Christian Character Lesson for March 14, 1948

WHO is the most valuable person in your community? In many communities it has come to be the custom to select the Man of the

Year or the Woman of the Year, the idea usually being to name the person, through a process of sampling of public opinion, who has rendered the outstanding service of the year. Sunday's lesson is a dramatic scene out of the long ago, picturing a com-Dr. Newton munity's tribute to a truly great man, the apostle Paul. Read Acts 20:17-38, and you will have the story.

LOVED AND HONORED

THE first impression I get from this story is the fact that these people of Ephesus loved Paul. They loved him enough to lay aside their work and hasten to the nearby seaport of Miletus to see him for the last time, and to bow down, in his presence and honor him.

Why did they thus love Paul? Because he had told them about God. You need but read again the record of Paul's ministry in that important city of Ephesus to be reminded of how greatly he had served them in the name of Jesus. Loved and honored! What a tribute to the worth of Christian character! Wouldn't you appreciate the tribute which they paid Paul as the goal out vonder to which you strive? Boys and girls of today may thus be honored tomorrow, if they will live for Jesus as Paul did.

THE POWER OF RIGHT LIVING PAUL not only told the Ephesians how to live, but illustrated day by day in his own life what he preached to them. The most eloquent sermons are not spoken, but lived. "What you are speaks so loudly I can't hear what you say."

The boy and man who plays the game straight are putting into practice what the teacher and preacher proclaims on Sunday. The power of right living will win its way today, just as it did in the long ago when Paul witnessed for Jesus in Ephesus.

It was not easy to live for Christ in Ephesus, nor is it easy to live for cago or Los Angeles or

PAUL'S CONSUMING PASSION WE ARE what we are becoming, and never was this axiom of life more powerfully illustrated than in the case of Paul. "I press on toward the goal for the prize of the upward call of God in Christ Jesus," Philippians 3:14. And in Ephesians 5:6-21, Paul reviews the qualities of conduct which produce worthwhile character, admonishing all Christians to strive for these qualities. "I live, yet not I, Christ liveth me," is another of Paul's in watchwords, and still again, "I can do all things through Christ, who strengtheneth me." It was the consuming passion of his life to embody the teachings of Christ in his words and in his works. It is conceivable that the people at Ephesus had come to see Christ in the life of Paul, and that his daily ministry in their midst convinced them that God was in Christ reconciling the world unto himself.

WHAT AM I WORTH?

THE question then emerges, What am I worth to my community? When I come to the end of the journey, will the people who know me best honor and love me for what I have done?

I can see the people of Ephesus bowing on the dock at Miletus, kissing this weary old servant of the Lord. It is a beautiful scene. This tribute meant more to Paul than all the gold of Ephesus would have meant. It was compensation of abiding worth to him. And what is vastly more important, it was glory to God which must have evoked the praise of the angels about the great White Throne.

WNU Features. LEBANON, ILL. - Oldest chapel bell in the United States is not the famed Liberty Bell in Philadelphia or an aged bell from long-settled St. Augustine, Fla., but an ancient bell which has rung classes in and out of McKendree college here for nearly a century.

This fact is authenticated by historical data, meager in spots, but fact nevertheless. The bell has a recorded history that dates back for centuries before founding of the Lebanon institution.

The bell, which is located in the clock tower of the historic chapel building on the campus at McKen iree, a Methodist institution, has been used almost hourly to summor students to class ever since the co. ege was a mere stripling of 3

Party Split" More Fun than a Fire

Schism of Dixie Democrats Could Wreck Party Hopes

By BAUKHAGE News Analyst and Commentator

A political year may be pretty hard on business, international ffairs and persons who expect congress or the President to take some highly important but controversial action which might scare away votes-but, if you can stand on the sidelines dodging the brickbats which each side hurls at the other, a political year is lots of fun.

One thing that is as interesting to the casual observer as workmen excavating a cellar, a sandlot baseball game, a fire or a dog-fight, are the quadrennial "party splits" which threaten (several months before the conventions) to rend the big parties in twain. They usually end the same way-both splinters singing Sweet Adeline, and cursing the other party in perfect harmony.

