

LURES WINTER VISITORS . . . Miami relies on its sandy beaches and luxurious hotels as the main inducements for winter visitors. Added attractions are planned this season in connection with the resort's 50th anniversary year.

'FUN IN THE SUN'

Miami Prepares Gala Fete For 50th Anniversary Year

WNU FEATURES

MIAMI, FLA.—"Fun in the Sun" will be the general keynote as Miami, famed winter resort of the South, celebrates its 50th anniversary year this season.

With all wartime restrictions relaxed, the anniversary year will present Miami in all of its prewar brilliance with many added attractions. There are increased beach and park attractions, improved transportation facilities, more overseas trips available by air and sea to the Caribbean countries, Central and South America, and the prospect of going abroad by car once the Key West-Havana ferry opens.

Although the influx of visitors starts in the early fall months, the anniversary fete will not open officially until November 24.

Arrange Exhibition.

Special festivities have been arranged for the first 10 days, highlighted by an exhibition in Bayfront park showing all the inventions and innovations science can provide to make the Miami of the future an even finer place for wholesome living. Focal point for visitors will be the neon-lighted sundial in Bayfront park, which will contain a billboard of attractions.

Miami's main lure for winter visitors is its luxurious hotels and endless miles of sandy beaches. Warm waters of the gulf stream and moderate temperatures permit bathing throughout the winter months.

Hotels of Miami and Miami Beach, now released by the army and navy after their wartime needs, will be available for guests. Numbering 160, the hotels have about 12,750 rooms available.

Sports Are Stressed.

Catering to a carefree crowd, Miami will stress sports events on its fall and winter calendar. High school, college and professional gridiron contests lure the fall crowd. Culminating the football season will be the Orange Bowl game on New Year's Day. Demand for seats already exceeds the supply, the bowl accommodating only 38,900 spectators. The game itself, however, will be only one of the many attractions of the Orange Bowl festival. Dates for horse and dog racing already have been set. The 120-day horse racing season will open at Tropical park December 2, continuing until January 16. Dates for Hialeah park are January 17 to March 4 while Gulfstream park will close the season, March 5 to April 19.

RAGS TO RICHES . . . Hard-pressed for cash, Audrey Dice (left) and Bennett Rathbone, former WACs and now students at a Philadelphia school under the G.I. bill of rights, started making yarn dolls. The idea clicked and now they are in business, making 1,000 dolls a week.

Women Not Recognized as Veterans

WASHINGTON.—Former service-women complain that the old-fashioned public fails to regard them as war veterans.

Failure to gain recognition as veterans in competition for jobs is a major problem for women, a Veterans' administration survey discloses.

"Nobody knows anything about women veterans," one woman told the VA inquiry unit. "All they recognize is women, period."

The VA survey of 1,800 former servicewomen showed two out of five found work employing skills acquired in service. Least successful were women with technical training, such as radio operators and aerographers.

Half of the women had applied for unemployment allowances and 16 per cent had drawn the allowance for more than 10 weeks.

Best Future Is at Home, Rural County Tells Youth

NEW HOLSTEIN, WIS.—To prove to its youth that their best future lies at home, business, industry, private citizens and farmers of Calumet county have banded into a co-operative effort known as Interlakes Opportunities, Unlimited.

The tendency of rural areas to bewail the trek of young people to the cities but to offer no concrete steps designed to induce them to remain in their home communities led to organization of the new group.

Cite Local Opportunities.

As its main objective, the group intends to prove to the young people that Calumet county is just as good a place to live as the big city, that it offers as many or more opportunities in business and industry and for professional advancement, that it provides more opportunities for relaxation and pleasure.

"It is our duty to encourage our young people to get an education and return here to live and work," declares E. A. Longenecker of New Holstein, chairman of the new organization.

Stress will be placed on agricultural advantages, according to Longenecker, who added, "We must point out the advantages of farming in this area, particularly to those youngsters already living on farms, to encourage them to enjoy the benefits of farm life."

