. It gave the Communists time to collect their shattered forces and prepare for another stand, whereas a continued attack by U.N. troops when the Reds were in full flight could have ended the war quickly.

It was the old story of immature thinking and lack of plans on the part of the western nations. Had the situation been reversed, is there anyone who thinks the Reds would have stopped long enough to let U.N. forces regroup? They would have continued to attack and secure any necessary approval later. But be that as it may, the general assembly finally got around to voting on the invasion of North Korea, approving it 47 to 5. The assembly authorized:

1. That "all appropriate steps be taken to insure conditions of stability throughout Korea."

2. "That U.N. forces should not remain in any part of Korea otherwise so far as necessary to achieve some other aims of the plan."

LIVE STOCK EXPOSITION

51st International Live Stock Show Opens in Chicago Nov. 25

All roads lead to Chicago every year when the International Live Stock Exposition is on in the in ternational amphitheatre at the Chicago stock yards. And this year will be no exception when the big show, world's leading event of its kind, begins its second half century, November 25 through December 2

Show window of America's greatest single industry—agriculture— the exposition attracts world-wide interest and attention.

If not only brings approximately 200,000 farm folk to Chicago, but the greatest news and radio coverage in the world carries the story of the exposition to people around the globe.

William E. Ogilvie, secretarymanager of the exposition since its revival after World War II, believes that the coming 51st edition should set new precedents in scope and

He points out that increased prize money for the show should help to encourage the exhibition of the very tops of livestock from both the United States and Canada. Especially outstanding are the increases subscribed in the cattle department which it is anticipated will attract record entries.

Prizes for all cattle classes will be $61,370, the largest total ever offered. Many prize increases made in other breeds to mark the occasion of the golden jubilee show are retained this year.

Two years ago the horse show. which highlights the entertainment program with 13 performances, took on a western flavor with the addition of a "cutting horse contest" for quarter horses, so named as being the fastest horse over a quarter mile and ideally adapted to ranch work. This contest, in which the horses "cut" a calf out of a drove of cattle, just as he is required to do in his work on the western range, proved so popular that it has been installed as a permanent fixture, similar to the sheep dog act which is a perennial favor-

Dr. A. D. Weber, of Kansas State College, Manhattan, will return to judge the steers again this year. The only American to judge these classes since the exposition departed from the custom of having foreign judges two years ago, "Dad" Weber, as he is known among his students, is one of the most popular cattle judges in the country.

THE EIGHT DAYS of the exposition are packed with thrills for agricultural visitors. But the real high points of the show are when the grand champion steer is selected on Tuesday and when he is sold on Thursday.

Last year's champion, a hereford named Judge Roy Bean, was pur-chased from his Pecos county, Texas 4-H club owners at a record $11.50 per pound by Dearborn Motors of Detroit. Dearborn hauled the steer in a special plane on a 10,000 mile tour of the country.

But the glamor of the steer show in the amphitheatre, which houses most of the livestock at the international, does not dim in the importance of the great show of carloads of fat cattle, sheep and swine that goes on in nearby pens of the Chicago market. Says Dan D. Casement, veteran Kansas cattleman, concerning the carlot fat stock show in the yards, "It would be impossible to give too much credit to the magnificent show of fat carots that have invariably appeared at the international during my lifetime. It is undoubtedly the greatest fat stock show in the world."

Other features in connection with the international that have become familiar in the years since 1900 include the grain and hay show, which is recognized as the world's largest competitive showing of farm crops, with exhibits from nearly every state and all provinces of Canada; and the interesting and educational meats show, first staged in 1924, which provides a display window for the final phase of meat production from packer to consumer's table; and the national 4-H club congress held in conjunction with the exposition.

Reviewing the first internation in 1900, an early day writer said, "Scarcely a feature of this exposition missed the sensational. The union of elements which gave it birth, its magnitude, the character of its exhibitors, the outstanding quality of its stock, the contagious enthusiasm engendered at its auction sales, its record-breaking prices for bullocks, the overwhelming evidences of popular appreciation -in these features it has built an enduring monument. Great is the livestock industry, and the Interna-tional Livestock Exposition is its

BILL SWEARS OFF

By Richard H. Wilkinson

BILL Clifford is off women for life. Dagmar Fanchon is the It happened this way. Carolyn, Bill's sister, brought Dagmar up to the Clifford camp on Lake Winnepesaukee last June after school closed. The two girls had been roommates at Wellesley. Bill's mother and father and Bill were all present. Bill was up . Minute from New York Fiction for his annual two weeks vacation.