On the surface the recent row between the southern Democrats and the White House vote either Republican or Democratic, just as they please. In fact, the colored population really has more freedom than the rest of the electorate because it has no tradition of following a strict pattern

A Democrat, however, is he lives in the South and if he is to remain a Democrat, has to vote with the Democratic party, even if he does it with anger in his heart and tears in his eyes. Since the administration banks on this, we see even a president from the southern state of Missouri, defying the wishes of his friends below the Mason-Dixon.

I am not questioning any of the supporters of civil rights and the Constitution from the President down, but there does remain the fact of the Negro vote, and there remains likewise many a warm personal and political friendship which has to be subjected to a painful ordeal. The "split" is exciting to watch whether with Sweet Adeline or not

And if you look across the aisle, you'll see some more splinters.

Listen to this: . . . If Republican leaders in congress want to win the political confidence of both Republican and independent voters, they must stop trying to sell the program of the National Association of Manufacturers as good Republican doctrine . .

That wasn't Henry Wallace speakng. Nor Democratic national headquarters.

That was Republican Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon. Morse assails "the conservative leadership" of his own party as vigorously as he scores reaction in the Democratic party.

I already have discussed Wallace and his third party "split." There are those who think it of so little importance that it can be ignored. Some now are predicting that before the election, Wallace will be granted some concession, some advantage, and will come out for Truman for president. I wouldn't go that far, but I have heard the prediction in more than one quarter.

Republicans are supposed to welcome Wallace to the race. and to count on him to cut down the Democratic vote to something almost insignificant.

Let me quote Senator Morse on that subject, as his words appeared in an article in the February issue of the Progressive magazine. Morse says that Wallace mustn't be taken too seriously, but that he mustn't be ignored either. He adds:

'Let my Republican party never forget that there are not enough Republicans to elect a Republican president, nor enough Democrats to elect a Democrat as president. Fortunately there are not enough fellow-travellers to elect Wallace. "Splits" can't be ignored, it is true. They are important because there is always the possibility that the splitters might find another Teddy Roosevelt to lead them. That

There were six days of crisis in Czechoslovakia and then it was all over-the Communists were in complete control of that nation of 13 mil-

There was general agreement on one fact, at least: That the Communist coup in Czechoslovakia had forged perhaps the most vital link in the Russian chain intended to shackle the Marshall plan.

In Finland and Italy, as in Czechoslovakia, elections were coming up soon and the Communists were out for victory. Finland, like Czechoslovakia, is ruled by a coalition government which has acknowledged that the country must remain friendly with Russia.

COLD CHICKEN: No Fuel Oil

Campaigning politicians this year may have to eliminate "a chicken in every pot" from their lists of promises because there might not be enough chickens to go around. When I first came to Washington as a reporter, I remember there was a minor scandal on "leaks" that had been used for profit. The chief offender, however, was a publicity man, not an official, and from the standpoint of business it proved a fine thing for him. As soon as the charges that he had obtained confidential information and had passed it on to his client were made public he had a dozen offers from other big firms to get on their payrolls. He did, but it wash't long before he left Washington. He didn't get any more confidences.

A lesser factor in the affair was a newspaper reporter. It was discovered that he was on the payroll of a brokerage firm to whom he phoned anything he thought might be of interest after he had written his story for his paper whose last edition had an early afternoon deadline. It was shown that the brokers paid him all of $25 a month. In the investigation it also was shown that while he knew what was news for a newspaper, the reporter had only the foggiest idea of what would interest a broker as he probably never owned a share of stock in his life. He was duly fired from the paper, and suspended from the Press club, but nobody was too sore.

The new government consists of 12 Communists (there were seven before), four Social Democrats, two Czech National Socialists, two Catholic Peoples party members, one Slovak Democrat and two non-party men, Jan Masaryk as foreign minister and Gen. Ludwig Svotoda as minister of defense.

Bewildered Czechs finally knew their cherished republic had come to a grim end when loud speakers in Prague blared this announcement into the night:

"Reaction has been beaten. Go back to work and let us complete our tasks on the two year plan."