Plan Organized Trips.

To carry out its program, the organization will sponsor visits to outstanding farms, organized trips through industrial plants, talks by University of Wisconsin speakers in high schools of the county and various mass rallies.

Directing the organization's activities is an executive committee headed by Longenecker and containing representatives of all Calumet county communities. Subcommittees also have been recruited from all sections of the county.

Stubborn Indian Squaw Acquires $500,000 Estate

WASHINGTON.—Stubbornness pays—at least it did in the case of Con-hei-sen-ney, Oklahoma Indian grandmother, the Bureau of Indian Affairs admits.

Before she died 17 months ago at the age of 88, Con-hei-sen-ney had netted $500,000 as a result of her stubbornness. When she was young, Con-hei-sen-ney, called "Grandma Tiger" by her friends, refused to take an allotment from the government. Officials finally became impatient and gave her four 40-acre tracts which did not have even an outlet to the highway. Later oil was found on three of the tracts.

The aged Indian squaw left her fortune to four descendants. Federal inheritance taxes will take about $125,000 of the $500,000 legacy.

'Crying Room' Ends Youngsters' Wails

ASHLAND, WIS.—Even crying can be handled scientifically, contends Mrs. Dave Mackie, who has installed a "crying room" in her home especially for the young children of her two married sons.

The crying room, she explains, is for the exclusive use of a small child who weeps, perhaps long and loud, for little or no reason. Babies, of course, are excepted.

When a child wails, Mrs. Mackie tells him:

"It's all right for you to cry as long as you wish, but you must do so in the crying room. There you will be all by yourself and can stay as long as you wish. I will close the door and no one will disturb you. It will be lots of fun to cry all by yourself. Want to try it now?"

As a general rule, the wailing ceases immediately.

Streamliner, Speeds Into City, Leaving $20 Bills in Wake

MADISONVILLE, TENN.—Hundreds of $20 bills fluttering from a speeding streamliner of the Louisville & Nashville railroad caused a mild sensation here.

About 50 high school boys and girls, who had joined regular hangers-on to watch the train speed by, led in the quest for the bills. Most of the bills blew along the track although some were found clinging to bushes.

The money, according to Postal Inspector R. C. Hornsby, was being sent from a Knoxville bank to a Madisonville bank. Suction from the speeding train drew the mail sack beneath car wheels and the currency packet burst open.

Although declining to give the exact amount in the package, the postal inspector said 70 per cent of the bills were recovered.

Justice Too Slow, Cows Can't Wait

COLUMBUS, OHIO.—Law or no law, milking time still is the most important time in the dairy farmer's life. In Morgan county, Ohio, the wheels of justice slowed down because a member of the grand jury went home to milk his cows. The jury had to be reconvened because the anxious farmer had left before the jurors could sign official court records of actions taken.

"Off We Go" AVIATION NOTES

SCENIC FLIGHT

An outstanding event in aviation history of the Rocky Mountain empire was the sportsman's scenic flight over the Colorado Rockies held October 12 to 16 under sponsorship of the Colorado ring of the Civil Air patrol. The flight, led by 20 experienced mountain pilots, covered spectacular mountain scenery, including 13,000-foot Corona pass, the 10,000 lakes atop Grand Mesa, Cumbres pass and the Sangre de Cristo range at La Veta pass. Among highlights of the trip was a barbecue dinner served by the CAP at Grand Junction.

Ten gallon hats may give way to long-visored caps and six-shooters may be replaced by time-speed-distance computers if a feat recently reported in the Denver country becomes commonplace in the Old West. There, an aerial cowboy rounded up a herd of horses and drove them 30 miles.

AIRPORT PROGRAM

Plans for getting the 500 million dollar federal airport aid program under way this month are being pushed by Civil Aeronautics administration.

This will not conflict with presidential orders to hold construction other than housing to a minimum, CAA officials explained, since no actual work can be undertaken before next spring. If material shortages continue in the spring, work nevertheless can be undertaken on projects requiring few materials. Except for hangars, most airport work, particularly airport improvement projects, requires chiefly labor and earth-moving equipment.