As a rule women didn't interest Bill very much. But this Dagmar female bowled him over. She was a brunette with dark brown eyes and a petite figure. Bill took one look at her and fell.

Even so, Dagmar, who rather went for Bill also, had competition. For Bill was a man with a hobby. Fishing. He was nuts on it, and as nual two weeks frisking about in coves and inlets and bays with rod and line. It depressed him to think he'd have to divide his time between flirting with trout and flirting with Dagmar.

But on the second day the situation was settled. For Dagmar, after listening to one of Bill's fish stories, announced that she thought fishing must be fun and would Bill take her?

They set out the next mornin in Bill's outboard. Bill produced a couple of Whirling Duns and was lying on shore. Dagmar was close by, wringing out her dress.

Bill sat up. "What happened?"

Dagmar smiled: "You tell me."

Bill thought back, and the picture his memory conjured was most humiliating. Right then and there ne made his resolve that he was off women for life. Unless, of course, he marries Dagmar Fanchon.

Because I sometimes tote around more than two dollars, and befor 200 of his hired help, and after cause my house has demonstrated a tendency to get burgled, I have the feed made some complimentary remarks about the double-crosser But I certainly hope I never get into a spot where I have to use it, and asked him to get up on the table and take a bow. YEARS AGO, I used to haunt the 42nd street shooting galleries, and got so handy with a .22 rifle that I could knock the dancing celluloid ball off the stream of water five times out of ten. And I was plenty cocky about my marksmanship until one day when I went up to see Ben Hecht at his place in Nyack. Hecht, fed up with my big talk about small arms, suggested I shoot it out with Charlie Lederer, the screen writer, who was spending the weekend with him.

"I've got nothing against Led-rer." I said modestly. "Let bim live."

"The target will be a toma-to can at 10 feet," said Ben, and Charlie can take turns with my 22 automatic pistol."
We went out on the lawn and Led-

Ten Key Men Direct Activities Of U.S. Department of State

By WALTER A. SHEAD

Washington, D. C .- If you know the top men in any organization whether it be a lodge, fraternal organization, business organization, bank or a government agency, you can judge fairly well the type and kind of personnel that go to make up that organization. Particularly is this true of top men in government who necessarily live in a glass house of publicity.

Any person who has met and talked to Secretary of State Dean Acheson is impressed by his earnestness, his sincerity, hie intelli-gence and his integrity. The son of an Episcopalian minister, he was born in Middletown, Connecticut, April 11, 1893. He is a graduate of Groton and Harvard with honorary degrees from Yale and Wesleyan. He is a member of the law firm of Covington, Burling, Rublee, Acheson and Shorb in Washington and a member of many important clubs. He has a farm near Sandy Spring, Maryland, where he lives and which is his hobby. If you have a picture in your mind of a suave, highly polished diplomat, never ill at ease, never at a loss for a word, who does not know the words "quit" "can't", then you have a picture of Dean Acheson.

His next in command is Under Secretary James E. Webb, a native of Granville county, North Carolina. He is a former marine corps major, tall, athletic and a fighter. He is former director of the federal budget and was with the Sperry corporation before coming into government service, and is a recognized master at organization. He is a law graduate of George Washington University, a member of many clubs and well known business organizations.

SOUCOOK MASSACRE

By Richard H. Wilkinson

CHARLIE Poe lived by his wits. Not because he had to but because he liked to. I could name a half dozen jobs he had been offered, all legitimate, all of which he turned down. He couldn't bear the thought of routine and being tied down. I met him unexpectedly one day last summer in Boston.

"If you've nothing lined up," I suggested, "how about taking a ride up country with me? I'm making a two-day trip to Burlington."
"Like to," he said.

We started the next morning. Charlie wasn't the cheerful companion I anticipated. Obviously there was something on his mind.