In Czechoslovakia's ironic chronology the surging wall of the Red. tide engulfed their country just 10 years after the western Allies had sold the nation to Hitler at Munich in a tragically selfish and futile effort to avoid war and save their own skins at the price of just one small Central European state.

But when enough consumers indicate they will not pay increased prices, then manufacturers and stores stiffen their own resistance to higher prices of materials, wage boosts and the resulting price markups for the finished goods because it is evident that such further increases will prevent the products from being sold.

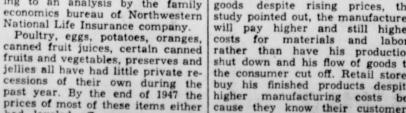

When demand falls off and meets rising supply, the result is a halt in the price rise and often a sharp downturn. Sometimes consumers, merchants and manufacturers all decide that prices are going to keep on declining and therefore cut their buying still more all along the line. Downward price spirals usually start in that way, the study observed.

Spence slid into a seat. He breathed, "Razzberry soda, please. Topley special."

He closed his eyes and envisioned a monument of pink and white. A girl's voice, clear and soft, reached him. "Ras-bry soda," she informed. "Without ras-bries."

He raised his head. Her eyes were warm and gray. An amused smile bowed her lips. "Without-" he faltered.

Her manner humored his confusion. But Spence didn't see that. It struck him she was part of the soda. That the dream also took her in.

He watched her scoop out a gob of ice-cream, drop it into a tall glass, squirt in a crimson syrup and heard the harsh gurgle of carbonated water. The glass was placed before him.

He placed his lips to the straw and pulled. Coldness luxuriously flowed over his tongue, daubed his palate, trickled down his throat and touched off revelations of deliciousness he'd almost forgotten. It evoked imagery. The cash register crr-unged dismissal. Spence half-wheeled to go. In turning, his eye caught the tab, NO SALE! The girl's hand swept to her blouse pocket. The clink of metal told him his coin had joined others.

It was none of his concern, yet the act had been so brazen. He heard himself saying, "Don't they treat you right, here?"

Attack on Anderson

N ALL probability the department of agriculture, the largest governmental agency in Washington, needs no bolstering of its defenses from this column. However, recent broadcasts of certain commentators and the statements of certain newspaper columnists, together with those of politicians who know better, all heaping abuse on the department and the secretary of agriculture for action in the purchase and sale of farm produce leads this reporter to remonstrate.

To top it off, we recently sat through the most absurd and utterly ridiculous tirade to our knowledge ever made on the floor of the United States senate. The speaker was Sen. "Pappy" O'Daniel of Texas and his mouthings were so bitter and so far from the truth that even his colleagues could not tolerate them. Because the secretary of agriculture engaged in the purchase of grain and other farm produce and sold much of it at a loss, O'Daniel called him a criminal and a Communist and, using other epithets, even called upon him to resign.

Senators Scott Lucas of Illinois, Carl Hatch and Dennis Chavez of New Mexico took it upon themselves to answer the Texan. Said Senator Lucas:

"Whatever Secretary Anderson is doing in connection with the buying of grain, be is proceeding under a mandale of the congress of the United States. Week after week I have listened to the senator from Texas occupy the floor of this august body with a tirade of invective which frequent-ly astonishes me. So far as the senator from Illinois is concerned, be has almost reached the saturation point."

Senators Hatch and Chavez spoke in like vein.

The truth is that the secretary of agriculture is under direct mandate of congress to buy and sell, even at a loss, agricultural commodities. . . .

"There's nothing he could do about it," she began to straighten a row of glasses before her. The gesture tokened disinterest in his opinions. More, it infuriated him.

"I wouldn't have believed it," he managed.

Instantly he was sorry for her. He noticed that dark lashes rested on her cheeks. He realized also his heart was thumping and there was a quaver in his voice that he couldn't control.

"Why don't you ask for a raise?" "I can't-"

"Then quit. Get another job."

Above that peak a flying white dove swings,

These are God's emblems, and they call to

Above the darkening shadows of the street,

Beckoning to them, bidding them hope again,

Bidding them stay a moment their swift feet,

Calling to them to lift their eyes, and there,

Seeing that pointing finger, breathe a prayer.