Of the three principal materials used in airport construction, piping alone is in very short supply. Use of substitutes for steel pipe may eliminate this shortage. The two other materials are asphalt and concrete.

The national airport survey, called for in the airport act approved by congress last May, is expected to be completed early this month.

This may appear to be rushing the season a bit, but for United Air Lines' chefs early fall is time for baking and storing away the fruit cakes which traditionally are served on Mainliners each Christmas. The 10 flight kitchens will bake approximately four and one-half tons of the holiday delicacy, enough for more than 17,500 individual gift cakes.

FARM FLIERS RALLY

First convention of flying farmers in the northwest was held at Spokane, Wash., September 23-24 with an attendance of several hundred. Ranchers and farmers from Oregon, Washington and Idaho met at Felts field, Spokane's municipal airport, mainly for the purpose of discussing proposed organization of flying farmer associations in the three states. Featured speakers included Tex Rankin, stunt flier and aviation leader, and Elliott Merrill, test pilot for Boeing Aircraft company. Aviation movies, tour of the air material area repair depot, flight demonstrations and a banquet were other attractions.

NEW SILVAIRE . . . The new 1947 Luscombe Silvaire, a deluxe 85 horsepower light plane equipped with all-metal stressed skin wing and with a maximum speed of more than 125 miles an hour, it has passed all CAA tests and is in limited production.

HELPS IN PLANNING

State aid to local airport planning is helping California cities toward full participation in the billion dollar federal airport construction plan. The state airport planning staff serves as nerve-center for exchange of information on the planning phase, airport standards, construction and regulations. Special allocations on a federal-state matching basis are expected to boost California airport construction another 10 to 13 million dollars within seven years.

FIRE PREVENTION

The best time to put out a fire is before it starts. That means, of course, don't let the fire start! But how, you ask, can we give any real help for fire prevention? First of all by a study of your own habits. What careless things do you do that might permit fires to start? Carelessness causes most fires. The tremendous fire loss and cost of fire departments fall upon all citizens in the form of taxes, insurance, higher rents and higher prices for goods and services. The fire loss alone is about two dollars per capita each year. So is it not worth while to help prevent fires?

By following these few simple rules, we should all share the responsibility of cutting down fires.

Always strike a match in a direction away from you. Keep matches in a metal container, out of reach of children and away from heat.

Never kindle a fire with kerosene and do not let stoves, furnaces or pipes become red hot. A strong high fire screen should be kept before an open fire.

Do not put water on burning grease; use earth, flour, salt or a metal cover. Do not clean with gasoline or naptha anywhere near a stove or flame. Allow no rubbish to accumulate. Smother a gasoline fire with a blanket or a coat.

Do not look for a gas leak with a match, a lamp or a candle; use an electric flash light. Turn off current for sweeper, iron, toaster or other apparatus, when not in use. Do not hang extension cords on nails or metal hooks. Never let a person throw away lighted cigars or cigarettes, put them out.

Fire insurance easily ranks as the most important form of indemnity in the field of property insurance. Property values in the United States, protected by fire insurance are estimated as in excess of $150 million. Total annual fire insurance premiums collected in the United States have been computed as amounting to approximately $1,165,

'Extension' Minister' Works to Strengthen Country Churches

THE nation's first "Extension Minister"—Rev. Gene W. Wetherell—operating much like the average extension specialist from the state agricultural college, is now on the job in Missouri carrying on a "Down-to-earth" program designed to strengthen the struggling churches of the country, according to Lloyd D. Miller, writing in nationally circulated Capper's Farmer.

Employed by the Bible College of Missouri, at Columbia, Mo., the Reverend Wetherell is working closely with extension people from the state college of agriculture, Mr. Miller points out. He goes into communities to help the people get a church program started. He carries his program out into the field and sets up demonstrations so that people can see how it actually works.

