WE ARE EIGHT

With this issue of the Index, we are entering upon our ninth year of chronicling the events and history of the City of O'Donnell and her trade territory.

Eight years ago, Prentiss A. Womble came up from Knox City, below the Caprock, and started the business venture known as the O'Donnell Index.

T. J. (Skyjockey) Kellis took over the plant from Womble, and he, with Buck and Bill, put out a real newspaper. To them fell the pleasure of recounting each week the new buildings which were springing up around the square...

J. W. Roberts was the next captain of the good ship Index, and to him fell the lot of detailing the steady growth and development of a thriving town.

The present owner and editor and staff congratulate these sturdy members of the newspaper fraternity on the style and amount of news published, and the dusty old files are replete with many appreciative chuckles and, not infrequently, hearty laughs at the editorial comments and handling of various and sundry delicate situations.

Well, folks, the old Index has steamed along through these eight years of good times and bad, recounting joys, the sorrows, the triumphs, and the heartaches of the community of which it is a part.

Right now we are struggling along together through a time of depression such as this nation has never before known. We have faced sorrows together and shared our joys and pleasures with each other...

This with us our theme song, the Index takes up again the duty of recounting the homely, everyday events which make up the hometown paper, wishing for ourselves many happy returns of the day, with the assurance of our readers to join with us in the wish.

MISS PALMER HOSTESS AT EVENING BRIDGE

Entertaining at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Palmer, Mrs. Theodosia Palmer was hostess at an evening of a charmingly arranged bridge party.

Groups of cut flowers were used as decorations throughout the recreation rooms where four tables were used for games. The fascinating game of "financing" was never more thoroughly enjoyed than on this occasion.

The added pleasure was the presence of Mrs. Burley Brewer, who has several months been out of town for her health. Assisted by Mrs. C. H. Westmoreland, the hostess served daily refreshments of lemon sherbert and cake to the following guests: Mrs. M. and Mrs. Guy Bradley, Mrs. Everett, W. H. Riffenthaler, Mrs. Brewer, W. S. Gaddy, and J. Whitsett; Miss Loretta Smith; Mrs. Hubert Speck of Lamesa, and Mrs. McVicker of Plainview, and Mrs. Ayburn.

CLUB LAS VERATILES ENJOY BRIDGE BREAKFAST

The members of the Club Las Veratiles enjoyed, what each seems to be was, the cream of the season's antics at the Red Cliff tank on the top-side Ranch, Friday night.

The Club met at the home of Mrs. Logg and Mammie Bearden last afternoon, and after a pleasant hour spent in singing, playing the piano and discussing plans for the next play to be presented by the club, a large wagon was loaded with blankets, comforts, swimming trunks, enough food to satisfy the appetites of twelve hungry girls for supper and breakfast, and the twelve members, and all were off on the twelve mile trip to the spot selected for the night's fun.

The girls took time about holding the reins while the horses found their way to the cap rack, where Mrs. Fletcher proved the courage of a driver who guided them down the grade. All honor doesn't go to her however, for two of the other members were holding on to the rear of the vehicle, pulling back with all their strength, and though the wagon had no brakes on it neither the driver or the horses realized it, the descent was made safely.

All went well until just before the ranch was reached, then suddenly there was an awful jar, a crackling noise, the horses stopped. The assistant driver jumped out and after looking beneath the wagon announced that the coupling pole was broken.

The boys at the ranch came to the rescue of the girls but found they could only aid the horses at the time they were unhampered and put in the play no doubt to be rid of such a heavy burden.

But the girls, undaunted, lighting lantern and each carrying her share of the baggage, proceeded on foot to tank a half-mile away.

It took but a short while after they reached their camp site to have a roaring and supper spread, but it took even a shorter while for the hungry ladies to consume a quantity of delicious food, the hostess hits between two large angel cakes. The members of our club can do a variety of things well. If you want an angel food cake made extra well, just ask the ones who made those.

After supper more wood was gathered and bedding spread, and then the girls scattered about in groups talking. A few went swimming in the moon lighted lake. Later seven of the girls went to bed while the others sat by the camp fire burning and made sure they were guarding the camp from an Indian attack. Old war stories were related until the supply was exhausted. The "jags" were put on a supposed-to-have-noiseless program to keep the guards awake. It proved to be a talkie instead and soon the girls were enjoying it too. It took such a task to awaken the second watch that the first watch when came for them to go to sleep, they believe that they had in reality, crept up on by Indians. The girls worked. Their screams not only awoke the sleepers but brought out of their blankets.

As soon as the first beams of light were streaking the sky, everyone was up and about. While some were having breakfast, the others took a swim, and the sun did not show itself in time to appreciate the appetizing breakfast of toast, eggs, preserves, cake and coffee that the campers enjoyed just before leaving for home.

The girls were very grateful to find the broken wagon repaired when they reached the ranch buildings, but they were even more grateful for the service rendered by the foreman, Mr. Kropp, and his two sons on their way home, when they, while riding ahead of the wagon, killed a huge rattlesnake in the road. It sure saved my pulling around it, the driver said.

The lucky twelve who enjoyed the breeziness and suffered the miseries of this trip were, Mrs. Bud Hollan, and Misses Lorene Fletcher, Olene and Annie Lue Stephens, Edith Heard, Nonnie Crump, Juanita and Eula Mae Parker, Pat Walker, Fairy Kropp and Loys and Mammie Bearden. —By Club Reporter.

MRS. CHRISTOPHER HONOREE AT SURPRISE SHOWER

Honoring Mrs. J. C. Christopher of Dallas, who was Miss Jeanette Thomas before her recent marriage. Misses Carey Shook and Guy McGill were joint hostesses Friday afternoon at a miscellaneous shower at the home of the former.

As the guests entered, they registered in a beautifully decorated book adding a wish for the bride's happiness. Presentation of the many lovely gifts was unusual and clever. Little Misses Abbra Lee Shook and Billie Jane Johnson, dressed in fairy costume, conducted the honoree on a "treasure hunt" through the house, with mysterious-looking packages being found in all sorts of odd corners.

As soon as she could get her breath, the honoree made a charming speech of thanks, quite in the old "Jeanette way."

Delicious iced watermelon was served to the following guests: Misses J. L. Schooker, Allan Williams, Roy Gibson, B. M. Haynes, Harvey Line, J. N. Line, J. M. Christopher, Wade Christopher, Boss Johnson, Calvin Fritz, Flo Ramey, Bob Burdette, McKee, Ross Stark, Dee Harris, and S. Yandell; Misses Christene Millwee, Anna Belle Estes, Rebecka Schooker Alline Line, Lois Burdette, Claire Ruth Nichols, Mabel and Eva Dell Harris.

Sponsored by Mrs. Roy Gibson, leader, and Miss Beverly Wells, members of the Junior Epworth League of the Methodist church enjoyed one of the jolliest picnics of summer last Monday evening.

Laden with packages of sandwiches and fruit, the crowd piled into cars just before dark, and drove out to the Griffin place northeast of town, where a spot suitable for an out-door dining room was soon located and put to its proper use.

After supper a number of games were played as the last number on an enjoyable program. Those present were Misses Modene McLaurin, Jim Ellen Wells, Frances Foster, Iona Mae Caddell, Kitty May Garner, Marie Greenwood, and June Marie Gibson; Messrs. Lawrence Tredway, Wayne Clayton, and master Roy Allen Gibson.