Halfway across New Hampshire we came to a place alongside the road where a dozen or more cars were parked. A sign proclaimed the reason. "Visit the site of the famous Soucook Indian massacre," the sign read. "Nothing like it anywhere. Free lecture. Offers much by way of historical value. A scene you won't forget. Admission 25 cents." 'Stop!" said Charlie. I stopped. We got out and walked over to a shelter beneath which a man was selling tickets. The man with the tickets saw us and urged us to buy, eloquently elaborating on his printed sign. Charlie dug into his pocket and produced a half dollar. Presently about 20 people had purchased tickets and the man got down off his stool and led us through the gate. We followed him along the path. He talked as we progressed. By the time we reached our objective we were all steamed up with apprehen-

Halfway across New Hampshire we came to a place a sign proclaimed the site of the famous Soucook Indian massacre.

We had entered a small clearing. Beyond it was a ledge, overhanging shallow gorge through which a trickle of water flowed. We stood on the ledge while our guide told us how, 250 years ago, a detachment of militiamen had pursued a band of 20 Indians through the forest. Hard put, the Indians came to this ledge. Below them was the gorge, at that time a good many times deeper than now. Thus the red-skins had their choice of leaping into the gorge or being shot.

IT was a gruesome tale. We were all silent and impressed as we made our way back to the cars. "That," said Charlie, "is the best gag I've ever seen." "Maybe," I said, "but how can that guy prove any such thing happened there?"

"How can the tourists prove it didn't?" Charlie asked. "And what do they care. That chap knew what they wanted and he gave it to them. They were satisfied." He became thoughtful.

Charlie didn't mention the Soucook massacre again during our trip, but I suspected it was on his mind. When he left me in Boston two days later he shook hands

"Where are you off to now?" I

"Oh, the western plan of mine is still rankling." He grinned. "See you around. Late in September I had occasion to go north again. Traveling the same route that Charlie and I had taken, I remembered the Soucook Massacre. The shelter was still there and there were cars parked outside. But a different man was selling tickets. The man was Charlie. "How about this?" I asked.

He grinned. "You gave me the idea," he said. "Remember you he said. "Remember you wanted to know how the guy could prove the massacre happened here? Well, I asked him, at the same time flashing a tin badge I sometimes carry around. He decided to move

"Is that sort of thing ethical in your profession?" I asked.

"Sure. We're all suckers. Some of us are smarter. The guy was getting fed up anyhow. So am I. Some day somebody is going to ask me to prove that massacre story. If I'm smart enough I'll be gone before he gets here."

One hundred years ago there were only about six persons at age 65 or older for each 100 of the population at 20 to 64. By 1900 the ratio had climbed to eight, and since then it has risen even more rapidly and is now 13.

Although the segment of the population at 65 or over has been increasing, the relative importance of the dependent population as a whole has declined, due to a rapid drop in the ratio of children to the population at the main productive ages. The number of children under 18 per 100 persons at ages 20-64 has been cut in half, from 107 in 1850 to about 54 in 1950.

In very recent years, however, due to the war and postwar spurt in the birth rate, this trend has been reversed and the child popu lation has increased at a more rapid rate than people at ages 20-64. This will continue for at least a decade, even if allowance is made for a steady decline in the birth rate from its present level, and at the same time the population at the older ages will continue its long-term upward climb.

As a result, we are entering a period when the country will have to provide for the expanding social and economic needs of both its large child and aged populations. each growing at a faster rate than the population at the main work ing ages.

Trying to state a new scientific theory in words that are already in use has the disadvantage that the same word may have several meanings and may con-vey "emotional attitudes" that have no place in a scientific statement. The scientist should stick to a "purely technical vocabu-lary," even though it will be unin-"purely technical vocabutelligible to the layman. Your Worst and Best

Lesson for November 5, 1950

Within my earthly temple there's crewd:
There's one of us that's humble, one
that's proud;
There's one that's broken-hearted for his sins.
And one that, unrepentant, sits and grins. From much perplexing doubt I could be If I could once be certain which is

FROM some anonymous rhymester comes this complaint, which any of us might have truthfully written if we had thought about it. Which is me, anyway? I seem to have three selves. One is a good deal better than my everyday or ordinary self. On rare occasions he do something or other so good it surprises even my best friends "isn't like me." On the other side is another self. much worse than ashamed too. Yet both these "other

. . . Life is a Fight

selves" are "me" too.