Reared on a farm, Reverend Wetherell studied for the ministry on funds he earned farming.

Wherever participating churches are located, Reverend Wetherell helps local leaders make a thorough survey of community needs. He next develops a loyalty program, seeking to get every member actively interested in church work. It institutes a visitation evangelism program in churches where demonstrations use this type of work.

A sound financial program is necessary for the successful operation of any church, so the "Extension Minister" asks his church to develop a unified budget system. He shows them how to use the Lord's Aid for supporting special projects of the church. He also suggests that churches provide their ministers with a rural parsonage and 20 or more where they may make it of their living.

900,000. But, to measure the total cost of the fire hazard in the country it is necessary to add the heavy cost involved in the equipment and maintenance of fire departments, fire extinguishing and fire retarding devices. --JULIA EDWARDS, Senior class, 1st place.

FIRE PREVENTION

At this time of the year we especially need to turn our thoughts to the prevention of fire. When the cold days begin, our thoughts turn to putting our heaters into use. In many cases, the first fires of autumn are caused from someone failing to see that the flue was neither faulty nor stopped with soot or trash.

The best time to put out a fire is before it starts. That means, of course, never allow it to start. How can we aid in fire prevention? First of all, we need to study our little careless habits that may lead to fires. Carelessness is the cause of the majority of fires.

The next we need to learn is some rules for preventing fires in the home.

1. Keep matches away from children and away from heat.

2. When you strike a match, be sure it is out before it is thrown down.

3. Be sure to fill all kerosene or gasoline lamps in daylight instead of after dark.

4. Have stove as far as possible from woodwork.

5. If grease catches fire never put water on it; use sand, flour, salt or a metal cover.

6. Do not clean with any inflammable fuel in a room where a fire is burning.

7. Keep away oily rags and in a metal container.

8. Never look for a gas leak with a match or any open flame, but use a flashlight.

9. When electrical appliances are not in use, be sure they are disconnected.

10. Be careful how cigars, cigarettes and pipes are handled; be sure the fire is out before discarding them.

11. On holidays, be sure all fireworks are handled with care.

12. Candles should never be used on Christmas trees because they have destroyed many homes. These and many other rules, should be used in prevention of fires in homes.

The first five minutes at a fire are worth more than the next five hours. Therefore, we see the necessity of knowing what to do in case a fire breaks out. Although an approved fire extinguisher is the best weapon, few homes have them. By smothering small fires, the large fires are prevented. Keeping a steady nerve has an important effect upon excitable people.

---Gladys Williams, Freshman, 2nd place.

Proved by Use

Inventors and builders of machines speak a forceful language. Once I heard an engineer discussing a new invention his firm was about to manufacture and sell. "It's fit to use," he said, "but not perfect. We'll sell a few hundred of them and work the bugs out." In other words—with a great many people using the thing, he could learn from their complaints how to make it better.

Sometimes the first model of a device is too complicated. In other instances, it might need attachments to make it serve its purpose better. As Don Quixote remarked, "The test of the pudding is in the eating." Practical service to the public is the final proof of an invention's worth. In service, defects come to light; in service, improvements are suggested.

Usage Will Tell

Now I want to point out that this principle is just as rightly applied to governmental devices as to mechanical ones. In service is precisely where statesmen find out how good their theories are. If a law or a system proves to be a nuisance, the public will be quick to discover it, and if they are permitted to express themselves, will say so readily.

This is why advocates of this and that brand of Socialism avoid telling the history of socialistic experiments. Most of them have come to such dismal ends. In theory they are very pretty but in service they don't work. Accordingly that's why I go before meetings week after week and talk about the high standard of living in America. The American system actually works.

Revised Early

Fathers of this republic, back in the 1770's when they wrote and ratified the Constitution of the United States, certainly did not imagine that they were drawing up the specifications of a perfect state. They understood from the beginning that they would have to try it out in service and "work the bugs out." It was a grand piece of work but it has been changed—and improved.