And the white bird flying heavenward bids

The clamor of their hearts and find His peace.

a person can do about moods?" I told him, as I am presently going to tell you, that of course there is something anyone can do about his moods. I told him furthermore something he never heard of before, that having moods is perfectly normal, perfectly natural, and a good rather than a bad thing. We know a good deal more about moods now than we did a few years ago, for now we know that at certain times we are going to be happy, regardless of how things break for us, while at others we are going to feel depressed, also regardless of how things break.

Largely responsible for this information is Dr. Rexford Hershey of the University of Pennsylvania, one of the first scientists to study our emotional curves.

By his researches Dr. Hershey proved that we all have our ups and downs and these occur with regularity. We are elated, cheerful, pleasant, unpleasant, peevish, grouchy. That is one cycle. Then we become elated, cheerful, pleasant, and so forth, again. Our lives are a series of cycles-emotional cycles.

These cycles, moreover, appear with almost exact regularity. With some persons they appear every month; with others every two or three months. Highly emotional people go through their emotional cycles often in less than two-weeks' time, then start all over again; they are always in a dither. But long or short, each of us has his emotional curve.

Maybe you are wondering what you can do to control this curve. You can't control it, but you can disguise it, so that regardless of how you really feel, you put your best foot forward where the rest of the world is concerned.

And how do you do that? It's simple. Just remember that we take our emotions from our actions, not our actions from our emotions. In other words, to feel cheerful, just act cheerful. The next time you reach the low point of your emotional curve, try that. Act cheerful, talk cheerful, and you will be cheer-riched by two of the largest pay ments in history from government bureaus. As their 25 per cent share of receipts taken in by the forest service, 642 counties containing national forest land collected $4,546,723. Another peak payment was the $7,939,487 distributed by the bureau of land management to 22 states as their share of collections for grazing, mineral leasing, timber and potash fees on public lands.

'Small' Business Is Right

This reporter is interested in the small business of the Home Towns of the country so we have attempted to follow hearings of the senate and house special small business committees. They have had many hearings but what they have accom-plished for the benefit of small business we are unable to report. Both committees have asked to be extended for the balance of this ses sion. The senate committee, which got an original appropriation of $50, 000 and another $50,000 in July last year, has just received another $15. 000 and has asked for $50,000 more for the balance of this session. The house committee got $65,000 at the first session and $70,000 for this session. That adds up to $300,000 of your money.

Just for the Record

Senators Taft of Ohio, Brooks of Illinois and Jenner of Indiana comprise the trio at the heart of opposition to the Marshall plan. They would wreck it by making it into a European WPA. Senator Jenner recently made a long speech outlining his stand on the plan. When he had finished, Senator Tom Connally of Texas said:

"The senator from Indiana has delivered a very interesting and comprehen-sive address. I just wanted to inquire whether the senator is for or against the Marshall plan." . . .

Old Issue Revived

The long drawn out battle between margarine manufacturers and the dairy interests is expected to reach new intensity at this session. Nub of the fight is over federal taxes imposed on margarine. Apparently margarine makers would be satisfied to see colored margarine taxes cut to the same level as the present levy on uncolored margarine. In 16 states revenue from cottonseed and other oils is more than that from butterfat.

A forced-air central furnace gives you all the advantages of how-cost natural gas heating. It provides clean, constant, automatic heat, evenly distributed throughout the rooms by means of a blower. With it there is no stratification of heat, no cold floors, no cold corners. This excellent type of equipment is

> The floor furnace, while not as desirable as the forced-air central furnace, is a splendid piece of equipment, very popular in West Texas. It is always vented. When thermostatically controlled it provides fully automatic heating, clean and healthful. Suspended beneath the floor, it occupies no "inthe-room" space. Naturally it can be used only in groundfloor rooms.

Similar in operation to a floor furnace, but built into the wall rather than beneath the floor. Although relatively new, a number of these units have been installed in West Texas homes. The panel wall heater is always vented, and may be thermostatically controlled. May be used either in ground-floor rooms or second-story rooms. Dual units are available for heating adjacent rooms with one installation.