THE TRUTH of the business is that life, when a man takes it seriously, is a fight. It is a war between your best and your worst self. Your two other-selves are there every moment, like ghosts, or rather like a bright angel and a dark

It is always possible to become a better man than you are; also, alas, it is possible to become far worse than you are. No man stays the same through life. He is continually pressing upward, or plunging downward, or varying between the two. There has been only one person, Christians believe, who actually fulfilled all the good that was possible for him. The possibilities for evil in his life remained only possibilities—he never let them come to pass. The possibilities for good, on the other hand, became real. His dark angel remained only a ghost; his good angel was simply his real self. At no point in his life was he forced to say to himself, "I wish I had . . . I wish I had not." And yet, even for him life was a struggle. We do not believe he was tempted; and We do not believe he sinned. if the temptation was real, then he could have sinned. No man can be really tempted to do what he cannot do. Yes, the Master had his fight. But the point is: he won.

The Way to Win

CHRISTIANS are not exempt in this war of good against evil. We are not "carried to the skies on flowery beds of ease" any more than Jesus was. We do not drift into the Promised Land. We have to fight our way uphill.

Yet Christians are expected to win. That is, God stands beside each Christian in his fight, and God's power is for the Christian's use. As Saint Paul says, with each temptation God provides a "way of escape." Our prayer "Lead us not into temptation" can always be answered. Sometimes it can be answered by ourselves. That is, we cannot leave the fight to God.

But we can win as Jesus won: sometimes by standing and doing battle where we are, sometimes simply by leaving temptation behind. For often the best thing to be done is to retreat. Get as far as you can from whatever tempts your worse self. Don't stand debating between right and wrong when you know which is which. Turn your back on the wrong . . . run, don't walk, to the nearest exit!

Is Alcoholism a Disease? ONE OF the common temptations of millions at all times is alcoholism. It is popular to speak of this as a "disease;" and yet it is the only disease of which victims have actually cured themselves. Dr. Brady, whose medical column is well known, reminds us that nobody ever got over migraine headaches, or heart disease, simply by deciding to be well. But men and women have got over alcoholism, essentialby deciding to be well, and sticking to that decision.

Alcoholics Anonymous, that wellknown group of former victims, who have been very successful in helping slaves of this habit to become their best selves, use much the same methods we find in the New Testament: (1) staying out of temptation's way, (2) overcoming evil with good; and (3) laying hold of the "Power, not ourselves, that

Mrs. Mabel Kitchen, 1650 Amsterdam; Cincinnati, Ohio: "Before I started HADACOL, I had aches and pains in my shoulders, back and arms. I could hardly move without having those pains. Then I about HADACOL After the second bottle the aches and pains were about gone. I'm just starting the fourth bottle and am on top of the world. My aches and pains are completely gone. I recommend HADACOL to all my friends."

Mrs. J. Scieszinski, 514 Kruger, Ottumwa, lowa: "My daughter, Marilyn Sue, is five years old and for some time lacked pep, had a poor appetite, was generally rundown. Since giving her HAD-ACOL, we've noticed wonderful results. She has a much better appetite and doesn't seem tired like she used to be."

Harry Springer, 5608 Greer Street, St. Louis, Missouri: "I suffered from aches and pains for quite some time and continued to suffer. Then I read about HADACOL and bought my first bottle. Within a week I felt better. After the third bottle I had no aches at all. I was tired and listless but after a few bottles of HADACOL I felt like getting out

The Man Who Gave The World HADACOL!

Senator Dudley J. LeBlanc

Thanks to the tireless efforts in scientific research of Senator Dudley J. LeBlanc—eminent statesman of Louisiana and creator of this great new HADACOL you don't have to be satisfied with symptomatic relief-because it's possible to relieve the real cause of such ailments as stomach distress, gas pains, heartburn, indigestion, aches and pains, certain nervous disorders and a general rundown condition, due to lack of Vitamins B', B', Iron and Niacin.

HADACOL not only supplies deficient systems with more than your daily needs of Vitamins B, B, Iron and Niacin but also beneficial amounts of precious Calcium, and Phosphorus—elements so vital to help maintain good health and guard against such deficiency ailments. A big improvement is often noticed in the way you feel within a few days. And LISTEN TO THIS! Continued use of this great HADACOL helps keep such distress from coming back.

Don't delay. Don't continue to suffer. Remember HADACOL relieves the cause of such ailments above. You owe it to yourself—to your family to start taking HADACOL at once.