Framers of the Constitution expected changes soon, and they came. The first addition to their masterpiece was added in less than a year after its ratification by the 13th state. Even these statesmen's supporters did not consider their work flawless. It is not flawless yet, but there are two things about it: It is the best form of government ever devised, and subject to change now, as it was then.

A Flexible Plan

America's economic system, free private enterprise, the only one compatible with our Constitution as it stands, can lay no just claim to any dreamer's idea of perfection. To prevent the strong, the shrewd and the rich from taking advantage of the weak, the trusting and the poor, many restraints on business have been made into laws. Here is the system's virtue: It can be changed.

Private enterprise is not new. It is far advanced in that process of government based on usage. When adopted in America, it was fit to use, and it grew better for 150 years. It has nurtured a society where the poorest citizen is relatively rich in contrast to the exploited pawns of dictators. Here everybody has freedom, time of his own, comforts of living and, above all, opportunity unlimited.

LUBBOCK MAN ANNOUNCES FOR CONGRESS

Spearheading the campaign to secure a large vote in the general election, Mohler D. Temple, Lubbock business man, will be a candidate for Congress from the 19th district on the Republican ticket in November.

Temple's candidacy marks the first time in history that the Republicans have had a candidate for Congress from this district. Temple stressed in his announcement that his candidacy was based solely on the desire for a larger GOP vote over the area in the fall election.

"The more votes we get for the party in the general election, the more delegates to the state and national conventions we will be allowed in 1948," Temple said. — Lubbock Avalanche.

IDDLE AGE HEALTH

From a health standpoint, life forty begins to be more com- for the average individual it was in his earlier years. Ac- cording to Dr. Geo. W. Cox, state health officer, the principal health confronting people in middle age are heart disease, cancer, kidney disease, high blood pressure, thickening of the arteries, apoplexy and arthritis.

Middle aged people of today are older than were those of preceding generations, and the present generation, when they reach middle age, do not enjoy even better health than their parents of today.

Medical care in middle life has important phases. The first is for the doctor at regular intervals for a complete physical check-up, whether or not there have been symptoms that suggest the need for special attention. The second is to pay attention to any illness which may mean the difference between prompt recovery and continuing good health and prolonged illness. It is difficult to say which of these phases is the more important.

It has been found that men and women who faithfully pursue the program of regular health examination and who follow the advice given from them tend to live longer, more satisfactorily, and freer of disease than those who simply take a chance and go to the doctor when pain or disability forces them to give up their normal activities.

It is also a fact that many diseases of middle age respond to treatment in early stages whereas neglected until later stages they cause permanent invalidism or even death.

Good advice for persons over forty is that they have regular physical examinations and obtain prompt medical attention for any and all ailments.

In Europe

Having New York at eleven o'clock A. M., I flew to London in 20 hours. A flight to London shows how the world is growing smaller. Our relations with other countries are becoming much more intimate as the globe shrinks, and the need is better understood which will beget wisdom.

20 years I have had a great interest in studying the history of national prosperity, which course is the sum of each individual's prosperity within the nation. This interest was first awakened when in 1925 I observed the prosperity of China for the first time.

More Than Resources
Countries having equal resources do not always equally prosper. That is an axiom most of our people accept readily. They have to know, sometimes subconsciously, that our democracy is made of more, and perhaps finer, ingredients than statistical reports of national resources will show.

Why, what makes one nation peaceful, wealthy, need not be another nation troublesome and ripe for revolution from within. There are many ingredients in the recipe for national well-being.

Like Good Deeds
When the popular catch-phrase internationally, is "let's do it," we know that one of the valuable ingredients is prosperity. If people everywhere could understand and achieve the conditions necessary for prosperity, every neighbor and every worlder would benefit. This is like a deed that pays off for every-

Recently, the writer is concluding from eight weeks in Europe, the benefit of which the readers of this column will have opportunity to see on the itinerary are England, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Netherlands, Belgium, Switzerland, and France.

What is the Secret?
The objective is to study political, economic, social, and religious conditions in each country, with a hope of arriving at definite and significant conclusions regarding the secret of individual and national prosperity.

We can be sure why it is that American wage earners and farmers purchase with their earnings two times as much food, clothing, shelter, and transportation as workers on any other continent purchase with their wages, when we understand the factors we preserve as vital to all of us in the period of reconstruction.

While, I would like to be your personal observer, for it is my conviction that some important lessons are pointed up by studying our mental neighbors. Ours is a free economy. If we in America have enough foresight to cooperate for the sake of production, we can long remain the land of freedom and plenty.

Beginning next week, this column will survey postwar England, and then proceed with some significant observations of continental na-

LAND FOR VETERANS

Texans interested in... veterans should go to the polls... Thursday, November 7th and by their votes assure the passage of a proposed constitutional amendment which will create a veterans land bureau which is designed to give 10,000 Texas veterans farms and ranches.

This amendment has twice received the backing of the American Legion, at the Fort Worth War Conference in 1945 and at the recent state convention in Galveston. Since our organization is the leading one dedicated to veteran's activities, it is good for all citizens so interested to vote for its passage.

And it will require a special effort. It will be voted upon two days following the general election the first Tuesday in November. A clerical slip up made it necessary to hold a separate election two days later than the general election.

Land Commissioner Bascom Giles is sponsoring the bill.

Highlights of the amendment are that it was passed unanimously by the house and senate of the last legislative session; that the board will be composed of the governor, attorney general and general land commissioner and that such board is given authority in concurrence with the legislature to issue bonds up to $25 million for the purchase of additional land from the federal government, individual and other state agencies located in every sector of the state and that bonds bearing three per cent interest will be sold to other state departments carrying heavy surplus funds now uninvested, thus eliminating the necessity of any additional taxes.

It should be pointed out that under the amendment veterans would NOT be required to homestead or live upon their land. They also would not be prohibited from selling their equity.

It is planned that farms ranging from 50 acres to ranches up to 2500 acres be purchased by the veterans, thus providing a wide variety of crop and livestock production in various parts of Texas. Each veteran would be limited to a maximum purchase of $5,000. His bid and check would be accompanied with a photostatic copy of his discharge. The entire purchase routine is planned to be dressed down to the simplest possible form with a minimum of usual red tape.

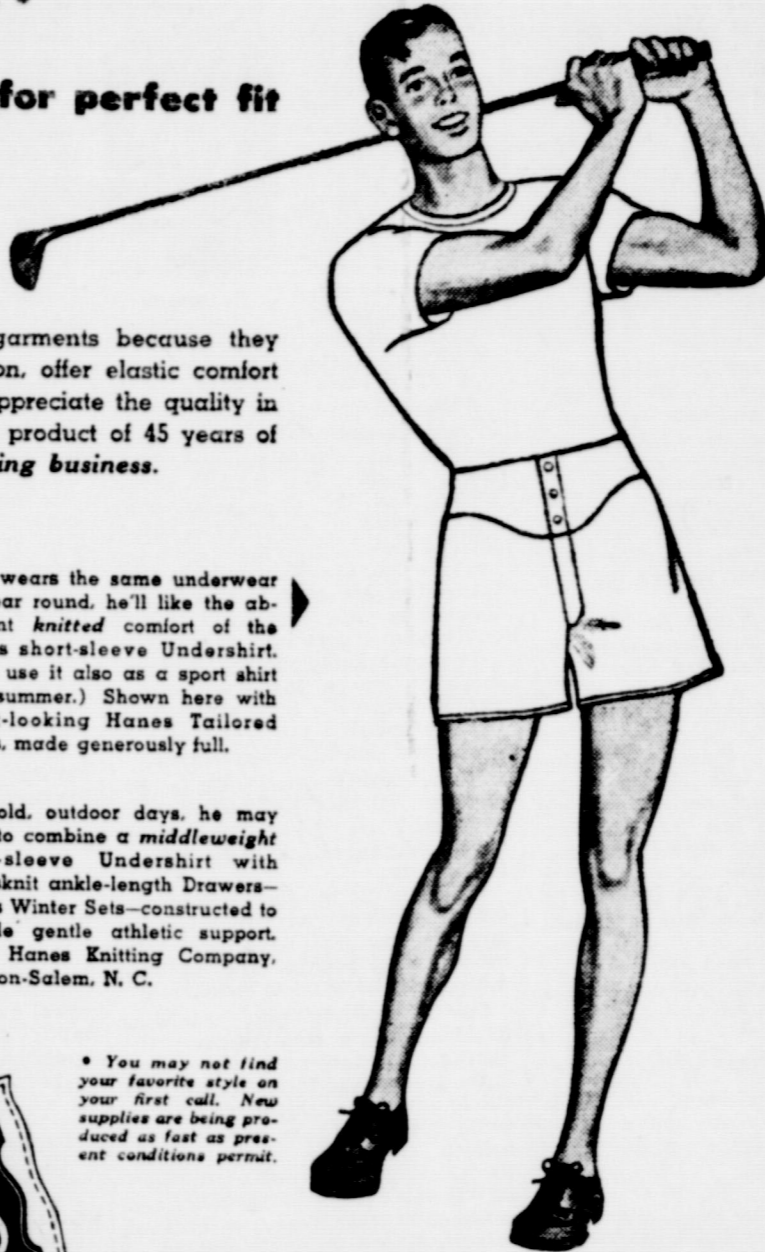

Only Texas veterans will be allowed to enter bids. The land would be sold either for all cash or for as low as one tenth down payment with notes to run for 40 years bearing four per cent interest per annum. Finally the veteran purchaser retains a 7-1/2th mineral fee on sulphur and 15-16ths on oil and gas.

HANESKNIT—for perfect fit

You like fine knitted garments because they "give" with body motion, offer elastic comfort and long wear. Men appreciate the quality in Hanes Underwear—the product of 45 years of experience in the knitting business.

If he wears the same underwear all year round, he'll like the absorbent knitted comfort of the Hanes short-sleeve Undershirt. (He'll use it also as a sport shirt next summer.) Shown here with smart-looking Hanes Tailored Shorts, made generously full.

For cold, outdoor days, he may wish to combine a middie-weight short-sleeve Undershirt with Hanesknit ankle-length Drawers—Hanes Winter Sets—constructed to provide gentle athletic support. P. H. Hanes Knitting Company, Winston-Salem, N. C.

JUDGE GARRARD EXPLAINS ROAD AMENDMENT

There seems to be some misunderstanding about the Bond Assumption amendment to the State Constitution to be voted on November 5th at the general election. According to Judge Garrard, this does not change the provisions of the present act -- but makes it a part of the Constitution so that it ceases to be a political football.

This act definitely does NOT put a tax on tractor gas, further states Judge Garrard. It divides the 4c gas just the same as heretofore -- 1c to the school fund, 1c to retire road bonds on farm to market paving done prior to January, 1945 and the remaining 2c divided equally between the counties and the state highway department after the above bonds have been serviced.

With the success of this act self-evident, and with the advantage of taking it out of the hands of the legislature and the pressure groups with axes to grind that try to get it amended for their own private ends, sentiment is quite favorable for making this act a part of our Constitution. -- Wilson SUN.

Fat Stock Show at Lubbock Next March.

FAT STOCK SHOW

The South Plains Junior Fat Stock show will be held March 24 to 26, 1947, Lubbock Chamber of Commerce officials announced today.

Two new classes have been added this year, the Spotted Poland China class in the swine division & the Cross bred Lamb class in the sheep division. The latter classification has been defined as a mutton ram on fine wool ewe, lambed after September 15, 1946.

Another change has been made in the Group of Five Pigs. These pigs no longer need be of the same litter but must be of the same breed.

Printed catalogues for the show will be mailed exhibitors early in January.

Lynn, Dawson and Borden are among the counties to exhibit.
